ANNOTATIONS
ON THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE CORINTHIANS.

The Argument and Analysis.

The drift of the Apostle in this Epistle, is, to beat down carnal wisdom, and affected strains of Eloquence, and to set among the Corinthians, the powerful Preaching of Christ Crucified; and farther, to instruct them, and in them all Christians, in the Doctrine of Christian Liberty, of the Sacraments, of the Old and New Law, of the nature and difference of Spiritual Gifts, and of the Resurrection of the dead.

The parts of this Epistle are principally four:

1. A reproof of divers scandals and abuses among the Corinthians; as namely;
   1. Their dissentions and factions, siding with their ambitious Teachers, Chap. 1.2.3.4.
   2. Their toleration of incest, Chap. 5.
   3. Their vexing one another with Law-suits, before infidel Judges, Chap. 6.
   4. Their abuse of their Christian liberty, Chap. 8. 10.
   5. Their disorders in their Holy Assemblies. Chap. 11.
2. Resolution of doubts propounded to him.
   1. Concerning marriage and single life, Chap. 7.
   2. Concerning the nature and condition of glorified bodies, at, and after their Resurrection, Chap. 15.
3. Directions.
   1. Concerning their carriage towards their weak Brethren, Chap. 9.
   2. Their preparation to the Sacrament, Chap. 11. from the 23. Verse to the end.
   3. Concerning the use of Spiritual Gifts in general, and the exercise of the Gift of tongues, and prophecie in particular, Chap. 12, 14.
4. Exhortation to charity, and a liberal contribution to the Saints at Jerusalem, Chap. 13. 16.

CHAP. I.

Verf. 1.  N Apostle] If he be an Apostle he must be heard, although sometimes he reprehend them sharply, seeing he hath not his own cause in hand, but is a messenger that bringeth the commands of Christ.

through] Or, by.

Sosthenes our brother] In Christs or in the ministery of the Gospel, whom he joyneth with himself in this inscription, that the doctrine might be confirmed by two witnesses, 2 Cor. 13.1. This Sosthenes was the chief ruler of the Synagogue, whom the Greeks took and beat before the judgement seat, Acts 18.17.

V. 2. are sanctified in Christ Jesus] See Acts 15.9. The Father sanctifieth us; that is to say, separateth us from the wicked in giving us to his Son, that he may be in us, and we in him.

called to be saints] See Rom. 1.7. Whom God hath called to holinesse, or called effectually according to his eternal purpose, Rom. 8.28.

V. 4. I thank my God] Intending to condemn many vices in the Corinthians, that he might not seem to do it out of spleen, or malice, or envy, he beginneth with a true commendation of their virtues, yet so that he referreth all to God as the Author of them, and that in Christ, that the Corinthians might be more ashamed to profane and abuse the holy gifts of God.

on your behalf] Or, concerning you.

V. 5. in all utterance] Or, all kinde of speech. In the Original it is, in all speech: thereby the Apostle meaneth, either that they excel in the gift of tongues, which some of them abused and are therefore reproved by the Apostle, Chap. 14. Or, by utterance he meaneth not affected strains of Rhetorick, but a gift of holy eloquence, such as Apollo is commended for, who was an eloquent man mighty in the Scriptures.

and in all knowledge] Seeing that whilst we live here we know but in part, and prophesie in part: the word All must be restrained to the present state of the faithful, and to such knowledge as is needful to salvation, Rom. 15.14.

V. 6. testimony of Christ] That is, the Gospel which testifieth of Christ; or, as these gifts are a testimony of Jesus Christ in you.

confirmed in you] Proved by these gifts, or the testimony of Jesus Christ received by faith: for he that beleeveth sealeth the truth of Gods word.

V. 7. coming of our Lord Jesus Christ] Gr. revelation. His second coming when he shall come with glory to judge both quick and dead. In the Greek it is the revelation of Jesus Christ, because he is now hid; but then his glory shall be manifested, for he shall come with the clouds and great glory, Col. 3.4.

V. 8. blameless] Some observe that the word in the Original, signifieth not without fault, but without crime. If we read blameless, either he speaketh of the elect among the Corinthians; who though they might sometimes grievously fall, yet were raised up again by repentance; and though the best cannot be said to be blameless simply, that is, such whom never man found fault with, yet they may be and are such, with whom none may justly find fault: or the Apostle seemeth rather to pray for their justification at Christs tribunal, that they might be there blameless, that is, not to have any sins imputed unto them to their condemnation.

V. 9. God is faithful] See 1 Thess. 5.24. True and constant, who doth not onely call us, but also giveth us the gift of perseverance, whereby we are conserved unto the end.

V. 10. Now I beseech you, &c.] Having made an end of his Preface, he cometh to the matter it self, beginning with a grave obtestation, as though they should hear Christ himself speaking and not Paul.

joyned] Or, fitted.

V. 12. Apollos] See Acts 18.24.

V. 13. Is Christ divided] The first reason why Schisms ought to be eschewed, is because Christ seemeth by that means to be divided and torn in pieces; who cannot be the head of two diverse and disagreeing bodies, himself being but one.

was Paul crucified for you?] Another reason, because they cannot without great injury to God so depend on men as on Christ, which thing no doubt they do, who allow whatsoever some man speaketh even for his person sake; as these men allowed one self same Gospel, being uttered by one man, and disliked it being uttered by another man: so that these factions were called by the name of their Teachers. Now Saint Paul here setteth down his own name, not onely to grieve no man, but also to shew he pleaded unto his cause.

were ye baptized in the name of Paul] Gr. into. The third reason taken from the form and end of baptism, wherein we make a promise to Christ calling on also the name of the Father, and the holy Ghost; therefore therefore although a man do not fall from the doctrine of Christ, yet if he wholly depend upon some certain Teachers, and despise others, he forsaketh Christ; for if he held Christ his onely Master, he would hear him teaching by whomsoever.

V. 14. Crispus and Gaius] See Acts 18. 8.

V. 15. that I had baptized] Gr. Tec. that ye were baptized.

not with wisdom, &c.] See 2 Pet. 1. 16.

words] Or, speech.

lest the Cross of Christ, &c.] The reason why he used not pomp of words, and painted speech, because it was Gods will to bring the world to his obedience by that way whereby the most simple and ignorant amongst men might understand that this work was done of God himself without the art of man: therefore as salvation is set forth to us in the Gospel by the Cross of Christ, than which nothing is more contemptible, and more remote from being the cause of life: so God would have the manner of preaching the Cross most different from those means with which men do use to draw and entice others either to hear or beleeve; therefore it pleased him by a certain kinde of most wise folly to triumph over the most foolish wisdom of the world, as he hath said before by Esay that he would do. For the phrase κατεργηθῇ, the meaning is, that the Apostle shunned all affectation of eloquence, lest the doctrine of the Cross might be made of none effect, that is, of no force, and unprofitable to the hearers; who whilest they were taken with strains of affected eloquence, would slighten and contemn the plain doctrine of Christ crucified: or lest the hearers might conceive that they were brought to Christianity by the power of humane eloquence, and not by the power of Christ crucified.

V. 18. power of God] See Rom. 1. 16.

V. 19. I will destroy, &c.] See Isa. 29. 14.

bring to nothing] Or, reject and disanul.

V. 20. where is the wise] See Isa. 33. 18.

where is the disputer of this world] Where art thou that spendest all thy time in searching out the secrets of nature, and in propounding and resolving difficult questions? and thus he triumpheth over the Wizards of the world: for there was not one of them that could so much as dream of this secret and hidden mystery.

V. 21. For after that] Or, seeing that. See Rom. 1. 20.

the world] By the world he meaneth all men which are not born anew, but remain as they were, when they were first born; so the world here, is all one with ὁ χοϊκὸς ἄνθρ, the natural man; who perceiveth not the things that are of God; 1 Cor. 2. 14.

by wisdom] That is, the workmanship of the world, which hath the marvellous wisdom of God engraven in it; so that every man may behold it.

knew not God] That is, knew him not to salvation, for otherwise the Apostle teacheth, Rom. the first, vers. 20. that they knew so much of the eternal power and Godhead by the creation of the world, as made them unexcusable.

foolishness of preaching] So he calleth the preaching of the Gospel, as the enemies conceived of it, or in their estimation; withal by a bitter Sarcasm sharply taunting them who had rather charge God with folly, than acknowledge their own, and crave pardon for it.

V. 22. For the Jews] Gr. Seeing that also the Jews. See Matt. 12. 38.

V. 24. the power of God, &c.] Though the preaching of the Gospel seem foolish to them whom God hath not endued with new light, that is to say, to all men being considered in themselves; for the Jews require miracles, and the Greekians arguments, which they may comprehend by their wit and wisdom; and therefore they do not onely not beleeve the Gospel, but also they mock at it: notwithstanding in this foolish preaching as they count it, there is the great virtue and wisdom of God, but such as those onely which are called do perceive, God shewing most plainly that even then, when mind men most foolishly think him to be foolish, he is far wiser than they are, and that he surmounteth all their might and power when he useth most vile and abject things to confound the greatest and most noble. His speech is figurative, for by terming Christ crucified the power and wisdom of God, he meaneth by a Metonymie him by whom God sheweth forth his power, in abolishing sin, and death, and restoring us to life, and by whom God manifesteth and executeth his most wise counsel and decree for the salvation of the elect.

V. 25. the foolishness] That is, that which men of this world count foolishness, hath more wisdom in it self than they and all their worldly wisdom together.

the weakness] That is, that which in their esteem is but weak, and of no power or efficacie to salvation, is more strong and powerful, than they with all their conceited eloquence and authority.

V. 27. confound] Or, shame.

V. 28. which are not] That is, which are of so small esteem, as if they were not at all, 1 Cor. 3. 5. What is Paul? what is Apollo? &c. Thus the nothingness of man is deciphered, as he standeth before God without any worth, merit, strength, or virtue.

to bring to nought] That is, to shew the vanity and unprofitableness of them for obtaining of eternal salvation.

Things that are] That is, that are of account and seem to be great.

V. 29. glory] Or, boast.

in his presence] Gr. Tec. before God.

V. 30. But of him are ye] Whom he cast down before, he now lifteth up higher than all men; yet so, that he sheweth them that all their worthiness is without themselves, that is, standeth in Christ, and that of God. Of him you are, that is, you are born of him and regenerated by his Spirit.

In Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption.] Having nothing at all of your selves, God hath given you all in Christ, according to the decree he made, that he should be the source and the root of all the spiritual blessings conferred upon the Church: which are wisdom, by the revelation of the mystery of salvation; righteousness, by his satisfaction and perfect obedience for our justification; sanctification, by the gift of the Spirit of regeneration; and redemption both of body and soul from all evil and misery, by the last and glorious resurrection in virtue of our mystical union with him.

V. 31. He that glorieth, &c.] Jer. 9. 23, 24. 2 Cor. 10. 17.

CHAP. II.

Vers. 1. Came not with excellency of speech] testimony of God] Gr. Tec. the mystery. That is, the Gospel which is the testimony of God, that is, of Christ, to be God and the Authour of the New Testament and King of glory, Rev. 10. 10. Or if we admit of Tecla's Edition, When I shewed unto you the mystery of God, that is, revealed unto you the secret of the Gospel, or the hidden things of God, Apoc. 10. 7.

V. 2. determined not] Or, esteemed, or, made reckoning. That is, I had no purpose, or judged it not fit, and convenient for me to know; that is, to make profession of any other science or doctrine; or to teach you any other thing than the most necessary and onely saving knowledge of Christ crucified.

V. 3. with] Or, among, or, towards.

in weakness, and in fear] He setteth weakness against power of eloquence, and excellencie of words; and therefore joyned with it fear and trembling, which are companions of true modestie; not such fear and trembling as terrifieth the conscience, or argueth guilt, but such as are contrary to vanity and pride.

V. 4. was not with, &c.] 1 Pet. 1. 16.

demonstration of the Spirit and of power] He preached so, that his doctrine by the Spirit wrought powerfully in the hearts of his hearers. Or, by the demonstration of the Spirit, and of power, he meaneth the evident confirmation of his doctrine by the gifts of the holy Ghost; and the signs and wonders which he wrought amongst them.

V. 5. faith should not stand] He yeeldeth here a reason why he concealed all art and eloquence, and used such plainness of speech in his preaching, that it was for their great profit, not onely that they might better understand him, and more fully comprehend the mysteries he taught; but that they might thereby know manifestly that the Gospel was from heaven. Therefore he privily rebuketh them, because that in seeking vain ostentation and shew of humane wisdom and eloquence, they willingly deprived themselves of the greatest help of their faith, the plain evidence of the Spirit.

V. 6 Speak wisdom] Another argument taken from the nature of the thing, that is, the Gospel, which is true wisdom, and able to make men wise unto salvation; but known to them onely which are desirous of perfection; and unknown and unsavoury also to them which otherwise excel in the world, and are accounted the wisest men. Or by wisdom he meaneth the difficultest mysteries of the Scriptures, of whom Scaliger maketh mention in his Notes upon Eusebius, observeth that Saint Paul did sometimes, but very seldom, make use of testimonies out of Apocryphal books, as when he alleageth out of the book of Elias this passage, Which eye hath not seen, &c. But although he might quote something found in Apocryphal writings, as Saint Jude doth out of the prophecie of Enoch, Jude 14. yet there can be no pregnant proof brought for his quoting any thing out of any Apocryphal books: neither is it likely that he would draw water out of the muddy stream of an Apocryphal writing when he might draw it out of the pure fountain of the Prophet Isaiah, Chap. 64. vers. 4. Neither perceived by the ear, nor hath the eye seen, &c.

among them that are perfect] Those are called perfect here, not which which had gotten perfection already, but such as tended to it, Phil. 3. 12, 15. So that perfect is set against weak. The Schools distinguish of perfectio viæ & perfectio patriæ: as also perfectio partium & perfectio gradium; a perfection of parts, and a perfection of degrees; the former may be attained to in this life, not the latter. The Apostle seemeth to borrow the word τελείοις, from the Gentiles, who would admit none to their abstruser rites and ceremonies which they call τελετάς, but τελείοις, persons well prepared and purified for many years together. Some refer it to age, and make this construction of the words; We speak wisdom to those that are of ripe and perfect age, who are able to judge of it, those that are no more children in understanding, 1 Cor. 14. 20. nor unskilful in the word of righteousness, Heb. 5. 13. but are become as a perfect man by the full knowledge of the mysteries of Christian Religion, Ephes. 4. 13.

not the wisdom of this world] Not a wisdom found out by humane reason, nor delivering rules of State policie, nor tending to worldly ends, nor apprehended or esteemed by the men of this world, but revealed by the spirit of God which the world cannot receive, John 14. 17.

nor the Princes of this world] By the Princes of the world some understand the evil spirits, which rule in the air, and are called elsewhere, κοσμοκράτορες, Ephes. 6. 12. rulers of the darkness of this world, who were the Authours of the heathens policie and Religion. Others by Princes of this world understand the Kings of the earth and Emperours, who dictated their laws out of the principles of humane wisdom. But the words seem rather to carry a larger sense, and extend to all those that have great power and authority over others, who esteem their State policie which they use in their Government the greatest and onely wisdom in the world.

that come to nought] Which are destroyed, and whose counsels are subverted by God, so that they are not able to uphold themselves with all their plots and policies: which is an undoubted argument that all their wisdom is but weak and vain, if it be compared with that of the Church of Christ which bringeth us to life and everlasting glory. The word in the Original implies that their wisdom is cassated, and their policies frustrated, whereof they can make no use nor advantage beyond this life; so that they with all their policie and power die and perish, Psal. 146. 1.

V. 7. wisdom of God in a mystery] In a mystery, that is, in a divine manner incomprehensible to carnal sense. Or it is called a mystery, because it was never found out by any humane wisdom, or learning, but lay hid till it pleased God to reveal it by his Prophets and Apostles.

which God ordained] Here he taketh away an objection: If it be so hard and hidden, how is it known? God, saith he, determined with himself from the beginning, that which his purpose was to bring forth at this time, out of the hidden treasury of his secrets for the salvation of men.

to our glory] That is, to our glorification; to this end, that by the knowledge of this wisdom we might attain celestial glory, and life eternal. For this is life eternal to know thee, &c. John 17. 3.

V. 8. which none of the Princes of this world knew] That is, none in comparison; for Nicodemus, and Sergius Paulus, and some other few knew it, but as the Apostle speaks, 1 Cor. 1. 26. Not many mighty, &c. were called to the knowledge of this heavenly wisdom. Here he taketh away another objection, How cometh it to pass that this wisdom was so rejected of men of the highest authority that they crucified Christ himself? Paul answereth; Because they knew not Christ to be such as he was; or none knew before it was revealed to them.

the Lord of glory] That is, the mighty God full of majesty and glory, Act. 7. 2. The God of glory appeared, &c. and King of glory, Psal. 24. 10. Neither is Christ onely styled the Lord or King of glory, because he is most glorious in himself, and cloathed with majesty and honour; but because by the power of his Divinity, and virtue of his death and resurrection, he advanceth all the elect to eternal glory, glorifying both their bodies and souls.

V. 9. but as it is written, &c.] Another objection. But how could it be that those witty men could not perceive this wisdom? Paul answereth: Because we preach those things which pass all mens understanding, unless they be supernaturally enlightened. But where is this written? Zacharias Bishop of Chrysopolis, affirmeth that he found the testimony here alleaged [Eye hath not seen, &c.] in an Apocryphal book entituled, The Secrets of Elias the Prophet: and Gregorius Syncellus, of whom Scaliger maketh mention in his Notes upon Eusebius, observeth that Saint Paul did sometimes, but very seldom, make use of testimonies out of Apocryphal books, as when he alleageth out of the book of Elias this passage, Which eye hath not seen, &c. But although he might quote something found in Apocryphal writings, as Saint Jude doth out of the prophecie of Enoch, Jude 14. yet there can be no pregnant proof brought for his quoting any thing out of any Apocryphal books: neither is it likely that he would draw water out of the muddy stream of an Apocryphal writing when he might draw it out of the pure fountain of the Prophet Isaiah, Chap. 64. vers. 4. Neither perceived by the ear, nor hath the eye seen, &c.

V. 9. Eye] Gr. what eye. Isa. 64. 4.

V. 10. the deep things of] Gr. the depths of.

V. 13. which things, &c.] See 2 Pet. 1. 16.

comparing spiritual things with spiritual] The words admit of a double Translation and interpretation: if we read them comparing spiritual things with spiritual, then the meaning is, we apply spiritual terms and manners of propounding and expressing to spiritual matters and subjects. If there be propounded, saith Oecumenius, any spiritual point, ἵνα παραδειγμάτων πράξωμεν τὴν συμφωνίαν καὶ ἁρμονίαν ἐπιφέροντες: for example, if the question be whether Christ rose the third day, we bring a confirmation and illustration out of the Prophet Jonah. The word used in the text properly signifieth to judge together, that is, by conferring texts of holy Scripture, and setting spiritual things one against another, that like opposite glasses they may cast a mutual light one upon the other; and we may make a more certain judgement of them. But if we reade them, judging spiritual things with spiritual persons, then the meaning is apparantly thus; that we are to confer with the faithful about points of faith, and communicate spiritual mysteries to spiritual men, not to those who are yet carnal and meer worldlings: for that were to cast pearl before swine: and this interpretation well agreeth with the verse following; wherein the Apostle distinguisheth of the natural man and spiritual man, and affirmeth that the natural man perceiveth not the things of the Spirit of God.

V. 14. the natural man] Gr. animale. ψυχικὸς. Some conceive that they who first translated this passage, read not in their Copy or Edition as we do, ψυχικὸς, but φυσικὸς, for φυσικὸς signifieth natural, and ψυχικὸς, animalis, or animale; howsoever the opposition to πνευματικὸς, or spiritual, sheweth that hereby the Apostle meaneth a man that hath no farther light of understanding, than that which he brought with him even from his mothers womb; as Jude defineth men sensual having not the spirit, vers. 19. And in this sense Tertullian taketh the word in his Tractate con. Psychicos, branding the right beleevers who distasted the Fasts of the Montanists (into whose heresie he was now fallen) with the name of Psychici, that is, carnal, or sensual men.

Spiritually discerned] That is, to be taken and understood in a spiritual and heavenly sense, to which his carnal reason cannot reach: Or, they are spiritually discerned, that is, by the virtue of the holy Ghost, with an eye anointed with the eye-salve of the Spirit, Apoc. 3. 18.

V. 15. But he that is, &c.] See Prov. 27. 19.

judgeth all things] Or, discerneth. Gr. Tec. all those things. Understandeth and discerneth all things, which belong unto the worship of God and eternal life.

judged of no man] Or, discerned. That is, can be convinced of error in judging spiritual things by no natural and carnal man. For when the Prophets are judged by the Prophets, it is the spirit that judgeth, and not the man; or men by their natural reason: the wisdom of carnal men determineth nothing certainly, no not in their own affairs, much less can it discern strange, that is, spiritual things: but the spirit of God wherewith spiritual men are endued, can be deceived by no means, whilest they follow that guide, and therefore can be reproved of no man.

V. 16. For who hath known, &c.] See Isaiah 40. 13. Wisd. 9. 13. Rom. 11. 34.

CHAP. III.

Vers. 1. Could not speak unto you] Having declared the worthiness of heavenly wisdom and of the Gospel, and having generally condemned the blindness of mans minde, he now particularly applyeth himself to the Corinthians, calling them carnal, that is, such in whom the flesh prevaileth against the spirit, and he bringeth a double proof thereof: First, from his dealing with them no other ways than with ignorant men, and such as were almost babes in the doctrine of godliness: Secondly, from those distentions which sprung up among them, by reason of the ignorance of the virtue of the spirit and heavenly wisdom, in which they had profited very little or nothing.

as unto carnal] He calleth them carnal, who yet had received the first fruits of the spirit, in three regards; First, because the flesh in them lusted against the spirit. Secondly, because in many things they followed the desires of the flesh. Thirdly, because they savoured the things of the flesh, not perceiving, or at least, not relishing many things of the Spirit, as being but novices in the school of Christ.

V. 2. fed you with milk] Heb. 5. 12. That is, saith Clem. Alex. Pædagog. l. 1. c. 6. κατήρασα ὑμᾶς ἐν χρίσει ἀπαθῆ καὶ ἐλαφρὰ καὶ ἑαυτοῦ τροφὴ πνευματικὴν, I have catechized you in Christ with simple, true and nourishing food, wholesome and easie of digesture. For such is milk to children. And to this charity of the Apostle in condescending to the capacity of his hearers, and feeding them which were sucklings in Christ, with the sincere milk of the Word. S. Ambrose Serm. 68. & S. Chrysostome Serm. in principes Apostolos, allude in desseanting upon the miracle wrought at his death and martyrdom, at which when he was beheaded some of the ancients affirm, lac pro sanguine manasse, that milk issued in stead of blood.

V. 3. divisions] Or, factions.

walk as men] Gr. according to man. By the square and compass of mans wit and judgement, as men use to walk, who are meer men and destitute of the Spirit of God.

V. 5. who then is Paul] After he had sufficiently reprehended ambitious teachers, and their foolish esteemers, now he sheweth how the true Ministers are to be esteemed, that we attribute not to them more or less than we ought to do, therefore he teacheth us that they are they, by whom we are called to faith and salvation, but yet as the Ministers of God, and such as do nothing of themselves, but God so working by them as it pleaseth him to furnish them with his gifts; therefore we have not to mark or consider so much what a Minister he is, that speaketh, but what is spoken, and we must depend onely upon God, who speaketh by his servants.

V. 6. I have planted, &c.] That is, saith Optatus Milevitanus, I have made you Christians of Pagans, and Apollo hath baptized you: or, I have laid the first foundations of Christianity among you, but Apollo and others have confirmed you in that doctrine and built you up in your most holy faith.

but God gave the encrease] S. Austine against Petilian, truly observeth, that in natural fruits God giveth the encrease not without the power of nature, which doth her part, sed in spiritualibus & gratuitis solus dat incrementum, God alone gives the encrease, cum exclusione cujuscunque causæ creatæ, nature contributing nothing of her self thereunto; & therefore in respect of the supernatural effect of the preaching of the Gospel, to wit, faith and repentance, he that planteth, and he that watereth is as nothing, though God use their labour therein, or, is nothing in comparison.

V. 7. So then] Or, wherefore.

V. 8. are one] That is, they are both nothing, but servants and Ministers, and that of the same Master, proposing unto themselves one and the self-same mark; to wit, your growth in the grace and knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ: and sith they are thus one, you ought not for them or concerning them to be divided as you are into factions.

and every man shall receive his own reward] Psal. 62. 12. Gal. 6. 5.

own labour] Or, proper.

V. 9. labourers together with God] Serving together under him: now they that serve under another do nothing of their own strength, but as it is given them of grace, which grace stretcheth them for that service, and all the encrease that cometh by their labour, doth so proceed from God, that no part of the praise of it may be given to the under-servants.

husbandry] Or, Gods labourers together.

V. 10. But let every man take heed, &c.] Now he speaketh to the Teachers themselves which succeed him in the Church of Corinth, and in their persons, to all that were after or shall be Pastours of Congregations, seeing that they succeed into the labours of the Apostles, which were planters and chief builders, therefore he warneth them, that they perswade not themselves that they may build after their own fancie, that is, that they may propound and set forth any thing in the Church, either in matter or kind of teaching different from the Apostles which were chief builders.

V. 12. if any man build upon this foundation gold, &c.] They who build after the Apostles upon the foundation which they have laid, to wit, Christ Jesus, must take heed that the upper part of their building be answerable to the foundation, that is, that admonitions, exhortations, and whatsoever pertaineth to the edifying of the flock, be answerable to the doctrine of Christ, as well in the matter as in form. And here by gold, silver and precious stones, he meaneth pure and solide doctrine; of which matter Esay also and John in the Revelation, build the heavenly city: and to these are opposite, wood, hay, and stubble, that is, vain and curious subtilities or philosophical conceits, and all kind of teaching which serveth to ostentation, and not to edification, 1 Tim. 1. 4. By this he taxeth them among the Corinthians, who mingled in the preaching of the Word, the terms of humane Arts, the vain flourishes of Oratours, and argute reasons of Sophisters, which though they subvert not the foundation, nor falsifie the substance of the Gospel, yet they disfigure and disgrace it.

V. 13. shall be revealed] Gr. is revealed.

by fire] Gr. in fire.

and the fire shall try every mans work] By the fire is not meant, as the Romish Divines teach, fire of Purgatory. First, because it cannot be proved out of Scripture, that there is any such purgatory fire as they imagine, to purge those that die with venial sins. Secondly, because every work is tryed by the fire here meant; but according to the Romish doctrine good works are not tryed in purgatory fire. Thirdly, the works here meant (as appeareth by the antecedent and consequents) are doctrines, and several kinds of preaching, which it would be absurd to say, that they should be tryed with material fire, wherewith our Adversaries beleeve, that those who die with veniall sins are tormented in their purgatory. But by fire, either we are to understand (according to the Interpretation of S. Austin and others of the Ancients) the fire of persecutions, tribulations, and temptations whereby the found doctrine is tried and proved, as it were affording then to us most strong and solid comforts and consolations which no other is able to do: Or the fire of the holy Ghost, who by the light of Gods Word doth manifest the verity or vanity of doctrines delivered by the Preachers, and like unto fire, reduceth and bringeth to nothing like hay and stubble, whatsoever is sosted in by humane invention. For though such doctrine be not tainted with hereste, yet because blinded with vanity, it is no better than hay and stubble. Or by fire is meant the appearing of Christ at the day of judgement, likened to fire for two qualities, brightness and a consuming force.

V. 14. If any mans work abide] As the good metal in the furnace, without being consumed after the manner of drosse or any other combustible matter.

V. 15. If any mans work shall be burnt, he shall suffer losse] That is, If any mans doctrine or teaching will not endure the tryal, as hay and stubble, and drosse will not the fire, he shall lose the praise of his labour, which shall not be accepted nor rewarded by God. Notwithstanding for his own person (if he have held firm the foundation, either mystical, which is Christ in respect of the faithful, who being many living stones make one house, built upon him; or doctrinal, in respect of the doctrine and faith, whereby they are joyned together and built upon him) he shall be saved.

yet so as by fire] Because he shall pass by the fire, that is, the revealing brightness of Christ, or the fire of the Spirit, which shall shew the vanity of his work: or he shall be saved as through fire, through the which when the gold passeth, whatsoever drosse is hath, it must suffer losse of it. Or, he shall pass as through fire, (i.e.) it shall be requisite that he be purifyed by the holy Ghost of that mixture and impurity of worldlinesse and mans wisdom, of words wherewith he hath desfiled both himself and his ministery: Or else he shall be saved in such a manner as one that escapeth naked out of the fire without carrying any of his goods, his person may well be saved, but so as he shall lose the reward of a well qualified Minister and faithfull dispenser of the mysteries of God.

V. 16. Know ye not that ye are the temple of God] See Chap. 6. 19. 2 Cor. 6. 16.

V. 17. defile] Or, destroy.

V. 18. let him become a fool, that he may be wise] Let him deny himself and his carnal wisdom, and submit himself to the Doctrine of the Gospel; which the world accounts foolishnesse.

V. 19. For the wisdom of this world is fool ſhneſs] God convinceth it by his Word to be foolish and vain, because it performeth not that which it promiseth, nor any way furthereth us to true happinesse.

He taketh the wise in their own craftinesse] See Job 5. 13. Or, catcheth.

V. 20. The Lord knoweth the thoughts, &c.] See Psal. 94. 11. Or, discourses.

V. 21. for all things are yours] No man glorieth in these things which are for himself, and appointed for his benefit, because in this regard they are inferiour to himself; but all things are for you, and your benefit, who are the elect of God, therefore you ought not to glory in your teachers or in any men.

CHAP. IIII.

Verse. 1. L*Et a man so account of us*] He concludeth the duty of the hearers towards their Ministers, that they esteem them not as Lords, and yet notwithstanding that they give ear unto them, as to them that are sent to them from Christ, to this end, that they may receive as it were at their hands the precious pearl of salvation, which is drawn out of Gods treasury. By the mysteries of God, he meaneth the whole counsel of God, revealed unto them his whole counsel, that they deal faithfully with them in all things, that they may render a good account of their Stewardship at the great Audit. Now although there are other virtues required in a steward, as skill, and industry, and providence; yet the Apostle onely nameth faithfulnes, because that is the chief, and best served his purpose to bear down the pride of their Teachers, who boasted of the goods committed to them, as if they were their own and not their Masters.

V. 3. with me] Gr. to me.

a very small thing] Gr. a matter of least moment.

mans judgement] Gr. day. Word for word, mans day, after the manner of the speech of the Cilicians, as S. Jerome noteth, it is metonymia adjuncti, taken from set days appointed for judicature, and it seemeth to be spoken in opposition to Dies Domini, the Lords day, which is the great Day of Judgement, to which the Apostle appeals, from all days set by men in this world.

I judge not mine own self] How can ye judge how much, or how little I am to be accounted of, seeing that I my self, who know my self better than you do, and dare profess that I have walked in my vocation with a good conscience, dare not yet challenge any thing to my self?

V. 4. I know nothing by my self] Not simply, no sin. For in many things we offend all; and he that saith, He hath no sin, deceiveth himself, and there is no truth in him, 1 John 1. 8. But his meaning is, my conscience clears me from negligence and unfaithfulnes in the function of my ministery: yet am I not thereby justified; that is, this doth not acquit me before God, in such fort, as that I may challenge to my self the praise or reward of a faithful and absolute just Steward, who hath perfectly in every point discharged the trust reposed in him, but he that judgeth me is the Lord, that is, I permit my self to his judgement.

hereby justified] Gr. in that.

V. 5. Therefore judge nothing before the time] See Matth. 7. 1. Rom. 2. 1.

praise of God] Gr. praise shall be to every man from God. According to his faithfulnes and diligence in his ministerial function. Some no doubt shall receive dispraise: yet he mentioneth rather praise than dispraise, for that the vice which he here reproveth in the Corinthians, was, that they gave more praise to some than to others, odiously extolling some to the disparagement of himself and others, who deserved as well, or perhaps better than they.

V. 6. I have in a figure transferred to my self] In this reproof of your partiality, I have represented the head and spring thereof unto you, under the name of us the Apostles, 1 Cor. 1. 12. 1 Cor. 3. 4. by a figurative speech, not as if indeed we had any part therein, but to spare the guilty Pastours, and to teach them by our example, to pluck up the root of the evil, which is, that affectation of humane knowledge and eloquence (whereby they endeavoured to draw many followers after them) and to conform themselves to the perpetual style of the holy Ghost, and the Scriptures, as we our selves do continually, whereby all matter and occasion of schisme and rent will be taken away.

for your sakes] Lest I should offend you, if I should tax those Teachers by name: Or, to instruct you aright how you ought to carry your selves, in regard of your Teachers, and in what esteem you ought to have them.

to think] Or, to be wise.

above that which is written] Either written before by us concerning this, or written throughout the word of God, which in many places commendeth to the Pastours of the Church, humility and unity. Or the meaning is, Let none be wise above that which is written, let none presume to add to the doctrine of the Scriptures, or adulterate the same by vain conceits, discourses, or affected strains of mans wisdom or eloquence.

puffed up] Pride in the soul is like a tumour or swelling in the body; his meaning therefore is, that the Corinthians should not be proud for the excellency of their Pastours, whom they sided withal, to the prejudice of other Pastours and their followers.

V. 7. who maketh thee to differ] Gr. distinguisheth thee. That is, who hath preferred thee either in gifts or place, who hath given thee the preheminence which thou affectest, or by whom wert thou chosen from among the rest of the Church to this high and excellent calling? doth it not proceed from God and his grace, and not from men? therefore be thou humble, and endeavour rather to serve God, than to please mens humours. And as it seemeth chiefly to be directed to the teachers, so it may be applyed to every member of the Church, who is converted to the faith of Christ, and made partaker of any spiritual gifts. As if he should say; It is God that by his grace doth make thee to differ from another man, and not the Teacher; for albeit Paul plant, and Apollo water, yet God alone gives the increase.

what hast thou that thou didst not receive] Though the words have a special reference to the eminent gifts whereby one Pastour differed from another among the Corinthians; yet they are general, and parallel to those words of St. James, Every good gift, and every perfect gift is from above, and descendeth from the Father of lights, Cha. 1. v. 17. and are rightly applyed by the Synod of Arausica, and St. Austine de correp. & grat. c. 7. & ep. 46. & 1. 2. de pec. merit. c. 18. & ep. 23. tellim. & Gennadius, Prosper, and others, to prove against the Pelagians, that every good motion of our will is from God, and that the desire of grace is from grace; and consequently that election is not upon foreseen works, or faith, but meerly depends upon the free love of God in Christ.

V. 8. Now ye are full] You perswade your selves now that ye are in happy condition, and that ye want nothing more of spiritual gifts, and for that extol your selves above all others, as a King in his Kingdom: Or, you carry your selves securely, as in a peaceable Kingdom, whereas we are exposed to all fear and danger; which the Apostle speaketh by way of an Ironical reproof, to make way for his following exhortation to humility, exemplified by himself, and his mean condition. See the like, Rev. 3. 19.

and I would to God ye did reign] To wit, in deed and truth. The Apostle continueth his Irony, and his meaning is, You are indeed in a far happier case and more excellent condition then we poor Apostles, that are distressed, persecuted, and despised of the world; we have good reason to wish to be partakers of your blessings and comforts, in regard that we live like miserable prisoners, looking every hour to be called to execution, after they have been ignominiously led about through the Market places, and made publike spectacles of misery and scorn.

V. 9. set forth us the Apostles last] By the last, the Apostle meaneth those who in the Roman theaters were called Meridionarii, who had long fought with men or beasts, and escaping with their lives, were in the end disarmed, and having no Bucklers nor Helmets, were appointed to be slaughtered one after another, In quorum spectaculis satis erat (saith Seneca) quod interficerentur.

appointed to death] Or, destyned for death.

spectacle] Gr. theatre.

V. 10. we are fools for Christs sake] Either these words are spoken by an Irony, as Occumenius conceiveth, or they may be taken properly, and then they carry this sense, We are fools in the opinion of the world, and yours, because for Christs sake and the Gospels we expose our selves to manifold troubles and dangers; but you are wise, who so preach Christ that yet ye hazard no limb for him, nor incur any danger of your persons or estates.

despised] Gr. without honour.

V. 12. And labour, &c.] See Acts 20. 34. 1 Thess. 2. 9. 2 Thess. 3. 8.

working with our own hands] For St. Paul (as we read, Act. 18. 3.) exercised an handy-craft, and wrought with Aquila, their occupation being tent-making; and this he did sometimes for necessity, sometimes that he might not be burthensome to any, to whom he preached the Gospel, for his maintenance, 2 Thess. 3. 8. But here in mentioning it, he seemeth secretly to tax the Corinthians, who were rich and very bountiful to other Teachers, yet suffered the Apostles to be in want, and to relieve themselves by their hard labour.

V. 13. defamed] Gr. Tec. hard, or, evil spoken of. Matt. 5. 44.

intreat] Gr. call unto, or, exhort.

V. 14. I warn you] Gr. Tec. warning you.

V. 15. For though you have ten thousand instructers in Christ] Word for word, Schoolmasters; whereby he puts a difference between himself and their present teachers; they like Schoolmasters, taught for their hire, he freely; they imperiously, he tenderly, like a father, who begot them to Christ through the Gospel.

V. 16. followers] Gr. imitatours.

V. 17. shall bring] Or, will bring.

my ways] What way and rule I follow every where in teaching the Churches, or my course of life, or manner of conversation, that they might follow it, as he exhorteth them, vers. 16.

V. 18. I would not come to you] Or, I were not coming to you.

V. 19. But, &c.] Act. 19. 21. He descendeth to Apostolical threatnings, yet chiding them as a father, lest by their disorder he be constrained to come to punish some among them.

if the Lord will] See James 4. 15.

not the speech of them] Not their boasting words, or their painted or coloured kind of eloquence, against which he setteth the virtue of the Spirit; but the power, that is, the efficacy of their preaching, powerfully working in the hearts of the hearers.

V. 21. shall I come unto you with a rod] He might have said, with a sword, to wit, of Excommunication, which he brandisheth in the next Chapter, therewith cutting off the incestuous Corinthian, but because before he had styled himself their father, and he bare the tender affection of a father towards them, he rather expresseth the severity he was to use among them, by the Metaphor of a rod, wherewith a father chasteneth his son, to break him of some ill quality or misdemeanour, than of the sword, or any other.

CHAP. V.

Vers. 1. R*Eported*] Gr. heard.

fornication among you] The sin was incest, forbidden, Levit. 18. 8. The nakednesse of thy fathers wife shalt thou not uncover; an horrible crime, and such as the very Gentiles detested, and severely punished in their laws, if any among them (which seldom fell out) defiled themselves with any such unnatural contract, or abominable act. Neither doth the Apostle diminish the foulnesse of it, by terming of it πορνεία. For πορνεία, in the Greek, is fluprum in Latine; though sometimes they are restrained to one kind of uncleanness, which is committed between unmarried persons; yet they are general in their own nature, and may be applied to any acts of impure lust; and as the Apostle here calleth the incest of him who lay with his mother in law, fornication: so likewise the Roman Oratour calleth Clodius his incest with his own sister, fluprum.

V. 2. done] Gr. Tec. acted.

from among you] The Apostle findeth fault with the Corinthians, for that they had not excommunicated this incestuous person, before he had had wrote unto them, and charged them so to do, because the fact was notorious, and the Church very much scandalized by harbouring so foul a delinquent in the bosom thereof.

V. 3. I verily as absent] Gr. Tec. I verily absent. See Col. 2. 5.

but present in Spirit] In mind, affection, and care; or the meaning may be, that the Apostle by the Spirit knew all things that past at Corinth, as if he were there bodily present.

judged] Or, determined.

V. 4. In the Name] Calling upon the name of Christ, or by the command of Christ, as the word is taken, Act. 3. 6. and Matth. 7. 22. and Luke 24. 47.

with the power] There is no doubt, but that judgement is ratified in heaven, wherein Christ sitteth as Judge; the power both of excommunicating and absolving is Christs, and the ministery thereof onely committed to the Governors of the Church.

V. 5. To deliver such an one unto Satan] See 1 Tim. 1. 20. What it is to be delivered to Satan, the Lord himself declareth, when he saith, Let him be unto thee as an heathen and a publicane. Matt. 18. 17. that is to say, to be disfranchised and put out of the right and liberty of the City of Christ, which is the Church. This manner of expression was used of old in the greater excommunication, and it seems to be taken from 1 Sam. 16. 14. where Saul being rejected of God was caught and troubled by an evil spirit; and in the primitive times of the Church, after this greater Excommunication, (as one of the ancients affirm) there followed great terrours in the party excommunicated, agonies of spirit, yea, and torments also of body, which through Gods permission were inflicted, not for the utter and irrevocable destruction of the Delinquent, but for his correction and amendment, that his soul might be saved, though his body suffered.

for the destruction of the flesh] The mortifying and destroying the old man; that is, corrupt nature called the flesh. Rom. 8. 13. Gal. 5. 24. Or, to the great macerating and pulling down of the body by fastings; for a broken spirit dryeth the bones, Prov. 17. 22. to the pulling down and tormenting of the body, even unto death, if Gods will be so, as also death might sometimes ensue upon the foresaid delivery to Satan, and even at the last gasp the sinner shewing a lively repentance, was released from those bonds of excommunication, and restored to the peace of the Church and favour of God, so that he departed this life with comfort.

that the Spirit may be saved] The scope and end of the Churches severity, is not eternal condemnation, but saving of the soul by true repentance.

in the day of the Lord Jesus] In the last day, or day of judgement; not as if salvation were deferred to the last day, or that the repenting soul should not enjoy it before that time; but because salvation then shall be consummated, and fully revealed, 1 Pet. 1. 5.

V. 6. Know ye not that a little leaven] See Gal. 5. 9. A kind of proverbial speech, intimating, that one scandalous offender may infect the whole Church, as one scabbed sheep a whole flock: and hereby the Apostle declareth another end of Excommunication to be, to keep the Church found from infection, to cut off a rotten Member, that it gangren not the whole body.

V. 7. Purge out therefore the old leaven] By alluding to the Ceremony of the Passover, he exhorteth them to cast out this unclean person from among them. In times past (saith he) it was not lawful for them which did celebrate the Passover, to eat leavened bread, in so much that he was held as unclean and unworthy to eat the Passover, whosoever had tasted of leaven; now all our whole life must be as it were the feast of unleavened bread, wherein all they that are partakers of that immaculate Lamb which was slain, must cast out, both of themselves, and also out of their houses and congregations, all impurity.

that ye may be a new lump] That your Church may be a clean and pure body, according as you were renewed by the gift of regeneration, which can no way consist with any such mixture of reigning sin. A figure taken from the Jewish passover, which was alwaies to be kept with unleavened bread, Exod. 12. 15.

Christ our passover] Christ is termed our Passover, either by a Metronymie signati pro signo, or by a metaphor in regard of many resemblances between Christ and the Paschal Lamb: First, as the Lamb was without blemish, so Christ was without all spot of sin. Secondly, as no bone of the Lamb was to be broken, so neither any bone of Christ at his passion. Thirdly, as the Lamb was offered to God for a typical reconciliation and satisfaction, so was Christ for the true reconciliation of all his elect, and satisfaction for their sins. Fourthly, as the Paschal Lamb was to be eaten, so we feed upon Christ by faith. Fifthly, as the Paschal Lamb was to be eaten with sowre herbs, so Christs flesh is to be eaten in the Sacrament with a sowre and bitter remembrance of our sins, and Christs dolorous suffering for them. Sixthly, as the Paschal Lamb was to be eaten with unleavened bread, so all that eat Christ must purge out of their conscience all leaven of maliciousness. Seventhly, as that Lamb was called Phase, Exod. 12. which signifieth a passing over; so Christs death, in which he was sacrificed for us, might be called Phase, or transitus, a passage; because by it he passed from the world to his Father. Lastly, as where the door-cheeks and posts were sprinkled with the bloud of the Lamb, they in the family escaped the stroke of the destroying Angel; so all those whose consciences are sprinkled by faith with the bloud of Christ, the Lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world, shall escape eternal destruction.

V. 8. let us keep the feast] Or, let us keep holy day. Let us lead or pass our life, which ought to be a perpetual celebration and remembrance of our redemption by Christ, even as the Passover feast, during eight days, was the commemoration of the deliverance out of Egypt. That which the Israelites were to do typically, and in the sign, upon the killing of the lamb for the preparation of the feast of the Passover, and in casting out all the old leaven, and abstaining seven whole days from unleavened bread, according to the express command of God, Exod. 12. 15. let us perform in the truth or thing signified all the days of our lives; that is, purge out the old leaven of inbred natural corruption, and take away all scandals from among us, after that now we are reconciled to God, through the offering and sprinkling of the bloud of Christ.

V. 9. in an Epistle] That Epistle is not now extant, for this is the first to the Corinthians that is found in the new Testament; and although that Epistle was written by divine inspiration, as we may piously conceive, that the Books of Nathan, Gad, Ahiah, Iddo, Semaiah, and others, mentioned in the old Testament, were, which now are thought to be lost; yet will it not hence follow, that the Canon of the Scriptures is not perfect, as the Romanists would infer; because as the principal Contents of those former books are supposed to be found in the Books of the Chronicles and Kings, so it cannot be proved; but that all points necessary to salvation, which were set down in that former Epistle to the Corinthians, are either contained in these two Epistles which we have, or some other Book of holy Scripture.

not to company with fornicators] Gr. mingled with. Now he speaketh more generally, and that which he spake before of the incestuous person, he sheweth, that it pertaineth to others, which are known to be wicked, and such as through their naughty life are a slander to the Church, which ought also by lawful order to be cast out of the communion of the Church.

V. 10. Yet not altogether with the fornicators of this world] Such as belong unto the world, or addicted to the world, that are yet out of the Church; so the world is taken, John 15. 19. & 17. 9.

for then must ye] Gr. seeing that then ye must.

for then must ye needs go out of this world] If you would utterly abstain from such mens company, you must quit this world; therefore I speak of them which are in the bosome of the Church, which must be called home by discipline, and not of them which are without, with whom we must labour by all means possible to bring them unto Christ.

V. 11. not to keep company] Gr. not to be joyned or mingled with company.

no not to eat] He meaneth, that we ought not to have any intimate familiarity, or common usage, or manner of life and conversation with them; for otherwise in some case we are not forbidden simply to eat with such, sith neither the bond of Matrimony is broken by excommunication, nor such duties hindered, much less cut off thereby, as we owe one to another, children to their parents, subjects to their Prince, servants to their Masters, and neighbour to neighbour, to win one another to God.

V. 13. put away from] Gr. put, or, take out from.

CHAP. VI.

Vers. 1. Dare any of you] As if he had said, are any of you become so impudent, that ye are not ashamed to make the Gospel a laughing stock to profane men? yet is it not simply unlawful in it self to try civil causes at the tribunal of Infidels, if right cannot be had else-where, and the matter be of very great consequence, and not onely concerning our selves, but our friends, family, and posterity, but where they might have differences composed by the arbitrement of holy brethren, out of Spleen, or any other sinister affection to implead one another before heathen Judges, could not be done without great scandal to the godly, and wrong to the Christian Religion. For hereby the Gentiles were acquainted with the covetousnes, ambition, desire of revenge, and manifold jars among Christians, whereof they made use, and took occasion thereby to traduce our most holy faith: hoc Ithacus velit & magno mercentur Achivi.

before the unjust] Gr. of. By the unjust he meaneth Pagans and Infidels, for he opposeth them to Saints and brethren: now he termeth the Infidels unjust, not only because they are destitute of the righteousnes of God in Christ, but because in their tribunal matters were carried very corruptly, and sentences given against all justice and conscience, as Saint Cyprian and other the Ancients justly complain against them; inter leges peccatur, inter jura delinquitur justitia, nec ubi defenditur servatur, &c.

V. 2. the saints shall judge the world] The Apostle useth an argument a maiore ad minus, if the Saints together with Christ shall be Judges of the world, and of the devils: how much more are they fit to be Judges in light and small causes, which may be by equity and good conscience without much difficulty determined?

judge the smallest matters] Gr. of the smallest judicatures.

V. 4. are least esteemed in the Church] Or, are of no account in. The Apostle herein prescribeth a remedy for the mischief before mentioned, namely, by composing their private differences between themselves by chosen arbitrators out of the Church, for which, matter and purpose, saith he, the least of you are sufficient.

V. 5. between his brethren] Gr. between his brother.

V. 6. goeth to law with brother] Gr. is judged with a brother, before the] Or, of the.

V. 7. a fault] The Greek word ἥττημα, coming from ἡττᾶσθαι, Vinci, signifieth properly to have the worst in a conflict or combate: whereby the Apostle implies, that the flesh is too strong for the spirit in them who out of covetousnes, malice, or desire of revenge among the Corinthians drew their brethren before the tribunals of the heathens; and that howsoever they might be superiours in their trials of law in those Courts, yet that truly they sate down by the loss, receiving thereby more damage in their souls, than gain in their estates. And as the Apostle here, so Moses Gerundensis, and Rabbi Salomon discoursing of the Discipline of the Hebrews, condemn the practice of those among the Jews, who went to law with their brethren before Infidels. For, say they, qui adducit Israelem ad tribunal Gentium, polluit nomen Dei & honorat nomen Idoli: he which bringeth an Israelite before the tribunal of the Gentiles there to have his cause tryed, defileth the name of God, and doth honour to an Idol.

among you] In these words the Apostle intimates that both were in fault, as well the plaintiff as the defendant, the one in giving cause by his unjustness, the other by being so easily provoked by his impatience upon every offence, and damage received, although it were not of that weight which in Christian discretion, charity and equity, deserved such fierce and scandalous pursuing.

go to law one with] Gr. have judgements one with.

why do ye not, &c.] See Matt. 6. 39. Luk. 6. 29. Rom. 12. 19. &c.

rather take wrong] We should rather suffer some loss, than give offence, rather depart from our right, than to try the utmost of the law hastily; and that out of desire of revenge.

V. 9. Be not deceived] Being about to speak against fornication he beginneth with a general reprehension of those vices wherewith that rich and riotous City most abounded, warning and teaching them earnestly that repentance is unseparably joyned with forgiveness of sins, and sanctification with justification.

V. 10. extortioners] Or, ravenous.

V. 11. some of you] See Tit. 3. 3.

justified in the name of the Lord Jesus] That is, by the Lord Jesus apprehended by faith, as we read Acts the fourth, v. 12. There is no other name under heaven given amongst men whereby we must be saved.

V. 12. All things, &c.] See Chap. 10. 23. Here he beginneth to tax the Corinthians who simply offended in matters indifferent, because they used them without any discretion: For seeing the use of them ought to be brought to the rule of charity, he doth not use them aright who is so immoderate in the use of them, that he becometh a slave unto them. Though the words be general, yet they make nothing for the Libertines or carnal Gospellers; for that rule of the Logicians here holdeth, Verba sunt restringenda ad subjectam materiam, words how general soever they seem, are to be restrained to the matter treated of. Now the matter was concerning the use of things indifferent, as of meats and drinks, and the like. If it be objected that he speaketh in the verses immediatly following, of fornication which is not a thing indifferent. It is answered, that he sets down the rule of things indifferent before he treat of fornication, by reason that many according to the errour of the Pagans and Gentiles did reckon fornication to be of that number; see Acts 15. 20. In particular, many in Corinth were so far from holding fornication a sin, that they consecrated a Temple to Venus, at which many thousand Maids prostituted themselves; and for this reason amongst others, it is conceived that Saint Paul in the verses following so particularly, and so vehemently reproveth this vice.

but all things are not expedient] Or, profitable. It is not expedient at all times to do those things which are otherwise lawful, but rather we ought to forbear the use of such things, which otherwise our Christian liberty permitteth, for the maintenance of charity, and supporting of the weak, and preserving and propagating the peace of the Church.

power of any] He bringeth himself under the power of things indifferent, who thinketh that he may not be without them, which is a flattering kind of slavery, under colour of liberty, which seizeth upon such men. He equally erreth who in things indifferent either thinketh that he must always use them, or that he may not at all; and there may be a kind of superstition as well in the defect, as in the excess about the use of things indifferent, Col. 2. 21.

V. 13. Meats for the belly, &c.] Gr. to the belly. That is, meats and drinks are indifferent things, but fornication is not of the number of such things. For although both the one and the other, namely eating of meats & fornication, be bodily acts; yet the quality of the meats hath no moral relation to the soul, neither to its present sanctification, nor future glorification: it leaveth no impression behind it, Matth. 5. 11. 17. but it is only for the sustenance of this life, and after our passage to another life; all the use of meats and of the stomach and belly which receiveth and digesteth them is abolished; whereas on the other side all carnal copulations save the matrimonial, are expressely prohibited by God, are destructive of, and repugnant to the right end and use of our bodies, which are to be consecrated to Christ (belonging to him as his own members) and to be governed and acted by him to serve him in holiness and pureness, and by that means to be made partakers of his glory in the last resurrection.

destroy both it] Gr. make void, or, of no use both it.

for fornication] Gr. to fornication.

V. 14. And God] Gr. But God.

V. 15. bodies are the members of Christ] Not only your souls, but your bodies also; for true beleevers being entirely united to Christ as their head, 1 Cor. 12. 12, 27. their bodies also are a part of his mystical body.

shall I then take the members] Gr. taking then the members. Shall I dismember or dis-joyne my self from Christ by any base carnal conjunction, such as cannot stand with that spiritual union I have with him, intrenching thus upon the right he hath over my body; and depriving my self of the happiness to be governed and quickned by him and his Spirit.

V. 16. two (saith he) shall be one flesh] Gr. into one flesh. See Gen. 2. 24. Matth. 19. 5. Ephes. 5. 31.

V. 17. joyned unto the Lord] By faith and love. For Christ is the husband of the Church, and every faithful soul, who betrotheth her to himself in faithfulness and loving kindness and righteousness, Hos. 2. 19, 20. is his bride.

is one Spirit] Is made wholly Spiritual by his union with Christ, he is not divided between God and Mammon, between the Spirit and Flesh: Or, he is led and governed by one and the self-same Spirit.

V. 18. Flee fornication] Here the Apostle useth divers arguments to dehort the Corinthians from fornication: First, because it staineth the body with a peculiar kind of filth. Secondly, because a fornicatour is guilty of sacrilege; for that our bodies are consecrated to God as his Temples, verse. 19. Thirdly, because we are not our own, to give our bodies to any other, much less to Satan and the Flesh, seeing that God himself hath bought us, and that with a great price, to the end that both in body and soul we should serve him. For the phrase he useth here of fleeing, is impleyth that whereas other vices are conquered by struggling and striving with them: the best way to subdue this vice, is to fight with it after the manner of the Parthians, who did fight flying.

without the body] That is, is committed by the abuse of some external object; as namely a drunkard abuseth wine, gluttony abuseth meat in the quantity or quality: but a fornicatour abuseth his own body. But we must note that this general rule, every sin that a man doth is without the body, is to be understood of such sins as break out into external actions, or are acted by our bodies: for envy, malice, and the inward acts of all vices are done in the soul, and cannot be properly said to exercise their act upon any thing without the body; though they work upon the body it self by making it pine and waste away, or otherwise distempering it.

sinneth against his own body] Some by his own body understand the body of his wife which according to Gods ordinance is his own body; for saith he, two shall be one flesh: and this is Severianus an ancient Fathers interpretation; but it is too narrow an interpretation: For in that sense onely the Adulterer sinneth against his own body. Others understand the words comparatively, that a fornicatour more sinneth against his own body than other vicious persons; for either they defile their souls only and not their bodies, as those who commit spiritual wickedness, or if they sin against their own body, as the drunkard and glutton doth, and the body receive also much shame and damage thereby; yet they sin not in so grievous a manner, nor so much wrong and hurt the body as the fornicatour doth. But the most proper and genuine interpretation seemeth to be this: other sins though they may be acted by the body, and make an ill impression upon the body it self, yet have not the property and force over mans body to enslave the same unto another, as fornication hath, whereby the fornicatour is made a member of the harlot by virtue of that first order of God, Duo erunt in unam carnem, which is not disannulled by the abuse of men.

V. 19. know ye not, &c.] See Chap. 3. 16.

V. 20. ye are bought with a price] See Chap. 7. 23. By Christ who hath redeemed you. The word price is added, not by a Pleonasmus, but κατ' ἐξοχὴν, to intimate the excellencie and dignity of the price wherewith we were bought, which was not silver or gold, but the precious blood of Christ, as of a Lamb without blemish and without spot, 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19.

CHAP. VII.

Vers. 1. Now concerning the] Gr. But of the.

It is good] By the word good the Apostle understandeth not that which is honourable, virtuous, or holy, for the Apostle testifieth himself, Heb. 13. 4. that Marriage is honourable among all, and the Scriptures generally avouch the same: but by good he understandeth less troublesom, or more agreeable to the present necessity, vers. 26. more convenient in regard of the calamities of the Church, which will be so much the easier born and overcome by the enjoying of our liberty, and more profitable also, by being not so distracted with these cares, nor troubled with these distractions, that by reason of sin accompany the married estate, vers. 28. 32.

touch a woman] That is, to abstain from matrimony, and all carnal knowledge; as the word is taken, Gen. 20. 6. therefore I suffered thee not to touch her.

V. 2. Nevertheless, to avoid fornication] Gr. But by reason of fornications. In the Greek there is a kind of Ellipsis, which is well supplied by the Translators with the words to avoid: for that is the true meaning of the Apostle; though word for word he saith by reason of fornications, that is, by reason of the proneness of mans nature to fornication, or by reason of the frequent committing thereof, especially among the Corinthians as before was noted. And here also he taketh fornication largely for all manner of impurity forbidden by the law of God, and he prescribeth as an antidote against the poyson of all kind of impure lust, the lawful and holy use of matrimony.

V. 3. due benevolence] By this manner of speech he implieth not onely in a modest phrase, conjugale debitum, to which the verse following hath reference: but as the Greek Scholiast well expoundeth it, mutual love and loyalty; and that sincere and ardent affection which ought to be between husband and wife.

V. 5. Defraud] Or, deprive.

give your selves to fasting] Or, be free for fasting.

come together] Gr. Tec. be together.

V. 6. of] Gr. by.

V. 7. I would that all men were even as I my self] The Apostle doth not simply with that all men and women led a single life; for so the Church of God could not be propagated, nor the divine benediction upon the married fulfilled: but that all had the gift of continency, and were as free from worldly cares, and fleshly intanglings as he. And this gift of continency may stand with holy matrimony; as we read of Malcus and many other in the Ecclesiastical story, who though they were married, yet having the gift of continency fulfilled the Apostles precepts, verf. 29. 32. having wives as if they had them not, and caring for the things of the Lord.

V. 8. unmarried and widows] He giveth the self-same admonition touching the second marriage, to wit, that a single life is to be allowed, but for such only that have the gift of continency, otherwise they ought to marry again, that their conscience might be at peace.

V. 9. better to marry than to burn] Some interpret this burning, to be burning in hell fire for their incontinency; and no question but the words of the Apostle are true in that sense; but because he addeth not either hell-fire or eternal, nor doth any circumstance of the Text look that way; the natural construction seemeth to be this: It is better to marry, than by forcing our selves to live single, having not the gift of continency, so to burn with lust, that either the will yeeldeth to the temptation, or else we cannot call upon God with a good conscience. He is not said to burn who only feeleth the heat of fire, for so the most continent man might be said to burn: but onely he that is singed and scorched thereby, he that is so assanted with the temptation of lust, that he is some way wounded, and hurt in conscience thereby.

V. 10. not I, but the Lord] In these words, the Apostle meaneth not, that the Lords precepts, and his were contrary, for verf. the last, he saith, he think also that I have the Spirit of God, and whatsoever Saint Paul wrote in this or any other of his Epistles was by divine inspiration; but his meaning is, that he spake not this by peculiar Revelation, as some other things afterwards, but that he had an expresse command of our Lord for it in Scripture; namely, Matth. 5. 32. and Matth. 19. 9.

Let not the wife depart from her husband] Gr. that the wife be not severed from. See Matt. 5. 32. & 19. 9. Mark 10. 11. Luk. 16. 18.

V. 11. depart] Gr. be severed.

V. 14. sanctified by the wife] Some expound it sanctified, that is, some way prepared and disposed to embrace our holy faith by his conversation with his Christian wife: So Oecumenius; γενεσθαι πρὸς τὸν πίστιν, or some way initiated in the faith and fear of God. So Tertul. l. 2. ad uxorem, sanctificatur conjux infidelis acquiescens habitare cum conjuge fideli, quia candidatus esto timoris sancti licet & casti. And, S. Jerome l. 1. cont. Jovin. c. 5. candidatus est fidei. Or else the meaning is, that in regard the faithful are heirs of the Covenant of God (Gen. 17. 7. and Acts 2. 39.) together with their children, this Covenant the unbeleeving partly cannot undo by his unbelief: for as much, as the grace of God in sanctifying such a marriage, is more powerful than the unbelief of the other party to profane it: So that the Apostles words import, not that an unbeleeving husband is simply sanctified, or made a holy man by his wife being a Christian, or an unbeleeving wife made a holy woman by her husband being a good Christian, but that he is sanctified to her, if he be a Christian, and she is sanctified to him, if he be a Christian. For although the unbeleeving party be unclean before God: yet is the matrimonial conjunction holy by the means of faith and prayer, Titus 1. 15. and hath the approbation and blessing of God no otherways, then if both parties were holy. Thus he answereth them that thought themselves polluted by being married to unbeleevers before their conversion, and intended therefore to be divorced for that scruple sake.

but now are they holy] If the marriage were not in some degree sanctified; the children which were born in such wedlock would not be from their birth comprised within the Covenant of God, made with the fathers and their children, Gen. 17. 7. or endued with the Spirit of sanctification; neither would the Church hold them capable of Baptism, until grown up to age, that they might be received into the Church for their own faiths sake: but now they are holy, that is, comprised in the outward covenant of God, and have access and right to the signs and seals of his grace, as well as any of those that were born of both beleeving parents. Holy then, that is, sanctified to God in Baptism, made members of the Church, and partakers of the grace of regeneration according to their measure and condition.

V. 15. depart] Or, be severed.

depart] Or, be severed.

to peace] Gr. in peace. Left any man upon pretence of this liberty, should give an occasion to the unfaithful to depart, he giveth to understand that marriage contracted with an Infidel, ought peaceably to be kept, that if it be possible the Infidel may be won to the faith.

V. 16. save thy husband] That is, be a means to convert him to the Christian faith, by which we are justified and saved.

V. 17. distributed to every man] Taking occasion by that which he said of the bondage and liberty of matrimony, he digresseth to a generall doctrine concerning the outward state and condition of mans life, as circumcision and uncircumcision, servitude and liberty, warning every man generally, to live with a contented minde in the Lord, what state or condition soever he be in, because the kingdom of God consisteth not in these outward things.

V. 18. let him not become uncircumcised] Some who had been circumcised, found a means by the help of Chirurgians to recover again their foreskin: Of these Josephus writeth, l. 12. Antiq. c. 6. Adjuxerunt sibi pudenda quæ nudi quoq; non essent Græcis dissimiles; The manner Epiphanius declareth. Ἀπὸ ἀφορμῆς ἀκροβύστου γέγονται τοῦ τὴν ἀκροποσθίαν ἐπιθεῖναι. See also Celsus l. 7. c. 25. Such ἀκροβυστίαν ἐπίθεσις Saint Paul here forbiddeth.

V. 21. care not for it] As though this calling were too unworthy a calling for a Christian. For no calling, how mean soever, debarreth a man from being Christs freeman, and the Son of God by adoption and grace; whosoever is redeemed from the thraldom of Satan, and servitude of sin, whether he be in respect of his outward condition in bondage, or at his liberty, is Christs freeman.

V. 22. free-man] Gr. made free.

V. 23. Ye are bought with a price] See Chap. 6. 2. That is, dearly bought by a price of inestimable value, 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19.

be not ye the servants of men] If ye be at liberty, do not of your own accord make your selves servants, but consecrate your selves entirely body and soul to the service of Christ: or if ye be servants to men, that is, in a state of servitude, remember still that above and before all, ye are the servants of Christ, and therefore see ye do nothing to the obedience of man, which is contrary to that which ye owe to your selves to no man living, depend absolutely upon none but Christ and his Word, See Gal. 2. 4, and Col. 2. 16, 18.

V. 24. abide with God] Whatsoever his outward calling be, let him be sure to hold his inward calling, and abide with God in the same vocation wherein he was called, that is, in the state of his calling, Church: or let him so sincerely and uprightly walk in his calling, as one who is always in the sight of God, and doth all things before him, and endeavoureth to approve himself to him in all things.

V. 25. I give my judgement] All circumstances considered, I counsel you. He enjoyneth single life to none, but perswadeth it to all that have the gift of continency, both from the condition of the present time, in which the faithful could scarce have any setled place of abode, wherein they might provide for their wives, children, and families: and from the freedom of a single life in comparison of the married estate, which draweth with it of necessity more cares of this life, and distraction of minde from the immediate service of God.

V. 26.

V. 26. for the present distresse] Or, for the present necessity. Which the Saints are subject unto, who were then continually tolled up and down for, that their estate may seem most unfit for marriage, were it not that the weaknesse of the flesh enforced them.

V. 28. Trouble in the flesh] Gr. tribulation; or, affliction. By the flesh he understandeth whatsoever belongeth to this present life, for marriage bringeth with it many discommodities; so that he beneath more to a single life, not because it is a state more agreeable to God than marriage is, but for those cumberances and discommodities, which if it were possible, he would with all men to be freed of, that they might give themselves to God wholly.

V. 29. is short] Gr. is contracted, or shortened.

V. 31. And they that use this world] It is a horrible wickednesse, saith St. Austin, uti fruendis, or frui utendis, to use those things which we ought to enjoy, or to enjoy those things which we ought onely to use; to use God and heavenly things which we ought to enjoy, and to enjoy the world and earthly things which we ought onely to use, and so use them, as if we used them not. Or, as others expound, not abusing them by an inordinate use of the same, or by too much doting on them, and cleaving unto them.

for the fashion of this world passeth away] He sheweth how ill-beseeming and unworthy a thing it is for a Christian to set his heart on the things of this world, considering that they are vain and transitory; rather shews and shadows of things, than true things themselves, Prov. 23. 5. As in a Pageant, Mask, or Comedy, many persons are brought up one after another on the Stage or Scene, but at last both they and the Scene also is taken away; so it is with this present world, one person succeedeth another, and one generation another, till not onely all they do die and fall away, but even the Stage of the World at last, wherein they all acted their parts, doth vanish away like a shadow, with all the glory thereof.

V. 33. careth for the things, &c.] They that are married, have their minds distracted, and their wits withdrawn hither and thither about worldly affairs and businesses; and therefore if any man have the gift of continency, it were more commodious for him to live single. The Apostle speaketh not simply, but comparatively; for they that are married, may and do care for the things of the Lord, but ordinarily doe it with more distraction, than they that have lesse to doe with the world, in regard of their single life.

V. 35. I speak for your own profit] His meaning is, that he will enforce none either to marry, or not to marry; but shew them onely what kind of life is most commodious, or at least ordinarily lesse cumbersome.

V. 36. behaveth himself uncomely] Or, carrieth himself undecently.

V. 37. having no necessity] He speaketh not here of a mans resolving to marry himself, or to live unmarried; but of Parents or Governors, under whose guide and tuition Virgins are; if such an one findeth no necessity, either in respect of the Maids desire, or fear of worse, if he have not the gift of continency, or in respect of the condition of his Family, but that he may keep her a Virgin still.

V. 39. The wife is bound, &c.] See Rom. 7. 2.

be dead] Gr. be fallen asleep, or, laid in the grave.

CHAP. VIII.

Vers. 1. Now as touching things] Gr. But of things.

we know that we have all knowledge] Here he beginneth to treat of another kind of things indifferent; to wit, of things offered to Idols, or the use of flesh so offered and sacrificed; and first of all he removeth those things which the Corinthians pretended for their using things offered unto Idols, without any respect, scruple, or doubt. First, they affirmed that this difference of meats was onely for unskilful men and ignorant in the doctrine of Christian liberty; but as for them, they knew well enough the benefit of Christ, who maketh all things to be clean to them that are clean. Be it so (saith St. Paul) be it, that all (or at least the greater part of us, for there were some, Vers. 7. that wanted this knowledge) are sufficiently instructed in the knowledge of Christ; I say, notwithstanding that, we must not simply rest in this knowledge; the reason is, that unlesse our knowledge be tempered with charity, it doth not onely not avail, but also it doth much hurt, because it is the Mistresse of Pride; nay, it doth not so much as deserve the name of godly knowledge, if it be severed from the love of God, and consequently from the love of our Neighbour, 1 Cor. 13. 1.

Knowledge puffeth up] In those who are destitute of charity, it ministreth occasion of vanity, and maketh them swell with pride; for this venome the Serpent instilled into it at the first temptation; and this quality of inflating the soul, remaineth still in it, if it be not corrected with charity.

but charity edifieth] That is, applyeth our knowledge to the instruction of our Neighbour, and to build him up in his and our most holy Faith.

V. 2. He knoweth nothing] An opinion of knowledge without charity, doth not onely puff up, and in that regard is to be distesteemed, but it is imperfect, and knowledge sadly so called, 1 Tim. 6. 20. For he that wanteth charity knoweth not all his duty, nor to what end he ought to refer his knowledge, nor how to use it, and so upon the matter knoweth nothing, in such sort as a Christian ought to know.

V. 3. the same is known of him] He that reverreth his knowledge and other gifts to the glory of God, and the profit of his Brethren, he is known of God, that is, approved of him, as the word is taken, Psal. 1. 6. but he that hath knowledge without charity, though in some sort he know God, yet he shall never be known, that is, acknowledged of by him, but shall hear at the last day with the hypocrites and false Prophets, Mat. 7. 23. I never knew you, depart from me ye that work iniquity.

V. 4. concerning therefore the eating, &c.] Here is the application of his answer, to things offered unto Idols; I grant, saith he, that an Idol is indeed a vain imagination, and that there is but one God and Lord, and therefore that meat cannot be made holy or profane by the Idol: but it followeth not therefore that a man may without any respect to his weak brethren, use those meats or any other.

an idol is nothing, &c.] Chap. 10. 19. Divers Popish Writers, to sever their Image-worship from Idolatry, expound these words thus; An Idol is nothing in the world, that is, nothing formally, or representatively, because though it be something materially, that is, Wood, Gold, or Silver, or the like: yet it is nothing formally, because there is no such deity as it represenceth. Whereas on the other side, an Image is the representation of some thing which is truly existent in nature, as of the three Persons, Angels, and Saints departed. This distinction of theirs, together with their glosse upon this Text, are evidently false; for many of the Idols of the Heathen, as Baal, Diana, Dagon, as also the Brasen Serpent, of which the Jews made an Idol, were Images of things truly existent in nature. For Baal was the Image of the Sun, Diana or Lucina of the Moon, Dagon of a Fish, the Brasen Serpent of the fiery Serpents, which really stung the Israelites, and God in the second Commandement expressly forbiddeth the bowing down to, or worshipping the likeness of any thing that is in the heaven above, or in the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth. But the true meaning of the Apostle in this place is, οὐδὲν εἴδωλον ἄξιον, the Idol is nothing, that is, of no worth, hath no virtue or power at all in it, to profane or hallow the meats offered unto it.

and that there is none other God but one] Gr. Tec. and that there is no God.

V. 5. whether in heaven or in earth] There are in heaven those that are called gods, as the Angels, Sunne, Moon, and all the host of heaven, and on earth also, as Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Apollo, and other men, and beasts also, as Calves, Goats, Crocodiles, Cats, and others, which the Egyptians, and other of the Heathens worshipped for gods.

there be gods many, and lords many] Either the Apostle alludeth to the diverse Idols of Baal, which were called by his name Baalim, that is, Lords, as namely Baal Zebub, Baal Peor, &c. or to other Syrian deities, answerable to the number of their Countries, or Cities, for the Moabites worshipped Chamos, the Ammonites Moloch, the Sidonians Astaroth or Astarte, the Gazeans Marnan, the Tyrians Hercules, the Hemathites Asimas, &c. See Drusius Præterit. l. 6.

V. 6. one God] The word one doth not here respect the persons, but the nature; for the Father of whom all things are said to be, and our Lord Jesus Christ by whom, are not one person, but one God in nature.

and we in him] Or, for him, by him. Rom. 11. 36. Either in him, or by him, and then the meaning is, that we subsist by his virtue, and power, according to that of the Apostle, Act. 17. 28. In him we live, move and have our being.

one Lord] As Lord is peculiarly attributed to Christ, it signifieth the Lord Redeemer: in which sense the Apostle speaketh elsewhere, Christ died and rose again that he might be LORD of quick and dead: for in that we are his purchase, he is in speciall our Lord.

by whom are all things] The preposition, By, doth not signifie the Instrumental cause, but the principal. For the Father and Son work together; which are not so to be taken, that we make two causes, seeing they have both but one nature, though they be distinct persons, but by the prepositions of and by, the Father, of whom are all things, and the Lord Christ by whom are all things, the Apostle differenceth their order and manner of working.

V. 7. conscience of the idol] By conscience of the Idol, he meaneth the secret judgment, which they had within themselves, whereby they thought all things unclean which were offered to the Idol, and therefore they could not use them with good conscience: for this force hath conscience, that if it be good, that is, rightly enformed, it maketh things indifferent good to us; but if evil, it maketh them evil.

V. 8. But meat commendeth not us to God] He preventeth an objection, why then shall we be deprived of our liberty? nay, saith the Apostle, you shall lose no part of Christianity, though you abstain for your brethrens sake, as also if you receive those meats it maketh you no whit the more holy or more acceptable to God, Rom. 14. 17. For our commendation before God, consisteth not in our meats, but to use our liberty with the offence of our brethren, is an abuse of our liberty, and a fine against Christ, whom we wound through the sides of our

V. 10. emboldened] Gr. edified.
V. 11. through thy knowledge shall the weak brother perish.] Thou wretched man who pleasest thy self with thy knowledge, which indeed is none; for if thou hadst true knowledge, thou wouldst not sit down to meat in the Idols Temple, whereby as much as in thee lyeth, thou destroyest thy brother, burdening his weak conscience; and by thy example enticing him to doe evil, for whose salvation Christ himself dyed: and wilt not thou so much as abstain from such meat for thy weak brothers sake, for whom thy Saviour vouchsafed to shed his blood?
V. 12. ye sinne against Christ] Because your weak brethren whom ye offend are his members, and he accounteth the wrongs done unto them, as done unto himself: or as Occumenius expoundeth, you sinne against Christ, because as much as lyeth in you, you hinder his work for their salvation, destroying them whom he came to save.

I will eat no flesh] Here followeth the conclusion which Saint Paul inferreth and frameth in his own person, that he might not seem to exact that of others, which he will not be first subject to himself; I had rather, saith he, abstain for ever from all kind of flesh, than put a stumbling block before, or give occasion of sinne to any of my brethren; much lesse would I refuse at a certain time and place for my brothers sake to abstain from flesh offered to Idols. offend] Or, stumble.

CHAP. IX.

Vers. 1. AM I not an Apostle] Before he proceed any farther in his proposed matter of things offered unto Idols, he sheweth the cause of all this mischief, to wit, that the Corinthians thought themselves not bound to depart from any jot of their liberty for any mans pleasure: therefore he propoundeth himself for an example, and that in a matter in some degree necessary. If, saith he, you alleage for your selves that you are free, and therefore will use your liberty: am not I also free, seeing I am an Apostle? yet I for the benefit of others forbear the use of my Christian liberty in things that more neerly concern me, and may seem in some degree necessary; and will not you forgoe yours in matters of less moment and meerly indifferent, rather than offend your weak brethren? have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord] Though St. Paul conversed not with Christ whilest he lived upon earth, yet was he as well an eye-witnesse of Christ, as the rest of the Apostles, for he saw him after the resurrection, as we read, Act. 22.18. and 1 Cor. 15.8. yet will it not hence follow, that Christ was at the same time at the right hand of his Father in heaven, and upon earth or near the earth where Paul saw him, as our adversaries would infer. For either St. Paul saw Christ in a vision, or if without a vision with his corporal eyes, as did St. Steven, Act. 7.56. his eyes were strengthened and elevated above nature to discern Christ so far distant.
V. 2. be not] Gr. am not.

V. 5. to lead about a sister a wife] Or, woman. May not I carry about with me in my peregrinations a Christian sister being my wife, and put the Churches to the charge of me and my family, sith I am employed by them and for them? Or thus, might not I have a Deaconisse, a Christian sister allowed by the Church to attend on me, as other of the Apostles have had? Clemens Alexandrinus Strom. lib. 3. is for this last interpretation; non ut uxores, inquit, sed ut sorores circumducebant mulieres: and Zacharias Chrysopolitanus out of Beda addeth, that it was the castome of the Jews, that the richer sort of the Christian women converted, contributed to the maintenance of their Teachers, and followed them, as some followed Christ, and ministred to him of their substance, Luke 8.2. hoc tamen quia scandalum facere poterat, in nationibus Paulus abjecisse se memorat; yet because the Apostle conceived this might give some kind of scandal to the Gentiles, or at least seem burdensome unto them, he accepted not of this their benevolence, though otherwise he might.
V. 6. have not we power to forbear working] That is, may the other Apostles eat and drink upon the expence of the Church, and keep their wives also and family by some stipend or gift offered unto them by their children, whom they beget in the Gospel, and must I onely and Barnabas not live but by the works of our hands?
V. 7. Who goeth a warfare] That he may not seem to reprove the Apostles who were maintained by the Church, he sheweth that it was just and lawful for them to live as they did of the Churches allowance, by an argument of comparison, seeing souldiers live by their wages, and husbandmen by the fruit of their labours, and shepherds of that which cometh of the flock.
V. 8. Say I these things as a man] Gr. according to man. Have I no better ground than the common custome of men? Doth not God in Scripture warrant what I say?
V. 9. thou shalt not muzzle, &c.] See Deut. 25.4.
Doth God take care for Oxen] It is certain, that the care and providence of God extendeth to the beasts of the field, Psal. 147.9. Psal. 36.6. Jon. 4.11. and to the fowl of heaven, for he feedeth the young Ravens that call upon him, and a Sparrow is not sold in the Market, nor falleth to the ground without him, Mat. 10.29. The Apostles meaning therefore is not simply God hath no regard of Oxen, or any brute beast: for as the Psalmist teacheth, He preserveth both man and beast; but the sense is, Gods end and drift in making that Law was not to provide for Oxen, but he had a farther intention therein: thus Manahim Riminensis, a learned Jew, upon those words of the law, Thou shalt not take the damme with their young, saith, It was not the intention of the Law-giver to spare sheep; but to teach men mercy and compassion; quod de ovibus præcepit, id propter homines fecit: so may we say here, and the Apostle saith as much in effect, quod de bobus præcepit, id propter homines fecit.
V. 11. if we have sown, &c.] See Rom. 15.27.
V. 13. Do ye not know, &c.] See Num. 18.20. Deut. 10.9. and 18.1. live] Or, feed.
are partakers with the altar] In dividing the sacrifice, and taking part of it themselves for their necessary sustenance.
V. 14. that they which preach, &c.] See Gal. 6. 6. 1 Tim. 5.17.
V. 15. Neither have I written these things] He taketh away occasion of suspition that it might not be thought he wrote this as though he challenged his wages that was not paid him; Nay, saith he, I had rather die, than abuse my right and liberty, that the false Apostles might take any advantage thereby: Or rather than not continue my purpose to preach the Gospel freely: for I am bound to preach the Gospel, seeing that the Lord hath enjoyned me this office; and if I had rather that the Gospel should be evil spoken of, than I should not require my stipend, then would it appear that I took these pains, not so much for the Gospel sake, as mine own gain and advantage.
better for me to dye] Gr. good for me rather to die.
V. 16. though I preach] Gr. If I preach.
V. 22. I am made all things to all men] Gr. have been made. In matters that are indifferent, which may be done, or not done with a good conscience, I have changed my self into all fashions, to comport with all, that I might win some at least of all sorts. St. Augustine in his book de Mendac. cont. Consent. 12. & ep. 19. very well illustrateth this Text: the Apostle saith, I am become all unto all men, non mentientis astu, sed compatientis affectu, not by the deceit of dissimulation, but by the affection of compassion; for a man becomes as he to whose infirmity he condescends when he supports and releeves him with such mercy as himself would desire if he were in the same case: he doth therefore as he, non quia fallit illum, sed qui se cogitat illum.
V. 25. And] Gr. But.
every man that striveth for the mastery.] He bringeth in another cause of the mischief above mentioned, to wit, that they were given to gluttony; for there were solemn banquets of sacrifices, and the riot of the Priest was exceeding great in them: therefore it was hard for them which were accustomed to riotousnesse, especially when they pretended the liberty of the Gospel, to be restrained from those banquets. For this cause the Apostle calleth them by an apt similitude, and also by his own example to sobriety and mortification of the flesh, shewing that they could not be fit to run, or wrestle, as the games of Isthmos were, which pampered up their bodies.
temperate in all things] He useth a most exquisite diet. The Greek word also will bear this construction; he patiently endureth all things, to wit, pains and blows; and shall not we endure much more, and use all kind of abstinence, that we may obtain the high prize of our calling, which is an incorruptible crown of glory?
V. 26. not as uncertainly] Not as an uncertain goale or mark; or the Greek ἀδήλως, may be thus rendred, I so run, not as a man who sensibly gets no ground, or cannot be perceived to out-strip him with whom he runneth in the race.
so fight I, not as one that beateth the air] I make not a flourish onely like a Fencer, but I fight in earnest: or, I fight not as one who hath no enemy to fight withall; for I have an enemy which I labour to subdue, to wit, the old man which striveth against the Spirit.
V. 27. But I keep under my body] By mortifying of my carnall lusts and affections, and by all other exercises of piety, I subdue my flesh to the obedience and discipline of the Spirit of God, as also to patience and constancy in all afflictions, and to such nimblenesse and readinesse, as is requisite to this spiritual combate.
I my self should be a cast-away] Gr. reprovable, or, unapproved. The word signifieth not, a reprobate, and if he were uncertain of his election, or of obtaining the prize; for the contrary appears, Rom. 8.38. and 2 Tim. 4. 7, 8. but reprovable or faulty, ἀδόκιμος, is a metaphor either taken from those who try metals, and cast away that which is drossie:

drossie: or he goeth on in his former metaphor of those who proved masteries, and hath regard to those times, where there were certain Colledges or Academies like our Artillery Gardens for exercise of Armes, where the Novices that submitted not themselves to the rigour of their discipline, or were found tardy in their tryals, or of pursie or unweildy bodies, were cashcered again by their Masters: therefore here the word ἀδόκιμος signifieth not to be cast for ever out of Gods favour, but to be rejected either as base and refuse ore or drosse: or to be cast out of their society, and company, who wrestled or ran for the prize.

CHAP. X.

Vers. 1. MOreover] Gr. Tec. For.
Moreover brethren, &c. He setteth out that which before he had said, laying before them an example of the horrible judgment of God against them, which had in effect the self-same pledges of the same adoption and salvation that we have; and yet notwithstanding when they gave themselves to Idol feasts perished in the Wildernesse, being manifoldly and fearfully punished. Now besides that these things are fitly spoken against them who frequented Idol feasts, the same also seem to be urged to this end and purpose, because many men are thus minded, that those things are not of so great weight, that God will be angry with them, if they use them so, that they frequent Christian Assemblies, and be baptized, and receive the Communion, and confesse Christ. under the cloud] See Exod. 13.21. Num. 9.18. passed through the sea] Exod. 14.22.
V. 2. And were all baptized unto Moses] Or, into. The meaning is, as the deliverance out of Egypt was a figure of the redemption by Christ; and the wandering in the Wildernesse represented the life of the faithful in this world, and the Land of Canaan was a shadow of the Kingdome of heaven: so the passage through the Red Sea was a holy figure answering Baptisme, and the Manna, together with the Water springing out of the Rock, the blessed Supper; (whence it appeareth that the Fathers did enjoy the same spiritual benefit which the Christian Church doth) and yet notwithstanding this, many of them were punished, rooted out, and rejected of God for their sinnes; so likewise Christians ought to stand in fear of the like judgments, in case they profane their profession with the like transgressions. See Heb. 4.2. 1 Pet. 3.21. For the phrase baptized unto Moses, though the Jews were not dip'd in the Red Sea, nor for ought we read washed with the rain water of that Cloud: yet because the water in the cloud and the sea resembled the Element in our Baptisme; and it is not unlike that they were sprinkled with the one and the other; but especially because they were that unto them in type, which baptisme is unto us in truth, the Apostle saith by an Analogie they were baptized unto Moses. The preposition in the Original may carry a double sense; either all were baptized even unto Moses, Moses himself being not accepted. Or, all were baptized in Moses, because Moses was a typical Mediatour, and they were typically baptized in him: or they were baptized in Moses, (that is) in confirmation of the promises of grace preached and administered by Moses, and under that form ordained of God by him, as we read, Act. 19.3. They were baptized in, or unto John's Baptisme, that is, in the doctrine of John which was confirmed by his baptisme.
V. 3. did eat the same spiritual meat] See Exod. 16.15. Though the Pronoun αὐτὸ, be not in the addition by Tecla, yet it appeareth by all other ancient Copies, and the Commentaries of Augustine and Chrysostome upon this Text, that it ought to be added, and that our reading is the true, all did eat the same spiritual meat, the same not onely with themselves, but with us Christians also, (for the Apostles argument here enforceth that sense) though not in the outward signs or symbols, yet in the things signified by them. The Manna indeed and the Water which issued out of the Rock, were in respect of their substance corporal meats and drinks, yet in regard of their sacramental and spiritual signification the Apostle calleth them spiritual meat and drink. For so they were to the beleevers, who by faith in the eating and drinking of them, laid hold upon Christs body and bloud, the true spiritual food of our soules.
V. 4. spiritual drink] See Exod. 17.6. Num. 20.11.
For they drank of that spiritual Rock] That is, the water which issued out of the Rock, Exod. 7. 6. a most lively Image of Christ, who being smitten of his Father (as the Rock was by Moses) at his death and suffering, streamed forth the true water of life and spiritual drink to all his Church, Joh. 4.14. Isa. 55.1. that followed them] Or, went with them. By the Rock he meaneth by a figure the waters which followed from thence in severall streams and several rivolets, running in the wildernesse along the way of the peoples passage. and that Rock was Christ] Not indeed by any substantial and material being, but onely figurative and sacramental, which by virtue of the institution and covenant of God hath joyned with it the reall, but spiritual enjoying of Christ. Some will have the meaning to be not the Rock was Christ, that is, a type of Christ, as the Bread and Wine in the Lords Supper are called the Body and Blood of Christ, because they are a sign and seal thereof, but Christ was the Rock that followed them: but this interpretation is not onely against the Grammatical construction of the words, but repugnant also to the truth of the story, seeing that all the Israelites drank not out of Christ, because many of them beleeved not, and God had no pleasure at all in them, vers. 5. and Heb. 4.2.
V. 5. But with many of] Gr. in many of.
were overthrown, &c. See Num. 26.65.
V. 6. our examples] Gr. our figures, or, our types. Some read figures, which signified our Sacrament, for circumcision was to the Jewes a seal of righteousnesse, and a type of Baptisme to us, and so the Lamb of the other Sacrament; but the words following require rather that we translate it, examples; for the meaning of the Apostle is, That God set the punishment of those Israelites, as a glasse or image before us, that we in them might see what we were to look for, if we sinne as they did.
as they also lusted] See Num. 11.4. Psal. 106.14.
V. 7. The people sate down to eat and drink, &c.] See Exod. 32.6.
V. 8. fell in one day three and twenty thousand] See Num. 25. 9. That is, about three and twenty thousand, for there were three and twenty thousand slain, and many others executed. See Notes on Num. 25.4. Now although there being twenty four thousand slain, the Apostle might truly say, three & twenty thousand, because the lesser number is included in the greater; yet it may be that in the first copy τέσσαρες, was written τρ̄ς, by an abbreviation, which the transcriber mistook for τρεῖς, signifying three.
V. 9. Neither let us tempt Christ] Gr. Tec. tempt God. To tempt Christ, is to provoke him to a combat, as it were, which those men do who abuse the knowledge that he hath given them, and make it to serve for a cloak for their lusts and wickedness. In the Edition of Tecla it is, tempted God, which is more easily to be understood. because Christ was not then come in the flesh; yet our reading may stand, because they tempted the Son of God, who in the fulness of time took our nature upon him, and was called Christ; as the Rock is said to be Christ; and so Christ himself speaketh, Joh. 8.58. Before Abraham was, I am.
and were destroyed of Serpents] See Num. 21.6.
V. 10. were destroyed of the destroyer] See Num. 14.37.
V. 11. happened unto them for examples] Gr. Tec. fell out to them typically.
ensamples] Or, types.
admonition] Or, instruction.
ends of the world are come] This our age is called the end, because it is the shutting up of all ages, it is as it were the bottom and lees, the remnant and refuse of time.
V. 13. temptation] By temptation he meaneth affliction, as the word is taken, Jam. 1.2. 1 Pet. 1.6. Ye rejoyce greatly, though now for a season, if need be, you be in heavinesse through manifold temptations, that the tryal of your faith being much more precious than of gold tryed with fire, might be found unto praise and honour.
common to man] Or, incident to man. That is, such as usually befalleth men, even Gods dearest children, or such as may be born by man in this life especially, assisted by Gods grace, which is always sufficient for Gods children. It may signifie also moderate afflictions, as 2 Sam. 7.17. I will chasten him with the rod of men, that is, moderately and with compassion; for it followeth, vers. 15. but my mercy shall not depart away from him.
also make a way to escape] Or, give an issue.
V. 16. The cup of blessing which we blesse] The word εὐλογοῦμεν, signifieth both to bless and give thanks, yet in this place it must rather be rendred blesse than give thanks, seeing it cannot be said, that we give thanks to the cup, but we may be said to blesse the cup when we consecrate it in the Church, to serve for the sacramental use of the Lords Supper, by solemn prayer and thanksgiving; this kind of separating it from the common use, and dedicating it to an holy, may be termed the blessing it, as the word blessing is used, Gen. 2.3. Exod. 20. 11. where it is said, that God blessed and hallowed the seventh day, by separating it from other common days, and appointing it for a peculiar use.
communion of the blood of Christ] The Sacrament thereof accompanied with the effect and spiritual reality, by the operation of the holy Ghost: or a sign and pledge of the spiritual communion which we have together, who by faith participate the body and blood of Christ; as it is said, that the Israelites communicated with the Altar, and those that did eat things sacrificed to devils, are said to communicate with devils.
V. 18. after the flesh] Or, according to the flesh.
V. 19. that the idol is any thing] The Apostle may seem to allude to 1 Sam. 12.21. where the Idol is called Thohu, that is, nothing; whereupon the words of Jonathas are, Worship not Idols, quia nihil sunt, they are nothing, they can do you no good, or, are worth nothing. The meaning of the Apostle is, as I shewed before, that the Idol hath no force in it to sanctifie or profane the meat, neither is that which is sacrificed to Idols any thing, that is, the offering the meat to the Idol, doth nothing to the meat it self, or maketh it unclean, or unholy.

V. 20.

V. 20. the things which the Gentiles sacrifice,&c.] See Deut. 32. 17. Psal. 106 37.

fellowship with devils] Have any thing to do with them, or enter into that society which is begun in their name.

V. 21. cup of devils] The Heathen and profane people were wont to shut up and make an end of their feasts which they kept to the honour of their gods,in offering meat-offerings in dishes,and drink-offerings in cups: these cups the Apostle calls the cups of devils.

ye cannot be partakers] That is,ye may not be partakers, for possumus quod jure possumus; or, ye cannot be partakers of both, but that you will provoke the wrath of God against you; as it followeth in the next verse.

V. 23. for me] Gr. to me.

are not expedient] Gr. profit me.

for me] Gr. to me.

V. 25. Whatsoever is sold in the shambles] Here the Apostle permitteth,that all things that are brought to the Market, may serve us for food, notwithstanding that it happened oftentimes that some of the same meat which had been offered unto Idols, was brought to Market afterwards, when namely it had not been eaten up in their Idol feasts, but carryed away whole; now being brought to Market or Shambles again, the Idol was no more honoured by it, but it was taken for common meat.

V. 26. For the earth is the Lords,and the fulness thereof] See Deut. 10.14. Psal. 24.1.

V. 29. for why is my liberty judged] If I may through Gods benefit eat this or that meat,why should I through my fault cause that benefit of God to turn to my blame? Or knowing by the Word of God that it is lest free to me to eat or not eat, why should I subject the judgment of my own conscience to that of another and weaker one,so far as to suffer my self to be traduced? it sufficeth for me,that for their sakes I do refrain feeding on such and such viands at this time, and yet conserve the liberty in my mind at other times, and elsewhere to eat of all with thanksgiving.

V. 30. grace] Or, thanksgiving.

V. 31. whether therefore ye eat or drink,&c.] See Col. 3. 17.

V. 32. Give none offence, neither to the Jews,nor Gentiles] Gr. Be ye unoffensive to Jews and Gentiles.

Give none offence,&c.] See 2 Cor. 6. 3. Under these three sorts he comprehends all men which were then either Jews, or Paynims, or Christians,of whom we must beware, not to scandalize any by the use of our liberty, especially if they be such of whom we may conceive hope,that they may be won by us.

Gentiles] Gr. Greeks.

Vers. 1. Followers] Or, Imitators.

V. 2. Now I praise you] Going about to reprehend certain disorders in the Church of Corinth, he beginneth notwithstanding with a general praise of them; which is the method of the Spirit in the Epistles sent to the seven Churches of Asia, Apoc. 2. 2, 9, 13, 19. & 3. 1, 8, 15. and Lactantius prescribes it as a rule to all discreet Pastors, that they should after the manner of Physitians anoint the brim of the cup with honey, in which they minister to the Patient a bitter potion: circumlinatur poculum cælestis sapientiæ melle,&c.

and keep the Ordinances] By the word παραδόσεις in the Original, which signifieth traditions, he meaneth not any unwritten verities concerning matters of faith, such as our Romish adversaries would force upon the Text; but particular Ordinances of comelinesse, and good order, which belong to Ecclesiastical policy, which afterwards were called Canons.

V. 3. the head of every man is Christ] See Ephes. 5. 23. He setteth down God in Christ our Mediatour,for the end and mark, not onely of Doctrine,but also of Ecclesiastical comelinesse: thus applying it to the question proposed touching the comely apparel both of men and women in publike Assemblies, he declareth, that the woman is a degree beneath the man by the Ordinance of God, and that the man is so subject to Christ,that the glory of God ought to appear in him, for the prehominence of the sex. The man is the womans head, that is, hath a prehominence above her, as the head hath above the members,Christ is the head of the man, in as much as he is the first begotten among many brethren; God is Christs head,in that Christ is our Mediatour.

V. 5. Every woman that prayeth or prophesieth] Either the Apostle speaketh of such women as had an extraordinary gift of prayer and prophecie, such were Anna, Luk. 2. 38. and Mary the Mother of the Lord, Luke 1. 46. and the four daughters of Philip, Act. 21. 9. or else he meaneth such women who joyned with the Assemblies in their praying and prophesying, non oris clara voce, sed mentis tacita cogitatione,not with open and loud speech, for that the Apostle forbids that any woman should speak in the Church, but with the intention of the mind and thoughts.

V. 7. he is the image and glory of God] See Gen. 1. 26. Here man is said to be the image and glory of God in regard of the rule which God gave him over the creatures. This image shineth most brightly in the man, who is immediatly the image of God; but more obscurely in the woman,who is the image of the man. If it be objected, that the woman as well as the man was created according to Gods image, Gen. 1. 27. and consequently,that she as well as he is the image and glory of God; it may be answered, that a woman may be considered, either according to her specifical nature in which she agreeth with man, and in that regard she was created according to the image of God in holinesse and righteousnesse; or according unto her sex as she was Adams wife,and subject to him, and in that regard she beareth not the Image of God; for subjection is not the Image of God,but Rule.

V. 8. For the man is not of the woman] The Apostle hath reference to the Original and Creation of man at the first, which was of the earth,not of the woman; whereas the woman was made of man, to wit, of his rib. Here then the man hath some prehominence above the woman,that though now as women are of men,so men also of women in the common course of generation; yet originally and at the first,man was not of the woman,but the woman of the man.

V. 9. Neither was the man created for the woman] See Gen. 2. 23. The man was not created to this end that he should serve the woman as his superiour,but on the contrary,the woman to serve, obey, and to be an helper to the man,Gen. 2. 18. Howbeit in some sense, the man may be said to be created for the woman, to proceed her from wrong, and instruct her, and direct in the way to eternal salvation, 1 Cor. 14. 35.

V. 10. power on her head] That is,a veil or covering, in token of her husbands power and authority over her; or a kind of Warrant or Passe to go abroad with credit and honesty: for there was no necessity of veiling or covering their head within doors; but if they went abroad without their veil, they were counted light and wanderers, like unto run-away servants, or fouldiers,that have no Passe to shew from their Masters or Captains. In which regard Rebecca, Gen. 24. 65. when the lighted off her Camel, and her servant told her that it was his Master Isaac that was walking in the field to meet her, she took a Veil and covered her self; for lust, as Clemens Alexandrinus teacheth, Paedag. l. 3. Ὁ ἐρασμιώτερος ἀκολάστου, casteth darts as it were from the eyes;and as Tertullian elegantly expresseth it, Virgins flie to their Veil, as the Buckler of their chastity; which though it seem but a weak fence, yet it is strong enough to bear off the fiery darts of unchaste glances from youth; Virginitas semper timida oculos fugit, confugit ad velamen capitis, quasi ad galeam contra ictus tentationum, contra jacula scandalorum,contra suspiciones & susurros: Tertul. de veland.virgin.

Because of the Angels] Some by the Angels understand the Pastors of the Congregations,who are termed Angels, Mal. 2. 7. and Rev. 1. 20. and that the Apostle draws his reason to enforce womens modest carriage from the reverend respect the woman ought to shew, especially in the Church,to these Angels of the Churches. Others take Angels here in the proper sense for the celestial spirits, which always attend upon Christ her head, and are present in the Congregation of the faithful,and are offended at all disorders and uncomelinesse which may be used there. The women therefore should behave themselves more modestly in the Church,out of a regard of these spirits that they greeve them not. What though the men were well enough contented that women should go uncovered in the Church,and the husband out of indulgence allowed their wives this sleight usurping of the mark of prehominence belonging unto them; yet the Apostle answereth, that the Angels who are perpetual Guardians of the Churches, and assist in the Congregations, are offended at it. Some will have this to be spoken by way of aggravation,that if women should cast off their Veil in the Church, and usurp dominion there, turpitudinem suam Angelis conspicuam facerent, they should discover their shame and immodelly, not onely before men,but before Angels: with whom S. Chrysostom and Theophylact accord, οἱ τῆς ἀδελφὰς κοσμοφορεῖτε τῆς ἀγγέλους διέξιον. Others conceive it to be spoken not by way of aggravation, but by way of exhortation drawn from the example of the Angels, who have a speciall care to observe and reverence Christ their Head; and therefore as they in token of their subjection to their Head, with two of their wings covered their face, Esa. 6. 2. so women in token of their subjection to their Heads, their Husbands, should cover their heads and faces with a Veil. In this both Jews and Christians agree, and the Angels are present at divine exercises in the Church,and are that eye-witnesses of our carriage there; for so we read in Seder Tephilloth,Domine Deus noster,coronam dant tibi,hoc est,celebrant te Angeli,turba illa superna,cum populo tuo Israel hinc inferne congregato,omnes, simul ter tibi a propheta tuo dictum ingeminant & inclamant, Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus.

V. 15. covering] Or, veil.

V. 16. if any man seem to be contentious, we have no such custome] Either the meaning is, We have no such custome for women to pray uncovered; or we have no such custome for the Churches of God to contend about matters of this nature, but willingly and cheerfully to obey those that have the oversight of us in the Lord.

V. 17. Now in this that I declare unto you,I praise you not] Gr. Tec. now this I declare unto you,not praising.

V. 18. that there be divisions among] Or, schisms. To celebrate the Lords Supper aright, it is requisite that there be not onely consent of doctrine, but allo of discipline and affections, that it be not profaned.

V. 19. there must be also heresies] It is unavoidable, by reason of Satans malice,and mans corruption,as also by the just judgment and wisest counsel of God,who draweth light out of darknes; and according to the frequent predictions of the Spirit, Mat. 18. 7. Heresie is a contention arising about doctrine,when some do obstinately urge or receive any errour, fighting against the fundamentals of the saving doctrine, in so much that heresie is far worse and more hurtfull than schism or divisions; and herewithal the Apostle sheweth the reason that made him believe there were divisions among them, for that a worse evil is found amongst them,viz. heresie, which the Apostle describeth and confuteth afterwards, 1 Cor. 15.

which are approved] That is, those that in the tryals of divisions and heresies remain constant to the unity of the Church, and to the sincere doctrine thereof, and thereby shew themselves like pure and precious gold, which abideth in the trial of the fire.

may be made manifest] When the Church is at peace, without schisms or heresies, then all that make publike profession of religion, are held for sound and upright; but when divisions and heresies arise, then it appeareth fully who cleave to the truth, and stand fast to the unity of the Church. Thus S. Cyprian speaketh; The Chaff may be distinguished from the Wheat, levves paleæ vento jactantur, they are but as Chaff, who are blown away with the Wind, the Wheat remains still in the floor of the Church.

V. 20. into one place] Or, to the same end.

this is not to eat the Lords Supper] Or, ye cannot eat. When ye meet after such a disordered manner,as is expressed afterwards; excluding the poor from your company,and eating every one by himself,and not tarrying at all till others come; this is not to eat the Lords Supper; that is,to celebrate it aright,as you ought. By the Lords Supper he meaneth not the Agape or Love-feasts anciently used in the Church,but for abuse afterwards taken away; but the celebration of the holy Eucharist, the Banquet wherein we are fed with the body and blood of Christ,as S. Augustine in his 118. Epistle, and S. Cyprian in his Tract de Cœnâ Domini rightly expound the Text; He calleth it a supper in relation to the time in which it was first instituted; to wit,at evening; or as the Apostle hath it, Vers. 23. The same night that the Lord was betrayed; and he calleth it Dominica, or the Lords Supper,partly because it is kept in memory of him, partly because it was instituted by him.

V. 22. or despise ye the Church of God,and shame,&c.] Despise ye the poor,who are part of the Church of God, and shame you them, by excluding them out of your company for their poverties sake? seth God admits them into his family,and bids them to his heavenly Banquet,you ought not to exclude them from your feasts.

them that have not] Or, them that are poor.

V. 23. For I have received of the Lord] Because those abuses are contrary to the Lords institution,who ordained his holy Supper for a Sacrament of his body and blood,and for a bond of union, not for a bodily repast,much lesse for an occasion of strife and debates, whereunto you apply it and turn it: therefore I cannot commend you, but must blame you for such your carriage at your meetings. The onely way to reform any abuses in the Church, is to have recourse to the Word of God,and first Institution. That which I received of the Lord, saith the Apostle,It may be demanded,when, and how the Apostle received it from the Lord,seth he converseed not with Christ whilest he lived upon earth,as the Apostles and Evangelists did, who received the Doctrine of the Sacrament from the Lords own mouth. We answer out of S. Paul himself,Gal. 1. 2. That after Christs ascension, he received by special Revelation, which the Lord Jesus Christ vouchsafed to impart unto him,either when he was wrap'd up into the third heaven, or when Christ appeared unto him at his first conversion; but whether then or at any other time Christ revealed this mystery unto him, this is certain, that he received it immediatly from Christ. For he expressly affirmes, that he preached not the Gospel after men, nor received it of man, nor was taught by man, but by Jesus Christ.

that which also I delivered unto you] As the words which the Father spake of the Son,This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased,are related not onely by the three Evangelists, Matthew, Mark, and Luke, but also by S. Peter in his Epistle, 2 Per. 1. 17. for the necessity of the doctrine, and excellency of the mystery contained in them:so for the like reason,it pleased God that the institution of the Lords Supper should not onely be recorded by the three Evangelists above-named, but also here most accurately and exactly delivered by the Apostle. For all Churches must take the true keeping of the Lords Supper out of the institution of it. The parts whereof are these,touching the Pastours,to shew forth the Lords death by preaching his Word, to blesse the Bread and Wine, by calling upon the name of God, and together with prayers to declare the institution thereof,and finally to deliver the bread broken to be eaten, and the cup received to be drunk with thanksgiving: and touching the Communicants,that every one examine himself, that is to say, prove both his knowledge, and faith, and repentance; and lastly, to take the bread at the Ministers hand,and eat it,and to drink the wine, and to give God thanks.

V. 24. And when he had given thanks] See Matth. 26. 26. Mark. 14. 22. Luk. 22. 19.

Broken for you] The word broken, noteth out unto us Christ his manner of death: for though his legs were not broken, as the theeves were, because he was the Paschal Lamb, of which no bone was to be broken; yet was his body very sorely tormented, torn, and bruised, Isa. 53. 5, 10.

in remembrance of me] Or, for a remembrance.

V. 25. This cup is the New Testament] As the bread is not the very body of Christ,but a Sacrament thereof: so neither is the Cup the New Testament or Covenant, but a sign and seal thereof: as the Covenant of God is renewed with his Elect,and ratified by his death, and passion,so it is also sealed to every faithful Christian, by the Cup of the Lord.

in my blood] By the Cup is understood (as all grant) that which is contained in the Cup, by an usual Synecdoche continentis pro contento, which must needs be wine and not blood. For the Apostle here saith, that the Cup is the New Testament in Christs blood, that is, the wine contained in it, is a sign and seal of the new Testament confirmed by Christs blood which he shed upon the Crosse, as the Old Testament or Covenant was confirmed by the effusion of the blood of beasts sacrificed sprinkled upon the people, Exod. 24. 8.

V. 26. ye do shew the Lords death till he come] Or, shew ye, or declare. The death of the Lord must be shewed or made known in the Lords Supper, both by the Ministers of the Word, who in the ministration thereof must instruct the people, that the bread broken, and the wine powred out,are the signs of the bitter death of Christ on the Crosse, and seals of the benefits thereby purchased to our selves: as also by the communicants, who ought to consider in their hearts, to declare and to profess with thankfulnes, that the Lord Jesus died for them,to redeem them from eternal death,and to make them blessed and happy for ever. Till he come to judge the quick and the dead. For even as the Sacraments of the Old Testament continued untill the first coming of Christ in the flesh; so shall the Sacraments of the New Testament continue till his second coming in glory.

V. 27. and drink this cup of the Lord,&c.] Gr. or drink. That is, otherwise than it is meet such mysteries should be handled. He receiveth unworthily, who receiveth without such a disposition of mind, and speciall preparation which is requisite for the partaking of so worthy a Sacrament: or they who receive it not with that reverence and devotion as they ought.

Shall be guilty of the body and blood] For having violated Christs institution, and by his irreverent behaviour having profaned the remembrance of Christs death, and for vilifying the signs and pledges of the body and blood of Christ. For the indignity that is offered unto the seal of the King, is accounted as done unto the Kings own person. The phrase of the Apostle implyes, that they who unworthily handle these holy mysteries are guilty before God as well as Judas, who betrayed the body of our Saviour; or the Jews, who bound his hands, and spit upon his face; or the souldiers who spilt his blood.

of the Lord] Gr. Tec. of Christ.

V. 28. examine himself] Both concerning his spirituall state in general; whether he be a true member of Christs mysticall body. For none but such may eat his body, and drink his blood. And in speciall, whether he be a fit guest for so holy and heavenly a Table, whether he truly repent him of his sins, have a lively faith in Christ, he in charity with his neighbours, and is endued with a competent measure of knowledge to discern this heavenly food from other meat. This examination of a mans self, is of necessity required in all that intend to receive the communion,and therefore they ought not to be admitted to it, which cannot examine themselves as children,idiots, and mad-men,and all such as either have no knowledge of Christ, or no competent measure thereof,though they profess the Christian Religion.

eat of that bread,and drink of that cup] The Sacrament must be received in both kinds, both because Christ so instituted it, and to receive it otherwise is a violation of Christs order; and as Gelasius excellently writes, Divisio unius confessionis, de consecrat. dist. 2. grand sacrilege (Divisio unius ejusdémque mysterii sine gravi sacrilegio non potest provenire:) as also because if we receive but in one kind in bread onely,after the Romish manner, manner,we shew not forth the death of Christ, nor celebrate a Supper, nor make an entire refection, to which drink as well as bread is requisite.

V. 29. damnation to himself] Or, judgement. This may be understood either of eternal punishment, in respect of hypocrites; or of temporal corrections,in regard of the faithful, who oft neglect their duty herein; and receive not so worthily as they ought, as is declared in the next verse.

not discerning the Lords body] Shewing no more reverence at the communion of the body of Christ, than he would do at his ordinary Supper: putting no difference between the bread of the Lords Supper,which is an holy sign and Sacrament of the Lords body, and between ordinary food,participating thereof without any precedent preparation,or present devotion.

V. 30. For this cause,&c.] The profaning the body and blood of the Lord,by unworthily receiving the holy mysteries, is sharply punished by him, by visiting such with sicknesls, and sometimes inflicting corporal death: therefore such a mischief ought diligently to be prevented by judging and correcting of a mans self.

V. 31. For if we would judge our selves] If we would examine our own conscience, and condemn our selves for our sins. And here the Apostle changeth the third person into the first, and in modesty joyneth himself with the rest of his brethren, intimating that neither himself,nor any other is free from Gods fatherly correction, and implying that he delivereth a general doctrine belonging to all the faithful,to prevent Gods judgment by fore-judging themselves.

V. 32. we are chastened of the Lord] Sicknels and other scourges of God,which are punishments to the wicked, inflicted upon them for their sins, are fatherly chastisements of Gods children for their instruction and amendment, παιδ. μαθηματα, nocumenta documenta.

CHAP. XII.

Vers. 1. NOw concerning spiritual gifts] Here he entreth into a reproof of the Corinthians for their abuse of spiritual gifts. For they that excelled in them, brag'd ambitiously of them, and so rob'd God of the praise of his gifts; and having no consideration of their brethrens benefit, used them to vain ostentation, and so rob'd the Church of the use of those gifts. On the other side, the inferiour sort envied the better, and went about to make a departure from them, and rent in the Church: so that all that body was as it were scattered and torn in peeces.So then he going about to remedy this abuse, willeth them first to consider diligently that they have not these gifts of themselves, but from the free grace and liberality of God,to whose glory they ought to refer them. Of this he would not have them ignorant to what purpose those gifts were given unto them.

V. 2. ye were Gentiles] Gr.Tec. when ye.

carried away] Gr.ye were carried.

dumb idols] Though the devil sometimes spake in and by the idol,yet the idols themselves, as the Prophet David truly affirmeth of them,Psal.115.5.had mouthes and spake not; the work-men who made the mouthes,could not give them speech. This therefore is spoken by way of aggravation, to shew what an absurd thing idolatry is, which as Lactantius observeth, so besotteth men, ut adorent insensibilia qui sentiunt, irrationalia qui sapiunt, &c. That reasonable men worship unreasonable creatures,sensible men adore senslesse flocks, they who can speak,call upon dumb images and pictures.

V. 3. calleth Jesus accursed] Gr. saith Jesus is. Or,anathema. Or, make anathema,or,count him as an execrable thing.Esa.30.22. To curse him in whom all the kindreds of the earth are blessed, can proceed from no other than from the accursed and damned spirit the devil himself. In this speech the Apostle either brandeth the priests and false prophets of the Gentiles,or the Jews who pretended to the gifts of the Spirit, and by sorcery and witchcraft uttered strange prophecies,and did seeming wonders, yet both joyned in cursing Christ, as the blasphemous Jews do at this day.

Jesus is the Lord,but &c.] By the Lord, either the Apostle meaneth Jehovah the essential name of God, which the Seventy in the translation of the Old Testament expresly by κύριος, the word here used: or the Lord who hath bought and redeemed us.And most true it is, that no man out of sincere affection and true faith can profess that Christ is the Lord in either of these senses, but by the instinct of the holy Ghost.

V. 4. There are diversities of gifts] See Rom.12.4.&c.The gifts are diverse, as the offices and functions in the Church are diverse: yet one and the self-same Spirit of God, is the giver of all those gifts, and that to one end,to wit,for the profit of all.

V. 5. administrations] Or,ministeries.

V. 6. diversities of operations] By which the Spirit of God manifested his divine power.

V. 8. the word of wisedome] Wisedome is a most excellent gift, very requisite not onely for them which teach,but also for them that exhort and comfort.

by the same Spirit] Gr.according to the same.

V. 9. To another faith by the same Spirit] By faith he meaneth not here the common faith of all Christians, but a special faith given to some,whereby they wrought miracles,of which the Apostle speaketh, Chapter 13. If I had all faith; so that I could remove mountains.

V. 10. the working of miracles] The gift of healing spoken of in the former verse was miraculous,but here by ἐνεργήματα δυνάμεων, the Apostle meaneth the greater workings of Gods mighty power, which passed and excelled among his miracles, as the delivery of the people of Israel by the hand of Moses, and that which he did by Elias against the priests of Baal, in sending down fire from heaven to consume the sacrifice,and licking up all the water, and that which he did by Peter in the matter of Ananias and Saphira,and such like.

V. 11. But] Or, And.

V. 12. so also is Christ] One body having many members, which though they are very diverse, and have different offices and operations,yet they all make but one body, not natural, but spiritual; not politique,but mystical.

V. 13. For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body] Or,in one. By the two Sacraments of the Christian Church, he proveth the union of the faithful in one and the same mystical body, by the virtue of the holy Spirit, who alone doth ratifie both the one and the other Sacrament; by Baptisme to unite them to Christ, and all of them together in Christ: by the holy Communion, to animate and move that whole body, and to operate in all the members thereof, by diverse gifts and operations,to one and the same end, and for the common good and benefit of all. All the faithfull, as members of the self-same body, have the same means of common generation by Baptisme,and nutrition by the holy Spirit. They are baptized into one body,that is, by Baptisme and the spiritual efficacy thereof we are incorporated into one body, the body of Christ, and we are made to drink into one Spirit, that is, by one quickning drink of the Lords bloo.d,we are made partakers of his Spirit. And here though he mention but one sign in the Lords Supper,to wit,wine in the cup, yet we are to understand the other sign of the bread also: but it seemeth that he useth this of the wine especially, in regard of the Spirit; because in the nourishment of our bodies,the wine or drink is that part of our aliment which doth most breed and revive the spirits.

and have been all] Gr.Tec.and are all one body.

V. 15. If the foot shall say] Now he bnildeth his doctrine upon the foundation which he hath laid, and first of all he speaketh unto them which should have separated themselves from those whom they envied, because they had not such excellent gifts as they: this is all one, faith he, as if the foot should say, that it were not of the body, because it is not the hand; or the ear, that it is not of the body,because it is not the hand; or the eye, therefore all parts ought rather to defend the cause it is not the eye, therefore all parts ought rather to defend the unity of the body, being coupled together to serve one the other.

V. 17. If the whole body were an eye] Again,speaking to the same men,who were discontented at the meanness of their gifts in comparison of others, he sheweth them, that if that should come to passe which they desired, to wit, that all should be equal one to another, there would follow a destruction of the whole body, and consequently of themselves.For it could not be a body, unless it were made of many members knit together,and diverse one from the other. And that no man might finde fault with this division as unequal, he addeth, that God himself hath coupled all these together, therefore all must remain coupled together; that the body may remain in safety.

V. 21. And the eye cannot say unto the hand,&c.] Now on the other side, he speaketh unto them who were endued with more excellent gifts, willing them not to despise the inferiours as unprofitable, nor as though they served for no use. For God, saith he, hath in such sort tempered this inequality,that the more abject, and such as we are ashamed of, and that they should have more care to see unto them and cover them, that by this meanes the necessity which is on both parts, might keep the whole body in peace and concord; that although if each member be considered apart, they are of diverse degrees and conditions, yet because they are joyned togedegrees and conditions, yet because they are joyned togedther, they have a community both in commodities and discommodities.

V. 22. seem to be more feeble] Of the smallest and vilest Offices, who had least power, and therefore least accounted of among the rest.

V. 23. bestow] Or,put on.

V. 25. schisme] Or,division.

that the members should have the same care one for another] Should bestow their operations and offices to the preservation of the whole body.

V. 27. and members in particular] Or,particularly. Or,in part. In the Original word for word, it is members of a part, that is, members of this Church of Corinth, which is but a part of the Catholike Christian Christian Church: for all the faithful whersoever they are make the whole body: you Corinthians are not the whole body, but members onely,neither all the members,but a part onely of them. Or, each one for his part,and in his place.

V. 28. God hath set some,&c.] See Ephes.4.11.

first apostles] The first and uppermost place is given to the Apostles, for that they were called unto that office immediately by Christ,without any intermediate humane authority, Gal. 1. they had manifold preheminences above other Doctors and Pastors, they could not erre in matter of doctrine, their Commission was general to preach to all Nations; they were endued with special power to work miracles, and punish the disobedient in an extraordinary manner.

secondarily prophets] Those who by a special and extraordinary gift interpreted prophetical Scriptures to edification, exhortation, and consolation,1 *Cor.*14.3. Or those who fore-told infallibly things to come,as Agabus, Act.21.10. and the daughters of Philip the Evangelist,Act.21.9. If it be objected,that the Law and the Prophets were but until John; the answer is easie,that Christ there speaketh of such Prophets,who fore-told his coming in the flesh.

thirdly teachers] That is, those which were ordinarily and orderly called to expound the Scriptures for the edification of the Church, and to maintain the truth against false Teachers,Ephes.4.11.

after that miracles] As we call those Justices which are to execute justice,so the Apostle calleth here miracles, those who had power to work miracles, both in curing diseases that were simply incurable by natural means, and in inflicting miraculously fearfull punishments upon those who opposed the truth,and lyed to the holy Spirit,as Paul inflicted upon Elymas the Sorcerer, and Peter upon Ananias and Saphyra.

then the gifts of healings] The gift of healing may be distinguished from the gift of miracles mentioned before in this,that those who had the gift of healing onely,could do no other miracles, but the other of whom the Apostle spake before, wrought many other miracles, and they not onely cured incurable diseases, but also raised the dead; whereas these onely cured diseases, and for the most part such as were ordinary, yet they cured them not by ordinary means or medicines, but onely with a word,or a touch,or the like.

helps] Assistants to the principal Officers of the Church, as Deacons, who took care of the poor sick strangers, and orphans, and widows,&c.

diversities of tongues] Or kinds. Because the Corinthians were proud of this gift,to take down their creft, and abate their high conceit of themselves, in regard of this gift of the Spirit, it seemeth that he nameth is in the last place,it being as they used the matter of least use in the Church.

V. 29. workers] Or, powers.

V. 31. But covet earnestly the,&c.] He teacheth them that are ambitious an holy ambition to strive for the best gifts, & such as are most profitable in the Church, especially to contend to excell one another in love, which far surpasseth all other gifts, as he proveth in the ensuing Chapter, and in that regard calleth it a more excellent way.

CHAP. XIII.

Vers. 1. T*Ongues of men and of Angels*] The Angels being spirits, Heb.1.14. have no tongues properly as we have: this therefore must be understood either of the faculty of expressing their conceptions, one to another, which ferveth them to that use as our tongue doth us: Or the Apostle hath reference to the variety of tongues, which the Angels may or have used, when they have been sent to deliver messages to men of divers Nations and Languages; and then the meaning is, if I could speak with as many tongues or languages as ever man or Angels spake with: or else the Apostle hath reference not so much to the variety of tongues,as to the gift of eloquence, and exquisite kind of speech; and then the meaning is, if I could speak like an Angel,that is,most exquisitely, most divinely, as Stephen is said to have had the look of an Angel, Act.6.15. They saw his face,as it had been the face of an Angel, that is, with such shining beauty and lustre as Angels have appeared with; and Manna is said in the Psalm (78.25.) to be the food of Angels; that is, a most dainty food,fitter for Angels than for men; or, such as Angels, if they would taste any corporal food,would make choice of.

as sounding brasse] That is, instruments of metal, which make a great hideous noise,but without any pleasantnesse: or like a tinckling Cymbal which yeeldeth a pleasant sound to the ear,but is of little use at all; or that giveth an uncertain sound, without any distinction of notes,as those did who used the gift of Tongues in the Church without an Interpreter.

V. 2. understand] Or, know.

mysteries] Or, secrets.

all faith] By faith he meaneth the gift of doing miracles;of which faith our Saviour speaketh, *Mat.*17.20.if ye have faith as a grain of mustard-seed,you shall say to this mountain, Remove hence to another place, and it shall remove. For that faith may be severed from charity,but justifying faith cannot, which alwayes worketh by love: so then all faith, that is,all degrees of miraculous faith.

no charity] Gr. not charity.

V. 3. to feed the poor,&c.] Though these seem to be most eminent acts, the former of our love to our brethren, the latter of our love to Christ and his Gospel; yet if they be done in vain-glory, or we propound to our selves in them any other end but Gods glory, and the good of our brother, they shall profit nothing to our salvation.

to be burned] Gr. that I be burned.

it profiteth me nothing] Gr. I am nothing benefited thereby.

V. 4. Charity suffereth long] Here the Apostle setteth forth the force and nature of Charity,partly by a comparison of contraries,and partly by the effects of it, whereby the Corinthians may understand both how profitable it is in the Church,and how necessary; and also how far they were from it,and consequently how vainly, and without cause they were puffed up with other gifts, wanting this the chief of all.

worketh not it self] Or,is not vaine,or,doth nothing preposterously.The Greek word περπερεύεται, some derive from the Latine preperam,and then it is of a large signification, as of he had said,it doth nothing inconsiderately,or amisse: others as Cornelius a Lapide, à Perperis frantribus procacissimis, and then it signifieth,it doth nothing scornfully,or vain-gloriously. Hesychius a great Master of the Greek tongue interpreteth περπερεύεται, ὑπὸ βλακείας ὑπάρχειν, that is, It doth not insolently carry it self, or foolishly prefer it self above others; the Interpreter of Sophocles expoundeth περπερὸς, by κομψὸς, and μειλάκιος, vain-glorious talkers,and braggers of themselves. In the 15. Canon of the second Council of Nice we read καλλωπισμὸς ἔχων περιττείας κοσμικὰς, over-spruceness in apparel; and in decking and trimming our selves is called by the name of the vice here mentioned; whereby it appears,that the meaning of the Apostle is, that those who have charity do not vainly put forth themselves, nor carry themselves insolently nor scornfully towards others.

V. 5. not behave it self unseemly] Or,nothing uncomely.

not easily provoked] Gr. not exasperated.

thinketh no evil] Or,calleth,proyecteth,reflecteth, or reckoneth upon no evil.The word in the Greek, λογίζεται, may be diversly translated; either imputeth no evil,or thinketh of no revenge,or plotteth no evil in his mind against another.

V. 6. Rejoyceth not in iniquity] Taketh no pleasure in speaking or doing evil or wrong; or rejoyceth not,but rather grieveth when any evil befalleth his brother of what kind soever.

but rejoyceth in the truth] Or, with the truth. Rejoyceth at the righteousnesse of the righteous. For the Hebrew sometime by truth meaneth righteousnesse,the meaning then of the Apostle is,that a charitable man is so far from taking any delight in the calamity, hurt, or disgrace of another, if they be found guilty, or taken tardy in any thing,that on the contrary when any that is brought in question as a Delinquent, and afterwards by evidence of truth is cleared, he congratulateth the party that is acquit, and as much rejoyceth as at the clearing of his own innocency.

V. 7. Beareth all things] Or,supporteth. The word in the Original στέγει, signifieth to bear up,as a pillar bears the roof laid upon it,and it differeth from the other word used in this verse ὑπομένει, that this imployeth a supporting of our weak brother, and helping his infirmities; but the other a patient enduring of wrongs offered to us; or sustaining whatsoever burden is laid upon us.

believeth all things] These three acts of love, namely, believeth, hopeth, endureth all things, may be either referred to God, or our Neighbor: if they be referred to God, then the meaning is this, Love believeth every word of God, hopeth for all the good things he promiseth, and patiently expecteth the accomplishment of all his gracious promises,and meekly endureth all his chastisements. If they be referred to our Neighbour,then the meaning is, Love believeth and hopeth all good of our Neighbour, and patiently beareth all wrongs, even death it self, if it so stand with the will of God, that it be inflicted on him. Now we are not from hence to infer that a charitable man is improvident to prevent evil,or careless to right himself. (Pro. 14.15.) For all that the Apostle here affirmeth of love comes but to this, that a charitable man is apt to construe all things to the best, and hope for the best,where there is not apparent reason to the contrary: and that he is more willing to suffer the greatest wrong than to desire revenge, or offer the least injury, he endureth all things which he may with a good consicience,and he perswadeth himself may make for the glory of God, or advantage of the truth: but the latter is more proper.

endureth] Or, sustaineth.

V. 8. Charity never faileth] Gr. falleth away. He commendeth the excellency of Charity in that, that it shall never be abolished in the Saints; whereas the other gifts which are necessary for the building up of the Church,so long as we live here shall have no place in the world to come.

shall fail] Gr. be abolished, or, cassated.

knowledge, it shall vanish away] Or, be made frustrate. Either by knowledge the Apostle here meaneth the way to get knowledg by prophecying; or such imperfect knowledge as we have in this life; or that knowledge which is acquired by sense and experience, or that gift whereby God enableth us to instruct others, and to teach in the Church, that shall be abolished after this life, because then there shall be no need of it.

V. 9. For we know in part] We are now in that state that we ought to learn daily, and therefore we have need of those helps; to wit, the gift of Tongues and knowledge of them that teach them: but to what purpose serve they then when we have obtained and got the full knowledge of God? which serveth now but for them which are imperfect and go by degrees to perfection.

V. 10. done away] Or, evacuated.

V. 11. when I was a child, I spake as a child] He illustrateth what he said before by an elegant similitude, comparing this life to our infancy or child-hood, wherein we stammer rather than speak, and think and understand but childish things, and therefore need of such helps as may frame our tongues, and inform our minds: but when we become perfect men in Christ Jesus, to what end should we desire that stammering speech and those childish helps, and such like things whereby our childhood is framed by little and little?

thought] Or, reasoned.

V. 12. For now we see through a glasse] There is such a difference he ween our present knowledge, and that which we shall enjoy hereafter in the life to come, as there is between the seeing of a man's image in a glass, and looking him full in the face. Now we see God in the Word and Sacraments, and in his Works; in which there is revealed unto us by a kind of reflection, the Image of those things whereof we cannot directly see the original truth, and proper essence in this world, 2 Cor. 5. 7.

darkly] Gr. in a riddle. In the Original it is in a riddle, proverbial or enigmatical speech, and the Apostle hath reference unto Numb. the 12. 8. where God speaking of Moses, saith, I will speak unto him mouth to mouth, and by vision, and not in dark words: and the Apostle hereby imployeth, that there is such a difference between the imperfect knowledge which we have in this life, and the perfect knowledge which we have in the life to come, as is between the propounding the same thing in the obscurity of a Riddle, and declaring of it in plain, proper, and significant terms: or the seeing of a thing immediately, and in its proper shape; and the seeing it through a mirrour, or the image of it in a glass. We here in this life see but the image of things, neither can we contemplate in the foresaid glass the pure and naked image, but sloathed and wrapped about with an intricacy of words, and corporal significations, accommodated to our grosse manner of apprehending and reasoning.

as also I am known] The Greek words may bear a double sense, ὡς καὶ ἐπεγνώσθην Either I shall know him according to the measure of that knowledge wherewith I shall then be endued by him, or I shall come to the perfect knowledge of my election how I am known, that is, chosen and marked out for his by my clear vision of God, and full conjunction and communion with him. At that time I shall know him as I am known of him; that is, most certainly, clearly, and I face to face, as I am known of him, though not so perfectly; for the Creature can never know the Creator so fully and perfectly, as the Creature knoweth it. There is yet another opinion which thus glosseth the words; I shall know God then immediatly, and as it were, face to face, as I was known of him, and saw him in my celestiall vision and rapture when I was taken up into the third heaven.

V. 13. And now abideth faith] Either the meaning is, whilest we are in this life, it is very needfull that all these three graces be, and abide within us, Faith, Hope, and Charity; for without faith we cannot be justified nor made acceptable to God, without hope faith cannot subsist, and by love faith must be working; but after this life faith shall be turned into vision, hope into fruition, but then love shall be in greatest perfection. Or, the Apostles meaning is, that faith, hope, and charity are virtues that are to abide and continue in the Church militant, and have their working in true beleevers at all times, and shall have in all ages, whereas the gift of tongues and miracles were necessary in the first planting of the Church, but afterwards were to cease, as now they have done for many ages.

the greatest of these is charity] Gr. greater. If the Apostle speak here not of justifying faith, but of the faith of miracles, or whereby men work wonders, of which he speaketh verf. 2. then there can be no question, but that charity far exceedeth that faith; but because here he joyneth with it hope, which is a grace common to all true Christians, and most of the antient and latter Divines understand this verse of the three prime Theological virtues, most necessary to salvation; it is more probable that St. Paul here taketh faith in the largest notion, as it compriseth, not onely the faith of miracles, and that which is called Historical, but even justifying faith; and howsoever faith in that notion, in the matter of Justification, hath the preheminence above all other graces; yet in many other respects, charity exceedeth faith: as first in regard of the object, for the object of faith is God onely, in whom alone we are to beleeve; but the object of Charity is of a larger extent, for it respecteth not God onely, but our neighbor also. Secondly, in regard of the manner of working. For faith worketh by receiving Christ, and all his benefits; but charity, by giving and bestowing both our affections and goods; now our Saviour saith, It is a more blessed thing to give than to receive. Thirdly, in respect of duration or continuance. For faith and hope shall cease in the life to come, we being then actually to enjoy and possess those good things which we now beleeve and hope for; but charity shall not onely remain, but have its full perfection in the life to come. Lastly, in respect of the end, because love is the end, and scope of the two other graces, for we apprehend by faith, and expect by hope that we may enjoy by perfect love, whereby also we tender unto God the same we have received of him, and in this correspondence lyeth and consisteth the accomplishment of our conjunction with God, and of mans eternal happiness.

CHAP. XIV.

Verf. 1. Desire] Gr. emulate.

that ye may prophesie] The Apostle speaketh not here of that gift of the Holy Ghost, whereby men that were inspired foretold things future, as the word is taken in the Old Testament; but of a gift of the Spirit, whereby men were inabled to expound Scriptures, given by divine inspiration, and apply them to the benefit of their hearers, for their edification, instruction, and comfort.

V. 2. understandeth] Gr. heareth.

in the Spirit] By that inspiration which he hath received of the Spirit, which notwithstanding he abuseth when he speaketh mysteries, which none of the company can understand.

V. 3. He that prophesieth speaketh unto men] He that expoundeth the Scriptures in a known tongue, he speaketh unto men; that is, speaketh in such a manner that men may understand him, and receive speaketh in such a manner that men may understand him, and receive fruit and benefit by him. This fruit is forred in the words following; edification, exhortation, and comfort. By edification he understandeth edification, exhortation, and comfort. By edification he understandeth confirmation of faith, and instruction of the ignorant; by exhortation, incitation to virtue, and reproof of the unruly; by comfort, the applying of the premises of God to the consolation of the afflicted. And these are the three uses to which all Expositours of the Word ought to apply the doctrine they deliver.

V. 6. if I come unto you with tongues] I wonder whether that which you so much admire in others, would content you in me your Apostles; if I should come among you with the gift of tongues, which the Lord hath so largely bestowed upon me, verf. 18. Or, whether you would not rather expect at my hands that I should preach to your understanding, as is agreeable to my office of Apostleship, and profitable for you.

either by revelation, &c.] Or, in revelation. Unlesse I propound unto you some particular matter, apperraining to your faith or salvation, which I had either learned of God by immediate inspiration, or discovered and deduced by the discourse of enlightned reason from the general grounds of the Word of God. By prophesying, that is, in the general exposition of the truth of God, whether after an extraordinary manner, which is by prophesying, or by way of treaty and discourse, by the ordinary gift of reason, which is doctrine.

by knowledge] Or, in knowledge.

by prophesying] Or, in prophesying.

by doctrine] Or, in doctrine.

V. 7. And even things without life] He setteth forth that which he had said, by a similitude borrowed from instruments of musick, which though they found not out perfectly the ditty, yet by a distinction of sounds they express in such fore thereby the tune, that we know after a fort what lesson is plaid upon them.

sounds] Or, tunes.

V. 8. who shall prepare] Gr. Tec. who prepareth.

V. 9. words easie to be understood] Gr. a significant speech.

V. 10. signification] Or, dumb, or, mute.

V. 11. meaning] Gr. power.

a Barbarian] This word Barbarian is derived from the Arabick word Barbar, which signifieth a murmur or confused noise; or from Bar, which in the Arabian language signifieth a Wilderness; for those who were first styled Barbari, lived in deserts after the manner of wilde beasts: afterwards the word Barbarian was taken in a larger sense for all those who spake not the pure language of the Grecians; here it signifieth, as also in the Poets, I shall be as a stranger, whose language he understandeth not, Barbarus hic ego sum, quia non intelligor ulli; so the Grecians in old time called the Egyptians Barbarians, & the Egyptians them, because neither understood the other, so Apamenis the Platonick Philosopher called John the Evangelist, a Barbarian, not in any disgrace, as Cyril in his eighth book against Julian, sheweth; but onely διὰ τὸ ἀσάφειαν, because he was a Jew, and of another language, not understood of this Philosopher, to wit, the Hebrew or Syriack, which he naturally spake as his mother tongue, though he wrote his Gospel in the Greek.

V. 12. of Spiritual gifts] Gr. of Spirits.

excel] Gr. Tec. prophesie.

V. 14. my Spirit prayeth] The gift and inspiration which the Spirit giveth me doth his part, but onely to my self; but my understanding is without fruit, because no fruit cometh to the Church by my prayer, in regard they hear the sound of my words, but the understanding or meaning of them is not known to them. The Spirit of God doth indeed indeed by a supernatural inspiration form and frame the conception and words of a prayer within me, and moveth me to pronounce it, and I my self am therewith affected, but in the mean while the natural faculty of the mind or understanding, whereby the ordinary and natural word or speech is produced to communicate it self to others doth cease in me, and is unfruitful in regard of others edification.

V. 15. with the] Or, in the.

I will pray with the understanding also] That is, I will pray in such a language, whereby I may be understood of them, and they edified by my prayer.

with the Spirit] Or, in.

V. 16. Else when thou shalt blesse with the spirit] Seeing the whole congregation must agree to him that speaketh, and witneth this their agreement; how shall they give their assent, or agreement, who know not what is spoken? The prayers and thanksgivings to God which are made publikly in the Church, ought to be made and offered there with one heart and mind, and spirit of the whole congregation, which is impossible to be done, if they do not all of them understand the meaning.

say Amen] How shall he joyn the bent of his desires assenting, and intention to that which he hears and understands not? Amen is an adverb of assenting and wishing: it cometh from a root in Hebrew signifying truth and assurance, and is used in the conclusion of prayers, Rom. 15. 33. and else-where, thereby to declare the consenting to that which is prayed, and a desire that it may be fulfilled.

V. 20. be ye children] See Matth. 18. 3.

men] Gr. perfect, or, of a ripe age.

V. 21. In the law it is written] See Isa. 28. 11. That is, in the Scriptures of the Old Testament; as Joh. 15. 25. the book of Psalms: so here the prophecie of Esay is comprised under the word Law. The passage it self containing a reproof of the peoples wilful dulness is here applyed for some resemblance it hath to the present purpose, viz. that like as God never left to propound and declare his Word unto his people, (see Isa. 28. 11.) although they made themselves uncapable of understanding it to their salvation, thereby to convince them, and as it were to seal up their condemnation: so also when the same is brought to any without being understood, it is a sign God is not pleased to make the same a means of conversion, and illumination, but of conviction as towards obdurate unbelievers.

other tongues, and other lips, will I speak] Gr. Tec. lips of other. By men of strange and unknown language will I speak. For as much then as God doth make use of unknown tongues and languages for a punishment, it is not fit the same should be used in congregations without interpreting them, in regard that otherwise it would serve more for a punishment than the edification of the hearers.

V. 25. the secrets of his heart] That is, his false perswasions of God, and wicked lusts and desires, shall be discovered and convinced by the Word.

V. 26. how is it then] Gr. what is.

V. 27. by two, or at the most by three] He setteth down the manner how to use the gift of tongues, it may be lawful for one or two, or at the most for three, to use the gift of tongues one after another in an assembly, so that there be some to expound the same, but if there be none to expound, let him that hath that gift speak to himself alone, and to God in his private prayers.

V. 31. comforted] Or, admonished.

V. 32. the spirits of the Prophets are subject to the Prophets] These words according to a diverse reference may have a diverse sense, if they have reference to verf. 29. let the Prophets speak by two, or at the most by three, & let the others judge; then the meaning is, that the doctrine of every Prophet ought to be subject unto the examination and censure of the other Prophets, and therefore every Prophet may speak in publick, to the end that he may be discerned and approved by the rest. For although these prophecies were infused by the Holy Spirit, that cannot erre, yet all things are not always revealed to one, and that which is not revealed to one, is oftentimes revealed to more, and sometimes in a clearer manner. There might be also something mingled with that which the Prophets received, and it might so fall out, that that which they added of their own, by way of confirmation, illustration or application, might be justly subject to censure. Withal it must be tryed and judged by others, whether the prophecies proceed from the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, and according to the rule of faith, Esay 8. 20. But if these words look not backward to the antecedents, but forwards to the consequents, then the meaning is, that the spirit of the Prophets are so far subject to the Prophets, that when they are moved by the Holy Ghost to prophesie, they may deliver their prophesies presently, or forbear the delivery of them for a time, as shall be most expedient for the Church, and so though more be inspired at the same time, yet they may speak orderly one after another.

V. 33. confusion] Gr. tumult, or, unquietness.

V. 34. Let your women keep silence in the Churches] Gr. Tec. The women. See 1 Tim. 2. 12.

it is not permitted] Gr. it hath not been permitted.

law] See Gen. 3. 16.

V. 38. Let him be ignorant] The Church ought not to care for such as be stubbornly ignorant, and will not abide to be taught, but to go forward notwithstanding in those things that are right.

V. 39. covet to prophesie] Gr. zealously desire, or, seek to prophesie.

V. 40. Let all things be done decently, &c.] Gr. Tec. But let. Although some conceive that the precept of decency hath reference to the habits of men and women spoken of before, and that of order to the use of spiritual gifts, that both they which speak with tongues and prophesie, do it in that order the Apostle prescribeth, verf. 27, 29: Yet it is more probable, that the Apostle here delivereth a general Rule, by which all things which belong to the polity of the Church are to be regulated. Let all things that are done in the assemblies, whether praying and preaching, or administration of the Sacraments, or exercising Ecclesiastical discipline, be done decently; that is, in a seemly and fit manner, and also orderly without confusion, every thing in its proper season, time, and place.

CHAP. XV.

Verf. 2. Keep in memory] Or, hold fast.

what I preached unto you] The Greek τίνι λόγῳ, signifieth as well quâ ratione vel quomodo, after what manner, as well with what words; and the meaning is, either how in expresse and direct words I preached unto you the doctrine of the resurrection, or, after what manner I preached, that is, how powerfully; not onely proving it by forcible arguments, but also confirming it by signs and wonders.

V. 3. which I also received] Either immediatly from Christ when he was wrapt up into the third heaven, or from those who were themselves eye-witnesses of these things.

according to the Scriptures] See Isa. 53. 5, 6. &c.

V. 4. according to the Scriptures] See Psal. 16. 10.

V. 5. And that he was seen of Cephas] See Joh. 20. 19.

then of the twelve] In some Copies it is the eleven, and when this vision was, there were but eleven, for Judas before this had hung himself, and Matthias was not chosen, till after Christs ascension. The answer is, that by a Synecdoche eleven might be here meant by twelve, because those pick'd and chosen men known by the name of Apostles, were as the first twelve, and commonly called the twelve. In like manner, Gen. 42. 13. it is said, They servants are twelve brethren, the sons of one man; yet in the same verse it is added, One is not: so here they are called twelve Apostles, though at this vision one was wanting.

V. 8. And last of all he was seen of me also] See Acts 9. 4. Chap. 9. 1.

one born out of due time] The Greek word ἐκτρώματι, signifieth an abortive, whereby the Apostle implyeth, that he was new-born to Christ after the descending of the Holy Ghost, whereas the other Apostles were born again unto Christ, and called before the sending down of the Holy Ghost. Or, he alludeth to the manner of his conversion, and new-birth, which was not without violence, Acts 9. as for the most part abortive children are not onely born out of their due time, but some violence is used to bring them forth.

V. 14. And your faith is also vain] Either void of truth, or of fruit, and profit. For if Christ be not risen as we have preached unto you, then you do vainly to beleeve us, and this your faith will do you no good at all.

V. 17. Ye are yet in your sins] Gr. Tec. and ye. Seeing death is the punishment of sin, in vain should we beleeve that our sins are forgiven us, if they remain, and we are still guilty of them: but they remain and we are guilty of them, if Christ rose not from the dead. For we are justified by his resurrection, Rom. 4. 25. If Christ then had continued still in death, his death would have proved uneffectual, for the expiation of sin, and for the conquering of death in his members, which he had not conquered in himself.

V. 19. we are of all men most miserable] In regard that Christians do not onely forsake the pleasures of this world, and are subject also for the profession of the truth to a great many crosses, tribulations and persecutions: therefore should there be no resurrection, Christians must needs be most miserable. For then they should enjoy no good nor comfort at all, neither here, nor hereafter, neither temporal nor eternal. The ground of this argument is this, that the perfect felicity of the soul, and immortality thereof, are by Gods order inseparable from the resurrection of the bodies, wherefore he that denies the one, overthrowes also the other. See Matth. 25. 32.

V. 20. the first fruits of them that slept] See Colos. 1. 18. Rev. 1. 5. Christ in his resurrection is fitly compared to the first fruits, not onely because he first rose from the earth (as the first fruits do that spring out of the ground) and presented himself to his Father, the very day that the first fruits were to be offered according to the Law; but because that as by the offering of the first fruits unto God, the rest rest were sanctified, Deut. 26. 1. Rom. 11. 16. so by Christs resurrection, all the faithful that die in the Lord, are sanctified unto him, and assured of their resurrection. If it be objected, that others were raised from death before Christ, and therefore he cannot be called the first fruits of the dead. I answer, first, that if he were not the first in time, yet he was the first in dignity that ever rose. Secondly, that none ever rose but by his power, and the virtue and merit of his resurrection. Thirdly, that he was the first that ever rose to a blessed and immortal life. Other dead were raised before him; mortui suscitati sunt, sed iterum moriturí: raised for a time to life, but afterwards dying again; none before Christ so rose from the dead, that he dyed no more, nor had death any more power over him. Here it is not to be omitted, that those who in the former verses are called dead, after the mentioning of Christs resurrection are termed them that slept, because such is the virtue of Christs resurrection, that it changeth the nature of death in all his members, and turns it into a sweet sleep: and therefore the Church-yards, in which the faithful are buried, were by the Ancients termed κοιμητήρια, dormitoria, or dormories, resting or sleeping places.

V. 21. For since by man came death] Christ is to be considered as opposite to Adam, in respect of the contrary effects which the sin of the one, and the merits of the other produced; that as from one man Adam, sin came over all, because by nature all were born of him; so from one man Christ, life cometh unto all; that is to say, all that are faithful, because in Christ they are made the children of God by grace, and are quickned and restored to life by him.

V. 23. every man in his own order] See 1 Thess. 4. 15.

V. 24. delivered up the Kingdom to God] Christ hath a double Kingdom; 1. Essential, as God, and this Christ possesseth with his Father and the Spirit for ever. 2. Oeconomical, as Mediatour betwixt God and Man; and this Kingdom which he received from his Father, he shall surrender up again to his Father after he hath subdued sin and death, and put all his enemies under his feet.

put down all rule] Or, made frustrate, or, taken away. That is, all his enemies, which shall be spoyled of all the power they have.

V. 25. till he hath put, &c.] See Psal. 110. 1.

V. 27. hath put all things, &c.] See Psal. 8. 6.

V. 28. then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him] As man in respect of his mystical body, the Son shall be subject to his Father, not as if he were not subject to his Father before, but because then in the sight of men and Angels by making a surrender of his Kingdom, he shall most manifestly declare his subjection to his Father. See Euphon. haresf. 89. & Origen. hom. 7. in c. 10. Levit. & August. lib. 1. de Vis. c. 8. And because his mystical body, that is to say, the Church is also here in distress, and as yet not wholly partaker of his glory, is not fully perfect; and also because the bodies of the Saints which lye in the grave, shall not be glorified till the resurrection; but Christ as he is God hath us subject to him, as his Father hath; but as he is a Priest he is subject to his Father together with us.

that God may be all in all] By this kind of speech is set forth the incomprehensible glory, which floweth from God and shall fill all of us as we are joyned together to our head; but yet so, that our head shall always retrieve his preheminency.

V. 29. Else what shall they do, which are baptized for the dead] Or, over the dead. This being one of the most difficult passages in all the Epistles of Saint Paul, it will not be unprofitable to the Reader, to have a Synopsis or joynt view of all the interpretations that have been yet given which carry any probability with them. First, some translate the words, wesh over the dead. For so the word baptism is taken, Mark 7. 4. Luke 11. 38. Heb. 9. 10. And we read, Acts 9. 37. that it was the manner of the faithful to wesh the dead, before they buried them. And this washing of the dead corps was done out of this consideration; that the dead and vile body which they there washed, should one day be changed, and made like unto Christs glorious body. But neither will this Translation stand with the phrase in the Original, βαπτίζονται, not βαπτίζουσιν, which signifieth, are washed or baptized for, or over the dead, not who wash the dead body. Neither could the Apostle draw any firm argument from this custom of washing the dead bodies. For admit that it were not superstitious, but only commendable; yet it yields no ground of an argument for the resurrection. For divers of the heathen both washed and imbalmed the bodies of the dead, yet had no faith at all of the resurrection. So the faithful might out of honour or respect to their friends deceased use the like ceremony, without any relation at all to the future resurrection. Secondly, others translate the words Baptizantur super mortuos, which are baptized over the dead, or upon the dead, and they frame the Apostles reason after this manner: If there be no resurrection of the dead, why do some of you choose to be baptized upon the graves of the dead, rather than in other places, but for a more special confirmation of their faith in the resurrection, and of their assurable opinion that those who were there buried should receive their glorious resurrection? But neither do they bring any good proof of this, in the days of the Apostles the Christians administred baptism at the Sepulchres of the dead, but rather they baptized in places where was much water, John 3. 23. Act. 8. 38. Neither would such a custom of administring Baptism infer the resurrection of the dead. For they might chuse those places for their holy meetings, to preserve the memory of the dead, and honour the Martyrs, and to warm, as it were, their zeal, and devotion at their embers. Thirdly, others translating the words as we do; what shall they do which are baptized for the dead? conceive that the Apostle hath regard not to a common rite in the Church, but to a particular custom of some, whereof there is mention made in antiquity, both by S. Ambrose, and Tertullian, which was, that if any one died in the confession of the faith of Christ, before he came to be baptized, some of his friends or kindred coming to be baptized, received baptisme both in his own name and also in the name of such an one whom he did testifie to have dyed in the faith of Christ, to the end that the Church might also receive the same among the faithful, that had departed this life, from whence they were wont to pray in publick, that God would grant them a happy resurrection. From this custom the Apostle (say they) draweth his argument on this manner; It were in vain for any among you to be baptized for your dead friends, if they shall never rise again. But against this interpretation many things may be objected: First, though it be certain that some ancient Heretickes had such a custom, yet there is no proof at all that among the Corinthians in Saint Pauls time there was any such custom. Secondly, supposing there had been such a custom, and Saint Paul might well suppose that there had been such a custom, and would urge them who used it with an argument ad hominem, and wound them who used it with their own weapon; yet it is not probable that the Apostle would draw an argument from such a superstitious and unwarrantable custom, for to main an article of our Christian faith as is the resurrection of the dead: or if he thought good to convince some of the Corinthians who denyed the resurrection out of a practice of their own, though erroneous; yet he would have laid some kind of aspersion and tax upon it, and not have alleaged it as a thing lawful and warrantable without any dislike at all of it. Thirdly, if it were granted that this custom were as ancient as S. Pauls days, and warrantable alsoyet it doth nothing at all conduce to S. Pauls end, who had undertaken the proof of the resurrection of the body. For they who use such a custom might easily have answered, We do not baptize living men in the name and in the behalf of the dead for any other respect, than for the salvation of their souls, and what is that to the resurrection of their body? Fourthly, others render the words, What shall they do which are baptized for dead; or, as dead; and thus they gather, hereto he imployeth baptism; which as it is said, in those days was celebrated by dipping and plunging the whole body in water, was in token that we are in death; and the coming forth of the water represenreth the resurrection: the argument then is drawn ab absurdo: this sign were in vain and absurd if there were no resurrection. For to what end are men baptized for dead, or as dead, to rest, present unto us what we be in death, to wit, the death of sin, and shall be raised from thence to newness of life, if there be no hope of the resurrection of the body? for this first resurrection should be to little purpose, if the second should not one day follow. But neither is this interpretation free from just exception; for though baptism have relation to the resurrection, as S. Paul teacheth, Rom. 6. 4. and S. Jerome saith truly, Non solim propter remissionem peccatorum baptizamur, sed etiam propter resurrectionem carnis nostræ. And S. Ambrose, per regenerationem corporis nostra resurrectionis gloria inaugurantur; yet this cannot be S. Pauls meaning. For then he would not have said, What shall they do which are baptized for dead? or dead? but, what shall we do who are all baptized as for dead; or being in death, to be raised up from thence by the power of baptism? Besides, although in English and Latine pro mortuis, and for dead; Besides, although in English and Latine pro mortuis, and for dead; may carry such a meaning; yet the Greek ὑπὲρ τῶν νεκρῶν, cannot carry that sense; ὑπὲρ is never taken for tanquam: but it must of necessity be rendred either for the dead, or over the dead: not those that are baptized for dead, that is, as dead men. There remaineth yet one interpretation which seemeth to be most agreeable to the scope of the Apostle, and the antecedents and consequents. The interpretation is this, If there be no resurrection of the dead, what shall they do, that is, what shall become of them, in what miserable condition are they who are baptized, viz. with their own blood, and not onely suffer grievous torments, but even death it self for the dead? that is, for the cause or quarrel of the dead; or instead of the dead, for whose sake they chuse rather to suffer death, than they would detect them to the heathen; or betray them into the hands of their bloudy persecutors; or who willingly undergo such a torment for the faith of them that are now dead, and the baptism of blood for the faith of them that are now dead, and in special for maintaining this very Article of the resurrection of the dead: for which, as Saint Paul, Act. 23. 6. so many hundreds of Christians more were called in question, put to tortures, and persecuted even to death. The force of this argument of the Apostle is very evident, and it well agreeth with the argument that ensueth, why stand we in jeopardy every hour? and I protest by your rejoycing which I have in Christ, I die daily; and If I have fought with beasts at Ephesus after the manner of men, what advantageth it me if the dead rise not at all? As for the word baptizing, it is not only so taken most frequently by the Fathers and School-men, who usually distinguish baptism into baptisma flaminis, fluminis & sanguinis, of the Spirit, Water, and Bloud; but also in sundry places of Scripture, as Matt. 20. 22.

20. 22. Mark 10. 38, 39. Luke 12. 50. I have a baptisme to be baptized with, and how am I straitned till it be accomplished?

V. 31. by your rejoycing] Some read our. It is a kinde of most vehement asseveration, after the manner of an oath; as if he should have said, As true as my principal joy and glory in this world is in the blessing of God upon my ministery towards you.

I die daily] That is, dead hath ingendred over me continually, and I do daily prepare my self for it: or I am not onely in danger of my life every day, but am continually assaulted with so many crosses and tribulations that my life is rather a continual death, than a life unto me, 2 Cor. 11. 23. & deinceps.

V. 32. If after the manner of men] Or, to speak after the manner of men. Either the meaning is, if to speak after the manner of men, that is, if I may now take the privilege to say something of my self, as men do in the like case, or if I have fought according to man, that is, as men led by nothing but that which is humane, to wit, vain-glory and some other worldly respect, not looking by faith at the resurrection, and at God the rewarder of those that suffer for him at that day: If I should thus have exposed my self unto so apparent danger of death, what benefit would it have been unto me? Or, lastly, the meaning may be, If I have fought with beasts after the manner of men; that is, in such sort as if they had been men, and my Antagonists.

fought with beasts at Ephesus] Either the words are spoken figuratively, and by beasts he meaneth beastly minded men, such as the Cretians were, whom he calleth evil beasts and slow bellies; Tit. 1. 12. and such as Ignatius saith he fought withal from Syria to Rome, θηριομαχῶ ἀπ' ἀνατολῆς ἕως δύσεως στρατιωτικοῖς δεσμοῖς ἀεὶ τοῖς ἀδίκοις ἀναπλεκόμενος, not being bitten, saith he, by brute beasts, but by savage creatures in the shape of men. Or the words may be taken properly, as Chrysostome, Ambrose, and others understand the words: and Nicephorus in his second book of Ecclesiastical history, cap. 25. reporteth it literally; for certain it is, that the Christians were often damnati ad bestias, and it was an usual speech in Tertullians days, Christianos ad Leones: and this literal interpretation affords a stronger argument for the resurrection, which is the scope of the text, and better foreth with his former arguments, than if we understand the words of a metaphorical sight.

let us eat and drink] See Isa. 22. 13. That is, let us take our fill of our pleasures, for after death we can take none: these are the speeches of Epicures: the like we find in Anacreon, τὸν θάνατον πάντες οἴδασι; and mors aurem vellens, Vivite, ait, venio. This Atheistical speech of theirs the Apostle reproveth in the words following, saying, Be not deceived, refuting the verse of one Poet, by the verse of another Poet, to wit, Menander; according to whose example Arnobius and Lactantius, and many other of the ancient Fathers refell the heathen by the testimonies of the better fort of the heathen, both Philosophers, Orators, and Poets.

V. 34. to righteousness] Gr. righteously.

V. 36. Thou fool, that which thou sowest] Thou mightest have learned either of these, saith Paul, (if thou hadst not befooled thy self) by daily experience: for seeds are sown and rot, and yet notwithstanding they are so far from perishing thereby, that contrariwise they grow up far more beautiful; and whereas they are sown naked, they spring up green and fresh: and doth it seem incredible to thee that our bodies should rise from corruption, and that with far more excellent qualities than they had before?

V. 38. But God giveth it a body] We see diversity both in one and the self-same thing, which hath now one form, then another, and yet keepeth his own kinde; as it is evident in a seed or grain, which is sown bare, but springeth up after another sort; and also in divers kinds of one self-same sort, as among beasts; as also among things of divers sorts, as the heavenly bodies and the earthly, which also differ very much one from another; therefore there is no cause why we should reject either the resurrection of the bodies, or the changing of them into a better estate as a thing impossible or strange.

V. 42. So also is the resurrection of the dead] He meaketh three manner of qualities of the body being raised; first incorruption, because they shall be found and altogether of a nature that cannot be corrupt; secondly glory, because they shall be adorned with beauty and honour: thirdly power, because they shall continue everlasting without meat, drink, and all other helps, without which this frail life cannot keep it self from corruption.

V. 44. It is sown a natural body] Gr. an animale. The Greek word is not φυσικὸν, but ψυχικὸν, not a natural body, but word for word an animale, or a soul-body, that is, such a body as is quickned and maintained by such a living soul onely as Adams was, of whom we all are born naturally; of a soul which standeth in need of the bodies help and refection, by eating, drinking, breathing, and the like; being thus animated thereby, as other living creatures are; a soul which produceth no other effect in the body, but onely an earthly mutable and mortal life, not able to save it from sicknels, age, consumption and death; much lesse able to restore it to life again after it hath lost it.

it is raised a spiritual body] Not in respect of substance, or being: but by reason of those qualities which the glorified body shall partake of; that is, that besides the life which they have by their soul; they shall be sustained without any bodily means, and kept in an eternal, incorruptible, blessed and glorious life, by the supernatural virtue of the holy Spirit, insused into them by Jesus Christ. Or, by a spiritual body, as some of the Ancients affirm, he meaneth a body free from carnal desires, being wholly subject to, and ruled by the Spirit.

V. 45. was made a living soul] Gr. into a living soul. See Gen. 2. 7. To be such a creature as should live a bodily and animale life here by virtue of the soul, wherein lieth the fountain of this life, while it is joyned with the body: but yet can by no means of it self confer the divine and spiritual life, nor make that its union with the body should remain indissoluble, nor joyn the same again being once dissolved.

a quickning spirit] Gr. into a quickning Spirit. The last Adam, that is, Jesus Christ the head of all the elect, is ordained by God to be the fountain and author of a spiritual and eternal life, by the communication of his Spirit, which restoreth life unto the dead, and conserveth it in them perpetually. As he now after his resurrection, hath a spiritual body himself, immortal and incorruptible; (Phil. 3. 21.) so also shall he give the like bodies to all such as descend from him, not by way of any natural propagation, but by a spiritual regeneration: for each Adam doth communicate to his off-spring; the one by nature, the other by grace, that which he hath of his own.

V. 46. The Lord from heaven] The meaning is not, that Christ brought his body from heaven, as Adam received his body from the earth, but as Johns baptism is said to be from heaven, though neither he nor the water wherewith he baptized descended from heaven; but because he received it from God who is in heaven: so also Christ our Lord according to his humane nature is said to be from heaven, because his humane nature was formed by the holy Ghost, and united to the Divine, and in this regard his generation was divine and heavenly.

V. 50. Now] Or, But.

that flesh and bloud cannot inherit the kingdom of God] Some understand by flesh and blood carnal men and such as walk after the flesh; and though it be true that such men without repentance and a change of their life shall never enter into heaven: yet if we well consider the antecedents and consequents, that cannot be the meaning of the Apostle in this place; but rather this, such flesh and bloud as ours is now, maintained by corporal meats and drinks of a mortal and corruptible nature, cannot inherit the kingdom of God, for it followeth, neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.

V. 51. We shall not all sleep, &c.] Those that shall be alive at Christs coming shall not sleep, that is, die after the manner of other men, and rest in their graves for a time, and then be raised up afterward, yet they shall be changed, that is, their corruptibility and mortality shall be changed into incorruptibility and immortality.

V. 52. at the last trump] Or, in the. See Matt. 24. 31. 1 Thes. 4. 16. Some by the last trump understand the voice of the Archangel, or Christs proclamation for the rasing of the dead: but it seems more probable, that as the people of God were assembled in their solemn feasts and fasts by the sound of a Trumpet; and as on Mount Sinai the Law was delivered with a most loud and dreadful sound, so also the summons of all the dead shall be with some such sound, which is here called the last trump; not as some popish Divines conceive, because it was the seventh Trumpet of those that are mentioned in the Revelation; for the Revelation was written divers years after Saint Pauls death: and therefore it is not likely he alludeth to any of those Trumpets there mentioned; but because after it no Trumpet should ever be sounded.

V. 54. Death is swallowed up, &c.] See Isaiah 25. 8. Hosea 13. 14.

in victory] Or, into victory.

V. 55. O death, where is thy sting] This a song of triumph sung by the Apostle, ravished as it were, at the contemplation of the conquest of death, and it seemeth to be taken out of the Prophet Hosea 13. 14.

O grave] Or, hell. The word in the Original signifieth grave, or hell; but it should seem that here principally the grave is meant; forasmuch as the Apostle treateth here of the abolition of temporal death.

V. 56. The sting of death is sin] That is, sin armeth death against us, and is as it were the weapon, whereby we receive our deaths wound.

and the strength of sin is the law] That is, by virtue of the law sin bringeth men to death and condemnation, for sin is neither known nor imputed to us but by the law: and when the law forbiddeth ought, our corrupt and carnal nature is provoked thereby the more to desire and lust after it, Rom. 5. 13.

Vers. 2. Upon the first day of the week] Gr. one of the Sabbaths. Gr. Tec. one of the week. In the Original one day, an Hebraisme; see the like expression, Gen. 1. 5. Dan. 9. 1. Matth. 28. 1. Luke 24. 1. one day of the Sabbaths. Whereby oftentimes the whole week is signified, as Mark. 16. 9. John 20. 1. Therefore the Greek Scholiast well rendereth μίαν τῶν σαββάτων, τὴν κυριακὴν, the Lords Day, on which the Apostles were wont to keep their assemblies, Joh. 20. 19. Acts 20. 7. which S. John, Rev. 1. 10. calleth κυριακὴν, the Lords Day, because it was the day on which he rose from the dead; and it was by the Church peculiarly dedicated to his honour. Or it is so called, as the Sacrament is called cœna Dominica, and the Lords Prayer oratio Dominica, because the Lord instituted the one, and commanded the other; When we pray, say, Our Father, &c. Luke 11. 2. For so Athanasius saith expressly, ὁ κύριος μετέθηκε τὸ σάββατον εἰς κυριακὴν, our Lord translated the Sabbath to the Lords Day; whether he did this immediately by himself, or by his Apostles inspired by him, all comes to one. See Hilar. Prolog. in Psal. Nec octavâ die quæ E. ipsa prima est, perfecti Sabbati festivitate letamur.

by him in store] In the Original, gathering a treasure. That is, by little and little, every Lords day adding something to make up a gift worthy the sending: or it may be the Apostle in the use of that phrase would imply, that by this collection for the poor, they shall gather treasure in heaven, Matth. 6. 20.

as God hath prospered him] The original is, εὐοδῶται, which signifieth properly a happy journey or voyage, and by a figure is taken for any kinde of prosperity or welfare; and the Apostles meaning is, that every one ought to lay by and contribute according as the Lord hath blessed him, 2 Cor. 8. 12.

be no gatherings when I come] Which will not be so convenient en the sudden, nor so beneficial for the poor.

V. 3. your liberality unto Jerusalem] Gr. gift. In the Original it is τὴν χάριν ὑμῶν, that is, your grace, or free gift, which word he useth rather than ἐλεημοσύνην, your alms, because this was a kinde of holy offering to the Saints, and not a work of ordinary charity towards the poor: and hereby also he signifieth that this their pious and bountiful inclination to contribute to the Saints, was an effect of Gods grace in the Corinthians, as is expressly affirmed, 2 Cor. 8. 1, 2. We do you to wit of the grace of God bestowed upon the Churches of Macedonia, because in great trial of affliction their joy abounded, and their extream povertie abounded to their rich liberalitie.

V. 7. by my way] Gr. in my passage.

but I trust to tarry] Gr. Tec. for I hope to tarry.

V. 9. For a great door and effectual is opened unto me] A great occasion or opportunity of doing much good in my ministery. For Ephesus was a City very much frequented, as well in regard of the famous Temple of Diana there, as also diverse Schools and Nurseries of learning: or the Apostle may intimate that some great advantage was given to the Gospel by the conversion of some men or women of prime note in that City.

and there are many adversaries] Where there is the greatest opportunity offered of doing good, there the devil and his instruments are busiest to stop and hinder it. For, as Saint Chrysostome well observeth, He best turneth himself most where he is like to lose most; and no marvel that the Gospel findeth many enemies, since Truth is a stranger upon earth; and Christ is set for the fall and rise of many, and for a sign which shall be spoken against, Luke 2. 34.

V. 15. I beseech you brethren] Gr. but, or, now I beseech you brethren.

addicted themselves to] Or, appointed themselves for.

V. 16. That ye submit your selves unto such] Or, be subject unto. That you honour and reverence them and be obedient unto them, and be content to be led by them as being my fellow-labourers, and such as have bestowed themselves and their goods to help you withal. Heb. 13. 17.

V. 18. acknowledge ye them that are such] That is, take them for such men as they are indeed; or shew your selves thankful unto them both in my self and your own.

V. 20. Greet ye one another] See Rom. 16. 16.

with an holy kiss] Not with an hypocritical kiss as Judas, nor out of a carnal affection, as Prov. 7. 13. but expresly your unfeigned love unto them as they are called to be Saints and fellow-members of one holy mystical body, whereof Christ is the head. See Rom. 16. 16.

V. 22. love not] That is, out of meer malice and desperate hatred opposeth Christ and his Gospel. It is delivered by a Meiosis, or figurative speech, whereby less is spoken, and more implied, being a crime of that horrid nature, as the Apostle was loth to express it. 1 Kings 21. 10.

anathema, Maran-atha] The former word is Greek, signifying accursed, Rom. 9. 3. Gal. 1. 8. the latter is a Syriack word, signifying our Lord cometh. For Maran is our Lord, and atha cometh. It is a word used in the greatest excommunication among the Christians, implying that they summoned the excommunicated before the dreadful Tribunal at the last coming of the Son of God. See Jude 14, 15. Behold, the Lord cometh with ten thousands of his Saints, to execute judgement upon all, &c. Others expound it thus. Let him be accursed even till the coming of the Lord to his deaths day, even for ever. This dreadful kinde of excommunication which the Apostle here calleth Maran-atha, the Jews called Sammatha, Sam signifying the name of God Tetragrammaton, or Jehovah, and atha venit, he cometh. Others, from Sam signifying there, and mitha mors, their death. Now the Apostle thundereth out this dreadful sentence of excommunication here against the wilful oppofers of the Gospel and impenitent haters of Christ, not out of any evil passion of minde, but out of an Apostolical spirit and holy zeal.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE CORINTHIANS.

The Argument and Analysis.

The occasion of writing this second Epistle was, to vindicate his Ministery from contempt, and his Person from divers imputations laid upon him, by the false Apostles: And to this end, he professeth his sincere affection to the Corinthians, and faithful carriage in the whole course of his Ministery; and being inforced thereunto, he relates at large both his sufferings for Christ, and the Visions and Revelations he received from him.

The Epistle consisteth of
1. An excuse of himself for not coming to them according to promise, Chap. 1.
2. A deprecation for the incestuous person, (who had been excommunicated) that he might be restored again to the Church, Chap. 2.
3. A justification of his Ministery against the calumnies of false Teachers, Chap. 3, 4, 5.
4. An Exhortation to Christian duties in general, Chap. 7. And in particular, to a liberal contribution to the poor Saints at Jerusalem, Chap. 8, 9.
5. A contestation with his emulous adversaries, and a commemoration of his manifold trials, and the happy issue of them, Chap. 10, 11, 12.
6. A denunciation of severity, and the power of his Apostleship against obstinate sinners, Chap. 13.

CHAP. I.

Vers. 1. And Timothy our brother] Not according to the flesh, for we read not that Timothy was of kin to S. Paul; but brother in Christ in the profession of the Gospel, and brother also in the Ministery of the Word, being Saint Pauls companion, and fellow labourer in the office of an Apostle and Evangelist.

with all the Saints] All who embrace the holy profession of Christians, who were admitted into the Church which is the communion of Saints, who attend upon the holy ordinances of God, and follow after peace and holiness, without which no man shall see God. The Greek Scholiast noteth, that he useth not the word, ἅγιος, but ἁγίοις, ἐμφαίνων ὅτι τῆς γνώσεως ἐκτὸς ὄντες τῆς πίστεως εἰσὶ, not holy, but unearthly, whereby all those among the Corinthians that were earthly minded, and sought not the things that are above, but the things that are below, are excluded out of the Apostles salutation.

V. 3. blessed be God] See Ephes. 1. 3. 1 Pet. 1. 3. God is essentially blessed, and cannot be made blessed or happy by us: this phrase therefore signified no more than praised be God: in the Original, εὐλογητὸς, that is word for word, let God be well spoken of. God blesseth us really, but we bless God but verbally, by lauding and magnifying him: or at the most, mentally. For as the kingly Prophet professeth, Psal. 16. 2. our goodness extendeth not to him. The Apostle here begineth with thankgiving, which notwithstanding otherwise than he was wont, he appliteth to himself; begining his Epistle with the setting forth of the dignity of his Apostleship, constrained as it should seem thereunto by their importunity, who took occasion to despise him, by reason of his great crosses and afflictions: but he answereth, that he is not so afflicted, but that his comforts do exceed his afflictions, shewing the ground of them, even the mercy of God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

the Father of mercies] Though judgements proceed from God, as well as mercies, yet he is not in Scripture any where called the Father of judgements, as he is here, the Father of mercies: because mercy and compassion ariseth meerly from himself, and he delighteth in it, Mich. 7. 18. but our sins are the cause why he inflicteth any judgments upon us. And it is further here to be noted, for the comfort of all those that grone under any heavy cross, or suffer conflicts with desperation it self, that the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ is the Father also of mercy, and not of mercy only in the singular number, but of mercies in the plurall, and which is yet more, the God of all consolation.

V. 4. Who comforteth us in all our tribulation] He faith not, who suffereth us not to be afflicted: for he knoweth that it is good for us to be afflicted, as the holy Prophet David professeth; and Christ himself saith, As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: Reve. 3. 19. but who comforteth us in our afflictions.

that we may be able to comfort them] Oecumenius out of this passage rightly observeth the singular modesty of the Apostle, who saith not, that he received comfort from God in those tribulations which he suffered for the Gospel, for his own sake, because his patience or diligence in his Ministery deserved any such consolation; but that God afforded him those comforts for the good of others, that he might be the better enabled to comfort them by those cordials, which he received by the hand of his heavenly Physician.

V. 5. For as the sufferings of Christ abound in us] Gr. unto us. The afflictions and calamities which we suffer for Christ, or Christ suffereth in us his members.

V. 6. which is effectual in the enduring of the same sufferings] Or, is wrought. Although salvation be given us freely: yet because there is a way appointed to us, whereby we must come to it, which is the race of an innocent and upright life, which we must run, therefore we are said to work out our salvation: Phi. 2. 12. and because it is God only that of his free good will worketh all things in us, therefore is he said to work this salvation in us by the self same things, by which we must pass to everlasting life, after that we have once overcome all incumbrances.

V. 8. For we would not, brethren, have you ignorant] He witnesseth, that he is not only not ashamed of his afflictions, but that he desireth also to have all men know the greatness of them, as also his delivery from them, although it be not yet perfect.

which came to us in Asia] Whether he mean by this affliction, the great opposition he found by those many adversaries mentioned by him, 1 Cor. 16. 9. or the great tumult at Ephesus by Demetrius and his fellow craftsmen; Act. 19. or some very dangerous sickness wherewith he was visited, it is not certain: but here he thought good to acquaint them with it, partly to shew his great love to them, in that he concealed nothing from them, which befel him: partly to stir them up to give God thanks for his great deliverance.

V. 9. the sentence of death in our selves] Or, answer. We resolved in our selves to die, or we gave our selves for dead, we were not onely past hope in other mens judgements, but even in our own.

V. 10. so great a death] He saith not, out of so great a danger, but so great a death, because the danger was so great, that it was past mans help, or hope of delivery. He taketh the word death, as else-where, in deaths often. (2 Cor. 11. 23.) either for such sickness, or perfections in which there appeared no hope of escaping with life, or such torments as were equivalent to the pangs of death.

V. 11. You also helping together by prayer for us] Gr. Tec. we also helping together by prayer for you. See Rom. 15. 30. That he may not seem to boast himself, he attributeth all to God, and withal acknowledgeth himself to be much indebted unto them for their prayers for him.

thanks may be given] The end of the afflictions of the Saints is the glory of God, and therefore they ought to be precious unto us.

V. 12. that in simplicity] Gr. Tec. purity. Here he putteth away another slander, to wit, that he was a light man, and inconstant, seeing that he promised to come unto them, but brake his word and came not: and first he speaketh of the simplicity of his minde, and plain and open dealing, which they knew by his speech when he was present, and they ought also to acknowledge it in his letters being absent; and moreover he protesteth that he will never be otherways.

and godly sincerity] Gr. and sincerity of God. In the Original, it is the sincerity of God, that is, such sincerity as is in the God of truth, who is always constant and immutable; or, sincerity before God, or in the sight of God, not feigned or hypocritical.

with fleshly] Gr. in flesh.

by the grace] Gr. in the grace.

V. 13. or] Gr. Tec. and.

V. 14. that we are your rejoycing] Pauls rejoycing in the Lord, was that he had gained the Corinthians to the Lord, and they themselves rejoyced, that they had such an Apostle to be their instructor, who taught them so purely and sincerely.

V. 15. a second benefit] Or, grace. Some render a double joy, but the word is not, χάρον, but χάριν: and the Apostles meaning is, that they might reap a double fruit, both of his letters and of his presence.

V. 17. purpose] Or, consult.

be yea, yea, and nay, nay] Christ commandeth, Matt. 5. 37. that our communication be yea, yea, and nay, nay; neither doth the Apostle here contradict it, but his meaning is, that with him there was not yea, and nay, concerning the same thing, that he was not light and inconstant in his words, as those who affirm and deny with a breath, promising and not performing, and changing their purpose at every turning of the hand, but according to the saying of the Hebrews; etiam jusjurandi etiam, & eorum non est non, so his yea, was always yea, and his nay, nay; not his yea now, his nay at another time, nor his nay yea.

V. 18. true] Gr. faithful.

was not] Gr. Tec. is not.

V. 20. For all the promises of God in him are yea] God purposing to be glorified and perfectly acknowledged for his truth, in the accomplishment of his promises in Christ, preached by us, hath withal given unto us the Apostles, such an infallible guidance of his Spirit, that the truth of our preaching might answer to the truth of Christ his practice, even as himself did answer exactly by his performance unto the promises of God.

and in him Amen] Gr. Tec. therefore also they are by him Amen. As Christ is the same in Gods promises which are unchangeable, so are all such promises touching our salvation, yea, that is, truth; and Amen, that is, assurance. For so much as God in the new covenant maketh no promises of salvation, nor fulfilleth any but in Christ, and by Christ.

unto the glory of God by us] Gr. to God for glory by us.

V. 21. hath anointed us] With the grace of his holy Spirit. So Saint John also speaketh, 1 John 2. 27. But the anointing which you have received of him abideth in you, and the same anointing teacheth you of all things.

V. 22. who hath also sealed us] He wrought the same in us, in regard of our Apostleship, by the virtue of the same Spirit, that ratifieth both in us and in all his faithful children, his vocation and election, by the grace of regeneration, signifying for his as with a seal, 2 Tim. 2. 19. and as by a pledge assuring us of our future inheritance.

earnest of the Spirit] That is, the holy Spirit, which is unto us as an earnest, whereby God assureth us, that he will pay as it were the whole sum of his promises. For an earnest is as a pledge, whereby we confirm a bargain, or a piece of money, whereby we assure the payment of the whole. The first gift therefore of the Spirit, and of life, is a pledge of our whole inheritance; insomuch, that this anointing, sealing, and pledging, all serve to one and the same end.

V. 23. I call God for a record upon my soul] That is, against my self, and to the danger of my own life. So the Hebrews say, to carry our soul in our hands, and Xenarchus in Athenæus useth the same phrase, ἐν τῇ χειρὶ τὴν ψυχὴν ἔχων, whereby they signifie that the life is in great danger. This is then a deep adjuration, whereby the Apostle assureth them even by oath, that he did not onely not change his purpose of coming to them out of levitie, but rather that he came not to them for this cause, that he might not be constrained to deal more sharply with them being present, than he would.

V. 24. Not for that we have dominion] He removeth all suspition of arrogancy, declaring that he speaketh not what he said before as a Lord over them, but as a servant appointed of God to comfort them.

but are helpers of your joy] He setteth the joy and peace of conscience, which God is the Author of, against tyrannous fear, and withall sheweth the end of the Gospel, which is peace and joy in the holy Ghost.

CHAP. II.

Vers. 1. In heaviness] Causing grief amongst you, which he should have done, if he had come unto them before they had repented them.

V. 4. not that you should be grieved] The Apostle in sharply reproving them, though he could not but make them sorry, yet that was not of their salvation; that by sorrowing after a godly manner they might receive spiritual consolation. For as worldly joy ends in sorrow, so godly sorrow ends in joy; whence is that exhortation of Saint Jerome to the penitent, Doleat & de dolore gaudeat; Let him grieve, and rejoyce for such grief.

V. 5. But in part: that I may not overcharge you all] Gr. overburthen. The words may carry different interpretations, either he hath not grieved me in my own particular, but as a part and member of the Church, whom that incestuous person hath offended: or he hath not wholly grieved me, as if you were all delinquents. For although before I knew of your detestation of his crime, I wrote unto you in generall terms, 1 Cor. 5. 2. Ye are puffed up, and have not rather forrowed, that he which hath done this thing might be put from among you. Yet now since I have proof of your love and obedience, and you have cleared your selves by excommunicating him, I have cause to forrow but in part, onely for his fake who was guilty, not for you all, who have cleared your selves that you are no upholders or maintainers of him.

V. 6. punishment] Or, censure.

of many] Gr. by.

V. 7. to forgive him, and comfort him] Or, gratifie. Release him of the sentence of excommunication, and receive him again into the Church, and upon his unfeigned tokens of repentance, minister a word of comfort to him, that he be not swallowed up in the gulph of despair.

V. 8. confirm your love towards him] That at my entreaty you would declare by the consent of the whole Church, that you take him again for a brother.

V. 10. forgive any thing] Or, grant any thing of favour; or, freely give.

to whom I forgave it] Gr. Tec. what I forgave.

in the person of Christ] Or, in the sight. Although Ferrandus the Deacon, in his Epistle to Egippius, taketh the person of Christ for the hypostasis, which is one in Christ, though he consist of two natures, saying, Si quid donavi, donavi propter vos in persona Christi, vult probare unitatem personæ; nam melius personas discrevit & voluit in Christo significare duas substantias: yet Oecumenius his interpretation is more agreeable to the scope of the Apostle in this place, ὡς τῷ χριστῷ πεπιστευκὼς, in the person of Christ, that is, in stead of Christ, or by Christs authority and command, who said, As my Father sent me, I send you: whose sins ye remit, they are remitted, John 20. 23.

V. 11. Lest Satan should get advantage of us] Lest Satan over-reach us. The Greek word, πλεονεκτῆσω, signifieth to have more than belongs to one, and it is commonly used of the covetous: the comparison is taken from the greedy Merchant, that seeketh and taketh all opportunities to beguile and deceive others. The meaning then is, that we give not Satan an occasion by our immoderate rigour to snatch away from us, or ruine any member of the Church, to make the Gospel and the ministery thereof more hateful, and to pervert the holy use of discipline, which consisteth in the temper of charity, and hath no other end than the salvation of the sinner.

ignorant of his devices] Or, plots, or, machinations. Machinations or stratagems, of which Aconitius hath written a singular book: The particular wiles to which the Apostle here pointeth seem to be these, whereby he endeavoureth to gain upon the Church both ways, both by remissfulnesse of Church discipline, and too much severity: by remissfulnesse to rock the sinner asleep in security, and by too much severity to plunge him in despair.

V. 12. was opened] Gr. being.

V. 14. Now] Or, But.

causeth us to triumph] It is word for word, Θριαμβεύων ἡμᾶς, triumpheth us, that is, subdueth us to the Gospel, and maketh us obedient thereunto. So saith Livie, Triumphavit Ammmius Achæos, Ammonius triumphed the Achæans, that is, triumphed over those of Achaia. Or, triumphave facit, causeth us to triumph over the world, the flesh, and the devil; or giveth us conquest in every place where we preach his word, to bring all countries to the obedience of faith.

the favour of his knowledge] He alludeth to the ointment of the Priests and the sweet incense they offered: and withall intimateth the far spreading of the Gospel, which like a sweet odour was blown by the breath of the Apostles, preaching unto all parts of the world.

V. 15. unto God a sweet savour of Christ] That is, pleasing and acceptable to God, in regard that by us is made manifest the mercy of God.

in them that are saved, &c.] The Gospel is preached indifferently to all manner of persons, but it worketh in a very different manner: forasmuch as being received by the faithful, it produceth in them life and salvation, as containing all the causes thereof in it self, but being rejected by unbelievers, it becometh in them the occasion of a greater condemnation, and maketh their perdition inexcusable. As the same light of the Sun, saith Chrysostome, offendeth weak eyes, but recreateth and comforteth the strong sighted; and as the same Star is to some φωσφόρος, to others ἕσπερος, to some a morning Star bringing light and day, & to others an evening Star bringing darkness and night: So the Gospel is a comfort to some, and a terrour to others, bringing eternal life and salvation to some, but by accident, everlasting darkness and damnation to others, according to the Prophecie of Simeon, Luke 2. 34. Behold, this childe is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel.

V. 16. savour of death unto death] Gr. Tec. out of. A deadly savour: not as if the Gospel of its own nature breathed out death to any; for it is the Ministery of life, 2 Cor. 5. 6, 7. and the power of God to salvation unto all believers, Rom. 1. 16. but by reason that unbelievers and impenitent sinners wilfully fee themselves against it, and thereby draw upon themselves the heavier judgement of God, John 3. 36. 1 Pet. 2. 7, 8.

of life] Gr. Tec. out of.

sufficient] Or, fit.

V. 17. which corrupt the word of God] Or, deal deceitfully with. See Chap. 4. 2. Word for word, καπηλεύοντες, play the hucksters with the word of God; So Equitius saith elegantly, cauponari bellum; and Herodian, cauponari pacem; and Plato, καπηλεύειν τὴν τοῦ μαθήματος. and Nazianzen calleth deceitful Teachers, χριστοὺς πάλαι, and Ignatius χριστεμπόρους. By this phrase he taxeth the false Apostles with two grievous crimes: first, that they adulterated and sophisticated the word of God by mingling Philosophical errours or humane traditions with it; as crafty Merchants sophisticate their wines by mingling them with water or other liquors: secondly, that they set the word of God as it were to sale, and handled it crastily and covetously, not sincerely as they ought to have done in the sight of God.

CHAP. III.

Vers. 2. YE are our epistle] As elsewhere he calleth them the Seal of his Apostleship, so here his commendatory Epistle, Ἔγγραμμα ὃ ἀφηκε τὸ διδασκαλεῖα ἢ τῶν μαθητῶν ἐνδικήματα, the profiting of the Scholar is a commendation of his Teacher. What need then the Apostle commendatory letters to the Corinthians, who themselves are his commendatory Letters to all Churches, by their great growth in grace, and knowledge of Jesus Christ?

V. 3. are manifestly] Gr. being manifestly.

to be the epistle] Gr. that ye are the epistle.

written not with ink, but with the Spirit] The tables were not written with ink, but with the finger of God. In this part therefore of the verse, he opposeth not the Epistle of Christ to the writing in the Tables of stone, but to ordinary letters which are written with ink.

not in tables of stone] He alludeth by the way to the comparison of the outward ministery of the Priesthood of Levi with the ministery of the Gospel, which he handleth after: words more at large.

V. 4. And such trust] This boldnesse we shew, and thus deservedly may we boast of the fruit and worthinesse of our ministery.

V. 5. to think any thing] Or, to reason, or, conclude. Rom. 3. 28. Any thing which belongeth to the way of Piety and true worship of God, as S. Austine expoundeth, Libro de dono Perseu. c. 13. or as the Greek Scholiast expoundeth, We are not sufficient of our selves, so much as to apprehend and conceive the worth of the ministery of the Gospel; much lesse to sound the bottom of the deep mysteries of salvation: Without me, saith Christ, John 15. 5. ye can do nothing: So but our sufficiency is of God] In that we are fit and meet to make other men partakers of so great a grace.

So far are we from doing any good work of our selves, that we cannot think a good thought.

V. 6. made us able Ministers] Or, fit, or, meet. He amplifieth his ministery, that is, the ministery of the Gospel, comparing it with the ministery of the law; which he considereth in the person of Moses, by whom the law was given, against whom he setteth Christ the Authour of the Gospel. Now the comparison is taken from the very substance of the ministery. The Law is, as it were, a writing of it self dead and without efficacy, but the Gospel a new covenant, as it were the very vertue of God, in renewing, justifying and saving of men. The Law propoundeth death, accusing all men of unrighteousnes; the Gospel offereth and giveth righteousnes and life. The governance of the Law served for a time, the Gospel remaineth to the end of the world; and therefore what is the glory of that in comparison of the Majestie of this?

not of the letter] That is, which doth not only consist in words and writing, without imparting any inward and spiritual vertue to effect and work the same in men, which it doth represent to them; but hath really joyned with it the virtue of the Holy Spirit, working in the heart, and there ratifying and lively imprinting what the same propounds and promiseth.

the letter killeth] Though the Law shewed the way to life, yet the letter thereof is said here to kill, because it doth not communicate ability to corrupt man to keep the same, nor makes any promise to forgive the sin to him that trespasseth, but curseth every one that abideth not in all things which are written in the Law; convincing us of our transgression, and consequently of our guilt of death, which is threatned to the transgressours; for which cause it is also called, The ministery of condemnation.

but the Spirit giveth life] Or, quickneth. The Gospel doth not onely shew the way to life and salvation by faith in Jesus Christ, but is likewise accompanied with the power of the Holy Spirit, whereby faith is wrought and kept in the Elect, and they themselves are raised up from the death of sin, and quickned to the life of holiness.

V. 7. ministration] Or, ministery.

written] Gr. in letters.

glorious] Gr. in glory.

for the glory of his countenance] The word glory, berokeneth a brightness, which was bodily in Moses, but is spiritually in Christ.

V. 8. the ministration of the Spirit] Or, ministery. That is, of the Gospel, whereby God offereth, yea, and giveth his Spirit, not as a dead thing, but as a quickening Spirit, working life.

glorious] Gr. in glory.

ministration of righteousness] Or, ministery, Viz. of Christ, which being imputed to us as our own, we are not onely not condemned, but also we are crowned as righteous.

V. 10. had no glory in this respect] That is, had not glory comparatively; as silver is not precious in comparison of gold, nor precious stones bright in comparison of the stars, nor the light of the moon in comparison of the sun. As, saith Occumenius, the light of a Candle seemeth most bright in the night, but in the mid-day is so obscured, that it deserveth not the name of a light; so is the light of the Law obscured in such sort by the light of the Gospel, that it seems to have no light or glory at all.

V. 11. was glorious] Gr. by glory.

is glorious] Gr. is in glory.

V. 12. plainness] Or, boldness, or, freedom.

V. 13. And not as Moses, &c.] See Exod. 34. 33. He expoundeth by the way the allegory of Moses his covering, which was a token of the darknes & weaknes that is in men, whose eyes were rather dazled by the bright shining of the Law than lightned: which covering was taken away by the coming of Christ, who lighteth the hearts, & turneth them to the Lord, that we may be brought from the slavery of this blindnes, and set in the liberty of the light, by the virtue of Christs spirit.

to the end of that which is abolished] Gr. Tec. the face, or sight. Could not see the mark and main scope of Moses, or dive into the bottom of his ministery.

V. 14. But their minds were blinded] This is an answer to a secret Objection, whence it comes that the people of Israel do not now believe the manifestation of the end of the Law, made by the Gospel: Why do they see nothing in the Gospel, which is so clear? The Apostle answereth, that there is a Veil hanging over, not the Gospel, but their hearts, by a malicious and wilful obduration, John 9. 39. Rom. 11. 7, 25. As if he should say, the light shines indeed, but those that should behold it shut their eye-lids against it.

which veil is done away in Christ] The Veil is taken away by the knowledge and Spirit of Christ, and when they shall be converted into Christ, they shall like us be brought to the right understanding of the Law; and be fully convinced in their hearts, that the Law was given to no such end, but that they must seek the righteousnes by faith in Christ, without themselves, Rom. 10. 4. Gala. 3. 24.

V. 15. is upon] Gr. lyeth upon.

V. 17. Now the Lord is that Spirit] Or, But. Christ is that Spirit which taketh away that covering, by his working in our hearts, whereunto also the Law is self called us, though in vain, because it speaketh to dead men till the Spirit quicken us.

where] Gr. Tec. to whom.

there is liberty] From the yoke and burden of the Ceremonial, and curse also of the moral.

V. 18. But we all with open face, &c.] Gr. uncovered. Going forwards in the allegory of the covering, he compareth the Gospel to a Glass, which though it be most bright and radiant, yet it doth not onely not daz le their eyes that look on it, as the law did, but also transformeth them with its beams, so that they be also partakers of the glory and shining of it to lighten others; as Christ said to his Disciples, Ye are the light of the world, Matth. 5. 14.

are changed into the same image] As, saith Oecumenius, Silver set against the Sun, by the beams thereof cast upon it, becomes it self radiant; so we being enlightned by the Spirit, cast light upon others. Now that instead of the Veil of those Mosaical figures, God hath given to his Church the clear glass of his Gospel, all the faithful do freely behold there by faith the glorious light of his mercy, truth, and the reft of his divine attributes; and by means thereof they are made like unto him in the glory of holinesse, and in newnesse of life. Moses put away the Veil that hung over his face, when he appeared before the Lord, and by this beholding of God had his face lightened, and shining with beams; so have we now a free access unto God by the Gospel, which is not as a dark Veil, but a pure resplendent glass wherein the glorious countenance of God is seen by us, and we are thereby renewed, and as it were glorified in our minds according to the same image of God.

from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord] Or, of the Lord the Spirit. By the Spirit of the Lord, or by the Lord the Spirit, by the Spirit who is the Lord; that is, one of the same being and substance with the Father and the Son. This Spirit worketh in us by degrees, and this work of his is still in progress here in this life, until we attain to the perfection of the life to come; & as we grow from grace to grace, by this Spirit of sanctification in us, so also from glory to glory, till we be perfectly renewed, according to the image of God, in holinesse and righteousnes.

CHAP. IV.

Vers. 1. SEeing we have this ministery] Gr. having this ministery.

we faint not] Gr. we shrinck not back; Or, grow weary and slothful. Though we are broken in peeces with heart-griefs and calamities, yet we yeeld not, notwithstanding all the discouragements we find in the world, we slack not our pace, nor remit any thing of our zeal for Gods glory, which like fire, is kindled more, and not at all quenched by the blasts of opposition.

V. 2. hidden things of dishonesty] Gr. shame. All secret underhand dealing, all lurking holes to hide shamelesse practices. As we preach the clear and evident truth of the Gospel, so our carriage is open and fair, not hating the light, as they who do evil.

nor handling the word of God deceitfully] They handle the Word deceitfully, who either corrupt it by mingling false doctrines or humane traditions with it; or those who preach the pure and sincere truth, but not sincerely seeking by the preaching thereof their own glory or gain, as did the false Apostles, Phil. 1. 15, 16.

V. 3. But if our Gospel be hid] Because he had said before in the last Verse of the former Chapter, We with open face behold the glory of the Lord, here he prevents an objection which might be made against him, If you preach the Gospel with such plainnesse and sincerity, delivering the naked truth nakedly, how cometh it to pass that so few are enlightned by your preaching, and that the Gospel is hid to so many? He answereth, that the fault is not in the preachers, but in themselves, whose eyes Satan hath pluck'd out, or blinded so, that they can see nothing, though it be never so clear and evident in it self.

that are lost] Or, that perish.

V. 4. the god of this world] S. Austine in his book de Spiritu & lit. ad Marcel. understandeth by the god of this world, the true God, who justly blindeth the minds of infidels, non infundendo malitiam, sed subtrahendo gratiam, not by infusing any malice into them, but by taking away from them, or not giving unto them enlightning grace. And true it is, that as obduration of the heart, so execcation of the understanding is in Scripture attributed to the true God, who justly inflicteth them as punishments upon them, who wilfully oppose the light of his truth, and not onely resist, but despight the Spirit of grace; yet by comparing this Text of the Apostle with John 12. 31. The Prince of this world is cast out, and Ephes. 6. 12. it should seem rather, that the Apostle by the god of this world, understandeth Satan, who by the just judgement of God hath gotten such a dominion over unbelievers, as if he were their God, and he usurpeth the honour and soveraignty of God, and they readily obey and serve him as their Lord and God. And it is worth our observation, that the Apostle styleth him not the god of the world simply, but the god of this world, vers. 12. which wholly lyeth in wickedness, 1 John 5. 19.

the light of the glorious Gospel of Christ] Gr. the light of the Gospel of the glory of Christ. Wherein is manifested the Majesty of the person and reign of Christ, the soveraign excellency of his benefits, and the divine efficacy of his Word and Spirit in us.

the image of God] In whom the Father setteth forth himself to be seen and beholden, who is the Ingraven form of his person, Heb. 1. 3. And this is spoken of him, not onely in regard of his divine nature, being the eternal Word and Wisdom of the Father; but also in regard that he is God, revealed in the flesh, by whom the glory and righteousness, grace, wisdom, and power of God is revealed unto us in the Gospel, as in a glass, Col. 1. 15.

V. 5. we preach not our selves] We make no ostentation of our gifts, nor in the exercising of our Ministery seek our own glory, but Christs; neither carry we our selves as Lords over your faith, but as your servants in and for him, Chap. 1. 24.

V. 6. commanded] Gr. said to.

the light of the knowledge] That being lightened of God we should in like sort give that light to others, as a candle tinded giveth light to the whole room.

in the face of Jesus christ] Or, in the person of Jesus Christ. The glory of God shined in the face of Jesus Christ; for as S. John affirmeth, chap. 1. ver. 14. The Word became flesh, and dwelt among us, and we saw his glory, as the glory of the only begotten Son of the Father, full of grace and truth. Or, ἐν προσώπῳ, in the person, that is, in the room, stead, name, and authority of Christ, whose Ambassadours we are.

V. 7. in earthen vessels] Or, in vessels of shell. He here taketh away a stumbling block, to wit, that the Apostles were vile, weak, frail and miserable men; Paul answereth, that he and his fellow Apostles were as it were earthen Vessels of small price, and subject to many knocks and falls, yet that there was most excellent treasure of wisdom and knowledge in them. Some conceive that the Apostle alludeth to glass lanthorns; in which lights are carried, and that he hereby intimateth, that they hid not their light, but that it shined through them as a Candle doth through a lanthorn. If we render ὀστράκινον, Vessel of shell, then the Apostle manifestly alludeth to precious Pearl which is found in shels; the pearl is that rich pearl mentioned in Matth. 13. 46. which the Merchant sold all he had to buy; the shell or mother of pearl, are the Apostles and Pastours.

V. 8. yet not distressed] In the Original στενοχωρούμενοι, signifieth not every pressure, but to be so prest by a throng in a narrow place, so that we cannot possibly get out; the meaning of the Apostle is then, that though they were laid in wait for, and beset on all sides, and were enforced to strive and struggle with all their might, yet that they escaped, and that God gave them an issue with the temptation how great soever it were, 1 Cor. 10. 13.

not in despair] Or, not altogether without help, or means.

V. 10. dying of the Lord Jesus] Or, mortifying. That is, in our sufferings we represent the death and passion of Jesus Christ.

V. 11. For we which live] Which live that life, to wit, by the Spirit of Christ among so many and so great miseries.

V. 12. death worketh in us] A passionate conclusion: as if he should say, We dye that you may live by our death; we venture into all dangers for the building of the Church sake, and cease not to confirm all the faithful by the examples of our patience; and you by all our afflictions and dangers of death are strengthened more and more in the life of the Spirit: so that even all these straights we are put unto, turn to your advantage, and are means to maintain the life of grace in you here, and further your eternal life and happiness hereafter. Or for the present I do principally prove the effects of my conformity to the death of Christ by the afflictions that I suffer in his behalf, whereof it seems you have no share, nor sense; ye only partake of his life and glory, being exempted from the like calamities, and abounding in all manner of blessings; and so the latter words carry in them a close, but sharp reproof.

V. 13. We] Gr. But, or, And.

we having the same Spirit] He sheweth that he and his fellow Apostles dye in a sort to purchase life to others, but yet notwithstanding they are partakers of the same life with them, because they have the same faith by the inspiration of the same Spirit, and beleeve that which they propound to others to beleeve, to wit, that they also shall be saved together with them in Christ.

I beleeved] See Psal. 116. 10.

V. 15. that the abundant grace] When it shall please God to deliver me, and restore me to you, that exceeding benefit which shall be powred upon me, shall in like sort redound to the glory of God.

V. 16. faint not] Or, slack not. See ver. 1.

yet the inward man is renewed day by day] That is, gathereth new strength (Esa. 40. 31.) that the outward man be not overcome with the miseries, which come fresh ly one on the neck of another, being maintained and upholden with the strength of our inward man. By the outward man he understandeth our bodies; or rather our persons in the natural estate and condition of this life, which do decay and consume away by continual sufferances: by the inward man he understandeth our souls, or persons, considered according to our spiritual estate, which cannot be discerned by any bodily eye, but onely by the light of the spirit: this inward man renewed by the spirit of God is strengthned and consumed more by daily pressures and tribulations; as the Palm-tree groweth the higher, and flourisheth the more, the more burthens are laid upon it; and as Antæus in his wrestling with Hercules, is faid by the Poets to gain new strength by every fall on the earth.

V. 17. light affliction] Afflictions of the godly are not light in themselves, but comparatively, to the infinite and eternal weight of heavenly glory, which our affliction worketh for us not by any merit of ours; but out of Gods meer grace for Christ his sake. Rom. 8. 17, 18. Or they are called light, because they lightly and speedily pass away; or because God maketh them seem light unto us by the strong support and comfort of his Spirit, Rom. 8. 37.

eternal weight of glory] The Apostle seemeth to allude to the Hebrew word, which signifieth both weight and glory: to gold and precious things the weight addeth to the value, as the more massie and weighty a crown is, the more it is worth; and he implieth that we shal at the last be crowned with such a crown of infinite glory, which even in this world we lively apprehend by faith, & the contemplation thereof taketh off all the consideration, love and esteem of all the things in this world, which are seen, our heart being fixed on the eternal things in heaven, which are not seen.

CHAP. V.

Vers. 1. House of this Tabernacle] S. Paul who was a Tent-maker elegantly compareth our body to a Tent, and that in many regards: 1. A Tent or Tabernacle is easily raised up, and as easily taken down and spoyled; so is our body by sickness and outward violence, Job 4. 19. 2. A Tent is an habitation proper for pilgrims or souldiers which continue not in the same place; and such are all Christians whilest they live upon earth, strangers and pilgrims, (Psal. 39. 12.) and souldiers fighting under Christs banner, Joh. 7. 1. 3. A Tent is a moveable house or habitation; so are our bodies, which are now like Tents pitched upon the Earth, but shall be hereafter transported into heaven. 4. Tents are foul without, and soil'd with wind and weather, but have precious things within: so the body and outside of a Christian is but vile and contemptible, but his inside is most beautiful and glorious (Psal. 45. 13.) with special treasures of spiritual graces; like the Tents of Solomon, (Cant. 1. 5.) which were most richly furnished within. 5. A Tent is destroyed not by the consuming of the parts, but by taking them asunder: so the death of the body is nothing but the dissolution of the parts whereof man is composed, and taking asunder the soul from the body.

eternal in the heavens] The grave is sometime called δόμος αἰώνιος, domus seculi, or domus æterna, a long home, Eccles. 12. 5. or house of eternity, because the bodies or something of them remains long there, even to the end of the world: but our habitation in heaven is most truly and properly called an eternal house, which though some take here for the celestial glory, wherewith our immortal bodies shall be glorified at the last day: yet seeing the Apostle doth here expressly speak of a building or house, which we shall have of God, after this tabernacle is dissolved, as soon as we shall go to dwell without our bodies, as appears by the 6. and 8. verses, it may as fitly be understood of the celestial glory in general, wherewith the soul is adorned and clothed as it were, as soon as she leaveth off this tabernacle, and wherewith the body also shall be clothed hereafter being raised from the dead.

V. 2. which is from heaven] He calleth this house heavenly, not that the substance of it is heavenly, but for the glory of it, and because it shall be incorruptible as the celestial bodies are.

V. 3. If so be that being cloathed] Or, since that. We do not without cause desire to be clad with this heavenly house, that is, with that everlasting and immortal glory as with a garment. For when we depart hence, we shall not remain naked, having once cast off the covering of this body: but we shall take our bodies again, which shall put on as it were another garment besides; and therefore we sigh not for the wearinesse of this life, but for the desire of a better.

V. 4. do grone] There is a double grone, one of nature, from the apprehension and fear of death, another of grace, our of an earnest desire of eternal life, which the spirit kindleth in us.

being burdened] Both with the burden of sinne, and of manifold heavy crosses laid upon us.

not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon] Gr. for that we would would not be. The Saints desire to be clothed with a celestial body, that they put not off their mortal body, but have the immortal glory put upon it, as an upper robe: which shall be their happiness, who shall live in the body till Christ come, for they shall not die, but be changed, as the Apostle teacheth us, 1 Cor. 15. 51.

that mortality] Or, that which is mortal.

V. 5. wrought us for the self same thing] The Apostle taketh a metaphor from Goldsmiths, who burnish gold, or Carvers and Engravers, who work upon wood or stone, & make it fit for that for which it is naturally unapt: so doth God by his spirit work upon us, and make us fit for that by his spirit, of which naturally we are most uncapable, to wit, an immortal and spiritual body.

V. 6. we are always confident] Always resolved with a quiet and sober mind, to suffer what danger soever, nothing doubting but our end shall be happy.

V. 7. For we walk by faith] The faith of those things we hope for, as not having them presently in our view.

V. 8. we are confident] Gr. but, or, and. We are in such fort bold, and do so passe in our pilgrimage with a valiant resolution and quiet mind, that yet notwithstanding we had rather depart home to the Lord; and seeing it is so with us, we strive to live so, that both in this our pilgrimage here we may please him, and that at length we may be received home to him.

V. 9. labour] Or, endeavour.

V. 10 For we must all appear] See Rom. 14. 10. That no man might think it indifferently to appertain unto all what he spake of that heavenly glory, he addeth that every one shall first render an account of his pilgrimage after he is departed from hence. The word in the Original εκδημεῖν, signifieth more than to appear in person, as those do who are cited into a Court; it implies to be laid open, and to have our whole life rip'd up, and all our thoughts, words, and works disclosed and discovered before men and Angels, Rom. 2. 16. Rev. 2. 23. and 20. 12.

done in his body] Gr. by his body. That is, in this bodily life of ours, or by the body; for whilest we live here, our soul worketh by the body, and seeing the body is, as Methodius speaketh elegantly, σύζυγον τῆς ψυχῆς, the colleague of the soul, it is just with God that the body should be partaker with the soul, either in immortal bliss, or endlesse torment, according as they have both joyned in this life, either in the service of God, or in the service of Satan and this wicked world.

whether it be good or bad] Whether good, the reward of the same by grace; or bad, the recompence thereof by desert. Eccles. 12. 14.

V. 11. Knowing therefore the terrour of the Lord] The dreadfull Tribunal of Christ, the Judge of quick and dead, before whom we must give a strict account of all our actions, speeches, yea and our inward thoughts, intentions, and affections.

V. 12. glory on our behalf] Or, rejoyce for us.

which glory] Or, rejoyce.

which glory in appearance] Gr. in the face. In outward disguising, and that coloured shew of mans wisdome and eloquence, and not in true godlinesse which is seated in the heart; or who glory in the multitude of their followers, and applause of their hearers, but want the testimony of a good conscience.

V. 13. whether we be besides our selves] Either the meaning is, if we are in our extasies and raptures it is to God; that is, in our private devotions when we speak to him: but to you we speak always words of sobriety and in a moderate temper; or he hath reference to the commendation of his Apostleship. For so much as it seemeth to be the part of mad and foolish men to commend themselves, and then the meaning is, that if we exceed at any time, and are so transported in the contemplation in the dignity of our Apostleship, that we seem to be besides our selves, we do it not to arrogate glory to our selves, but to maintain the glory and honour of God: and if on the other side we speak modestly of our selves, and our ministery, it is for your good, to teach you modesty, and to condescend to your capacity, and to use all means to bring you to Christ.

for your cause] Gr. to you.

V. 14. constraineth us] Or, keepeth us in.

V. 16. know we no man after the flesh] Neither my self nor any of the Apostles have any worldly or carnal affection, nor take notice of mens outward appearance, kindred, quality, honour, wisdome, or eloquence; but meerly know them after the spirit; that is, according to the spiritual power, virtue, or grace that is in them.

known Christ after the flesh, &c.] If we have had earthly and carnal thoughts and hopes of Christ, like unto the rest of the Jews, that he as the King of Israel should begin an earthly temporal Kingdome, and we enjoy all manner of earthly and carnal benefits in the same; as honour, riches, and power, &c. yet now we know him no more, we have put off all such carnal imaginations of his Kingdome. To know Christ no more after the flesh, saith Luther, is to seek or expect no fleshly thing with him, as the Disciples did before his suffering; but to content our selves with the word. Or the words may carry this meaning; we serve not men, nor desire to please them; but all our desire is to please Christ and him onely; to whom also we stand no longer affected after any meerly humane, civil, or naturall manner of affections, such as those bare unto him who conversed with him here in this world, but altogether in a Divine and spiritual manner agreeable to the state of glory wherewnto he is exalted; see Joh. 20. 17. And this the Apostle mentioneth here, to take off the edge of that argument, whereby the false Apostles sought to vilifie and abase his ministery below that of the Apostles, namely, that he had not been conversant with Christ in the flesh.

V. 17. If any man be in Christ] Every true Christian inserted into the body of Christ by his spirit, is and ought to be changed in all his senses, motions, desires, and affections: and therefore he is freed of vanity, and self-love, according as every faithful one (the generall state and condition of the Church being renewed by Christ) ought to participate of this newnesse of life.

he is a new creature] Or, let him be. As a thing made new of God. For though a man be not newly created when God giveth him the spirit of regeneration; but onely his qualities are changed: yet notwithstanding it pleaseth the Holy Ghost so to speak, to teach us that we must attribute all things to the glory of God: not that we are flocks and blocks, but because God createth in us both the will to will well, and the power to do well.

old things are past away] See Isa. 43. 19. Rev. 21. 5.

all things are become new] Namely, in the Kingdom of Christ: and here the Apostle hath reference to the promise of God, Esa. 65. 17. and 66. 22. where this renovation of all things is promised, whereof part is now already fulfilled in all true beleevers, who are renewed by the Spirit of God, and the rest shall be accomplished in the life to come. See 2 Pet. 3. 13. Rev. 21. 5.

V. 19. committed unto us] Gr. put in us.

V. 20. Now then we are Ambassadors] Gr. we are therefore Ambassadors.

Beseech] Or, exhort, or perswade.

in Christs stead] Gr. for Christ.

V. 21. he hath made him to be sinne for us] That is, a sacrifice for sinne, or he hath imputed the sins of the world to Christ (who was most righteous and innocent himself) and had put upon him all the punishment and malediction due to us, that all the faithful may be reputed before God as holy and perfect as righteousnesse is self, by vertue of Christs righteousnesse, which is given to them by God, and onely is able to stand in his judgment.

who knew no sinne] That is, who knew no sin by himself, who was conscious to himself of no sinne. For other ways he best knew the nature and power of sin, who bare our sins on his body on the tree.

of God in him] In Christ, in regard that we are in him, and that his righteousnesse is imputed to us. Non nostra, nec in nobis. Ita Hieronym.

CHAP. VI.

Vers. 1. Workers together with him] That is, with God, mentioned in the last verse of the former Chapter. Now this cooperation of the Ministers with God is not onely necessary before they to whom they preach have received grace, that they might be partakers of it; but also after they have received grace, that they may continue in it.

beseech] Or, exhort.

the grace of God in vain] By the grace of God he meaneth the outward means of salvation in the ministery of the Gospel: or enlightning grace, in the understanding, which they receive in vain, who are not thereby bettered in their life and conversation, as the earth receiveth seed, and the former and latter rain in vain, which is barren and beareth no fruit, Heb. 6. 8.

V. 2. I have heard thee] See Isa. 49. 8.

a time accepted] That is in a time of acceptation, wherein God will accept us, if we by faith and repentance come unto him, or in a time liked of, and made choice of by God, wherein he will open the treasures of his mercy and bounty unto us.

time] Or, season.

V. 3. Giving no offence] See 1 Cor. 10. 32. That is, give no just occasion of offence, or scandal: for scandal or offence is rightly distinguished into scandalum datum, & scandalum acceptum, a scandall given, and a scandal taken. A scandal taken is when any out of prejudicate opinion, or ill affection wilfully misconstrue any speech or action of ours, and make the worst of it; here the scandal is taken, but no way given. The giving offence, which the Apostle here forbiddeth, is when either we speak so ambiguously, or do any thing so indiscreetly and unseasonably, that a good Christian, though otherwise well-affected to us and our ministery, cannot but be scandalized.

V. 4. approving our selves] Or, commending. In the Original it is, we commend our selves, which though it be done in words, unlesse we be forced thereunto for the clearing of our innocency, or justifying our calling, may seem vain, quia laus propria sordet in ore: yet to do it in the Apostles serve, to commend our ministery by the effects of it, by our indefatigable labours in the Gospel, and sufferings for it, is most praise-worthy and profitable.

V. 5. in tumults] Or, in tossings to and fro. The word in the Original, ἀκαταστασίαις, is ambiguous: for it may be referred either to our our selves, and then it signifieth in the uncertainty of our state and abode, who have no place of rest or quietnesse, or to others, and then it signifieth in tumults or commotions, such as were raised against St. Paul at Ephesus, and Jerusalem, and at other places.

in labours] Either which he took in his continual travels, and perpetual preaching; or the pains he took to maintain himself in his trade of Tent-making, that he might not be any ways chargable to the Church.

V.6. By pureneſſe] Gr. in. The Original ἁγνότης, signifieth as well chastity and purity of body, as cleanness of hands, free from bloud, bribery, and corruption by receiving gifts; it is taken also sometimes for sincerity: and in all these senses St. Paul walked and conversed, ἐν ἁγνότητι, for he led both a most chast life, and preached the Gospel sincerely, and made no merchandise of the Word, as he else-where speaketh, he was also pure and clear from the bloud of all men, Act. 20.26.

in knowledge] Gr. in.

by long-suffering] Gr. in.

by kindness] Gr. in.

by the Holy Ghost] Gr. in.

by love unfeigned] Gr. in.

V. 7. By the word of truth] Gr. in.

by the power of God] Gr. in. Either by this power which manifested it self in my effectual and powerful ministery, or the power of God, whereby I wrought many miracles among you.

by the armour of righteousnesse] Gr. by the weapons of.

on the right hand and on the left] Some take the Apostles meaning to be, that himself was, and every good Christian ought to be, ἀμφιδέξιος or μεσηδής, (such as was Atreropeus in Homer, Ἀτρεϊδαι δ' ἐπὶ δοιὼ ἔσαν μεσηδὺς ἰόντε) that is, men who could use both hands alike, and lay about them, as if both were right hands; but there is no necessity of this Exposition. For all souldiers, though they fight not with both hands alike, yet they may make use of both, and they have weapons and armour on both. But the greater doubt is, what the Apostle meaneth by right hand and left? whereunto the Greek Scholiast answereth, that by the right hand he understandeth honour and estimation among men? and by the left hand, injuries, persecutions, and disgraces; and his meaning then is, that they are armed with righ coulnesse or uprightness in both, in such sort that Satan cannot wound them on either side, sith they are neither puffed up with honour, abundance and prosperity, nor cast down by penury and adversity. It may be the Apostle in the meraphor of right and left hand alludes to the words of the Wise-man, who speaks of blessings on the right hand, and on the left, Prov. 3. 16. As God giveth us blessings with both hands, so Christ gives us armour for both hands, to defend us from Satan, the flesh, and the world, who lay at us on all sides.

V. 8. By honour] Gr. glory.

as deceivers] Not so indeed, but reputed as deceivers, or traduced for such, as Christ himself was, Mat. 27.63. for this, as St. Cyprian noteth, hath been the practice of the Devil in all ages, by his Instruments to cast false and foul aspersions upon the most sincere and faithful servants of Christ, ut qui conscientiæ suæ luce clarescunt, alienis rumoribus fordidentur.

V. 9. well known] Gr. acknowledged.

V. 10. having nothing, and yet possessing all things] As having nothing, vz. yet possessing all things, the: or having nothing, quoad κτῆσιν, yet possessing all things, quoad χρῆσιν: having not the wealth of the world in our hands, according to the substance of the things themselves; yet having the fruit and benefit of them in the supply of our necessary wants and inward contentment: or having nothing actually in our own hands, yet possessing all things in the charity of good Christians, who think nothing too good or too much for us at our need.

V. 11. our mouth is open unto you] The opening of the mouth and heart, betokeneth a most earnest affection in him that speaketh, as it fareth commonly with them, that are in some joy: for joy dilateth the heart, as on the contrary sorow contracteth it.

V. 12. Ye are not straitened in us] You are in my heart as in a house, and that no narrow or strait house; for I have opened my whole heart to you: but you are inwardly strait-laced to me-ward.

in your own bowels] According to the phrase of the Hebrew, he calleth those tender affections which rest in the heart bowels: as in the Epistle to Philemon, verſ. 12. he requireth Philemon to receive Onesimus as his own bowels, that is, as one whom he most tenderly affected.

V. 13. Now for a recompence in the same] Gr. for the same recompence. The Apostle by this phrase understandeth no reward from the Corinthians, or recompence by way of satisfaction, though the Greek word ἀντιμισθίαν, derived from μισθὸς, seem to import as much; but onely that as good children, they should answer their Father in tender love and affection: and Bernard justly taxeth those who are banckrupts in love, with ingratitude and hardness of heart, Duri est animi amorem si nolis impendere, nolle rependere.

V. 14. unequally yoked together with unbelievers] Gr. diverſly yoked: vz. drawing the other part of the yoke with. Now he rebuketh them boldly for taking part with Infidels, and being fellows with them in outward Idolatry, as if it were a thing indifferent; but such, saith he, as the Lord vouchsafeth the name of his children, must keep themselves pure, not onely in mind, but also in body, and abstain even from all appearance of Idolatry and superstition. The word in the Original, ἑτεροζυγοῦντες, may be diverſly interpreted, either draw not down the beam, or any way encline to the part of the Infidels. So the Greek Scholiast. And indeed ζυγὸς is sometimes taken pro æquilibrio lancis or trutinæ; Or it may be rendred, be not unequally yoked, as when beasts of divers kinds, or of the same kind, but of diverse stature and bigness, draw together; for then the yoke cannot lye equally upon both: and in this sense the Apostle may seem to touch upon their marching with Infidels. Or it may be rendred, alterum jugi partem nè trahite, draw not the other part of the yoke with Infidels, that is, be not any ways coupled with them.

fellowship] Gr. participation.

V. 15. what concord hath Christ with Belial] Belial signifieth wicked, but here it is taken for Satan, as the Syriack Interpreter rendreth it, who is wicked, κατ' ἐξοχὴν in a transcendent manner, ὁ πονηρὸς, that wicked one, as Christ termeth him.

V. 16. ye are the temple of the living God] See 1 Cor. 3.16.

I will dwell in them] Gr. among. See Lev. 26. 12. God dwelleth among us, either because Christ is become God with us, or because the Spirit dwelleth in our hearts by faith.

V. 17. wherefore come out from among them] See Isa. 52. 11. That is, estrange and separate your selves from them, have no intimate conversation or communion with them, lest thereby you be induced to the imitation of their sinnes, and participation of their punishment.

V. 18. And will be a Father unto you] Gr. for I will be unto them for, or instead of a Father. See Jer. 31. 1.

my sons] Gr. to me for, or instead of sons.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ. 1. ALL filthinesse of the flesh] Or, pollution. Because, as he shewed before, the faithful are Temples of the Holy Ghost, and God hath promised, that he will take them for his sonnes and daughters; he exhorteth them to cleanse themselves from all pollution of sinne, that they may be fit Temples for so pure a spirit, and meet Children of so holy a Father. By filthinesse of the flesh, he meaneth fornication, gluttony, and drunkennesse, &c. By filthinesse of the spirit, Idolatry, superstition, sects, schisms, and factions, which vices he taxed before. Or, by filthinesse of the flesh, the outward acts of all manner of sin committed in, and by the body, Gal. 5. 19, &c. by filthinesse of the spirit, the inward acts of sinne committed in the soul, as impure thoughts, wicked desires, unsanctified conceptions and opinions of God, crafty and malicious projects, designs and purposes, or the like.

perfecting holinesse] Or, consummating. Finishing the work of sanctification, begun in our regeneration; for though regeneration, as also generation be done at once, yet sanctification is wrought in us by degrees, and every good Christian must profit in Christs school, and grow continually, as in knowledge, so in grace, till we arrive to such perfection, as we are capable of in this life; (2 Pet. 3. 18.) which as Saint Austine termeth it, is but an imperfect perfection at the most; a perfection of parts, but no way of degrees.

V. 2. Receive us] Let us have some place amongst you, that we may teach you; or, give way to my just defence; or, alluding to what he spake before, Chap. 6. 13. Be ye inlarged: he now desireth, that having made a room for him in their hearts and affections, they would admit and receive him thereinto.

we have wronged no man. &c.] In clearing himself and his fellow-Ministers from the particular imputations following, he layeth an aspersion upon the false Apostles, who offended in all those kindes, wronging the Corinthians in their reputation, corrupting them in their judgments, and defrauding them in their estates; the first proceeding from detraction, the second, from flattery or heretical perswasions, the third, from covetousnes.

V. 4. my glorying of you] Gr. my rejoycing for you.

V. 5. troubled] Gr. pressed, or, afflicted.

without were fightings, within were fears] Persecutions from without, from Infidels, who made havock of the Church; and fears from within, lest any of the members of the Church should be drawn from the body by the violence of torments and persecutions. Or outward fightings with open and professed Enemies, and fears within from false brethren. Or fightings without, by the continual assaults of outward temptations; and terrours within, by spiritual derelictions and conflicts with despair; for even to these the dearest children of God are subject in this life.

V. 6. those that are cast down] Gr. humble. The word in the Original is ταπεινοὺς, quasi ὑποκάτω, cast upon the ground; either overthrown by violence, or dejected in our minds, our very hearts being cast down. The word signifieth also humble or lowly; but because it is against humility to professe it in our selves, the word here rather signifieth lowlinesse in condition, than in affection; and the meaning of the Apostle is, that God comforteth us when we are very far spent with with grief, and raiseth us when we are upon our knees, and relieveth us when we are destitute of all other help or comfort.

by] Gr. in.

V. 7. by the coming] Gr. in the coming.

by the consolation] Gr. in.

in you] Or, of you.

fervent mind toward me] Gr. zeal for me.

V. 8. with] Gr. in.

V. 9. not that ye were made sorry] As a good Physician rejoyceth not in that he hath ministred to his patient a bitter potion, but that thereby he hath procured him much ease; neither is the Chirurgion glad that by launcing the sore he hath put the parts ill-affected to pain, but that by this pain hath healed them; in like manner, the Apostle doth not rejoyce simply, that he had made the Corinthians sorrowful, but that by this their sorrow they gained health of their souls, and many spiritual graces, mentioned in the eleventh verse.

after a godly manner] Or, according to God.

V. 10. For godly sorrow] In the Original κατὰ Θεὸν, a sorrow according unto God, a sorrow coming from God, pleasing to God, and bringing the sinner unto God, when his heart is truly rent for having offended God by his sins; and withall confident of the forgiveneſse of the same by Jesus Christ, and fully and stedfastly resolved, as far as God shall enable him, to shun and avoid all sin for the future: for as S. Ambrose hath it; Ille verè plangit commissa, qui non committit plangenda: he truly bewaileth that which he hath done, who never doth that afterward which he hath bewailed.

but the sorrow of the world worketh death] By sorrow of the world he understandeth that which is proper to men of the world, such as are not regenerated by the spirit of God, whose grief and sorrow is nothing but the bitter smart of their misery, without any serious and sincere repentance, or else a remorse and pricking of their consciences for their sins indeed; but without faith, and without purpose of amendment, and without conversion unto God: wherefore also all this grieving and sorrowing of theirs is nothing else but a preparation to eternal death, and a kind of beginning of the same; such as Nero felt after he had put both the Apostles Peter and Paul to death, it is said of him, that he felt the torments of hell in his conscience, and ran about crying, Have I no friend or enemy that will kill me, and rid me of my pain? Or, by sorrow of the world, is meant a sorrow onely for the losse of worldly things, or which is onely caused from the fear of Gods judgment in unbelievers, whereupon there followeth commonly hardnesse of heart, and a reprobate sense, and after, despair and damnation it self, (as we see in Cain, Saul, Achitophel, Judas, and the like) which wasteth the body, and hasteneth death.

V. 11. after a godly sort] Gr. according to God.

what carefulnesse] Or, diligence. Study and diligence, readily and carefully to put in practice what I commanded you, to correct your errour and neglect, in not inflicting the censure of the Church upon the incestuous person.

clearing of our selves] That is, declaration of your innocence that you willfully offend not, which you made good upon the sight of your errour, by your severe proceeding against the guilty offendour.

what indignation] Distaste and offence which you took, both at the sinne and sinner.

what fear] That is, holy dread of the provoked judgment of God upon the whole Church, by such an abominable sinne committed, and not punished.

vehement desire] Great affection to the glory of God, and my own person and ministery, and unfained willingnesse to amend what was amisse.

what zeal] In executing that with great fervour and severity that the Apostle gave them in charge, for removing and avoiding the scandal.

what revenge] Either taken upon the incestuous person, by the censure of Excommunication pronounced against him, or against your selves, by the great grief you expresse'd for having been so negligent before, punishing your selves for not punishing him.

clear in this matter] Not indeed of all fault, for neglect of exercising ecclesiastical discipline in them was a fault, but clear from any taking part with that foul person, or giving any liking or approbation of that incestuous contract.

V. 12. I did it not for his cause that had done the wrong, &c.] That which moved me to write unto you so sharply, was not the injury either offered by the son, or suffered by the Father, but the publike scandal of the Church; αἰῶτα κοινὴν πάντων ἡμῶν ἡ ἐκκλησίας διαβολὴν, as Saint Chrysostome well observeth; though the sinne were in the incestuous person onely, and the particular wrong done to his Father; yet in regard that this incestuous contract was tolerated amongst the Corinthians, and no censure inflicted upon the delinquent, the whole Church received a wound in it, and the enemies of the truth took occasion to blaspheme the holy name and profession of Christians, as if such foul facts as this was, were fruits of Christian liberty, or practices allowed by the doctrine of the Gospel.

V. 14. before Titus] Or, concerning Titus.

V. 15. inward affection] Gr. bowels.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſ. 1. WE do you to wit of the] Or, we declare, or, make known unto you the.

the grace of God bestowed] The bounty of the Macedonians he calleth χάριν, either from χάλιν, or from χαρίζομαι, either as the word is derived from a verb signifying to rejoyce, because what they bestowed upon the Saints at Jerusalem, they did it most willingly and cheerfully; or as the word is derived from a verb signifying freely to give, thereby intimating, that that charity whereby we freely give to others, is a free gift of God to us, Donatur nobis, non tantum quod donamus, sed etiam ut donemus.

V. 2. in a great trial of affliction] For those manifold afflictions wherewith the Lord tryed them, did not onely not slack their joyfull readinesse, but also made it much more excellent and famous. Affliction is as a File, whereby God brightens the graces of the Spirit in his Children.

and their deep poverty] As a dark foyl sets off an orient diamond, so the great afflictions of the Churches of Macedonia set off their spiritual joy, and their extream poverty their rich liberality.

their liberality] The Original ἁπλότης, which though it be sometimes taken for liberality, as Rom. 12. 8. yet properly it signifieth simplicity; that which Clemens Alexandrinus termeth ἀκακίαν καὶ ἀπλότητα, singleneſse of heart; a virtue whereby a man is inclined to do works of mercy and bounty freely and absolutely, without any secret ends to gain any thing thereby to himself; as he whom the Poet taxed did, Munera magna quidem misit, sed misit in hamo, Et piscatorem piscis amare potest. He who contributeth to the necessity of the poor, simply to relieve them, and in obedience of Gods command, without any other motive or inducement, deserveth that commendation which the Apostle here giveth to the Macedonians of πλοῦτος ἀπλότητος.

V. 5. not as we hoped] He amplifieth the forwardnesse of the Macedonians in this, that they also desired Paul to stir up the Corinthians to accomplish the giving of alms by sending again of Titus unto them, they were not onely free of their own bounty towards the Saints at Jerusalem, but also excited others to the like bounty; and as Bernard saith, Major est in amore Dei, qui plures traxerit ad amorem Dei; He more loves God, or is greater in his love, who draws more to his love: so saith the Oratour, That charity is greater, which not onely releaveth it self the poor, but moveth others also to the like releef, and openeth not onely our own treasures, but the treasures of others to charitable collections.

V. 8. I speak not by commandment] Though the Apostle might have laid his command upon them in this kind, sith charity is a duty required of every Christian, who is bound to contribute to the necessity of the Saints, according to his ability; yet he rather commendeth this duty unto them, than commandeth it, Philem. 8, 9. because the more willing and free our charitable contributions are, the more acceptable to God and man: As the Myrrhe which sweateth out of the tree of its own accord, is far more precious than that which runneth out after the tree is prick'd or cut; Sudant fponte prius quam incidantur ſtacten dictum cui nulla præfertur. Plin. nat. hiſt.

V. 9. for your sakes he became poor] He who as God was Lord of all, yet for our sakes sustained poverty upon earth, that by his temporal poverty we might be enriched spiritually; by whose example the Corinthians ought to part with some of their temporal goods to supply the poverty of their brethren, that by their prayers they might be enriched spiritually. What should we not willingly bestow upon our poor brethren for Christs sake, who not only bestoweth all graces upon us, but was also himself bestowed for us?

rich] Gr. enriched.

V. 10. not onely to do] But also to do willingly: for he noteth out a ready willingneſse, without any enforcement by any other men, much lesse came it of ambition or vain-glory.

forward] Gr. willing.

V. 12. it is accepted according to that which a man hath] Bounty is not to be esteemed according to mens wealth and the outward gifts they bestowed, but according to their free heart. The two Mites which the poor widow cast into the treasury, Luk. 21. 3. were more in Gods account, and more to her also, than two talents from some other, who might better spare two talents than she one Mite.

V. 14. that there may be equality] That is, that they and you may be charged alike; they when they are full to supply your wants; and you when you are full, to supply their wants.

V. 15. He that had gathered much, &c.] See Exod. 16. 18. Though the Children of Israel in the wildernesse, according to Gods command, gathered Manna, some more, some lesse; yet when they did mete it with an Omer, he that gathered much, had nothing over, and he that gathered lesse, had no lack: this history the Apostle elegantly applyeth to the dispensation of Christian bounty and charity, which ought to be so ordered by the discretion of the Governours of the Church, that they who receive more, may have no overplus, and they that receive lesse, may sustain no want; that as all the Israelites had had according to their eating, and the number of their family, that which was sufficient; so here by a careful distribution, with an eye to the several wants of them that are to be relieved, all may be sufficiently provided for.

V. 18. whose praise is in the Gospel] That is, either in the Gospel written by him, and (if the words be taken in that sense, as Saint Jerome observeth) he meaneth St. Luke the Evangelist: or in the Gospel preached by him, and then he may mean some other, as Barnabas and Apollo, who were praised in all Churches for their excellent gifts in preaching the Gospel.

V. 19. grace] Or, gifts.

V. 21. Providing for honest things] It is not sufficient that we doe those things which are in themselves honest and just in the sight of God; but we must so do them, that men may take no just offence at them, or suspect that we have any sinister end in doing them: As we must approve our Conscience to God, so we must have an honest care of our reputation among men. See Rom. 12. 17.

V. 22. I have in you] Or, he hath.

V. 23. whether any do inquire of Titus] He commends those in special whom he sends to receive the collection for the Saints, that the Corinthians might not doubt to put into their hands those summes of money which were given for the relief of the Saints at Jerusalem: and the meaning of the whole verse is this, For Titus, if any inquire of him, that which I can say of him, is, that I so far trust him that he is my fellow and helper to you-ward; and for the other brethren, if any inquire of them, the testimony I can truly afford them is this, that they are trusted by divers Churches, whose messengers they are, and their life and conversation is such, that they have gained much glory to Christ, and are an honour to the Gospel.

V. 24. the proof of your love and of our boasting] That is, give this experiment of your love, and make good my boasting of you, that all Churches may be witnesses of your godly dealing, in whose presence you are, for so much as there are with you messengers, whom they have chosen by all their consent, and sent them unto you.

CHAP. IX.

Vers. 1. Touching the ministring] He wisely meeteth with the suspition which the Corinthians might conceive, as if in urging them so earnestly to contribute liberally to the poor, he should doubt of their good will and inclination of themselves to so charitable a work, therefore he professeth, that he doth it not to teach them that they ought to releeve the Saints by their bounty, seeing that he had become surety for them to the Macedonians, but onely to stirre them up, who were running of themselves, to the end that all things might both be in a better readinesse at his coming, and the collection more liberal.

V. 2. Achaia was ready a year ago] Achaia is the Countrey wherein the City of Corinth was situated, and sometimes the word is taken generally for all Greece, sometimes particularly for a part of Peloponnesus, known by that name. So Hesychius, Ἀχαΐοι δὲ ἕλληνες παρὰ τὸ ἀχαίνω, τὸ κατεσθίοντα ὑφορᾶ· ἢ πελοποννήσου τὴν καλουμένην ἀχαΐαν.

your zeal hath provoked very many] Or, stirred up. The Apostle in this Chapter termeth the bountiful contributions of the Corinthians to the Saints by the name of divers virtues, Ζῆλος, ἀπλότης, χάρις, εὐοδία, and δικαιοσύνη, zeal, simplicity, grace, benediction, and righteousness. Zeal, because it proceeded out of fervent love, and so much tended to Gods glory; simplicity, because they did it out of a free mind and singleness of heart, without any sinister intention, or expecting any retribution: grace, because it was the gift of God proceeding from his grace: benediction or blessing, because Gods blessing enables them to it, and the poor Saints bleste God for this supply of their wants: lastly, righteousnesse, either because pious bounty is a part of that righteousnesse or justice in general, which compriseth all virtues; ἢ δὲ δικαιοσύνη συνεκδύνει πᾶς ἀρετή· ἔστι justitia in se virtutes continet omnes: or because we are not Lords of the goods of this life, but stewards onely, and he is an unjust Steward who holds that wholly in his own hands, for his own advantage, which by order from his Master he ought to dispense to others for their releef and sustenance.

V. 4. in this same confident boasting] Gr. in the substance, or foundation of this boasting. The word in the Original, ὑποστάσει, may either signifie such a stayednesse and setlednesse of mind, as cannot be moved with any terrour or fear, and so it sheweth the assured confidence Saint Paul had in them, that they would make good what he had promised in their behalf: or it may signifie a ground or a foundation; and so the meaning is, that he should not be ashamed of his boasting to others of their readinesse, because there was a good ground and foundation for it; either the publike faith of the Corinthians, who engaged themselves to contribute liberally to the Saints; or some present pledge which he saw thereof; namely some remarkable sums collected a yeer before.

V. 5. make up] Or, make fit, or ready.

bounty] Gr. blessing.

wherevof ye had not e're before] Or, which hath been so much spoken of before.

of bounty, and not as of covetousnesse] Gr. blessing. Or, as an advantage. The words may carry a double sense, either that the Apostle would have them speedily to send th's collection as being a free benevolence, and not to slack the sending it out of covetousnesse to make any benefit of the money of the poor so long in their hands. Or that it might be ready as a matter of bounty, that is freely coming from them and cheerfully; not as money comes out of the hands of covetous men; that is, hardly, and with much grudging and repining.

V. 6. He which soweth sparingly] Alms must be given neither niggardly nor unwillingly, but frankly and freely, seeing it is the sowing of that seed that will bring us a plentifull harvest both here and hereafter: other seed where we sow it, there we reap the encrease of it; but of this seed we reap not onely a plentiful crop where it is sowed on earth, but a much more plentiful in heaven.

he which soweth bountifully] Gr. with blessings. Word for word it is, he which soweth in benedictions or blessings shall reap in benedictions; and the Apostle alludeth either to Psal. 68. 9. or Ezek. 34. 26. in which a plentiful shower of rain is called a shower of blessing or blessings: the Apostles meaning is, that he who contributeth liberally to the poor, and soweth very much seed, shall reap in blessings, that is, thereby shall receive from Gods hand not one kind of blessing onely, but divers, blessings of the right hand, and blessings of the left, temporal blessings, and spiritual blessings, in this life, and in the life to come.

bountifully] Gr. with blessings.

V. 7. God loveth a cheerful giver] See Prov. 11. 25. Rom. 12. 8. Eccles. 35. 9. That which is extorted from a man he properly giveth not; for liberality implyeth liberty, and necessity in this kind and liberty cannot well stand together: God loveth a cheerful giver, because he gives his heart first to God, before he gives his alms to the poor; and giving that which he giveth with a cheerful countenance, he more comforteth the receiver, giving hope of future bounty. For what a man doth cheerfully, he will do again upon a like good occasion. Pliny writeth that a was observed among the Romans, that never any good came to a man by offering a beast in sacrifice, renitentem & trahentem se ab aris; by a beast that violently drew back from the Altar, and could not be brought to it but with much force: and most certain it is, that God esteemeth of no offering of ours which is not as free as liberal, according to our ability.

V. 8. make all grace abound towards you] The Greek Scholiast acutely observeth, that the Apostle here prayeth for the Corinthians, ἐν τῇ σωματικῇ δυναμεσιαν, ἐν τῇ πνευματικοῖς πεφυτ'αν, a sufficiency in temporal blessings, but an exuberancy or abounding in spirituall. For in temporals we have too much, as well as too little; and therefore Solomon prayeth for a mediocrity: but of spiritual blessings, especially such as appertain to our sanctification and salvation, we cannot have too great a proportion; the more we abound in them, the more happy are we.

V. 9. He hath dispersed abroad] See Psal. 112. 9.

his righteousnesse] Righteousnesse in this place is taken for bounty, as else-where, Hos. 10. 12. Sowe to your selves in righteousnesse; and Mal. 4. 2. Christ is called the Sun of righteousnesse, because he freely and bountifully communicates both enlightening and sanctifying graces, as the Sun doth his light and his heat.

for ever] Though the gift be bestowed passeth away, yet his bounty remaineth for ever, both in the same of his virtue, and much more in the eternal reward thereof in heaven, Quas dederis solas tempore habebis opes.

V. 10. ministreth seed to the sower] See Isa. 55. 10.

V. 12. administration of this service] Gr. oblation and service, or office, Rom. 15. 16. An excellent and double fruit of liberality towards the Saints is, that it giveth occasion to praise God, and that our faith also is thereby made manifest. The word in the Original is λειτουργία, which signifies not every service or ministery, but properly the publike service and holy office of prayers and oblations to God; and thereby implyeth that these their alms-deeds were rather acts of piety than liberality, because they contributed to them of Jerusalem not onely as poor, but as Saints of the same profession with them, and that they sent them as a holy offering unto God for the releef of his dearest servants.

V. 13. they glorifie] Gr. glorifying.

V. 15. Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift] Lest the Corinthians should be puffed up with his great commendation and praise of their pious bounty, he thirteth up his exhortation with this passionate exclamation, wherein he ascribeth the glory and thanksgiving not to the Corinthians, who were but the conduits of Gods bounty, but to God himself, who is the fountain of all goodnesse, who both enclined their hearts, and furnished them with means thus liberally to supply the necessity of his Saints. Some by this unspeakable gift understand Christ himself, who is called the gift of God, Joh. 4. 10. Others, the Gospel, which is likewise an unspeakable gift: but the coherence with the former words seemeth rather to refer us to the exceeding grace of God in the Corinthians mentioned in the verse immediatly going before; so the plain meaning is, Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift, which he hath bestowed upon you in filling you with his grace, and stirring up your hearts in so liberal a manner to releeve the Saints at Jerusalem, whereby so much glory redoundeth to God, and honour to our holy profession.

CHAP. X.

Vers. 1. Gentlenesse of Christ] Here he beginneth to vindicate his ministery from the contempt and scorn which the false apostles put upon it; and first of all he professeth that he was gentle and moderate after the example of Christ: but if they continued still to despise his gentleneſſe, he protesteth unto them that he will shew indeed how farre they are deceived, who make no other account of the office of an Apostle, than they do of worldly Offices, that is, according to outward appearance. The word in the Original ἐπιεικεία, is derived from εἴκω, to give place, or to yeeld, and it signifieth a condescending to the infirmity of others, and a moderating the rigour and severity of the law by equity; for summum jus est summa injuria.

in presence am base among you] Greek lowly. This he speaketh ironically: not that he was vile and base when he was present with them; or as if he carried not himself according to the dignity of his place; but as it were, by way of concession for the present, as if he had said, If my bodily presence be weak, and my speech contemptible, as the false apostles would have you beleeve, how mean and base soever they esteem of me in presence, yet I desire you not to provoke me to shew what I am, and exercise boldly that power which Christ hath given me.

V. 2. think] Or, reckon.

walked according to the flesh] As though I had no other aid and help than that which outwardly I seem to have. Flesh here, that is, his weak condition and state in respect of outward means, he setteth against his spiritual and Apostolical dignity.

V. 3. For though we walk in the flesh] Gr. For walking in. Though we be like unto other frail men, yet we come furnished with that strength which no force of man can match: whether they resist by craft and deceit, or by force and might; because we fight with divine weapons, although we be men and live in respect of this life and the actions thereof according to the manner of other men with a great deal of weaknesse and meanneſſe: yet notwithstanding in our publike office, and chiefly against our adversaries who oppose the Gospel, we are armed with a divine and invincible power to confront all daring, boldnesse; and to beat down all rebellion, and to discover and consound all plots and machinations against the truth. Hereof we have an evident proof in the history of the Acts, in which the miraculous judgements of God are executed by the hands of the Apostles upon the enemies of the truth; as namely, Acts 5. 5, 10. and 13. 11. 1 Tim. 1. 20. Others do understand it of the efficacy of the Apostolical preaching, by denouncing and sealing unto the wicked their condemnation, and making sensible impressions upon their consciences, whereupon there followed many remarkable judgements, Acts 8. 20, 21. and 24. 26. 2 Cor. 13. 3.

are not carnall] That is, such as natural men have recourse unto, and gain authority with all, and do great things. As namely, riches, friends, honour, eloquence, favour of Princes, and the like: we conquer not our enemies by any of these, but rather by the contrary; poverty, weaknesse, infamy, rudeneſſe, and plainneſſe of speech; and foolishnesse in the worlds account. These weapons are made mighty through Gods power, who in nothing more sheweth his glory, than by confounding glory by infamy; nor his power, than by confounding power by weaknesse; nor his wisdomes, than by confounding wisdome by that which in the worlds account is folly. 1 Cor. 1. 26, 27.

but mighty through God] Or, to God. Oecumenius will have us observe how farre the Apostle is from all kind of arrogancy, ὅτι ἐν ἡμῖν δύναμιν ἔχομεν, ἀλλὰ τὰ ὅπλα, he saith not, We are mighty through God, but our weapons are mighty through God, that is, by the virtue and power which God doth adde thereunto, both in working of miracles, Mark 16. 20. and in moving the heart and convincing the conscience by his Spirit, Acts 16. 14. and in punishing those that withstand the Gospel, Acts 13. 11. In the Original it is, δυνατὰ τῷ Θεῷ, mighty to God; that is, to accomplish his will, who is the great Warriour, the Lord of Hosts, that manageth this war for the Church.

V. 5. imaginations] Or, reasonings.

every high thing that] Gr. every height that.

bringing into captivity] An amplification of the spiritual virtue of the weapons above mentioned, which in such sort conquer the enemies of the truth, be they never so crafty and mighty, that it bringeth some of them by repentance unto Christ, and justly punisheth others that are stubbornly obstinate, separating them from others who yeeld obedience to the Gospel.

V. 8. for edification, and not for your destruction] Though the power of the Church proveth destructive unto some, namely, to such as by the censures thereof are not brought to repentance and an humble confession of their sins, and submission to the Governours of the Church; but stand out in their obstinacy: For they are cut off from Christs mystical body, and from the means of grace and the communion of Saints: yet this power was given for edification, and even this tendeth much to the edification of the Church, that all scandals be removed, and those persons severed from the Congregation, who would otherwise infect it with heresie, schisme, or scandalous conversation.

V. 10. his bodily presence is weak] Gr. the presence of his body is weak.

V. 11. think this] Or, make account.

V. 12. For we dare not make our selves of the number] Being constrained to reſell the foolish brags of the false apostles, he professeth that they are able to do nothing answerable to their great brags; but that they arrogated falsely to themselves those things which they neither did, nor could do: and as for himself, though he might boast of excellent things, yet he will not passe the bounds which God hath measured him out; according whereunto he came even unto them in preaching the Gospel of Christ; and trusteth that he shall go farther when they have so profited that he shall not need to tarry any longer amongst them to instruct them.

measuring themselves by themselves] Gr. in. They contemn others, and measure all their actions by the line which they have drawn to themselves.

amongst] Gr. with, or, to.

are not wise] Or, understand not.

V. 13. without our measure] Though the whole world were the Apostles Dioceſſes, and they had commission to preach to all nations; yet they took their journeys into several parts, where God chalked them out the way, and they were careful as not to interrupt or hinder one another, so neither to enter upon one anothers labours: on the contrary, the false apostles ranging wheresoever they list wrought upon advantage, and arrogated to themselves the conversion of those countreys, where the true Apostles had before planted the faith.

rule] Or, line.

V. 15. of other mens labours] Gr. in.

enlarged by you] Or, magnified in you.

V. 16. not to boast in another mans line] Or, rule. A metaphor taken from builders, who stretch their line out where they mean to build; and the Apostles meaning is, that he would not intrude into any other mans work; nor desire to sow the seed of the word in those Regions and Countreys which other men had prepared and husbanded with the preaching of the Gospel.

V. 17. But, he that glorieth, &c.] See Jer. 9. 24. 1 Cor. 1. 31.

glory in the Lord] He somewhat mitigareth that which he spake of himself, and therewith also prepareth the Corinthians to hear other things of the like kind, professing that he seeketh nothing else but to approve himself to God whose glory he only seeketh.

CHAP. XI.

Vers. 1. IN my folly] Gr. of folly. He granteth that after a sort he may seem to incurre the censure of folly, but he addeth withall, that he doth it against his will for their profit, because he seeth them deceived by certain cunning men through the craft and subtilty of Satan. To commend a mans self, though truly, seems to savour of folly and vain-glory, yet in Saint Pauls case to speak the truth concerning the infallible testimonies of his Apostleship, and to stop the mouths of the false apostles, who traduced his person, and vilified his ministery, with a sweet rhetoricall insinuation and craving pardon, as he doth, was a part of godly wisdome.

bear with me] Or, you do bear with me.

V. 2. with godly jealousie] Gr. the zeal of God. He speaketh as a wooer, yet as one who seeketh them not for himself, but for God.

espoused you to one husband] The Greek word, ἡρμοσάμην, signifieth, either I have fitted and prepared you, or, I have espoused you: and the Apostle seemeth to allude to Hosea 2. 19. the husband is Christ, Matth. 25. 6. the Virgin Bride the Church of Corinth in regard of her faith, yet unspotted: the contract is made in this life, but the marriage celebrated in the life to come, Apoc. 19. 7.

V. 3. through his subtilty] Gr. in.

corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ] As precious liquour is corrupted by mingling it with other water; so is the doctrine of the Gospel, by mingling therewith either Philosophical speculations, or Jewish traditions, wherewith the false Apostles blended it. Chap. 2. 17. Col. 2. 8. 16.

V. 4. preacheth another Jesus] A more perfect doctrine of Jesus Christ. In which words he sheweth that they deceive themselves, if they look to receive of any other man, either a more excellent Gospel, or more excellent gifts of the holy Ghost, than they had received by his ministery: withall in the words, he that cometh, he taxeth the false Apostles, Gal. 1. 8, 9. who came of themselves and were not sent by God.

V. 5. suppose I] Gr. conceive, or reckon that I. Chap. 10. 11.

V. 6. But though] I be rude in speech] Saint Paul lacked not that kinde of eloquence which was meet for an Apostle of Christ, and fit for the Gospel, but he willingly wanted that painted kinde of speech, and affected strains which the false Apostles so much bragg'd of. Though S. Jerome upon the third of the Epistle to the Ephes. noteth certain solecismes, barbarismes, & deficiencies, in Saint Pauls manner of expressing of himself: yet S. Austin in his 4. Book, De Doct. Christ. cap. 7. and S. Chrysostome in his Comments, and the same Jerome, Epist. 61. highly extoll Saint Pauls eloquence, to which few or none ever attained, but this eloquence proceeded not from the study of rhetorick, nor was taught him in the Schools, but given him by the Spirit.

V. 7. Have I committed an offence] Among other aspersions which the false Apostles cast upon Saint Paul, this was one, that he was a poor silly man, getting his living by his handy-craft, and preaching gratis, not entertained by the Church, nor allowed any honourable stipend; whereunto the Apostle answereth, that the Corinthians in this behalf were more beholding to him, that he was content to take any pains for their sakes, and when he lacked, to travel for his living with his own hands in part, and partly also when poverty constrained him, he chose rather to make use of the benevolence of other Churches, that he might not be any wayes burdensome to the Corinthians.

V. 8. I robbed other Churches] It was lawful for Saint Paul to receive a stipend for his labours in the ministery, yet because when he preached at Corinth, he received wages to defray his necessary charge from other poorer Churches, he by a metaphor calleth that a kinde of robbing them, because he received from them that which they could not well spare, and that he ought to have received it rather from the Corinthians, with whom he then resided, and exercised his ministery, and should have had his wants supplyed by them.

V. 9. I was chargeable to no man] Or, I chill'd, or benummed none, or fainted not in any thing. See chap. 12, 13. The word in the Original, κατενάρκησα, as the Greek Scholiast observeth, signifieth a fainting or flacknesse, chilnesse, or benummednesse: and the Apostles meaning is, that though he were in great want, when he preached to them, and was not supplyed by them; yet his zeal was no whit thereby cooled, nor his industry abated, he flagg'd not any way in his ministery, no nor solicited any of the Corinthians to afford him necessary maintenance, nor lay heavy upon them, though their bounty slackned to him.

V. 10. no man shall stop me] Gr. this boasting shall not be stopped in me.

V. 13. deceitful workers] Or, workmen. Who seem to labour in the Lords vineyard, but indeed trifle out the time, and rather do hurt than good. Or, he calleth them deceitful, because whatsoever mask of zeal they put upon them, as if they sought nothing but Gods glory, yet indeed they sought their own gain and wrought upon advantage.

transforming themselves into] Gr. transfigured into.

V. 14. transformed] Or, transfigured.

an angel of light] A good and holy one, partaking of the brightnesse of the celestial glory, living and dwelling in the same, whereas the evil angels are confined to everlasting darknesse, Col. 1. 13. 2 Pet. 2. 4. Jude 6. Now Satan may be said to transform himself to an angel of light, either when he assumes unto himself a light-some body, as if he were an angel of heaven, or when he suggesteth things that seem to favour of piety, zeal, and holinesse, as if the motion proceeded from an holy and blessed angel: whereas those things which he suggesteth, as he suggesteth them, tend indeed and truly to the dishonour of God, and the ruine of their souls.

V. 15. transformed] Gr. transfigured.

V. 16. receive me] Or, suffer.

V. 17. I speak it not after the Lord] Whatsoever Saint Paul wrote in his Epistles, he wrote by divine inspiration, yet when he delivereth that for which he hath no expresse commandement from God, he saith, he speaketh by permission, and not by command, 1 Cor. 7. 6. and verse 12. to the rest speak I, not the Lord] and so in this place, because the Spirit of God in Scripture no where adviseth to commend our selves, or glory of our gifts, but the contrary rather; he saith, he speaketh not this according to the Lord, but as it were by way of folly, not by way of folly indeed, but as it were foolishly: take the words as they sound by themselves, they seem to favour of folly and vain-glory, but consider upon what occasion they are spoken, and to what end, and what profitable truth is contained in them, and so they favour of nothing lesse than folly.

confident of boasting] Or, ground of my boasting. See chap. 9. 4.

V. 20. bring you into bondage] Here he describeth the insolent carriage of the false apostles, and toucheth also upon the Corinthians themselves, who perswading themselves that they were very wise men, did not mark in the mean season, how their new Teachers abused their simplicity for advantage.

V. 21. I speak foolishly] Gr. in foolishnesse.

V. 22. so am I] See Phil. 3. 5.

V. 23. I am more] Paul being honourable indeed, not onely defendeth his ministery openly, but magnifieth it also: not for his own sake, but because they wounded the Gospel through his sides, and by the vilifying of his person and office, he saw his doctrine come into hazard.

in deaths oft] In the pangs and sorrows of death, or in danger of present death.

V. 24. fourty stripes save one] The Apostle alludeth to the 25. of Deuteronomie v. 3. But then it may be demanded, why in scourging Saint Paul, they abated one lash, and gave him but 39. stripes. Maimonides Ricinensis saith, that the Jews inflicted 39. stripes, with a reference to the curses mentioned in the Law, which were precisely 39. Others conceive that out of some pity, and that they might be sure to keep within some compasse, and the number of stripes not exceed: but sure I am, such things were really represented unto me. Or, the words may carry also this sense, whether I was caught up into heaven with body and soul together, or with the soul onely, is unknown to me. Aquin. and other Schoolmen argue, that Saint Paul was onely in an extasie, and for a time besides himself, and that his soul was not actually severed from his body, for then he should have been dead, and when afterwards he came to himself, raised from the dead. But neither will this follow (for according to the opinion of Philosophers, and some Divines also, who distinguish the Spirit, or reasonable soul, from the vegetative and sensitive, the reasonable soul of Saint Paul might have been actually severed from his body for a time, and yet he not dead: his sensitive soul remaining still in his body) nor can any man without presumption take upon him to determine that which the Apostle himself could not resolve, such a determination how probable soever it may seem. S. Austine in his 12. book De Gen. ad lit. cap. 3. & lib. de pec. Orig. cap. 23. deservedly censureth for impudent and rash.

caught up to the third heaven] That is, into the Empyreal heaven, the heaven of heavens, or seat of the blessed; It is called the third heaven, because the Scriptures speak of a three-fold heaven; the Aerial heaven, in which the fowls flying are called fowls of heaven, Matth. 6. 26. The second, the Sidereal, in which the lights are, called Stars of heaven, Gen. 15. 5. The third, the uppermost of all, the Empyreal, in which the Angels residing are called the Angels of heaven, Mat. 24. 36.

V. 3. knew] Or, know.

V. 4. caught up into Paradise] The Rabbins distinguish Paradise from heaven, affirming Paradise to be the receptacle or place of abode for souls, after the separation from the body, but heaven the place where after the day of judgment the bodies and soules of the righteous shall everlastingly dwell. But neither can any such distinction be proved out of Scripture, nor if it could, can Paradise be taken for in this place; for it is evident by comparing this verse with the second, that the same place is meant by Paradise and heaven. If there lye any mystery in the varying of the word, and putting Paradise for heaven, it seems to be this, that the Apostle in this fourth verse intimates, that in this rapture, besides the contemplation of Celestiall mysteries, he felt unspeakable delight and pleasure, like to, or exceeding that which Adam took in the terrestriall Paradise.

unspeakable words] The Greek ἄῤῥητα, signifieth words not uttered, or, not to be uttered; because either they transcend mans capacity in this life, or that Saint Paul was forbidden to utter them, they being revealed to him in particular, to strengthen him against all the difficulties he was to encounter withall in his Ministery, and not for the publike use of the Church; for otherwise Paul hath faithfully revealed the whole counsell of GOD to the Church concerning mans salvation. visions and revelations] Some distinguish visions from revelations, after this manner: a vision, say they, is when something is supernaturally represented to the sight, whereof yet the party knoweth not the meaning and signification: such was the vision of Pharoah and Nebuchadonosor: a revelation is, when something is supernaturally represented to the sight, and the meaning and signification thereof is made known to the party, who hath such a vision, and such were the visions of the Prophets. But because it is not probable that S. Paul had any vision, but withall Christ revealed unto him what that vision meant, and imported: Others with more probability distinguish visions from revelations, that visions may be without an extasie, as when the women saw the Angels at the Sepulchre they were affrighted, yet not in an extasie; but revelations, such as S. Paul here speaketh of, were apparitions in an extasie, such as was that of Peter in the Acts 10. 17. and S. John's, Apoc. 1. 10.

V. 2. I knew a man in Christ] Or, know. Either the meaning is, I speak this in Christ, that is, be it spoken without vain-glory; for I seek nothing but Christ Jesus onely: or I knew a man in Christ, that is, a Christian and believer, a man even my self, who for all that will not be accounted otherwise of, than a man, no God, no Angel: thus he speaketh of himself in a third person, in token of his humility, as if it were a matter that befell him without himself. The words in Christ may also carry the form of an oath, as Rom. 9. 1. and so in Christ, is all one, as if he had said by Christ.

whether in the body, &c.] Whether this was brought to passe by God, framing in my soul some representation of those heavenly things without any actual separation of the soul from the body; or whether my soul was separated a while really from the body, and transported into heaven to contemplate there these marvellous things I know not; but sure I am, such things were really represented unto me. Or, the words may carry also this sense, whether I was caught up into heaven with body and soul together, or with the soul onely, is unknown to me. *Aquin. and other Schoolmen argue, that Saint Paul was onely in an extasie, and for a time besides himself, and that his soul was not actually severed from his body, for then he should have been dead, and when afterwards he came to himself, raised from the dead. But neither will this follow (for according to the opinion of Philosophers, and some Divines also, who distinguish the Spirit, or reasonable soul, from the vegetative and sensitive, the reasonable soul of Saint Paul might have been actually severed from his body for a time, and yet he not dead: his sensitive soul remaining still in his body) nor can any man without presumption take upon him to determine that which the Apostle himself could not resolve, such a determination how probable soever it may seem. thorn in the flesh, &c.] Or, sharp stake, or, splinter. See Ezek. 28. 24. Some by this thorn in the flesh understand concupiscence, but neither will the words following, added by the Apostle by way of explication, viz. the messenger of Satan to buffet me, well agree to concupiscence; neither is it likely that Saint Paul who spent all his time in travel or toilsome labour, watching and fasting, should be troubled with fleshly lusts, and if he had been, no doubt he would have used that remedy which he prescribed to others, affected with the like malady, 1 Cor. 7. 9. Others therefore understand by it, Alexander the Coppersmith, or some other Instrument of Satan, who used the Apostle reproachfully, and was as a thorn in his side; or Satan himself, who, through Gods permission, had power to punish the Apostle in his body, as he did Job, and Saint Jerome, and other Saints, if we may beleeve Ecclesiastical stories. But the remedy being spiritual, mentioned verse 9. it is not probable that the malady was corporal. It should seem therefore, that because the Apostle was exalted by Visions and Angelical apparitions, it pleased God to humble him in the like kind, by suffering Satan, transforming himself into an Angel of light, to set upon the Apostle in such a furious manner, laying so hard both at his faith and his sincerity, that the Apostle was much disheartned thereby. This fearful assaulting and reproaching him to his face, was a kind of brow-beating or buffeting him; and because it somewhat hindered him for a while in the chearful prosecuting of his businesse, it is not unfitly compared to a thorn in the foot, with which a man cannot go but lamely, and with very great pain. In which regard the Apostle earnestly beseought God that this Angelus Satan, or Satanæ, this evil and malignant Angel might depart from him; which his request though God granted not, yet at the third asking he vouchsafed him this gracious answer, That though he would not remove this wicked Angel suddenly from him, yet he would so fortifie the Apostle with his grace against this wicked Fiend, that hee should get the victory over him.

V. 9. My grace is sufficient for thee] That is, my grace shall so strengthen thee in all assaults of temptation, that thou shalt be more than a Conquerour through me: or, content thy self with my favour and love, which neither by this nor any other afflictions is taken away or impaired; therefore faithfully indure this exercise of this faith; for the more thou or any of the faithfull are assaulted, the more grace doe I confer upon you, to conquer all temptations.

my strength is made perfect in weaknesse] The strength or vitue of God can be neither increased nor diminished, yet then is it said to be perfected, when it manifesteth it self to the full, and demonstrateth that nothing can overcome or conquer it. The greater infirmities men have, the greater of God shewe:h it self the stronger and perfecter in supporting them in all assaults of temptation.

glory in mine infirmities] He concludeth, that he will onely set his crosses and afflictions against the vain brags of the false Apostles, and therewith also excuseth himself, for that by their importunity he was constrained to speak so much of those things as he did; to wit, because that of his Apostleship were contemned, his doctrine must needs fall to the ground.

may rest upon me] Or, dwell. The Greek word ἐπισκήνωσῃ, signifieth to cover, or compasse me as a tent, whereby men doe shelter themselves from the scorching of the Sun, and other injuries of the ayr, so the meaning is, that the power of Christ may be my onely safety and protection.

V. 10. I take pleasure in infirmities] Gr. I think, or, like well of infirmities. I doe not onely bear them patiently, but also take great comfort in them.

when I am weak, then am I strong] When I am weak in my self, I am strong in Christ; or, when I am weak in the flesh, I am strong in the spirit. When he was cast in prison, and his feet made fast in the stocks, he by his prayer caused the foundation of the prison to be shaken; when after he had suffered shipwrack, and was cast into a barbarous Island, and there a Viper light upon his finger, and the Islanders gave him for a gone man, he not onely shook off the Viper without hurt, but also got great favour of the chief man in the Island, by curing his Father of a fever and bloudy flux; and when he was forbought before Nero, and all forsook him, yet even there (being a forlorn prisoner) he got the better of his potent adversaries, and was delivered out of the mouth of the Lion. Thus God in his greatest infirmities and distresses strengthened and dellvered him, that the History of his life made good that which he here affirmeth of himself.

V. 11. for I ought to have been commended of you] You ought to have maintained the authority of my ministery, and given a testimony to the truth, how innocently I and my fellows carryed our selves among you. And here again he appealeth to the consciences of the Corinthians, and maketh them witnesses of those things, whereby God had sealed his Apostleship among them; and again he declareth by certain arguments, how far he is from all coveroufneſs, and how tenderly and affectionately he loveth them in Christ.

for in nothing am I behind the very chiefest Apostles] Gr. was I inferiour to thee. See Chap.12.6.

V. 12. the signes of an Apostle] He taketh not the word signs here, as afterwards in this verse, for wonders and mighty deeds, but by signes he meanes demonstrations à signo, evident arguments, whereby it may well appear, that he was indeed an Apostle of Jesus Christ.

V. 13. I my self was not burdensome to you] Or, was not slack, or, failed in any thing towards you. See Chap.11.9.

V. 14. I will not be burdensome to you] Or, slack in any thing towards you.

V. 15. gladly spent and be spent] That is, not onely bestow my pains and my estate, but also my body, and lay down my life for you. Here the Greek Scholiast noteth seven steps or degrees in the Apostles love; the first, he might have received maintenance from them, (Christ so commanding it, that the Ministers of the Gospel should live of the Gospel) yet he would not. The second, he was in want, yet would not be chargable to them any way to releeve him. The third, he preached constantly to them, though they allowed him nothing for his pains. The fourth, he was at great expence with them. The fifth, he not onely gladly bestowed what he had among them, but was willing to be bestowed, and sacrifice his life for them. The sixth, this all he doth for those who did but coldly affect him. The seventh, though they in no way answered him in his love, but as his love still grew hotter to them, theirs grew colder to him, yet he diminished nothing of his love to them, or care for them.

you] Gr. your souls.

V. 19. think you that we excuse our selves] He concludeth, that he writeth not these things unto them, as though he needed to defend himself, for he is guilty of nothing that is laid against him; but because it is behovable for them to doubt nothing of his fidelity, who was their Instructer and Apostle.

V. 20. I shall be found unto you, such as you would not] Having confirmed his authority unto them, he rebuketh them sharply, and threatneth them also like an Apostle of Christ, that he will not spare them hereafter, unlesse they repent, seeing that this is the third time he had warned them.

V. 21. God will humble me] He calleth the inflicting censures upon the Corinthians the abasing of himself, because as their proficiency in Christs School and growth in grace was a great cause of exaltation and glorying to him: so their falling into enormous crimes, and continuing in them without repentance, enforcing him to use his Apostolical power in censuring them, was a great hearts greef unto him, and occasion of much dejection of mind.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſ.1. Coming to you] Gr. Tec. ready to come to you.

In the mouth, &c.] See Deut. 9.15.

V. 2. if I come again I will not spare] He threatneth here that he will make use of his Apostolical power, which was very great and extraordinary; for they not onely inflicted spiritual Censures, but also corporal: Paul strook Bar-jesus with blindnesse, Act. 13. 11. Peter, Ananias and Saphira with death; and as was noted before, those who were delivered by them to Satan, suffered not onely in soul, thereby being terrified in their conscience, but also were often tormented in their body.

V. 3. Since ye seek a proof of Christ] A sharp reprehension; for that while they despise the Apostles admonition, they tempt Christs own patience, and while they contemn Paul as a miserable man, they lay nothing herein against him which is not common to him with Christ. If ye seek a proof of Christs speaking in me, look to your selves, who had all your foundnesse from my Ministery, if ye have any.

V. 4. through weaknesse] Saint Hilary in his ninth book de Trinitate expoundeth this place; through the weakneſse of his flesh, which was subject to all humane infirmities, sinne onely excepted: or touching the vile form of a servant, which he took upon him when he abased himself. To clear which passage, Oecumenius further observeth that the word ἀσθένεια in Saint Paul, is taken in a three-fold sense; sometimes for bodily sickneſse, as 1 Cor.11. 30. sometimes for imbecility and wavering in faith, Rom. 14.1. sometimes for outward perſecutions, temptations, and afflictions, as it is taken in the former Chapter, verſ. 9, 10. and so he takes the word in this place, ἐνδεκάδι γὰρ μεγίστας καὶ κίνδυνον καὶ ὕβρεων. To infirmities painful Christ in his state of humiliation here upon earth was subject, but no wayes to any infirmities that are sinful.

in him] Or, with him.

V. 5. Examine] Or, try.

whether ye be in the faith] He confirmeth that which he spake of God appearing in his ministery; and he gathereth by the mutuall relation between the peoples faith and the Ministers preaching, that they must either reverence his Apostleship, upon whose doctrine their faith is grounded; or they must condemn themselves of infidelity, and must confeſſe themselves not to be of Christs body. Whether ye are in the faith, that is, in the state of faithful Christians; and whether Christ live in you by his Spirit which you received by my Gospel.

V.6. reprobates] Or, unapproved, or, rejected.

V. 7. as reprobates] Or, unapproved, or, rejected. Not reprobates, but as reprobates, nor so simply, but in the opinion of some. In this verse he mitigateth his former sharpneſse, trusting that they will shew themselves towards their faithful Apostles, apt and willing to be taught: adding this moreover, that he passed not for his own same and eſtimation, so he may any way further their salvation, which is the onely mark that he shooteth at.

V. 8. we can do nothing against the truth] Though it be a true axiome, Magna eſt veritas & prevalebit; &, Veritas laborare poteſt, opprimi non poteſt; the truth is most strong, and cannot be subverted: yet it seems the Apostle here understandeth not so much truth of doctrine, as truth of life, sincerity, and true piety. For he threatneth to use his Apostolical power in punishing, which that they might eſcape, he prayeth to God in the seventh verſe, that they might do no evil; which exhortation he bindeth with this reason; For we cannot doe any thing against the truth; that is, if you be innocent and walk in the truth, you need not feare any Anathema, or Church-censure. For the power which the Lord hath given us, is for the supporting of the Church, and not destroying it, to uphold and maintain innocency and righteouſneſse, true Religion and virtue, and suppreſse the contrary.

V. 9. even your perfection] That all things might be in good order amongst you, and the members of the Church restored, which have been shaken and put out of their places.

V. 11. Be perfect] To three principal maladies, of which the Corinthians were sick, ignorance, pusillanimity, and faction, he applyeth three remedies: to the first, growth in grace, and the knowledge of Christ, and a striving to perfection; saying, be ye perfect: to the second, spiritual courage; saying, be of good comfort: to the third, unity: be of one mind, live in peace.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE GALATIANS.

The Argument and Analysis.

After Saint Paul had preached the Gospel to the Galathians, some false Teachers addicted to Judaisme, sought to inveigle them to their Sect, perswading them to be circumcised, and to observe all the Mosaical Rites, without which they affirmed, That they could not be justified or saved: And because this their Doctrine could not conſist with that which the Apostle had delivered, they devocated what they could from his Authority and Ministery, giving it out, That he was a Diſciple of the Apostles, and not of Christ; and that Peter, James, and John, who were the Pillars of the Church forbad not the obſervation of the legal Rites; yea moreover, that Paul himself, who now so much slickteth against circumcision, had formerly circumcised Timothy. Against these corrupters of his Doctrine, and villifiers of his Person and Authority, he was cheefly moved to write this Epiſtle to the Galatians; wherein he proveth, That his calling was immediately from Christ, that he was no way inferiour to the cheef Apoſtles, and that the doctrine which he had delivered, concerning Juſtification by Faith without the works of the Law, was the Truth of God, and firmly grounded upon Scripture.

The parts of this Epiſtle are three:

1. Historical, concerning himself, and the course of his Miniſtery, Chap. 1, 2, unto the 16. verſe.
2. Doctrinal, concerning Juſtification by Faith, and the Abolition of legal Rites and Ceremonies. From Verſe 16. of the 2. Chapter, unto Verſe 14. of the 5. Chapter.
3. Moral, wherein he exhorteth the Galatians to Christian duties; namely, To walk and live in the Spirit, to mildneſse in censuring their Brethren, to charity in bearing one anothers burdens, to bounty to their Teachers, to perſeverance in good works, and rejoycing in the Groſſe of our Lord Jeſus Christ. From Verſe 14. of the 5. Chapter, to the end.

CHAP. I.

Verſ.1. Not of men, neither by man] Or, from men. Not of men: not by the Apostles, as Matthias was made an Apostle; nor by the suffrages of any particular Church, as Barnabas and Silas; nor by any man, that is, any mortal man, or any meer man; but by Christ, God and Man, after his resurrection. This description the Apostle addeth of purpose to maintain his Apostolical calling, and authority, against the slanders of the false Apostles, who gave out that he was not lawfully called to the apostleship. For there are two sorts of lawful callings to the Ministery of the Word: ordinary and extraordinary: the ordinary being indeed of God; but yet by men following therein the order of God, & such is the calling of the ordinary Ministers of the Wordan other calling there is without humane means, of and by God; or the Lord Christ himself; and such was the calling of the Prophets in the Old Testament, and the Apostles in the New. This calling is extraordinary, and ever accompanied with the infallibility, or never-erring in doctrine, 2 Pet. 1.21. Joh. 16.13. Now that the Apostle Paul had such an extraordinary calling is clearly proved, and the manner thereof described, Act. 9.

but by Jesus Christ] Christ no doubt is man, but he is God also, and head of the Church, and in this respect exempted out of the ordinary number of men: the Apostles meaning is, that no meer man, whosoever was the Author, means, or instrument of his calling to be an Apostle; and therefore it is not onely lawful, but altogether divine and equal to that of the rest of the Apostles; which the Apostle urgeth, to stop the mouthes of the false Apostles that villified his Ministery in comparison of others, to the end that they might introduce the neceſſity of the Mosaical ceremonies, which the Apostles made use of among the Jewish novices, but Paul had quite eastheered amongst the Gentiles.

V. 4. who gave himself for our sins] Gave himself to death, to expiate our sins by his most precious bloud.

deliver us from] Gr. take us out.

present evil world] Out of that most corrupt state which is without Christ, Joh. 17.15.

V. 5. for ever and ever] Gr. for, or, to worlds of worlds.

V. 6. removed] He useth the passive voyce to cast the fault upon the false Apostles, and the Prefent Tence, μετατίθεσθε, to give them to understand, that it was not already done, but in doing.

from him that called you] Either from God, who of his great mercy called you inwardly to the knowledge of his free grace in Christ, or from me who called you outwardly by the preaching of the Gospel to the grace of Christ.

V. 7. perverte the Gospel of Christ] For there is nothing more contrary to free justification by faith, which is the summe and main scope of the Gospel, than to maintain justification by the Mosaicall rites, or the works of the Law.

V. 8. though we, or an Angel from heaven] Or, if we. This is an impoſſible caſe, but the Apostle by propounding it, most confidently averreth the certainty of the curse that shall come upon those that preach any other Gospel. See the like form, Joh. 8. 55. If I should say I know him not, I shall be a lyar; and 1 Cor. 13.1,2,3.

other Gospel unto you, &c.] Adding of his own invention any thing unto the substance of the doctrine, any article of faith or sacrament; which was the practice of the false Apostles; teaching, that we must be justified, not by faith alone, but by Mosaical rites also, and the works of the law. And it is worthy the obſerving, that the Apostle saith not, If we or an Angel from heaven preach unto you any Gospel contrary to that which we have preached; but, παρ' ὃ, τὸ ὅσον ἐπὶτῷ μικρῷ, beside that, or other than that we have preached: whereby he insinuates, saith Chryſoſtome and Oecumenius, that it is an accurſed thing to make any the least addition to the doctrine of the Gospel, Rev. 22.19.

V. 9. than that] Gr. beside that.

V. 10. perſwade men, or God] Or, make faith to men; or, seek to entear our selves to men; or, plead my cauſe before men. That is, doe I perſwade you to obey men, or God? or, do I study to pleaſe, or seek to approve my self and my ministery to men, or to God? for so the word πείθω sometimes signifieth, as in that proverbial verſe, διὸρα. Θεὸς πείθει, διὸρα. Φίλιππος βασιλέας for if I yet pleaſed men] If I should yet seek to pleaſe men, as I did when I was zealous of the traditions of my fathers, and perſecuted the Church of God extremely, to gain the more favour of mine own Nation, I should not be a true servant of Christ, but dissemble with God and the world.

V. 12. revelation of Jeſus Christ] Whether this revelation was when he journied to Damaſcus, and was smitten to the ground, and there shone round about him a light from heaven, and Christ spake unto him, Act. 9.5. as Saint Jerome conceiveth; or when he was rapt up in Paradiſe, 2 Cor. 12.4. as Aquinas imagineth, it cannot be certainly defined; onely this is certain, that Saint Paul had the knowledge of the Gospel by immediate revelation from Christ.

traditions of my fathers] Either he meaneth the Phariſaical traditions, for he was a Phariſee, and the son of a Phariſee. Or, he may understand by traditions such ordinances as his fathers received from God himself; but with this erroneous opinion of the Phariſees, that he might be juſtified before God for those legall observations. This Text seemeth to be parallel to Phil. 3. 6. concerning zeal, perſecuting the Church, touching the righteouſneſſe which is in the Law, blameleſſe.

V. 15. ſeparated me from my mothers womb] He speaketh of Gods everlasting predestination, whereby he appointed him to be an Apostle, whereof he maketh three degrees; The everlasting counsel of God, his appointing from his Mothers wombe, and his actual calling. See Rom. 1.1.

V. 16. I might preach him, &c.] See Epheſ. 3.8.

I conferred not with fleſh and bloud] Or, conſulted. This may seem contrary to that which himself saith, Chap. 2.2. I communicated the Gospel with them at Jeruſalem. But the reconciliation is easie; here he denyeth that he conſulted with fleſh and bloud, that is, with any man living, namely, whether he were rightly instructed in the Gospel, or whether he ought to preach it; for of this he neither did nor could make queſtion after he received the Gospel by the immediate revelation of Christ: but there he affirmeth, that he communicated with the Apostles at Jeruſalem, not to learn any thing from them, for that he expreſly denies Verſe 6. but to receive a teſtimony from them of his conſent with them in the doctrine he had preached in Arabia and Syria; for he had preached the Gospel before he conferred with them.

V. 18. I went up] Or, I returned.

to see Peter] Gr. Tec. to enquire of Cephas. The Greek word ἱστορῆσαι, ſignifieth more than to see or viſite, namely, as Heſychius explaines the word, πυθέσθαι ἀκριβῶς, to enquire into, to take ſpecial notice of, and acquaint himſelf with Peter and his proceedings.

V. 19. other of the Apoſtles ſaw I none] Because it might be objected, that indeed he was called of Christ in the way, but afterwards was instructed by the Apostles and others, and so was not of the number of them that were to be credited without exception: Saint Paul answereth, that he began straighway after his calling, to preach the Gospel at Damaſcus, and in Arabia, and was not from that time at Jeruſalem, but onely fifteen days, where he saw onely Peter and James; and after he began to teach in Syria and Cilicia, with the consent and approbation of the Churches of the Jews, who knew him onely by name, so far off was it that he was there instructed by them.

V. 22. And was] Or, But was.

V. 24. And they glorified God in me] They glorified Christ who spake in me; or they glorified God for me, they bleſſed his Name for my conversion; or as the Greek Scholiaſt, they praiſed God in me: not this or that Teacher, but God himſelf, who alone was my Teacher.

CHAP. II.

Vers. 2. I went up by revelation] Gr. according to revelation. He was not sent for by the Apostles to Jerusalem, there to give an account of his preaching; but the Spirit by special revelation moved him, that by conferring with the Apostles themselves, and knowing their resolution in the main point then in difference concerning the observation of legal Rites, he might stop the mouthes of the false Apostles, who gave out that he taught divers doctrines from them, and consequently that the faithful were rather to follow them than him, they being more, and he but one; they converfing with Christ himself, and called to the Apostleship before his Ascension, Saint Paul after.

communicated unto] Gr. consulted with. Chap. 1. 16.

had run in vain] By the metaphor of running, he setteth forth his alacrity, earnestness and diligence; like to theirs who prove masteries, and run in a race for a rich prize. (1 Cor. 9. 26. 2 Tim. 4. 7.) Now in those that run in a race, two things are considerable, their labour and swiftness in running, and the end for which they run; to wit, the gaining the prize; which if they miss, they run in vain. This prize he accounted the fruit of his preaching, which had been little or none among the Jews, who were zealous of the Mosaical Rites, if by his communicating with the chief Apostles he had not taken away that rub which was cast in his way, that his preaching and practice was dissonant from theirs: although the Apostle nothing doubted of the certainty of his doctrine, yet because there were certain reports cast abroad of him, that he was of another opinion than the rest of the Apostles were, which thing might have hindered the course of his Ministery, and in some places quite stop'd it, he took this journey to Jerusalem, to remove that obstacle.

V. 4. which we have in Christ Jesus] Freedom from the curse of the moral Law, and the burden of the ceremonial, which we have in Christ, that is, in Christianity, or purchased by Christ, who in the fulness of time was made of a woman, and made under the Law; to redeem them that are under the Law, Gal. 4. 4. Chap. 5. 1.

V. 5. gave place, &c.] We gave no way to those crafty companions, who by deceit and counterfeit holiness crept in among the faithful, who came to espie our liberty, that thereby they might ensnare and enthral us: to these we gave no respit not for an hour, to lay their traps for us, nor in any thing yeelded unto them, to betray our Christian liberty.

with you] Gr. to.

God accepteth no mans person] See Rom. 2. 12.

seemed] to be somewhat] Gr. are of reputation.

V. 7. The Gospel of the uncircumcision was committed unto me] That is, I had commission to preach to the Gentiles who were uncircumcised, as Peter to the Jews: which commissions were not yet so restrictive, but that Saint Peter preached to the Gentiles, and Saint Paul to the Jews, as it may be clearly proved out of the Acts of the Apostles; but the Gospel of circumcision is said here to be committed to Saint Peter, and of uncircumcision unto Paul; because Peter was first and chiefly sent to preach to the Jews, and Saint Paul to the Gentiles, and God most blessed Saint Peters labour among the Jews, and Saint Pauls among the Gentiles.

V. 8. was mighty in me towards the Gentiles] Gr. wrought in me. Word for word, wrought effectually: and this efficacy shewed it self in three things especially; the great number of converts, the power of miracles, and the extraordinary gift of the holy Ghost bestowed upon the faithful by the means of his ministery.

V. 9. who seemed to be pillars] Or, were counted. Whom alone, and onely these men counted for pillars of the Church, to support it, and the doctrine of faith, by whose authority if my preaching were not upheld, it must fall to ground. Oecumenius out of Eusebius his first book of Ecclesiastical Story, and Clemens Alexandrinus writeth, that this Cephas mentioned with James and John, was not Peter the Apostle, but one of the 70 disciples of that name: but S. Jerome in his Comment. in epist. and Greg. Nom. 18. upon Ezekiel refute this opinion, and it may easily be disproved out of this Text, for it is not likely that the Apostle would have ranked any of the 70. disciples with James and John, two of the chief Apostles and pillars of the Church; neither would the false Apostles have opposed the authority of one of the 70 disciples against Saint Paul, whom they could not deny to be an Apostle. Besides, to take away all ambiguity, the Apostle verse 11. calleth him Peter.

V. 10. Should remember the poor] That is, to make collections in the Churches of the Gentiles for the Saints of Jerusalem; which Saint Paul did most willingly and effectually, as appears out of the 1 Cor. 16. & 2 Cor. 8, 9.

forward to do] Gr. diligent, or careful.

V. 11. Peter] Gr. Tec. Cephas.

I withstood him to the face, because he was to be blamed] Gr. condemned. Some interpret κατὰ πρόσωπον, in outward appearance and in shew: for they conceive that Peter and Paul were not in earnest, but the one reproved the other before the multitude, and the other replied not at all though he could justly, that by the reproof of the one, and silence of the other, both Jews and Gentiles there present, might learn that the Judaical rites were not to be eagerly retained, but by degrees to be relinquished, and as it were honourably to be interred; This was the opinion of S. Jerome (who is as hot with S. Austine about this quarrel of the Apostles, or rather hotter than the Apostles themselves) And of the Greek Fathers, whom he alleageth for himself. Their chief reason was this, that if Saint Paul had reproved Peter in earnest for his complying at this time with the Jews, he had reproved him for that of which himself was guilty. For he as he professeth, that to the Jews he became a Jew, that he might win the Jews, so by the advice of James and the Elders, Acts 21. 24. he shaved his head, and purified himself with four other men that had a vow on them. But S. Austine affirmeth most truly, that Saint Paul reproved Saint Peter in earnest. For the Text saith, which is part of the Canonical Scripture, and therefore infallible, that Saint Peter was faulty and to be blamed. His fault was, as is afterwards expressed, dissimulation, and halting between two opinions; before the Jews came from James, he freely conversed with the Gentiles, and did eat of meats prohibited by the Law of Moses: but after these came, for fear of displeasing them, in the lawful use of his Christian liberty, he withdraweth himself from them, and giveth a great scandal to the Gentiles, and a blow to Saint Pauls preaching, who had taught that those legal ceremonies were now abolished, and all Christians freed from that yoke. What Saint Paul did was of another nature by the advice of James, to refute a false slander cast upon him, when there was no Gentiles by, to be scandalized thereat.

V. 13. dissembled likewise with him] Gr. joyned in hypocrisie with.

dissimulation] Gr. hypocrisie.

V. 14. walked not uprightly] Gr. with a right foot. Word for word, the Original signifieth, to walk with a right foot, which he opposeth to halting and dissembling.

truth of the gospel] He calleth the truth of the Gospel, both the sincere doctrine it self, and also the use of the same, which we call practice.

If thou, being a Jew, livest after the manner of Gentiles] He meaneth not that Saint Peter lived dissolutely after the manner of the Gentiles, as those whom the zealous Father reprehending saith, Gentes agimus sub nomine christi: But that like the Converts among the Gentiles, he used his Christian liberty, in eating all sorts of meats, without putting a difference between clean and unclean.

why compellest thou the Gentiles] Gr. Tec. how is it thou compellest.

V. 15. not sinners of the Gentiles] Sinners estranged from the covenant of grace, destitute of the Rule of the Law, men in a deplorate and desperate estate, such as the Jews accounted all the Gentiles and Paynims to be in, Ephes. 2. 12. and yet themselves could not be justified by the Law, which they of all other might have made the least claim unto.

V. 16. by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified] See Rom. 3. 20.

V. 17. But if while we seek to be justified] Before he goeth any further, he meeteth with their objection who abhorred the doctrine of free justification by faith; because, say they, men are by this means withdrawn from the study of good works, and in this sort they framed their objection; If sinners should be justified through Christ by faith without the law, Christ should seem to approve sinners, and as it were exhort them thereunto by his ministery? Paul answereth, that this consequence is false, because Christ destroyeth sin in all true beleevers. For therefore, faith he, do men flee unto Christ through the terrour and fear of the law, that being quit from the curse of the law, they may be saved by him, and that he together with his justifying them, beginneth in them by little and little that strength and power of his, which destroyeth sin, to the end, that the old man being abolished by the virtue of Christs death, he may live in them, and they may consecrate themselves to God: therefore if any man give himself to sin after he hath received the Gospel, let him not accuse Christ, nor the Gospel, but himself, for that he destroyeth the work of God in himself.

by Christ] Gr. in. See Rom. 3. 4.

V. 18. destroyed] Gr. have dissolved.

V. 19. through the law am dead] Or, by. Gr. was. The law which terrifieth the conscience, bringeth us to Christ, and he onely causeth us to die to the law. Indeed, because that by making us righteous, he taketh away from us the terrour of conscience, and by sanctifying us, causeth a through-mortifying of lust in us; that it cannot take such occasion to sin by the restraint which the law maketh. See Rom. 7. 10, 11.

V. 20. I now live in the flesh] By living in the flesh, he understandeth not walking according to the flesh, or living in a carnal gave himself for me] What he speaketh of himself belongeth to all true beleevers; but he applieth the benefit of Christs passion to himself in particular, as well to teach us special faith and affiance in Christ, as to enflame our love to him, to whom we are as much indebted, as if he had shed his bloud for us alone and in particular.

V. 21. dead in vain] Although there be many uses and benefits of Christs death, besides our justification; yet the Apostles argument is very strong, that there would have been no necessity for our salvation that Christ should have died, and by his bloud expiated our sins, if men might have been justified by the works of the law, either ceremonial or moral.

CHAP. III.

Vers. 1. Who hath bewitched you] The word in the Original, ἐβάσκανε, is derived, ἀπὸ τῆς φάσκειν κακὸν, burning with the eye, signifying a kind of witchcraft practised upon the eyes of young children and cattel, according to that of the Poet; Nescio quis teneros oculus mihi fascinat agnos: and the meaning of the Apostle is, that as those witches, who cast venemous beams out of their eyes, mischief children and sucklings; so those false teachers poysoned the tender faith of the Galatians: or as the devil by those witches put out the eyes of the body, so the evil spirit by those false teachers his instruments, put out the eyes of their minde; ita quomodo tenera ætas nocere dicitur fascino, sic etiam Galatæ in christi fide nuper nati & nutriti latte veluti quodam fascinante sint vociti, & stomacho fidei nauseantes Spiritus sancti fidem evomuerint.

crucified among you] Christ was laid before you so notably and so plainly, that you had his lively image as it were represented before your eyes, as if he had been crucified in your sight: or Christ was crucified among you, that is, suffered much in his members persecuted among you. In which sense Christ speaking to S. Paul said; Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? Act. 9. 5, 6. and to S. Peter, a little before his death, I go again to Rome to be crucified, as we read in the Ecclesiastical Stories.

V. 2. received ye the Spirit] Those spiritual graces and gifts, which were a seal as it were to the Galatians, that the Gospel that was preached unto them was true. But here it may be objected, that the Galatians received not the Spirit by faith, but faith by the Spirit. For faith is the gift of God, and a special work of the Spirit in the heart. Hereunto it may be answered, that either the Apostle meaneth by the Spirit, the extraordinary gifts of the Spirit, as the gift of tongues, and healing, which the Galatians received by Pauls preaching the Christian faith among them; or else he meaneth by the Spirit, the spirit of comfort, and sanctification, which goeth not before, but followeth true faith; for being justified by faith we have peace with God, and feel the spirit of comfort within us.

of faith] That is, the word and doctrine of faith, Rom. 10. 8.

V. 3. perfect by the flesh] By the flesh, he meaneth the ceremonies of the law, against which he setteth the Spirit, that is, the spiritual working of the Gospel. Heb. 7. 16. & 9. 10.

V. 4. so many] Or, so great.

in vain] εἰκῆ, That is, without any profit; So S. Basil useth the phrase, Hom. adv. Heb. ὦ πόσας νύκτας εἰκῆ ἠγρυπνήσατε, O how many nights have you watched, how many days have you spent unprofitably?

V. 6. Even as Abraham beleeved God] See Gen. 15. 6. accounted to him] Or, imputed.

for righteousness] Gr. to.

V. 8. In thee shall all nations be blessed] See Gen. 12. 3.

V. 9. with faithful Abraham] Not by faithful Abraham: to give us to understand, that the blessing cometh not from Abraham, but from him by whom Abraham and all his posterity is blessed.

V. 10. are of the works of the law] They who are of the works of the law, that is, they which stand upon the works of the law for their justification, or which value their righteousness by the performance of the law are accursed, therefore they are blessed which are of faith, that is, they who have righteousness by faith.

Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things] See Deut. 27. 26.

V. 11. The just shall live by faith] See Hab. 2. 4. Rom. 1. 17. Heb. 10. 38.

The man that, &c.] See Levit. 18. 5.

V. 12. the law is not of faith] The Law promiseth life to all that keep it, and therefore if it be kept it justifieth and giveth life; but the Scripture attributing righteousness and life to faith, taketh it from the Law, seeing faith justifieth by imputation of anothers righteousness, and the law by the performing of the work in our own person.

V. 13. hath redeemed us from the curse of the law] In these words he preventeth an objection, How can they be blessed whom the Law pronounceth to be accursed? because Christ sustaineth the curse which the Law laid upon us, that we might be quit from it.

Cursed is every one, &c.] See Deut. 21. 23.

V. 15. covenant] Or, testament.

V. 16. And to seeds, as of many; but as of one] The word seed is sometimes taken for the whole posterity, as Gen. 15. 18. Sometimes for a particular person descended from such an one, as Gen. 4. 25. and 21. 13. and here the Apostle sheweth that it must be taken in the second sense, teaching that Christ is that seed, as it is afterwards expounded.

which is christ] That is, all his mystical body, viz. the whole Church, having all their life and being from him, and also participating of the glory of his name; all which are as one feed consisting of Jews and Gentiles, 1 Cor. 12. 12. For it is the scope of the Apostle to prove the assurance of eternal life to all beleevers for Christs sake, according unto the promise made unto Abraham.

V. 17. which was four hundred and thirty years after] These years are to be reckoned from the promise first made to Abraham, which fell upon the 75. year of his age.

V. 19. Wherefore then] serveth the Law] If the inheritance be not by the law, then why was the law given after the promise was made? the Apostle answereth, to reprove and convince men of sin, and so to teach them to look unto Christ in whom at length that promise of saving all people together should be fulfilled, and not that the law was given to justifie men.

because of transgressions] To make them known, Rom. 3. 20. & 7. 7. and to convince men thereof; to discover the hainousness of sin, and to seal the condemnation thereof; thus drive men to seek for the remedy of grace in the promised Messiah.

till thy seed should come] This use of the servile manuduction was to last during the Churches infancy, and prone els to fall into sin by infirmity, or ignorance; but it was to be laid by and surcease at the coming of Christ into the flesh, who collecting into one and the same body the whole Church of Jews and Gentiles together, supplying the same with the abundant graces of the Spirit in knowledge and virtue, hath made the same to be effectually acknowledged the blessed seed, or progeny of the children of God, vers. 26. wholly set and bent to love and obey him by the Spirit of adoption and grace, and not by the spirit of terrour as of old, Rom. 8. 15.

ordained by angels] God would shew in the very outward manner which he observed in giving the law, that thereby there was no access for man to his grace for obtaining life and the inheritance; and therefore he appeared there in such an extremity of terrour, that upon the peoples request which was not able to endure those terrours, it was needful that Moses came between, who was as the mediatour of that communication, Exod. 20. 19. Heb. 12. 19. being therein the type of Christ the onely Mediatour of propitiation, by whom we have access to God with confidence. Now although there is no mention made of the ministery of Angels by Moses in giving the Law, yet may it well be gathered from divers other Texts of Scriptures, as Act. 7. 53. Heb. 2. 2.

in the hand of a Mediatour] Some by this Mediatour understand Moses, whom God did use as an interpreter between himself and the people in giving the Law: others understand Christ himself by whom God led the people of Israel out of Egypt through the wilderness, and spake to Moses on Mount Sinai, Act. 7. 38. 1 Tim. 2. 5.

V. 20. Now a mediatour is not a mediatour of one] Either the meaning is, a Mediatour is not a Mediatour of one party, but betwixt two, and those disagreeing; this sheweth that at the giving of the Law there was a difference and a distance between God and us, which difference grew from this, that we were transgressours of the Law: or the meaning is, a Mediatour is not a Mediatour of one Covenant onely, but as well of the Covenant of grace as of the Covenant of works.

but God is one] In these words he taketh away an objection, lest any man might say, that sometimes by consent of the parties which have made a Covenant, something is added to the Covenant; or the former Covenants are broken; this, saith the Apostle, cometh not to pass in God, who is always one and the self same, and like to himself, and hath the same scope and end in both his Covenants; for Christ is the end of the Law: or, that God is still the same in holding a distance between himself and transgressours, if they seek to be justified by the Law.

V. 22. all under sin] See Rom. 3. 9.

V. 24. Wherefore the law was our school-master] A means and instrument to rule and regulate our minds and actions agreeable to the infancy of the Church with a great deal of austerity. The Jews under the law here are compared to children, and the faithful under the Gospel to men of riper years that need no school-master; the school-master is the Law, both Moral and Ceremonial. For the Moral Law leadeth unto Christ by convincing us of sin, and denouncing the curse curse against it, shewing us thereby that if we desire to escape that curse we must flie to Christ for refuge, who hath redeemed us both from sin and curse; and the Ceremonial Law also brings us unto Christ; because the same not onely convinceth men of sin, but also exhibiteth types and figures of Christ and his benefits: and teacheth that whatsoever was shadowed out by them, was truly to be found in Christ, Heb. 9. 10, 11.

V. 27. as many of you] See Rom. 6. 3.

as have been baptized into christ] To all that are baptized in Christs Name with the inward baptism as well as the outward Christ is effectually applyed, even like a garment to the body, to communicate unto them his justice, life, right, and dignities: that as himself is the Son of God by nature, they shall be made his children by grace and adoption, and that without all distinction of either nation, state, or condition.

have put on christ] As a spiritual garment wherewith our spiritual shame and nakednesse is covered, and we are adorned as with rich and comely apparel.

V. 28. for ye are all one in christ Jesus] That is, countrey, sex, or nation makes no difference; but if we are true beleevers, we are in equal esteem with God; or we are all one in Christ, that is, we make all one mystical body communicating with Christ as our head, and one with another as members.

CHAP. IV.

Vers. 1. NOw I say] He declareth that by another similitude which he said before, concerning the school-master: for he saith that the Law, that is, the whole government of Gods house according to the law, was as it were a kind of Tutorship, or office of an Over-seer appointed for a time, and that we should at length come to be at our own liberty, and live as children, not as servants. Moreover he sheweth by the way, that that governance of the Law was as it were an A. B. C. or Accidence in comparison of the doctrine of the Gospel.

V. 3. elements of the world] Or, rudiments. By the elements of the world he understandeth the corporal types and carnal Ceremonies of the Law, which are called elements or rudiments; because that God by them instructed the Church as it were by rudiments, and afterwards powred out his holy Spirit most plentifully in the time of the Gospel.

V. 4. when the fulnes of the time] The full grown age of the Church to be freed from under this wardship; or when the time was fulfilled which God had appointed for to send his Son into the world.

God sent forth his Son] ἐξαπέστειλε, He sent out of himself, or his essence; or from heaven: for God would have that the eternal Son in his bosom by taking humane flesh should come out of him as it were, and manifest himself unto the world; or issue forth out of the eternal palace of his glory, and in his own person upon earth fulfill the work of the redemption of mankinde.

made of] Not born as other men, but made by the holy Ghost out of the flesh and bloud of the Virgin Mary, without the concurrence of man, Gen. 3. 15. Isaiah 7. 14. Mic. 5 3. Luk. 1. 31. & 2. 2.

a woman] The word γυνὴ, is here taken, as often else where in Scripture, for the name of the sex, and generally a maid that is marriageable is termed by the Greeks γύνη. So saith Procopius, γύνη λέγεται ἡ παρθένος, πλησίας δὲ κάθοις, and so the civil Lawyers; titulo de verb. signif. Mulieris appellatione etiam virgo viripotens continetur. This text therefore maketh nothing for Helvidius, nor against the perpetual virginity of Mary.

made under the law] Having taken upon him the form of a servant, Phil. 2. 7. he made himself subject to the entire observation and satisfaction of the whole law: thereby to purchase to all beleevers the right and claim to eternal glory, and to deliver them not onely from the malediction of the Law, but also from the burden of all the legal rites and ceremonies.

V. 5. under the law] That is, that were under the yoke of the ceremonial law, and also under the curse of the morall; whereof he speaketh in the former Chapter.

the adoption of sons] Therefore was the Son of God sent to redeem us, that he might purchase and graciously communicate the right of Son-ship (which he hath by nature) to all the faithful, 2 Cor. 6. 18. This adoption of the Son of God was from everlasting, but is revealed and shewed in the time appointed for it.

V. 6. And because ye are sons] He sheweth that we are in such sore free and set at liberty, that in the mean season we must be governed by the Spirit of Christ, which reigneth in our hearts, and teacheth us the true service of the Father; but this is not to serve, but rather to enjoy true liberty as becometh sons and heirs.

the Spirit of his Son] See Rom. 8, 15. The holy Ghost is both of the Father and the Son: but there is a peculiar reason here why he is called the Spirit of his Son; to wit, because the holy Ghost sealeth up our adoption in Christ, and giveth us a full assurance of it.

V. 7. a servant] The word servant is not taken here for one that liveth in sin, which is proper to infidels, but for one that is yet under the Ceremonies of the Law, which is proper to the Jew.

an heir of God] Some read heir by God, that is, by his grace and mercy; others, heir of God, because coheirs of Christ, who is the Son and Heir of God.

V. 9. turn ye again] Or, turn ye back.

to the weak and beggarly elements] Or, rudiments. The carnal Rites of the Mosaical Law are called here weak and beggarly elements, being considered apart by themselves, without Christ; and for the Galatians to fall back from Christ to these Ceremonies, was nothing else but to cast away riches, and follow beggery.

V. 10. Ye observe days] Ye, following the doctrine of the false apostles, place holinesse and righteousnesse in the Mosaical observations of days, the Jewish Sabbath returning every week; and moneths, that is, the Feasts of the new Moons; and times, that is, the solemn yearly feasts of the Passover, the Pentecost, and Tabernacles; and years, that is, every fiftieth year, being the year of Jubile.

V. 12. be as I am] He mitigates and qualifies those things wherein he might have seemed to have spoken too sharply, declaring his good will towards them in such sort, that the Galatians could not but either be utterly desperate, when they read these things, or acknowledge their own lightnesse with teares, and desire pardon. Be you as I am, that is, take me for an example, who was once as zealous for those Legal Rites, as you are now; but now I count them, and all things else, but as dung, in comparison of the excellent knowledge of Christ. Phil. 3. 9.

V. 13. through the infirmity of the flesh] Either through the infirmity of your flesh I preached unto you; that is, I condescended to your capacity, and preached such doctrine as you were able to bear away: or, through the infirmity of my flesh, either being infirm in body, or much broken through manifold griefs and afflictions which I suffered among you. 1 Cor. 2. 3.

V. 14. And my temptation] That is, those daily troubles wherewith the Lord tried me amongst you. Acts 20. 19.

V. 15. where is then the blessednesse] Or, what was then. What is become of the great applause which you gave me at my first preaching, counting your selves most happy in me your Apostle? or, what talk was there abroad in the world, how happy you thought your selves, and blessed the time God sent me amongst you?

V. 16. Am I therefore become your enemy, &c.] Sith all men naturally desire the truth, and love it, how comes it to pass that any man should be hated for speaking the truth? Saint Austine in his confessions yeeldeth a reason by distinguishing of truth, Omnes amant veritatem lucentem, sed non redarguentem; all men love the truth, when that truth conceyneth not themselves, they love truth shining, but not convincing; they love the truth when she discovereth her self, not when she discovereth themselves. Hence is that true proverb, Obsequium amicos, veritas odium parit. The beams of the Sun, which refresh and cleer a sound eye, offend a sore eye, uvit enim fulgore suo.

V. 17. They zealously affect you] Or, they are jealous over you. He compareth the false teachers to jealous wooers, who can by no means endure any corrival; therefore, saith the Apostle, they exclude you from me, and the true doctrine of faith, which I have delivered unto you, that you may be wholly theirs, and I have no part in you: they zealously affect you, but not well, because not to a good end, but to impropriate you to themselves, and make advantage of you.

exclude you] Or, exclude us.

V. 18. But it is good to be zealously affected always] The faithful are to be commended for their zealous affection, and entire love to their Pastours, especially if it be constant, and for the truths sake; but the Galatians have quite forgotten me, since my departure from you: Out of sight, out of minde.

V. 19. of whom I travail] Ye are my children, whom with much pain and travail I brought forth before to Christ, but now ye have corrupted and defaced his image, and are fallen away from your former profession; and therefore I am now in labour with you, and travail with exceeding great pain the second time, till Christ be again perfectly formed in you, and you receive the right shape of Christians.

V. 20. change my voice] That is, either use other words among you, and turn my complaints into praises; or change my speech into groans, and my words into tears, to bewail your apostasie; and by those true ambastadours of my affection to perswade you to return to your former profession.

I Stand in doubt of you] Or, I am perplexed for you. Gr. in you.

V. 23. born after the flesh] That is, born, as all men are, by the common course of nature; for Agar was young, and it ceased not to be with her after the manner of women; whereas the womb of Sara was was dead, and so the birth of Isaac from her was, as the Apostle speaketh, a similitude of the resurrection, above the power and force of nature.

by promise] By virtue of the promise which Abraham laid hold on for himself and his true seed: for otherwise Abraham and Sara were past begetting and bearing of children.

V. 24. which things are an allegory] Which are indeed a true story of things past, but yet do signifie somewhat else besides, as being types and representations of spiritual things, as likewise was the Brasen Serpent, John 3. 14. the marriage of Adam and Eve, Ephes. 5. 32. the passing of the Israelites over the Red sea, 1 Cor. 10. 1, 2. and the deluge, 1 Pet. 3. 21.

for these are the two covenants] Or, Testaments. That is, shew forth, point, and signifie a sacramental kinde of speech, like to that, Genes. 41. 26. and Matth. 26. 26. The two Covenants are the old and the new; the old, of the Law, wherein promise is made, that those who perfectly keep the Law shall thereby obtain salvation: and the new, of the Gospel, wherein eternal life is promised to sinners that repent and beleeve in Christ. Jer. 31. 31. Heb. 8. 8, 9.

which gendereth to bondage] Which bringeth forth children that are in bondage: for the law requireth a perfect obedience of men, or in case of failing, pronounceth a curse upon them; and of it self it is unable to free them from their natural servitude, and much more unable to procure them the grace of God, and the inheritance of everlasting life.

V. 25. For this Agar is mount Sinai in Arabia] Either the meaning is, Agar is also called Sinai, a mount in Arabia, whither Agar fled with her son Ismael, being thrust out of Abrahams house, from whom the mount it self (as some affirm) was afterwards called Agar by the Arabians, and from thence they themselves are called Agarens, Psal. 83. 6. Or the meaning is, Agar is a figure or image of Sinai, and of the Covenant of the Law, which was proclaimed on it; as Agar was a stranger without the blessed Seed, so was Sinai in Arabia the land of the Ismaelites, who illiued forth from Agar, without the limits of the land of promise.

and answereth to Jerusalem] Or, is in the same rank with Jerusalem. Some read bordereth upon Jerusalem; and Genebrard in his comment upon the Psalms affirmeth, that there is a continual traffick from it to Jerusalem; Perpetuo enim is dorso sese versus Sionius montes exporrigit. But the Geographical Tables shew no such thing: and as Bunclus a Sorbonick Doctour, acknowledgeth, Sinai is full twenty days journey from Jerusalem. The better Translation therefore is, it answereth to Jerusalem, that is, in the allegory and mystical signification.

V. 26. But Jerusalem which is above] The true Christian Church, which seeketh her salvation, not by the first Covenant of the Law, but by the second, of the Gospel, which is said to be above, partly because it hath its original from heaven, partly in respect of the part triumphant in heaven, partly in respect of the militant, which steers in course to heaven, Phil. 3. 20. and shall in the end be brought thither.

which is the mother of us all] As Sara was the mother of Isaac, the proper heir of his father Abraham, so is the Christian Church the mother of all the faithful, who are heirs of the Kingdom of heaven, whether they be Jews or Gentiles.

V. 28. as Isaac was] Gr. according, or, after the manner of Isaac. Who was as the first begotten of the supernal Jerusalem, as Ismael was of the slavish Synagogue.

are the children of promise] See Rom. 9. 8.

V. 29. born after the Spirit] That is, by virtue of Gods promise, and after a supernatural and spiritual manner, Sara conceiving in her old age rather by faith than by lust.

V. 30. Nevertheless] Gr. But.

cast out the bond-woman and her son] Gr. Tec. her self and her son. See Gen. 21. 10.

CHAP. V.

Vers. 1. STand fast, &c.] Gr. Tec. Christ hath made us free, stand therefore in that liberty, and.

and be not intangled] Gr. held, or, kept in with. Tied or fastned thereunto as it were with cords and ropes. A comparison taken from Oxen, who have the yoke bound fast to their horns or neck, thereby to force them, subdue, and keep them in.

again with the yoke of bondage] It doth not appear that these false Galatians had submitted themselves to the yoke of Moses before their conversion to Christ, and now after their falling away from Christ, had enslaved themselves the second time to those legal observations; but the meaning is, Before ye were subject and enslaved to your Idols, being redeemed from that slavery, do not enthral your selves again to a new bondage of Ceremonies, take not upon you a new yoke, and so heavy an one as neither we nor our fathers were able to bear, Acts 15. 10.

V. 3. I Paul say unto you, that if ye be circumcised] See Acts 15. 1. If ye be circumcised, out of this perswasion, to be justified thereby, Christ shall profit you nothing; for justification by faith, and justification by the works of the Law cannot stand together; he instanceth particularly in circumcision, because it was the ground of all the service of the Law, and chiefly urged by the false Apostles. It is true, Circumcision in another place is called the Seal of the righteousness of faith; but here we must have consideration of the circumstances of time, for now had Baptisme come in the place of Circumcision: and moreover Paul reasoneth according to the opinion that his opposites (the false teachers) had of it, who made it a matter of salvation, and necessary means of justification.

V. 3. For] But, or, And.

is a debtor to do the whole law] Because he that observeth the Ceremonial Law in one thing, is bound to observe it in all; and what a servitude were that? The reason is evidently drawn from the connexion which is between all the parts of the Ceremonial Law, and the curse pronounced against all who fulfill not that whole law to a tittle.

V. 4. Christ is become of no effect unto you] Gr. Ye are made void, frustrate, or abolished from Christ.

are justified by the Law] That is, ye frustrate and make void your justification by Christ, who seek to be justified by the Law, for indeed no man is, or can be justified by the Law. See Rom. 3. 20.

ye are fallen from grace] That is, from the true doctrine of Christs free grace, for that cannot consist with justification by the works of the Law.

V. 6. For in Jesus Christ] Seeing in Christ we have spiritual circumcision, there is no need of carnal; they therefore who were circumcised before they believed, namely, such of the Jews as were called to the knowledge of the truth, gain nothing thereby, neither do the unbeleeving Gentiles lose by their uncircumcision. Chap. 6. 15.

but faith which worketh by love] The word in the Original ἐνεργουμένη, being in the Mean voice, may be taken either actively or passively, if passively, the meaning is, that faith is actuated, quickened and moved by love to do good works; if actively, then the meaning is, that it is not a dead and unworking faith that justifieth us, but a living and operative faith, according as S. James teacheth us, Jam. 2. 26. and it must be a living faith by which the just shall live.

V. 7. Ye did run well] You were in the right way, and ye made so good progress, that ye out-strip'd many; and had ye not been stop'd and hindered, would have obtained the prize, which is eternal life.

who did hinder you] Or, who did drive you back.

V. 9. A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump] See 1 Cor. 5. 6. He addeth this, that he may not seem to contend upon a trifle, warning them diligently by a similitude borrowed from leaven, (Matt. 13. 33.) not to suffer the purity of the Apostolical doctrine to be infected with the least corruption that may be. By a little leaven, as S. Jerome observeth, he understandeth either, an errour but in one point or two, which corrupteth the whole Doctrine of Christianity; as a small quantity of Ratsbane poisoneth the whole milk: or a few false teachers, or erroneous beleevers are able to infect a whole Church or Congregation.

V. 10. through] Gr. in.

but he that troubleth you, shall bear his judgement] He singleth out some one, who was the ring-leader of all the rest, and either threateneth to excommunicate him, by his Apostolical authority, or denounceth against him Gods fearful judgement at the last day.

V. 11. why do I yet suffer persecution] He willeth them to consider, how that he seeketh not his own profit in this matter, seeing that he could eschew the hatred of men, if he would joyn Judaisme with Christianity: for at this time the Christians were most persecuted by the Jews, whose hatred was not so exasperated against the Apostles for preaching Christ crucified, as for teaching, that the Law of Moses was abolished, for which they were most zealous.

Croſs] Gr. Tec. Croſs of Christ.

V. 12. cut off] He compareth those who corrupt the doctrine of Christ, who maliciously set themselves against his preaching, to rotten members, which are to be cut off; lest the Gangrene spread over the whole body: and he alludeth, as the Greek Scholiast noteth, to the practice of Circumcision, which is a cutting off of the foreskin of the flesh, and casting it away; wishing, that they themselves might suffer what they do, that is, be cut off as superfluous flesh.

V. 13. only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh] Because men are very apt to abuse their liberty, and turn the grace of Christ into wantonnesse, he addeth here, as else-where, a wholesome caution, that Christian liberty is not a license to do what men list, but a freedom from the heavy yoke of the law; to the end, that they may take upon them Christs easie yoke, and light burden, and more cheerfully serve him. Where the carnal Gospellers suck poyson, there the Holy Ghost sets an antidote, as Luk. 1. 74. He hath redeemed his people, that being delivered out of the hands of our enemies we might serve him without fear in holiness and righteousness before him all the days of our life: and Rom. 8. 1. There is no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit: & Rom. 6. 1. Where sin abounded: d grace did much more abound, what then? shall we continue in sin that grace may abound? God forbid: and Titus 2. 11. The grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all, teaching us that denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly and righteously in this present world.

Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thy self] See Lev. 19. 18. Mat. 22. 39. Rom. 13. 9.

V. 16. This] Gr. but.

walk in the Spirit] That is, dispose all your life and actions according to the instructions and motions of the holy Spirit, as well in the spiritual frame of Religion, proper and peculiar to the Gospel, as in all holiness of life and conversation. Some by the Spirit, understand the rational appetite, and by the flesh the sensitive, as Lyra: Some by the Spirit, understand the holy Ghost, and by flesh carnal concupiscence: as Theodoret and Oecumenius. Others with more probability affirm, that when Spirit and flesh, are set in opposition one against the other, that by Spirit, is to be understood that part of man which is regenerated by the Spirit, and by the flesh the natural corruption which cleaveth still unto the regenerate. See Rom. 8. 1.

ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh] Or, fulfil not.

V. 17. the flesh lusteth against the Spirit] For the flesh dwelleth even in those that are regenerate; but the spirit reigneth in them, although not without great strife. S. Austine in his Exposition upon the Epistle to the Galatians, affirmeth that they are under the law, and not under grace, in whom the flesh so lusteth against the spirit, that they cannot do what they would; but in the 24. Chapter of his first book of Retractations, he correcteth his former opinion, acknowledging that these words of the Apostle are meant, even of them, who are in the state of grace: Quia & ipsi concupiscentias carnis habent contra quas Spiritu concupiscunt, nolentes eas habere si possent, & ideo non quæcunq; volunt faciunt, qui volunt sic cavere nec possunt; tunc autem eas non habebunt, quando nec corruptibilem carnem.

V. 19. Now the works of the flesh] He setteth out that particularly, which he spake before generally, reckoning up some chief effects of the flesh, and opposing them to the fruits of the Spirit, that no man may pretend ignorance.

V. 22. But the fruit of the Spirit] Therefore they are not the fruits of free-will, but so far forth as our will is made free by grace. He saith not, the works of the Spirit, as before the works of the flesh, but the fruits of the Spirit; to teach us, that good works are not onely the effects of Gods Spirit, but also that they are acceptable and pleasing unto him, like most sweet and wholesome fruits, Matth. 3. 8. John. 15. 8.

V. 23. against such there is no law] Such may be either referred to the fruits of the Spirit, or to the persons who bring forth such fruit, against men so qualified there is no law to condemn them: for the law of God which is so severe and terrible to all men that are in the state of sin, is not so for all that unto the children of God, that do not maliciously set themselves against it; neither are they lyable to the malediction thereof, they submitting themselves willingly to the same, as a gentle mistress of their actions, and guide of their life and conversation.

V. 24. have crucified the flesh] We are not onely to mortifie our fleshly members, but also our inward affections, and to do this out of a respect to Christs Cross, which is a special means to crucifie these our lusts, when we consider that sin is so great and hainous an evil in the sight of God, that nothing but the bloud of the Son of God could expiate it.

affections] Or, passions.

V. 25. If we live in the Spirit] Or, by. If we be indued with the quickening Spirit of God; which causeth us to dye to sin and live to God, let us shew it in our deeds by holiness of life.

in the Spirit] Or, by.

V. 26. Let us not be desirous of vain-glory] He addeth particular exhortations, according as he knew the Galatians subject to diverse vices, and first of all he warneth them to take heed of ambition, which vice hath alwaies two companions, backbiting, and envie, out of which two it cannot be, but many contentions must needs arise.

CHAP. VI.

Vers. 1. IF a man be overtaken in a fault] Or, although. Gr. taken before, or, preoccupated. The word in the Original, προλημφθῆ, derived from πρὸ, and λαμβάνω, signifieth to be taken before he is aware, or to be presumed to be an offender, or taken before you, that is, publikely convicted of some fault or miscarriage: moderate and temper your reprehension of him with Christian meekness, according to that golden Rule of S. Austine; Satisfedinem correptionis amor Christi temperet; & dilectionem proximi salutis cordiat.

lest thou also be tempted] He toucheth the sore, for they commonly are most severe Judges, who forget their own infirmity; and on the contrary, as S. Augustine observeth; The true sense and feeling of the infirmities we are subject to our selves, makes us tender and compassionately affected towards others; Nihil tam ad misericordiam inclinat quàm proprii periculi cogitatio. And Virgil brings in Queen Dido for a pattern in this kind, saying of her self, Non ignara mali miseris succurrere disco.

V. 2. Bear ye one anothers burdens] He sheweth that this is the end of reprehension to raise up our brother which is fallen, and not proudly to insult over him. To bear our brothers burden, is to have compassion on our brothers failings, and infirmities, which lye upon him, as a heavy load and burden, to support him with comfort; and use the best means we can to ease and releeve him, and by discreet reprehension amend him.

and so fulfil the law of Christ] That of loving one another, Joh. 13. 34. Which Christ calls his new commandment. For although it were also prescribed by Moses, Levit. 19. 18. yet it is called Christs law, forasmuch as it is not fulfilled but by his Spirit, and for that Christ so particularly commendeth it to his Disciples, as well by precept, as by his own example.

V. 4. let every man prove his own work] Let every man seek to have commendation of his own life, by examining and reproving himself, and not by reprehending others. In these words, the Apostle taxeth that vice in the Galatians, which is too too common in most men; who are sharp-sighted to espie small motes in other mens eyes, and cannot discern a beam in their own. Nemo in sese tentat descendere, nemo; Sed præcedenti spectatur mantica tergo.

rejoycing] Gr. boasting.

V. 5. For every man shall bear his own burden] See 1 Cor. 3. 8. A reason, wherefore men ought to have the greatest eye upon themselves, is, because that every man shall be judged before God according to his own life, and not by comparing himself with other men. S. Jerome upon this place noteth, that the Apostle in these words, obscurely intimateth, that whilest we live in this world, we may be help'd by the counsels, good advice, and prayers one of another; but after this life, we must stand or fall to our selves; no other can stead us by their prayers or other ways. Dum in præsenti seculo sumus, sive orationibus sive consiliis invicem posse nos coadjuvari, cùm autem ante tribunal Christi venerimus, non Job, non Daniel, non Noha rogare posse pro quoquam, sed unumquemque portare onus suum. Which though it be a truth, and maketh much against Popish invocation of Saints, and prayers for the dead, yet it seemeth not to be the natural interpretation of this Text; but rather that of Saint Austine. De consen. Evang. lib. 2. cap. 30. Where reconciling the seeming contradiction between this first verse and the second, he saith, that the word burden is taken in a different sense; Alia sunt onera participandæ infirmitatis, alia reddendæ rationis Deo de actibus nostris. In the Original, the words are different; in the second verse, it is βάρος, in this φορτίον, there by burdens are meant such sins and infirmities, wherewith our brother is aggrieved and burdened, but here by burden is meant the punishment of every mans own sin.

V. 6. Let him, &c.] See 1 Cor. 9. 14.

that is taught in the word] Gr. catechised. See Rom. 2. 18. The word in the Original is, κατηχούμενος, a word derived from ἠχὴ, a sound, and signifieth to resound, or instruct others, viva voce, by word of mouth, by speech sounding to their ears, to teach familiarly, as when children are taught the principles of religion; and hence cometh our English word catechising. Howbeit, as the Greek Scholiast truly observeth, It is taken more generally for him that is any way taught and instructed; whether it be in the first principles, and rudiments, or points of greater difficulty: whether plainly and familiarly, as catechisers use to do; or more profoundly, as Doctors in the chair.

communicate unto him that teacheth] Gr. catechiseth; or, instructeth in the principles of faith, 1 Cor. 14. 9. Let him afford him comfortable maintenance according to his ability; he saith not, μισθοδότω, but κοινωνείτω, contribute, but communicate unto him, as Oecumenius observeth, to signifie unto us, that the relief of the Pastour is not an alms-deed, but a kind of commerce and exchange of spiritual things for carnal. For he that teacheth bestoweth on his flock spiritual treasures; and they who are taught of him give him part of their temporal goods, (1 Cor. 9. 11.) so there is a communication on both sides.

V. 7. Be not deceived; God is not mocked] He commendeth liberality both to their Pastours, and to the poor; and first he reproveth them for pretending this and that, & all because they would not help their neighbours, as though they could deceive God: afterward he compareth works of charity to a spiritual sowing, which shall have a most plentiful harvest, and he compareth covetousness and niggardlyness to a carnal sowing, whereof nothing can be gathered but such things as being unprofitable fade away and perish by and by.

V. 8. For he that soweth to his flesh] That is, to the commodities of this present life; he that seeketh after wealth or honour, and such things onely whereby he may give satisfaction to his flesh, and enjoy carnal delights and pleasures, shall reap corruption; that is, a consumption in his estate, rottenness in his bones, and eternal death. But he that soweth to the Spirit, that is, desireth increase of spiritual graces, and by the grace of the Spirit distributeth liberally to the poor, and performeth all works of piety and charity in this life, shall have a most plentiful harvest in the life to come, and reap a most plentiful crop.

V. 9. And let us not be weary in well doing] See 2 Thess. 3. 13. He taxeth such as are liberal at the beginning, but continue not in well-doing, because the harvest seemeth to be deserred very long, as though the seed-time and harvest were at one instant.

V. 10. houshold of faith] They who are bred up in the same Church, which is the House of God, they who are joyned with us in the profession of the self-same true religion, ought to be preferred before all other in our charity: yet so notwithstanding that our liberality extend in some measure to all. Saint Augustine upon these words inferreth that all men are equally to be loved; and that we must with a like affection wish to all men eternal life, though we cannot perform to all the like offices of charity. This seemeth to be repugnant to the doctrine of other Fathers, and the Schools generally, who teach that we ought more to love those of our kin than strangers, Christians than Infidels, virtuous believers than hereticks, friends than enemies; but they quarrel with this religious Father without cause, for elsewhere he desireth all virtue to be ordo charitatis, an order of charity, whereby we love first God, then our selves, after our neighbours, and then differently as we owe more obligation to them, or they better deserve of us: his meaning therefore in this place can be no other than this, that we ought to love all men pari dilectione, that is, with a like sincerity of true love, though not a like ardency of Christian affection; or that we ought to love all men alike as they are men, and desire truly their salvation, though as he sheweth, we neither can nor are bound to perform the same offices of charity to all.

V. 11. How large a letter] The words in the Original, πηλίκοις γράμμασι, may signifie either with how great characters I have written unto you; or what a large letter I have written unto you; those who follow the first Translation make this to be the sense, to disabuse and undeceive you I have made shift though I cannot write well, yet with mine own hand in great and ill-shaped letters to give you an undoubted testimony that I preach not circumcision; so Oecumenius. Others interpret the words thus, You see with what capital letters I have written divers sentences in this Epistle, that you might take special note of them, such letters Jerome in his Preface upon Job, calleth unciales literas; and the Poet grandes, Grandibus in tumuli marmore cæde notis. They who follow the latter Translation, make this construction of it: You see what pains I have taken for your satisfaction, to write to you a letter of a large size, and that with mine own hand; which I use not to do. It is true that the Apostle wrote larger letters than this, as namely to the Romanes, and to the Corinthians: but he wrote them not with his own hand, as he did this. For that to the Romanes was written by the hand of Tertius, Rom. 16. 22. And the Epistles to the Corinthians are supposed by the Learned to have been written by others; the first by the hand of Sosthenes, the second by the hand of Timothy.

V. 12. make a fair show in the flesh] Gr. good face, or fair countenance. A fair shew against the truth in keeping carnal rites and ceremonies; they urge circumcision upon you, not out of any affection and zeal that they bear to the Law; but onely for this purpose, that they may purchase themselves favour among those of their own sort, and escape the malice and persecution of the Jews.

in the flesh] Or, in your flesh. In causing you to be circumcised.

for the cross of Christ] For preaching the doctrine of Christ crucified.

V. 14 By whom the world is crucified, &c.] Or, whereby. S. Gregorie in the first of his Morals thus paraphraseth upon these words: because neither Paul sought after the world, nor the world after him, he saith he is crucified to the world, and the world to Him. Bernard in his sixth Sermon de Quadragesima, conceiveth this to be the meaning: The world is crucified to me in my judgement and reputation thereof, and I am crucified to the world by an affection of compassion: Non incongrue potest intelligi crucifixum ei mundum reputatione, ipsum verò mundo crucifixum compassione. Others illustrate thus the words, All the honors, delights, and pomps which the world so much doteth upon, are as a cross to me; and those things which the world esteems as crosses, I take delight in, and am fastened unto them. But the most natural exposition seems to be this; God forbid that I should glory in any thing save the death and passion of my Saviour; by the power whereof I am not onely dead, but even crucified to the world: so that I have neither love nor liking more to the world and the lusts thereof, than to a dead man hanging upon a Gibet, or Cross, which is not onely a miserable, but an ignominious spectacle: on the other side, the world hath no more power, power on me to move me, than sensual objects have to move or affect a dead man.

V. 15. availeth any thing] Gr. Tec. is any.

but a new creature] Georgius Syncellus writeth that these words of the Apostle are taken out of a Book intituled Apocalypsis Mosis, the Revelation of Moses's; but the Book is Apocryphal, and it is more likely that the Authour of it bearing a false title is of latter date, and transcribed these words out of Saint Paul, rather than that Saint Paul should borrow them from that book. For the meaning of them it is evidently this; That in attaining salvation by Christ, neither Circumcision, nor uncircumcision is considerable, or available, but a new creature, a man renewed in the spirit of his mind, and reformed according to Christs Image. 2 Cor. 5. 17.

V. 16. upon the Israel of God] The true Israel circumcised in heart, and in the spirit, and not in the letter, whose praise is not of men, but of God, Rom. 2. 29.

V. 17. I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus] The word in the Greek στίγματα, properly signifieth brands, that is, such marks as are burnt into a mans flesh; but here it is taken for all those stripes and wounds which the Apostle received for Christ, and his doctrines sake: and hereby he intimateth that he startled at no persecution; as his opposites the false Apostles did, and he opposeth his miseries & the marks of those stripes which he bare for Christs sake, against the scar of the outward circumcision, as the true mark of his Apostleship: and the meaning of the whole verse seemeth to be this; I admonish all the faithful to have this regard unto me, as not to adde affliction to my affliction, nor vex my spirit farther with oppositions and contradictions, I having already sustained and suffered so much for Christ, (2 Cor. 11. 23, &c.) whose marks I continually bear about me, and whereby I have sufficiently testified the loyalty and faithfulness of my ministery. 2. Cor. 6. 4, 5.

V. 18. with your Spirit] With your minds and hearts; or, grace be with your spirit, that is, guide and direct your spirit, that you may discern the deceits of these false Apostles who indeavour to inthral you to carnal rites; or because grace chiefly worketh upon the soul and is resident in it, he expresseth that part, but meaneth the whole, and it is as much as if he had said, Grace be with you. From this prayer of the Apostle it seemeth the ancient Church in her Liturgy took that vespond mentioned by Saint Chrysostome, in his comment upon the tenth of Matthew, And to, or with thy Spirit, ὅταν εἴπῃ, ἐμὸν πνεῦμα, καὶ ὑμεῖς εἴπατε, καὶ τῷ πνεύματι σου. When I say, Peace unto you, and you answer, And to thy Spirit; not with your voyce onely, but with your heart: whence also in our Liturgy, transcribed for the most part out of the ancient Liturgies of the Church, after the Creed the Minister saith, The Lord be with you, and the people answer, And with thy spirit.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE EPHESIANS.

The Argument and Analysis.

THE Apostle hearing that Ephesus, the Metropolis of Asia minor, was reclaimed from the Idolatrous worship of Diana, to the pure worship of the true God in Christ, writeth this Epistle to the congregation of the faithful there, to confirm them in the Mysteries of Christian Religion, and more fully to instruct them in the duties of an Holy Life, agreeable to their profession.

The whole Epistle divideth it self into two parts,

1. Contemplative, wherein he discourseth profoundly of the causes of mans salvation, Gods eternal election and adoption by grace, and the incorporating of the Jews and Gentiles into one Body, (the Church of Christ) made known to him by Revelation, Chap. 1, 2, 3.
2. Practick, wherein he inciteth them to shew forth good works, as the Badges of their Christian Profession. These are ranked into two sorts: Some required of them,

1. In respect of their general calling to the knowledge of the Truth; as namely, To walk worthy their vocation, in humility, meekness, unity, purity, truth, love, circumspection, devotion, and acquitting themselves manfully in their warfare against Satan and all the powers of darkness.
2. In respect of their special callings, as Husbands or Wives, Parents or Children, Masters or Servants. From the 3. Chapter, to the end of the Epistle.

CHAP. I.

Vers. 1. PAUL O the saints] Gr. Tec. to all the saints.

V. 3. Blessed be the God, &c.] See 2 Cor. 1. 3. 1 Pet. 1. 3.

heavenly places] Or, things. Heavenly blessings are opposed to earthly, upon which the Old Testament most runneth, now spiritual blessings in Christ are called heavenly, either because God the Father gave us them from his high Throne above; or because the Saints have these gifts bestowed on them which belong properly to the citizens of heaven; or because by virtue of these gifts, even whilest we are upon earth, our conversation is in heaven, Phil. 3. 20.

V. 4. chosen] According as God by his election framed a new body out of mankind in opposition to the first, whose head was Adam, in whom they did all sin and die, and ordained Christ to be their head, that in him all might be gathered and made partakers by him of his grace, life and glory; so also hath he accomplished this counsel of his in time, dispensing all his graces unto his Church by Christ in his sacred communion. See Chap. 3. 11. 2 Tim. 1. 9. Election or choice here is taken for the external decree of election, which is of certain men in time drawn out of the common lump of corrupt mankind. See John 15. 16. Rom. 8. 29. 1 Thes. 2. 13. 1 Pet. 1. 2.

in him] Or, by. That is, in Christ as our head; or by Christ as our Mediatour.

foundation of the world] Gr. casting, or, laying, viz. of the foundation of the world.

that we should be holy] God did not choose us because we were, or otherwise would have been holy; but to the end that we should be holy, being clothed with Christs righteousness through faith, which though it be not here expressed, yet it is necessarily implyed. For there can be no holiness, nor love without true faith, sith by faith it is that our hearts are purified, Acts 15. 9.

and without blame before him] Not onely before men, as hypocrites may for a while, but in sincerity, as in Gods presence. See Gen. 17. 1. Luke 1. 6. And this holiness and unblameableness is true and unfained in this life, and here begun by the power of Gods Spirit; but it shall not be perfected in all parts and degrees till the life to come, 1 Cor. 13. 10. Ephes. 5. 27. Phil. 3. 12. Yet even this unperfect holiness and unblameableness of ours in this present life is accept able to God in Christ, and received as perfect, he forgiving us our failings, through faith in Christ, Colos. 2. 10. Heb. 13. 21. 1 Pet. 2. 5.

in love] This some do understand of the love wherewith God loved us, construing it with the word chosen; yet it may be fitly joyned with the words holy and without blame, and understood of our love towards God and our neighbour, wherein this holiness doth chiefly manifest it self, 1 Cor. 13. 1. Gal. 5. 6.

V. 5. the adoption of children] Of this adoption whereby we are made children of God, and coheirs with Christ, we have here indeed the beginning and expectation, John 1. 12. Rom. 8. 15. but the full fruition of this adoption and inheritance we shall not enjoy it till hereafter, Rom. 8. 23. Gal. 4. 5. Heb. 9. 15. 1 John 3. 2.

to himself] Or, into himself. To his glory, or for his own sake.

according to the good pleasure of his will] Not for any desert or worth of our own, but only out of his own free undeserved grace and favour, Rom. 9. 11, 12, 15, 16. & 11. 6. & 2 Tim. 1. 9.

V. 6. To the praise of the glory of his grace] That is, to the praise of his glorious grace, that as his bountiful goodness deserveth all praise, so also it should be set forth and published.

hath made us accepted in the beloved] Gr. hath ingraciated us in the beloved.

V. 7. grace] Gr. Tec. bounty, or, goodness.

V. 8. in all wisdom and prudence] In perfect and sound wisdom. Wisdom and prudence so differ, that wisdom principally respects contemplation, and prudence, action. Wisdom is a virtue of the minde, whereby we know celestial mysteries; prudence, whereby we wisely order the affairs of our life, and regulate our Christian conversation. By all wisdom here, as in Colos. 1. 6. either all kind of wisdom is understood, or all saving wisdom.

V. 9. according to his good pleasure] Not onely the election, but also the vocation of the adopted to the Gospel, proceedeth from meer grace.

V. 10. in the dispensation] Gr. Tec. according to the dispensation. That is, in the time prefixed by his providence, the dispenser of times, and of order in all things, for the accomplishment of the promises concerning the Messiah. The Greek word οἰκονομία, signifieth such a dispensation, as house-keepers use in the governing of their house and family, ordering and disposing their provisions, and every thing else in a fit time, and a convenient manner. Thus also hath God ordained and setled in his house, that is, in his Church, even from the beginning of the world, certain times; in which, and manner, according to which, and persons, by whom all things are to be performed.

fulness of times] See Gal. 4. 4.

gather together in one] The word in the Original ἀνακεφαλαιώσασθαι, signifieth to reduce into one capital sum, or, bring under one head.

both which are in heaven, &c.] Hereby some understand the faithful, whereof some are already in heaven, others are yet upon the earth. Others understand this place, not of the blessed souls in heaven, and beleeving men upon earth gathered by Christ under one head, and into one body; but of the Angels in heaven, which by Christ are reconciled to men, and both gathered together under one Head, which before-time had been divided and rent asunder by reason of the sins of men, Heb. 12. 22, 23. Revel. 19. 10.

in him] The faithful are said to be gathered together in Christ, because they are joyned together with him, through faith, and become as it were one man.

V. 11. In whom also we have obtained, &c.] Gr. Tec. In whom we are called, being.

all things] All things are attributed to the grace of God, without exception, and yet for all that we are not stocks, for he giveth us grace both to will, and to do those things that are good, Phil. 2. 13.

counsel of his own will] He saith not simply, according to his will, but according to the counsel of his will; to teach us, that God, as an intelligent and most wise Agent, doth all things upon most just and prudent grounds, known to himself, and hath always a reason for his will, though to us his will must stand for the supreme reason; stat pro ratione voluntas.

V. 12. who first trusted in Christ] Or, hoped. Either he speaketh this of the Jews, who were called to the faith of Christ before the Gentiles, or he speaketh it of the Apostles, who were simply the first-fruits of all beleevers, and brought both Jewes and Gentiles to the Christian faith.

V. 13. sealed with that holy Spirit of promise] Or, the holy Spirit. The manner of speech is taken from men, who for better assurance and confirmation of any promises, are wont to give sealed Bills, Bonds, or Letters; and that for the most part, with imprinting or stamping their own Arms or Cognizance upon them. Now the promises of the pardon of our sins, of our adoption and everlasting inheritance are made unto us in the Gospel, and applyed to us by faith, and the sealing of the Spirit, that is added thereunto, is our regeneration, and the renewing of Gods image within us, which is as it were, printed upon our souls, when we beleeve in Christ, to assure us more and more of the accomplishment of those his promises. 2 Cor. 1. 22. Chap. 4. 30.

V. 14. until] Or, for.

purchased] Or, purchase.

V. 17. in the knowledge] Or, for the acknowledgement.

V. 19. Exceeding greatness of his power] The greatness of Gods power is as much manifested in the raising of our souls from the death of sin to the life of grace, as in the raising dead bodies from the grave: and the very phrase sheweth, that the work of the holy Ghost in breeding faith in us, is more than a moral swasion, to which we may yeeld, or not; for such a swasion cannot be said to be the working of Gods mighty power, like to that whereby he raised Christ from the dead.

of his mighty power] Gr. of the might of his power.

V. 20. and set him at his own right hand] See Rom. 8. 34.

V. 21. princippallity] Or, rule.

every name that is named] Above every thing whatsoever it be, or or above all persons, be they of never such power or excellency. Honourable and famous men are called men of name, and the Name of the Lord is often taken in Scripture for the Lord himself. (Phil. 2. 9.) The Apostles meaning is, that Christ, even as man, is exalted, not only above all States and Potentates upon earth, but also all Angels and Archangels in heaven.

V. 22. And hath put all things under his feet] See Psalm 8. 6. 1 Cor. 15. 25.

head over all things to the church] Christ is said to be the Head of the Church in three respects especially: First, in that he is above the Church, and ruleth it, as the head guideth the body. Secondly, because he conveyeth life into it, as the head doth to the members. Thirdly, because he provideth for it, as the head doth for the members, and participates in the same nature with it, as the head doth with the members.

V. 23. the fulnesse of him that filleth all in all] The love of Christ is so great to the Church, that though he doth fully satisfie all with all things, yet he esteemeth himself but as a maimed and imperfect head, unlesse he have the Church joyned to him as his body.

CHAP. II.

Vers. 1. AND you hath he quickned] See Colos. 2. 13.

dead in trespasses and sins] Not dead to sins, but dead in sins: He is dead to sin, in whom sin hath little or no power (Rom. 6. 2, 11.) but he is dead in sin, who hath no life of grace in him: all that are unregenerate, are dead in this sense; for as the immortality of them which are damned, is no life, so the uniting of body and soul is properly no life, but death in them who are not ruled by the Spirit of God. By trespasses and sins some understand the same, for sin is called παράπτωμα, as it implyeth a slip or falling; but ἁμαρτία, as it is an aberration from, or missing the right way. Others distinguish between trespasses and sins, and make trespasses the beginning as it were, and sins the consummation of wicked works; or, as Saint Austin conceiveth, a trespasse is an omission of good; sin, a commission of evil.

V. 2. according to the course of this world] The Original κατὰ τὸν αἰῶνα τοῦτον, is by some rendred, the age of this world; by others, the life of this world; or, generation of this world; by the Syrian Interpreter and Tremellius, mundi vanitatem, the vanity, or, word for word, worldlinesse of this world: the meaning is, after the common course and fashion of worldlings, that think of no other world than this present.

according to the prince] According to the will, instigation and suggestion of Satan, who being cast out of the higher heaven of glory, Luke 10. 18. Revel. 12. 8. doth wander about now, and exercise the power God permits him in these lower regions of the air, until he be shut up into the dungeon of eternal torments. 2 Cor. 4. 4.

of the power of the air] That hath power in moving the air, and raising storms there, as appeareth by the story of Job, (Job 1.) and continually fighting against the faithful out of the air, Ephes. 6. 12. Or, the world also may be taken, as it is often, in Hesiod. and Homer, for οὐρανὸς (as Hesiod. Ἔργ. καὶ Ἡμ. Ἠέρα τοιαύτην πατὴρ ὑπέτεινε θεὸς ἀνθρώποισι βροτοῖσιν) caligine induit] that is, darknesse; and that indeed is his proper style, for as God is the father of lights, so the Devil the Prince of darknesse.

now worketh in the children of disobedience] The particle now is added here, by reason that Satan, since the preaching of the Gospel, hath lost that operation and full sway in the faithful, which formerly he had indifferently over all, albeit he doth not cease to assault and molest them; but the power that is left him now, is chiefly over the unbeleevers, 2 Cor. 4. 4. 2 Thess. 2. 9, 10. and those whom God hath given over to Satan, who maliciously refuse the Gospel; and he by his operations and suggestions, leadeth them whithersoever he will.

V. 3. Also we] After that he had condemned the Gentiles, he confesseth, that the Jews (among whom he numbreth himself) were no whit better.

in the lusts of our flesh] By the name of flesh, in the first place he meaneth the whole man, which he afterwards divideth into two parts, into the flesh, which the Philosophers term the sensitive or irrational part; and into the minde, which they call the rational; so that he leaveth nothing in man that is not dead in sin: and concludeth, that the whole man is born subject to the wrath and curse of God. (John 3. 6.)

were by nature the children of wrath] Children of wrath may be understood, either actively, such as deserve wrath, as Judas is said to be the childe of perdition, (John 17. 12.) and the Pharisees Proselytes, the children of hell: (Matth. 23. 15.) or passively, such as are lyable to the wrath of God, and the sentence of eternal death; men in Gods hatred, as well as others, that is, profane people which know not God.

V. 6. And hath raised us up together] To wit, as he addeth afterwards, in Christ: for as yet this is not fulfilled in us, but onely in our head, by whose Spirit we have begun to die to sin, and live to God, until that work be fully brought to an end; but yet the hope is certain, for we are as sure of that we look for, as we are of that we have received already.

V. 7. through Christ Jesus] Or, in.

V. 8. by grace are ye saved through faith] Christ is the meritorious, grace the efficient, and faith the instrumental cause of our justification and salvation; grace and faith stand one with another, to which two these are contrary, to be saved by our selves or our works. And because it might be objected, that faith is our work, and consequently that if we are justified by faith, we are justified by works; the Apostle immediatly addeth that though this faith be in us, yet it is not of us, that is, not from the power of nature, but that it is meerly the gift of God: and this is to be meant not onely of the habit of faith, but the very act, as Saint Augustine in his 107. Epistle, Prosp. l. 1. de vocat. Gent. and the Synod held at Aurafica canon the last, clearly prove out of Philippians 1. 29.

V. 10. his workmanship] We are Gods workmanship, both in respect of our first creation, and in respect of our regeneration, which is a second creation: of which these words are to be understood, for he speaketh not of us we are by nature, but as new creatures in Christ by grace.

ordained] Or, prepared.

V. 11. remember that ye] Applying the former doctrine to the Gentiles, he sheweth that they were not onely as the Jews by nature, but also after a special sort strangers and without God, and therefore they ought the rather to remember so great a benefit of God as was their admittance into the covenant of grace.

by that which is called the circumcision] Or, in regard of that. Either he meaneth by circumcision the Jews, who were known and distinguished from the Gentiles by circumcision the mark of the covenant; or if he take not circumcision, as he doth Galatians 2. 7. for the Jews who were circumcised, but for the sacrament it self; then the meaning is, that the Ephesians were uncircumcision in respect of the carnal circumcision, that is, were utterly destitute of it. If it be objected, that the Egyptians and Ethiopians, and Colchians, and Arabians, and some other nations were circumcised; as Herodotus, l. 2. Hieron. upon Jer. 9. Alexander ab Alexandro Genialium l. 2. report: the answer is easie; That though they were cut in the fore-skin of the flesh as the Jews were, yet that was done to another end, either as a mark of their Nobility, or for some other purpose. They received it not as a seal of Gods Covenant; their circumcision was no sacrament at all, neither by virtue thereof had they any entrance into the true Church of God.

V. 12. without Christ] He beginneth first with Christ, who was the end of all the promises, and shadowed out to the Jews under all their types.

being aliens from the common-wealth of Israel] That is, had no right nor title to the comiaon-wealth of Israel.

without God in the world] The Gentiles were not simply Atheists; for they worshipped some one, some more gods; yet because they worshipped not the true God; or if they worshipped the true God, yet they worshipped him not as God, nor glorified him in their life and conversation; but became vain in their imaginations, and changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, &c. Rom. 1. 21, 23. they are said to be without God: and in this sense, the Turks and all Infidels may be rightly termed ἄθεοι, without God, because they worship not the true God in Christ.

V. 13. But now in Christ Jesus] Christ is the onely bond both of Jews and Gentiles, whereby they are tied and united both to God, and one to another.

V. 14. For he is our peace] That is, the Authour and cause of our peace; as well of the peace between God and us, as between our selves: he is the cement, the onely tie, and ground of the true union of Jews and Gentiles into one and the same Church.

the middle wall of partition] By the ceremonies and worship appointed by the law, the Jews were divided from the Gentiles: but now Christ having broken down the partition-wall, joyneth them both together both in himself, and betwixt themselves, and to God. In this manner of speech the Apostle hath regard to that partition which was in Solomons Temple between the outward court of the Gentiles, and that of the people which was Lorica lapidea, whereof Josephus de bello Judaico, l. 6. c. 6. speaketh, a wall that hindred all passage, fight, and communion betwixt them, Ezek. 42. 20. The meaning is, that the Gentiles had gotten a free accesse now by the Gospel into the Church, and the benefits thereof; being not accounted profane any longer. And it may be also, that the Apostle in this allusion had an eye to the renting of the veil in the Temple, Matth. 27. 51. Luke 23. 45.

V. 16. in one body by the cross] He alludeth to the sacrifices of the law, which represented that true and onely sacrifice.

having slain the enmity thereby] Or, in himself. For he destroyed death by his death, and fastened it as it were to the Crosse, and the cause of sin being taken away, all hatred and enmity betwixt God and man necessarily ceased.

V. 17. which were afar off, and to them that were nigh] To them that that were afar off, that is, to the Gentiles, (Isa.57.19.) aliens from the common-wealth of Israel and strangers from the covenants of promise, verse 12. and to them that were nigh; that is, to the Jews, who were neaner to God by reason of his Covenant with them, and Ordinances among them.

V. 18. through him, &c.] See Rom.5.2.

by our Spirit] Or in.

V. 19. ye are no more strangers] The Gentiles are taken into the fellowship of salvation, and he describeth the excellency of the Church, calling it the City and House of God.

V. 20. and are built] Gr. having been built. That is, your faith, whereby you subsist in the communion of Saints, hath for its infallible and immoveable ground, the whole doctrine of the Old and New Testament, the main subject whereof is Christ, who in his own person is the reall and essential foundation, and as it were, the corner-stone, where the great strength of the building lyeth, (Psal.118.22. 1 Pet.2.6,7.) joyning the two walls together; that is, the two different Nations of the Jews and Gentiles, of whom the Church is composed.

V. 21. framed together] So that God is the workman, not onely of the foundation, but also of the whole building.

V. 22. for an habitation of God] Both the whole Church and every particular believer is an habitation of God; for God dwelleth in the Church, Lev.26.11,12. and in every true believer by his Spirit, 2 Cor.6.16.

through the Spirit] Gr. in.

CHAP. III.

Vers. 1. FOr this cause] He maintaineth his Apostleship against the offence of the Crosse, from whence also he taketh an argument to confirm his ministery, affirming that he was not onely appointed an Apostle by the mercy of God; but was also particularly appointed an Apostle of the Gentiles to call them to salvation, because God had so determined it from the beginning, although he deferred a great while the manifestation of that his counsel.

the prisoner of Jesus Christ] Not imprisoned by him, but for him: as likewise in Philemon, he styleth himself a prisoner of Jesus Christ: verse 9. cast in prison for the Gospels sake, and in particular a prisoner for the Gentiles; not onely because he was their special Apostle, but because the ground of his sufferings at this time was the hatred of the Jews his countrey-men, who by their accusation procured him to be imprisoned at Rome: and the greatest cause why the Jews his countrey-men, thus maliced and persecuted him was, for that he made the Gentiles equal unto them, as thereby are, they conceived, impeached the privileges and prerogatives of the Jews above the Gentiles.

V. 2. the grace of God] Gr. Tec. of his grace.

V. 3. He made known] Gr. Tec. it as made.

afore] Or, a little before.

V. 5. which in other ages was not made known] He meaneth not that none knew the calling of the Gentiles before, but because very few in comparison knew of it: and they that did know it, had it revealed unto them darkly, and for the most part under figures in general and confusedly. The mystery of the calling of the Gentiles was revealed in former ages, but not so distinctly and particularly as now it is.

by the Spirit] Gr. in.

V. 7. according to the gift of] Gr. according to the efficacy of.

V. 8. lesse than the least] Or, for the least.

the least of all Saints] The word in the Original ἐλαχιστοτέρῳ, is as it were a double diminitive, and signifieth lesser than the least, if lesser might be; whereby we may learn that this eminent Apostle had descended to the lowest of those three degrees of humility above mentioned. See Rom. chap. 12.

is this grace] Gr. was.

I should preach] See Gal.1.16.

unsearchable] Gr. not to be traced out, or, found.

V. 9. make all men see] Gr. to make clear, or, lightsome to all men.

which from the beginning of the world hath] Gr. from the worlds, or, ages hath.

V. 10. unto the principalities and powers] That is, the blessed Angels, Rom.8.38. Ephes.1.21. Colos.1.16. 1 Pet.3. 22. They are thus called by reason that God doth often make use of their ministery in the governing of Countreys, and Kingdomes, Dan.4.13. and 10. 12. And these Angels themselves are very desirous also to look into, and contemplate the manifold wisdome of God in the governing of his Church, and the dispensing of his gifts and graces in Christ to the faithful, 1 Pet.1.12.

known by the Church the manifold wisdome of God] That in this glorious renovation of the world by Christ, not onely we, but even the Angels themselves also, may have a new proof and document of the wisdome of God in a different effect from what he demonstrated at other times by the different estate and condition of the Church under the Old and New Testament.

V. 11. eternal purpose] Eternal, as the Schools rightly distinguish, is said in a three-fold sense; à parte ante onely, and so is that which had no beginning, but shall have an end: so are the Decrees of God, even of such things as are accomplished in time, and have their period, eternal: and so is that purpose of God eternal, of which the Apostle here speaketh concerning the calling and incorporating of the Gentiles into the mystical body of Christ and true Church of God. Secondly, eternal à parte post onely, that had beginning, but shall have no end; and so are Angels and the souls of men eternal. Thirdly, eternal à parte ante, & à parte post, that which never had beginning, nor shall have an end; and so God onely is eternal.

V. 12. with confidence] Gr. in.

V. 13. faint not] Gr. shrink not back.

at my tribulation] Gr. in.

V. 14. For this cause I bow my knees] He teacheth by his own example, that the efficacy of the doctrine dependeth upon the grace of God, and therefore we ought to joyn prayers to the preaching and hearing of the Word; which are needful, not onely to them who are novices in Religion, and Babes in Christ; but even to those of ripest years and understanding in heavenly mysteries; that they growing up more and more by faith in Christ; being confirmed with all spiritual gifts, may be grounded and rooted in the knowledge of that unmeasurable love, wherewith God the Father hath loved us in Christ, seeing that the whole family, whereof part is already received into heaven, and part is yet here upon earth, dependeth upon that adoption of the heavenly Father in his onely Son.

V. 15. whole family in heaven and earth] Or, fatherhood, or whole stock. *Nyssen in Psal.*c.8. defineth this family to be the whole number of all that are written in the Book of life. Πατριὰν δὲ ἑρμήνευε τὸν σύνταγμα τῶν εἰς τὸν θεῖον κατάλογον συντελουμένων, so the meaning is, That God who is the Father of Christ by nature, is also by adoption the father of all the Church, which is as it were his family, and the whole congregation of his children as well of those that are already glorified in heaven, as of the rest that yet do live by faith here on earth. See Ephes.1.10.

V. 16. grant] Gr. give.

in the inner man] See 2 Cor.4.16.

V. 17. rooted and grounded in love] Gr. founded. Either rooted and grounded in that love wherewith God loved us, which is the root and very foundation of our election: or the meaning is, that our love, wherewith we love God who dwelleth in us by his Spirit, may be firm and constant. Ficta omnia sicut flosculi celeriter decidunt, vera gloria radices agit: the like may be said of charity, Feigned affections and inconstant desires, like blossomes are blowne away with every wind of temptation; true love takes deep root.

V. 18. what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height] Many wits run viot in their Geometrical and Moral discourses upon these dimensions: some conceive that the Apostle alludeth to the dimensions of the Crosse, and by length his longanimity, by Christ; by depth his humility; by length his longanimity, by breadth his charity. Others place the breadth in the extent of charity; the length in perseverance; the heighth in the hope of celestiall rewards; and the depth in the inscrutable judgements of God, Rom. 11,33. See Augustl. Ep. 112. *Et de doct. Christ.l.2.c.*41. Others thus reckon these dimensions: He (say they) comprehendeth the length of the Crosse, who hath learned from the beginning of the world to the end, no man was ever justified or saved but by the Crosse: he comprehendeth the breadth who conceiveth the Catholike Church scattered over the face of the whole earth to have issued out of Christs side: he comprehendeth the height who considereth with himself what is the height of the glory to which Christs humility raiseth us: he comprehendeth the depth, who sounds the bottome, so far as by the Scripture he may, of Gods election, and separating some from the masse of corruption and perdition wherein he leaveth others. The Glosse upon the New Testament resolveth all these dimensions into the immensity of Gods love, saying, Quæ sit latitudo, longitudo, sublimitas, profunditas hoc significat, in figura cubica tanta longitudo quanta latitudo, & tanta latitudo quantum profundum; ita in Domino omnia æqualia sint immensæ infinitati. It is certain that the speech is figurative clothed with a metaphor taken from the Geometricians, who if they will perfectly know any building or structure, exactly measure it according to all these dimensions; and hereby the Apostle would have us labour as exactly to measure the spiritual temple of God, as the Prophets were exact in describing the dimensions of the material, (Ezek. 40.) that so they may understand how perfect it is in every part.

V. 19. And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge] Gr. Tec. the exceeding love of the knowledge of Christ. If it passeth knowledge, how may we know it? The answer is, either it passeth all other knowledge, or that it passeth all the capacity of our wit, to comprehend it fully in our minde. For otherwise, who so hath the Spirit of God perceiveth so much, according to the measure that God hath given him, as is sufficient to salvation, 1 Cor. 2. 15.

filled with all the fulnesse of God] Gr. unto. That you may have abunabundantly in you, whatsoever things are requisite to make you perfect with God, that you may be replenished with all spirituall graces.

V. 20. Now unto him that is able] He breaketh forth into a thanksgiving, whereby the Ephesians may be confirmed in hope of obtaining any thing they ask of him: for he that is able to give us aboue all that we ask, is more bountifull than we can imagine; will certainly freely give us whatsoever we ask according to his will.

in us] Gr. Tec. in you.

V. 21. by] Gr. in.

ages, world without end] Gr. generations of a world of worlds.

CHAP. IV.

Vers. 1. O*F the Lord*] Or, in the Lord.

walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called] See Phil.1.27. Col. 1,10. 1 Thess.2.12. Though all men ought to walk worthy their special calling, that is, so as it becometh men of such a calling, as namely, Magistrates ought to carry themselves, as it befitteth their place of authority, and Ministers, as it becometh their sacred function: yet the verses following shew, that the Apostle here by calling, meaneth the general calling of the faithful, which is this, to be holy as our God is holy, and as we are called to the knowledge of the Gospel, so we should walk according to the prescript of the Gospel, 1 Pet.1.15,16.

V. 3. Endeavouring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace] He exhorteth to perfect agreement, but yet such as is knit with the band of the holy Ghost. By the unity of the Spirit, we may understand, either a full consent and agreement in our spirits, that is, our judgements and affections, that we sweetly conspire together in the love of the same truth, and feele that truth in love: or by the unity of the Spirit may be understood the union of all the members of the entire Church, united together by the holy Spirit, after the manner of a spirituall and mystical body.

V. 4. one body; and one Spirit] An argument of great weight, for an earnest entertaining of brotherly love and charity one with another, because we are made one body, having one God and Father, enlivened with one Spirit, worshipping the Lord with one faith, and consecrated to him with one Baptism, and hope of one everlasting glory, whereunto we are called: whatsoever therefore breaketh charity, breaketh all these bonds asunder.

V. 5. One Lord, one faith, one Baptism] Not to touch upon the Grammatical note, that the Apostle in this verse declineth, εἷς, μία, ἕν, unus, a, um, unus Dominus, una fides, unum baptisma; By one Lord, he understandeth not onely one Lord, our Governour and our Keeper; but also one Lord our Redeemer, who hath dearly bought us, that we should serve him in holinesse and righteousnesse all the days of our life. By one faith, he meaneth one doctrine of our faith Christ Jesus, or beleef in him, whereby all the faithful who lived before under the Law, and now under the Gospel were justified and saved. By one baptism, he understandeth not onely one specie, that is, one kinde of Baptism instituted by Christ in the Gospel; but one Baptisme also numero: for every man is but once baptized; and so the word one Baptism is taken in the Nicene Creed, wherein we profesſe to beleeve one Baptism for the remission of sins, 1 Cor. 8. 6. Luke 1.75.

V. 6. One God and Father of all] See Mal. 2. 10. as in the former verse, by the word Lord, the Father is not excluded from being our Lord, nor the holy Ghost who is styled the Lord, 2 Cor.3. 17. so also neither is the Son excluded here by the word one God, nor the holy Ghost; but by this diversity of titles, onely the order and propriety is shewed, which each person hath in this work. Above all, some refer to the Father, who is the Authour of all, and fountain as it were of the Deity; through all, or by all, to the Son, by whom all things were created; in all to the Spirit, who dwelleth in the hearts of the faithful. Others refer all three to the Father, and thus paraphrase the words; God the Father of all the members of the Church, which is the body of Christ, over all, ever whom he hath the highest command and authority, by all, by whom he exerciseth his special providence, and in all in whom he dwelleth by his Spirit. But because the Apostle saith, One God and Father of all; it is most probable that the three propositions are to be attributed not to any one person or more in several, but to the Deity in common, and our relateth to God his authority, through to his providence, and in to his grace: one God who is above all by his authority, through all by his providence, and in all you that are beleevers by the graces of the Spirit.

in you all] Gr. Tec. in all.

V. 7. measure of the gift of Christ] Therefore not according to merits of congruity or condignity; As the Pelagians taught, whose heresie is condemned in the Council held at Diospolis, wherein the Fathers pronounce an Aathema to all that affirm, Gratiam Dei secundum merita hominum dari. Now if all diversity of grace proceed from the measure of Christs gift, none ought to repine at anothers gifts, nor be proud of his own.

V. 8. When he ascended, &c.] Psalm 68.18. The Psalmist out of whom the Apostle transcribeth this verse, alludeth to the manner of great Princes or Conquerours; who in the day of their triumph, mounting on an high Steed, or taking their chariot, led the captives, some before, and others after them, bound with fetters and chains, and when they came to their palace, divided the spoils which they had taken from their enemies, and bestowed rich gifts upon the captains and souldiers, that deserved best in their wars. Some by ascending on high, understand Christ lifting up himself on the Crosse, but that was properly no ascension, for he was nailed, first to his Crosse, and then the Crosse set up above the earth indeed, but not high. The true meaning of the Text is, when he mounted up through the air, and ascended to the highest heaven the Seat of the blessed, above the visible Spheres. He led captivity captive, that is, as some interpret, a certain number of captives, namely, those Saints that were long held in captivity of death, whose bodies arose at Christs death, Matth.28. 52. and now they accompanied Christ in his triumphant march into heaven. Others understand this captivity more generally, and they distinguish of an active and a passive captivity; of both which the words of the Apostle may be fitly understood; if they be understood of passive captivity, then the meaning is, he took away from Satan, Death, and Hell, all their captives, and made them his captives; changing their miserable captivity, ἐις καλὴν καὶ εὐμοίρειαν, into an holy and happy captivity, whereby they are brought into the obedience of the Gospel: if captivity be understood actively, then the meaning is, that Christ hath captivated the world, flesh, devil, death, and hell; which in several kindes had before captivated mankinde. By the gifts, are meant the gifts of the holy Ghost, conferred upon the Church after Christs ascension.

captivity captive] Or, a multitude of captives.

V. 9. lower parts of the earth] Either down in the earth, which is the lowest part of the world, or into the grave, which is called the heart of the earth, Matth. 12.40. For the heart of the earth is the middle of the earth, as our heart is in the middle of our bowels; and the middle of the earth, as the Philosophers demonstrate, is the lowest part of the earth. For whatsoever is above it any way is nearer the heaven, and consequently higher. Howbeit it is not improbable, that the Apostle alludeth unto Psalm 139 15. My substance was not hid from thee, when I was made in secret, and formed in the lowest parts of the earth; and then the meaning of the Apostle is; He descended into the lowest parts of the earth; that is, into the Virgins womb, Ezek. 28.2.

V. 10. that he might fill all things] Or, fulfill. Either he descended and ascended, that he might fill both heaven and earth with his presence, or replenish the Church with his gifts: or fulfill (for so the word πλήρωσις, sometimes signifieth) all the foregoing Prophecies of him, or fill the whole world with his knowledge and glory, Esa.11.9. Or he doth shew himself every where present by his divine virtue, in the administration which he hath received of God, both in heaven and earth, Matth.28.18.

V. 11. And he gave some Apostles &c.] See 1 Cor.12.28.

and some Evangelists] By Evangelists some understand here the four Writers of the Gospels; some those who are endued with a singular gift of preaching the Gospel, such as Philip was, Acts 21.8. who was yet but a Deacon; others the companions and fellows of the Apostles in the execution of their Office, being not able to supply all places themselves, and such an Evangelist was Timothy, 2 Tim. 4.5.

V. 12. perfecting] Or, making up, or, restoring.

the body of Christ] The mystical body of Christ, which is the Church.

V. 13. Till we all come in the unity of the faith] Or, meet together into the unity. The use of the ministery is perpetual, so long as we are in this world, that is, until having put off the flesh; and throughly and perfectly agreeing betwixt our selves, we shall be joyned with Christ our Head, which is done by the knowledge of the Son of God encreasing in us, and he himself by little and little growing up in us, until we come to be a perfect man, which shall be in the world to come, when God shall be all in all.

the stature of the fulnesse of Christ] Or, age. Some expound this of the resurrection, in which as they conceive, all shall rise in the stature and full age of Christ at his resurrection, which was in the three or four and thirtieth year of his age. But the Apostle here speaketh not of our age, or stature, nor of Christs growth and full age in himself, but in us; and the meaning is, until Christ his mystical body grow to ripeneſſe and perfection, both in respect of all the members to be added thereunto, and also of their growth and perfection in grace, and the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

V. 14. no more children] Berwixt childhood, that is to say, a very weak estate, and our perfect age, which we shall have at length in another world, there is a mean or middle estate, to wit, our youth and going forward to perfection.

tossed to and fro] Or, floting to and fro. He compareth them which rest not themselves upon the word of God, to little Boats or

Skiphs,

Skipps, which are tossed hither and thither with the doctrines of men, as it were with contrary winds; and withall he forewarneth them, that it cometh to passe, not onely by the lightnesse of mans brain, but also by the craftinesse of certain Teachers, who made as it were an art of it.

by the sleight of men] Gr. by the cogging of a Die; or, cheating. In the Original it is κυβεία from κύβος, a Die; whereby is signified, either the levity or inconstancy of men, whose opinions are as variable, and doctrines as uncertain as the casting of a Die; or else their subtilty is meant, who cheat men with false sophisms, as Gamesters do with false Dice.

whereby they lye in wait to deceive] Gr. Tec. according to the circumvention of deceit; or, crafty fetches of the Devil.

V. 15. But speaking the truth in love] Or, being sincere. See Zech. 8. 16. By earnest affection to the truth and love, we grow up into Christ; for he (being effectual by the ministery of his Word, which, as the vital spirits, doth so quicken the whole body, that it nourisheth all the limbs thereof, according to the measure and proportion of each) quickeneth and cherisheth his Church, which consisteth of divers functions, as of divers members, and preserveth the property of every one; and thence it followeth, that neither this body can live without Christ, neither can any man grow up spiritually, who separateth himself from the other members.

V. 16. From whom, &c.] See Col. 2. 19.

every part] Gr. Tec. every member.

V. 17. vanity of their minde] See Rom. 1. 21.

V. 18. Having the understanding darkned] Gr. Being darkned in the understanding.

being alienated from the life of God] Of Christ, who after the manner of the soul, quickneth all his members.

blindnesse of their heart] Or, hardnesse of their heart. See Rom. 1. 21.

V. 19. past feeling] Or, remorseleſſe. Having their conscience seared, as it were, with an hot iron. The word in the Original ἀπηλγηκότες, signifieth properly, without grief, or remorse for their sin, being stupid, like a member that is benummed, which hath no sense in it. To this stupidity custome in sin bringeth a man; for, consuetudo peccandi tollit sensum peccati.

with greedinesse] Or, in excesse.

V. 21. by] Gr. in.

as the truth is in Jesus] As they have learned who acknowledge Christ in deed, and in truth, or as the true rule of life and manner of living is in Jesus, as in the head.

V. 22. put off] See Col. 3. 8.

the old man] See Rom. 6. 6.

corrupt according to the deceitful lusts] Gr. corrupted according to the lusts of deceit.

V. 23. be renewed in the spirit of your] See Rom. 11. 2.

V. 24. that ye put on] The Apostle compareth here the renewing of a man, to a new garment, the natural corruption, to an old out-worn one, which he saith, the faithful ought to put off, and put on the other; for that now being regenerated by the Spirit of God, they should advance, and put on more and more, by the use of the means which God hath appointed for it, as by manful resistance against sin, by the Spirit of God, Rom. 8. 13. by stirring up the gift of God in them, 2 Tim. 1. 6. by attentive hearing and meditating on Gods Word, Psalm 1. 2. 2 Tim. 3. 16. by the worthy participation of the Sacrament, 1 Cor. 11. 27, 28. by pouring out fervent prayers to God, Ephes. 6. 18.

the new man] Thus the Apostle calleth the regeneration or renewing of man, and changing of the will to holinesse and righteousnesse, wherein consisteth the image of God; the former part whereof is expresly'd in this place, and the latter Col. 3. 10. See 2 Cor. 5. 17.

V. 25. putting away lying] Lying in opinion, which is errour; in speech, which is falshood; in life and conversation, which is hypocrisie and dissimulation: because we are members one of another, and there is a near tye betwixt us, it is a sin to deceive any by lying and falshood, but a greater to deceive those of the same corporation, especially to holy a corporation, as is the mystical body of Christ: for if in the natural body (as S. Chrysostome observeth) the members deceive not one another, the eye deceiveth not the foot, nor the foot the eye, nor the tongue the stomach; how much more absurd and monstrous a thing would it be, if the members of the same mystical body of Christ should deceive or supplant one another?

speak every man truth with his neighbour] See Zech. 8. 16.

V. 26. Be ye angry and sin not] See Psalm 4. 4. There can be no true love of God, nor zeal of his glory, where there is no anger nor indignation taken against those who dishonour God: the Apostle doth not therefore simply forbid anger, but teacheth us how to bridle our anger in such sort, that although it be hot, (Jam. 1. 20.) yet that it break not out into contumelious speeches or actions, but that it be straightway quenched, before we sleep, lest Satan taking occasion to give us evil counsel, through his wicked counsels destroy us.

V. 27. Neither give place to the devil] See Jam 4. 7.

V. 28. to give] Or, to distribute.

V. 29. Let no corrupt communication] Word for word, no rotten communication: whereby either he understandeth impure and filthy speech, or, unsavoury and unprofitable. The metaphor is taken from stinking and unsavoury meat, which the stomach loathes; so doth the ears of the godly all corrupt communication.

to the use of edifying] Or, to edifie profitably.

V. 30. grieve not the holy Spirit of God] Be not refractory unto him, offend him not, lest he dispossesse your heart of those joyes and comforts which formerly he hath wrought there, according to his office; and that he be not forced to withdraw himself from you, as from a loathed and offensive harbour. The phrase seemeth to be taken from the words of Esay, c. 63. v. 10. and they imply that the Spirit of God which dwelleth in us, is provoked by such sins he formerly mentioned, they being loathsome and odious to him, to forbear to spend his friendly and comfortable operations in us, and in stead of spend his friendly and comfortable operations in us, and in stead of shewing his love, let us feel his anger: as a Father doth cast a sad look upon his children, while they are committing some evil in his sight, and he must needs, though never so unwilling, chastise them, in stead of embracing them.

whereby ye are sealed] Or, in whom ye are sealed. See Ephes. 1. 13.

V. 32. And be ye kinde one to another] See 2 Corinth. 2. 10. Col. 3. 12, 13.

forgiven] Or, freely pardoning.

CHAP. V.

Verſ. 1. Followers of God] It is the part of children to imitate their father; and Seneca saith truly, Optimus animus pulcherrimus Dei cultus est; the chief worship of God is that which is inward, and consisteth not so much in the contemplation and admiration, as imitating, so far as we are able, the divine perfection of God, which is the brightning of his image in our soul.

V. 2. and walk in love] See John 1 3. 3. 4. and 1 5. 12.

an offering and a sacrifice] There were two Altars in the Temple, the brazen and the golden; the brazen for bloody sacrifices; the golden for the offering of Incense: the former was a type of Christs bloody offering upon the Crosse, the latter of his intercession for us. In regard of both, the Apostle here saith, that Christ gave himself, both for an offering, and a sacrifice of a sweet smelling savour to God for us.

V. 3. But fornication, and all uncleannesse or covetousnesse, &c.] See Col. 3. 5. 1 Thess. 4. 3, &c. In the sensitive appetite the Philosophers place two faculties, the irascible, as they term it, and the concupiscible. Now the Apostle having in the former chapter, verse 31, 32. given rules for the rectifying of the affections seated in the irascible part, or faculty of the soul, here begins to give precepts for the bridling of the concupiscible part, in which the disorderly affections may be reduced to two principals, immoderate desire of wealth, which is covetousnesse, and the inordinate desire of pleasure, which is voluptuousnesse.

V. 4. filthinesse] Or, obscenity.

nor jesting] Or, scurrility, or jearing. The word in the Original εὐτραπελία, signifieth facetiousnesse of speech, and by the Philosophers is taken in a good sense, who make it a virtue; but the Apostle takes it in an ill sense, for scurrilous jesting and unseemly mirth, unbefitting the gravity and sanctity of a Christian: and as in this word, so hath it fallen out in many other, evil manners of men have spoiled them, as pharmacon, tyrannus, sophista, latro, & magus, which at the first were taken in a good sense, but now for the most part, if not altogether, in a bad.

V. 5. For this ye know, that no whoremonger, &c.] Because these sins are such as the most part of men made light of, accounting them either as no sins, or very small ones; he awaketh the godly by this dreadful denunciation, to the end they should so much the more take heed to themselves, flie from them, as most hurtful plagues.

who is an idolater] Unusquisque (saith Jerome upon Amos) adorat sua vitia, every man makes those vices his god to which he wholly giveth himself, and whosoever giveth any part of the worship which is due unto God, either with his body, or with his soul, to any creature, is an idolater: Gulosis venter Deus est, avaris calix mammona, hæreticis doctrina, quod sibi; the politician idolizeth his brain; the heretick, his fantastical opinion; the glutton, his belly; the wanton, his Mistresse; the ambitious, his honour; the covetous, his money; to whom the name of an idolater, in a peculiar manner belongeth; first, in respect of the object common to him, and an idolater properly so taken. The idols of the Heathen (saith the Psalmist) are gold and silver, so are they of the covetous man; the one (as Paulinus acutely observeth) worshippeth the image of his gods of gold and silver in the Church, the other, of the Prince stamp'd upon his coin in his chest. Secondly, in respect of the acts common to them both; for as an idolater feareth his gods, so doth the covetous his gold, daring not to dispose of it for his necessary use. And as the idolater putteth his trust and confidence in his gods, so doth the covetous man in his goods; and as the idolater conceiveth that he holdeth his life from his gods, so the covetous man beleeveth that his life consisteth in the abundance of the things which he possesseth, Luke 12. 15. Lastly, as the idolater setteth his heart, and setteth his affections, and placeth his happinesse in his idoll gods; so the covetous man setteth his heart upon his gold and silver, and holdeth them for his cheefest good, and highest felicity.

V. 6. disobedience] Or, unbelief.

V. 7. Be not ye therefore partakers with them] Because we are not so ready to any thing as to follow ill examples, therefore the Apostle warneth the godly to remember always, that the wicked are but as it were darknesse, and that they themselves are as it were light: (1 Thes. 5.) and therefore the other commit all villanies, as men are wont in the dark: but they ought not only not to follow their examples, but also as the property of light is, to discover, and convince their darknesse, (John 3. 19, 20.) and to walk so, having Christ the true light going before them, as becometh the children of the light.

V. 8. light in the Lord] The faithful are called light, not onely because they have the outward light of the Word before them, and the inward light of the Spirit within them; but also because they give light to others, insomuch that their honest conversation reproveth the life of wicked ones. Matth. 5. 16. Phil. 2. 15.

V. 11. have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darknesse] Sins are called works of darknesse, for four reasons especially; first, because they proceed from darknesse, that is, the ignorance of Gods truth in the unregenerate. Secondly, because they damp the light of nature in all men, and of grace also in the regenerate. Thirdly, because they seek darknesse, and are for the most part committed in the dark; for he that doth evil, hateth and shunneth the light. Lastly, because (without repentance) they bring men to utter and everlasting darknesse in hell.

but rather reprove them] Or, convince them. Not onely by seasonable admonitions and reprehensions, but especially by your godly and exemplary life.

V. 12. a shame even to speak of] Sit honos auribus as well as oculis, there ought to be a continual regard had to the ears, as well as to the eyes of the godly. As elsewhere the Apostle maketh use of the verses of Epimenides and Aratus, so here he seemeth to allude to that verse of Sophocles in his Oedipus, ἀνὰ δ' ὧν αὐδᾶν θέμις ἐστὶν ἀμὴ θέμις ἔργα κρύπτειν.

V. 13. reproved] Or, discovered.

whatsoever doth make manifest, is light] Either sensible light, which maketh things manifest to the eye; or intellectual, which maketh things evident to the understanding; and that is either natural, as the light of reason, or supernatural, as the light of Gods Word, and his Spirit.

V. 14. Wherefore he saith, &c.] Some do take these to be the Apostles own words, uttering them as moved by the Spirit of Christ, as it is ordinary with the Prophets to testifie, Thus saith the Lord; wherefore he saith, that is, God saith by me unto you. Others, as Georgius Syncellus, conceive, that as S. Jude alleageth a sentence out of the Apocryphal book of Enoch, so S. Paul here alleageth this out of an Apocryphal book of Jeremy, in which these formal words are found. S. Cyril conceiveth, that these words are taken out of Esay 51. 9. Awake, awake, &c. but the words following, Oarm of the Lord, awake, as in the ancient days, shew, that there God calleth not upon us to awake, but we upon him. It seemeth most probable, that this allegation of the Apostle is taken out of divers prophetical words, collected together, as namely, in the six and twentieth chapter of Esay and the nineteenth verse, The dead shall live, awake and sing ye that dwell in dust; and chap. 60. verſ. 1. Arise, for the light is come.

Awake thou that sleepest, &c.] See Isa. 60. 1. The Apostle speaketh of the spiritual sleep, both of sin and death; and this his exhortation concerneth as well the faithful, as the unbeleevers; the faithful sleep sometimes in some one sin or other, the unbeleevers are dead in trespasses and sins: the former he exhorteth to be lively and vigilant, by the power of the Spirit of God, whereof they are made partakers already; the other, to rise up from the dead, that by these exhortations apprehending the quickening power of Christ, they should obey the same; even as Lazarus rose by the word and power of Christ from his bodily death, John 11. 43, 44. In summe, forasmuch as all men are to give an account of all their works, at the dreadful tribunal of God, so they are all of them called and summoned by his Word, to make ready their accounts, and prepare for the great Audit-day, and to awake from their sleep, and death of sin, to be enlightened by the light of the Gospel, and to walk answerably to that light.

and Christ shall give thee light] Or, enlighten thee. In the Original ἐπιφαύσει σοι, shall shine upon thee. For he is the Sun of righteousnesse, Mal. 3. 2. The true light that lighteneth every man that cometh into the world, John 1. 9.

V. 15. See then that ye walk circumspectly] Gr. how exactly ye walk. See Col. 4. 5.

V. 16. Redeeming the time] Gr. feasom, or, opportunity of time. Some conceive that the Apostle alludeth to the words of King Nebuchadnezzar to the Chaldeans, Dan. 2. 8. where in the Translation of the Seventy we read, ἐγὼ γνωρίζων γνωρίζω, you delay or gain time, and then the meaning is, Stretch out the time as long as you can, by imbracing all occasions of doing good. Others conceive it to be a metaphor taken from Merchants, who preferre the least profit that may be, before their pleasures, closely following their business: when the markets are at best. We may also give a third interpretation, purchase at any rate all occasion of doing good, that ye may thereby in some sort redeem that precious jewel of time, which ye have formerly lost; as travellers that have staied long at their Inne, when they finde the night coming upon them, they mend their pace, and go as many miles in one hour, as they did before in many.

because the dayes are evil] The dayes are not evil in themselves, for they are all Gods creatures, and it is a foolish superstition of the Gentiles and Astrologians to make difference of dayes, as if some dayes of the moneth or week were lucky, some unlucky: but the dayes are said to be evil, in respect of the corruption of the time, and the persecution of Gods Church; and the meaning of the Apostle is, that the faithful are to look for hard and dismal times, wherein the opportunities of doing good will be cut off, or very much straitned, and therefore it is very needful to anticipate them, by doing as much good as may be, while the time permitteth. See Eccles. 11. 2. John 9. 4. and 11. 9. and 12. 35. Gal. 6. 10.

V. 18. Be not drunk with wine wherein is excesse] Iscungus for the abuse took away all use of wine among the Lacedemonians, and commanded all the vines to be pluck'd up by the roots: and the Mahumetans for a like reason forbid any of their Sect to drink wine under pain of death; their Musselmans and Darvises affirming, that there lyes a devil under every grape: But the Apostle is so farre from simply condemning all use of wine, that he enjoyneth, 1 Timothy 5. 23. to use a little wine for his stomachs sake: and in this very place he doth not forbid the Ephesians to drink wine, but to be drunk with wine wherein is excesse, that is, all kinde of riot, joyned with all manner of filthinesse, and uncleannes; For as S. Jerome rightly observeth, Venter myro oblusus facile desbumat in libidinem; according to that of the Poet; Ebrietas ignis in igne fuit.

with the Spirit] Gr. in.

V. 19. in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs] Some conceive that these three words are Synonymaes, and that the epitheton added to the last, namely, spiritual, is to difference them from profane, light, lascivious, and carnal songs. Others thus distinguish them, by Psalms he meaneth songs of divers arguments, whether they contain Historical narrations, complaints and expostulations, or good nurture and instruction: but by hymns he understandeth such songs onely, as contain the praises of God, and extolling his wondrous works: and by spiritual songs, such as contain the praises of God, sed augustiore quadam forma; such as were more musical, and set to parts, or in a higher key. But it seemeth most probable, that by Psalms, he meaneth the Psalms of David set to the harp or psalter, by Hymns, certain Ditties made upon special occasion; and by spiritual Songs, such as were not composed before-hand, and prick'd before them with musical notes, but such as men endited by an extraordinary gift.

making melody to your heart] That is, with an earnest affection of the heart, and not with the tongue onely; For, Non vox sed votum; non cordula musica, sed cor; Non clamans, sed amans cantat in aure Dei. Whence is that of S. Jerome, Deo non voce, sed corde canandus, nec in tragedorum modum guttur & fauces dulci modulamine colliniendæ, ut in ecclesiis theatrales moduli audiantur & cantica. In which words he condemneth not simply artificial singing and elaborate musick, but such a kinde of light and effeminate musick, as better became the Theatre than the Quire: and whosoever are more taken with the strains of musick, and sweetnesse of the voice, than with the matter of the song, must acknowledge with S. Austine in the tenth of his Confessions, that they are at a fault, and their heart ought to smite them for it. Cum mihi accidit ut me amplius cantus quam res quæ cantatur moveat, pœnaliter me peccare confiteor, & tum malim me non audire cantantem.

V. 21. Submitting your selves one to another] A short repetition of the end, whereunto all things ought to be referred, to serve one another for Gods cause.

V. 22. wives, submit your selves unto your own husbands] See Col. 3. 18. Tit. 2. 5. 1 Pet. 3. 1.

as unto the Lord] That is, in obedience to Gods command: for they cannot be disobedient to their husbands, but they must resist God also, who is the Authour of this subjection.

V. 23. For the husband is the head of the wife] See 1 Corinth. 11. 3.

as Christ is the head of the Church] See 1 Cor. 11. 3.

V. 24. subject unto Christ] Gr. subordinate.

in every thing] Either with this restriction in the Lord; or in every thing which pertaineth to the husband as her head and superiour, and concerneth the good of the family.

V. 25. Husbands, love your wives,&c.] See Col. 3.19.

V. 26. with the washing of water by the word] Gr. laver. By Christs blood shed upon the Crosse, and represented by the water of Baptisme. For it is Christs bloud which cleanseth us from all our sin, 1 John 1.7. By the Word, either he understandeth the sacramental words used in Baptisme, or the promise of free justification and sanctification in Christ received by faith.

V. 27. not having spot or wrinkle] By spots we may understand the deformity of any sinful work; by wrinkle, any duplicity, folding in, or insincerity in the intention: or by spot greater sinnes which defile the conscience, and stain the reputation; by wrinkle, lesser sins, and those of infirmitie, which are some blemish to our spiritual beauty. But then there grows a question, whether the Apostle speaketh of presenting the Church to God in this world, or in the world to come in celestial glory. The answer is, that there is a double perfection, purity and beauty of the Church; absolute, without any spot or wrinkle, and that is not to be found in any of the sons of men, while they are clothed with this body of death; and if we speak of that purity and beauty, the Church is said to be pure, and to have no spot or wrinkle, (2 Cor. 11.2.) not because she is so at the present, but because she is prepared to be so hereafter. As S. Austin noteth, Lib. de nat. & grat. And in the first of his Retractations: Quod dixi quam ſibi Deus elegit gloriosam eccleſiam, non habentem maculam neque rugam, non ideo dixi quia nunc iam omni ex parte talis eſt, (quamvis ad hoc eleCta non dubitetur ut talis ſit) ſed quando Chriſtus apparuerit vita ejus, tunc enim & ipſa cum eo apparebit in gloria. The second is a purity and perfection, pro conditione hujus vitæ, according to the state of this present life; and it consisteth in this, that all sins are avoided or repented of and in Christ forgiven, and his righteousnesse imputed: in this sense the Church is now prefently pure and undefiled, and yet not free from all sinful imperfection.

blemish] Or, blame.

V. 29. no man ever yet hated his own flesh] That is, his own body. That is, no man in his right wits wrongeth his own body, though sometimes mad men tear their own flesh, and others out of erroneous religion, either cut their flesh, as the Baalites did, 1 King. 18. or flea it off, as the ancient hereticks, called the Flagellantes or Whippers, and the Popish Monks and Friers do at this day.

V. 30. of his flesh, and of his bones] Gr. made out of his. He alludeth to the making of the woman, which signifieth our coupling together with Christ, which is wrought by faith, and sealed to us in the sacrament of his Supper.

V. 31. For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, &c.] See Gen. 2.24. Matth. 19.5. Mark 10.7.

two shall be one flesh] See 1 Cor. 6.16. Gr. into one.

V. 32. This is a great mystery] Not that of the bodily marriage, but that of the spiritual, betwixt Christ and his Church, as the Apostle here declareth himself; which union he termeth a mystery, by reason that the same can no way be apprehended by any natural man, nor to be searched out by any understanding whatsoever, but is acknowledged by faith, that Christ is our Head and Bridegroom, and we his spiritual Bride and members, whereby all Christs benefits requisite to our salvation, are bestowed upon us by Christ our Bridegroom, as a dowry, and communicated to us from Christ as our Head, as life in the natural body is conveyed to all the members from the Head.

CHAP. VI.

Vers. 1. Children obey your parents] See Col. 3.20.

in the Lord] For the Lord is the Authour of all fatherhood, and therefore we must yeeld such obedience as he will have us. In the Lord, implyeth both a commandment of childrens obedience from the Lord, and a restriction also, that they so far obey their parents, as they swerve not from the true worship of God. For it is true as Bernard teacheth, that we must yeeld obedience to our parents and superiours, who are in the place of God, as unto God, but then we must adde his limitation, in those things which are not against God.

V. 2. Honour thy father and mother] See Exod. 20. 12. Deut. 5. 16. Eccles. 3. 8. Matth. 15.4. Mark 7. 10.

the first commandment with promise] Gr. in. Seeing there is a promise annexed unto the second commandment, how doth the Apostle say, that this is the first commandment with promise? The answer is, either that the Apostle by ἐντολὴ, derived from ἐντέλλω, understandeth a mandate or injunction of an affirmative duty; and so this is the first commandment with promise. For the second commandment in the decalogue is a prohibition of idolatry, the fourth is a positive or affirmative precept, but with no promise annexed unto it. Or the Apostle understandeth it of special promises, the second commandment is with promise of mercy to a thousand generations, but that promise is general; whereas the promise annexed to this fifth commandment, is a special promise; That thy days may be long,&c.

V. 4. And ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath] See Col. 3.21.

admonition of the Lord] Or, instruction. Such admonitions, instructions, and precepts, (for the word παιδεία, extends so far) as are taken out of Gods Word, and are acceptable unto him.

V. 5. Servants, be obedient to them,&c.] See Col. 3.22. Tit. 2.9. 1 Pet. 2.18.

with fear] That is, with carefull reverence: for slavish fear is not allowable in any, much lesse in Christian servants, who are spiritually free: yet their spiritual freedome taketh not away corporal service; in so much that they cannot be Christs, unlesse they serve their masters willingly and faithfully, so far forth as they may with a safe conscience.

V. 6. Not with eye-service] Either the meaning is, that whatsoever they do in their masters businesse or affairs, they should do it faithfully and sincerely; and not in shew and semblance only; or that they should be as careful of doing their duty in their masters absence, as when their masters eye is upon them; knowing that though their master be out of the way, Gods eye is always upon them, and that he will reward their faithful service, though their masters do not: as on the contrary, severely punish their unfaithfulnesse, though their master do not, or cannot.

heart] Or, soul.

V. 9. And ye masters do the same things] It is the duty of masters to use the authority that they have over their servants moderately and holily, seeing that they in another respect have a common Master, which is in heaven, who will judge both the bond and the free, the master and the servant.

forbearing] Or, moderating.

your master] Some read, both your and their master.

neither is there respect of persons with him] Wisd. 6.7. Ecclus. 35. 12. Rom. 2.11.

V. 10. be strong in the Lord] Be ye strengthened daily more and more by the power of the Lord against your enemies, whereof the means are set down and described, from the 13. verse to the 19. Or these words in the Lord, contain an argument of confidence; be ye encouraged to hold out by that communion which ye have with the Lord by faith; drawing from him all the strength ye stand in need of.

V. 11. Put on the whole armour of God] Having before mustered his Forces, and set all Christians in their ranks, now he armeth them cap à pe. By the whole armour of God he understandeth all the furniture, and store of Christian vertues, together with all the means which God hath ordained to arm and defend us against the temptations of Satan.

against the wiles of the devil] Or, subtile assaults, or, catches. The Greek μεθοδίας, being derived from μέθ, and ὁδὸς, signifieth properly a way-laying, circumvention, or going about, as they do who seek after their prey: and the Apostle may seem to allude to the first of Job, verse 7. where the Lord demanding of Satan, from whence he came; Satan answered, from going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it, and so μεθόδευσιν, in S. Paul, and πεϱιπατοῦντες, in Saint Peter, 1 Pet. 5.8. are much at one.

against principalities] The Apostle doth give here these titles to the devil and his angels, not as if they were set and ordained of God to be true Princes and Governours of the world: but that they do still by force and stratagems usurp that power over this corrupt and wicked world, (which the good Angels have from God) and that by the just judgement of God it is permitted unto them for a time to use that power to the punishment of the wicked, and the exercise of the godly, 2 Cor. 4.4. 2 Thess. 2.9, 10. Ephes. 3.10.

against the rulers of the darknesse of this world] That is, of the state of ignorance, sin, death and confusion which reigneth in this world.

against spiritual wickednesse] Or, wicked spirits. τὰ πνευματικὰ πονηρίας, Word for word, the spirituals of wickednesse; that is, either spirits that are given to all wickednesse, and seek to bring man unto the same: or the spiritual nature and kinde of wickednesse, which is

is the improvement of wickednesse, and far more odious to God and dangerous to the soul (such as are blasphemous injections by Satan and damnable heresies, and deep plots against Religion) than carnall wickednesse or fleshly pollutions.

in high places] Or, heavenly. Of these words there are divers expositions given. Saint Chrysostome and Oecumenius take ἐν τοῖς ἐπουϱανίοις, in for for, and they thus expound the Text, We fight not for such trifles as the earth affordeth, but for heavenly things, for the Kingdome of heaven, and our adoption, whereby we are made the sons of God, and co-heirs with Christ of a celestial crown. Others understand by πνεύματικὰ, high places, places above us, that are upon earth, to wit, in the regions of the air; called sometimes in Scripture heaven. For Satan hath no place nor power more left him in the true and proper heaven, 2 Peter 2.4. Jude 6. Revelations 12.8. Or by wickednesse in celestial places, he meaneth wickednesse in sacris & divinis, wickednesse in the Church, and corruption in the dispensing and administration of holy and heavenly things.

V. 13. evil day] See Ephesians 5.16.

having done all] Or, having overcome all.

V. 14. having your loins girt about with truth] The souldiers of old time had broad and strong girdles, or belts made of durable stuffe, beset with many iron and brasse plates, whereby the weaker parts of the body, that is, the loins and upper part of the belly were armed. Girding fasteneth the body, and strengtheneth it, and is usually in Scripture taken for an expression and sign of strength and vigour, as Job 12.21. Esa. 5.27 and 22.21. with truth: by truth some understand Christ himself, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life: John 14.6. whom all that are baptized put on, Gal. 3.27. Others the truth of doctrine opposed to errours and heresies; others sincerity and uprightnesse; opposed to hypocrisie; which is the truth of our life and actions; and this vertue indeed makes a man firm and steady in all his actions; whereas nothing makes a man more weak and fickle, and faint-hearted in strong trials, than hypocrisie and falshood.

having on the breast-plate of righteousnesse] By the breast-plate of righteousnesse, which is the onely fence for the heart, he understandeth a good conscience, which is not onely, as the Greek Scholiast termeth it, χϱεστὸν σύστημα, an impenetrable coat of male, or armour of proof; but as the Poet ſayeth it a braſen wall, Hic murus abeneus eſto, Nil conſcire ſibi, nullâ pallescere culpâ.

V. 15. And your feet shod] By the feet he understandeth the shins and legs also up to the knees, which the ancients were wont to arm with greaves, which are a kinde of brasen boots, such as the Scripture affirmeth that Goliah went out with against David; 1 Samuel 17.6. these served not so much to ward the legs from the injuries of the weather, as from the hurt of darts, arrows, blowes, or thrusts.

with the preparation of the Gospel of peace] Gr. in. That is, with being ever ready and prepared to professe the faith, and to give an account of the hope that is in you, Rom 10.10. 1 Pet. 3 15. For those who are ignorant, or ashamed, or timerous in this behalf, Satan easily foileth, and bringeth to back-sliding from their holy professi-on: but those who are well prepared, by frequent and profound meditations upon the Gospel, which is the doctrine of our peace with God, are provided with such shoes, buskins, or boots, as it were, that they may freely passe, and crush all impediments in the world, and finish the course of their heavenly calling without any let or offence.

V. 16. Above all] Or, over all.

taking the shield of faith] We must take the shield of faith above all, that is, in our account and esteem; whatsoever other defensive armour we want, let us not want this: Or over all, to cover and defend all other armour. By faith is meant not an Historical faith, or faith of miracles, but a special trust and confidence in God by Christ. For this indeed covers and shelters the weaknesse and imperfections of all other graces, and best defendeth them and us against all the assaults of Satan, Psalm 91.1,9. 1 Peter 1.7,8.

able to quench] Not onely to repel and keep off, but also to take away and destroy all their venemous power of hurring you.

all the fiery darts] That is, saith the Greek Scholiast, concupiscence, or lusts which kindle a fire in the soul, all incentives to sin; as also the most dangerous temptations of incredulity, distrust, and despair. For the metaphor of fiery darts, some understand it of venemous darts, which by their poison so infect the body, that it burneth as it were with fire. Others understand such darts whose points were put into the fire to be hardened, that so they might do the more hurt: both sorts well agree with the nature and property of Satans temptations, which do infect the soul, as it were, with poison; and scorch it, as it were, with fire, if they be not speedily resisted and quenched.

the wicked] Or, that wicked one.

V. 17. And take the helmet of salvation] The hope of salvation purchased by Christ, by whose merits ye are saved already, and may lift up your selves as being already victorious in the combate which you are to fight, 1 Thessalonians 5.8. Take for an helmet the hope of salvation.

and the sword of the Spirit] That is, the spiritual sword, which the holy Ghost hath prepared and put into the hands of the faithful, which hath such an excellent edge, that it will cut off all Satans temptations.

which is the word of God] The Word of God is called the sword of the Spirit, for four reasons: First, because the Spirit maketh this weapon to our hands, 2 Peter 1.21. Secondly, because it slayeth our spiritual enemies, Esa. 11.4. Thirdly, because it is sharper than a two-edged sword, and pierceth to the dividing of the soul and spirit, Hebrews 4.19. Fourthly, because it is no carnal, but a spiritual weapon, 2 Cor. 10.4.

V. 18. Praying always with all prayer and supplication] Although prayer and supplication are usually taken for the same; yet here some distinguish them thus; prayer is here taken, fay they, for a deprecation of some evil, or temptation, that it may not overtake us: by supplication, an earnest request to God for his help and grace, that if it be his will and pleasure to let us fall into some temptation, we may yet continue constant in this trial of our faith, and obtain an happy issue, 1 Cor. 10.13.

in the Spirit] That is, being divinely moved and excited by the Spirit, Rom. 8.25. Or earnestly and heartily, John 4.24. Rom. 12.11.

V. 19. And for me] See Col. 4.3. 2 Thess. 3.1. utterance] Gr. Speech.

that I may open my mouth] Greek, in the opening of my.

boldly] Greek, in liberty, or freely.

V. 20. an ambassador] The Apostles are called Ambassadours in four regards especially: First, because as an Ambassadour speaketh nothing but what he hath commission for from his Prince; so neither ought the Apostles and Ministers of God to deliver any thing but that for which they have commission from God. Secondly, because as Ambassadours have respect wheresoever they are sent, and protection also; in regard they represent the person, and deliver the words of their Prince: so ought the Ministers of the Gospel also to be respected and protected, because they are sent from the Prince of heaven, and deliver his message. Thirdly, because as Ambassadours are publike Ministers of State, and confined to no particular place, but are to go wheresoever the Prince sends them: so the Apostles were publike Ministers of God, confined to no certain countrey, but sent to preach to all Nations. Fourthly, because as Ambassadours of all other Messengers speak the most freely, and boldly, being backed with the authority of their Prince, and warranted by their commission: so of all other the Ministers of the Gospel ought to use freedome and boldnesse of speech, 2 Cor. 5.20. & 7.4. & 10.1. Ephes. 6.19.

in bonds] Or, in a chain. In the Original it is ἐν ἁλύσει, in a chain. For as the Learned Antiquaries observe, the Apostle at this time was not in prison with fetters, but in the custody of a Souldier with whom he might go abroad, having a chain on his right arm, which was tyed to the souldiers left arm.

therein] Or, thereof.

boldly] Gr. freely.

V. 24. in sincerity] Or, with incorruption ἐν ἀφθαρσίᾳ, word for word in incorruption; or with incorruption: and the meaning is, either the grace of Christ be with you, which grace is incorruptible: or grace be with them that love Christ in incorruption, that is, in sincerity, not feignedly and hypocritically; or that love Christ to incorruption, that is, by him to obtain life everlasting.

ANNOTATIONS
PHILIPPIANS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

THE Philippians hearing of the imprisonment of the Apostle at Rome, were much troubled at it, and presently dispatched Epaphroditus to visit him, and supply his wants; by whom the Apostle understanding that there were some false Teachers and scandalous livers crept in amongst them, who corrupted the Doctrine of the Gospel, and became enemies to the Crosse of Christ: Upon this occasion writeth this Epistle, wherein he acquainteth them with his present condition, thanksfully acknowledgeth their tender love and care over him, pathetically complaineth of the perverters of his Doctrine, and disturbers of their peace, and with many godly Admonitions and Exhortations, endeavoureth to frame their lives to an heavenly conversation.

The divine conceptions and expressions in this Epistle, branch themselves into

1. Consolations against the scandall of the crosse, shewing that all the sufferings of the godly, redound to the furtherance of the Gospel, and their unspeakable comfort, and everlasting reward. From the 12. verse of the first chapter to v. 27.
2. Exhortations to concord, to humblenesse of minde, and patience; to mortifie the flesh, and account all things losse for Christ; to set their heart and affections upon Heaven and Heavenly objects, in a continual expectation of Christ from thence; to moderation, devotion, and all Christian virtues: from the 27. verse of the first chap. to verse 10. of chap. 4.
3. Gratulations for their zeal, love, knowledges, fruits of Righteousnesse, and in special, for their bounty to him, at which he much rejoyced; not so much for the supply of his own wants, as the abounding of Gods grace in them. Chapter 1. to verse 12. and chapter 4. from verse 10. to verse 20. where he concludeth his Epistle with salutations and prayers.

CHAP. I.

WHich are at Philippi] Gr. which are in Philippi. V. 1. with the Bishops and Deacons] The Synod of Nice forbad two or more Bishops to have their Seats in one City, and before that, Cornelius Bishop of Rome upbraids Novatus with ignorance (as Eusebius writeth in his sixth Book of Ecclesiastical story) for that he knew not that there ought to be but one Bishop in that Church, in which he could not be ignorant that there were fourty six Presbyters: and Oecumenius and Chrysostome affirm as much of Philippi, it being but one City, it cannot be supposed that there should be in it at the same time, more Bishops in that restrained sense, as the word Bishop was afterwards taken. Here therefore by ἐπισκόποις, and διακόνοις, we are to understand the whole Ministery at Philippi, consisting of Presbyters, to whom the government of the Church was committed; and Deacons, who not onely had the care of the poor, but also assisted the Ministers in their Ecclesiasticall function.

V. 3. remembrance] Or, mention.

V. 5. For your fellowship in the Gospel] Or, concerning. That by our Ministery ye have been brought to the communion and fellowship of the profession of the Gospel, and have so continued from the first day that you heard of it, even till now.

V. 6. will perform it] Or, will finish it.

until the day of Jesus Christ] The Spirit of God will not forsake you unto the very latter end, until your mortal bodies shall appear before the judgement of Christ to be glorified.

V. 7. I have you in my heart] Or, you have me in your heart.

in as much as both] Or, how that both.

ye all are] Or, ye all were.

partakers of my grace] Or, partakers with me of grace; or, of the same grace with me. Ye are all partakers with me of the same grace and mercy of God, in your effectual calling: Or, by grace he meaneth that honour which God conferred upon him, in making him a noble Confessour of the truth, and thinking him worthy to suffer for so good a cause. It seemeth therefore that some of the Philippians were partakers with the Apostle in his bonds, which the Apostle was so far from esteeming any disgrace or disparagement to him, that he accounted them a grace, and an ornament to him. As also did the noble Martyr Babylas, who gave charge at his death, that his bolts should not be knock'd off his feet, but be buried with him.

V. 9. in knowledge] By knowledge some understand the contemplative science of divinity and celestial mysteries: by αἴσθησις, a practical or experimental knowledge, a sensible feeling of the work of grace in our hearts.

judgement] Or, sense.

V. 10. approve things, &c.] Or, trie. The words in the Original δοκιμάζειν τὰ διαφέροντα, may bear a double construction, Either I pray God that your love may abound in all knowledge and judgement sensibly to discern the difference between the truth of God, and vain fancies of men; or between earthly trash and heavenly treasure: or, I pray God your love may abound in all knowledge and judgement, whereby you may approve of, and rightly value the excellent mysteries of salvation.

are excellent] Or, differ.

V. 11. filled with the fruits of righteousnesse] Gr. Tec. fruit. The fruits of righteousnesse are good works, both pleasing to God, and profitable to men. For righteousnesse may be compared fitly to a tree, whose buds are good intentions and purposes; blossomes, good words; and fruits, good works. If we follow the reading of Tecla, and the Greek Scholiast, καρπὸν in the singular number, then by this fruit which we bear by being ingrafted into the true Vine, Christ Jesus, we may understand peace and joy in the holy Ghost, which is the fruit of the righteousnesse of faith.

V. 12. understand] Gr. know.

have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the Gospel] Gr. come rather. Here he preventeth the offence that might be taken at his persecution, whereby divers took occasion to disgrace his Apostleships to whom he answereth, that God had blessed his imprisonment in such wise, that he is by that means become more famous, and the doctrine of the Gospel is by this occasion further spread, although not with like affection in all men.

V. 13. my bonds in Christ] Or, for Christ. That is, the bonds and imprisonment which I suffer for Christs sake, howsoever they were by Satan and his complices intended to the disgrace and hinderance of the Gospel, yet quite contrary by the providence and goodnesse of God, they are turned to my great honour, and the advancement also of true religion; for all Nero's Court rings of my bonds, and the cause thereof.

the palace] Or, Cæsars Court.

in all other places] Or, to all others.

V. 14. word without fear.] Greek Tec. word of God without fear.

V. 16. The one preach Christ of contention] Either out of envy, to out-strip me, or a desire to procure my death, that Nero through their preaching, hearing of the general dispersing of the doctrine taught by me, might be thereby inraged to take away my life, whom he hath now in bonds, to do with me what he will.

sincerely] Or, purely.

adde] Gr. Tec. stir up.

V. 17. set for the defence of the Gospel] Κεῖμαι, signifieth properly to lye, and so it may be here taken, and then the meaning is, I lye out of love preach the Gospels to further my account at the last day, knowing that I lye in prison for the Gospel sake, and by that my imprisonment am hindred in the exercise of my Apostolical function. If we retain the common translation, I am set for the defence of the Gospel, then the meaning is, God hath appointed me a Champion of the Gospel, and set me in my station, to maintain it; which, through the power of his grace, I will keep, whatsoever dangers or terrours are before me.

V. 18. and I therein do rejoyce] He sheweth by setting forth his own example, that the end of our afflictions is true joy, and that through the operation of the Spirit of Christ, which giveth to them that ask.

V. 19. shall turn to my salvation] As Joseph spake to his brethren, Gen. 50. 20. You thought evil against me, but God turned it to good; so the Apostle here comforteth himself with this, that whatsoever mischief his adversaries pretended against him, by adding affliction to his bonds, yet that God would so order all things, that even the persecution which was raised against him, should turn to the furtherance of his salvation, and increase of his joy here, and glory hereafter.

V. 20. earnest expectation, and my hope] We must continue even unto the end, with great confidence, having nothing before our eyes but Christs glory; whether we live or die, my hope is, that in nothing I shall be ashamed; that in nothing they can do, or that can befall me, I shall have any cause to be dejected, abashed, or discouraged.

with] Gr. in.

V. 21. For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain] Or, Christ is to me life, and death is gain] In Greek, as sometimes also in Latine, a Verb in the Infinitive mood is put for a Noun, as, Nostrum hoc vivere triste, for, nostra hæc vita tristis; and Scire tuum nihil est, for scientia tua nihil est: so here, mihi vivere est Christus, for, mihi vita Christus, ἐμοὶ τὸ ζῆν, ἡμῖν ζωὴ, ὁ Χριστός. And in this sense Nyssen understandeth the phrase in Epitaph. Basil. χριστὸς ἦν ἀμφοτέροις τὸ ζῆν, which the learned Interpreter thus rendereth, Christus vita utrique erat, Christ was life to them both, and death a like advantage: The meaning is evidently this, Christ is my life here by grace, and hereafter by glory; he is both the Author and the end of my life; I live for him, I live to him, I live in him, I live by him, and if I be put to death, that shall no way endamage me, but rather bring me great advantage, in regard that thereby I shall exchange and gain heaven for earth, and an happy eternal life, for this miserable and mortal. Or all the gain I aym at in life or death, is Christ, namely, to glorifie him by my service. Act. 20. 24. & 21. 13.

V. 22. But if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labour] Or, but whether to live in the flesh be profitable for me, or what I should chuse. That Christ is magnified in my body, whether of the two I should chuse, life or death, I cannot resolve.

V. 23. For I am in a strait betwixt two] I am perplexed and doubtful betwixt these two desires and wishes, there being very forcible and weighty arguments on either side.

having a desire to depart] Or, be dissolved; or, loosed. To return to my own and proper home, 2 Cor. 5. 6. 8, 9. 2 Tim. 4. 6. The word in the Original ἀναλῦσαι, or, ἀναλυθῆναι, signifieth either to be resolved, namely, into my first principles, as the Philosophers speak; or, dissolved, whereby the Apostle insinuateth, that death is no destruction, but a dissolution onely, or taking asunder the parts, of which we are composed; this, a separation of the soul from the body. The word signifieth also to change our abode or dwelling, that is, to depart this life, by a metaphor taken from those that quit their Inns, to further their travel homewards; or from such as be ready to go to Sea, and to set Sail for another countrey, untie and loosen the cables, whereby the ship lay fastened and bound at the shore. It signifieth also, to be released, and set at large, and at liberty; and it is very probable, that the Apostle in this phrase ἀναλῦσαι, had a reference both to his bonds and to his death; and his meaning is, I desire to be discharged and released, as out of a common Gaol, so also out of the prison of my body, that I may presently be with Christ my Saviour in heaven, in rest and bliss.

V. 24. Nevertheless to abide in the flesh] Here we have an example of a true shepheard, who maketh more account how he may profit his flock, than of any commodity of his own whatsoever, though it were better for his own particular to glorifie Christ by his present death and Martyrdom, that so he might presently enjoy Christ, and receive his Crown of glory; yet he chuseth rather to abide in the flesh, and prolong his life, though in miseries, perils, and bonds, for the furtherance and joy of their faith.

V. 26. for me] Gr. in me.

V. 27. Onely let your conversation be, &c.] See Ephes. 4. 1. Col. 1. 10. 2 Thes. 2. 12. Having ended his Preface, he descendeth now to exhortation; and first of all, he exhorteth to unity and consent, that being knit together with common bonds, they continue through the strength of faith to bear all adversity in such sort, that they do nothing unworthy the profession of the Gospel.

stand fast in one spirit] It is a metaphor taken from wrestlers, that keep their ground, and shrink not a foot.

V. 28. in nothing terrified by your adversaries] We ought not to be disheartened, but rather encouraged by the persecutions which the enemies of the Gospel threaten and raise against us, seeing that they are certain witnesses and evidences from God himself, both of our salvation, and of their destruction.

V. 29. For unto you it is given] Gr. Tec. unto us. He proveth what he said before, that suffering persecution is a token of our salvation, because it is a gift of God to suffer for Christ, which gift he bestoweth upon his own, as he doth the gift of faith. (2 Tim. 3. 12. 2 Thes. 1. 5.)

V. 30. Having the same conflict which you saw in me] Or, same fight. At my being with you, whereof we reade, Acts 16. 19, &c.

and now hear to be in me] By the relation of others what I now endure in my bonds here at Rome.

CHAP. II.

VERS. 1. ANy consolation] A most vehement exhortation to unity and Christian love, by way of Rhetorical adjuration; as if he should say, As ever you look to receive any comfort in Christ, or reap benefit by his love, and the communion between you and the Saints of God, fulfil my joy, by keeping the unity of the Spirit in the bond of love.

V. 4. Look not every man] The Apostle useth a word, which doth properly signifie to aym or look narrowly as to a mark we shoot at; and his meaning is, that we should not principally or onely aym at our own honour, or profit: for otherwise a Christian ought to provide for his own household, 1 Tim. 5. 8.

V. 5. Let this minde be in you] Or, the same. Be you so humble and charitably minded, and so respect the good of others, even with neglect of your own, as we see Christ our Saviour did.

V. 6. in the form of God] Either in the nature and essence of God, being very God, as the ancient Fathers generally expound the word μορφὴ here used; or in the state, that is, glory and majesty of God, appearing no otherwise, neither to Angels, nor to men, than as God in Divine glory and majesty.

not robbery] It was his right by nature (See John 5. 8.) to be equal with God, and therefore the challenging it, could be no usurpation of anothers right, or taking to himself, that which was not his own: A like phrase is used in the Syriack Ritual, where when Christ came to John to be baptized of him, John answereth, ὁ δίκαιμα ἁρπαγμὸν ἀφιέναι, that is, I cannot commit a robbery by taking that upon me which belongeth not to me.

V. 7. made himself, &c.] Gr. emptied himself.

of no reputation] Devested himself of his robes of majesty and glory, and brought himself as it were to nothing. Word for word, evacuated himself; laid aside for the time his divine Majesty; so Nazianzen, κένωσις δυτὸς ὁρατὴ.

Form of a servant] Either the true nature of man, who is a servant to God; or the quality and condition of a servant living in subjection, and receiving stripes for us. See Esa. 53. 2, 3, 4, 5.

likenesse of men] Or, habit. Like other meer men, as Heb. 2. 14. and 4. 15. Rom. 8. 3.

V. 8. fashion as a man] Or, shape. As a true man (not in shew and appearance onely) as Joh. 1. 14. we saw his glory as the glory of the onely begotten Son of God. Where as is demonstrationis, non similitudinis.

he humbled himself] In this verse there is a kind of gradation: for it is more to become obedient than to humble himself: more to yeeld unto death, than to become obedient: more to be crucified, than simply to die. For it was to submit himself to a most painfull, ignominious and a curfed death, Gal. 3. 13.

V. 9. Wherefore God] Because he humbled himself so low, God exalted him so highly, viz. above the grave in his resurrection, above the earth in his ascension, above the heavens in placing him at his right hand.

above every name] That is, a dignity, glory, and power, above all names. For by means of this exaltation he hath enstalled him in the possession and glorious administration of his heavenly kingdom, wherein his divine Majesty which had been eclipsed for a while, doth shine again in full and perfect glory.

V. 10. at the name of Jesus] The Apostle in these words seemeth to have reference to Esa. 45. 23. and the meaning is, that all creatures have reference to Christ, and yeeld him all obedience, either voluntarily, or by constraint, as to their Soveraign King, at whose very name they should fear and tremble. This is in part now performed in the Catholike Church dispersed through the whole world; but shall be perfectly accomplished at the dreadful day of Judgement, Rom. 14. 11.

of things in heaven, &c.] Or, those. Of all creatures whereof they are, either in heaven as Angels, and the souls of them that sleep they are, either in heaven as Angels, and the souls of them that sleep in the Lord; or on earth, as men living; or under the earth, as devils in hell and damned Ghosts. For though Angels and Spirits have neither corporal knees, nor fleshly tongues, as men have; yet they have some means, whereby they are bound, and shall whether they will or no, expresse and testifie their subjection to our Lord and Saviour. See 1 Cor. 13. 1. and Apoc. 1. 7. and 5. 13. Or, Angels, men alive, and devils, Rev. 5. 13.

things on earth] Or, those.

things under the earth] Or, those.

V. 12. work out your own salvation] That is, employ all your abilities, lities, and endeavours to approve, and practise all the means, which God hath appointed for the accomplishment of your salvation, 2 Cor. 7.1. Finish your sanctification in the fear of God.

with fear] Fear and trembling are not here opposed to spiritual confidence, but to carnal security; and imply no more than a holy reverence, humility and carefulness, (Psal.2.11. Heb.12.28.) as Fulgentius speaketh, ne superbi amittamus quod indigni accepimus. Fear we may, and must out of the consideration of our own infirmity: yet always trust and be confident in God, who worketh in us both the will and the deed; by whose power we are kept through faith to salvation, 1 Pet.1.5.

V. 15. harmless] Or, sincere.

ye shine] Or, shine ye, or, appear.

V. 17. and if I be offered] Gr. poured forth. If I be poured forth as a drink-offering upon the sacrifice of your faith; as if he had said, I have brought you Philippians to Christ, and now my desire is, that you present your selves a lively sacrifice to him, and then shall it not grieve me to be offered up as a drink-offering, to accomplish this your spiritual sacrifice, 2 Tim. 4. 6.

V. 19. But] Or, moreover.

V. 20. like minded] Or, so dear unto me.

your state] Gr. those things that concern you.

V. 21. For all seek their own] See 1 Cor. 10. 24. All, that is, the greater part: for he excepteth Timothy and Epaphroditus: and his meaning is, that it is a vice incident to most, to prefer their own profit and worldly ends, before the glory of Christ.

V. 25. messenger] Gr. Apostle.

V. 28. the less sorrowful] Gr. more without sorrow.

V. 29. hold such in reputation] Or, honour such.

V. 30. work of Christ] By the work of Christ, he meaneth his labour in preaching: or his watching and pains taking in ministring to Pauls necessity, calling it the work of Christ to visit Christ being poor and in bands in the person of Paul, Matth. 25. 36, 40.

CHAP. III.

Vers. 1. Rejoyce in the Lord] Not in worldly comforts and contentments; or not in carnal rites and observations; but in the Lord with a spiritual and heavenly joy.

V. 2. Beware of dogs] By dogs he understandeth the false Apostles, whom he calleth by this vile and reprochful name, because they barked at the light of truth, fawned and bit found and sincere preachers with their slanders: or because they returned unto their former gross and scandalous vices, as the dog to his vomit, 2 Pet. 2. 22.

evil workers] Either deceitful workers, as 2 Cor. 11. 13. who seemed to seek the glory of God; but indeed aimed at their own profit, honour, or glory: or false teachers, who under pretence of building Gods Church, pulled it down; who took great toyl and pains, but onely to vent and further spread their erroneous and dangerous doctrine.

the concision] He calleth them so, not for that they made cuttings in their flesh, after the manner of the superstitious Gentiles; but because by urging circumcision they made a rent and concision in the Church: or the preposition κατα in κατατομη, in κατα χθονιος, and divers other words, is taken in the worser sense, to disgrace and disparage the circumcision they so much boasted of, which was now no more a seal of Gods covenant, but a meer cutting of the flesh with an incision also, and wounding of the conscience.

V. 3. we are the circumcision] We now are to be accounted of the true circumcision, who have our hearts circumcised, and our wicked lusts and affections cut off, by the grace of Christ serving God in purity of life.

V. 4. confidence in the flesh] Trust not, nor value our selves by external privileges which concern the outward man, or rely not upon carnal rites.

V. 5. of the stock of Israel] See 2 Cor. 11. 22.

an Hebrew of the Hebrews] Not a proselyte, but a native Hebrew, born of Hebrew parents, without any mixture of Gentiles in my lineage.

as touching the Law, a Pharisee] According to the strict observation of the law, Act. 23. 6. & 26. 5.

V. 6. persecuting the Church] See Act. 22. 4. & 26. 11. 1 Cor. 15. 9. Gal. 1. 13.

V. 7. were gain to me] Those things which while I was a Jew I accounted rare and singular prerogatives, I now make no reckoning of; but flight them as not onely worthless, but some way prejudicial to my better calling.

V. 9. be found in him] That I who was lost before in my self, might be found in him, as a branch engrafted into the true Vine, Joh. 15. 2. or a member incorporated into his mystical body.

not having mine own righteousness] That is, to be in Christ, to be found not in our own righteousness, but clothed with the righteousness of Christ imputed to us.

V. 10. That I may know him] Not onely contemplatively, but also practically; that I may feel the power of his resurrection, in raising me first from the death of sin to the life of grace; and after from the death of nature, to the life of glory.

the fellowship of his sufferings] That I may experimentally finde what exceeding joy and comfort it is to suffer for him, and with him.

V. 11. resurrection of the dead] He speaketh not of the resurrection of the dead common to all, but of a resurrection to a glorious and immortal life, Luk. 14. 14. Joh. 5. 29. In the Original it is not ἀναστασις, but ἐξανάστασις which some of the learned observe to be always taken for the resurrection of the just; or resurrection of life, which is opposed to the resurrection of condemnation.

V. 12. for which also I am apprehended] For we run, but so far forth as we are laid hold on by Christ; that is, as God giveth us strength, and sheweth us the way. Or, I now follow hard to overtake and lay hold on Christ, who when I before wandred and fled from him, apprehended me and laid hands on me by his grace, Psal. 119. 176.

V. 13. reaching] Gr. stretching.

V. 14. the mark] The prize of heavenly glory, for which we run in the holy race set before us, 1 Cor. 9. 24, &c.

V. 15. as many as be perfect] As many as are fully instructed in this mystery, and truly strive for Christian perfection. He said before vers. 12. that he was not already perfect; so that in this place he calleth them perfect which had well profited in the knowledge of Christ and the Gospel, whom he serveth against the ruder and more ignorant. See more 1 Cor. 2. 6. Or, as many as think your selves perfect.

V. 16. By the same rule] Of faith and life, to wit, the word of God, not crossing one another in our ways of teaching, or course of living.

V. 17. followers together of me] See 1 Cor. 4. 16.

V. 18. For many walk] He setteth forth the false Apostles in their colours, not out of malice, or emulation; but with sorrow and tears; to wit, that they regarded nothing else, but the commodities of this life; that is to say, their enjoying peace and quietness, and to flow in abundance of wealth, and worldly pleasures, and live in honour and estimation among men, whose miserable end he forewarneth them of.

enemies of the Cross of Christ] Though they preach Christ crucified, yet partly by not mortifying their fleshly lusts; partly by preaching righteousness by the law, they undermine the doctrine of the Cross, and really oppose the power and virtue of Christs passion.

V. 19. whose end is destruction] Both of body and soul in hell. Mat. 10. 28. See also Rom. 6. 21, 23.

glory is in their shame] Who glory in those things whereof they ought to be ashamed; or which in the end will prove their shame and confusion, Rom. 6. 21.

V. 20. For our conversation is in heaven] Zanchius translateth it our burgership; others our civil society, or politie; the Syriack our trade, or affairs. The Original πολίτευμα, signifieth more than can be expressed in one word in our vulgar language. The full meaning is we look higher than the earth, we set our affection upon the things that are above; we carry our selves like fellow citizens of Saints; there we live according to the laws of heaven; and here on earth in part enjoy the privileges of the celestial Jerusalem.

look for the Saviour] See 1 Cor. 1. 7. Tit. 2. 13.

V. 21. our vile body] Gr. the body of our vileness.

his glorious body] Gr. the body of his glory.

CHAP. IV.

Vers. 1. My joy and my crown] My honour and greatest ornament; or for whose knowledge and profiting in the Gospel through my labours among you, a crown is laid up for me in heaven, 2 Tim. 4. 8.

V. 2. beseech Evodias] Or, exhort.

beseech Syntyche] Or, exhort.

V. 3. true yoke-fellow] By yoke-fellow the Apostle understandeth not his wife, as some of the ancients imagined: for he had no wife when he wrote his first Epistle to the Corinthians, as appears, 1 Cor. 7. 7. and we read not that ever he married afterwards; but either he understanded it the husband of one of the women he mentioned before, or some chief and principal pastour to whom the Epistles of the Apostles were usually addressed, and by them afterwards read before all the congregation.

women which laboured with me in the Gospel] Not which preached the Gospel with S. Paul, but who took pains to minister unto the Apostle, and were partakers of the combats and difficulties which he suffered from the enemies of the Gospel.

whose names are in the book of life] See Revel. 3. 5, & 20. 12. & 21. 27. A metaphor taken from the enrolling of Citizens or Souldiers, that they may be known and held for such. Or, to call is called here the book of life, because therein are written all the elect who are ordained to eternal life, Exo. 32. 32. Luk. 10. 20. Revel. 3. 5. & 17. 8. & 20. 12, 15.

V. 4. Rejoyce in the Lord] See Philip. 3. 1.

V. 5. moderation] Or, equity, or equal carriage.

The Lord is at hand] Either for your present succour, Psal. 33. 18. or he will come shortly to set an end to all your sufferings; and revenge all the wrongs, done to all his Saints, viz. at the day of Judgement.

V. 6. Be careful for nothing] See Matt. 6. 31, 34. 1 Pet. 5. 7.

supplication with thanksgiving] So David beginneth very often with supplication and tears, but endeth with thanksgiving.

V. 7. peace of God] Gr. Tec. Christ. The true spiritual and incomprehensible rest and quietness of minde wrought by Gods Spirit in your hearts, will keep you from all terrour, anxiety and trouble. See Rom. 5. 1.

hearts and minds] He divideth the heart and the minde; by the heart, understanding the will and affections; by the minde, the understanding or intellective faculty.

through] Or, in.

V. 8. honest] Or, venerable.

V. 10. your care of me hath flourished again] Or, is revived. A metaphor taken from Plants which are dead in the Winter, but revive and flourish in the Spring: so it should seem that their care for the Apostle was intermitted for a season; either through forgetfulness, or want of opportunity to send unto him; but now put forth as it were again, as flowers do in the Spring.

V. 11. be content] See 1 Tim. 6. 5, 8.

V. 12. abased] Or, humbled.

V. 13. I can do all things] The word in the Original ἰσχύω, signifieth not properly I can do all things, but I am able for all things; namely, those things he mentioned before, which were transitory passions than actions, as to be abased and to suffer need, &c.

through] Gr. in.

V. 15. as concerning giving] Or, to the account of giving.

V. 17. Not because I desire a gift] It is all one to me whether I want or abound; but in this I desire a benefit may accrue unto you for this fruit of your love will be allowed upon your account at the last day.

V. 18. I have all] Or, I have received all.

an odour of a sweet smell] He alludeth to the sweet smelling savours offered in the old law.

a sacrifice acceptable] See Heb. 13. 16.

V. 22. of Cesars household] This Cesar was Nero, in whose palace S. Pauls bonds were made manifest, Phil. 1. 13. and God gave such a blessing to his preaching and sufferings, that he made some Converts there, who afterwards proved martyrs, namely, Evellius and Torpetes, if at least we may beleeve the Romane Martyrologie.

ANNOTATIONS
COLOSSIANS.

The Argument and Analysis.

Saint Paul according to his Apostolical Function, taking care of al Churches, and hearing that at Colosse divers weeds sprang up, which hindered the growth of the Gospel; namely, Heathenish opinions, concerning the mediation of Angels, and Jewish superstitions in the observation of legal Rites, writeth this Epistle to them, wherein he vouseth up these weeds, proving to them, that Christ is our only Mediatour, by whom we have access to God; and that the Body being come, the legal shadows are to vanish away.

The godly instructions treasured up in this Epistle, partly tend to,

1. The confirmation of the Christian Faith in the Deity and Kingdom of Christ, and his triumph over principalities and powers, and our redemption, regeneration, and justification by him, Chap. 1. 2.
2. The regulating a godly life and conversation, by performing all such duties as are required of all that embrace the Gospel.

1. Absolutely, and in general, as to mortifie the lusts of the flesh, to speak the truth, to avoid scandal, and to do works of Mercy and Charity.
2. Relatively, and in particular, as namely, such as are required from

1. Fathers to Children.
2. Children to Fathers.
3. Husbands to Wives.
4. Wives to Husbands.
5. Masters to Servants.
6. Servants to Masters.

CHAP. I.

Vers. 2.  Which are at Colosse] Colosse is a City situated in Phrygia, not far from Hierapolis and Laodicea, on the side they bend towards Lycia and Pamphilia.

and peace from God] See Rom. 1. 7.

V. 4. to all the Saints] See 2 Cor. 1. 1.

V. 5. For the hope] Hope is here taken by a Metonymie, for the thing hoped for; to wit, those glorious things which our hope assureth us are laid up for us in heaven, Rom. 8. 24.

V. 8. your love in the Spirit] Your spiritual love, or your love which cometh from the Spirit.

V. 9. in all wisdom] See Ephes. 1. 8.

V. 10. walk worthy of the Lord] See Ephes. 4. 1.

unto all pleasing] Or, to please him in all things.

V. 11. his glorious power] Gr. the power of his glory.

with joyfulness] Our patience must not be unwilling, and as it were, drawn from us by force, but proceed from a joyful minde, Act. 5. 41. Rom. 5. 3. Jam. 1. 2.

V. 12. unto the Father] We cannot otherways consider of God to our salvation, but as he is Christs Father in whom we are adopted; beside, the efficient cause of our salvation is the onely mercy of God the Father, who maketh us meet to be partakers of eternal life, by the Word and Spirit.

to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light] Gr. for, or, to a part of the lot of saints in light.

in light] In the Kingdom of his grace and glory, which is called light, in regard of the true knowledge of God that shineth therein; and because of the eternal glory and brightness in heaven which followeth upon the same, Jam. 1. 17.

V. 13. his dear Son] Gr. the Son of his love.

V. 14. we have redemption] See Rom. 3. 24.

V. 15. who is the image] See Heb. 1. 3. Christ is here said to be the image of God, as well in respect of his eternal birth from the Father, being the express and eternal image of his person, Heb. 1. 3. as also in respect that being made man, God the Father did in him, and by him, as a lively image set forth before our eyes his glorious attributes of wisdom, goodness, righteousness, and almightiness, &c. John 14. 1. & 14. 9. 1 Tim. 3. 16.

of the invisible God] The Father is called the invisible God, not onely because his essence or being is invisible, 1 Tim. 6. 16. but for that he never revealed himself before the eyes of men, as the Son hath done in his humane nature; 1 John 18.

the first-born of every creature] Or, of all the creation. Some, as Theodorus Pelusiota, reade not, πρωτότοκον, with the accent in penultima, and accordingly render the word, not the first-born, but the first bringer forth of all creatures. Others conceive that Christ is called the first-born, in respect of his eternal birth from the Father before all creatures, John 1. 2. 3. A third sort interpret the word, first-born of every creature, the heir of all, and make this Text parallel to the first of Hebrews the second.

V. 16. For by him were all things created that are in heaven] See John 1. 3. thrones, or dominions, &c.] This name together with those that follow, signifie the Angelicall creatures with their several degrees and dignities as well among themselves, as in regard of the inferiour world, and the government thereof. See Rom. 8. 38. Ephes. 6. 12. In particular, by thrones, many probably conceive the Cherubins to be meant, over whom it is said, that God is sitting as upon a throne, by a figure taken from the Cherubins that were over the Ark, whereupon appeared the glory of God, 1 Sam. 4. 4. 1 Chron. 28. 18. Psal. 68. 1. Ezek. 10. 1.

V. 17. And he is before all things, &c.] See 1 Cor. 8. 6. John 1. 3.

V. 18. head of the body] That is, of the Church, his spiritual body, receiving from him spirituall life, and being governed by him as the head, Ephes. 1. 22. & 4. 15, 16.

the first-born from the dead] See 1 Cor. 15. 20. Revel. 1. 5. The first-born among those that are to rise from the dead to eternal glory, whereby, as by the word beginning is intimated, not onely that he is the first in order, and the cause of the resurrection of the rest; but besides this also, that he shall himself according to his humane nature in glory far surpass them all, as the first-born in the Old Testament had a preheminency above the rest, 1 Cor. 15. 20.

in all things] Or, among all. As in the creation and natural estate of the world; so also in the redemption and spiritual estate of the Church. Or, among all, viz. the children of God, Rom. 8. 29.

V. 19. all fulness dwell] All perfection of grace, wisdom, power, goodness, and mercy: See Ephes. 4. 10.

V. 20. having made peace] Or, making peace.

blood of his cross] By his bloudy oblation made upon the cross, Heb. 10. 10.

reconcile all things] By sin heaven and earth were set at variance, and the creatures in them: but by Christ there is unity set not onely betwixt God & man, but also betwixt men and the Angels that are in heaven, as also the creatures that are upon the earth.

V. 21. in your mind by wicked works] Or, by your mind in wicked works.

now hath he reconciled] See 2 Cor. 5. 18.

V. 22. the body of his flesh] The flesh is added, either to distinguish his natural body from his mystical body, of which he spake, verse 18. or, to teach us, that his humane body was not a phantasticall, but a true substantial body.

V. 23. grounded] Gr. founded.

settled] Or, stable.

every creature which is under heaven] Mark 16. 15.

V. 24. rejoyce in my sufferings] See verf. 11.

for you] For your profit and good, to strengthen and confirm you by my example.

behind of the afflictions] This is not to be understood of Christs sufferings for our sins, as if there should be something wanting for our redemption, for that is perfect & compleat in all parts thereof, and nothing wanting. Verf. 20. Heb. 10. 14. 1 John 1. 7. & 2. 1, 2. But of the sufferings of Christs members for his sake, 2 Cor. 1. 5. Heb. 11. 26. For we must conceive of Christ and his Church, as of one body and person, whose afflictions are limited by the providence of God. Now, Christ the head having suffered already, it remaineth now that the Church and every member thereof do suffer their share likewise in their turn, according to his example; albeit to different ends; in as much as the sufferings of Christ are the price of our redemption, whereas those of the faithful are nothing else but exercises and trials of their faith and patience.

of Christ] The afflictions of the Church are said to be Christs afflictions by reason of the sympathy between the Head and the members, Acts 9. 4. 2 Cor. 1. 5. & 4. 10. Heb. 11. 26.

V. 25. to fulfil the word of God] Or, fully to preach the word of God, Rom. 15. 19.

V. 26. the mystery, &c.] See Rom. 16. 25. 1 Cor. 2. 7. Ephes. 3. 9.

V. 27. In you] Or, among st you.

V. 28. in all wisdom] Or, with. Perfect and found wisdom, which is perfection it self, and shall in the end make them perfect, that follow it. See verf. 9.

V. 29. mightily] Gr. in power.

CHAP. II.

Verf. 1. Conflict] Or, fear, or, care.

for you] Gr. concerning you.

face in the flesh] Or, person.

V. 3. In whom] Or, wherein.

hid all the treasures of wisdom] Either the meaning is, that Christ hath in him the perfection of all wisdom and knowledge; or that all saving knowledge and true wisdom consisteth in this, that we rightly know Christ, out of whom there is no precious knowledge.

V. 6. received Christ] As you have received the doctrine of Christ, so persevere you in it, and live according to it: or, as you have received Christ by faith, so walk you in him, who is the Way to eternal life.

V. 7. with] Gr. in.

V. 8. spoil you] Carry you away for a spoil; or a prey, namely, from Christ and his truth, to other doctrines or means of salvation without Christ: A comparison taken from such Theeves, or Pirats, as do not onely take and carry away the goods of those they rob, but their persons also, to make them their own, or other mens slaves.

through Philosophy] Or, by. Hereby is not meant true Philosophy, which is a gift of God, and a great help to the knowledge of Divinity: but he meaneth Sophistry, and captious subtilties of some Heathen Philosophers, as the following words, vain deceits, do explain it, and as Paul speaketh thereof, Rom. 1. 21, 22. Which Philosophers had propounded divers matters in their vain speculations, measuring heavenly mysteries by their natural reason.

rudiments of the world] Or, elements. Ceremonies of the law, for as much as it pleased God in the infancy of the Church to lead the Israelites, and consequently in them the rest of the world that were saved unto Christ by this means, even as a childe is led to reade by learning the A.B.C. or a Scholar by his Accidence to his Grammar. See Gal. 4. 9.

not after Christ] Not according to the doctrine and institution of Christ, which only ought to take place in the Church, Gal. 1. 6, 8, 9. & 2. 21. & 5. 2, 4.

V. 9. in him dwelleth] By the union of the Divine nature with the humane in the unity of his person; the God-head dwelleth in Christ as the soul in the body.

all the fulness of the God-head] Or, the whole fulness. The perfect Deity of the Son with all his attributes, and not onely in regard of some particular gifts and graces, as he dwelleth in the Prophets, Apostles, and other Saints.

bodily] That is, personally, as the Greek word σώματι, sometimes signifieth; or substantially, in opposition to the shadows and figures of the Old Testament, as the word is taken in this very Chapter, verse 17. yet the meaning is much at one, in whether of the two senses we take the word. For God is said in the Old Testament, to dwell in the Tabernacle, Ark of the Covenant, and Temple, but onely as in the shadowes and figures of Christs humane nature, which he should take on him in the fulness of time, to dwell in the same personally, or really and substantially with all his fulness: from whence the Apostle inferreth, that we must not look for any salvation without him; neither in the Ceremonies of the Law; nor in any humane institution, but onely in him and his Word.

V. 10. Principality and power] See Col. 1. 16.

V. 11. Circumcision made without hands] Not a carnal and outward Circumcision, but an inward; not whereby a small part of the flesh or skin, but the whole body of sin is taken away. Rom. 6. 6.

the body of the sins of the flesh] Gr. Tec. the body of the flesh.

V. 12. Buried with him in baptisme] See Rom. 6. 4.

V. 13. dead in your sins] See Ephes. 2. 1.

V. 14. blotting out] The Law was as the Writ or the Obligation, the use of the Ceremonies the ratification and acknowledgement of the debt, the bloud of Christ the payment thereof, whereupon the Obligation was cancelled.

hand-writing] The Greek word χειρόγραφον, some take for a Writing by Gods own hand in Tables of stone, Exod. 34. 1. and thereby understand the Moral Law, or ten Commandements, said here to be against us, in regard of that severe requiring of perfect obedience, which we were not able to perform; and thereby became subject to the curse thereof, which Christ did bear on the Crosse on our behalf, and thereby redeemed us from it; Gal. 3. 13. Yet forasmuch as the Apostle here purposely disputeth against Circumcision and other Ceremonies of the Law, it seemeth most probable, that by the hand-writing we are to understand the Ceremonies of the Law, which are called a hand-writing against us, because they were as an Obligation or bond whereby men did daily acknowledge their trespasses and debts unto God, and that they deserved the same death which the beast did endure; and could not by the outward use thereof be acquitted of the debt, as the Apostle declareth to the Hebrews, c. 10. v. 1, 2.

V. 15. spoiled] Taken from the Devil the unrighteous prey of so many souls, or stripped and unfurnished them of their power and armour, which were sin and death, whose strength was the Law, 1 Cor. 15. 55, 56. Luke 11. 22. A metaphor taken from conquered and subdued Souldiers and Commanders, who were wont to be strip'd bare of a shew of them] Bringing them to open shame.

in it] Or, in himself. The Cross was a Chariot of triumph, no Conqueror could have triumphed so gloriously in his Chariot, as Christ did on his Cross; there he took away from Satan, that had the power of death, all ability to hurt us: for although he doth assault us still, yet we are assured of an absolute victory. Luke 10. 17. Rom. 8. 37. & 16. 20. Rev. 22. 10.

V. 16. in meat] Or, for eating and drinking.

in respect] Or, in part.

V. 18. beguile you of your reward] Or, judge against you. Permit no man to usurp a power of domineering over your consciences, and to judge them guilty in these things; or, let no man take the prize which is laid ready at the Goal for you, by drawing you aside, under pretence of voluntary humility to those opinions and observances, which are not warrantable, as to use the Angels for your Mediators, under a colour of awful modesty, in not making your immediate address to God.

in a voluntary humility] Gr. being a voluntary humility.

intruding into those things] Usurping upon Christs office, and speaking as confidently of those his doctrines and laws, concerning Gods worship, as if they had come down from heaven, whereas they were nothing else but humane devices and speculations, without any solid ground at all.

V. 19. not holding the head] Not holding himself to the true knowledge of Christ, who is the only head of the Church, from whom all the body of the universall Church, being knit together by the joynts and bands of one common spirit, receiveth spiritual nourishment and augmentation, with the increasing of God, that is, which cometh of God.

V. 20. from the rudiments of the world] Or, from the elements of the world.

subject to Ordinances] Or, burdened with opinions, or, traditions. The word δογματίζεσθε, signifieth as well an enthralling our selves to doctrinal errours, as superstitious Rites and Ordinances.

V. 21. Touch not, taste not] These are the speeches of superstitious men, which Paul here inferreth, shewing thereby, that superstition doth grow from one degree to another. For first, they forbid to touch, that is, to eat or to drink; then, to taste; and lastly, to handle at all; for that the speech is here onely of such things wherewith the body is fed, appeareth by the two next following Verses. Or, because touch not, and handle not, seem little to differ, or not at all; it may be here said to one, touch not; to another, taste not; to a third, handle not, such or such meats.

V. 22. to perish] Gr. to corruption.

with the using] Gr. in the consumption of them.

V. 23. neglecting of the body] Or, punishing, or, not sparing of the body.

CHAP. III.

Verf. 1. Seek those things that are above] Give your selves to the study and practice of a spiritual and Angelical life, elevating your hearts and thoughts into heaven, without setting any more your affections upon the things on the earth, or putting any opinion of holiness in any outward earthly thing whatsoever. By the things that are above, he meaneth everlasting happiness and glory, whereof Christ hath taken possession for us in heaven, together with all spiritual gifts, requisite for salvation, which Christ at the right hand of his Father doth impart, and distribute to his Church. Acts 2. 11. Eph. 4. 8. sitteth on the right hand of God] Or, at. See Mark 15. 19. Luk. 24. 51. Acts 7. 55. Rom. 8. 34.

V. 2. affection] Or, minde.

V. 3. ye are dead] Dead to the world, dead to the flesh, dead to all the vain and sinful motions and desires thereof.

your life is hid] Your life of grace and of glory is hid and laid up in Christ with God, as out of the knowledge, so out of the danger of the world. Or, it is hid with Christ, that is, as Christs life and glorious reign in heaven, so your spiritual life is concealed from the eyes of worldly men.

V. 4. when Christ who is our life] That is, in whom, and by whom we live, who is not onely the efficient and meritorious cause, but the pattern also of our spiritual life.

V. 5. your members] Those members which we made weapons of unrighteousness, or the evil affections and motions of corrupt nature, which is as it were a mass of sin, called expressly the body of sin, Rom. 6. 6. Col. 2. 11. These motions may be called members, because the reason and will of corrupt man doth use them, and produce operations by them, as the body doth use the members.

upon the earth] Thus the Apostle calleth these vicious desires, in regard they do ever move men to earthly things; viz. to the lusts of the flesh, the lusts of the eye, and the pride of life, 1 John 2. 16. whereof we shall be altogether freed in heaven. Rev. 21. 27.

fornication] See Ephes. 5. 3.

inordinate affection] Gr. passion. The word πάθος, in the Original signifieth some kinde of uncleanness, in which men are rather passive than active; such as the Apostle intimateth, Rom. 1. 26. παθη ἀτιμίας αὐτὰς εἰς πάθη ἀτιμίας.

covetousness, which is idolatry] Some conceive the Apostle here to speak by way of aggravation; as when in 1 Sam. 15. 23. rebellion is said to be the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness to be idolatry; not that they are so properly, but that they are most hainous and execrable sins, as witchcraft and idolatry were deservedly esteemed. Yet farther, how covetousness may be termed idolatry, see the note upon Ephes. 5. 5.

V. 6. children of disobedience] An Hebraism, unbeleeving or disobedient children, properly such as no good perswasion can work upon. Ephes. 5. 6.

V. 7. the which ye also] Gr. Tec. these ye also.

in them] Or, among them.

V. 8. you also put off all these] Or, put you also from you all these.

V. 9. old man with his deeds] Our unregenerate condition, or our old depraved nature, with the sinful works thereof. See Rom. 6. 6. & Augustinum de vera relig. c. 26. Vetus homo exuitur primùm in Baptismo, deinde quotidianis profectûs novitatis.

V. 10. put on] He useth the metaphor of putting on, to shew that these graces are an addition to our nature, and that we are naked without them, and that they are as a beautiful ornament to our soul. Ephes. 4. 24.

new man] See Ephes. 4. 24.

in knowledge] Gr. to knowledge.

V. 11. Greek nor Jew] From these words Epiphanius noteth four sects or sorts of religion which one after another bore sway in the world; from Adam to the Flood, Barbarisme; from the Flood to Abraham, Scythism; and after that, Hellenism, and Judaism: But whether S. Paul had reference unto these, it is uncertain. His plain meaning is this, That if we speak of renovation and salvation in Christ, there is no respect of persons at all; (Act. 10. 34.) for every man is accepted according to that measure of grace, by which Christ dwels and worketh in him. Gal. 3. 28.

Christ is all, and in all] See Gal. 3. 28.

V. 12. Put on] See V. 10.

V. 13. quarrel] Or, complaint.

V. 14. which is the bond of perfectness] Whereby all the members of the Church are perfectly united together, and do shew one another all due and brotherly affection. Or, the bond of perfection, that is, the bond which tyeth all Christian virtues together, and perfecteth them. Rom. 13. 8.

V. 15. peace of God] See Phil. 4. 7.

V. 16. dwell in you richly] Be familiarly acquainted with the Word, let it not pass by you as a stranger, or lodge and sojourn with you for a short space; but let it continually abide with you, and give it rich, that is, liberal entertainment, by frequent reading, hearing, meditating upon, and conferring about the Scriptures.

teaching and admonishing] Teaching the ignorant, admonishing and warning the careless. He seemeth not here to speak of publike teaching and admonition, by the explication and application of the Scriptures, in Sermons, Homilies, and other exhortations, which particularly appertain to the Pastoral function; but a private instruction, advice, direction, or admonition out of Holy Scriptures, whereby all the faithful are to impart their knowledge to others, and edifie and comfort one another.

in Psalms and Hymnes] See Ephes. 5. 19.

with grace] Gr. in grace; or, gracefully.

V. 17. And whatsoever ye do] See 1 Cor. 10. 31.

in the name of the Lord] Call upon the name of Christ when ye do it; or do it to Christs praise and glory. 1 Cor. 10. 31.

V. 18. Wives submit your selves] See Ephes. 5. 22. Tit. 2. 5. 1 Pet. 3. 1. Either the meaning is, that it is fit and agreeable to Gods Word, that they should submit; or submit in such fort, & with such a kind of submission, as is fit for wives, not with a servile, but with a conjugal submission.

V. 19. Husbands love your wives] See Ephes. 5. 25.

V. 20. Children, obey your parents in all things] See Ephes. 6. 1.

V. 21. Fathers provoke not your children, &c.] See Ephes. 6. 4.

to anger] Gr. Tec. above that is sitting.

V. 22. Servants, obey in all things] See Ephes. 6. 5. Tit. 2. 9. As the Apostle exhorteth the Children before, so here he will have servants obey their Masters in all things; but with a limitation expressed, Ephes. 6. 1. viz. in the Lord; in all things warrantable for the masters to command, and the servants to perform.

with eye-service] Gr. in eye-services. See Ephes. 6. 6.

V. 23. it heartily] Gr. from the soul.

V. 24. the reward of the inheritance] He calleth it a reward, because if he speaketh of servants; but addeth, of an inheritance, because that if they faithfully serve their masters, or rather the Lord Christ in them, the time shall come, when they shall be made sons of servants, and partakers of the Heavenly inheritance.

V. 25. the wrong which he hath done] Gr. what he hath wronged.

there is no respect of persons] See Rom. 2. 11. Eph. 6. 9.

CHAP. IV.

Vers. 1. Just and equal] Gr. equity. Though there be a great inequality between Masters and servants, in respect of their outward and civil condition; yet there is an equality in respect of their spiritual, having both one master. And thus much the Heathen saw by the light of nature; Servi sunt? imò contubernales: servi sunt? imò humiles amici: servi sunt? imò conservi. Or it is equal for masters to do their office to servants, as well as for servants to do their duty to them.

V. 2. continue in prayer] See Luk.18.1. 1 Thes.5.17.

V. 3. withal, praying for us,&c.] See Ephes.6.19. 2 Thes.3.1.

door of utterance] He prayeth,not that God would open for him the gate of the prison, but a door of utterance; for he more desired the free passage of the Gospel, than his own enlargement. By the door of utterance is here meant a fair and happy opportunity of preaching the Gospel, or powerful assistance, or ability of speech,for which David prayeth, Psal.51.15.

V. 5. Walk in wisdom] See Ephes.5.15. That is, advisedly and circumspectly, that ye neither learn any evil by conversing with them that are without, nor give them any offence at all by your carriage. 1 Cor.10.32.

V. 6. with grace] Or, gracious.

V. 8. your estate] Gr. the things that concern you.

V. 12. labouring] Or, striving.

complcate] Or, filled.

V. 13. a great zeal for you] Gr. Tec. much labour for you.

V. 16. cause that it be read, &c.] Laodicea was a neighbor Church to Colosse,& the same false Apostles, who introduced errours among the Colossians (it is very like) set them abroach also at Laodicea, against which the reading of this Epistle in their Church,might serve them as a soveraigne Antidote.

from Laodicea] The Apostle doth not here speak of any Epistle which himself had written to those of Laodicea, as some conceive; exhibiting also a certain Epistle which is yet to be found in divers Latine and Dutch Testaments,intituled, The Epistle of S.Paul to the Laodiceans; (which Epistle is spurious and Apocryphal) but of an Epistle sent to him from Laodicea, either by the Church, or some Apostolical men there; in which letter there was a further declaration of the aboveſaid errours, or the authours of them, which might also serve the Colossians for further warning and instruction, being compared by them with this present Epistle.

V. 17. say to Archippus] This Archippus seemeth to be the fellow Minister of Epaphras in this Church, whom the Apostle would have admonished and quickened, because Epaphras being absent, the whole burden lay upon him.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

THE Thessalonians, though they gladly embraced the Doctrine of the Christian Faith, and continued constant in the Profession thereof; yet were, much discouraged and dismayed at the persecutions raised against the godly for the Truth-sake, by the Jews, and for the loss of some eminent professours, and their dear Friends, whom God had taken out of the world. Whereof the Apostle having notice, writeth this Epistle unto them, to build them in their most holy Faith, and to comfort them against the scandal of the Cross; which is the common lot of the godly, and the fear of death it self, which he sheweth to be nothing else, but a pass to immortal bliss; whereof this shall not be partakers onely, who shall be alive at Christs coming, but all other that die in the Lord. In the mean while, they ought so to carry themselves in all holiness of conversation, that they, may be thought worthy the glory that shall be then revealed.

The special contents of the Epistle are

1. Commendations of their sincerity and constancy, Chap. 1.
2. Declarations of his faithful and powerful Ministery, and love to them, Chap. 2, 3.
3. Consolations in time of persecution for the Gospel, and against the terrour of death, to which, he opposeth the glory of the Resurrection and Christs second comming to judgement, Chapter 2. from Verse 13. to Verse 17. and Chap. 4. from Verse 13. to the 10. Verse of the 5. Chapter.
4. Exhortation to duties of
   1. Christian charity, Chap. 4. Verse 1. to the 12.
   2. Piety, Chap. 5. Verse 12. to the 25.

CHAP. I.

Vers. 1. Silvanus] Saint Jerome is of opinion that Silvanus (through the errour of some that transcribed this Epistle of S. Paul) was put for Silas; and by comparing this Chapter with divers passages in the Acts of the Apostles, it should seem, that he who is called here Silvanus, was no other than Silas; and he might be sometimes called by the name of Silas, and sometimes of Silvanus, as S.Paul himself was sometimes called Paul, sometimes Saul.

and Timotheus] There are three reasons alleaged by Salvianus and others,why the Apostle addeth Silvanus and Timotheus in the inscription of this Epistle: the first,that the Thessalonians might know,that they were all three together,who are joyned in this inscription when the Apostle dictated this Letter. Secondly, to shew their consent in doctrine, and that what they had taught before severally, they now deliver joyntly. And thirdly, that the Epistle might carry the more authority,being sent from three such eminent Pastors. See Gal.1.1.

V. 2. we give thanks to God] See Phil.4.

V. 3. your work of faith] Your faith which is not a dead, but a living faith,working through love; although faith be opposed to the works of the Law, by this Apostle (Rom.3.28.)who concludeth,that we are justified by faith, and not by the works of the Law; yet is faith a work of grace, and of the Gospel,and so is called by Christ himself, John 6.29.

and labour of love] The duties of true love,exercised and practised by you, without sparing your selves in hard and dangerous times and occasions.

patience of hope] Your voluntary and constant patience under the Cross, for the Gospel, which is upheld by the assured hope of a far far exceeding and eternal weight of glory; 2 Cor. 4.17.

in our Lord] Gr. of our Lord.

in the sight of God] Either the meaning is,what time soever we present our selves before God,to pray unto him, we remember you: or this may be added to signifie the truth and sincerity of these virtues in the Thessalonians.

V. 4. Knowing] By Gods blessing upon our labours, in your true conversion, and the fruits of true faith,brought forth by you,that you are elected of God.

beloved, your election of God] Or, beloved of God, your election.

V. 5. but also in power] Either powerfully testified by miracles,or a most powerful working upon your hearts.

and in the holy Ghost] Either he meaneth the extraordinary gifts of the holy Ghost, or the testimony of the Spirit,assuring them of their effectual calling.

V. 6. with joy of the holy Ghost] A spiritual joy wrought in you by the holy Ghost.

V. 8. word of the Lord] The Gospel is so termed,either because the Lord is the Author, or,the object of it; for it is both a Domino,and de Domino.

V. 9. entring in we had] That is, what loving entertainment, and kinde acceptance we had from you,and how cheerfully you embraced the Gospel. Act.17.

serve the living and true God] God is said to be the true God in opposition to all false Gods, John 17.3. but, the living God, partly in opposition to idols, which were images of dead men, and themselves liveless being senseless stocks; or to teach us, that God hath life in himself,and is the Author of all life, both of nature,grace and glory.

V. 10. wrath to come] Christ delivereth us from the wrath of God, both present, and to come; yet the Apostle nameth onely wrath to come, as Saint John Baptist likewise doth, Matth. 3.7. because that is the most dreadful wrath, and the deliverance from that, the greatest and most illustrious deliverance of all. Apoc.6. 16,17.

CHAP. II.

Vers. 1. IN vain] The meaning is, either that he preached not vain things unto them, as Poetical fictions, or curious speculations, but true and necessary doctrines: or that his preaching among them was not without fruit, but through the operation of the Spirit, fruitful and effectual: in which sense the sacred Symbols or elements are truly affirmed by Protestants not to be vain, the word here used, that is, bare,vain, or empty signs, because the Spirit worketh by them, and they really exhibit to the soul that which is signified by them.

V. 2. shamefully entreated] Cruelly beaten with rods, and after cast into prison, and his feet fet fast in the stocks, Acts 16.23,24. as if he had been a vagabond, a rogue: but the more disgrace the enemies of the Gospel put upon him, the more God honoured him by miraculously shaking the foundation of the prison, & loosening his & all his fellow-prisoners bands, and converting the Gaoler himself to the Christian faith.

bold in our God] That is, trusting in Gods help,who powerfully assisted us, and as it were owned us. The possessive our here, as my elsewhere, Psal.18.2. Esa.25.1. Dan.9.18,19. Luk.1.47. Phil.3.8. Rev. 3.12. shew the special affiance,which the faithful have in God,which because the Romanists disclaim, they shew they understand not the nature of true justifying faith.

with much contention] Gr. in much strife. With much fervency of zeal, and strong contestation with all gain-sayers of the truth. For it is not sufficient to hold the right faith,or preach it; but we must strive and earnestly contend for it, Jude 3.

V. 3. not of deceit] The heretikes and false Apostles, proposed to themselves chiefly three ends, applause, gain, and voluptuousnes: the first they sought to attain by soothing their hearers,& colloguing with them; the second by crafty ferches,and cloaks of covetousnes; the third by sowing pillows under mens elbows, and preaching doctrines tending to carnal liberty; from all which the Apostle calls God himself to be his compurgator, from the first vers. 6. from the second vers. 5. from the third vers. 3.

V. 4. allowed of God] As God hath thought us fit to be trusted with the preaching of the Gospel, and given his approbation to our ministery: so we seek to approve our selves to him in all things,and not to men, as the false Apostles do, who are time-servers and men-pleasers.

our hearts] Jer.17.10. Acts 1.24. Rom.8.27.

V. 5. nor a cloak of covetousnes] For the sincerity of his teaching and actions he calleth them, but for the sincerity of his intentions,he calleth God to witness. The word in the Original πρόφασις, signifieth a fair and specious pretext, which they commonly use to beguile their hearers with, who go about under hand to make a gain and a prey of them.

V. 6. been burdensom] Or, used authority. When we might have taken upon us, and exercised our Apostolical authority,and required of you such maintenance and chargeable entertainment, as might befit the Ambassadours of Christ, yet we took a contrary course, we put you to no cost at all, nor came unto you with a rod, but with the spirit of meekness, 1 Cor.4.21.

V. 7. gentle among you] Tenderly affected, as a nurse which heareth with a froward childe,and patiently taketh all pains with it, as if she were the mother.

V. 8. our own souls] Either to have imparted and communicated unto you all our secretest intentions, and the very bottom of our hearts: or we would have been contented even to have laid down our lives for you,so far were we from going about to make any gain or advantage of you.

V. 9. labouring night and day] See Act.20.34. 2 Thes.3.8.

be chargeable] See 1 Cor.4.12.

V. 10. how holily] Holily in respect of God, justly in respect of men, unblameably in respect of our selves: or holily in our ministerial function, justly in our civil affairs and commerce, and unblameably in respect of our private carriage with our faithful that most intimate friends. This text seemeth to be parallel to Titus 2.12. for holy answereth to godly there, justly to righteously, and unblameably to soberly.

V. 11. charged] Gr. testifying.

as a father doth his children] Before he compared himself to a nurse which tenderly affecteth,and carefully attendeth and cherisheth the infant committed to her: but because a nurse cannot be of the like natural affection as the parent, nor hath the like power to do it good, nor authority over it, he improveth the former metaphor, and withal amplifieth his love unto them, by resembling his care over them,and affection towards them to that of a father: and truly Pastours are as ghostly fathers, both in respect of their fatherly affection, and fatherly power, and especially, because in Christ Jesus they beget us through the Gospel, 1 Cor.4.15.

V. 12. That ye would walk worthy of God] See Ephes.4.1.Phil.1.27. Colos.1.10.

V. 13. word of men] Who are subject to errour,and as themselves, so their words are impotent and weak, but as the word of God, which is mighty in operation, and sharper than a two-edged sword, Heb.4. 12. Or ye received it as the word of God with reverence, and religious attention, and full assurance of the truth thereof, yeelding both your assent and obedience thereunto.

V. 14. as they have of the Jews] What in particular the believers among the Jews suffered of their countreymen is set down, Heb.11. 32,33,34. not onely reproaches,but also spoyling of their goods,with other grievous persecutions.

V. 15. killed the Lord Jesus] He preventeth an offence which might be taken, for that the Jews especially,above all others,persecuted the Gospel,that is no new thing, saith he,seeing they slew Christ himself, and stoned his Prophets, and have banished me also.

persecuted us] Or, chased us out.

contrary to all men] Who are of a froward and perverse disposition, opposing themselves against all men, in resisting the course and successes of the Gospel among the Gentiles,and as much as in them lyeth, hindering the salvation of all men: just of the temper of those Lawyers, against whom our Saviour pronounced a dreadful wo, Luk. 11. 52. who neither entred themselves into the Kingdom of God, nor suffered any others to enter.

V. 16. fill up their sins] The Jews intended not by persecuting the Church of Christ; to fill up the measure of their sins, and so to draw vengeance from heaven upon themselves: but the Apostles meaning is, that God in his just judgement permitted them thus to make up the full measure of their own, and their forefathers sins, because he intended to sweep them away with the besom of destruction, in the hand of the Romans. In the phrase and manner of expression he alludeth to Gen.15.16. & Matth.23.32.

come upon them to the uttermost] Or, suddenly fallen upon.

V. 18. Satan hindered us] By his agents and instruments,raising up new stirs and troubles in other Churches, where our presence was required to compose them,and thereby we were hindered from coming to you. Or by laying blocks in our way through manifold persecutions stirred up against us, stopping up all passage to you.

V. 19. our hope] In these words he passionately expresseth his love to them, saying, you are my hope, that is, they from whose growth in the knowledge of Christ through my ministery, I hope I shall receive praise of God; and ye are my joy, that is, they who bring me much joy and comfort; and my crown, that is, ye are they for whom by my faithfulness in the exercise of my ministery among you, I shall receive a crown at the last day, 2 Tim.4.8. 1 Pet.5.4. Or, ye are the crown of my rejoycing or glorying, that is, I more rejoyce and glory in you than in a crown.

rejoycing] Or, glorying.

CHAP. III.

Vers. 1. Could no longer forbear] Before he compared himself to a Father, Chap.2. vers. 11. and here he sheweth how his bowels yearned towards the Thessalonians, as his children; and because he would not leave them comfortless, he left himself hopeless, sending his fellow-labourer Timotheus unto them, and staying himself alone at Athens.

V. 2. to establish you] The troubles and afflictions which befel the Apostle, their teacher, were likely to unsettle the faith of the weak, and discourage them in their holy course: he had set them in therefore out of wisdom and love he sendeth Timotheus seasonably unto them, both to strengthen them in their faith, and comfort them in their fears, and arm them against the temptations of Satan.

V. 3. for your fellowship] From my mouth, for at one and the same time that I preached unto you Christ crucified, I forwarned you that you were to bear his cross.

appointed thereunto] The word in the Original κείμεθα, is the same with that which Simeon used when he blessed our Saviour, saying, Behold, this child is set for the fall and rising of many. (Luk. 2. 34.) The godly are set as a mark, at which the arrows of persecution are shot: for in the Decree of their predestination to life, God hath so ordered, that they be conformable to the Image of his Son, first in their sufferings, and after in glory. Rom. 8. 17, 29.

tempter have tempted you] Or, had. By tempter he meaneth the devil. See Matth. 4. 1.

be in vain] Or, have been.

V. 8. For now we live] Notwithstanding all our crosses and afflictions, and that death doth hunt us continually; yet are we glad, and rejoice, and our spirit is revived when we hear of your constancy in the faith.

V. 9. our God] See 1 Thess. 2. 2.

V. 10. perfect that which is lacking in your faith.] The word in the Original, καταρτίσαι, signifieth to make even, and consequently to perfect: for an even number is a perfect number, and an odde number imperfect. The Apostle before commended them for their stedfastnesse in the faith, they wanted not constancy therefore; what they knew they stedfastly believed, and constantly professed: but it seems they were not fully instructed in all points, but needed either a further information in some doctrines of faith, which they had not yet learned; or a resolution of some doubts which might trouble and perplex their consciences, these lackings in their faith were partly supplyed by Timothy his sending unto them; and partly by the Apostle in this Epistle: and it is very probable, that what he prayed so so earnestly day and night, God granted unto him, a prosperous journey to the Thessalonians, that he might water where he had planted; and finish the building where he had so happily laid the foundation.

V. 11. direct] Or, guide.

V. 13. stablish your hearts] See 1 Cor. 1. 8. chap. 5. 23.

unblameable] See 1 Cor. 1. 8.

holiness] Gr. Tec. righteousness.

CHAP. IV.

V. 1. Beseech you] Or, request.

exhort you] Or, beseech.

by the Lord Jesus] Gr. in. That is, by the command of the Lord Jesus; or, in the Lord Jesus, that is, in the Name of the Lord Jesus.

V. 3. the will of God] He meaneth the object of Gods will; or his commandment, which is, that we endeavour to keep our selves holy, both in body and soul; and carefully shun all pollution both of flesh and spirit, 2 Cor. 7. 1.

your sanctification] Or, holiness. The word in the Original ἁγιασμὸς, signifieth sometimes sanctification as Matth. 6. 9. 2 Thess. 2. 13. Sometimes sanctimonie, or holinesse, as Rom. 6. 19. It may be taken here in either sense; for if we refer it to the former words, the meaning is, This is Gods revealed will, or word which sanctifieth you, as Joh. 17. 17, if it be referd to the latter words, it may be well rendred your holinesse: for abstaining from all filthinesse, is a great part of our holiness.

from fornication] He taketh here fornication generally for all uncleanness committed alone, or with others, men, or women, single or married: as also all incestuous marriages within the degrees prohibited, 1 Cor. 5. 1.

V. 4. possess his vessel] Or, keep. Some of the ancients, as S. Augustine l. de nupt. c. 8. understand our wife, or the body of our wife; applying this exhortation peculiarly to married folks, that they keep their bed undefiled, and that they wrong not one another in that kind. For though fuch defrauding and wrong be done never so secretly; yet God, to whose eyes all things are naked, taketh notice thereof. But by the antecedents and consequents, and scope of the place, it should seem that the exhortation is general; and that by Vessel, here he understandeth the body of every man, or woman, which is σκεῦος, as a vessel, or utensil of the soul, which we ought not to prostitute to any manner of uncleanness, but use and govern it holily and chastly; keep it in honour, and in holiness, as the vessels were kept clean and sweet, which were dedicated to the service of the Sanctuary.

V. 5. lust of concupiscence] Gr. passion. In the Original it is πάθος ἐπιθυμίας, which signifieth a passion or disease of the minde, see 1 Cor. 15. where a man is inflaved to beastly and inordinate desires; so the word is used, Rom. 1. 26. παθη ἀτιμίας.

V. 6. and defraud] Or, over-pass, or, over-reach. Either by false weights or measures, or lying words, or fraudulent intentions, or overreaching policies and devices: for though these things come not, at least usually, within the walk of mans justice, yet God will meet with such persons, and revenge all such wrongs done to our brethen.

in any matter] Or, in the matter.

V. 7. unto holiness] Gr. in.

V. 8. that despiseth] Or, rejecteth. These wholesome and Apostolical counsels and commands; or he that maketh light of such fraudulent dealing above mentioned, slighteth God himself, and rejecteth his holy commands.

V. 9. taught of God] See Joh. 13. 34. & 15. 12.

V. 11. do your own business] In these words he reproveth two vices; idlenesse and curiosity; idlehefs, in neglecting their own businesse; and curiosity, in intermedling with other mens affairs, which vice he reproveth also else-where, 1 Tim. 5. 13.

V. 12. walk honestly] Or, decently. See Col. 4. 5.

of nothing] Or, of no man.

V. 13. which are asleep] Act. 7. 60. 1 Cor. 15. 20.

sorrow not] He forbiddeth not Christian sorrow for the dead, but heathenish; not moderate, but excessive, and immoderate; either in respect of time, or the measure of our grief: we may water our plaints for our deceased friends, but not drown them.

no hope] To wit, of the resurrection of the dead: supposing that their departed friends are utterly lost, and perished, and they shall never see them again.

V. 14. them also which, &c.] See 1 Cor. 15. 23.

sleep in Jesus] The dead in Christ who continue in faith, whereby they are grafted into Christ even to the last gaspe.

God bring with him] He will raise their bodies, and joyn their souls unto them, and so bring them with him to heaven; or to see the face of God. And it is to be observed, that the Apostle here speaking of the resurrection, maketh no mention at all of the resurrection of the wicked to condemnation; but onely of the resurrection of the elect to life and glory: and the reason hereof is two-fold: First, because his purpose was in this part of his Epistle to comfort the Thessalonians, verf. 18, whereas the doctrine of the raising of the wicked is to their condemnation and everlasting punishment, is a doctrine of terrour. Secondly, because he directeth his speech here to them who lived and dyed in the faith of Christ; who as members of Christ shall be raised with him to everlasting glory, and never experimentally know any resurrection to condemnation.

V. 15. by] Gr. in.

word of the Lord] Some understand this word of the Lord to be the Promise of Christ, Mat. 24. 31. & Joh. 5. 28, 29. Some take it for a peculiar revelation of Christ to S. Paul, when he was rapt up into the third heaven, 2 Cor. 12. 4.

alive and remain] In these words the Apostle doth not imply that he and those to whom he wrote, should continue living in the flesh unto the day of judgement; for the event shewed the contrary: but dividing all the faithful into two ranks, those that were already dead, and the faithful into two ranks, those that were already dead, and the rest which were yet living; he reckoneth himself among the living, as then he was, and the fecter he revealeth unto them is this, That the dead which have long lyen in their graves, and their bones resolved to dust, shall notwithstanding by the mighty power of God, be assoon brought before Christ, and glorified, as they that shall be alive at his second coming, 1 Cor. 15. 51, 52. Or he speaketh of these things as though he should be one of them, whom the Lord shall find alive at his coming, because that time is uncertain, and therefore every one of us ought to be in such a readiness as if the Lord were coming at every moment.

V. 16. with a shout] Gr. in κέλευσματι. The word doth properly signifie such voyces and cries, as are used by Mariners, or gatherers of the vintage, to encourage one another to joyn their strength together, and go on cheerfully with their work.

with the voyce] Gr. in.

voyce of the arch-angel] Or, an. See 1 Cor. 15. 52.

the trump of God] See 1 Cor. 15. 52.

V. 17. in the clouds] These clouds shall serve as chariots in which the Saints shall be carried up into the ayre, as it is said of Elias, 2 Kin. 2. 11. and of Christ, Act. 1. 9.

V. 18. comfort] Or, exhort.

with] Gr. in.

CHAP. V.

V. 1. Times and seasons] For the year, moneth, day, or hour, in which the Son of man shall come to Judgment, as it is curiosity for you to enquire, so it is not given to any man or Angel to resolve you therein; or precisely determine the times and seasons which the Father hath put in his own power, Mat. 24. 36, Mar. 13. 32. Act. 1. 7.

V. 2. the day of the Lord, &c.] See Mat. 24. 43, 44. 2 Pet. 3. 10. Rev. 3. 3. and 6. 15.

a theef in the night] It cannot be from hence gathered, that Christs coming shall be in the night, as some have imagined: but that his coming shall be sudden, and unexpected; it shall steal upon men when they dream not of it, Luke 12. 39, 40.

V. 3. Peace and safety] General security is a fore-runner of the day of Judgement, Luke 17. 27. when the light of the truth is taken away; when the heart of the good man of the house is at rest, and his eyes are darkened that he cannot see, and all his senses are drowned in worldly pleasures: when the world like Laish, (Judg. 18. 7.) is most secure and cares for nothing, or thinks of nothing; then will the Son of man come to Judgement, then shall destruction suddenly fall upon them.

a woman with child] Women that are with child, though they may have certain signes, that the time of their delivery is neer, yet they cannot know the very day and hour: so likewise though Christ in the Gospel hath given us many certain signes of the approach of his coming, yet not of the day of hour.

V. 5. children of the day] See Rom. 13. 12.

V. 6. let us not sleep] Returning to exhortation, he warneth us which are enlightned with the knowledge of God, that it is our duty not to live securely and deliciously, lest we be suddenly taken in a dead fleep in pleasures; but on the contrary, wisely to have an eye to the Lord, and to take care that our hearts be not oppressed with surfetting and drunkennesse, and the cares of this life, and that day come upon us at unawares, Luk. 21. 34.

admonish you] Or, instruct.

V. 13. very highly] Gr. over and above.

for their works sake] He calleth the pastoral function here, as 1 Tim. 3. 1. a work ἔργον, partly to signifie that it is a most laborious function; for faithful pastours like lamps spend the oyl of their lives to give light to their flock: partly in respect of the excellency of their work, wherein they are fellow-labourers with God to bring men unto salvation, 1 Cor. 3. 9.

V. 14. exhort] Or, beseech.

warn them that are unruly] Or, disorderly. We must have consideration of every mans condition, and affection; and as this disease is, so must the remedy be used of admonition to them that are disorderly; consolation to them whose hearts sinks under the burden of their crosses; of support to weak consciences, and of meek patience towards all who are diseased in minde, and troubled with any spirituall malady.

V. 15. See that none, &c.] See Prov. 17. 13. and 20. 22. Matth. 5. 44. Rom. 12. 17. 1 Pet. 3. 19.

V. 16. Rejoice evermore] Carnal joyes are but like a blaze of a fire nourished with stubble, which soon goes out: they who rejoice in their goods, in their children, in their peace, and worldly safety, in their honour and preferments, (Eccl. 7. 6.) or their descent of their pedegree, their joy is transitory: but those who rejoyce in the holy Ghost, and the comforts of the Spirit, their joy is everlasting. Wherefore though ye finde many troubles in the world and causes of grief, (Phil. 4. 4.) yet still rejoice in the Lord, and comfort your selves with the hope of a better life: and even when your sorrow and mourn for your sins, rejoice in this, that you sorrow after a godly manner, and that the more abundantly you sow in tears, the more plentifully you shall reap in joy.

V. 17. Pray without ceasing] See Luke 18. 1. Col. 4. 2. Be instant and constant in prayer, because we stand in continual need of Gods help, either to give us something that is good, or to deliver us from that which is evil. The Apostle biddeth us pray continually, Col. 4. 2. not that we should spend all our time in prayer, and do nothing else, as the Euchites and the Messalians taught, but that we should be ready to pray upon all occasions; and whensoever we have opportunity to lift up our hearts to God, either in set and composed prayers, or sudden and heavenly ejaculations.

V. 18. In every thing give thanks] Whatsoever God sends receive it thankfully; in prosperity give thanks unto him, because he crowneth you with temporal mercies; in adversity, because he thereby traineth your faith and patience, and gives you a sight and sense of your sins; in wealth, because he affordeth you thereby means of doing much good; in want, because he taketh away from you many yoursiments of vice, and teacheth you to depend upon him and his promises for your supply and support, and not upon outward means and helps: in all the passages of your life, for his care and providence over you; and at your death, for his delivering you from the miseries of this life, and presently receiving you into his heavenly kingdome.

for this is the will of God] A thing acceptable unto God, such as he liketh well of, 1 Thef. 4. 3. Rom. 12. 1, 2.

V. 19. Quench not the Spirit] Stop not the motions of the Spirit in your selves, nor restrain the gifts thereof in others. The speech is Metaphorical, taken from the fire of the Altar, which never was to go out. The Spirit is compared to a fire both in respect of the light that it giveth to the understanding, and the heat and fervour to our affections. When we feel this fire within us, either in our private meditations, or at the hearing of the Word, we must endeavour to keep it still burning, and if it slack in us, we must stirre it up, rekindle, stirre it up in us, 2 Tim. 1. 6. by such means as God hath ordained for that end.

V. 20. Despise not prophesyings] Contemn not the preaching of the Word, how mean soever the Preachers gifts seem unto thee, set not light by the declarations and applications of the Scriptures, either by such as have the Extraordinary gift of prophesying, 1 Cor. 14. 1, 5. Or by the ordinary gift which the Ministers of the Gospel receive by imposition of hands, 2 Tim. 1. 6. In this prohibition the Apostle meeteth with those, who thought themselves wise enough of themselves, and that they had no need of any such help. Heb. 10. 25. 2 Pet. 1. 19.

V. 23. whole Spirit and soul] Either he taketh the spirit for the understanding, and the soul for the will and affections: or the spirit for the rational part of the soul, containing in it both the understanding and the will; and by the soul the sensitive and locomotive faculty.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE To the THESSALONIANS.

The Argument and Analysis.

THE Apostle being hindered from coming to the Thessalonians, according to his desire and promise, to supply the want of his presence, writeth this Epistle to them; wherein he comforteth them in their afflictions, especially by arguments drawn from the righteous judgement of God, and the certain expectation of his second coming; the signs whereof he foretelleth, and with divers godly precepts, both to flye the company of disorderly persons, and to give him notice of such, to exercise his Apostolical power upon them, with prayers and salutations, he concludeth his Epistle.

The

The parts whereof are three, answerable to the Chapters;

1. Pathetical, expressing great love to the Thessalonians, and joy for their faith and perseverance, chap. 1.

2. Prophetical, describing the state of the Church, and the Revelation of Antichrist, the man of sin, before the day of the Lord come, chap. 2.

3. Parenetical, perswading them by his example to labour in their Callings, and to shun idleness, as also to avoid and censure those who shewed themselves refractory to his Godly and wholesome admonitions, chap. 3.

CHAP. I.

Vers. 1. IN God our Father] As God is in his Church by his special grace, so the Church also is in God by his power supporting it, as the Apostle speaketh, Acts 17.28. In whom we live. Or the meaning is, which by faith relyeth on God our Father; or which is gathered by God our Father, or being often taken for died.

V. 3. We are bound, &c. See 1 Thes. 1.2,3.

your faith groweth exceedingly] There is no surer argument of the sincerity of our faith and charity, than the growth of both, and our proficiency in Christianity: we may not stand at a stay, but go on forward in our holy race. In particular, our faith groweth, and is encreased either in regard of the object, when we apprehend more profound mysteries of faith than before; or in regard of the subject, when we are more confirmed in those mysteries we apprehended before, and give a more full assent thereunto, without any staggering or doubting. Our charity encreaseth either intensively, by a greater fervour of our affection to God and our brethren; or extensively, by doing good to more, and more and more abounding in works of mercy.

V. 4. faith in all your persecutions] Your confidence in God, that he will enable you to bear them, and graciously reward you who suffer for his Names sake.

V. 5. a manifest token] He openeth here the fountain of all true comfort, to wit, that in afflictions which we suffer of the wicked for righteousnesse sake, we may behold, as it were in a glasse, the testimony of that judgement to come, and the issue thereof, which will be most acceptable, and desirable unto us, but most dreadful to Gods enemies.

counted worthy] He saith not, that we may be worthy, for the sufferings of this present time are not worthy the glory which shall be revealed, Rom. 8.18. but we shall be by God in his great mercy accounted worthy, and that for Christs sake, in whose quarrel we suffer, Digni dignitate Dei, non dignitate nostrâ.

for which ye also suffer] This he saith, not that the faithful conceive, that they merited this kingdome by their sufferings, but because they knew that they should never attain it, unlesse they patiently submitted to Gods good pleasure, and willingly endured all sorts of persecution for the testimony of a good conscience. For we must, through many tribulations, enter into the Kingdome of God, Acts 14.22.

V. 6. righteous thing with God] It is most agreeable to justice, that wicked persecutors should not go unpunished, but receive according to their works; and it is just also, that they who have unjustly suffered of the wicked in this world, should be righted in another world, and greatly rewarded by God; partly because they suffer for his cause, partly because he hath promised them such a reward, Matth. 5.10,12.

V. 7. troubled] Gr. afflicted.

when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from] Gr. in the revelation of the Lord Jesus from. See 1 Thes. 4.16.

his mighty angels] Gr. the angels of his power.

V. 8. taking] Or, yielding.

know not God] Which know not God in Christ: for there is no knowledge of God unto salvation without the Gospel of Christ. Most fearful therefore is the case of all Infidels, who are utterly ignorant of, or wilfully reject the Gospel; as also of all such Christians in name, who have received the knowledge of the Gospel, but yeeld not obedience thereunto: for though they deny not Christ in their words, yet they deny him in their works, Tit. 1.16.

V. 9. everlasting destruction] Not onely the fire of hell is everlasting, as the Origenists themselves confessed, being convinced by the expresse words of our Saviour, Matth. 25.41. but the damned shall be everlastingly tormented in it, Jude 7. Rev. 14.10.

from the presence of the Lord] The punishment of the damned is two-fold, the punishment of sense, set forth by flaming fire; the punishment of losse expressed in these words, From the presence of the Lord, and the glory of his power.

V. 10. glorified in his Saints] Not onely in himself, but in his Saints also, whose glory, as it commeth from him, so it redoundeth also to him, Rom. 11.36.

admired in all them] When the world shall see them, who are accounted the off-scourings of all things in the world, then shine as starres for evermore, in whose brightnesse and conformity to the glorious body of Christ, his infinite goodness and mercy shall be then admired of all.

V. 11. count] Or, vouchsafe.

of this calling] By calling, he meaneth not the very act of calling, but that whereunto they are called, to wit, the glory of that heavenly Kingdome, so is the word taken, Eph. 4.4. Phil. 3.14.

CHAP. II.

Vers. 1. BY the coming of our Lord] A kinde of religious adjuration; the meaning whereof is, As truly as you look for the coming of the Lord, or, I beseech you, by that dear account that ye make of the coming of our Lord, and of that glory which we shall enjoy by, and in him. So the Preposition ὑπὲρ, is used by the Poet, Il. μ. ὑπὲρ πατρὸς καὶ μητρὸς ἰκνεῖσθαι λίσσω.

V. 2. shaken in minde] Gr. moved from our minde. The word σαλευθῆναι, properly signifieth to be tossed in the sea with a tempest: and his meaning is, that they should not be transported by any violent blast of false doctrine from the truth of the Gospel, or from their right sense and judgement.

neither by spirit] We must take heed of false Prophets, who go about to deceive for the most part after three sorts; for either they brag of feigned visions, and prophetical revelations, or by conjectures and sophistical reasons of their own, or they use counterfeit Writings; with which three the Apostle meeteth in this verse; the first he taxeth in the first, by spirit; the second in the next, by word, the third in the last, by letter, as it were, from us. (Although some conceive, and not improbably, that the false apostles forged not any letter of the Apostle, but falsly glosled upon some passages in the former Epistle to the Thessalonians, from thence inferring erroneously, that the Apostle should intimate, that the day of judgement was then at hand.)

V. 3. falling away first] Some understand by the word Ἀποστασία, a falling away of many Kingdomes from the Roman Empire; but the word Apostasie in the New Testament, is taken for a falling away from the truth of doctrine, and the purity of the Gospel: and such a kind of general and universal revolt, and defection from true faith, love, and obedience to the Gospel of Christ, is foretold to come to passe in the latter dayes, by the Apostle, 1 Tim. 4.1.

man of sin] An Hebraisme, signifying, a man notoriously sinfull, and a lost son, or a son of perdition, such an one as Judas is termed, John 17.12.

V. 4. exalteth himself above] Not only above all that are called gods, that is, Kings and Princes, to whom that style is given; but also above the true God, crossing and contradicting his Word and Ordinance, and opposing Christ and his doctrine, and Offices; whence he hath his name Antichrist, although he shall pretend nothing lesse; therefore also two horns are attributed to him, like the horns of the Lamb, Rev. 13.11.

is worshipped] ἢ σέβασμα, the Greek word doth signifie that which is held in the highest degree of reverence, whether religious or civil, as is the Majesty of Kings.

he as God] He shall be honoured with the honour that is due unto God, he shall be carried upon the shoulders of men, and waited upon by Kings and Princes; he shall take to himself the supreme Authority and Prerogative which appertains to God, and not stick at the very Title of God, and be adored upon the Altar at his consecration. See Concil. Later. sef. 4. Tu es alter Deus in terra: and Extravat. To. 22. in glos. Dominus Deus noster Papa.

sitteth in the Temple of God] That is, reigneth and domineereth. In the phrase the Apostle alludeth to Ezek. 28.2. By the Temple of God, he meaneth the assembly of men, which sometimes were the spiritual Temple of God; that is, his undoubted true Church, and still beareth that title. Saint Augustine and others interpret τὸν ναὸν, not in the Temple of God, but against the Temple of God; and they conceive hereby to be meant, that antichrist shall rise up against the Church of God. Both ways it may be applyed to the antichrist of Rome.

V. 6. what withholdeth] Or, holdeth. That which now did hinder and keep him back yet at present, until the time prefixed by God. This (by the judgement of Tertullian, Hicrome, and Chrysostome, and other ancient Doctors of the Church) was the Romane Empire, which subsisting and flourishing then, withheld the manifestation of antichrist, who shall rise upon the ruines of that Empire, Rev. 13.1,11. & 17.9,10,11.

V. 7. mystery of iniquity] The word mystery was written on the Popes Miter. See Casaub. not. in Test. Nov. there the mystery of iniquity is oppoled to the mystery of godlines, 1 Tim. 3.16. and it signifieth the secret rising of antichristian dominion, whereof some foundations were secretly laid in the Apostles times by Satan and his instruments, who by desire of preheminency in the Church, 3 John 9, 10. and by introducing of false and superstitious doctrine, began to build his Romish Babel.

V. 8. that wicked] In the Greek ἄνομος properly signifieth a lawless man, he that holdeth himself subject to no law; and this title well besitteth him, who in the Canon Law is said to be solutus omni lege humanâ; and again, nec totus cleatus, nec totus mundus potest Papam judicare, aut deponere; and that if he fall into damnable errour, and draw thousands of souls after him to perdition, no man may here say, Why doth he so? Dist. 40.

shall consume] The word ἀναλώσει, doth properly signifie to waste and consume by little and little, till a thing come to nothing; so shall Christ consume antichrist by little and little, in his own time, and make him lose his power and authority by degrees, in Christendome.

with the spirit of his mouth] See Esa. 11.4. Hosea 6.5. Revel. 2.16. By the pure preaching of his Gospel, whereby the Spirit of the Lord is powerful in the hearts of men, Esa. 11.4. Heb. 4.12. for the Ministers of the Word are as a mouth, whereby the Lord breatheth out that mighty and everlasting Word, which shall bruise his enemies, and break them in sunder like a rod of iron.

brightnesse of his coming] At the day of judgement, for then he shall come in flaming fire, 2 Thes. 1.8, and then shall the beast, and false prophet be put to death, and cast into the lake of fire, Rev. 19.20.

V. 9. with] Gr. in.

lying wonders] Gr. of lie, or, falsehood. Either false and counterfeit signs and wonders, or true signes and wonders, miranda non miracula, wrought by the power of Satan, to confirm erroneous doctrines and lies, and to maintain his servants in their reputation, and purblinde men in their false conceits and superstitions: such are Popish miracles (falsely so called) being either lying prodigies, or prodigious lies.

V. 10. with] Gr. in.

V. 11. shall] Gr. Tec. doth.

send them strong delusion] God, by withholding his grace, shall blinde their eyes, who wilfully shut them against the truth; or for their obdurate malice and incredulity, shall give them over to Satan, to captivate their mindes and understandings, and powerfully seduce and deceive them, 1 Kings 22.22. Job 12.26. Esa. 19.14. Ezek. 14.9. Rom. 1.24, 28. 2 Cor. 4.4.

believe a lie] Forged and false doctrines.

V. 12. damned] Gr. judged.

pleasure in unrighteousnesse] That is, in lies, as appears by the opposition to truth; and most justly are they condemned, who liked lies so well, that they had pleasure in them; which is the greatest madnesse that may be.

V. 13. through] Gr. in.

sanctification of the spirit] Either through the sanctification of your spirit, your hearts being purified by faith; or, through sanctification wrought in you by the Spirit of God and belief of the truth] Faith which layeth hold, not upon lies, but upon the truth of God, which is the Gospel.

V. 15. hold the traditions] The doctrines, precepts, or instructions, which we delivered unto you, either by word of mouth, when I was present with you, or by my letters in my absence; to both yeeld like credence and obedience.

CHAP. III.

Vers. 1. PRay for us] See Ephes. 6.19. Col. 4.3.

may have free course] Gr. may run.

and be glorified] As the Word of the Lord is dishonoured and condemned when it is either not believed, or not obeyed; so it is glorified, and God by it, when it is mixed with faith and obedience in the hearers, Heb. 4.2.

V. 2. unreasonable and wicked men] Gr. absurd. Froward and perverse men, both false hypocrites which closely undermine the Gospel, and those publike opposers of the truth, which persecute us for the professing of it.

for all men have not faith] Greek, faith is not of all men. It is no marvel that the Gospel is oppoled and hated by so many, seeing that faith is a rare gift of God; notwithstanding the Church shall never be destroyed by the multitude of the wicked, because it is founded upon the faithful promise of God, Mat. 16.18.

from evil] Or, that evil one. Either from the Devil, that wicked one, his snares and temptations, or from any evil thing that may hurt you.

V. 5. Into the love] Or, to the love.

the patient waiting of Christ] Or, the patience of Christ.

V. 6. In the Name of the Lord] In Christ his behalf.

withdraw your selves] Have no familiar communion with such, after due knowledge is taken of them by the Church, and they, being admonished, remain disobedient still. Mat. 18.15,17. 1 Cor. 5.11.

walketh disorderly] This may be taken, either in general for all kinde of evil carriage and misbehaviour, whereby scandall is given to the Church of God; or of that particular disorder, whereof he maketh mention verse 11. of those who attend not on their own calling, but curiously enquire into the lives and manners of others, and thrust their sickle into anothers harvest.

V. 7. follow] Gr. imitate.

V. 8. for nought] That is, not paying for it, though if he had not paid for it, he had not received it for nought, for the labourer, as our Saviour teacheth, Mat. 10.10. is worthy of his hire: and they who minister carnal things for spiritual, minister not for nought, but make a gainful exchange. Yet the Apostle, to give a good example of painfulnesse to others; besides his labours in his Ministerial function, for which he might have required due maintenance from the Thessalonians, took pains day and night at his profession, which was Tent-making, thereby to supply his wants, and spare the Churches, Acts 18.3.

chargeable to any of you] The Greek word signifieth burdensome; not that indeed the affording comfortable maintenance to their faithful Pastours, is, or ought to be accounted a burden to their flocks; but because most men, who are worldly minded, esteem it so.

V. 10. that if any would not work] He saith not, If any do not work, for some would work if they could get any employments; some are not able to work, through age and natural infirmity; yet God forbid that either of these should starve for want of food: but the Apostle forbiddeth any such to be releeved by the charity of the Church, who are in want through their own idlenesse, who may have work, and are able to perform it, but will not take any pains for their living.

V. 11. busie-bodies] There are none more busie in other mens matters, than they who neglect their own, 1 Pet. 4.15.

V. 12. eat their own bread] The bread which they earn by their labour, and not that which is given them of alms.

V. 13. be not weary in well-doing] Or, faint. See Gal. 6.9. Take heed that some mens unworthinesse cause not you to be slack in well-doing.

V. 14. By this Epistle, note that man] Or, signifie that man by an Epistle. Set a brand upon him, as Rom. 16.17. Mark those which cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which you have learned. Or, give me notice of him by letter, that I may take some course with him.

V. 15. as an enemy] We must so eschew familiarity with excommunicated persons, that we dilligently seek all occasions and means that may be, to bring them again to the right way.

admonish] Or, instruct.

V. 16. Lord of peace] Prayers are the seals of all exhortations, wherewith the Apostle concludes all his Epistles.

ANNO

ANNOTATIONS ON THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY.

The Argument and Analysis.

THe Apostle in the former Epistles, propounded general Doctrines and instructions to all Christians, both concerning Faith and Manners: But in these ensuing Epistles to Timothy and Titus, he delivereth peculiar precepts to the Ministers of the Gospel, as well those who are in place of Authority, as Timothy and Titus, as inferiour Pastours, Presbyters, and Deacons: And though he had other fellow-Labourers, as Silas, and Luke, and Mark and Tychicus: Yet he writeth to these two onely, because the other were for the most part with him: But these were appointed by him to govern those Churches in which he had laid the Foundations of Christianity.

The parts of this Epistle are answerable to the eminent Parts and Gifts of the Author, who was both an Apostle, and a Prophet, and a Pastour of the Church.

1. As an Apostle he prescribeth Canons concerning publike prayer, and the habit and carriage of women in the Church, chap. 2. concerning the Office of Bishops, and Deacons, chap. 3. concerning the censuring and reproof of all Degrees, the Ordination and maintenance of Elders, choice and provision for Widows, chap. 5. Concerning the duty of servants, and particular charge of the rich, chap. 6.

2. As a Prophet he foretelleth the Apostacy of many in latter times, whose devilish doctrine he relates, and confutes, chap. 4.

3. As a Pastour;

1. He instructeth Timothy in the right end and use of the Law, and the main scope also of the Gospel, chap. 1. As also in the Doctrine of the Church, and the blessed Truth, therein taught and professed, chap. 3. And of the lawful use of all Creatures taken with thanksgiving. chap. 4.
2. He exhorteth him to proficiency in his Ministerial Function, chap. 5. To constancy in his Profession, observance of his Precepts, especially, That he eschew all vain bablings, and disputes of Sophistry, and continue in the simplicity of sincere Doctrine, chap. 6.

CHAP. I.

Vers. 1. BY the commandement] Gr. according to the commandement.

our hope] Hope is here taken for the cheef object of our hope, which is Christ, by whose merits we hope to obtain remission of our sins, and eternal life.

V. 2. own son] He calleth him his own son in the faith, either because he was a means and instrument whereby Christ was perfectly formed in Timothy; or because he ved him as a son doth his father, viz. in the Ministery; or because he resembled the Apostle both in his preaching, and in his life, as a natural son is like his father.

grace, mercy, and peace] Grace is the fountain from whence mercy and peace flow; for the free good-will of God; whereby he hath chosen us in Christ, procureth us mercy in the forgiveneſſe of sins, and by the apprehenſion of this mercy we have peace of conſcience.

V. 3. at Ephesus] Gr. in Ephesus.

teach no other doctrine] The cheef Pastours of the Church, who were endued with Apostolical authority, as was Timothy, were to forbid any to preach, not onely doctrine that was contrary, but that which was beside that which the faithful have received from the Apostles, Gal. 1.8,9.

V. 4. Neither give heed to fables] See chap.4.7. and 6.4. 2 Tim. 2.23. Tit.1.14. and 3.9. The doctrine of faith is corrupted, not only by falſe opinions, but alſo by vain and curious ſpeculations, which no way tend to godly edifying.

and endleſſe] He calleth them endleſſe, not becauſe in the Genealogies there was no end, neither upwards, nor downwards; but becauſe thoſe of the Jews, who embraced Chriſtian religion, were ſo addicted to theſe Genealogies, that they might have a pretence of claiming kindred of Chriſt, that they made no end of drawing down their lines of deſcent from David, or from Abraham: or becauſe the queſtions moved concerning Genealogies, by reaſon of the ſlender proof and ground they had for them, could receive no determination or end.

miniſter] Gr. exhibit, or, yeeld.

V. 5. Now] Or, but.

end of the Commandment] That is, the perfection and complement of the Law, Rom.13.8. Or the main ſcope and drift of the Commandments of God, both in the Law and Goſpel.

charity, out of a pure heart] There is neither love without a good conſcience, nor a good conſcience without faith, nor faith without the Word of God.

V. 6. having ſwerved] Or, not aiming at.

V. 7. whereof they affirm] Or, concerning what things they underſtake to make good, or confirm.

V. 8. if a man uſe it lawfully] Gr. Tec. ſhall uſe. The Law is given to excellent purpoſe, if we make ſuch uſe of it as we ought, not ſeeking to be juſtified by the obſervation thereof, but to be directed by it in our obedience, as a perfect rule of life, and to be brought by it to Chriſt, Gal.3.24.

V. 9. righteous man] The Law is not made for the coertion, reſtraint, condemnation, or puniſhment of the righteous, but of lawleſſe and diſorderly perſons.

for ſinners] Such as make ſin all their employment and occupation, ſuch as goe on in their ſinnes with pleaſure and delight.

murderers of fathers] He ſetteth down ſome of the moſt enormous ſins, not as if the Law did not condemn as well all the reſt, to the very leaſt; but only to convince thoſe hypocritical zealots of the Law, who were themſelves obnoxious to horrible vices; ſuch as they are, which the Apoſtle inſtanceth in.

V. 10. men-ſtealers] Or, making ſlaves of men.

ſound doctrine] Or, wholeſome. That is, not tainted with hereſie. Or, wholeſome, that is, which brings health to the ſoul.

V. 11. glorious Goſpel] Gr. Goſpel of glory.

V. 13. injurious] Or, wrong-doer; or, contumelious traducer.

V. 15. a faithful ſaying] πιστὸς, that is, ἀξιόπιστος, a firm truth, a ſure foundation, upon which we may build our beleef.

Chriſt Jeſus came into the world, &c.] See Matth. 9.13. Mark 2.17.

I am cheef] Though Saint Paul were now a convert, and a Saint, yet he ranketh himſelf among the greateſt ſinners, in regard of his former life which had been ſtained with the ſoul ſins of blaſphemy againſt Chriſt, and perſecution of the profeſſors of the Goſpel unto death.

V. 17. eternal] Gr. of ages, or, worlds.

for ever and ever] Gr. to worlds of worlds, or, ages of ages.

V. 18. by them] Gr. in them.

warre a good warfare] A good warfare; as a Chriſtian, againſt the world, the fleſh, and the devil; as a faithful Miniſter of the Goſpel, againſt all falſe apoſtles, and corrupters of the true faith, 2 Tim. 4.7.

V. 19. Holding faith] That is, the profeſſion or doctrine of the true faith, as appears by the oppoſition to the blaſphemings of Hymeneus, and Alexander.

good conſcience] An upright conſcience, that directeth a man in all his doings to that whereof he hath been inſtructed out of the Word of God.

ſome having put away] Some whom God, for giving reins to a licentious courſe of life, againſt the dictates of their own conſcience, hath puniſhed, by taking away the light of his Spirit from them, that in the midſt of their courſe they ſhould loſe their moſt precious ſpiritual merchandiſe, and be drowned in errour and hereſie, after the manner of thoſe who in a ſea-tempeſt ſuffer ſhip-wrack.

V. 20. Hymeneus and Alexander] Some do hold this Alexander to be he of whom mention is made, Acts 19. 33. whereof there is no certainty; yet being joyned here with Hymeneus, it is moſt probable, that he was guilty of the ſame blaſphemous hereſie, for which Hymeneus is taxed, 2 Tim.2.18. viz. the denyal of the reſurrection of the dead.

whom I have delivered unto Satan] By Eccleſiaſtical excommunication; whereof ſee a further declaration upon 1 Cor. 5. 5.

learn not to blaſpheme] That they may conſider themſelves better, and come to the acknowledgement of their errour, which is the end and ſcope of Eccleſiaſtical diſcipline: Or, if they did not retract their errours, they might do leſſe hurt to the Church, and by their puniſhment be a warning to other blaſphemers and ſeducers; for the Greek word παιδεύειν ſignifieth, not onely to be taught, but to be chaſtened and corrected.

CHAP. II.

Vers. 1. EXhort] Or, deſire.

ſupplications, prayers] Either theſe words are Synonymes, all ſignifying the publike devotions of the Church in her ſervice and Liturgy; or, they may be thus diſtinguiſhed: by δεήσεις, are meant ſuch prayers as we make in our neceſſities and diſtreſſes, to prevent and avoid evils that may befall us, or are come upon us; by προσευχὰς, ſuch prayers wherein we ſue for good things at Gods hands, namely, ſpiritual and temporal bleſſings; by ἐντεύξεις, ſuch prayers wherein we intreat for the good of others.

for all men] That is, all kindes of men, Jews, Gentiles, bond, free, faithful, infidels, friends, enemies, great men, and mean ones, publike and private; or, as the word is often taken in Scriptures, as Matth. 4.23. πᾶσαν νόσον, all diſeaſes, that is, all ſorts of diſeaſes, Luke 11.42. πᾶν λάχανον, all manner of herbs.

V. 2. For Kings] He mentioneth Kings particularly, either becauſe the Kings and Magiſtrates were then enemies to the Church, and perſecutors of the ſaints of God, and ſome might peradventure make ſcruple whether they ought to pray for ſuch; the Apoſtle therefore reſolves, they ought; and yeelds a double reaſon for it, the former in this verſe, that through Gods bleſſing upon their government we may enjoy peace. (Jer. 29. 7.) The latter in the fourth verſe, becauſe God excludeth no ſorts or conditions of men from the means of ſalvation. Or, he nameth Kings in the firſt place, becauſe they are higheſt in dignity, and upon the good uſe of their power very much dependeth the ſafety of the Church and Common-wealth.

authority] Or, eminent place.

honeſly] Or, comelineſſe.

V. 4. all men to be ſaved] By as much as appeareth unto us by his will revealed in the Goſpel, he excluding none by name, neither nation nor condition whatſoever, Matth. 28. 19. Mark 16. 15. Or, all, may be taken, not pro ſingulis generum, but pro generibus ſingulorum. Verſ. 1.

knowledge of the truth] That is, the doctrine of the Goſpel, as the word is taken, John 5.33. & 8.32. & 18.37.

V. 5. between] Gr. of.

the man Chriſt Jeſus] The Apoſtle doth not adde man to exclude the divine nature from his Mediatorſhip: for he is God revealed in the fleſh, 1 Tim.3.16. and God hath purchaſed his Church by his bloud, which through the eternal Spirit he offered without ſpot unto God, Heb.9.14. but to expreſſe that nature in which he paid the ranſome for us, mentioned in the verſe following; and to ſhew that our Mediatour being a man, all ſorts of men have by faith free acceſſe unto him, and his offering, Heb.2.10.

V. 6. a ranſome for all] All that do beleeve in him, Matth. 20. 28. John 3.16. and 10.15. and Rom.1.16. and 3. 22.

to be teſtified in due time] Or, a teſtimony. Gr. Tec. for all in due time. The word καιροῖς, is left out in the Greek copy written by Tecla, and the ſenſe is full without it. Who gave himſelf a ranſom for all in due time; but if we retain the word becauſe moſt copies have it, the meaning is, That the ranſome he paid was a real teſtimony of his Mediatourſhip betwixt God and man, whereby he reconciled both. Or the meaning is, That though their ranſome were paid at one time, yet it is teſtified to ſeveral Nations καιροῖς ἰδίοις, at ſeveral ſeaſons appointed by God for their converſion.

V. 7. whereunto] See 2 Tim. 1, 11.

ordained a preacher] Gr. Tec. truſted to be a preacher.

teacher of the Gentiles] See Gal. 2. 7, 8.

V. 8. pray every where] Devotion is not now confined to one place as the ſolemn ſacrifice and ſervice was in the time of the law; but as occaſion is offered we are to pray every where, looking not ſo much to outward circumſtances, as to the inward devotion of the heart, lifting up our hands to God in holineſſe, charity, and faith.

V. 9. women adorn themſelves, &c.] See 1 Per. 3. 3.

broidered hair] Or, plaited. Women ought to deſire rather inward than outward ornaments, and in adorning themſelves outwardly, they muſt have a care that it be done in a faſhion that may argue neither wantonneſſe, nor curious niceneſſe, nor waſtfulneſſe, nor pride, 1 Per. 3. 3.

V. 11. ſilence with all ſubjection] Gr. in. Learn of their own husbands, not to take upon them to teach them: but in modeſt ſilence to receive inſtruction and command from them, 1 Cor. 14. 34.

V. 12. I ſuffer not a woman, &c.] See 1 Cor. 14. 34.

ſilence] Gr. quietneſſe.

V. 13. Adam was firſt formed] Adam had the priority in his creation, the woman was made after him, and for him, and of him, Gen 2. 7. 21, 22. 1 Cor. 11. 8.

V. 14. Adam was not deceived] Immediately of the devil as Eve was: neither doth the ſtory it ſelf ſay that Adam was deceived by Eve, but onely that he took the forbidden fruit of her and did eat, Gen. 3. 6.

was in the tranſgreſſion] The woman was firſt and deepeſt in the tranſgreſſion, and a means to induce her husband to ſin, wherefore alſo by way of puniſhment ſhe was more ſtraitly ſubjected to her husband, Gen 3. 16.

V. 15. in child-bearing] Or, by child-bearing. If διὰ be taken, as it is moſt commonly, to ſignifie by, or through, then the meaning is, That though painful child bearing were part of the puniſhment inflicted upon Eve and her ſex, for her firſt tranſgreſſion, in eating the forbidden fruit, and tempting her husband to ſin likewiſe; yet the and all faithful women ſhall be ſaved by Maries bearing the holy child Jeſus. For as σώσει, ſignifying creation, is taken by a metonymie for the creature, Rom. 8. 19, 20, 21, 39. ſo alſo τεκνογονία, for τοκὸς γονεῶν, child bearing for the child born, the bleſſed fruit of the Virgins womb, Luke 1. 42. But if the preposition διὰ be taken for in, as Rom. 4. 11. περιτομὴ σημεῖον διὰ δικαιοσύνης for ἐν δικαιοσύνῃ, and in many o her places, then the meaning is, That notwithſtanding by child-bearing and ſubjection to man, God hath imprinted on women the mark of the puniſhment inflicted upon Eve, and all women that conceive and bring forth children; whence ſome peraventure might have conjectured that in regard of this curſe, there was no hope of ſalvation for women unleſſe it were for the unmarried, or thoſe that were childleſſe: yet the Apoſtle teacheth that this ſhall not hinder their ſalvation, if they abide in the faith, nor the bodily evils and ſorrows that they endure to them, ſtop the operation of the Spirit of grace in them. Or, bearing and breeding children is an ordinary way through which women go heaven, chap. 5. 14.

CHAP. III.

Vers. 1. A True ſaying] Gr. faithful. See 1 Tim. 1. 15.

If a man deſire] Not ambitiouſly affect, but finde in himſelf a fitneſſe and willingneſſe to take upon him that office, moved thereunto by an holy and ſincere affection to conſecrate himſelf unto God in the ſervice of his Church, and to employ and improve there thoſe gifts which he hath received of him for the edification of Gods people.

a biſhop] That is, the office of an over-ſeer; which word may either have relation to the flock of Chriſt onely, and in that ſenſe it belongeth to all Paſtours who have cure of ſouls: Or, to the Paſtours themſelves alſo, as well as the flock; and in that ſenſe antiquity hath appropriated the word to ſignifie the cheef Presbyter, or Miniſter, who had a ſuperintendency over an whole Church compriſed within a City, or Dioceſſe, in which there were divers inferiour Paſtours. See the note upon Philippians 1.1.

a good work] See 1 Theſſ. 5.13.

V. 2. A biſhop, &c.] See Tit. 1.6, &c.

blameleſſe] The word ἀνεπίλημπτον, ſignifieth not faulteleſſe, for there are no ſuch in the world, but ſuch an one who hath not been, or cannot be appeached with any crime, a man that is not tainted with any common blemith, 1 Cor. 1. 8. Luke 1. 6.

the husband of one wife] He that is to be choſen a Biſhop, muſt not neceſſarily be a married man, but neceſſarily be no polygamiſt; that is, ſuch an one who hath been husband but of one wife at once, Hieron. Epiſt. 82. c. 2. For though polygamy were a common practiſe among the Jews, yet it was ever held a ſcandal and a brand among Chriſtians: therefore none who had that brand upon him, ought to be choſen either Biſhop, or Deacon, ver. 12.

apt to teach] Not only men endued with sufficient knowledge to teach, but such as are willing and ready upon all occasions to instruct the people of God.

V. 3. Not given to wine] Or, not ready to quarrel and offer wrong, as one that is in wine.

filthy lucre] He forbiddeth in a Bishop not only covetousnesse, which is as, etwards taxed, but the taking of any base course, or using any unworthy means, to improve his estate: in which kinde the Bishop of Rome of all other are most notoriously faulty, who make a gain of all sorts of sin, even those that are not to be named among Christians.

not covetous] Gr. not a lover of silver.

V. 4. gravity] Gr. comelinesse.

V. 6. a novice] Or, one newly come to the faith. νεόφυτον. Not a man newly planted, or engrafted into Christ by baptisme; or not such an one who hath newly entered into the study of divinity.

lifted up] Gr. puffed up, or, swollen with.

fall into the condemnation of the devil] Lest by reason of his sudden advancement to that degree, he take occasion to be proud, which will undo him, and so he fall into the same condemnation that the devil himself is fallen into. Or lest he be subject to the censure of calumniating persons.

V. 8. grave] Or, honest.

V. 9. Holding the mystery of the faith] Either deeper and more abstruse and hidden points of saving knowledge; or in general the doctrine of the Gospel which is a mystery indeed, for flesh and bloud cannot reveal it unto us, nor can the most learned perfectly comprehend it, 1 Cor. 2.7.

V. 10. use the office of a deacon, being] Or, minister, and being.

V. 11. grave] Or, honest; or, modest.

V. 12. deacons be the husbands] See verse 2.

V. 13. used the office] Or, ministred.

good degree] Deservedly obtain the honour to be preferred to an higher office in the Church.

boldnesse in faith] Or, liberty of speech. Greater courage and holy boldnesse in the profession of the Gospel: for the testimony of a good conscience, and the faithful discharge of the Ministery makes a man bold as a lion, whereas the contrary stops a mans mouth, and makes him a coward in Christs quarrel.

V. 14. (shortly) Gr. sooner.

V. 15. house of God] As the Catholike Church is as it were the whole house of God; so every particular Church, as this of Ephesus was, in which Timothy resided, was a part thereof, and by a Synecdoche may be called the house of God, because God dwelleth therein by his Word and Spirit, 1 Cor. 3. 16. Heb. 3.5,6.

the living God] See Rom. 9.26. 2 Cor. 3.3. 1 Thes. 1.9.

pillar and ground of the truth] Or, stay. Some referre these words to them that follow, verse 16. and thus make the construction. The pillar and ground of truth, and without controversie great is the mystery of godlinesse, viz. God, &c. Others referre them to the words immediately going before, the house of God, which is called the pillar and ground of truth in respect of the profession, and maintenance of the true religion of God, which it both supporteth as a pillar, and maketh it openly known to others, as the Magistrates used to hang and affix their Orders and Proclamations on pillars, or other places of strength and firmnesse; and here consequently is declared the office and duty of the Church in publishing the same truth, and defending it against all errours, contradictions, and corruptions whatsoever. Or it may be referred to Timothy, as it is by divers of the Ancients, and read, he being a pillar and upholder of the truth, Gal. 2.9. Rev. 3.12.

V. 16. mystery of godlinesse] Not barely of ceremonies, as were those mysteries of the law of Moses, nor of vain and profane superstitions, as those of the Gentiles; but most holy indeed and truly religious, whereby God is served in spirit and truth.

God] That is, the eternal Son of God, as the word is taken, Joh. 1.1. Acts 20.28. Rom. 9.5. was manifest] Made his Divinity known, Luke 24. 19. Joh. 1. 14.

in the flesh] That is, in the humane nature which he assumed into the unity of his person, John 1.14. Rom. 1.3. Heb. 2.14.

justified in the Spirit] In or by the Spirit, which is to be understood of the divine nature of Christ, whereby he hath raised himself again from the dead; and consequently also was approved to be righteous and innocent, notwithstanding he was condemned both by Jews and Gentiles as a malefactour. Or declared to be the Son of God, Rom. 1.4.

seen of Angels] As of his messengers and ministers, both at his nativity, Luke 2. 14. and at his temptation, Matth. 4. 11. and at his passion, Luke 22. 43. and at his resurrection, Luke 24.4. and at his ascension, Acts 1.10.

received up into glory] To the right hand of his Father, from whence he poureth out the gifts of his Spirit upon the Church, and manifesteth his glory by signs and wonders, Mark 16.19,20. Acts 1.2. and 2.4.33.

CHAP. IV.

Vers. 1. Spirit speaketh expressly] In the Scriptures concerning apostasie from the faith in general, and seduction by false teachers, Matth. 24.2.3,24. Luke 18.8. but to me by special revelation, that the false prophets shall broach such false and damnable doctrines in particular as are after mentioned.

in the latter times, &c.] See 2 Tim. 3.1.

seducing spirits] Either he meaneth devils, who are lying spirits, or wicked or ungodly men, who are the devils instruments, to spread errours and heresies, as the word is taken, 1 John 4. 1.

V. 2. seared with an hot iron] Either branded consciences, or stigmatized with the marks of many foul and enormous crimes; A metaphor taken from rogues who are burnt in the hand, or some other part of the body. Or consciences so insensible of their own dangerous estate, and of the fearful judgements of God, as dead and hard flesh seared with an hot iron, whereby Physitians consume rotten flesh to save the sounder parts.

V. 3. Forbidding to marry] This prediction is verified at this day in the Romish Church, which forbiddeth any in holy Orders to marry. It is true, the Manichees, Eucraites, and other hereticks disparaged marriage, and disallowed it in those they called their perfect ones: but we read of none that by laws and canons prohibited marriage, save the Bishops of Rome, and such as adhere unto them.

to abstain from meats] Either these words have a reference to the former words, verse 1. doctrines of devils, and all the words between are to be enclosed in a parenthesis, and so the coherence is giving heed to doctrines of devils, namely, this, to abstain from meats, &c. Or else there is an Ellipsis, and the word κελεύοντων, or some such like is to be understood; a like example whereof we have above, chap. 2. 12. γυναῖκι διδάσκειν οὐκ ἐπιτρέπω, ἀλλ' (supple ἐπιτρέπω) τὸ ἡσυχάζειν, and 1 Cor. 14.34. Or like that 1 Cor. 3. 2. For the meaning, the Apostle doth not condemn it for an heretical practise, to abstain from certain meats out of a meer politick respect to save the breed of cattle, or medicinable, to avoid some diseases; but upon pretence of holinesse, or conscience, as if some meats were unclean in their own nature, or at least lesse holy than others, Col. 2.21.

V. 5. sanctified by the word of God] It is made pure and holy in respect of us, so that we may use it with a good conscience as received at the Lords hand.

and prayer] That our meats may be sanctified to us, we must first contesse and acknowledge that God is the Creatour and giver of these creatures which we use. Secondly, that we are of the number of those who through Christs benefit have recovered that right over all the creatures which Adam lost by his fall. Thirdly, by our prayers we crave of the Lord that we may use those meats with a good conscience, which we receive at his hands. Fourthly, we make an end of our eating and drinking with thanksgiving to God, as we begin it with prayer.

V. 7. unto godlinesse] It is not onely requisite that the Minister of the Word be found in doctrine, but also, that his life be godly and religious.

V. 8. bodily exercise profiteth little] Or, for a little time. Some hereby understand the exercises of those that strived for prizes, by wrestling, running, or the like; of which the Apostle speaketh, 1 Cor. 9.25. But the Apostle here treating of good works, others do more fitly understand this of external exercises of mortification, whereby the body is tamed and kept under; as watching, abstinence from such and such meats, lying hard, and the like; which are otherwise lawful in themselves, and indeed may have some use; but little in comparison of godlinesse, in regard that all the benefit that can accrue thereby, is but to subdue the members of the body, and curb the outward motions and actions thereof, 1 Cor. 9. 27. They are no way able to purifie the heart, and the inward man, as a lively faith and the true fear and love of God doth, Rom. 8.13.

promise of the life that now is] Of the blessings of this present life, so far as they conduce to our eternal happinesse, and of the life to come absolutely.

V. 10. Saviour of all men] God in general not only saveth all men, but beasts also, Psalm 36. 6. Saviour here is taken for protector or preserver, because he conserveth all men in their natural and temporal being in general: but he is said the Saviour especially of those that believe, because he is the conserver of them in their eternal and spiritual being: he conserveth all creatures in their estate, men in their ways and callings, but the faithful in the state of grace: he preserveth all creatures from disorder and utter confusion, all men from manifold calamities, and miseries, but the faithful from the power of sin and death.

V. 14. Hands of the Presbytery] Or, Eldership. Some by Presbytery understand the office of a Presbyter, which Timothy received by imposition of hands; but the word πρεσβυτέριον, is never taken in the Scripture for the office of a Presbyter; but for the company of the Elders, who here laid hands upon Timothy, when he was ordained: for though he were ordained by Saint Paul, 2 Tim. 1.6. yet this ordination was performed in the assembly of the Elders, and with the laying on of their hands also: agreeable whereunto is the Canon of the fourth Council of Carthage, and the practise of the Church of England and other reformed Churches at this day.

V. 15. to all] Or, in all things.

V. 16. Take heed to thy self] To thy life and carriage, that it be inoffensive; and to thy doctrine, that it be sound.

save thy self] Thy Ministery shall be an effectual means both to save thy self and others: for faith is by hearing, and hearing by preaching, and therefore the Ministers of the Word are said to save themselves and others; for that to them the Lord hath committed the word of reconciliation.

CHAP. V.

Vers. 1. Not an elder] In reprehensions we must have regard to the degrees both of ages and sexes, and consider all as in a spiritual consanguinity with us.

V. 2. with] Gr. in.

V. 3. widows indeed] He speaketh of such widows who were servants to the Church, and appointed to be maintained by the publike contribution: such as were past all other labour, and destitute of all comfort both of husband, and of children, and nephews, or any other kinde of allies to releeve them.

V. 4. Shew pity at home] Or, kindnesse. Let those children and nephews in a thankful duty endeavour to repay their parents care and love: which the Greek elegantly expresse by a metaphor taken from the Stork (ἀντιπελαργεῖν) which feedeth her aged parents, and carrieth them upon her shoulders, and in that regard, in Hebrew is called חסידה, that is, pious and merciful.

V. 6. in pleasure] Or, delicately.

dead while she liveth] Such a widow is a kinde of monster half dead and half alive, dead in respect of the actions of the spirit, though vigorous, and alive in respect of the flesh; or alive to the world, but dead to God. In a like ambiguous sense we are to understand those words of our Saviour, Let the dead bury the dead, Matt. 8. 22. that is, Let the dead spiritually, bury their dead corporally, as the Jews in that their elegant ἀντιπαροιμίαν, Cùm ego à te discedo vivens morior, at cùm tibi adhæreo moriens vivo.

V. 8. house] Or, kindred.

denyed the faith] Though not in words, yet in his deeds, and hath cast away both humanity and religion, and therein is worse than an Infidel, who take care of their own, and love those that love them, Mat. 5.46.

V. 9. taken] Or, chose.

wife of one man] That is, which hath had but one husband at once, or if her husband had sent her a bill of divorce upon his repudiation of her, hath married no other.

V. 10. washed the Saints feet] This was an office of courtesie performed to strangers in those hotter countreys, Gen. 14.32. and 43, 24. Luke 7.44.

V. 11. younger widows refuse] Take them not into the college of widows or deaconesses, which are to be maintained at the Church's charge.

V. 12. Having damnation] Or, being liable to just censure.

cast off their first faith] Or, former, as Rev. 2.4. Making themselves liable to just censure and blame, because they have violated that promise and engagement, wherein they bound themselves to the continual service of the Church.

V. 13. busie-bodies] See 2 Thes. 3.11.

V. 14. younger women marry] I ordain that the younger women be left to their liberty to marry, and not tyed by covenant or agreement to the publike service of the Church.

to speak reproachfully] Or, for their railing.

V. 15. turned aside after Satan] They have been led by him to wanton courses, to the great scandal of the Church.

V. 17. Elders that rule well] See 1 Cor. 9.14. Gal. 6.6. He meaneth not Elders in age, but in office, that is, Bishops, or Pastours, that are employed in the government of the Church, as well as preaching.

double honour] Both of reverent respect, and comfortable maintenance (stipendia honoraria) as appeareth by the verses following, labour in the word] In the Original it is κοπιῶντες, which signifieth a toylsome labour, and hereby he commendeth those who besides their care and pains in governing, diligently and constantly preachett the Word.

V. 18. Thou shalt not muzzle the Oxe that treadeth, &c.] See Deut. 25.4.

Oxe that treadeth] In the Eastern Countreys it was not the manner to thresh out corn as we do, but their Oxen trod it out; to which the Apostle allegorically compares the laborious Pastours of the Church, who expounding the Scriptures, after a fort crush out that corn of which the bread of life is made, 1 Cor. 9.9.

The labourer is worthy of his reward] See Matt. 10.10.

V. 19. an elder receive not] Or, presbyter. Do not onely not condemn him without sufficient witnesses, as thou oughtest not any man according to the law of Moses, Deut. 19.11. but do not so much as receive an accusation, or give any credit to it; the reason is, that such men being in publike offices of governing the Church, in which they must exhort and admonish every one, and correct those that are unruly, they may easily get the ill will and hatred of many. Also the receiving an accusation against them, maketh them to be suspected, and it tendeth to the scandal of the Church. Besides, their sacred calling is to be held in reverence, and they who have been thought worthy of it, ought not to be suspected of any notorious default or guilt without very good evidence and strong proof.

Before] Or, under.

V. 21. without preferring one before another] Or, without prejudice.

V. 22. Lay hands suddenly on no man] Admit not any into the Ministery without sufficient examination and good proof both of his sufficiency in learning and godly conversation.

partaker of other mens sins] Either of those that would make choice of an unfit person into the Ministery, or of the Ministers themselves, who if they prove ill and unworthy of that sacred function, the blame will light upon thee, who by the laying on of thy hands admittest them into the Church.

pure] Or, chaste.

V. 24. Some mens sins are open before-hand] Or, manifest. Either these words are referred to the last judgement, as the ancient Fathers understand this text, and then the meaning is, that some mens sins are notorious, and may be judged and censured in this life, others are secret and hidden, the judgement whereof is reserved to the last day. Or, they relate to the examination before admittance into the Church, and then the meaning is, some there are who offer themselves to ordination, whose scandals are or may be known before-hand, who are to be repelled from the Ministery; others offences are not known till after they be ordained; on the other side the learning and good parts of some are so well known, that they may be received at the first meeting without fear of doing amisse in it; but if there be any who are not so well known, a small delay or pause will not hinder them, or, obscure their virtues, but rather after full and exact tryal of them, make them more conspicuous.

CHAP. VI.

Vers. 1. Under the yoke] To wit, of servitude under Masters that were Infidels. This servitude was an heavy yoak, lying not so much upon their bodies, as upon their souls, insomuch that they were forced to serve them who served not the true God; who notwithstanding ought to be hereby satisfied, that touching those things which appertain to everlasting life, they are no way subject to them.

be not blasphemed] For if they should refuse to serve their Masters, though infidels, under pretence of their Christian liberty, this would occasion their Masters to reproach Christian Religion, as if it taught them contumacy and disobedience.

V. 2. because they are brethren] Their fraternity in Christ, ought not to abate ought of their due respect and observance to their Masters: for this spiritual consanguinity doth not alter their outward and civil estate and condition.

faithful] Or, believing.

V. 4. He is proud] Gr. is puffed up.

doating] Or, sick.

strifes of words] Frivolous questions and quarrels, rather about words than matter, and by words he meaneth all those things which have no pith in them, and whereby we can reap no profit.

V. 5. Perverse disputings, &c.] Or, gallings one of another.

V. 6. Godliness with contentment is] Not only because it enricheth the soul, and giveth true contentment, but also because it hath the promise of outward blessings, 1 Tim. 4.8.

V. 7. For we brought nothing into this world, &c.] See Job 1.21.

V. 8. And] Gr. But.

V. 9. and a snare] Of the devil, who by means of this their inordinate desire to grow rich, doth tempt them to take many unlawfull courses, and keepeth them thereby as with a snare, that they cannot get again out of the intanglings of the world.

drown] Or, plunge.

V. 10. money] Gr. silver.

pierced themselves through] Christ compareth the deceitfulnesse of riches and cares of the world to thorns, which prick not the flesh only, but pierce through the minde and heart, and wound the souls and consciences with manifold hurts and smart pains, Matth. 13.22.

V. 11. O man of God] All righteous men are the servants of God, but the title of man of God implyeth more: for in Scripture it is attributed only to men of eminent sanctity, who had more familiarity and inwardnesse with God, as Moses, Samuel, David, Elias, Elizeus, and here Timothy. A man of God is he who is wholly devoted unto God, and his cheef employment is to bring Messages from God, as Prophets do, and bring men unto God, as the faithful Ministers of the Gospel do.

and] Gr. but.

V. 12. Fight the good fight of faith] Either contend thou earnestly for the maintenance of the true Faith and Gospel, Jude 3. Or, fight the good fight of Faith it self against all temptations of the Devil, persecutions of the world, and oppositions and contradictions of heretical teachers and great wisards of this world, 2 Tim. 4. 7.

lay hold on eternal life] A comparison taken from those that run for a prize, and as they approach neer the mark they stretch forth their hands to apprehend and touch it, verse 19.

professed a good profession] Either he understandeth the solemn vow Timothy had made in his Baptism, or at his ordination, wholly to dedicate himself unto, and employ his uttermost endeavours to the service of God.

V. 13. I give thee charge] A vehement kinde of adjuration to observe and keep all the premises faithfully, with his eyes fixed upon the coming of Jesus Christ, whose glory we are to set against the vain glittering of this world, and his power against all the terrours of the wicked, 2 Tim. 4. 1.

Pilate witnessed] See Matthew 26. 64. Matthew 27. 11. John 18. 37.

Confession] Or, profession.

V. 15. the King of kings] See Rev. 17. 4. and 19. 16.

V. 16. Who onely hath immortality] Eternally subsisting of himself, and by no other. Angels and the souls of men are immortal, but by participation only from God, as the Moon and Starres shine continually, but with light derived from the Sun.

dwelling in the light] Possessing such perfection and excellency in himself, as none is able to comprehend, as the word light is taken, 1 John 1. 5. Or dwelling in that increated and infinite glory of divine Majesty, the sight and knowledge whereof no creature is able to attain unto.

whom no man hath seen] See John 1. 18. 1 Tim. 1. 17. 1 John 4. 12.

V. 17. uncertain riches] Gr. uncertainty of riches.

giveth] Gr. affordeth.

V. 18. willing] Or, sociable.

V. 19. Laying up in store, &c.] See Matth. 6. 20. Luke 12. 33.

good foundation] That is, a certain and infallible argument and ground of hoping for eternal life; not as if the liberality of the rich did merit the same; but in regard of the promise of God made to all those that in faith apply themselves to the practise of good works, Mat. 10. 42. Gal. 6. 8, 9. Heb. 13. 16. 1 Pet. 2. 5.

V. 20. keep that which is committed] The precious treasure of sound and wholesome doctrine which is committed to thee, as a pledg to keep it safely thy self, and carefully transmit it to posterity; and withal the talent of those gifts which appertain unto the preaching of the same.

oppositions of science falsly] Made against sound doctrine out of erroneous grounds and principles of sciences so termed, but falsly. In which words, the Greek Fathers conceive that he pointeth at the Gnosticks, a certain sort of hereticks, who have their name from science, and profound knowledge, which they arrogated to themselves.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE To TIMOTHY.

The Argument and Analysis.

Saint Paul being ready to lay down his Earthly Tabernacle, sendeth for Timothy to come unto him, and to bring with him such things as he stood most needed: withal, he foretelleth his own Martyrdome, and the Crown of Righteousnesse which he should thereby receive, and fully instructeth Timothy how to carry himself in the Government of the Church, after his departure.

The Epistle it self is partly { 1. Commendatory of Timothy himself, and his parents, and Onesiphorus, and others, chap. 1, 2. 2. Exhortatory to Chastity, Faith, Charity, Peace, and Meekness, chap. 2. To undaunted fortitude, in withstanding all opposition against the Truth, and to the study of the Scriptures, chap. 3. To diligence in his Pastoral Function, watchfulness patience, and to godly prudence, and constancy in his holy profession to the end, chap. 4.

CHAP. I.

Vers. 1. Promise of life] Eternal life hid in Christ, which God hath promised to all that beleeve in him.

V. 2. beloved sonne] He calleth Timothy his son in a natural, civil and spiritual, or Ecclesiastical respect: First, in a natural, because Paul was now aged, and Timothy but a young man. Secondly, in a civil or moral, because Paul affected him, as if he were his own son, and Thirdly, in a spiritual or Ecclesiastical, because Paul ordained him a Minister of the Gospell. See 1 Tim. 1. 2.

V. 3. fore-fathers] Not his immediate fore-fathers, who bred him up in Pharisaisme, but his Ancestours Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, &c. who served God in the same true religion, for substance, which the Apostle now professeth, Acts 23. 1. and 24. 16.

with pure] Gr. in pure.

V. 5. call] Gr. calling.

V. 16. stir up] Gr. kindle again; or, quicken, as fire burneth under ashes, ἀναζωπυρεῖν, signifieth to re-kindle, or revive; for the gift of God is as it were a certain lively flame kindled in our hearts, which the flesh and the devil go about to put out; and therefore we on the contrary must labour, as much as we can, to foster and keep it burning. In the metaphor the Apostle seemeth to allude to the type of the Priests in the Old Testament, by whose Ministery the holy fire on the Altar was cherished, (that it might not go out) and as it slaked, blown to a brighter flame.

the gift] Some by this gift understand the gift of Miracles, which he received by the imposition of the Apostles hands; and that by the laying hands of the Presbytery, 1 Tim. 4. 14. he was admitted into the holy ministery; but because there is no proof in Scriptures or undoubted Antiquity, that Timothy had the gift of miracles, it is more probable, that by gift is here meant that Ghostly power or office which Timothy received at his ordination, by the laying on of the Apostles hands on him, in the presence of the Presbytery, who all gave consent thereunto, and testified it by putting their hands upon him also, 1 Tim. 4. 14.

V. 7. spirit of fear] The meaning is, rouze up the gifts of God in thee, and suffer not them to be staked or abated by carnal fear, for such a fear doth in no wise proceed from the working of the Spirit, but is quite contrary to the same which the Apostle doth mention here; lest Timothy might be affrighted with the affliction of the Church, and of Pauls in particular.

but of power] Of courage and resolution to go through with the work of the Ministery, notwithstanding all oppositions and dangers.

of love] Of an holy love of God and Christ, wherewith the faithful being inflamed, do chearfully undergo all manner of troubles and adversities for his sake.

sound minde] Whereby the holy Ghost doth reduce the troubled minde minde to tranquillity, and banish all turbulent passions, such as fear is. Or the spirit of moderation and discretion, that we bring not causlesse troubles upon our selves, and when they come upon us, break not out into a rage or impatience.

V. 8. afflictions of the Gospel] Be a cheerful partner with me of those troubles and afflictions which follow the profession of the Gospel. These are called afflictions of the Gospel, because as Christ suffereth in the persecution of his Members, so the Gospel after a sort suffereth, when the preachers thereof are opposed, disgraced, silenced, and imprisoned, or any way hindered from the free and powerful preaching thereof.

V. 9. not according to our works] See Tit. 3. 5. Not for the merit of our works, but for his own mercies sake; or, not according to works done by us in time, or foreseen by God before the world was; for these works, as in time they flowed from the grace of God, so they were foreseen likewise no otherwise than as effects of his grace in us, and consequently not as causes or inducements to God, to elect us to eternal life.

before the world began] Gr. secular times, or, everlasting. See Ephes. 1. 4. Tit. 1. 2.

V. 10. who hath abolished death] By taking away the fear and sting of the natural death in all true believers, 1 Cor. 15. 55. Heb. 2. 15. and freeing them from the guilt and punishment of the eternal and second death. Rev. 2. 11. & 20. 6.

life and immortality to light] Hath given us a full and clear sight of immortality, whereof before we had but as a glimpse; or shewed us a clear way to life and immortality.

V. 11. Whereunto I am appointed a preacher, &c.] See 1 Tim. 2. 7.

V. 12. believed] Or, trusted.

keep that which I have committed] Either my precious soul which I have committed to his care and custody to bring it forth glorious at that day of his appearing; Or, my eternal life, happiness and crown of glory, which I have as it were deposited with him by faith and hope.

V. 13. form of sound words] Gr. wholesome, or, healthful ὑγιαινόντων, such as conduce to the health of our souls, rather wholsom than delicate; or words not tainted with, nor savouring of any errour or heresie, false or corrupt doctrine.

V. 14. committed unto thee] See 1 Tim. 6. 20.

by the Holy Ghost] Though it be a hard thing to do it, considering what enemies lie in wait to rob us of it: yet the Spirit of God is mighty, who hath endued us with power and virtue to keep it.

V. 15. turned away from me] Leaving me in my trouble and affliction, and being ashamed of my bonds.

V. 16. my chain] See Ephes. 6. 20.

V. 17. sought me out] By this it appears, that S. Paul was not in prison for then Onesiphorus needed not to have made any great search to finde him; yet was he not free, but committed to the custody of the keeper, with whom he might go abroad to dispatch his affairs; and therefore in the verse going before, he speaketh not of chains in the plural number, but of a chain in the singular, with which he was tyed to the souldier that kept him. Vid. Senec. l. 1. de tranquil. an. c. 10. Eadem catena tam veum quam militem tenet.

CHAP. II.

Vers. 1. My son] See Chap. 1. 2.

in the grace that is in Christ Jesus] Be strong and courageous in the maintenance of the Gospel of Christ; or confidently relie on the favour of God, wherewith the Father embraceth us for his son Christ Jesus sake.

V. 2. among many witnesses] Or, by many witnesses. Either the things which thou hast heard confirmed by many witnesses and testimonies of holy Scripture; as the word witnesses is taken, Heb. 12. 1. Or, which thou heardest of me at thy ordination among the whole Presbytery: Or, not spoken in a corner, but publikely in my preaching, before many witnesses.

V. 3. endure hardnesse] Or, suffer affliction. The Ministery of the Word is a spiritual warfare, wherein no man can so serve that he may please his Captain or General, but he must forgo and part from all hinderances which may draw him from it, and also endure much hardnesse and be put to many a hot brunt.

V. 4. No man that warreth] Warriours and souldiers busie not themselves with merchandizing, handicraft works, husbandry or houshold affairs; but are always attending their watchings, marchings, and other services and commands of their Leaders and Captains: so neither must a faithful Minister of the Gospel trouble or distract himself with any worldly matters and affairs that may hinder him in the faithful discharge of his sacred function.

entangleth himself] Gr. is entangled.

V. 5. strive for masteries] The Ministery is like to a game, or striving for the mastery, wherein no man is crowned unless he strive according to the laws that are prescribed, be they never so difficult or painful.

V. 6. The husbandman, &c.] Or, The husbandman labouring first, must be partaker of the fruits.

V. 8. Remember that Jesus Christ] He confirmeth two principles of our faith which are always assaulted by hereticks; the one, that Christ is the true Messias, God incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and made of the seed of David; and the other the highest Article of our Creed and mystery of our salvation, his resurrection from the dead.

V. 9. but the word of God is not bound] Though they may confine me, and binde me fast, yet they cannot bind and fetter the Gospel of Christ, that word of his ever is and shall be free, not onely preached by those who are at liberty, but even by me and other servants of Christ who are restrained and in durance.

V. 10. endure all things] Not in their flesh, or that my sufferings may be imputed unto them, but I indure afflictions for those offices, which I do towards the furthering of the salvation of Gods elect.

V. 11. if we be dead with him] See Rom. 5. 8. If we be afflicted with him, and persecuted even to death for his sake, we shall also live together with him eternally, and moft happily in heaven.

V. 12. If we suffer] See Rom. 8. 17.

if we deny him] See Matt. 10. 33. Mark 8. 38.

V. 13. if we believe not] See Rom. 3. 3.

he abideth faithful] Though we alter never so much, yet God is the same, most just and faithful in all his promises, and undertakings, Rom. 3. 3. Mal. 3. 6. Jam. 1. 17.

V. 14. strive not about words] μὴ λογομαχεῖν. Not to strive about words onely, when the controversie is meer verbal or nominal, and no way real, or not at all importing faith or good manners: or, strive not with words bandying contumelious speeches, or bringing no better proof than vaunting words and boastings.

V. 15. rightly dividing] By adding nothing to it, neither over-slipping any thing, neither mangling it, nor renting it in sunder, nor wresting of it; but marking diligently what his hearers are able to bear, and what is fit for edification. The Metaphor is taken either from the cutting and squaring our of the streets and high-ways, and setting out the bounds of mens lands and possessions: or from the Priests of the Old Testament, who having slain the beasts that were to be sacrificed, did joynt and divide the same in an accurate manner: or from house-keepers that cut out and divide to every one in their families their share and portion of meat, 1 Cor. 3. 2. Luk. 12. 42. Heb. 5. 12.

V. 16. increase] Or, proceed.

V. 17. eat as doth a canker] Or, gangrene. γαγγραίνα from γεύω, signifying to eat, as the disease called a Wolf or a Canker doth, which if it be not looked to in time groweth incurable, and not onely consumeth the part where it is, but spreadeth farther in the flesh: such is the nature of heretical doctrine, if it be not stopt in the beginning, and cured by solid confutations, and Ecclesiastical censures inflicted upon those that are obstinate, it will spread far, and run over the whole body of the Church, and corrupt the same, 1 Cor. 5. 7. Gal. 5. 9.

Hymeneus and Philetus] He nameth here the chiefest of those profane, and vain bablers, that being known they might be the better shun'd.

V. 18. erred] Or, missed the mark.

resurrection is past] It is probable they taught that there was no other resurrection but the spiritual rising of the soul from the death of sin; or the renovation of the condition of the world under the Gospel, according as the word resurrection is sometimes taken.

overthrow the faith of some] That is, infect them with their heresie, and thereby subvert their orthodox faith.

V. 19. Nevertheless] Although some slide away from the truth, we must not be offended thereat, as if the salvation of the elect were not sure.

the foundation of God] The eternal election, which is the first ground-work of the salvation of the faithful, laid by God himself, cannot be shaken in such sort, that the elect of God should be seduced by the like heresies, and fall away from faith, Matth. 24. 24.

sure] Or, steady.

having this seal] The Book of life in which the names of the elect are written is confirmed as with a seal, and the number of the elect in the fore-knowledge of God is sealed up as in a Book.

Let every one] Though the Lord hath eternally fore-known those that are his, yet not so that we presuming upon that Decree should cast away all care of our salvation, and let loose the reins to all carnal liberty. For on our parts who are thus mercifully fore-known and elected to salvation, there is required a holy and a conscionable obedience, and a careful endeavour to please God in all things, and shun all manner of sin.

V. 20. and some to honour] See Rom. 9. 21.

V. 21. if a man therefore purge] Cleanse himself from these heretical and impure doctrines, and keep himself unforted of the world: the grace and virtue of the holy Ghost that dwelleth in him, 1 Pet. 1. 22. 1 Joh. 3. 5.

vessel unto honour] The counsel of God shall be fulfilled in him, and he shall be really and effectually according as he is ordained unto it of God, a vessel of honour. Or, he shall shew and approve himself to be such a vessel indeed. The like expression we have Job. 15. 8.

V. 23.

V. 23. fool-ish and unlearned] See 1 Tim. 1. 4. Tit. 3. 9.

V. 24. must not strive] Must not he of a contentious disposition, nor at all strive about foolish and unlearned questions, vers. 23.

patient] Or, forbearing. To win them through our patient bearing with them, but not to please them, or excuse them in their wickednes.

V. 25. oppose themselves] Gr. set themselves against him, or, are ill affected to him.

repentance to the acknowledging] The knowledge of the truth goeth before repentance, yet true repentance goeth before the publike recantation of their errour, and particular acknowledgement of that truth before gain-sayed and opposed.

V. 26. recover] Gr. awake.

snare of the devil] Heretical doctrines are the snares wherein the devil intangleth the understanding of seduced men, as vitious provocations are the snares wherein he intangleth the wills and affections of dissolute persons.

taken captive] Gr. taken alive.

at his will] Gr. to.

CHAP. III.

Vers. 1. IN the last days] See 1 Tim. 4. 1. 2 Pet. 3. 3. Jude 18. The end of the world is the harvest, and when the sins of Antichrist and of all his followers shall be ripe, than will the Angel thrust in his sickle and mow the earth, Apoc. 14. 26. 18. 1 Tim. 4. 1.

perilous times] Gr. hard. We may not hope for a Church in this world without corruption, but there shall be rather great abundance of most wicked men, even in the very bosom of the Church, who notwithstanding shall make a shew and countenance of great holinesse.

V. 2. lovers of their own selves] Such persons have been in all ages of the Church, but towards the end of the world, being as it were the lees and dregs of time, there shall be almost none but such: these vices being spread over the whole face of the Church, and the mentioned evils become Epidemical.

covetous] Gr. lovers of silver; or, money.

boasters, proud] See Rom. 1. 29, 30.

V. 3. false accusers] Or, make-bates.

V. 4. high-minded] Gr. puffed up.

V. 5. Having a form of godliness] Gr. μόρφωσιν, but μόρφωσιν, not the true form and essence of godlinesse, but an outward conformation thereunto, a resemblance, vizard, or shew of holinesse; mens religion consisting in a formal profession of godlinesse, (Tit. 1. 16.) without expressing the power and efficacy thereof in their lives: Or, in external gestures, behaviours, rites, and ceremonies, without the pure inward worship of God in spirit and truth.

V. 6. women laden with with sins] Silly women are more easily deceived, and those of them are more apt to be misled in their judgements which are given up to lewd and wanton courses. Josephus Antiq. Jud. 2. observeth that the Pharisees had their Gynecea, Colledges or meeting of women; and S. Jerome ad Ctes. that Simon Magus had his Helena, Marcion his female forerunner, Apelles his Philumena, Montanus his Maximilla, Donatus his Lucilla, Elpidius his Agape, Priscillian his Galla, Arius the Prince his Sister; and generally all arch heretikes some strumpet or other, by whom they spread the poison of their heresie.

V. 7. Ever learning] The Apostle taxeth not these women for endeavouring by continual learning to improve their knowledge; but for curious inquiring into every novelty of doctrine, and following now one teacher, now another, having no care to attain to sound and saving truth.

V. 8. Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses] The names of the chief of the Egyptian sorcerers that strove with Moses, whose names are not expressed, Exo. 7. 11. yet are here related by the Apostle, either out of some Jewish writers, not now extant, or from some ancient tradition. Howsoever, certain it is, that these Magitians names were famous, or infamous, for Numerius the Pythagorean Philosopher, and Artabanus the Historian make mention of them both, and Plinie in his Natural Story, l. 3. c. 1. nameth one of them to wit, Jannes. See Eusseb. de prep. Evang. l. 9. c. 3.

reprobate concerning the faith] Or, of no judgement. Whose doctrines are abominable before God, and ought to be rejected of all; or, who have lost all right and sound judgement in things that belong to the Faith, Rom. 1. 18. 26. Tit. 1. 16.

V. 9. proceed no further] He addeth a comfort, that God will at length pluck off all the vizards of Hypocrites and false teachers.

folly] Or, madness.

V. 10. thou hast] Or, thou hast been a follower of.

fully knowen] Thou knowest throughly, not onely what I taught and did, but also how I was minded and disposed.

V. 11. afflictions] Gr. sufferings.

V. 12. shall suffer persecution] Gr. shall be persecuted.

V. 13. worse and worse] 2 Pet. 2. 20, 22.

deceiving, and being deceived] Deceiving others by their sophisms and fair shew of holinesse, and being deceived by Satan.

V. 15. from a child] There is nothing more profitable than to be exercised in the Scriptures from our infancy; for the vessels that are at the first seasoned with the savour of life, seldom or never lose it, Prov. 22. 6. And though while they are very young, they cannot come to much understanding, yet the having of Scripture phrase and texts by heart, is very useful, and will much stead them after they come to riper years, and are able to dive deeper into the meaning of those things they retain perfect in their memories from their childhood.

wise unto salvation, through faith] Although the Scripture sufficiently instruct us unto salvation, yet we cannot be saved without a lively faith working through love, therefore he addeth, through faith: Or, by Scriptures he meaneth the Scriptures of the Old Testament which it is like were onely extant when Timothie was a child, the knowledge whereof could not save Timothie without faith in Christ, whereby he beleeved the accomplishment of all those things which were fore-shewed in the Old Testament, both by predictions and types.

V. 16. All Scripture is given] See 2 Pet. 1. 21. Or, the whole Scripture, as the word is taken, 1 Cor. 13. 2. and elsewhere. Every part of Scripture is divinely inspired, 2 Pet. 1. 20, 21. and is profitable to some of these ends, to furnish the man of God to some good works: but the whole Scripture is profitable to all those ends, to furnish him to every good work. The parts of the Scripture as they were delivered, were sufficient for the instruction of those to whom they were delivered; and now the whole is most sufficient for us, and all Churches to the end of the world.

V. 17. man of God] The Minister of God in his Church, 1 Tim. 6. 11.

throughly furnished] Or, perfected.

furnished unto all good works] That is, to all the services of his profession, to those works of his calling, he mentioned before, namely doctrine of the principles of Christian Religion, reproof of errours and false doctrines, correction of life and evil manners, and instruction in the precepts of a holy life and Christian conversation.

CHAP. IV.

Vers. 1. I Charge thee therefore] Gr. testifie, or, denounce. This is my principal and chief charge of all.

before God and the Lord Jesus Christ] This deep kinde of charging Timothie, in so vehement and pathetical a manner, sheweth how urgent and important the matter is, how simply necessary diligent and constant preaching is in a Minister of the Gospel, and how fearful his case is, if he fail in this duty of his function.

judge of quick and dead] See 1 Cor. 15. 51. 1 Thess. 4. 17.

V. 2. in season, out of season] Upon all occasions, with a holy importunity. There is no contradiction in these commands, both may and ought to be done by a faithful Minister of God, who preacheth in season, when God offereth him a fair opportunity, and the hearers desire, Neh. 8. 1. and call for the Word, and the argument he handleth, is seasonable for the time. Out of season, when a door of utterance is opened unto him, that he may preach, but his hearers are not willing to hear, either because they are ill-affected to the Word, or distracted by other businesses, or they like not to hear such points touched or medled with at such a time, when yet he knoweth it to be needful for the health of their souls, to hear such doctrines handled, or duties prest.

exhort] Or, comfort.

V. 3. sound doctrine] Gr. wholsom. See 1 Tim. 1. 10.

V. 4. ears] Gr. hearing.

V. 5. watch thou] Or, be sober. The wickedness and falling away of the world ought to cause faithful Ministers to be so much the more careful and vigilant; and so likewise the taking away of those who laboured with them before in that office. Vers. 6. John 12. Col 4. 17.

make full] Or, fulfil.

ready to be offered] To be sacrificed or Martyred. The word in the Original σπένδομαι, signifieth properly libation, or a drink-offering; and he alludeth to the pouring out of bloud, or wine which was used in sacrifice, and seemeth withal to intimate the manner of death wherewith he was to glorifie God, which was not by being offered as a holocaust by fire, as Polycarp, and many others were, but by a death wherein his bloud was shed or pouted out, namely beheading.

departure] Gr. dissolution. See Philip. 1. 23.

V. 7. fought a good fight] Gr. that good fight. See 1 Tim. 6. 12.

I have finished my course] I am come to the period of my days: Vixi, & quem dederat cursum fortuna, peregi. And in this metaphor he seemeth to allude to the manner of his whole life, which after his conversion was spent, as it were, wholly in running from place to place, speedily to dispense the doctrine of the Gospel, and now he was come to the last Stage or Goal at Rome, where he was to receive his Garland, after the manner of those who ran for prizes. 1 Cor. 9. 24, 25.

kept the faith] The true doctrine of faith; or the gift of saving and justifying faith; or the faithfulness which he promised Christ in the discharge of his Apostleship, Rev. 2. 10.

V. 8. a crown of righteousness] A reward of just and holy works, an incorruptible Crown of glory, which though it be a Crown of mercy, Psal. 103. 4. and a gift of grace, Rom. 6. 23. yet he calleth it here a Crown of righteousness, which the righteous Judge shall give him, the more fully to follow the metaphor taken from runners or wrestlers for prizes, at their solemn exercises or games in Greece, in which there were certain Judges appointed to observe those that proved masteries, and give just sentence on the Conquerours side, if he strove lawfully, and fairly won the prize. And the meaning of the Apostle is, that he had kept the laws of proving masteries, and so accquitted himself in running and wrestling, that he might justly expect the prize. Besides, eternal life may be rightly termed a Crown of righteousness, both ex parte Dei, who promiseth it to every one that overcometh, Revel. 2. 10. & 3. 21. and ex parte rei, because it is just and righteous with God to render unto them, who have endured for his sake toylsom labours, painful tormentes, and disgraceful reproaches, ease, joy and glory. 2 Thes. 1. 6, 7.

love his appearing] That they may see him in glory, who suffered so much for them in this world, and that they may receive from him their everlasting reward.

V. 10. loved this present world] Hath given over to tend on me in my affliction any longer, chusing rather to follow his worldly occasions, and provide for his own safety and profit.

V. 13. cloak that I left at Troas] φελόνην, which some take for a riding Coat, or travelling Cloak, as if it were made by a transposition of letters, from the Latine penula; but the most ancient Syriac interpreter takes it for domum, or, repositorium scripturum; and Hesychius a most exquisite Greek Grammarian inclineth to that opinion, that by it the Apostle meant scrinium, a little Desk or Coffer, wherein he laid his books or writings.

V. 14. Alexander the Copper-smith] Covetousness is the bane of religion. Two of the greatest enemies S. Paul had, were two Smithes, the one a Silver-smith, Acts 19. 24. and this Copper-smith here, and both of them, as it is conceived, maligned and opposed him, and his preaching for the same reason, because the Apostle taught they were no Gods that were made with hands, and thereby hindered their gain, and marred their Handicraft, which was to make silver, or Copper Shrines, or Images to the Heathen gods and goddesses.

the Lord reward him] Gr. Tec. shall reward him. This is not a curse, proceeding from anger, or a revengful heart, which is contrary to the doctrine of Christ, Matt. 5. 44. and of S. Paul himself, Rom. 12. 14. but a Prophetical conmination out of a godly zeal, and a prediction inspired by the holy Ghost, of the punishment which was ready to be executed upon him. See Psal. 5. 10. & 109. 7. & deinceps. With this interpretation agreeth the Greek Copy of great Antiquity, written, as it is supposed by Tecla, wherein the Verb is not ἀποδώσει, but ἀποδῶσει. the Lord reward, but the Lord shall or will reward him according to his works.

V. 15. our words] Or, our preachings.

V. 16. answer] Gr. apologie, or, defence of myself.

that it may not be laid to their charge] It is not sufficient for us to maintain the truth our selves, but we must assist them who stand up for the truth, and not timorously shrink from them when they are in trouble for it.

V. 17. stood with me] Gr. by me, or, assisted me.

mouth of the lion] Out of great and imminent danger of death. Some by the Lion understand the Emperour Nero, so called for his rage and cruelty; as generally Tyrants and powerful enemies of the Church are called. Ezek. 19. 2. Psal. 35. 17. & 91. 13. Prov. 28. 15. Jere. 2. 15. & 47. And Marsyas certifying his Patron at Rome of the death of Tiberius, useth this phrase, τύραννος ὁ λέων, the Lion is dead. Josephus antiqu. l. 18. c. 16.

V. 18. every evil work] From forsaking or wronging the truth, or doing any thing out of cowardly fear that may blemish this my holy profession.

V. 20. at] Gr. in.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TITUS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

IN the Island of Creet (now Candie) the Foundations of a Christian Church were laid, and the Walls reared up: But the Roof was wanting. Some abuses were reformed, but not all: to some Cities there were Godly Pastours, but not so through the whole Island. For which cause S. Paul left Titus there to supply what was lacking, and appoint Elders in every City; and to the end he might the better perform this task, he furnisheth him in this Epistle with wise and godly directions, wherevpon

CHAP. I.

Vers. 1.  ccording to the faith] Either the doctrine of faith which the Elect of God have ever believed from the beginning; or according to the faith which was wrought in the Elect, and whereby they are led to the acknowledgement of the saving truth of Christian Religion.

V. 2. In hope] Or, for hope.

before the world began] Or, secular, or, everlasting times. See 2 Tim. 1. 9. 1 Pet. 1. 20.

V. 4. own son] See 1 Tim. 1. 2.

common faith] That which before he called the faith of the Elect, he here calleth the common faith: as Jude vers. 3. the common salvation, that is, the ordinary means of salvation, or the faith communicated to all the Elect through the whole world; or the faith common to me and thee, for there is but one way of salvation, common both to the Pastour and the flock, to the father in Christ, as the Apostle was, and the son begotten by him in the Gospel, as Titus was.

V. 5. left I thee in Crete] Crete is an Island in the Mediterranean or Mid-land Sea, now called Candie; of which see Acts 2, 11. & 27. 7, 12.

set in order] Either to correct and amend what was done amiss, or further to supply and perfect whatsoever was lacking of things behooveful to the Church.

ordain elders] Gr. appoint. That is, Pastours, one or more in all places, where there is a convenient number of the faithful.

had appointed] Gr. gave order to.

V. 6. If any be blameless] See 1 Tim.3.2,&c.

V. 7. as the steward] See Phil.1.1. 1 Tim.3.2.

good men] Or, good things.

V. 9. as he hath been taught] Or, in teaching.

exhort] Gr. Tec. comfort those that are in affliction.

V. 11. whose mouthes must be stopped] Either by solid consuting their errours, or by suspension and Ecclesiastical censures.

V. 12. a Prophet of their own] Some will have this allegation to be taken out of Callimachus his hymne in praise of Jupiter; where the first part of this verse is found, but Callimachus was no Prophet of the Creians: the Apostle therefore certainly meaneth Epimenides, who himself was a Cretian, whose Poem is called a book of Oracles et Prophecies; among whom this whole Verse is found, viz. the Cretians are always liers, that is, crafty companions, false in their words and deeds, as the Latine Proverb, Cretizare cum Cretensibus, declareth: Evil beasts, that is, fierce, intractable, and dangerous to deal withal; and slow bellies, that is, given to sloth, and idleness, and luxurious gluttons. Which censure of the Cretians, the Apostle here confirms, not to discredit those Islanders, or blast their reputation, but to discover the maladies of that people to him, whom he there left as a Physitian, to cure them by sound and wholesome doctrine.

V. 13. sharply] Gr. cuttingly, touching them to the quick.

V. 14. Not giving] See 1 Tim.1.4.

commandments of men] The Apostle forbiddeth not simply to give heed to the commandments of men: for elsewhere he requireth us to obey the lawful commands of our superiours in Church and Commonwealth: but to the traditions of those of the circumcision, whom he taxeth, verse. 10. and generally of such men as walk not with a right foot to the Gospel; for it is not here said simply the commandments of men, but of such men as turn from the truth, and therefore we must turn from them.

V. 15. Unto the pure all things] See Rom. 14. 20. That is, all meats and other creatures of God. For the ceremonial Law of Moses which made a distinction of clean and unclean meats, being abrogated by the Gospel, the use of all those things is pure and holy to the faithful, being themselves pure, that is, cleansed by the blood of Christ, and sanctified by his Spirit; whereas on the contrary, the spiritual uncleanness of unbeleevers maketh, that the very things otherwise permitted by Moses, become unclean to them, Hag. 2. 13.

their mind and conscience is defiled] Impurity and uncleanness doth not consist in the outward abstinence from any meats, or the eating of them, but it lyeth within the soul of man, and the faculties of the same, which are all of them unclean and defiled with sin in the unbeleevers. Those two parts of man which may seem most pure and free from sin; viz. the mind, which retaineth yet some light of knowledge, and the conscience, that applyeth this light, to testifie, discern, and judge of mens actions good or evil; now by that inward and inbred corruption of ignorance and perverseness, is become impure to man, the former hindring the knowledge of the latter conformity to the will of God; by the former he tempteth God, and by the other he offendeth and resisteth him so long as he continueth in his unregenerate estate.

V. 16. reprobate] Or, void of judgement.

CHAP. II.

Verse. 1. Speak thou] The doctrine of faithful Pastours must not onely be generally pure and sound, but particularly and discreetly applyed to all ages, and sexes, and callings, according to the diversity of circumstances.

V. 2. sober] Or, vigilant.

V. 3. holiness] Or, holy women.

false accusers] Or, make-bates.

given] Gr. subjected: or, enslaved.

to much wine] διδούλωμένας signifieth more than given to much wine, it implyeth as much as overcome or enslaved: whereby it appeers, that as the men of Crete were given to their belly and luxurious feeding, chap. 1. 12. so the women also were given to their palate and more liberal drinking of wine, even to distemper: an odious vice in men, but much more in women.

V. 4. sober] Or, wise.

V. 5. obedient] See Ephes. 5. 23.

V. 6. sober-minded] Or, discreet.

V. 7. A pattern of good works] A faithful Minister must preach the Gospel, as well in his life as in his Sermons: so S. Peter (Ep. 1. ch. 5. ver. 3.) requireth the Elders to carry themselves, not as Lords over Gods inheritance, but as ensamples to the flock.

V. 9. servants] See Ephes. 6. 5. Coloss. 3. 22. 1 Pet. 2. 18.

answering] Or, gain-saying.

V. 10. adorn the doctrine of God] As the evil lives of professors is a great obloquie and blemish, so on the contrary, their godly conversation is a great honour and ornament to the Doctrine of the Gospel.

V. 11. grace of God] The exceeding mercy and goodness of God: or the Doctrine of the grace of God, exhibited to us by Christ, and comprehended in the Gospel.

that bringeth salvation, &c.] Or, that bringeth salvation to all men, hath appeared.

hath appeared] ἐπεφάνη ἔπιφανὴ, hath clearly manifested it self, or shined forth as a light in the darkness of the shadows of the Old Testament, and of the ignorance of heathenism, Esa. 42. 7. 16, 18. Acts 26. 18. Rom. 13. 12. Ephes. 5. 8. 1 Pet. 2. 9 1 John 2. 8.

to all men] Without distinction of Nations, sex, age, or condition, 1 Tim. 2. 4.

V. 12. Denying ungodliness] That is, renouncing and forsaking them. Under the name of ungodliness he compriseth all breaches of the first Table; under worldly lusts, all inordinate desires against the second: which are called worldly, both in respect of the object, because they are conversant about such things as belong to the prefent estate of this life and world, and in regard of the subject, viz. such lusts as are found and reign in worldly and unregenerate men, which are described, Ephes. 2. 2, 3. & 4. 17, 18, 19. 1 Pet. 4. 3. 1 Joh. 2. 16.

we should live soberly] As in the former words were comprised all the negative, so under these three adverbs all the affirmative precepts of the Law, which have a three-fold reference: the first to our selves, the second to our neighbour, the third to God. Soberly, in respect of our selves; righteously, in respect of our neighbours, and holily or godly, in respect of God. Hæc tria perpetuo meditare adverbia Pauli, Hæc tria sint vitæ regula sanctæ tuæ.

V. 13. looking] See 1 Cor. 1. 7. Phil. 3. 20.

blessed hope] The blessed recompense of reward which we stedfastly hope for, everlasting life and glory, which we shall be fully possessed of at the second coming of Christ, which shall be with great majesty and glory, Col. 1. 5.

the great God] To the confutation and confusion of all that deny the Deity of Christ, the Apostle here calleth him not onely God, but the great God, that is, immense, and of infinite power: for as life when it is attributed to God, signifieth immortality, and wealth all-sufficiency, and age eternity, and strength omnipotency, so greatness immensity.

V. 14. redeem us from all iniquity] From the guilt, punishment and power of all sin.

purifie unto himself] Purifie by faith in our justification, by charity and other graces of the Spirit in our sanctification: or, purifie, that is, sanctifie or consecrate to himself.

a peculiar people] A people exempt and separate from the rest of the world, a people whom he receives into his special favour and protection, whom he esteems as his chief treasure and precious Jewels. Mal. 3. 17. 1 Pet. 2. 9.

zealous of good works] Not onely careful to shew forth good works, but bearing a fervent affection to them, and earnestly striving that none may out-strip or excel you in them.

CHAP. III.

Verse. 1. To be subject] Rom. 13. 1. 1 Pet. 2. 13.

principalities and powers] Some conceive that there were divers in Crete and other parts who were infected with the doctrine of Judas Galileus, of whom Gamaliel speaketh, Act. 5. 37. who denyed that any ought to be called Lords save God; and that the people of God ought to pay tribute to none: and for this cause the Apostle both here and elsewhere presseth the doctrine of obedience to all civil Magistrates under the name of principalities and powers.

V. 2. brawlers] Gr. fighters.

all meekness] Though all sinners are not alike to be handled, but on some we are to have compassion, others to save with fear, pulling them out of the fire, Jude 23. yet the Ministers of God must do nothing in rage or passion, but with the spirit of meekness, shewing all meekness to all men, Gentiles as well as Jews, enemies as well as friends, and that especially out of this consideration, that the best of Christians before their conversion were as bad as the worst of them whose carriage is most offensive to the Church, verse. 3.

V. 3. we our selves] 1 Cor. 6. 11.

V. 4. kindness and love] Or, pitie. See Chap. 2. 11.

V. 5. Not by, &c.] 2 Tim. 1. 9.

works of righteousness] That is, such as are done according to the Law of God, which is the rule of all righteousness: so that here all works are excluded from being meritorious causes of our salvation, not onely the works of the Ceremonial Law, but also Moral; not onely done before our conversion, but after; for here the mercy of God is set against all works done by us, and to it alone is our salvation ascribed.

washing of regeneration] By the regeneration and renewing of the Holy Holy Ghost, which is like unto a Bath of water, whereby the filth of our sins is washed away and cleansed, Ezek. 36. 25, 26, 27. whereof the Font of Baptism is a sign and seal. See the like manner of speech, Rom. 4. 11. 1 Pet. 3. 21.

and renewing of the Holy Ghost] The renewing, which the virtue of the Holy Ghost worketh, who applyeth the bloud of Christ to the soul of the faithful, as the expiation for sins, whereupon a man is made a new creature, regenerated according to the image of God in righteousness and holiness.

V. 6. abundantly] Gr. richly.

V. 8. maintain good works] Gr. go before others, or, excel in good.

V. 9. avoid foolish questions] 1 Tim. 1. 4. 2 Tim. 1. 23.

V. 10. A man that is an heretick] An obstinate defender and spreader of erroneous doctrine, repugnant to the foundation of faith, and tending to the disturbing and distracting of the Church.

after the first and second admonition] This word comprehendeth not onely warning given by the Church, but instructions resolving of his doubts, clear refutations of his errours, friendly exhortations both in private and publike.

rejecting] Do not trouble thy self to dispute any more with him, for that were to cast holy things before dogs, Matt. 7. 6. give no more care to his replies, cavils, and objections, but according to thy office excommunicate him, hold him for a profane person, and as a member cut off from the body of the Church, Rom. 16. 17. 1 Cor. 5. 13. Gal. 1. 3, 9. & 5. 12. 2 Thess. 3. 14.

V. 11. is subverted] Quite desperate, perverted both in mind and will in things concerning the faith, like to a building that is broken down to the very foundation.

V. 12. condemned of himself] Sinneth wilfully and in a high degree, being convinced in his own conscience, that he shuts his eyes against the light, and resisteth and opposeth the known truth.

V. 12. to Nicopolis] A city in Macedonia, which had that name, as some affirm, given it from νίκη, and πόλις, because at that city, as S. Jerome writeth, Augustus got a famous victory against Antony and Cleopatra.

V. 14. maintain good works] Or, profess honest trades.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO PHILEMON.

The Argument.

This Epistle was written by the Apostle Paul unto Philemon, one of his Fellow-Labourers in the Ministery of the Gospel, in the behalf of one Onesimus, a Servant of his, who had withdrawn himself from his Masters service, and had also, as it seemeth, wronged him in his Temporal Estate: But coming to Rome where Paul then abode under restraint, had been by his Ministery converted; and after he had been for a while detained there, to attend upon him, was with this sent back to his Master. The Apostle therein intreating him to admit him into his service again, remitting to him his offence formerly committed, and engaging himself to make good whatsoever damage he had sustained by him. The Epistle though writ upon such a private occasion, yet is so penned, as it carries with it, the lively Character of an Apostolical Spirit, and contains very pregnant expressions of Pauls good estimation, and entire affection to Philemon, tender bowels of compassion towards a sincere convert, and hearty desire of the welfare of those whom he hath occasion any way to mention in the same.

CHAP. I.

Verse. 1.  Prisoner of Jesus Christ] That is, for Jesus Christ, as verse. 13. bonds of the Gospel, Ephes. 3. 1. Which circumstance he toucheth upon, the rather to move Philemon to pity and compassion, that he would not deny his earnest request in the behalf of Onesimus, and thereby adde affliction to his affliction.

V. 2. beloved] Gr. Tec. sister.

Apphia] Theodoret affirmeth that this Apphia was Philemons wife; and in the subscription of this Epistle in a very ancient manuscript these words are, To Philemon and Apphia, Master and Mistress of Onesimus. And if the were not Philemons wife, it is not like the Apostle would have put her in the inscription in this letter, which he wrote in behalf of Philemons servant.

Archippus] This Archippus is conceived to be the same of whom the Apostle speaketh, Col. 4. 17. to whom Onesimus delivered Saint Pauls Epistle to the Colossians, who being Pastor at Colosse might prevail the more with Philemon, one of his flock, at whose house he lay.

V. 4. I thank my God, &c.] See 1 Thess. 1. 2. 2 Thess. 1. 3.

V. 5. toward all saints] Either he taketh faith in a larger sense, and so it may extend to saints. For although we beleeve not in them, yet we believe them, as we read Exod. 14. 31. They believed the Lord and his servant Moses. Or else the words towards all saints, are to be referred to the word love, and towards the Lord Jesus to the word faith; and this is made more evident by the Syriack translation, in which the words are translated after this manner, hearing of thy faith, and thy love which thou hast towards the Lord Jesus, and towards all saints, Col. 1. 4.

V. 6. communication of thy faith, &c.] That is, the fruits of thy faith In some copies it is, may be made evident, ἐνεργὴς, not ἐνεργὴς, and that seemeth to be true reading: howsoever the sense is much at one, I pray that the charitable actions which proceed from thy faith may be a clear evidence, and give an effectual demonstration of the holy graces that are in thee.

by] Gr. in.

in] Gr. to.

V. 7. bowels of the saints] Thou hast comforted the saints at the very heart, and given them much ease and refreshment in the heat of persecution.

V. 10. for my son] Gr. concerning.

Onesimus] See Coloss. 4. 9.

V. 11. unprofitable] He evidently alludeth to the name ἀνήσιμος, Onesimus, which in Greek signifieth profitable: while he was thy servant before and an unbeleever, he was contrary to his name, utterly unprofitable; but now upon his conversion he will make good his name, and prove truly Onesimus, that is, profitable to thee and me.

V. 12. mine own bowels] As if he were my own son, begotten of mine own body, 2 Sam. 16. 11.

V. 16. both in the flesh and in the Lord] Both in worldly and civil respect, and also spiritual. It may be also that Onesimus though a servant, yet was some way of kin to Philemon.

V. 19. with my own hand] This is as it were a bill or obligation wherein he promiseth to pay the damage Onesimus had done unto his Master, that it might not stand in the way of his reconciliation.

albeit I do] Gr. that I may not say.

I do not say] I might request thee to put up that debt or damage in exchange of those spiritual gifts which thou hast received by my means, whereby thou are obliged to me for the salvation of thy soul, but in this I will gladly forgo my own right, intending to give thee full and entire satisfaction for any dammage thou hast sustained by Onesimus.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE HEBREWS.

The Argument.

THE Apostle Paul observing, that the Hebrews (at least a great and considerable part of them) were ready to fall from the faith of Christ into their former Judaism, by reason of those cruel persecutions which they suffered, hence took occasion to write this Epistle unto them; wherein he laboureth to confirm them in that faith which they had received, and to stir them up to stand stedfast in it; and that by divers arguments: as first, from the excellency of Christs nature, person, and offices; but chiefly of his Priestly office above that of Aarons. Secondly, from the danger of Apostasie. Thirdly, from the excellency and great power of faith. Fourthly, from the gracious effects and fruits of affliction. And then concludes the Epistle with exhortations to divers christian duties, both general and particular.

There is some Controversie about the Author of this Epistle. Some ascribing it to Barnabas. Others, to Clemens of Rome: Others, to Luke: But generally it is received, that S. Paul was the Author thereof. And it is observed, that all the Greek Copies, save one, bear this inscription: and generally, by an Hebrew, we are to understand the whole posterity of Abraham, by Isaac, who was the first (we read of) who was styled an Hebrew, Gen. 14. 13. The cause wherefore that name was given unto him, you may see in the Annotations upon Gen. 14. 13. The place, we are to understand hereby those of the Hebrews, who having received the Gospel, continued in Judea before their dispersion.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. GOD] That is, the Father; for when the name [God] is mentioned in the Scriptures, with relation unto the Son, thereby we are to understand God the Father.

at ſundry times] Or, by, or, in ſundry parts. The Original word ſignifieth thoſe ſeveral parts or degrees wherewith the doctrine of the Goſpel was revealed unto the Fathers; that it was not at once altogether revealed, but a little, and a little; now this, now that, as God in his wiſdom ſaw moſt requiſite.

divers] Thereby is meant thoſe ſeveral and different kinds or ſorts of revelation, whereby the word God was revealed, as ſometimes by Angels, ſometimes by viſions in the day, ſometimes by dreams in the night, &c. ſometimes more plainly, ſometimes more obſcurely, Num. 12. 6.

in time paſt] That is, both before and under the Law.

by] Or, in. Both prepoſitions, both in the Hebrew and in the Greek, are promiſcuouſly taken one for the other; yet this latter ſeems to be more emphatical in this place, intimating that God moved their hearts and tongues. Matt. 10. 20. 2 Cor. 13. 3. 1 Pet. 1. 10, 11, 21. A king ſpeaketh by, he doth not ſpeak in his Ambaſſadour; God doth both.

V. 2. In theſe laſt days] What we are to underſtand by the laſt times, we muſt gather from the ſubject matter or circumſtances of the place. Sometimes it is taken for the day of judgement; as John 6. 44. Sometimes neer the end of the world, or the day of judgement; as 2 Tim. 3. 2 Pet. 3. 3. Sometime for the time of the Goſpel, which is called, the fulneſs of times, Ephe. 1. 10. Gal. 4. 4. and ſo 1 Eſay 2. 2. Mich. 4. 1. 1 Pet. 1. 10. This is called the end of the world, Chap. 9. 26. Now, the time of the Goſpel is ſtyled, the laſt times, becauſe we are not to expect any other revelation after this time: or in oppoſition to the times before and under the Law, which is called the old time, Matth. 5. 21. or becauſe our Lord Chriſt hath now made all things new, 2 Cor. 5. 17. Acts 2. 17. See the notes on Gen. 49. 1.

ſpoken] That is, fully and plainly.

by] See verſ. 1.

Son] Deut. 18. 15, compared with Act. 3. 22. & 7. 37. Matth. 17. 5. John 1. 18. That is, his naturall Son, coeſſential, or of the ſame eſſence with the Father, called therefore the onely begotten, Joh. 1. 14. & 3. 16. for others are called the ſons of God by grace and adoption, John 1. 12. Rom. 8. 14. Gal. 4. 6.

appointed heir] That is, ordained Poſſeſſor, Lord, and Diſpenſer; which is not to be underſtood of that eſſential dominion or Lordſhip which he had common with the Father and the holy Ghoſt, being God equal with them; but of that œconomical, diſpenſed, or delegate dominion or Lordſhip, wherunto he was foreordained before the foundations of the world, being appointed the Mediatour of the new Teſtament, and wherein he was actually conſtituted and placed, after that he had finiſhed the work of mans redemption, Pſal. 89. 27. Matt. 28. 18. Luk. 24. 26. John 5. 27. Act. 2. 36. Rom. 14. 9. Eph. 1. 20. Phil. 2. 9, 10, &c. Rev. 4. 11.

all things] Whether they belong to this life, or the life to come: ſo that whatſoever we want we muſt ſeek in and through him, Joh. 3. 35. & 13. 3.

by whom] Prov. 8. 27——30. Joh. 1. 3. 1 Cor. 8. 7. Col. 1. 16. Heb. 1. 10. It is not as by an inſtrument or inferiour cauſe, but by him, as by his eternal wiſdom, and by way of a conjoyned, cooperating and equal cauſe; ſo that by this particle [by] is meant on y the order of working; it is the Father by the Son, and not the inferiority of cauſes.

made] That is, created, as John 1. 3. Col. 1. 16.

the worlds] That is, the worlds continuation through its ſeveral ages, and all things viſible and invisible, meaſured by time, or whatſoever hath any duration or ſucceſſion. Chap. 11. 3. Nch. 9. 6.

V. 3. who being, &c.] Wiſ. 7. 26. Joh. 1. 14. Phil. 2. 6. Col. 1. 15.

brightneſs] Or, ſent forth light. The ſpeech is metaphorical, taken or borrowed from a lightſome body, and the beams or ſplendor which it ſends forth; God the Father being herein compared unto the lightſome body, God the Son unto the beam or ſplendor ſent forth; and ſo are the words following, wherein God the Father is compared unto a Seal, God the Son unto an impreſſion reſulting from the Seal. Now the Son of God may be called the ſent-forth light of his Fathers glory, and the imprinted form of his Eſſence or Perſon; either in reſpect of his Deity, and then thereby is ſignified, both the manner of his eſſential generation; viz. that it was eternal from his Father, as alſo his conſubſtantiality with the Father; that is, that he is of the ſame eſſence with him: or elſe in reſpect of his incarnation, or manifeſtation in the fleſh, becauſe in Chriſt manifeſted in the fleſh the Glory and Majeſty of God the Father ſhined forth, which otherwiſe was invisible, and could not be beholden.

expreſs image] Or, imprinted form. See the former note.

upholding] That is, continuing their natures and governing of them Num. 11. 14. Deut. 1. 9.

by the word] That is, by his powerful word, or by his words of power, by his mighty command, and according to his own will and pleaſure, Chap. 11. 3.

when] Or, after that. Here the Apoſtle gives another reaſon why Chriſt was made heir of all things, verſ. 2. viz. becauſe by himſelf he purged our ſins.

by himſelf] That is, the ſacrifice of himſelf: whereby is implyed the ſuper-excellency of Chriſts ſacrifice above all others. See Chap. 9. 12. 14, 26.

purged] That is, taken away the guilt of ſins, by making ſatisfaction unto the juſtice of God for them. Chap. 9. 22, 23. Ephe. 5. 26. Tit. 2. 14. Joh. 1. 29. 1 Pet. 1. 2. Revel. 1. 5.

ſate down] Herein the Apoſtle alludeth to the cuſtom of Kings, who place him at their right hand whom they put next in authority and power under them; ſo that hereby is denoted the ſupreme and high high dignity, power and dominion, which Chriſt obtained when he aſcended into heaven. Chap. 12. 2. Matt. 26. 64. Rom. 8. 34. Col. 3. 1. of the Majeſty] That is, of God the Father. See Chap. 8. 1.

V. 4. Being] At this verſe S. Paul begins to confirm that which he had before ſpoken, touching the excellency of Chriſts perſon, by preferring him unto Angels, and conſequently unto al other Creatures.

made] The Original word doth not onely ſignifie being made, but alſo ſimply being, John 1. 15. Act. 7. 38. and not onely ſo, but being declared or acknowledged, Rom. 3. 4. James 1. 12.

inheritance] Chriſt hath a double inheritance; one as the natural Son of God by eternal generation; another, as God and man, or as the Mediatour of the New Teſtament, both may be underſtood in this place: ſee verſ. 2.

more excellent] Eph. 1. 21. Phil. 2. 9. That is, more honourable and glorious Titles and Attributes, or greater Honour, Power, Dominion, Majeſty and glory than the Angels.

V. 5. Thou art my Son] The place of the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. 2. 7. in the literal ſenſe, is to be underſtood of David, as the Type, who after many troubles, was at length ſetled in his Kingdom, which God had promiſed him; but in the myſtical ſenſe it is underſtood of Chriſt the truth: Now Chriſt may be ſaid to be the Son of God, and to be begotten of him in a three-fold reſpect. Firſt, of his eternal generation, ſee verſ. 2. Secondly, of his incarnation, Luke 1. 35. Thirdly, of his reſurrection, whereby he was begotten unto an eternal Kingdom and Prieſthood. And of this we are to underſtand this place, as we may gather from Saint Pauls expoſition hereof, Act. 13. 33. And it cannot be probably conceived, how Davids exaltation unto his Kingdom, can be a type ot Chriſts eternal generation.

I will be] This place is of the like nature with the former; in the literal ſenſe it is meant of Solomon the type, but in the myſtical, of Chriſt the truth: ſee 2 Sam. 7. 14. 2 Chron 22. 10.

V. 6. And again] Or, And when he bringeth his firſt begotten again; or, the ſecond time. Whether we underſtand the place either of Chriſts coming, that is, in the fleſh; or elſe of his ſecond, that is, to judgement, it proves the truth intended, viz. that Chriſt is more excellent than the Angels.

firſt-begotten] Rom. 8. 29. So called, to denote his excellency above his brethren in nature, office, glory, dominion, Exod. 4. 22. Pſal. 89. 27. Jer. 31. as alſo in that love wherewith God the Father loveth him above all his brethren, Deut. 21. 16. Mic. 6. 7. Zech. 12. 10.

And let all] Pſal. 97. 7. And this was fulfilled, Luk. 1 2. 13, 14. Mark 1. 13. Rev. 5. 11, 12.

V. 7. maketh] Pſal. 104. 4.

ſpirits] That is, as the winds: ſee the Note following.

as a flame] Or, as the lightnings. By both which we are to underſtand their readineſs to execute Gods will; for as the winds and lightnings ſuddenly paſs from one end of the earth to the other, ſo the Angels preſently fulfill Gods will, Matth. 6. 10.

V. 8. Thy throne] Pſal. 45. 6. Eſay 9. 7. The Pſalm whence this is taken, is allegorical; ſee the notes thereon; expreſſing the ſpiritual marriage between Chriſt and his Church; and therefore here it is properly applyed.

V. 9. Therefore] Rather for this end God did anoint thee: for if we underſtand by anointing, Chriſts ſeating in his Kingdom, or entring into his glory, the ſenſe will be abſurd, viz. Thou haſt adminiſtred thy Kingdom with juſtice, therefore God hath ſeated thee in thy Kingdom: He was firſt to be ſeated in his Kingdom, before he could adminiſter it with juſtice: So that by (Therefore) we are to underſtand the cauſe wherefore God did anoint him, and not the fruit or effect of Chriſts righteous government.

anointed] Qualified thee with the gifts of his Spirit, for the adminiſtration of thy Kingdom: ſee Luk. 4. 18.

oyl] With his Spirit: compared to oyl, becauſe as oyl ſtrengtheneth the body, ſo the Spirit of God ſtrengtheneth and rejoyceth the ſoul, 1 Theſſ. 1. 6. This anointing was when the Son of God aſſumed our humane nature into the unity of his perſon; whereby the Spirit of God and all the graces of his Spirit were communicated unto his humane nature, ſo far as it was capable of them.

above] Not by meaſure, but in fulneſs; that all others of his fulneſs might receive grace for grace, John 1. 14. & 3. 34. Col. 1. 19.

fellows] All men; becauſe all men are his fellows in reſpect of our humane nature which he aſſumed. Or, all thoſe who have received the Spirit of God; or, all Kings, prieſts, and prophets, becauſe thoſe in ancient time were wont to be anointed. Now our Lord Chriſt being a King, prieſt, and prophet, thoſe in an eſpecial manner may be called his fellows.

V. 10. And thou] Pſal. 102. 25. Eſa. 34. 4. verſ. 2.

V. 12. And as a veſture ſhalt thou fold them up, and they ſhall be changed] Or we may read it thus; As a garment doſt thou fold them, and they ſhall paſs away. Or if we read it (fold) the words allude unto a tent, which when it is to be removed, is folded up.

V. 13. Sit] Reign; as it is expounded, 1 Cor. 15. 25.

footſtool] It is an alluſion unto a cuſtom in the Eaſtern parts, where they were wont to put their feet upon the necks of thoſe whom they have conquered: So that hereby we are to underſtand that perfect victory which Chriſt had over all his enemies, Eſay 8. 8. Joſh. 10. 24. 2 Sam. 22. 41.

V. 14. Are they, &c.] Verſ. 7. 2 Kin. 2. 11. & 6. 17. Pſal. 34. 7. & 91. 11, &c.

heirs] They are principally for the elect, and for their ſake they are occupied about the wicked: As an Angel deſtroyed the hoſt of Sennacherib, 2 Kin. 19. 35. and Herod, Act. 12. 23.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. Therefore] From the former doctrine touching Chriſts excellency and dignity above angels and all other creatures, Saint Paul infers this exhortation. The ſcope whereof is to ſtir up the Hebrews to ſtand faſt in that faith which they had received.

heed] The more earneſtly keep and obey: or more abundantly.

let them ſlip] Gr. run out as leaking veſſels.

ſlip] In which words there is a metaphor, which ſome conceive to be taken from a leaking veſſel: And the ſenſe then is this; Take heed, that you ſuffer not the things which you have heard to ſlip out of your memories; to which is oppoſed, the hiding of the word in our hearts, Pſal. 119. 11. Luke 2. 51. Others, from water poured upon the ground, which cannot be gathered up again, 2 Sam. 14. 14. And to this Expoſition, the context of the next verſe ſeems to lead us. See Prov. 3. 21.

V. 2. word] That is, either the law given upon Mount Sinai, Deut. 33. 2. Act. 7. 53. Gal. 3. 19. Or elſe all thoſe revelations which God made unto the prophets by Angels, or other meſſengers: ſee Chap. 10. 28, 29.

by Angels] Which muſt not be underſtood of the Law given by the Miniſtery of Angels, which ſome have gathered from thoſe places, Act. 7. 53. Gal. 3. 19. for if we well weigh the words in the original, they imply not ſo much. Stephen ſaith not, that they received the Law by the Miniſtery of Angels, but among the orders or ranks of angels, by whom the fearful trumpet was ſounded, and who were, (as it were) a heavenly Army attending upon God at that preſent time, when he gave the Law to the people: and in Gal. 3. 19. it is among the Angels, by the hand of a Mediatour: but hereby we are to underſtand here any doctrine or admonition whatſoever, which God ſent to man by the miniſtery of Angels under the Old Teſtament.

ſtedfaſt] That is, was of ſuch force and authority, that no man tranſgreſſed ſtubbornly and willingly, unpuniſhed: ſee Deut. 4. 3. 35. 1 Cor. 10. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10.

a juſt] Condigne punniſhment, Rom. 1. 27.

V. 3. great ſalvation] That is, the knowledge, Luke 1. 77. or the word, Act. 13. 26. or the Goſpel of ſo great ſalvation, Eph. 1. 13. our eternal redemption and freedom from the bondage of ſin, Satan, and death; called great, in compariſon of all temporal and corporal deliverances.

began] Not that Chriſt delivered the doctrine of ſalvation imperfectly, and left it to be fully delivered by the Apoſtles, but becauſe he firſt preached it, and that fully and plainly, which before was but obſcurely revealed: ſee Chap. 1. v. 1, 2.

unto us] That is, unto our times: or elſe S. Paul here joyns himſelf with thoſe Hebrews, who were called into the fellowſhip of the Goſpel, that thereby his exhortation might leave the deeper impreſſion in thoſe, unto whom he did write: ſee 1 Cor. 15. 8, 9. 1 Pet. 4. 3.

V. 4. God alſo bearing] Mark 16. 20. At this verſe S. Paul reſumes the former compariſon between Chriſt and the Angels.

teſtified] Gr. diſtributions: ſee Rom. 12. 6. 1 Cor. 7. 7. & 12. 11. Eph. 4. 8. becauſe gifts of the ſpirit were not given all unto one, but to ſeveral perſons.

V. 5. the world to] The Apoſtle following the Tranſlation of the Septuagint, Eſa. 9. 6. calls the church under the Goſpel, eſpecial, after Chriſts reſurrection and aſcention, when he had entred upon his eternal kingdom, and prieſthood, the world to come: firſt, in relation unto the church before and under the Law: ſecondly, becauſe of the reſtauration of all things by Chriſt begun already, 2 Cor. 5. 17. and ſhall be finiſhed hereafter at the generall day of reſurrection, which is called the time of reſtitution of all things, Act. 3. 21. Ephe. 1. 10.

take] Hereof he had ſpoke, Chap. 1. v. 2, 3, 13.

V. 6. it hat is man] Pſal. 8. 4. The words in the literal ſenſe, are to be underſtood, both of the miſery and baſeneſs, as alſo of the prerogative and dignity of man in general, eſpecially of the faithful: but in the myſtical or prophetical ſenſe, they are to be underſtood of the humiliation and exaltation of the man Chriſt Jeſus, in whom they are moſt exactly and exquiſitely fulfilled.

V. 7. little lower] Or, a little while inferiour. The Original, both in the Hebrew and the Greek ſignifieth, both a little deal, as Gen. 18. 4. & 24. 17. Joſh. 6. 7. and a little while, a Gen. 30. 39.

Exod.17.4. Lev. 25.53. Luke 22. 58. Acts 5. 34. and the place may be understood of both according to the two-fold sense observed in it: according to the literal or historical sense, or as these words speak of the baseness and dignity of man, we may understand them of a little deal, but according to the prophetical sense: as they speak of Christ, we may understand them a little while, and of a little deal.

Angels] In the Original it is מלאכים, which is one of the names of God; and therefore some have translated it, a little lower than God: but because the original word is often attributed unto the angels and magistrates, therefore the Apostle properly alleageth the place, for the proof of that, which he intended.

V. 8. But now] All power was given unto Christ at his resurrection, Mat. 28. 18. John 5. 27. but yet he doth not fully exercise this power: this is left to the judgement of the great day, when all his enemies shall be put under his feet: see chap. 1. 13.

V. 9. But we see] That is, by his resurrection, ascension, and those gifts of the Spirit, which he poured down upon his Apostles and the whole Church after his ascension, Acts 2. 4. Eph. 4. 8. see verse 4.

for] That is, that he might suffer death: the Greek preposition sometimes implying the final cause: see Rom. 4. 25. Or, in that he did dye, which the angels do not: see Phil. 2. 4.

grace of God] John 1. 16. Tit. 2. 11.

taste] That is, dye, Mat. 6. 28. Mark 9. 1. Luke 9. 27. Or it may be understood of Christ dying without seeing corruption, Psalm 16. 10. Acts 2. 27. & 13. 35. Or, Christ may be said but to taste of death, because he continued but a short time under the power thereof, it being impossible, that he should be holden of it, Acts 2. 24.

for every man] Rom. 5. 18. 1 Tim. 2. 6. 1 John 2. 2.

V. 10. For it] Here Saint Paul proceeds to shew the reason, wherefore it became him, who was ordained to be the Prince and Captain of our salvation, to be man, and in our humane nature to suffer death.

became] Whether the work of mans redemption could have been wrought without the humiliation of the Son of God, is not determinable by men; but that it was the most admirable way, which wisdom, justice, and mercy could require, cannot be denied.

for whom] Rom. 11. 36. 2 Cor. 5. 15.

glory] So the eternal happinesse of the Saints is often styled: see Rom. 8. 18. 2 Cor. 4. 17. Eph. 1. 18.

to make] That is, to consecrate unto his everlasting kingdom and priesthood. So the original word is used by the Septuagint, Exod. 29. 10.

Captain of their] Acts 3. 15. & 5. 31.

V. 11. sanctifieth] By (sanctifie) here understand not onely the renewing of our natures, but also our justification: see chapter 9. 9. & 10. 10. Eph. 5. 26. by both which the Prince of our salvation brings sons unto glory. Or Christs consecrating us unto his Father, Rev. 1. 6.

of one] That is, of one masse or lump, or of the same nature. It is conceived by some that this rule is taken from the manner of sanctifying under the Old Testament, under which the high priest and those whom he sanctified, were of one and the same nature; and so the first-lings and first-fruits were of the same nature with the whole flock and crop, which was sanctified in them.

brethren] That is, to reckon himself amongst them as one of the same nature and condition; for in those Texts afterwards alleaged, he doth not in expresse words call them brethren, but only imply it.

V. 12. Saying] Viz. Psalm 22. 22. Which though it be to be here understood of David as the type; yet is likewise to be understood of Christ as of the truth; it being a continued relation of the story of Christs sufferings, and is oftner alleaged to that purpose by the Evangelists, than any chapter in the Old Testament.

V. 13. I will put] Psalm 18. 2. & 22. 30. It is the duty of man subject to misery and affliction to put his trust in God, and therefore when Christ affirms of himself (I will put, &c.) thereby he implyes his humane nature subject to misery and affliction.

Behold] Isaiah was a type of Christ: hence that which he affirms of himself, is true of Christ.

children] Not only Isaiah himself was a type of Christ, but his children also were a figure of those whom Christ was to bring unto glory: see Isa. 8. 18.

V. 14. Forasmuch then, &c.] The Apostle having shewed before, that Christ was of the same nature with other men, comes at this verse to shew the reason why it was so requisite.

flesh and blood] Understand thereby mans humane nature subject to weaknesse, misery, and death. So Mat. 16. 17. Gal. 1. 16. Eph. 6. 12. see chap. 5. 7.

took] That is, did assume into the unity of his person, or humane nature, subject to the same common blamelesse infirmities.

that through death] 1 Cor. 15. 54, 55.

through] As it were by his own weapon.

him] That is, the power and kingdom of Satan, which stands in three things: First, in tempting man to sin. Secondly, in holding him under the bondage of sin. Thirdly, in accusing him to God for sin. Hence Christ may be said by death to destroy the devil, that is, the power of the devil, because by the merit and vitue of his death he took away both the reigning and condemning power of sin, Rom. 6. 3, &c. 1 John 3. 8.

power of death] That is, through sin whereunto he had seduced man, and under which he kept him still, 1 Cor. 15. 56.

devil] He speaks of one as of that prince, not excluding the rest: so often in the Scripture, as John 8. 44. Eph. 6. 11. James 4. 7.

V. 15. of death] That is, joyned with the anger of God as it is without Christ, who hath taken away its sting: see verse 14.

bondage] And so could not take pleasure in any thing, seeing death was always ready to surprise them.

V. 16. took] The original signifieth to lay hold upon one that is flying away, or in danger. Answerable hereunto it may in this place signifie Christs redeeming not the angels, but the seed of Abraham: that is, man, when he fled from him, Gen. 3. 8. some understand it of Christs taking upon him our humane nature.

V. 17. in all things] Sin excepted: see chap. 4. 15. Hereby we are given to understand, that Christ was perfect man, consisting of an human body, and an human soul, subject to all the common infirmities and weaknesses of both; or all those infirmities, whether of body or soul, which imply neither pollution nor impotency in his sufferings.

behoved] See verse 10.

a merciful] Chap. 4. 15. & 5. 2. that is, pitiful, ready to have compassion, and to help.

faithful] In executing Gods will for mans redemption.

to make] That is, by the sacrifice of himself, or merit of his passion: see chap. 1. 3.

V. 18. tempted] Both in body and soul, yet without sin: tempted of God in his agony, Luke 22. 44. of the devil, Mat. 4. 1. and by his instruments through his whole life.

CHAP. III.

Verse 1. Wherefore] At this verse the Apostle prosecutes the exhortation begun, chap. 2. verse 1. and continues it to the end of the fourth chapter.

Holy brethren] Such who are made holy by Jesus Christ the holy one of God, 1 Cor. 6. 11. and he calls them brethren, not by merit, in respect of their carnal generation; but because they were all partakers of the same holy and precious faith now with him.

heavenly] That is, effectual calling, whereby they beleeved and obeyed the Gospel of Christ. Called heavenly: First, in respect of the authour, God, Phil. 3. 14. Secondly, in respect of those things whereunto they were called to be partakers of, which were heavenly, 1 Thes. 2. 12. 2 Thes. 2. 14. 2 Tim. 1. 9. 1 Peter 2. 9. and 3. 9. 2 Peter 1. 3. some understand thereby, that Gospel, or the preaching thereof, which was the outward means of their calling.

consider] That is, diligently, attentively: ponder with all your heart and mind his dignity and excellency, that so ye might adhere unto him, and obey him.

Apostle] That is, whom God hath sent as his ambassadour to make known his will unto you: see chap. 1. 2.

high] Whom God hath ordained to make satisfaction for your sins: see chapter 1. 3. and of whom the high priest under the law was a type.

profession] Whom we beleeve with our hearts, and whom we confesse with our mouths, Rom. 10. 10. or, of the doctrine which we beleeve and ought to confesse, chap. 4. 14. and 10. 13. 2 Cor. 9. 13. 1 Tim. 6. 12, 13.

V. 2. faithful] That is, in discharging that office, which God had appointed to him for mans redemption: so the original word is often used, as Mat. 24. 45. and 25. 21. Acts 16. 15, 1 Cor. 4. 2. Eph. 6. 21. Col. 1. 7. see chap. 2. 17. 1 Pet. 1. 20.

appointed] Or, made: see 1 Sam. 12. 6. Acts 2. 36. Now he is said to be made, not as if he were a creature made of God, but he had his godhead in respect of his office; made the apostle and high priest of our salvation.

Moses] Num. 12. 7.

house] That is, the Church of God in his time, and wherein God did dwell.

V. 3. man that] 1 Cor. 1. 21. 1 Tim. 2. 5.

Moses] As before he preferred Christ to the angels, so here unto Moses, shewing both wherein they agreed, and wherein they differed; they agreed in that both were faithful in their office, verse 2. they differed; first, in that Christ was the builder of the church, whereas Moses was but a part thereof, verse 3. secondly, in that Moses governed the church but as a servant or steward; but Christ as a Son, whom his Father had made heir of all things, verse 5, 6.

V. 4. some man] Or, some one.

V. 5. testimony] that is, to be a witness of those things which he should in the name of God report unto the people: Or we may understand the

the place of those ceremonies and types of the Old Testament set forth by Moses, to be afterwards more plainly and fully declared by Christ and his Apostles.

V. 6. own] Christ hath a propriety in his Church, and therefore he is ready to use all fidelity, mercy, and power, to govern and defend it.

house] Christ dwelling in our hearts by faith, Ephes. 3. 17. See 1 Cor. 3. 16. 2 Cor. 6. 16. 1 Pet. 2. 5. confidence] That is, the profession of our faith with boldnesse, Acts 4. 29. Rom. 10. 10. Ephes. 6. 19. 1 Thes. 2. 2.

rejoycing] That is, glorying in those things for which we hope, Col. 1. 5. 1 Th. 5. 8. Tit. 1. 2. Or, our hope, which makes us to rejoyce, Rom. 5. 2.

unto the end] Mat. 10. 22. & 4. 13. Rev. 3. 10.

V. 7. it therefore] In as much as Gods wonders in Egypt, and in the wilderness, the conducting of his people into the land of Canaan, and their rebellious behaviour in it, were true types or shadows of the like events in future times under the Gospel, therefore the Apostle upon good ground alleageth this of the Psalmist, not onely as an exhortation applicable to his times, but also as a Prophecy.

holy Ghost] By David, Psalm 95. 7. See 2 Sam. 23. 2. Acts 1. 16. 2 Peter 1. 21.

to day] Psalm 95. 7. The place being understood as a prophecy: by to day, we are here to understand the time of the Gospel, called the accepted time and day of salvation, 2 Cor. 6. 2. Or, understand thereby the present time, whinsoever salvation is offered.

if] Or, when; as Gen. 38. 9. Exodus 20. 25. & 22. 25. Lev. 2, 14. Numb. 36. 4. Judges 20. 30. Mat. 5. 23.

V. 8. Harden] Contemn not his voyce, but beleeve it, cleave fast and be obedient unto it, Zech. 7. 11, 12. Acts 7. 51. where resisting is opposed unto it.

provocation] That is, day of provocation: whereby understand not onely that special time mentioned, Exodus 17. 2, &c. Numb. 20. 3, &c. and Deut. 6. 16. but the whole space, wherein they tempted God in the wildernesse: see Psalm 78. 1, &c.

V. 9. When] Or, where.

tempted] When they tempted me, by calling into question my presence, power, and providence, Psalm 78. 20.

me] That is, Christ, 1 Cor. 10. 9.

proved] Out of unbeleef, notwithstanding they had experience of my power and presence with them.

and saw] Or, notwithstanding they saw.

fourty years] See Psalm 95. 9.

V. 10. grieved] That is, was grievously offended. I abhorred.

known] That is, not seriously considered the course of my providence, and the ways of my commandments.

V. 11. So I sware] Numb. 14. 23.

they shall not enter] Gr. if they shall enter. But that particle is often negative: see Psalm 89. 33. If I lye unto David; I will not lye unto him: It is observed, that an oath usually implyeth an imprecation, which for the most part is concealed: see 1 Sam. 14. 44. 1 Kings 20. 10.

rest] Literally it was understood of the land of Canaan, which was a type of the eternal rest of the faithful in heaven, chap. 4. 9. but in as much as the land of Canaan was a type of heaven, therefore we are further to understand it of the exclusion of unbeleevers out of heaven.

V. 12. Take heed] Here the Apostle begins to comment upon, or expound the former passage of the Psalmist.

unbeleef] Whereby is implyed, that infidelity is the original and fountain of all disobedience.

V. 13. exhort] Whereby understand reproof, admonition, comfort, and the like.

daily] Continually, upon all good occasions.

to day] While it is the accepted time, or day of salvation, or while the Lord doth afford you opportunity and means of grace, Psalm 32. 6. Isa. 55. 6.

deceitfulness] Ephes. 4. 22.

V. 14. For we] This verse should be with a parenthesis.

of Christ] And all spiritual blessings.

if we hold] Col. 1. 23.

beginning] Or, that faith which we had in the beginning.

of our confidence] The Original word signifieth a foundation, or prop which upholds the building: hence faith is denoted thereby, because it is the foundation of all spiritual graces, and prop which upholds Christians in this vale of tears, Jude v. 20. Or by it we may understand [expectation] it being by faith that we certainly expect things hoped for, chapter 11. 1. Psalm 39. 7.

unto the end] See verse 6.

V. 15. This verse cohereth with the 13.

whiles] Or, even as it is said.

easkastes] Num. 14. 29. Jude verse 5.

V. 18. sware] Num. 14. 30. Deut. 1. 35.

V. 19. So we see] Psalm 106. 24, 25, 26, 27.

unbeleef] That is, because they did not trust upon Gods promises, but murmured against him in the wildernesse.

CHAP. IV.

Verse 1. Therefore] Our Apostle having in the former chapter exhorted the Hebrews to take heed, lest they entered not into that rest formerly mentioned, reneweth his exhortation at this verse; and then proceeds to a further amplification of that rest.

any of you] chapter 12. 15.

seem] That is, should come short: so Luke 8. 18. compared with Luke 19. & 26. & 35. 29. 1 Cor. 11. 16.

come short] As those who run in a race, and yet come not to the gaol, and so receive not the price, 1 Cor. 9. 24. or, come late, as the foolish virgins, Matth. 23. 10.

V. 2. the word preached] Gr. the word of hearing; for faith cometh by hearing, Rom. 10. 17.

not being mixed with faith in] Or, because it is not received by faith. That is, not being joyned or accompanyed with faith. It is thought that herein the Apostle alludes unto a potion not well mingled, which rather hurts than doth any good.

V. 3. rest] That is, that spiritual and eternal rest, whereof David speaks, Psalm 95. 11. which is begun in this life in the joy of the holy Ghost, and in the peace of a good conscience, and shall be perfected hereafter in the joyes of heaven.

said] Not in expresse terms, but by necessary consequence; for where God swears, that unbeleevers shall not enter into his rest, there he doth implicitely promise, that beleevers shall enter thereinto.

As I have sworn] Psalm 95. 11.

although] At this clause the Apostle begins to shew, what that rest was whereof the Psalmist spake, Psalm 95. and of which he had exhorted them not to come short, verse 1. viz. not the rest of the seventh day, spoken of, Gen. 2. 2. which he sheweth to verse 7. neither that rest whereunto Joshua brought the children of Israel, that is, their rest in the land of Canaan; this from the seventh verse to the tenth; but of another rest, whereof the former were but types and shadows, which the Psalmist cheefly intends.

V. 4. And God did rest] Gen. 2. 2. Exod. 20. 11.

works] That is, of creation, not of continual preservation; or, making of the world then.

V. 6. Seeing] Because the Psalmist speaks of a rest, which was to be long after that rest in Canaan, even four hundred yeares: Hence the Apostle inferreth in this and the two following verses, that the Psalmist intends another rest than that corporal and civil rest.

it was first preached] Or, the Gospel was first preached.

V. 8. Jesus] That is, Joshua.

V. 9. There] Seeing that the Psalmist cannot be understood onely of the two former rests, hence the Apostle concludeth, that there remaineth another kind of rest; now what that rest is, he sheweth in the verse following.

rest to the people of God] Or, keeping of sabbath.

V. 10. own works] From those afflictions and sorrows, which he suffers in this life, Rev. 14. 13. & 21. 4. thereby the Apostle intends the happinesse of the saints in heaven, where all tears shall be wiped from their eyes, Esa. 25. 8. Rev. 7. 17. and whereof we receive the first-fruits and pledge, even in this life: see verse 3.

V. 11. labour] That is, diligently, or with all our might; or let us study and use our best endeavour, Luke 13. 24.

unbeleef] Or, disobedience.

V. 12. Word of God] Some understand it of the Word written or spoken, and of the great power thereof; whereof Saint Paul speeaks, 1 Cor. 14. 24. But with more probability, if we observe both the antecedents and the consequents of the place, we may understand it of Christ, who is called the Word, John 1. 1. Rev. 19. 13. because he was to reveal the counsel and will of God his Father, unto his people: but it is likewise applyable unto the word written or preached.

quick] living. Whereby he is opposed to the idols of the Heathen, who had eyes and saw not, and ears and heard not, &c. but Christ the Word of God is living, beholding all the thoughts and actions of men, that so he might give to every man according to his deeds.

powerful] He is not onely omniscient, but also full of power, to executes his wrath upon those that are disobedient.

sharper] By this similitude is likewise expressed the omniscience of Christ, unto whom nothing is secret, no not the thoughts and intentions of our hearts: A two-edged sword easily enters, it makes way for it self.

V. 13. opened] As it were anatomized and cleft asunder; so that he sees every turning and winding of our hearts.

with whom] That is, say some, unto whom we must give an account, Rom. 2. 16. & 14. 10. but it ought rather to be translated, of whom is our speech; or, of whom we speak: So the Greek preposition is often used. See chapter 1. 7. Luke 20. 19. Romanes 10. 21.

V. 14. great high] Chap. 3. 1. Who both knowes the deepest and and most secret thoughts and intentions of our hearts, and is likewise able to punish us for them.

passed into the heavens] chap. 7. 26. 12. 24. whereby Christ is preferred unto the Levitical high priests, who entred only into the Holy of Holies.

hold fast] Chap. 10. 23. that is, stedfastly without wavering, cleave and adhere to the doctrine of Christ, which we professe, and not suffer our selves to be drawn from it by any temptations or persecutions, chap. 10. 23.

V. 5. For we have not] chap. 2. 17, 18.

tempted] See chap. 2. 17. Luke 22. 28.

without sin] 1 Pet. 2. 22.

V. 16. therefore,] Knowing that we have such an high priest, who is both able and willing to succour us when we are tempted.

come] By faithful and fervent prayer.

boldly] Or, freely: chap. 10. 19. Eph. 2. 18.

throne] That is, God reconciled unto us in Christ, typified by Gods sitting between the cherubims upon the Mercy-Seat, Exod. 25. 22.

to help in time of need] Gr. for seasonable help. When God, in his infinite wisdom, shall see it most needful.

CHAP. V.

Verse 1. FOr] At this chapter the apostle makes a farther declaration of Christs Priesthood, comparing it unto, and preferring it before the legal priesthood. Our Apostle having shewed that Christ was a great and mercifull high priest, chap. 2. 17. First, he sheweth what was required in the high priest for his qualification unto his office; and then sheweth how that both these were fulfilled in Christ.

high] He saith (high priest) not every messenger sent from God; for sometimes Angels were his messengers. But herein God manifesteth his wisdom in sending unto us, not only his Son, clothed with our human infirmities; but also men subject to the same sinfull infirmities, that they might the better have compassion upon us.

from] And so was Christ: see chap. 2. 11, 14, 16.

ordained] Chap. 8. 3.

for men] That is, for their good, viz. that they might teach them, pray for and bless them, and in their behalf offer gifts and sacrifices: see chap. 2. 17.

things pertaining to God] See chap. 2. 17.

for sins] To make satisfaction for sins: not that the Levitical sacrifices did of themselves take away sin, but here that is attributed to those sacrifices as types and shadows, which properly and only agrees unto that our sacrifice of Christ, who was the truth and body of those sacrifices.

V. 2. can] Or, can reasonably bear with. Or, can prudently consider, Psalm 41. 1. Who being a man subject to infirmity like unto them, is qualified with meekness, gentleness, and meet moderation to have compassion. See Gal. 6. 1.

with infirmity] Chap. 7. 28. that is, not only afflictions and temptations; as chap. 4. 15. but also sin it self, as appears by the verse following.

V. 3. And] Or, for which also.

for himself] Chap. 7. 27. Wherein appears the excellency of Christs sacrifice above that of Aarons, because he needed not offer for himself, being without sin, chap. 7. 27. see Lev. 14. 3.

V. 4. And no man] 2 Chron. 26. 18.

taketh] That is, ought to take. Verbs active, in the phrase of the Scripture, sometimes import, not the act it self, but duty or office, as Gen. 20. 9. Lev. 4. 2. & 13. Psalm 32. 8. Uzziah, though a king, must not take the priests office upon him, 2 Chron. 26. 16.

as was Aaron] Exod. 28. 1. 1 Chron. 23. 13.

V. 5. Christ] John 8. 54.

he] That is, called him to his honour, who said, Thou, &c.

Thou] Psalm 2. 7. chap. 1. 5.

V. 6 Thou] Psalm 110. 4. see chap. 7. verse 1, &c.

for ever] The priesthood of Christ is unchangeable, chap. 7. 24. and therefore more excellent than that of Aaron; and herein stands our comfort, that when we sin, we have an advocate with the Father Christ Jesus our great high Priest, making intercession for us, 1 John 2. 1.

order] chap. 7. 14.

V. 7. in the days of his flesh] That is, of his humiliation, while he was subject to our common, human, yet blameless infirmities. The word flesh often imports weakness in the Scripture: see chap. 2. 14. Psalm 78. 39. Isa. 31. 3.

strong] He meaneth that most earnest prayer which Christ uttered in the Garden, when he sweat drops of blood, Matth. 26. 36. Mark 14. 33. Luke 22. 39.

unto him] Mark 14. 36.

was heard] Psalm 34. 4. That is, delivered, as Psalm 22. 21.

in that he feared] Or, for his piety. Or, from his pious fear. From that which he so piously and mightily feared, viz. that cup of anguish, those unknown pains which he suffered in his agony, when the whole power of darkness set upon him, from this he was delivered, Luke 22. 43. John 12. 27. Or, in respect of his pious fear, Esa. 11. 2.

V. 8. learned] That is, by experience.

obedience] That is, passive, patiently to submit his will unto his Fathers.

V. 9. prosfect] Or, consecrated. See chap. 2. 10.

obey him] Esa. 55. 3.

V. 10. called] That is, appointed or publikely declared, viz. at or by his resurrection.

V. 11. Of whom] The Apostle from this verse to the 13. of the next chapter makes a digression, wherein he gives them a sharp, though a moderate reproof, for their negligence in labouring for knowledg, that so he might make them the more attentive to that which he should speak afterwards.

to be uttered] Or, to be expounded.

V. 12. time] Considering how long ye have enjoyed the means of knowledge.

ye have need that one teach you again] Or, ye need to be taught again your selves.

principles] It is an allusion unto children, who are first taught their letters before they can be taught to spell or to read perfectly; herein their great negligence is taxed, inasmuch as yet they were to learn their Catechism; the A. B. C. as it were of the doctrine of Christ.

milk] 1 Cor. 3. 2. What the Apostle called the first principles, here he calleth milk, alluding again unto children, who are fed with milk, food easie of digestion, and not with strong meat.

strong] That is, a more full and ample institution in the mysteries of the Gospel, which is called the speaking of the wisdome of God in a mystery, 1 Cor. 2. 7. see Ephes. 3. 4. & 6. 16. Col. 2. 2.

V. 13. is unskilful] Gr. hath no experience.

righteousness] Which teacheth the righteousness both of justification and sanctification, or a righteous word, Psalm 19. 7. Prov. 8. 6, &c.

babe] 1 Cor. 14. 20. Ephes. 4. 14.

V. 14. of full age] Or, perfect. Not absolutely, but in comparison of those whom he compares to babes, v. 13.

of use] Or, of an habit, or perfection. Or, habit attained by hearing, reading, and meditating on the word.

senses] Their faculties of understanding and judgement: for words of sense often import faculties of the understanding part, and that both in general, as Luke 9. 45 compared with Luke 18. 34. Phil. 1. 9. as also in particular, as Gen. 42. 1. & 2. 31. & 11. 7. Psalm 34. 8. 1 Pet. 2. 3.

to discern] 1 Cor. 2. 13, 15. For the good and refusing that which is evil.

CHAP. VI.

Verse 1. THerefore leaving] Not that we are to neglect the first principles of religion, but to labour for a greater measure of knowledge, 2 Pet. 3. 18. It is as if he had said, Seeing it is a shame always to be babes, let us as men grown, seek after stronger meat.

leaving] Not casting them for ever behinde our backs, suffering them to slip quite out of our memories; but not staying only upon these, let us goe forward, as good travellers, in our Christian race.

the principles of the doctrine of Christ] Or, the word of the beginning of Christ. The first principles of Christian religion are here compared unto the foundation of a building, on which the more perfect knowledge of the mysteries of the Gospel were to be built.

let us go on] Let us be carried on, or, let forward: see chap. 2. 3.

unto perfection] Col. 3. 16.

of] These (as is thought) were the six principles of the Apostles Catechism.

dead works] chap. 9. 14. that is, sin; so called, first, because they make a man lyable unto death, Rom. 6. 16, 21, 23. and chap. 7. 5. James 1. 15. secondly, because they proceed from man, by nature spiritually dead, Eph. 2. 1.

V. 2. baptisms] Or, baptizings. The plural number for the singular; as sacrifices, for sacrifice, chap. 8. 22, 23. some give this reason for it, viz. because in those times many baptisms were administred at once, there being ser days appointed for it. Others conceive, that the apostle following the Hebrew phrase, alludes unto the several washings under the law.

laying] Which is usually called confirmation, which stood, first, in examining those who had been baptized, what progress they had made in the doctrine of christianity: secondly, in praying for them, that that God would continue them in the faith, and give them more grace, strengthening them by his holy Spirit. Now when the cheef pastour or pastours of the church prayed for them, they layd their hands upon them; whence the apostolical constitution was called the laying on of hands: so Augustine, lib. de fide & operibus, cap. 11. and so most of the Fathers, with one consent. Or, understand thereby a ceremony used in the ordination of Ministers.

V. 3. If God permit] 1 Cor. 4. 19. James 4. 15.

V. 4. For it is impossible] chap. 10. 26. the apostle observing that the Hebrews were ready to revolt from the christian faith into Judaism, and by little and little to fall into the impardonable sin, which here he describes, labours to keep them from both: First, by manifestting the danger of such a relapse, verse 4——9. Secondly, by assuring them of an happy success, if they did continue in that faith and course of life which they had begun, verse 9——13.

impossible] In respect of Gods wisdom and justice, giving them up unto an impenitent heart.

those] Here is a description of the quality of those persons, unto whom the sin against the holy Ghost is cheefly incident, or most peculiar.

enlightned] With the knowledge of the truth: see chap. 10. 26.

heavenly gift] Some understand hereby some peace and tranquillity of conscience, arising out of an hope that their sins were pardoned: others understand it of faith, which is the gift of God, Ephesians 2. 8. Some understand it of Christ, John 4. 10. and 6. 32.

holy Ghost] That is, of the gifts of the holy Ghost, mentioned chap. 2. 4.

V. 5. tasted] Have found sweetness in the Word of God, as Herod, Mark 6. 20. and those who are compared to stony ground, Mark 4. 16.

powers] The joyes of heaven; as Balaam, Numb. 23. 10, V. 6. If] Or, after.

fall away] That is, by universal apostasie into Judaism or Paganism, maliciously and despightfully concemning, persecuting, or opposing the faith of Christ, of whose truth they are convinced in their consciences by the holy Ghost.

crucifie] So much as in them lyeth; and if Christ were upon the earth again, they would be as malicious enemies unto him, as ever any were.

V. 7. For the earth, &c.] He illustrateth the former comminations by a similitude taken from the earth; as the earth painfully tilled, and plentifully watered with rain from heaven, is good for nothing but to be burnt, if in stead of good fruit it bringeth forth thorns and thistles: so these who have been plentifully watered with many sweet showres of the Word of God, and enriched with divers excellent graces, are good for nothing but to burn in hell fire for evermore. See Esa. 55. 10, 11.

V. 7. by whom] Or, for whom.

V. 9. But beloved] To moderate and sweeten his former harshness, here he shews his good opinion which he had of the Hebrews, and to comfort them, by giving them assurance of Gods mercy in rewarding them, if they continued stedfast in their profession. See chap. 10. 39.

accompany] Or, which have salvation. We are perswaded, that you are in the number of those who shall be saved, or, accompany the things neer unto salvation.

V. 10. unrighteous] That is, unfaithful or inconstant, so as to forget his promises of rewarding: see 2 Thes. 1. 6. 1 John 1. 9. It is but foolish, which popish writers here conclude for the merit of good works. It is just with God so to do, not in regard of mans merits, but of his own promise.

labour] 1 Thes. 1. 3. because they manifested their love with much danger, and through many discouragements.

toward] For his name sake; or out of love and obedience unto God, and not for carnal respects.

V. 11. desire] It is, as if the apostle had said; as you have begun well, so we desire that you would persevere unto the end.

full assurance] That is, that your faith and hope may be without anxiety and doubting.

unto the end] Chap. 3. 6, 14.

V. 12. slothful] That is, negligent and careless to grow in faith, and to bring forth the fruits thereof. See chap. 5. 11, 12. The contrary whereunto was Saint Pauls pressing hard towards the price of the high calling in Christ Jesus, Phil. 3. 13, 14.

patience] Chap. 10. 36. James 5. 7.

V. 13. For when] The Apostle proveth by the example of Abraham the father of the faithful, what he had testified of all their faithful forefathers in the precedent verse; and he maketh choice to instance in Abraham, because the substance of that promise made unto him, was made also to all his children according to promise; that is, to all the faithful, Rom. 9. 8. or because the Jews boasted exceedingly of him, John 8. 33.

he sware] Gen. 22. 16, 17.

V. 14. blessing] See Gen 22. 17.

V. 15. promise] That is, the thing promised, viz. the abundant multiplication of his seed, the possession of the land of Canaan, and his eternal happiness in heaven; which though he obtained not while he was alive, yet is said to have obtained, because in the appointed time they were performed unto him, though dead. See chap. 11. 39.

V. 16. For men] From the use of an oath amongst men, the Apostle infers the reason why God sometimes confirms his promises by an oath, viz. to declare the immutability of the thing promised.

greater] That is, (by God) who knoweth the truth, and will in due time punish lying.

V. 17. wherein] In the which thing, or in the which oath, or for the which cause.

more abundantly] The thing promised by a bare promise, may be reversed in respect of some change in the person, to whom the promise is made, without any change in God; but a thing promised by oath shall be immutable: so that an oath added unto a promise, implies the immutability of the thing promised. See 1 Sam. 15. 29.

shew] To make a lively and more evident demonstration of the immutability of his counsel.

confirmed it by an oath] Gr. interposed himself by an oath.

V. 18. immutable] That is, his promise and oath.

V. 19. which hope] Rom. 8. 25.

anchor] Whereby the soul in time of trouble, layes hold upon Christ the rock of our salvation.

veil] That is, heaven, whereof the holy of holyes was a type or shadow, chap. 9. 24.

V. 20. fore-runner] That is, Christ, so called, because he is ascended into heaven, to prepare mansions for us, John 14. 23.

made] Here the apostle resumeth the matter which he had left off, chap. 5. 11. viz. to shew that Christ was a Priest after the Order of Melchisedec, and therein the excellency both of his person and priesthood.

CHAP. VII.

Verse 1. FOR this Melchisedec] Gen. 14. 18. &c. the apostle having before, chap. 5. 6. and 10. and chap. 6. 20. affirmed, that Christ was a priest after the order of Melchisedec, here gives an historical description of him, that so it might the better appear wherein he was a type of Christ, and by consequence wherein the priesthood of Christ was better than that of Aarons.

king] Herein Melchisedec was a type of Christ, because he was both a king and priest.

Salem] Some are of opinion that this Salem, is that place which is called Sichem, Gen. 33. 18. and that it is that Salem, mentioned John 3. 23. a place neer unto Jordan; but it is most probable, that it was that place which afterwards was called Jerusalem; for Salem and Sion was all one, Psalm 76. 2. now Sion is Jerusalem: see the notes on Gen. 14. 18, &c.

Priest] Some have translated, Gen. 14. 18. prince of the most high God; because (cohen) signifies a prince as well as a priest, 2 Sam. 8. 18. but because we read of none ever called the prince of the most high God. And because Paul here, and the seventy translate there, ἱερεὺς, which always signifie a priest, not a prince; therefore it is not probable, that it is to be read, prince of the most high God.

most high God] Psalm 78. 56. Daniel 3. 26. and 5. 18. That is, in essence and glory above all creatures; so God is often called, in opposition to the false gods of the Heathen.

blessed him] Numbers 6. 23. 1 Chronicles 23. 13. Not only by way of request, but with a solemn and priestly blessing: and herein he was a type of Christ, in whom it was promised, that all the nations of the earth should be blessed, Gen. 22. 18. and who now sitting at the right hand of God, bleseth us with the blessings of this life, and the life to come.

V. 2. gave a tenth] And seeing our Lord remaineth for ever a priest after the order of Melchisedec, why should not tithes belong unto him, and in him those who in his stead exhort us to be reconciled unto his Father? 2 Cor. 1. 20.

peace] Herein a type of Christ, who hath reconciled us unto God, Rom. 5. 1.

V. 3. without] So described, because neither his father, mother, descent, birth, or death are registred; in whose omission he was made a type both of the eternity of Christs person, and of his priesthood: not that our Saviour Christ was with out Father, &c. for these we finde recorded; but because that which was cheefly intended by the description of Melchisedec, doth most absolutely, and perfectly agree unto Christ, and that was the eternity of his person, and of his priesthood.

without descent] Gr. without pedegree.

made] Or, transformed and turned out of his proper shape and likeness, that he might be like unto the Son of God.

V. 4. unto whom] By two circumstances the apostle gathers the preheminence of Melchisedec above Abraham: first, because Abrahaam braham paid tithes unto him, verse 4.5. Secondly, because Melchisedec blessed Abraham, verse 6.7.

Patriarch] That is, cheef of Fathers, Numbers 18.19. Deut.8.1. Joth.14.4.

spoils] Or, of the best things: not that Abraham made choice of the best things, and of them gave the tenth part only; for it is said verse 2. that he gave a tenth of all; but that he made choice of the best things to pay the tenth part of the whole, as it was afterward ordained. Numbers 18.12.

V. 5. they that] Numb.18.21. and 26.

to take tithes] Or, to tithe.

V. 6. descent] Or, pedigree. That is, neither from Abraham nor from Levi.

blessed] See verse 1.

promises] Gal.3.16.

V. 7. the lesse] The original is of the neuter gender, but put by an analogy for the masculine, as Eph.1.10.

blessed] That is, by way of priestly office; but otherwise by way of common charity, the lesse did blesse the greater.

V. 8. here] That is, under the Levitical law.

there] viz. Gen.4.20.

liveth] Because his death is not recorded.

so say] Or, to speak in a word, or breefly.

V. 11. If therefore] In as much as God promised to raise up a priest after another order than that of Aaron, and whose priesthood should excel that of Aaron; hence is inferred the imperfection and abrogation both of the legal priesthood, and of that covenant which was established or ratified upon it.

perfection] That is, if the Levitical priesthood could have justified, sanctified, and so consequently brought unto salvation.

for] This clause is inserted to shew the mutual relation between the Levitical priesthood and the old covenant.

under it the people receive of the Law] Or, upon it the Law was ratified unto the people.

Law] Old covenant.

V. 12. changed] Or, translated.

change] Or, translation.

Law] That is, of the old covenant, which was established or ratified upon it, verse 11.

V. 14. Juda] Rev. 5.5.

V. 16. who is made] That is, consecrated unto his Priesthood.

after the law] That is, not as those legal priests were by outward purification and sanctification, consisting in outward anointings, washings, offerings, and the like; which served only for the sanctifying of the person from legal pollutions: see chap. 9.13.

power] That is, of God, or the anointing of the holy ghost; which was to continue upon him, & to qualifie and enable him to be an everlasting priest, who should always live to make intercession for us, and communicate unto us the merit and power of his sacrifice, which he once offered for us unto everlasting life, Rom. 6.9. Rev.1.8.

V. 17. Thou art] Psalm 110.4.

V. 18. commandment] That is, of the covenant. weaknesse] Gal.4.9. viz. to justifie, sanctifie, and bring unto salvation by reason of the flesh, Rom. 8.3. that is, of us men who are not able to fulfil the law by reason of that corruption, which dwells in our flesh, Acts 15.10. Gal. 3.21. and note that here S. Paul speaketh of the old covenant, as understood by the Jews; viz. of fulfilling the law: for otherwise the covenant was a perfect covenant, for those times, or the nonage of Gods people, though not so perfectly revealed, as in the time of the Gospel.

V. 19. law] That is, old covenant; as verse 11, 12.

perfect] See verse 18.

but the bringing in] Or, but it was the bringing in.

bringing] The Greek word signifieth the superinduction, or the bringing in of one thing after another.

better hope] That is, the new covenant, called a better hope, because it being a covenant of grace and mercy, worketh in us sure hope and confidence.

did] Or, doth make perfect through Christ (upon whose priesthood it is established) that which was impossible unto the law: see verse 18.

draw nigh] Eph 2.18. and 3.12.

V. 20. And in as much] It is as if the apostle had said: It must needs be a great thing, and of singular weight and importance which God Almighty ratifieth with an oath.

V. 21. without an oath] Or, without swearing of an oath.

The Lord sware] Psalm 110.4.

V. 22. better testament] Chap.8.6.

V. 23. And they] The same he proves again from the mortality of the legal priests, and the immortality of Christ; whence he concludes, that he hath an unchangeable Priesthood, Vers. 24.

V. 24. Unchangeable Priesthood] Or, which passeth not from another.

V. 25. to the uttermost] Or, evermore. That is, fully, perfectly, or to the end; so that no part of our salvation must be sought either in our selves, or in any other. The Original word signifieth all manner of perfection.

come] That is, by a true and lively faith.

intercession] Rom.8.34. 1 John 2.1.

V. 26. For such] Here is another peregeative of Christ, and so consequently of his priesthood; they sinners, but he holy.

V. 28. infirmity] Chap.5.2. consecrated] Gr. perfected: chap.1.3.

CHAP. VIII.

Verse 1. Right hand] Chap.1.3.

V. 2. of the sanctuary] Or, of holy things. Not of the corporal, but of that which was shadowed by it: what that is, is expressed in the words following.

Sanctuary] Which some interpret of the Saints, but generally in this Epistle, by the original word ἁγίων, we are to understand the heavens, as we may plainly gather from ch. 9.11.

and] That is, which is: Or, that is of the true tabernacle.

true tabernacle] Chapter 9.11. that is, of his own body or human nature, whereof the corporal tabernacle was a type: hence Saint John saith, That the word tabernacled with us, John 1.14. speaking of his being in our flesh. Or his taking upon him our human nature, chapter 7.27. and chapter 9.14. see John 2.19. Col.2.9.

the Lord pitched] It being conceived of the holy Ghost, and was not erected by the hand of man; or not conceived by the concurrence of the man: see chapter 9.11.

V. 3. For every] Here is a reason given of that which was said in the former verse, taken from the analogy between the shadow and the substance, or type and truth: the legal priests had something to offer; so Christ was to have something, and that was his own body: see v. 7.

gifts and sacrifices] Chap.5.1. and 9.9.

V. 4. For if] In this and the next verse there are reasons given why Christ could not be a Priest upon earth: First, because the earthly priests were ordained by the Law to offer only earthly and carnal sacrifices; but there were no such sacrifices required of the Priest according to the order of Melchisedec, Psalm 40.6. verse 4. Secondly, the legal priesthood and the sacrifices administred by it, were shadows of heavenly things, viz. of the priesthood of Christ and his sacrifice: whence it evidently follows, that his Priesthood was to be an heavenly Priesthood, and his sacrifice to be an heavenly sacrifice, verse 5.

He should not be, &c.] viz. having fulfilled and accomplished all things required of him, as a priest upon earth: and therefore his ministery would have ended, but now he was to fulfil also that which remaineth of his priestly office in heaven, in the Holy of Holies.

there are priests] Or, they are priests.

according to the law] Here is another reason given, why our Lord Christ ought not to be a priest upon earth, viz. such an one, who should according to the law, administer the priesthood upon earth: the substance whereof is this; because God under the law ordained no priest, but those of the tribe of Levi, and no offerings or sacrifices but ceremonial, whereof Christ was not ordained or constituted a minister, but of that which was prefigured by them, as is see down in the words following.

V. 5. who serve] The whole earthly tabernacle, with the Priesthood, Sacrifices and Ceremonies, appertaining to it, were types and shadows of Christ, and of heavenly things to be obtained through him.

shadow] Chap.10.1. Col.2.17. Here our Apostle descendeth to the description of the Levitical Priests, and of their office, which consisted first in the manner of their service. Secondly, in the matter of their service: for the manner, their service was but a shadow of the true sacrifice, and for the matter thereof, it consisted of corporal things.

For see] Exod.25.40. Acts 7.44.

pattern] That is, copy, example, according to which a thing is done, or built.

V. 6. ministery] That is, Priesthood.

by how much] Because the Priesthood must be answerable unto the covenant.

mediatour] Chap. 7.22. and 9.15. and 12.24. 1 Tim.2.5.

a better covenant] Or, testament: chapter 7.22. so called from the manner of the confirmation thereof, viz. by the death of Christ.

better promises] First, because they depend upon faith, Rom.4.13, 16. Gal.3.16, 17. Secondly, because God had promised to pour out a greater measure of his Spirit under the new, than he did under the old Covenant, Esa.44.3. John 2.28. Acts 2.16. Gal. 3.2.

V. 7. faultless] That is, without imperfection. See chap. 7.18.

V. 8. Behold] Jer.31.31, 32, 33, 34. Though the Apostle doth not keep himself to the words of the Prophet; yet he retains his matter: see notes on Jer.31.31,—34.

house of Israel, &c.] Under which terms, we are to understand all the faithful, not only the Jews, but also the Gentile, who was to be ingrafted into the true olive tree: see Rom.11.17, &c.

V. 9. with their fathers] In the wilderness, by the hand of Moses, Exod. 20.1.

took them by the hand] As a tender compassionate father, to guide his weak childe.

regarded not] Or, loathed. In the Prophet it is, should I have continued an husband unto them? but the sense is the same.

V. 10. put my laws] Gr. give.

in their hearts] Or, upon.

V. 13. old] That is, disannulled, or abrogated; not actually, but by way of prediction, viz. when the new Covenant should be established.

CHAP. IX.

Verse 1. Covenant] Not Tabernacle, though divers Greek copies have it so: for it is not probable that the Apostle should say, that the Tabernacle had a Tabernacle.

ordinances] Or, ceremonies.

worldly] That is, earthly and corporal, it being here opposed to the heavenly and spiritual Tabernacle.

V. 2. For] What the Apostle called the worldly or earthly Tabernacle or Sanctuary, here he further describeth, with the principall furniture thereof; dividing it into two parts, making as it were two Tabernacles of one: Whereof the first was a type of Christs human nature, ch.8.2. the second of heaven, ver. 12.

the first] Exod.40.4. He describes not the court of the people, because it did not make to his purpose; neither doth he describe the Temple made by Solomon, but the Tabernacle made by Moses.

the sanctuary] Or, holy.

V.3. second] Called so, to distinguish it from the veil through which they entred into the first Tabernacle: see Exod. 26.31,36.

V. 4. golden censer] It is probable that hereby is meant, either that particular censer, which the high Priest carried into the Holy of Holiest, once in the year, Lev.16.12. Or else the golden Altar of incense, described Exod.30.1, &c. which though it was not within the Holy of Holiest, yet the Holy of Holiest may be said to have it, because it was made for the service thereof; being placed before the veil of the Holy of Holiest; that so the incense burnt thereon, might cloud the Holy of Holiest. Hence it is said to be before the Ark of the Testimony, Exod.40.5. The Original word signifieth any Utensil, wherein, or whereon incense might be burnt; and it may be called golden, because it was over-laid with gold: see Exod.4.5. and Lev.4.11.

wherein] Both the Greek preposition and the Hebrew answerable unto it, signifie not only in or within, but also by, unto, unto, or before: see Josh.5.13. Judg.18.12. Jer.13.5. Luke 9.31. Hence not only the Tables of the Covenant, but likewise the golden Pot which had the Manna, and Aarons Rod that budded, are said here to be in the Ark, notwithstanding the Tables of the Covenant were only within it, 1 Kin.8.9. 2 Chron.5.10. because we have no answerable preposition in the English, to sign fie the latitude and extent of the Original. Some refer (wherein) to Tabernacle, vers. 3. and it is true, that sometimes the relative hath relation unto the more remote antecedent: see John 8.44.

Aarons rod] Numb.17.10.

the tables of the covenant] Deut.10.5. 1 Kings 8.9. 2 Chron.5.10.

V. 5. over it the] Exod.25.22.

Cherubins] These were figures or representations of Angels, inclining their faces one towards the other, and touching one another with their wings, Exod.25.18. The use of these was, to cover, or over-shadow the Mercy-seat with their wings, Exod.2.20. And from this seat God used to speak unto Moses, Exod.25.22. Numb. 7.89. which may be applyed unto Christ, whose mediation was signified by the Mercy-seat: whence it is said, that he is a propitiation or covering Mercy-seat, Rom.3.25. 1 John 2.2. and 4.10 because by his obedience all our unrighteousnes is covered.

V. 7. once every year] Exod.30.10. Lev.16.2. The tenth day of every moneth, or day of reconciliation; as Lev.16.18,&c. whereby was signified the perfection of Christs sacrifice once for all, ver.28.

errours] That is, all sorts of sins, because all sorts of sins arise from some errour in judgement, chap. 5.3. and 7.29. Luke 16.16.

V. 8. away] That is, the sacrifice was not yet offered, by virtue whereof the faithful had free accesse unto God into heaven: not that the faithful were not in heaven before Christs ascension; but to shew by whom, or by virtue of whose blood they entred, chap. 10. 19,20.

V. 9. Which] Or, which parable was for. That is, which similitude or type of the high Priest, of the Tabernacle, and of the furniture and service thereof.

for the] That is, of the nonage or minority of the Church.

in which] Or, according to which. That is, according to which time of the nonage or minority of the Church, God fitted his publike worship. For the people of the Jews being a grosse people, and much addicted to idolatry, it seemed good unto the wisdom of God, to exercise them with a more grosse and bodily worship, that so he might keep them from it, see Gal.4.1,2,3.

gifts and sacrifices] Chap.5.1. and 8.3. by gifts and sacrifices, we are to understand the whole service of the Tabernacle, whereof the Apostle makes mention of some particulars in the verses following: thus incense is called an offering, Numb. 16. verse 15. compared with verse 17. and the Ephah of fine flowre, used at the consecration of Aaron and his sons, a meat-offering, Lev.6.20.

that could not] That is, they could not in themselves be separated from their spiritual significations, either satisfie the conscience that sin was pardoned, and reconciliation obtained with God, because the conscience could not have found satisfaction how Gods justice should be satisfied by those offerings, chap. 10.4. or sanctifie or purifie the conscience, they being corporal, and so could not reach unto it.

him] Or, the worshipper; chap.10.2. perfect] Chap.7.19. and 10.1.

V. 10. imposed] Or, being imposed, or which were imposed, only understand it of the gifts and sacrifices mentioned in the former verse.

and carnal ordinances] Or, vites, or ceremonies, or justifications of the flesh. Or, and in such like carnal Ordinances. The Apostle summing up that in general, whereof he had made mention in some particulars before. Called carnal ordinances, or justifications of the flesh, because they had sanctifie only to the purifying of the flesh, verse 13. that is, freeing those who used them from legal pollutions and irregularities: see 2 Chron.30.19. John 11.55.

time of, &c.] That is, of Christs coming, who should and did reform the carnal rites, or ceremonies and services of the Law, by fulfilling them; exhibiting the truth and those spiritual blessings typified and signified by them; and by instituting a more simple and spiritual worship. This is that which is meant, when God promises to create new heavens, and a new earth, Esay 65.17. and when S. Paul saith, All things are made new, 2 Cor 5.17.

V. 11. But, &c.] Here followeth the explication and application of the former type: and the comparison is cheefly made between the remedy appointed for sins, meerly ceremonial, that is, Legal pollutions and irregularities, which was the bloud of Bulls and Goats, &c. and the remedy of those sins, which in their own nature poison the soul; and this is only the bloud of Jesus Christ.

unclean] The Greek signifieth common, but in the Scriptures, especially of the New Testament, it signifieth unclean. See Mat. 15.11. Mar.7.15. Acts 10.14. It is meant here of such who were made unclean: that is, disenabled to enter into the Temple, through legal pollutions; as by touching the dead, &c.

V. 14. blood, &c.] 1 Pet.1.19. Applyed by faith. See Acts 15.9. and 26.18.

transfressions that were under the first testament] Rom. 3. 5. V. 17. after men are dead] Or, after the dead; or, till they are dead.

testatour liveth] In whose power it was to alter it.

V. 18. dedicated] Or, purified; that is, ratified, or confirmed.

V. 19. precepts] The conditions of that first covenant: see ch. 7. 12. Eph. 2. 15.

calves] So the Apostle calls the younger bullocks, by reason of the neerness of their age unto calves.

goats] There is expresly mention made only of bullocks, Exod. 24. 5. but by the sacrifice of bullocks, as of the principal, we are to understand the sacrifices of all other beasts.

with water, &c.] There is no expresly mention made of these particulars, Exod. 24. 8. Whence some conceive, that Saint Paul had them either by tradition, or revelation; but it is more probable, that he gathered it from the usual custome of sprinkling bloud under the law, which was with water, scarlet-wool, and hyssope: see Lev. 14. 6. Num. 19. 6. and 18. Psalm 51. 7.

scarlet] Or, purple.

book] We read not that the book was sprinkled: it seems therefore that the book was upon the Altar, and so sprinkled with it: this book was not the two Tables of stone, for these God made, but some other short summe of the first covenant which Moses himself did write: see Exod. 24. 4. Some are of opinion, that thereby are meant the 20, 21, and 23. chapters of Exodus.

people] That is, the twelve pillars which represented the twelve Tribes: see Exod. 24. 4.

V. 20. This is the bloud] Exod. 24. 8.

enjoyned unto you] Or, hath ordained concerning you, Heb. 1. 7.

V. 21. Moreover] Though not at the same time, for then the tabernacle was not made: see Exod. ch. 25, &c.

tabernacle] We read that God commanded the Altar, and all the vessels to be anointed with oyl by Moses, Exod. 24. 8, &c. and accordingly they were anointed by him, Lev. 8. 10. but we no where read expresly, as some are of opinion, that he either was commanded, or did sprinkle the tabernacle and the furniture thereof with bloud: It is supposed therefore by some, that Saint Paul gathered thus much from Exod. 29. 12. Lev. 8. 15. and 16. 14. where there is mention made of sprinkling with bloud the Altar and Mercy-seat, &c. where, by the principal part, we may understand the whole tabernacle and all the furniture thereof. Or it may be thus much is plainly expressed, Lev. 16. 16. Josephus reports, lib. 3. Antiqu. Hebr. c. 9. that the whole tabernacle was sprinkled.

V. 22. almost] Some refer (Almost) to all things, because we read that some things were cleansed by fire and water, Numb. 31. 22. Others refer it unto purged; that is, from their legal impurities, and make the sense this; All things are by the law almost purged, though not altogether by bloud; because sometimes other things were required: these are of opinion, that in all cleansings there was the use of bloud. And so the words following (And without, &c.) they conceive are to be understood, otherwise there will seem to be a contradiction between (Almost) in the first clause, and (without) in the second. Or may be the former part of this verse may be understood of things whereof some might be cleansed without bloud, and the second part of persons which could not.

V. 23. patterns] Called figures, verse 24. and shadows, ch. 10. 1. see ch. 8. 2.

heavenly things] Some understand thereby Christ himself, and those spiritual blessings which the faithful obtain through faith in him. For Christ himself was consecrated, or made perfect through sufferings, chapter 2, 10. Others understand thereby the Church under the Gospel, and those spiritual graces whereof the members are made partakers therein. The Church under the Gospel being called the heavenly Jerusalem, chap. 12. 22. and those graces being called spiritual blessings in heavenly places, Ephes. 1. 3. others understand thereby heaven it self, whereinto Christ entred, verse 24.

sacrifices] The singular number for the plural, which is frequent in the Scriptures. Or may be the Apostle styles the one sacrifice of Christ [Sacrifices] because it was answerable unto all the legal sacrifices, and far beyond them.

CHAP. X.

Verse 1. Law] That is, the old Covenant. So the word Law is taken, ch. 7. 12. and 19.

shadow] Some are of opinion, that here Saint Paul alludes to the custome of Painters, who first make a rude draught, and then out of it a perfect and lively picture. These make the sense this, viz. That the old Covenant did contain only dark resemblances and types of heavenly things, no lively representations of them; this being reserved unto the time of the Gospel, wherein Christ and all spiritual blessings in him are clearly and plainly manifested. Others are of opinion, that Saint Paul alludes unto the shadow of a body, and these make this the sense of the words, viz. That the old Covenant had only types, wherein Christ and heavenly things through him, were darkly represented, not the substance and truth of the things themselves. This is the more probable opinion: see Col. 2. 17.

V. 2. For] Or, otherwise they would have, &c. Whether this clause be read with or without an interrogation, the sense will be the same: the scope of the Apostle being to shew the weakness and insufficiency of the legal sacrifices to purge the conscience from the guilt of sin, from their often repetition.

body] Heb. mine ear hast thou opened; or, digged open. It is a proverbial manner of speech, whereby there is implyed the qualifying, or fitting a man unto obedience in service: the ear, or opening of the ear, being an emblem, or symbole, or a metaphorical signe of obedience: see Isa. 50. 5. Job 33. 16. Now Saint Paul following the translation of the Septuagint, and being directed by the Spirit of God, expounds this of Gods sanctifying and fitting a body unto Christ, wherein he was obedient even unto the shameful death of the Crosse.

I will put] Which we are not to understand, as if God had not put his Laws in the hearts of his children, and written them in their minds, under the law; but of a more plentiful measure of his grace under the Gospel: In which respect, Joel 2. 28. it is promised, that God will pour out of his Spirit upon all flesh under the Gospel: see Isay 44. 8. consecrated] Or, new made. It is not improbable, that herein Saint Paul doth allude unto the custome of those, who in a snow or like case beat or tread out the way for those that are to follow after. It is by virtue of Christs resurrection and ascension, that all true beleevers shall enter into heaven. Hence he is called the first-fruits of those who sleep, 1 Cor. 15. 20.

veil] The veil was a type of Christs human nature, wherewith his Divine nature was hid and obscured, and through which he entred into heaven; even as the veil of the Temple did hide the Holy of Holiest, and as the high Priest through it did enter therein.

flesh] Human nature, Psalm 16. 9. and 27. 2. John 1. 14. called flesh, because of the infirmities and weaknesses thereof, Psalm 78. 39. and whereby his Divine nature was vailed and covered over; even as the ark of the covenant, the Mercy-seat, and the most holy place were by the veil.

full assurance] That is, with a stedfast faith, without wavering and doubting, verse 23. James 1. 6. Some are of opinion, that here and in other places there is an allusion unto ships under full sail: and then the translation may be this, viz. With the full sail of faith. Faith is that grace, whereby we either do or may approach unto God, with full assurance of acceptance. Thus the righteousnes of faith, Rom. 4. 13. is called the righteousnes through faith, or by faith, Rom. 9. 30, & 10. 6. Phil. 3. 9. see chapter 6. 11. Col. 2. 2. 1 Thes. 1. 5. Luke 1. 1. Rom. 14. 5.

V. 24. consider] That is, let us take care of our watch over one another, prudently observing one anothers dispositions, gifts, graces, and defaults, that we may the better fit our selves to do good, each one of us to another, and to receive good each one of another.

V. 25. Not forsaking] Here is propounded one means or help, whereby they might incite one another to good works, Rom. 1. 12.

assembling] That is, the publike congregation of the faithful, wherein the Word of God is taught, the Sacraments administred, and common prayer and thanksgiving made, unto which God hath promised a blessing, Matth. 18. 20. see Psalm 27. 4. and 122. 1.

exhort] Chap. 3. 13. Luke 1. 9. 17. Eph. 5. 11. Whereby understand not only exhortation properly so called, but also admonition, consolation, reproof, example, and the like. It may be a metaphor taken from a sharping tool, Deut. 6. 7. Prov. 27. 17.

and so much] Rom. 13. 11.

for] That is, by plain and evident foretold tokens, and signs of the times: see Mat. 24. 33.

day] Some understand it of the second or last coming of our Saviour Christ, or of his coming to judgement; whereof see 2 Pet. 3. 9, &c. but it is not improbable that here we are to understand it of the time of the utter destruction of Jerusalem, and the Temple; at which time there should be so great affliction that by reason thereof, many should fall from the faith: see Mark 13. 19.

V. 26. For if we sin willfully] See chap. 6. 4.

willfully] The Apostle doth speak here of all kind of wilful sin, or falling away: but only of that which our Lord Christ calleth blasphemy against the holy Ghost, Mat. 12. 3. and which Saint John calls a sin unto death, 1 John 5. 16.

remains] In as much as such willfully reject and scorn the only sacrifice of the New Testament; viz. the Lord Jesus, and all his merits: see Numb. 15. 30, 31.

no more sacrifice for sin] For as much as those who willfully reject and scorn the only sacrifice of the New Testament, viz. the Jesus and Lord Jesus and all his merits: Some conceive that Saint Paul alludeth to Numb. 15. 30, 31. where in like manner, according to the death to Numb. 15. 30, 31. where in like manner, according to the tenor of the law, there was no atonement left, for those who should sin presumptuously: because thereby he reproached the Lord.

V. 27. looking] Whereas the godly with comfort and joy expect the appearance of Christ: see chap. 9. 28.

devour] Chap. 5. 8.

adversaries] Luke 19. 27. those who against the conviction of their consciences, willfully resist and persecute the Gospel. See chap. 6. 4.

V. 28. despised Moses] Numb. 15. 30, 31.

under two or three witnesses] Deut. 19. 15. Mat. 18. 16. John 8. 17. 2 Cor. 13. 1. 1 Tim. 5. 19.

V. 29. Of how much] Chap. 2. 3. and 12. 25.

trodden] In treading his truth under their feet, by a malicious resisting and persecuting thereof, they do as it were tread Christ himself under their feet; or thereby they shew such a spiteful mind against him, that they would (if it were possible) pull him out of heaven, and trample him under their feet. For that which we reject and forsake, that we hold as impure, and unholy in Gods worship, and forsake, that we hold as impure, and unholy in Gods worship, bloud] Mat. 26. 28. Luke 22. 20. chap. 7. 20. That is, the bloud of Christ, whereby the new covenant was ratified and confirmed: see chap. 9.10, &c.

sanctified] By which their sins were pardoned, in regard of that meritorious sufficient satisfaction purchased by it: see verse 10. and 14.

unholy] Gr. common, Mark 7.2. Acts 10.15. They make no more account of the bloud of Christ, than of the bloud of some malefactour, or of a brute beast.

despite] That is, by a wilfull and malicious resisting the work of the holy Ghost, testifying and convincing them of, and sealing unto them the truth of the Gospel: see Acts 6.10. and 7.51. and 54.

Spirit of Grace] That is, Author of grace, Rom.15.16.1 Cor. 12.8. Gal.5.22. Eph. 5.9. Or, gracious Spirit, that is, which God of his free grace and mercy bestows on his people.

V. 30. know] And therefore our condemnation shall be the greater, if knowing how just God is in revenging all impiety, we wilfully sin against him, Luke 12.47. John 15.22.

Vengeance belongeth unto me] Deut. 32.35. Rom. 12.19. Psalm 94.1.

The Lord] Deut.32.36. Psalm 50.4.

V. 31. hands] 2 Sam.24.14.

living God] Chap.3.12. and 9.14. Job 37.22.

V. 32. But] In as much as these converted Hebrews had stood it out stedfastly against manifold afflictions, even at their first entertaining of the Gospel; hence the Apostle inferreth, that therefore it did the much more become now to stand to that faith, which they had so long professed: see Gal. 3.4. illuminated] Converted to the faith of Christ, Acts 26.18. Ephes.3.9.

fight] Or, wrestlings of afflictions, whereby Satan fought to overthrow your faith: the Apostle alludes to the custome of wrestlers, who seek to trip up one another; this wrestling was by faith, chap. 12.36. 1 Tim.6.12. 2 Tim.4.7.

V. 33. gazing stock] Or, placed, or shewed upon theaters or stages. Understand it either metaphorically, as it were so handled; or properly, for it was the custome of the heathen to set christians upon theaters or stages, to be scorned and laught at: see 1 Cor. 4.9.

companions] Having a fellow-feeling of their miseries, and so assisting them to their ability, chap.13.33. as also adjoyning themselves unto them, being not discouraged by their afflictions, 2 Tim. 1.16. Phil.1.7.

V. 34. joyfully] Acts 5.41. and 21.13. James 1.2.

enduring] Chap.11.31. Mat.6.20. Joh.6.27.

V. 35. confidence] Verse 23. and ch. 3.6, 14.

confidence] Or, cheerfulness. Your cheerful profession springing forth out of the cheerful confidence of your faith and hope.

recompence] Chap.11.26. and 12.2. 1 Cor.15.58.

V. 36. need] Considering those great afflictions, which yet ye might endure.

promise] The thing promised, that is, heaven and the joyes thereof.

V. 37. yet a little while] Habbac.2.3, 4. Luke 18.8. 2 Pet,3.8, &c.

a little while] Which words may seem to be taken from the Prophet Habbakkuk, which our Apostle doth not cite here word by word, but relates only the sense of them, and so applyes them to his present purpose.

shall come] The Messiah, or Christ, Mat. 11.9. Rev.1.4.

V. 38. Now] Here the Apostle from the Prophet Habbakkuk,directeth them to that grace, whereby they might be enabled to stand stedfast in the faith, in the sad and discouraging times of affliction. See Eph.6.16.

the just] Rom.1.17. Gal.3.11.

but] Here is a transposition and change of the words, yet without any alteration of the sense. It is by pride that they trust not in God, but in themselves, and so by unbeleef withdraw themselves from God, and such who do so have not upright hearts, and in these God hath no pleasure.

draw back] From their faith and patient expectation, by falling away and denying Christ and his truth.

V. 39. But] See chap. 6.9. Hereby he mitigates his precedent threatning, viz. that he hath not such apprehension of them: see chap. 6.9.

we] See chap.2.3.

saving] John 3.16. 1 Pet.5.9.

CHAP. XI.

Verse 1. Substance] Or, ground, or confidence, or expectation. See chap.3.14. this verse some have translated thus; Now faith is the expectation of that which is hoped for, and the hope of things which are not seen.

hoped for] Because faith assents not only to the promises of God as true, but likewise as good, and that above all, which the world can yeeld unto us.

evidence] Or, conviction, John 16.8. That is, whereby the soul of a beleever is assured of the certain truth of those things which appear not unto sense, because it resteth it self upon the immutable truth of Gods Word, and the infinitenesse of his power.

not seen] That is, of such things which are not, neither can be comprehended by sight or natural reason.

seen] Verse 7. 2 Cor.5.7.

V. 2. by it] That is, by the efficacy and power of their faith, enabling them to suffer and to obey, and to work miracles and great exploits.

good report] verse 39.

V. 3. understand] That is, according to all the particular circumstances of the creation, though something thereof may be known by the light of reason, 2 Pet.3.5. Rom.1.20.

the worlds] Gen.1.1. See chap.1.2.

the world] Psalm 33.6. and 9. 2 Pet.3.5.

appear] But out of nothing.

V. 4. Abel] Gen.4.1. Cain had the more worthy name. Cain, i.e. acquisition. Abel, vanity or weeping. 2. He had the worthiest trade: he was an husbandman, and bread is the staff of life. Abel, a shepherd. 3. He was the first-born: yet Abel is preferred before him, because he was found faithful.

more excellent] Gr. fuller sacrifices, not in respect of the substance of the sacrifice, but of his affection.

testifying] That his of the acceptance of his gifts, either by fire from heaven, Lev.9.24. 1 Reg.18.38. 1 Chron.21.26. or by some like token: see Gen.4.4.

yet speaketh] Or, is yet spoken of. Some understand it of his bloud crying for vengeance, chap.12.24. Gen. 4.10. Others more probably of his example, whereby he yet preacheth unto the world for imitation.

V. 5. Enoch] Gen.5.24. Wisd.4.10. Ecclus.44.16. and 49.14.

translated] Or, taken away: the manner how, is not determinable by man. Thus Elijah was afterward translated, 2 Kings 2.11. See likewise 1 Cor. 15.51. and 1 Thes.4.17.

testimony] Either in that it is said, that he walked with God, whence it may be inferred, that he pleased God; or else because God did by some more than ordinary means testifie so much of him, as he did of Abels sacrifice, verse 4.

V. 6. without faith] Because Faith is that grace which unites us unto Christ, 2 Cor.13.5. Eph.3.17. in whom God is well pleased with us, Eph.1.6.2 Pet.1.17. Mat. 3.17.

cometh] That is, for refuge in this life, and salvation in the life to come.

rewarder] Not out of merit, but mercy, Rom.4.4.

V. 7. Noah] Gen. 6.13.

moved with fear] Or, being wary, or piously fearing: ch. 5.7. by the which] That is, by building of which ark through faith and obedience unto God, he witnessed against the disobedient and ungodly (1 Pet.3.20. 2 Pet. 2.5.) of the old world, to the greatest condemnation of their infidelity.

V. 8. Abraham] Gen. 12.4.

he] That is, in his posterity.

obey] Forsaking his country, his kindred and fathers house, Gen. 12.1. which might seem to be against reason, in that he left a certainty for an uncertainty.

not knowing] For God did not at first tell him of the place whither he should go, for the greater tryal of his faith, Gen.12.1. but when he was come into Canaan, then he told him that that was the place, Gen. 12.7.

V. 9. sojourned] Gen. 17.7. and 23.4.

strange] For there he was constrained either to buy, or hire, or borrow both a place for his dwelling, Gen.14.13. as also for the burial of his dead, Gen.23.4, &c. tabernacles] Gen.12.7.

V. 10. foundations] That is, a firm and enduring city, which the Apostle opposeth to the tents wherein Abraham dwelt, which had no foundations, but were moveable; hereby is meant heaven, wherein is immutable happinesse, Psalm 16.11. 2 Cor.5.1. 1 Pet.1.4.

V. 11. Through faith] Though weak, for she laught at the promise of a son improbable, Gen.18.12.

Sara] Gen. 17.19. and 21.2.

her self] Though barren, Gen.11.30.

to conceive] Or, for a foundation of seed, that is, for a foundation to retain seed. It is an allusion unto a building, where the foundation is first laid.

when she was] Gr. beyond the fit time of age, she being ninety years old before she conceived, Gen. 17.17.

faithful] Chap.10.23.

dead] Rom.4.19.

starres] Gen.15.5. and 22.17.

V. 13. All] Understand it of Abraham, Sara, Isaac, and Jacob, unto whom the three following verses properly and directly agree.

in faith] Gr. according to faith: that is, persevering in faith.

promises] That is, the Land of Canaan which was promised, and which was a type of heaven.

saw] As Abraham did the day of Christ, John 8.56.

afar] For Abrahams posterity had not the possession of the Land of Canaan till above four hundred years after, Gen.15.13.

embraced] Laid hold on them. It may be an allusion to the custom of saluting one another by embracings, or laying hold of each other. Some are of opinion that the Apostle alludes to the custom of Mariners, who when they see land, joyfully salute it, though afar off.

confessed] Gen.23.4. & 47.9. 1 Chr.29.15. Psa.39.12. & 119.19.

V. 16. But now] That is, seeing that they did not return when they might, hereby they manifestly declared, that they desired a better.

heavenly] 2 Cor.5.1.

ashamed] That is accounted it an honour to be called their God, because by their faith they gave glory unto God, thereby acknowledging his power and faithfulness: or, in an especial manner to be called their God, though he were the God of the whole world, Gen. 24.3.

called] Gen.26.24. Exod.3.6,15. & 4.5. prepared] Matt.25.34. 1 Cor.2.9.

V. 17. Abraham] Gen.22.9.

tryed] Psal.11.5.

offered] Jam.2.21. That is, in disposition and full purpose and willingness of mind, which God accepteth for the deed, 2 Cor.8.12.

and he that had received the promises] Or, even he who had received the promises, offered his onely begotten, of whom, &c.

begotten [on] Of Sara his lawful wife; or his onely begotten then in his house, for Hagar and her son were cast out, Gen.21.14.

V. 18. Of whom] Or, to. So the Greek preposition is used, chap.1.7. & 4.13.

That in Isaac] Gen.21.12. Rom.9.7.

V. 19. Accounting] Or, Reasoning.

in a figure] Gr. parable; or after a sort. Which is to be understood either of Isaac's idling from the dead body of Abraham and Sara's dead womb, Rom.4.19. or of his nearness unto death; when his Father was about to sacrifice him, Gen.22.10.

V. 20. Isaac blessed] Gen.27.27,39.

V. 21. blessed] Gen.48.15.

both] Gr. Every one of the sons of Joseph, which were but two when Jacob came into Egypt, Gen.47.5.

worshipped] Gen.47.31.

staff] See Gen.47.31.

V. 22. Joseph] Gen.50.24,25.

made mention] Or, remembred. Or, put his brethren into remembrance.

commandment] So did Jacob his Father, Gen. 47.30. both thereby evidently manifesting their faith touching that promise. Gen.15.13. as also giving a pledge and token thereof.

V. 23. By faith] Grounded (as it is very probable) on some particular revelation; or on his general providence.

Moses] Exod.2.2. Act.7.20.

proper child] Or, goodly, or very fair child, or comely.

not afraid] That is, not so much as others.

commandment] Exod.1.16.

V. 24. Moses] Exod.2.11.

daughter] And so consequently (as is probable) to be the next King of Egypt.

V. 25. pleasures of sin] Or, sinful pleasures.

season] Luke 12.19, &c.

V. 26. of Christ] Or, for Christ, Chap.13.13. 1 Cor.1.5. Gal.6.17. It is manifest hence, that Christ was before he was born of the Virgin: see likewise, 1 Cor.10.9. Joh.8.58.

respect] verse 6. Ezek.10.34,35. Chap.12.2.

V. 27. endured] That is, patiently and couragiously persevered through faith, Act.2.42. Eph.6.18. Some conceive, that herein the Apostle alludeth to Hounds, who will never give over till they have got the game.

seeing] Psal.16.8.

invisible] Col.1.15. 1 Tim.1.17.

he kept] Exo.12.21, &c. Or, celebrated, Matt.26.18. Luk.22.19.

touch] That is, hurt: see Gen.26.11. Josh.9.19. Ruth 2.9. Job 5.19. Psal.105.15.

V. 29. they passed] Exod.14.22.

V. 30. the walls] Josh.6.20.

V. 31. the harlot] Josh.6.23. Jam.2.25.

that believed not] Or, that were disobedient.

she had received] Josh.2.1.

V. 32. time] An hyperbolical speech, like that, John 21.25.

Gideon] Judg.6.11.

Barak] Judg.4.6.

Samson] Judg.13.24.

Jephthae] Judg. 11.1. Though a bastard, yet is here numbered amongst the faithful; whence it is evident, that bastards were not excluded heaven by that. Deut.23.2.

David] 1 Sam.16.13.

Samuel] 1 Sam.1.20.

V. 33. subdued] Judg. 4.6. & 15. & 16.2 Sam.8.1. Judg.11. 2 Sam.2.6.

righteousness] That is, that which was right in the sight of God.

promises] That is, the benefit and accomplishment of those particular promises, which were made unto them.

stopped the mouths of the Lions] Judg.14.5. 1 Sam.17.34. Dan.6.22.

V. 34. Quenched] Dan.3.25.

weakness] 2 King.20.7.

V. 35. Women] 1 Kin.17.22. 2 Kin.4.35.

tortured] 2 Mac.7.7. By grievous threatnings and tortures.

that they] See verf. 26.

better resurrection] chap.10.34.

V. 36. trial of cruel mockings] chap.10.32. 1 Pet.1.7. Or, suffered mockings.

V. 38. worthy] Notwithstanding they were hated and persecuted of all, Matth. 24.9. and accounted the filth and off-scouring of the world, 2 Cor. 4.13.

V. 39. good report] verf. 2.

promise] That is, Christ, and the happy and glorious estate of the Church under him.

V. 40. having] According to the counsel of his will, whereby he doth dispose of times and seasons, Act.1.7.

provided] Or, foreseen; or, ordained.

better] That is, a better condition and far greater privileges for us under the Gospel, in that he hath now sent his Son in the flesh, and made him the Mediator of a better Covenant, chap. 7.22. & 8.6. under which the doctrine of salvation is more manifestly revealed, Col. 1.26. 2 Tim.1.9,10. and the gifts of the Spirit more plentifully poured out, Act. 2.16.

they] Who were under the law or first covenant.

should not be] &c. That is, made partakers of that better condition without us or before us. Some understand it of that perfection whereof all the faithful shall be made partakers, as well in body as in soul, at the resurrection of the just. Others do understand it of their happinesse in heaven; but this would contradict that, which is said concerning Enoch, viz. and that which is said of their hope, verf. 16. and Christs own promise, Matth. 5.12. and divers other places of Scripture: nay, it would contradict the time, when S. Paul was writing this Epistle, Christ being ascended into heaven long before that time, and therefore the beleeving fore-fathers are in heaven. And therefore it is more probable, that it is to be understood of Christ coming into the flesh, and touching the accomplishment of the state of the Church under the Gospel or New Testament.

CHAP. XII.

Verf. 1. Wherefore] By which particle, the Apostle sheweth the reason why he had recited the example of the Saints in the Chapter going before, viz. that we should follow them, in running the race set before us: for if they so willingly kept the faith, we should do much more so, God having provided better things for us.

seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses] Gr. having such a cloud of witnesses compassing us about. cloud] i.e. Multitude. See Jer.1.4,13. Ezek.38.9. Some are of opinion, that here the Apostle alludes to that cloud whereby the children of Israel were guided, Exod.13.21. viz. That as that cloud guided the Israelites from Egypt to the Land of Canaan: So this company of the faithful may direct all the right way from the kingdom of darkness to the spiritual Canaan, the Kingdom of heaven.

let us lay aside] Gr. laying aside, or putting off; as Ephes. 4.22. It is an allusion unto the custom of those who being to run a race, put off and cast away all things burthensome and troublesome. The same word is used, Jam.1.21.

weight] That is, all worldly contents, so far as they are a burthen unto us and to hinder us in our journey to heaven, Matth. 5.29. Secondly, all manner of sin, and especially pride and conceit of self-sufficiency, Rom. 10.3.

easily] Entangleth or wraps about: It is a borrowed speech taken from a net or a long garment. Some understand it of original sin, others, of sin in general.

and let us] Gr. let us.

with patience] Gr. by patience. Our race is long, and full of rubs and difficulties, and therefore there is great need of patience, left we faint and give over our course.

race that is set before us] 1 Cor. 9.24. Gal. 5.7. 2 Tim. 4.7.

V. 2. Looking] The original word signifieth an averting or drawing off the eye from one object to another. In our christian race we must take off our minds from every thing which might divert and discourage us, and we must fix them upon Christ for our imitation.

Jesus] Before and above all others: For otherwise it is not amiss to look upon other mens example for our imitation; which Saint Paul intends by bringing in that cloud of witnesses, chap. 11. but above all others, we must cast our eys upon Christ, who is the Prime leader of our faith, and the onely accomplisher of it.

author] Or, beginner, or, Captain; as Acts 5.13, 15. Heb. 2.10.

joy] Viz. Which by his suffering, he was nor onely to attain unto himself, but likewise to make others partakers thereof, Luke. 24.26. 1 Pet. 1.11.

the shame] Put upon him by sinners, both in his life and in his death, as is declared in the verse following.

is set down] viz. after that he had overcome all difficulties by constancy & patience, for an example unto us, of the like happy issue.

right hand] Chap.1.3. and 8.1. Phil.2.9, &c.

V. 3. consider] Seriously and diligently.

contradiction] Thereby understand all that Christ suffered from man in the days of his flesh or humiliation.

of sinners] Whom he could have confounded with the least blast of his mouth.

lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds] Or, lest fainting in your minds, ye be wearied.

wearied] Rev. 2.3. Or, remiss and slack in the Christian race.

faint] Verse 5. Gal. 6.9.

V. 4. Ye have not] Though ye have suffered much, ch.10.32, &c. yet ye have not resisted unto death, as your Captain did: Or, may be herein the Apostle alludes to those heathenish conflicts and combats which seldom were determined without bloud, or wherein it was a shame to yeeld before bloud was drawn.

striving] With all our might and main, as combaters and wrestlers were wont to do.

sin] Or, sinners: as Psalm 49.5. and 119.133.

V. 5. And ye have, &c.] Or, you may read it by way of interrogation; And have ye forgotten, &c.

the exhortation] Or, that consolatory exhortation.

which] Wherein God discourses or reasons with you, as with children.

My son] Job 5.17. Prov.3.11. See the Notes on Prov. 11.12.

V. 6. whom the Lord] Rev.3.19.

V. 7. If ye endure] That is, patiently, then thereby ye may know that God corrects you in mercy, for your good, as a father doth his sons: Or, if you be chastened, which may seem to be the scope of the place, by that which follows, verse 8.

V. 8. all] That are sons, verse 7.

V. 9. Furthermore] Or, what? seeing we have had the fathers of our bodies chastisers, and have reverenced them, how much rather ought we to be, &c.

flesh] That is, bodies, Rom.2.28.1 Cor.5.5. Eph.6.5.1 Pet.4.6.

spirits] Souls, Numb.16.22. and 27.16. Eccles. 12.9. Esa. 57.16. Zech.12.1. 2 Cor.7.1. 1 Pet.4.6. God is more especially styled the Father of our spirits, because our souls are immediately created by him.

live] The life of grace here, verse 10. and the life of glory hereafter, Acts 14.21. affliction fitting and preparing for both.

V. 10. few days] For a short time, that is, in the days or time of our childhood.

pleasure] Or, as it seemed good to them; or, judgement, which often is corrupt, whereby many times they doe more hurt than good.

be partakers] Or, partake.

holiness] See verse 9.

V. 11. chastening] Gr. παιδεία; which word doth properly signifie, that which is used for the correction and amendment of children.

seemeth] Or, is. See chap.4.1. joyous] Gr. of joy, 1 Pet.1.6.

yeeldeth] By training, disciplining, and fitting a man to an holy life; which bringeth peace of conscience, passing all understanding, Psalm 119.67,71.

V. 12. lift] Esa. 35.3. Job 4.3. Take heart and courage, faint not, or give not over, because of the sharpness of your afflictions: Or, may be here, as verse 4. the Apostle alludes to those combats of the heathen, wherein it was a token of yeelding, when a man hung down his hands: Or, to those who run in a race, following the former similitude, verse 1. Or, may be to both; lift up your hands to fight, and your feet to run.

V. 13. straight] Or, even. That is, walk seemly, or keep a right course, Prov.4.26,27.

V. 14. Follow peace] Rom. 12.18. Psalm 34.14.

holiness] 2 Cor.7.1.

see the Lord] Mat.5.8.

V. 15. lest] Chap.6.4. and 10.26.

fail] Or, fall from; or, come short: see chap.4.1. Rom. 3.23.

grace] That is, free favour and mercy of God, offered in the Gospel, 2 Cor.6.1. Tit.2.11. or the doctrine of grace in the Gospel.

root] Understand thereby either a corrupt and evil heart, which will send forth the bitter fruits of sin, chap.3.12. Or, any apostatizing or backsliding person, who by his example may trouble and cause many to fall, Deut.29.18.

defiled] 1 Cor.5.6. Gal.5.9.

V. 16. profane] That is, impure person, or rather a despiser of, or trampler upon holy things; as upon Christ; and those benefits which are offered through him, chap.10.29.

as Esau] Who in despising his birth-right, which he sold at so low a rate, became a type of such, who despised Christ, of whom the first-born were a type.

who] Gen.25.33.

one morsel] Or, one meals meat.

V. 17. when] Gen.27.38.

place of repentance] Or, way to change his minde.

repentance] That is, in his Father, to reverse or call back that blessing wherewith he had blessed his younger brother Jacob above him.

V. 18. For ye] The Apostle further presseth on the Hebrews the exhortation begun verse 12. from the excellency of their condition who are under the Gospel, or New Covenant, above others who were under the Law or Old Covenant. Those ordinances in giving and receiving the law, being so terrible, so that the people could not bear that which was commanded, shewed the nature and use of the law, viz. that it was a killing letter, working wrath, Rom. 4.15. contrary to the Gospel given upon mount Sion. The same argument or motive, in substance S. Paul had used, Rom. 5.18.

the mount] Exod.19.12, 18, 19. That is, Sinai, whereon the law was given.

touched] In it self, though not in respect of Gods charge, ver.20.

burned] By this terrible manner of giving the law, we are given to understand the slavish, servile, and fearful condition of those who were under it.

V. 19. voice] Understand thereby, either that terrible manner, wherewith the law was given; or the law it self, the rigour whereof, they were not able to bear. See Exod.20.18,19. Rom.8.3. intreated] Exod.20.19. Deut.5.5. and 18.16.

V. 20. And if so] Exod.19.13.

V. 21. Moses said] Some conceive that this may be gathered from Exod. 19.14. Others, that the Apostle had it either by tradition, as those names of Jannes and Jambres, 2 Tim. 3.8. and the prophesie of Enoch, Jude 14. or else by divine revelation, as Moses had the History of the Creation, and of other things, before his own time.

mount Sion] Gal.4.26. That is, to the Church under the Gospel, whereof Mount Sion was a type, Psalm 14.7. and 50.2. Esa. 2.3. and where the Gospel was first proclaimed without that terrour wherewith the law was delivered, Esa.2.3.

unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem] Or, unto the heavenly Jerusalem, which is the city, &c.

heavenly] So called, first, because it cometh from heaven, through Gods effectual calling, Rev.3.12, and 21.2,10. Secondly, because it shall ascend unto heaven, Col.3.4.

Angels] Who are both a part of the Church generally considered, and also Guardians and Ministers thereof. chap.1.14. Psalm 34.7.

V. 23. To the general] Some understand this clause by way of explication or amplification, as if the Apostle hereby intended further to explain and amplifie the last clause of the former verse: but more probably hereby we are to understand the Church of the Elect styled the first-born, because of those special prerogatives which they enjoyed above those who are only outwardly called, and only make an outward profession of the Gospel: even as the first-born under the law had some special prerogatives.

written in heaven] Or, enrolled, Luke 10.20.

just men] The Elect here on earth may be said to be gathered to those departed, because they make but one Church, whereof one part is on earth, the other in heaven.

made perfect] That is, according to their souls, not bodies.

V. 24. mediatour] Chap.8.6. and 9.15.

covenant] Or, testament.

the bloud of] 1 Pet.1.2. That is, to the bloud of Jesus Christ sprinkled, as the word of hearing is the word heard, chap.4.2. See 1 Pet.1.2. And this is added, because that Christ by his bloud confirmed the New Covenant, &c.

better] Christs bloud cries for mercy and pardon, whereas Abels cried for vengeance, Gen.4.10.

V. 25. See that] Chap.2.2. and 10.28.

him that spake on earth] Or, from the earth: That is, Moses.

from heaven] That is, Christ, who came from heaven, Joh.3.13.

V. 26. then shook] At the giving of the law, Exod.19.18.

Yet once] Hag.2.6,7. The Hebrew particle signifieth both once and a little while, and the place of the Prophet may be understood of both; yet the Apostle makes use only of the first, in the next verse, because that only was to his purpose.

Shake] Which was fulfilled in those prodigies and signs which appeared upon the earth, and in the heavens, before, and at our Saviours coming in the flesh, to proclaim and confirm the Gospel. Some understand it of Christs second coming, that is, to judgement, whereof Saint Peter speaks, 2 Pet.3.10. but it is plain, that the Prophet speaks of shaking the earth and the heavens which should be while the second Temple stood; for it is said, that the desire of all Nations, that is, the Messias should come and fill the second Temple with glory: see Hag.2.6,7.

V. 27. once] From this word [once] the Apostle infers the removing of the Law, or Old Covenant, given by Moses, and the immutability and unchangeableness of the Gospel, or New Covenant.

are shaken] Or, may be shaken.

V. 28. kingdom] That is, the Gospel, often called the Kingdom of God. See Matth.13.11,24,31. Mark 1.15. & 15.13. Rom.14.17.

V. 29. our God is a consuming fire] Chap.10.31. Deut.4.24. & 9.3. Psal. 50.3.

CHAP. XIII.

Vers.1. Brotherly] Rom.12.10. Ephes.4.2. 2 Pet.1.7. The Apostle speaketh not of that love which should be between natural brethren and kinsfolk, though this is required, but of that which should be between those who professe themselves to be brethren through faith in Christ, Chap.2.11. Col.1.2. continue] Firmly, and stedfastly.

V. 2. Be not forgetful] Rom.12.13. 1 Pet.4.9.

some have entertained angels] Gen.18.3. & 19.2.

V. 3. Remember them] 2 Cor.11.29.

suffer adversity] Or, evil entreated. Or suppose your selves to be the same, who are afflicted.

in the body] That is, as members of the same body, 1 Cor.12.25, &c. Or, as being yet living, and so subject to the same affections.

V. 4. and the bed] That is, with the bed, or so that the bed be undefiled, as the words following imply.

adulterers] Mal.3.5.

judge] That is, punish, Gen.15.14. 1 Sam.2.25. 2 Chron.20.12. Though the Magistrate be negligent in punishing them, yet God will judge them. And God will judge them sundry kinde of wayes, i. e. in this life, 1. his judgement upon their souls, which are translated from God unto the devil: Wine and adultery take away the heart, Hos.4.11. 2. upon their bodies, filling them with loathsome diseases. 3. upon their goods. The sin of adultery hath brought many a rich man to beggery, Prov.29.3. the prodigal childe quickly wasted his goods on harlots. 4. on their good names, they are odious unto all men.

V. 5. covetousness] Luk.12.15. Col.3.5.

V. 6. The Lord is] Psal.56.4,11. & 118.6.

V. 7. have the rule] Or, are the guides. Verf.17.24.

end] See Jam.5.11.

V. 8. Jesus Christ the same] Rev.1.8. Phil.1.12, &c. Psal.102.27. Same, that is, unchangeable in his Essence, promises and doctrine.

V. 9. carried] That is, as the waves of the Sea, or as the clouds of the ayr are now this way, now that, by the winds, Eph.4.14. Jude 12. but be constant in that faith which you have received, Col.2.7.

divers] Sometimes with this, sometimes with that doctrine.

strange] Different and disagreeing unto that faith which you once received, Jude 3.

grace] That is, either with the doctrine of grace, or else with those graces which are wrought in the soul by the preaching of the word or doctrine of grace: as faith, love, &c.

meats] Rom.14.17. That is, with a Legal observance, or choice of meats: whereby we may understand by a Synecdoche all the Legal Ceremonies.

walk] That is, who addict, or tye themselves unto it. Or, who superstitiously use them.

V. 10. altar] Understand hereby Christs divine Nature, whereby his flesh or humane nature was sanctified and qualified, to be a sufficient sacrifice to make atonement for the sins of the whole world; and this was typified by the legal Altar which sanctified the gifts that were offered upon it, Matth.23.19. Or Christ may be called our Altar, because we must offer up our prayers and thanksgivings unto God by him. See verf.15. Rev.6.9. & 8.3. Or, understand by Altar, the sacrifice offered upon it; that is, the flesh or humane nature of Christ, which is the true food of the soul, John 6.

eat] That is, to be partakers of. See 1 Cor.10.16,17,18.

serve] Which shall stubbornly observe the Levitical ceremonies. Such cut themselves off from the Communion of Christ, Gal.5.3.

V. 11. For] Here is a reason given of that which went before, Verf. 10. and it stands thus: Even as those who served the Tabernacle, might not eat of those beasts, which were burnt without the camp or tents: so those who now cleave to the Tabernacle, cannot be partakers of Christ. This is further illustrated, Verf. 13. where the Apostle shews, that those beasts were a type of Christ, and the place of their burning, a type of the place of Christs suffering.

V. 13. Let us] Here is a further accommodation or application of the former type.

go forth] Understand the place, either of our forsaking the legal ceremonies, which were administred within the camp, cleaving stedfast to Christ and his doctrine; or of our forsaking the world in our affections, viz. of our denying our selves, and taking up Christs cross and following him. This last may serve to be implyed by the words following.

Camp] Gr. Tent. See verf.11.

V. 18. conscience] Acts 24.16.

V. 20. Now the God of peace] With this prayer, the Apostle, according to his custom, concludes this Epistle, & calleth God, a God of peace; as also Rom. 15.33. & 16.20. & 2 Cor. 13.11. and that in respect of the Gospel of peace, whereby there is proclaimed peace betwixt God and Man, and the same also really communicated unto us, Rom. 5.1.

working in you] Gr. making in you, viz. by his Holy Spirit, Phil. 2.13.

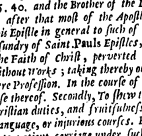
To whom be glory] viz. to Christ Jesus. This phrase is never attributed in the word of God, but unto the true everlasting God.

V. 22. suffer the word] The Apostle speaketh this to qualifie the seeming boldnesse of some exhortations sprinkled here and there in this Epistle, especially in the sixth and tenth Chapters.

V. 23. Hence it is certain, that the subscription of this Epistle is supposititious, because what need should there be of certifying that Timothy was set at liberty, if so be that this Epistle was sent by him?

written from Italy] Doubtless this subscription was added by some ignorant person, because we find it expressly said, that Timothy was not yet come unto him, verf. 23.



ANNO.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JAMES.

The Argument.

The Author of this Epistle was the Apostle James, not the Son of Zebedeus, and the Brother of John, Matth. 10. 2. (as some have supposed) who was slain not long after our Saviour Christs Ascension, Act. 12. 2. But James the son of Alpheus, Matth. 10. 3. called James the less, Mark 15. 40. and the Brother of the Lord, Gal. 1. 19. Commanded for a principal Pillar in the Church of God, Gal. 2. 9. Who abiding at Jerusalem after that most of the Apostles were departed thence, as having a more Special care and charge of his own Nation, the Jewish people, wrote this Epistle in general to such of them, as were dispersed into several Countreyes and Provinces abroad: And it is probable, That he wrote it after sundry of Saint Pauls Epistles, and in particular of those two to the Romanes, and to the Galathians: And observing how many professing the Faith of Christ, perverted that wholesome and comfortable Doctrine by him in those Epistles delivered, concerning free Justification by Faith without works; taking thereby occasion to neglect the practice of good works, he presseth the necessity of them, for the Justification of sound and sincere Profession. In the course of this Epistle, First, he perswades them to patience, chearfulness, and wise carriage under the cross, and a sanctified use thereof. Secondly, To shew the soundness of their Profession, and the sincerity of their Faith, by an exemplary course of life, in the practice of all Christian duties, and fruitfulness in well doing. Thirdly, dissuades from censorious taxing of others, and bitter contentions with them, either by foul language, or injurious courses. Fourthly, denounceth Gods Judgements against the rich, cruelly oppressing the poor. Fifthly, Exhorts the faithful to patient carriage under such oppressions, and to a Christian demeanour, answerable to their several estates, and conditions, and a brotherly care of the spiritual welfare, one of another, wherewith he closeth his Epistle.

CHAP. I.

Vers. 1.  Ames] There being two of this name, viz. James the son of Zebede, and James the son of Alpheus, Matth. 10. 2, 3. it is most probable, that here is to be understood the latter; because the former was killed by Herod, before (as it is likely) the Apostles began to write. See Act. 12. 2. servant] See Rom. 1. 1.

greeting] Act. 15. 23. 2 John 10, 11.

V. 2. joy] Matth. 5. 11, 12. 2 Cor. 12. 10. Heb. 10. 34. 1 Pet. 4. 13. That is, Be so far from fainting under your afflictions, Heb. 12. 5. as to account them the matter or occasion of great joy; both because you are counted worthy to suffer for the Name of Christ, Act. 5. 41. 2 Thess. 1. 5. as also because of the blessed fruits of them, Heb. 12. 11. Rom. 5. 3.

divers] Both inward and outward. See 2 Cor. 7. 5. temptations] Or, tryals; That is, afflictions, vers. 12. Luke 8. 13. Act. 20. 19. 1 Cor. 10. 13. Gal. 4. 14. 1 Pet. 1. 6. & 4. 12. whereby the soundness of your faith, love, and obedience is tryed. See Gen. 22. 1. Heb. 10. 32.

V. 3. Knowing] Rom. 5. 3.

trying] Saint James his meaning is not, that afflictions of themselves work patience; for we see the contrary often, both in the wicked and the godly; as in Job, Chap. 3. David, Psal. 73. & Jere. Chap. 12. 1. but that faith being proved to be found through affliction, doth work it, because thereby it is experimentally assured of Gods gracious presence and assistance in afflictions, and deliverance out of them.

V. 4. perfect] That is, be patient unto the end, Matth. 10. 22. & 24. 13. Heb. 10. 35, &c. Rev. 2. 26.

that ye may] 2 Cor. 9. 8.

perfect and entire] See 1 Thess. 5. 23.

V. 5. wisdom] Though all true wisdom be from God, yet here more particularly we are to understand that spiritual wisdom, whereby Christians may be enabled rightly to judge of the Author, causes, and fruits of afflictions; for want whereof many of Gods children have murmured against God, and fainted under them, Job 3. 1. Psa. 73. 2. Jer. 12. 1. & 20. 8. Unto this Christians are directed, Heb. 12. 5. ---12.

let him ask of God] Matt. 7. 7. & 21. 22. Luke 11. 9.

liberally] The original word in the first notation thereof signifieth simply, or singly, or sincerely; that is, without any mixture of by-respects, or without hypocrisie; so 2 Cor. 1. 12. & 11. 3. Ephes. 6. 5. Col. 3. 22. But because those who give with a single and sincere heart, give liberally according to their ability: hence consequently, or in a secondary sense, it signifieth liberally. So Rom. 12. 8. 2 Cor. 8. 2. & 9. 11, 13.

upbraideth] When he gives to those who ask; though he doth to those who unthankfully abuse his blessings, not walking worthy of them, Esay 1. 2, &c. & 5. 1. &c. Jer. 2. 4.

V. 6. in faith] That is, resting upon Gods power, whereby he is able; and upon his truth, whereby he will be faithful; and upon his goodness and mercy through his Son Jesus Christ, whereby he will be ready to make good his promises for the hearing of those who call upon him, Joh. 16. 23. Mark 11. 24.

wavering] That is, not doubting, disputing, or calling into question the former Attributes of God, Matt. 21. 21. See Act. 10. 20. & 11. 12. Rom. 4. 20. 1 Tim. 2. 8. and hangs wavering between God and man, Hereby is meant such a doubting which excludes all faith: for otherwise God doth not reject a weak faith which cannot be without doubting. See Matt. 17. 20. Mark 23. 24. Psal. 31. 22.

like a wave] By this similitude Saint James illustrateth the property of a wavering minded man. As the waves of the Sea through tempestuous winds sometimes are carried up to heaven, sometimes descend as lowas the deep: So a wavering minded man sometimes is of this opinion and resolution, and sometimes of that. See vers. 8.

V. 7. think] Perswade himself as many vainly do, that he shall receive any thing, because he hath no promise for it: notwithstanding God out of his general providence and goodness, whereby he causes the Sun to shine, and rain to fall upon the wicked, Matt. 5. 45. often bestowes temporal blessings upon them.

V. 8. double-minded] Chap. 4. 8. Whom he styled wavering, and compared to a wave of the Sea, driven with the wind, and tossed with blasts; the same he styles double-minded, because he is sometimes of one mind, sometimes of another: unsetled in his resolutions and purposes, having not a foundation of faith to build them upon: and such an one must needs be inconstant in his ways; that is, practices, courses, and undertakings.

V. 9. low degree] That is, who is afflicted with poverty, disgrace, or any kind of calamity.

rejoyce] Or, glory.

exalted] That is, in that he is rich in faith and the knowledge of God, and highly honoured to be the Son of God by grace and adoption.

V. 10. low] That is, in his humility: because God hath given him an humble and lowly heart notwithstanding his riches and honours.

for] Here and in the next verse Saint James shews by what means God doth work humility in rich and honourable men endued with faith: viz. by putting into their hearts a serious consideration of their own instability & vanity, & of all those outward comforts which they enjoy, enjoy, Psal. 103. 15. Esa. 40. 6, &c. 1 Pet. 1. 24. Luk. 12. 20, &c. & 16. 19.

as the flower of the grass] Esa. 40. 6. 1 Pet. 1. 24. Job 14. 2. Psa. 10. 2. & 103. 15.

V. 11. wayes] Whatsoever he studies, purposes, or practiseth, shall perish. See Psal. 1. 3.

V. 12. Blessed is the man] Psal. 94. 12. Job 5. 17. Mat. 5. 10, &c.

endureth] It is thought to be a military word taken from undaunted Souldiers, who couragiously without giving back receive the fiercest onsets of the enemies: answerable hereunto, to endure, &c. is patiently and with courage to undergo them, submitting their wills to Gods, without fainting, murmuring, or repining.

temptation] Affliction, whereby he is tryed. See vers. 2.

when] Or, being is made, or, found proof; or, found.

tried] Rev. 2. 10. It is a metaphor taken from metals, whose truth and goodness are used to be tryed, and their dross purged from them, by fire: Psal. 66. 10. Prov. 17. 3. 1 Pet. 1. 7. Afflictions serve to both these ends and uses.

the crown of life] 2 Tim. 4. 8. 1 Pet. 5. 4.

V. 13. say] Either with his tongue, or in his heart; as Psalm 14. 1. tempted] That is, in respect of himself, because he is infinitely and immutably good and holy; yet in regard of men he is often tempted. See Exod. 17. 2. Mal. 3. 15. Act. 15. 10.

evil] Or, evils.

tempteth] That is, by inciting and moving them to sin, for God wills it not. See Psa. 5. 5. Esa. 65. 12. Zech. 8. 17. Zeph. 3. 5. Though he doth for the proof and trial of their faith, constancy and patience, Gen. 22. 1. Deu. 13. 1, &c.

V. 14. But] Here S. James sheweth the source, original, and fountain of all temptation unto sin; viz. that natural corruption which we brought into the world with us, Psal. 51. 1. Rom. 7. 7. without which, neither the Devil nor the world could hurt, they tempting by working upon our concupiscence.

drawn] Here are set down two wayes, whereby lust tempts unto sin. First, by withdrawing from that which is good. Secondly, by enticing unto that which is evil, under some appearance of that which is good and pleasant: even as fishes and other beasts are allured unto the hookes, nets, or snares, by some pleasing bait. See Gen. 3. 5, &c. 2 Sam. 11. 2, &c.

V. 15. conceived] It is an allusion to, or a metaphor taken from teeming women, who first conceive, and then bring forth. Now lust may then be said to have conceived, when the will entertains those evil motions with consent and delight, which lust hath stirred up.

bringeth forth sin] That is, in outward act and deed; and therefore though lust be not such a sin, yet it may be, and is properly sin. See Rom. 7. 7.

finished] Or, fully perfected. That is, committed advisedly, deliberately, or with the full consent of the will: or come to its height.

V. 16. Do not] It is a metaphor taken from Travellers, when they go out of the way, Psa. 119. 176. 1 Cor. 6. 9. Gal. 6. 7.

V. 17. Every] Here is a reason given, why we should not conceive that God is the Authour of sin; and the reason is, because God is the Authour of all good: now if he should likewise be the Authour of sin by tempting man unto it, there would be found a change in him.

good gift] Whether of nature, grace, or glory.

from above] That is, from God, whose throne is in heaven. See Mat. 5. 34. Joh. 19. 11. Mat. 21. 25. Joh. 3. 27.

Father of lights] So called, First, because he is in himself light, 1 Joh. 1. 5. Secondly, and that chiefly here, because he is the fountain of all wisdom and knowledge, See vers. 5. John 1. 19. and every other good and perfect gift.

variablenes] Exo. 3. 14, &c.

V. 18. Of] The Apostle having taught, vers. 17. that every good gift came from God, exemplifies this here in the great work of mans regeneration.

will] That is, out of his good pleasure, and not for any merit in man. See Rom. 9. 11. Ephe. 1. 9. Phil. 2. 15. 2 Tim. 1. 9. Joh. 1. 13.

with the word] Or, by. Ephe. 1. 13. Col. 1. 5. See Rom. 10. 14. 1 Pet. 1. 23.

a kind of first-fruits] Herein S. James alludes unto the first-fruits under the law, which were certain handfulls of first ripe corn, and so consequently of the best, which they were to offer unto God. See Levit. 23. 10, 11. Numb. 15. 20, 21. Hence first-fruits sometimes import the first in order. So it is said the house of Stephanas was the first-fruits of Achaia, i. first called into the fellowship of the Gospel, 1 Cor. 16. 15. And so some understand this place, viz. of the Apostles and the Jews which were first regenerate. Sometimes again the best and chiefest. So Jer. 2. 3. And thus most understand this place; interpreting it of all the faithful, who are called the first-fruits, because of their dignity and excellency above all men; being separated out of the world, Ephes. 1. 4. 1 Pet. 2. 9. and consecrated to God.

creatures] Of men. So Mar. 16. 15.

V. 19. slow to speak] Pro. 17. 27.

slow to wrath] Tit. 1. 7.

V. 20. wrath of man] That is, the unadvised and immoderate wrath of man.

righteousnes] That is, that which is right in Gods sight: it rather leads him to that which is unlawful.

V. 21. lay] Gr. laying aside, or, putting off, &c. Heb. 12. 1. Col. 3. 8. 1 Pet. 2. 1.

filthynes] That is, all manner of sin, so called from the polluting nature thereof: hence sin is compared unto those things which are most filthy and loathlom: as to the vomit of a dog, and the myre of a hogge, 2 Pet. 2. 22.

superfluity] Or, remainder.

receive] As good ground. See Mat. 13. 8, 23. Mar. 4. 8.

engrafted] Rather, the implanted word. It is an allusion to the sowing and planting of seeds, herbs or young trees, wherein faithful ministers are compared to planters. See 1 Cor. Those who translate the Original [engrafted] suppose that it is a metaphor taken from the art of engrafting twigs into a stock, who turn the stock into their own nature.

V. 22. be ye doers of the word] Mat. 7. 21. Rom. 2. 13. Luke 11. 28. Joh. 13. 17. 1 Joh. 2. 4. deceiving] By false conclusions and inferences, as if it were sufficient to hear without practice.

V. 26. like] By this similitude, S. James intendeth to teach us that those, who are hearers and not doers of the word, quickly forget what they have heard.

V. 25. looketh] The original word signifieth an accurate and intentive looking upon a thing, bowing and stooping down to it. See John. 20. 5. 1 Pet. 1. 2. So that hereby we are to understand a diligent and intentive hearing, or reading Gods word, and meditating thereon.

law] Chap. 2. 12. Thereby understand the whole word of God registred in the Scriptures, Psal. 1. 2. which is called perfect, because it contains all things necessary to be believed or practised; and the law of liberty, because thereby we are born again to a new spiritual life, and so freed from the bondage and slavery of sin, vers. 18.

continueth] That is, in the belief and practice thereof: so the words following import.

deed] Or, doing.

V. 26. seem] Flatters himself with a vain conceit and perswasion, that he is truely religious.

bridleth] Psa. 39. 1. It is a metaphor taken from unruly horses, which must be bridled and curbed, that they may be ruled.

vain] Notwithstanding all his boasting.

V. 27. before God] That is, which God requireth, as pleasing unto him.

world] Understand thereby both wicked men, unto whom we must not conform our selves, Rom. 12. 2. as also the pollution or lusts of the world. See 1 Joh. 2. 15, 16.

CHAP. II.

Vers. 1. O*F glory*] Act. 7. 2. 1 Cor. 2. 7.

respect] Levit. 19. 15. Deut. 1. 17. & 16. 19. Pro. 24. 23. To respect persons is for mens outward condition in the world, to respect and honour some, as for their riches and the like, and neglect and contemn others, though equally or better deserving, as for their poverty and the like: and this is that fault which S. James warns the converted Jews to take heed of in this verse, and blames in them in the verses following.

No. 1. Fair if] A fault too common even in these days in many assemblies, wherein the poor are not allowed or allowed a seat to sit in.

assembly] Gr. synagogue.

V. 3. in a good place] Or, well, or, seemly.

V. 4. Are ye not] Or, are you not condemned in your selves; that is, convinced in your own consciences, that ye do evil in so doing? See vers. 9.

judges] Or, are ye not herein ill-affected judges? or are ye not judges of your own evil reasonings? seeing by this your dealing it is plain that you respect persons.

V. 5. chosen] 1 Cor. 1. 26, 28.

rich in faith] Luk. 12. 21.

the] Or, that.

V. 6. despised the poor] 1 Cor. 11. 22.

V. 7. name] That is, the name of Christ, from which we are called Christians.

by the which ye are called] Gr. which is called upon you.

V. 8. royal law] The law of loving our Neighbour as our selves is called the royal law, as high-ways are called the Kings, that is, because the royal law, as high-ways are called the Kings, that is, because they are common to all: So this law should be extended to all, cause they are common to all: So this law should be extended to all, whether poor or rich: there is no limitation in the law. Thou shalt love thy Neighbour, whosoever he be, without respect of persons.

Thou shalt love thy Neighbour] Lev.19.18.Rom.13.9.Mat.22.39.

V. 9. respect to persons] Vers.1.

V. 10. For whosoever, &c.] The Apostles meaning is this, viz. That suppose a man should keep the whole law in substance, except in some one particular, yet by allowing himself in this particular, thereby he manifests that he kept no precept of the law in obedience and conscience unto God; for if he did, then he would be careful to keep every precept; thus much the words following import, and thereby he manifests that he is guilty of all. Some conceive, that therefore such an one may be said to be guilty of all, because by allowing himself in any one sin, thereby he lyes under that curse which is threatned against the transgressors of the law, Deut. 27.26.

V. 11. he that said] Or, that law which said.

V. 12. law of liberty] See Chap.1.25.

V. 13. For he shall] Mat.6.15. & 18,35.

and] Or, but.

rejoyceth] Or, glorieth.

judgement] Or, condemnation: that is, the condemnation of Satan and sin, because of those gracious promises which are made to mercifull men, Psa.31.1, &c. Matt.5.7. Luk.6.37.

V. 14. what] The drift and scope of the Apostle in the ensuing discourse is to prove, that neither the bare outward profession of faith, nor that faith which is without works can justifie or save, but that it must be an operative or working faith, fruitfull in good works.

faith] That is, which is without works. And the interrogation (can, &c.) is a strong negation, as in the former clause (what doth it profit, &c.)

V. 15. In this and the next two verses, Saint James compares that faith, which is without works, to the good words of him who wisheth well to a poor man, but doth nothing at all for him. This similitude stands thus; even as fair words, where no relief is given, do nothing profit the needy, naked, and hungry man: so neither a bare profession of faith, nor that faith which is without works can profit, that is, justifie or save.

V. 16. say unto them] 1 John 3.18.

warmed] Job 31.20.

V. 17. dead] Not that works give life unto faith; or are, as some speak, the form of faith; for it is plain, that faith giveth life unto all good works that are acceptable unto God, as appeareth, Heb.11.6. and through the whole course of that chapter, and from Hab. 2.4. But such a faith is said to be dead in respect of the work or office of justifying and saving, that is, that it availeth nothing to them, as may appear by the former similitude; but is like a dead corps, which hath not power to produce any actions of life. Thus Abrahams body and Sara's womb are said to be dead, because they were unfit for generation, Rom. 4.19. And the reason thereof may be this, viz. because he that is destitute of good works, at least of a sincere resolution to walk in obedience, cannot by faith apprehend the promises of life; for though faith onely apprehend the promises of life, yet these promises are made one ly to those who walk in sincere obedience. See Psal.15.1, &c.

alone] Gr. by it self.

V. 18. a man] That is, one that hath indeed a true justifying or saving faith.

may say] So one that faith, that he hath a true justifying and saving faith, and yet doth not manifest it by his works.

without thy works] Some copies read, by thy works.

by my works] Because an uniform, unpartial and universal obedience to Gods commandments, is a sure and certain token of a justifying faith, 1 Joh.2.3.

V. 19. Thou] Hereby it is evident that S. James in this discourse doth not onely speak of a bare profession of faith, or of a shew and shadow of faith, but of some kind which is true in its kind, though not justifying or saving; this is generally called an historical or dogmatical faith, and is nothing else but an assent unto the word of God as true in general.

Iris well] Yet not sufficient, and the reason hereof is taken from the faith of devils, whose faith is not sufficient to salvation, though they beleeve those truths which are contained in the word of God, beleeve] Matt.8.29. Mark 5.7.

tremble] By reason, that by their faith they beleeve that judgment wherewith they shall be sentenced at the last day.

V. 20. dead] See Verse 17.

V. 21. Was not] There were many other works performed by Abraham abundantly, testifying the truth of his faith; but the Apostle chuseth this above all other; because it was the most conspicuous work by which his faith was tryed, and God seemed to take especial notice hereof, Gen. 22.12.

our father] That is, according to the flesh, because those to whom S. James did write were the scattered Jews, Chap.1.1.

justified] That is, say some, declaratively and in the sight of men, his works bearing witness of, unto his faith, and not causally and in respect of God; but because S. James here disputes against those who looked to be justified by a faith separated from good works, and that causally, and in the sight of God, it cannot stand with the scope of the Apostle, unless here by [justified] we understand that justification whereby we are justified causally in the sight of God; the state of the question being not, whether we are justified declaratively, or in the sight of men by faith without good works; but, whether we are justified in the sight of God without works.

works] That is, a working faith, for in this discourse or dispute, works are not opposed to a justifying or saving faith, but to such a faith which hath not works; so that we may well by [works] as a part for the whole, or the effect for the cause, understand here such a faith which hath works conjoyned with it. Besides, how could the Apostle conclude as he doth, verse 23. that the Scripture was fulfilled, viz. that Abraham believed, and it was accounted to him for righteousness, from Abrahams being justified by works, when he offered up his son Isaac, unless by works here we understand a working faith. Did not the Apostle mean the same thing by works, vers. 21. and by faith, vers. 23? Hence it appears, that there is no contradiction between Saint Paul, Rom. 4.2. where he proves that Abraham was not justified by works, and Saint James, who here affirms, that he was, although they express themselves diversly, disputing against adversaries of different dispositions: Saint Paul disputes against those who looked to be justified or saved by their own perfect or inherent righteousnes or works; Saint James against those who looked to be saved by a faith without works; now there is a mean between these two extream opinions, wherein both agree, and that is, that justification is by a faith which hath works, or a working faith.

offered] Gen.22.9. That is, in readiness of affection and full resolution, though not in real act. See Heb.11.17.

V. 22. Seest thou] Gr. thou seest.

wrought] Or, cooperated to his works, that is, supported and directed him in the doing of them: Or which moved him to them. See Heb.11.17.

perfect] That is, declared to be perfect, even as it is said that Gods power is perfected in weakness, 2 Cor. 12.9. That is, declared to be so.

V. 23. fulfilled] It was fulfilled before, Gen.15.6. How then is it said here, that it was fulfilled at the oblation of Isaac, which was many years after? Thus, the truth of that which was verified before, was then again confirmed by a new and evident experiment; or it may be said to be fulfilled at Isaacs oblation, though fulfilled before, because Abraham was justified after the same manner through the whole course of his life. See Verse 21.

Abraham] Gen.15.6. Rom.4.3. Gal.3.6. friend] 2 Chron.20.7. Esa.41.8.

V. 24. by works] That is, working faith. See vers. 21.

by faith] That is, which is alone, or without good works. See Vers. 17.

V. 25. Rahab] Josh.2.1, &c. Heb.11.31.

by works] That is, a working faith. See Vers. 22.

V. 26. Spirit] Or, breath. No similitude must be stretched beyond its scope: Now the scope of the Apostle in this similitude is to shew, that faith without works is dead, and not that works are the form of, or give life unto faith, as the soul is the form of, and giveth life unto the body; for works cannot be the form of faith, seeing no outward thing can be the form of, or effectual unto that which is inward; now works are outward, but the habit of faith inward: Some conceive, that the original word signifieth breath, and then the similitude stands thus; even as the want of breath argues a dead body, so want of works a dead faith.

dead] See vers. 17.

CHAP. III.

Vers.1. Be not] That is, for no man usurpe (as many imperiously do) authority to judge and censure others either rashly, rigorously, Mat.7.1, &c. Luk.6.37, &c. Rom.2.1. condemnation] Or, judgement. That is, punishment; as Mat.23.14. Mar.12.40. Luk.20.47.

V. 2. offend all] 1 Kin.8.46. Prov.20.9.

If any man] Eccles.14.1. & 19.16, & 21.8.

perfect] That is, endued with such wisdom and discretion, or else a sincere Christian indeed, Joh. 1. 47. though not absolutely perfect according to all parts and degrees of perfection.

bridle] See Chap.1.26.

whole] That is, all the members of his body; as his eyes, ears, &c. because it is easier to govern all other members than the tongue.

V. 3. bits in the horses mouths] Psal.32.9.

V. 4. fierce winds] Or, strong.

V. 5. boasteth great things] Psal.12.3. & 37.8.

a matter] Or, wood.

V. 6. world] That is, a mighty dead, or multitude, or heap: it commits a multitude of iniquity by flattering, lying, swearing, slandering, &c.

amongst] Gr. in the midst.

whole] As little fire doth a whole wood.

course] Gr. wheel. Or whole frame of nature, either with lust, anger, pride, or the like, hell] That is, of the Devil. As Heaven is sometimes taken for God, whose throne is in heaven, Matt.6.9. Psal.2.4. & 11.4. Esa.66.1. Mat. 5.34. & 23.22. Act.7.49.

V. 7. kind] Gr. nature.

mankind] Gr. nature of man.

V. 8. full] Psal.140.3.

deadly] That is, which brings death. Some think that herein Saint James alludes unto Psal.140.4.

V. 9. Therewith] Amongst other faults of the tongue the Apostle chiefly reproveth backbiting, speaking evil, and cursing of our neighbours, and that in them especially, who would seem godly and religious.

curse] Thereby understand all those vices of the tongue, whereby we offend against our neighbours, the chief being put or mentioned for all: as in the Negative precepts of the second Table of the Law.

the similitude of God] Gen. 1.26.

V. 10. Out of one] The intention of the Apostle in this and the two next verses, is to shew, that blessing of God, and cursing our brethren, cannot stand well together.

V. 11. place] Or, hole.

V. 13. who is wise] It is as if the Apostle had said; you perswade your selves that in censuring others you shew much wisdom and knowledge; but if there be that wisdom and knowledge in you as ye pretend, then shew it by your works, without imperious, and rigid, and proud censuring your brethren. See vers. 17.

meekness of wisdom] That is, that meekness which is guided by true Christian wisdom.

V. 14. envying] Or, emulation.

glory not] Of your wisdom.

lie] Because true wisdom doth not consist with such bitter emulation and strife. So it is said, That he that saith, that he hath no sin, is a liar, 1 John 1.

V. 15. This] Which those imperious censurers of other mens lives and actions pretended.

earthly] See John.3.12. 2 Cor.5.1. Phil.2.10 & 3.19.

sensual] Or, natural. And not from the Spirit of grace, 1 Cor. 2.14.

devilish] That is, that which the devil practiseth, Joh 1.10,11. Rev. 12.10.

V. 16. confusion] Gr. tumult, or unquietness.

V. 17. above] See Chap. 1.17.

pure] See 2 Cor. 11.2. Phil. 4.8. Tit. 2.5. 1 Pet. 3.2. 1 Joh. 3.3. gentle] Or, patient. Act.24.4.

without partiality] Or, without wrangling; or, without judging.

V. 18. fruit] That is, life eternal, which is the fruit of righteousnes, not by way of merit, but of grace, Rom.4.4.

sown] Because the world perswadeth it self, that they are miserable which live peaceably; therefore the Apostle here pronounceth, that they shall at length reap the harvest of a peaceable righteousnes, Mat. 5.9.

make peace] That is, who are not onely of a peaceable disposition, but seek peace, Psal. 34.15. 1 Pet. 3.11. and labour to make peace between those who are at variance.

CHAP. IV.

Vers.1. Whence] That is, those emulations, strifes, and contentions, whereof the Apostle had spoken, Chap. 3.14. and not open wars, when as one Army is brought up against another; for there was no such thing between Christians in those times wherein Saint James wrote, though open wars and fightings arise and spring from the same fountain.

fightings] Or, brawlings.

lusts] Or, pleasures. Called pleasures in the Original, because of that delight or pleasure which men take in them.

war] 1 Pet. 2.11.

members] That is, in you, or in your members, because lusts exercise a dominion over the members of the body, making use of them for the compassing of that which they desire to bring to passe; and so they do over the faculties of the soul.

V. 2. ye kill] Some copies have, ye envy.

desire to have] Or, eagerly desire.

ye fight] See vers. 1.

lust] See vers. 1.

V. 3. Ye ask] In the former verse it is said, that they did not ask why then is it said here, that they did ask? Thus it is by way of supposition; as if the Apostle had said; viz. or suppose ye ask, yet ye receive not, because, &c. amisse] Job 35.12. Because to no good end, as the words following import.

lusts] Or, pleasures.

V. 4. Ye adulterers] There is a double adultery mentioned in the Word of God; the one is usually called spiritual adultery, whereby or when as a man or woman forsaking God, bestows his love upon the creature, or the world, See Jer, 13.27. Ezek. 23.44.45 Hos. 2.2. The other is usually called corporal adultery wherof there are several degrees; as first, adulterous thoughts, and inward burnings, Matt. 5. 28. 1 Cor. 7.9. 2 Pet. 2.20. Secondly, wanton words, Ephes. 4.29. Thirdly, lascivious gestures, Prov. 5.20. & 7.13. Jer. 5. 8. Fourthly, the act it self, Deut. 23.17. Levit. 19.29. Some understand this place of the former; others, of the latter, which is the more probable opinion, because of the words following.

the friendship] 1 Joh. 2.15. Mat. 6.24. 2 Cor. 6.15.

V. 5. Scripture] Not in any particular place, or in so many words; though the sense may be gathered out of the Scriptures. Some conceive that the Apostle relates to Gen. 6.5. & 8.21. others to Numb. 11.29.

The Spirit] If we understand by [spirit] the spirit of a man unregenerate, as some do, then the last clause must be rendred, [lusteth to envy] that is, inciteth, or putteth on, or moveth earnestly unto envy, and the like: but if by [spirit] we understand here the Spirit of God, which is the more probable opinion, because that clause [dwelleth in us] is often attributed to the Spirit of God, Exod. 25.8. & 29. 4. Rom. 8.11. 1 Cor. 11.16. then that clause must be understood of the Spirit of God, striving and fighting against envy. See Gal. 5.17. The Greek preposition many times signifies against; as Luk. 20.19. Heb. 12.4.

to envy] Or, enviously.

V. 6. God resisteth] Prov. 3.34. 1 Pet. 5.5. Psal. 101.5.

V. 7. God] Who best knows how to bestow his gifts for your good. This rule is here prescribed as a means to beat down, and bring in subjection the high thoughts of envy and emulation.

resist the devil] Ephes. 4.27.

V. 8. Draw nigh] By faith, obedience, and fervent prayer.

he will] In mercy, and his gifts.

cleanse] Esay 1.16.

hands] Understand hereby the whole body: it is usual to put the part for the whole.

double] See Chap. 1.8.

V. 10. Humble your selves] Job 22.29. Luke 23.12. 1 Peter 5.6.

V. 11. judgeth] Mat. 7.1. Rom. 12.1. 1 Cor. 4.5.

law] Because by his evil speaking and judging of his neighbour, he doth in deed, though not in word, speak evil of and judge the Law, which hath forbid it. Levit. 19.16. Psal. 138.6.

V. 12. who art thou] Rom. 14.4, 10.

V. 13. Go to now] Prov. 27.1.

V. 14. whereas] Psal. 103.14, &c.

it is] Or, for it is.

V. 15. If the Lord] 1 Cor. 4.19. Act. 8.21.

V. 16. boastings] That is, in your presumptions that ye shall live long; and gain much.

evil] 1 Cor. 5.6. Because hereby ye manifest that ye neither think of Gods providence, or the brevity, or uncertainty of your own lives.

V. 15. sin] That is, a greater sin, and so consequently deserve greater punishment. See Luk. 12.47. Matt. 11.20, &c. John 9.41. & 15.22——24. Rom. 1.20, &c. and 2.23.

CHAP. V.

Vers. 1. Rich] Saint James threatneth not all rich men, but such only who made not either a right use of their riches, v. 2,3. because they did hoard up, and not distribute them to the necessities of the brethren; or else abused them to oppression, v. 4. & 6. or to luxury, v. 5.

miseries] Luke 16.23.

V. 2. corrupted] Or, rotted.

V. 3. cankered] Or, grown rusty.

a witness] Matth. 10.18. and 23.31. and 24.14. Mark 1.44.

eat] That is, the abuse of your riches shall be like fuel to put on fire the wrath of God against you. Some conceive, that S. James intends hereby that their carking for riches should consume them, or shorten their days. See Matt. 6.25, &c.

treasure] It is as if the Apostle had said, viz. Ye thought that ye had provided for many years, Luke 12.19. and it is true, ye have done it, but it is a treasure of wrath, Rom. 2.5. Some understand the place, as if hereby the Apostle condemned their folly in heaping up riches in the last times, or in their lusts, and therefore not likely to enjoy them.

V. 4. the hire of the labourers] Job 31.38, &c. Levit. 19.13. Deut. 24.15.

crieth] Though all sin deserves Gods wrath, yet some especially are called, for their greatness, crying sins, because they cry unto God for sudden vengeance, and as it were violently force God unto it; thus thus bloud, Gen. 4. 10, the sins of Sodom, Gen. 18. 20. & 19. 13. oppression, Job 31. 34. and the keeping of the wages of the hirelings, here.

sabaoth] Or, hosts: or, armies. So God is often styled, because all creatures are his armies, and are ready to execute his will at his command, Esay 1. 9. Jer. 11. 20. Rom. 9. 29.

V. 5. nourished] Or, pampered.

in a day] That is, fay some, unto the day of slaughter, as if here were an allusion unto the fatting of beasts for slaughter: or, as others conceive [in the day] that is, as in a day of feasting. Prov. 7. 14. Isa. 22. 13. because at such times there is usually made a slaughter of beasts; this, these rich men did daily. See Luke 16. 19.

V. 7. Be patient] Or, be long patient, or suffer with long patience. 2 Tim. 2. 3. Heb. 6. 12.

early and latter rain] Deut. 11. 14.

V. 8. stablish] By meditating upon that crown of glory, which is laid up for you. See 2 Tim. 4. 6, &c.

for the coming] Job 19. 25.

nigh] The time of suffering in this life is but short, but for a moment in comparison of that eternity of glory, which the faithful shall enjoy hereafter. Hence it is said, that the coming of the Lord draweth nigh; Yet a little while, and he that cometh will come, Rev. 22. 20.

V. 9. Grudge not] Or, groan, or grieve not. Hereby S. James forbids not all grieving for, or sensibleness of afflictions, or a groaning & sighing for the day of our redemption; but that groaning, grieving, or inward complaining and crying for vengeance, which is joyned with impatiency and murmuring against God.

condemned] That is, lest God chastise and punish you for it.

Judge] That is, Christ. See John 5. 22. Act. 10. 34. & 17. 31. 2 Cor. 5. 10. 2 Tim. 4. 8.

standeth] It is a proverbial speech, wherehy the nearness of a thing is denoted. See Gen. 4. 7. Matt. 24. 33. Mark 13. 24. The Judge, &c. that is, he is nigh at hand. See vers. 8.

V. 10. Take my brethren] Heb. 13. 7.

of suffering affliction] Gr. of suffering evil.

V. 11. happy] Chap. 1. 12.

end] That is, how God rewarded his patience, or what end God gave unto it. See Job 42. 10.

pitiful] Gr. of many bowels. Even as a tender mother hath her bowels moved, when her child is to suffer. See 1 Kin. 3. 26. Luk. 1. 78.

V. 12. Swear not] Matt. 5. 34. & 23. 15, 28. Saint James doth not forbid all swearing, as unlawful; See Deu. 6. 13. Esay 65. 16. Jer. 12. 16. Rom. 9. 1, 2. 2 Cor. 1. 23. Phil. 1. 8. Heb. 6. 16. but rash and customary swearing, too usual (it seems) in his time. Some conceive, that the Apostle forbids only swearing by the creature. Or, also not above all things, through impatience, be moved to take Gods Name in vain.

lest your] That is, that which ye have to affirm, affirm it simply, without an oath; and that which ye have to deny, deny it simply, without an oath.

lest ye fall] Exod. 20. 7. See vers. 9.

condemnation] Some Copies read, hypocrisie.

V. 13. Is any amongst you afflicted] Or, doth any emongst you suffer evil.

afflicted] He shews the best remedy against all affliction, viz. prayers. See Job 16. 12. Psal. 77. 8.

psalms] Ephes. 5. 19, 20.

V. 14. sick] Or, weak.

elders] That is, those who had the gift of healing by miracle, which was given to some in those Primitive times. See Mark 6. 13. & 16. 18. 1 Cor. 12. 9.

pray] Gen. 20. 7. That God would be pleased to pardon his sins, and restore his health.

anointing] This was an extraordinary sign of that extraordinary manner of healing by miracle, and not an ordinary sign of any sacrament under the Gospel.

in the Name] That is, by calling on the Name of the Lord.

V. 15. of faith] Which proceedeth from faith, or made in faith. See Chap. 1. 6.

save] See Matt. 9. 22. Mar. 5. 23. Luk. 8. 36.

raise] See Matt. 9. 5, &c. Mar. 9. 27. Luk. 8. 54. John 5. 8.

if he have] It is not the Apostles intention by this conditional speech, to intimate, as if any man was without sin; See 1 Joh. 1. 13. but here he speaks of such special sins, for which God doth often lay sickness upon men. See John 5. 14. 1 Cor. 10. 5. & 1 Corinth. 11. 30.

V. 16. Confess] Some understand it of forgiving one another, but the Original is no where found in that sense; it is applyed to confessing of sins, Matt. 3. 6. Mar. 1. 5. Act. 19. 18. and so here.

one to another] That is, fay some, to those Elders which were to be sent for; but others more probably of all the faithful, wl ether Pastors of people, though chiefly the Pastors, it being presumed, that they are best able to comfort them, who find any sin lye heavy upon their soul, and to assist them with their prayers.

pray] Ephes. 6. 8. 1 Tim. 2. 1, 2. effectual] Or, vehement, or, earnest.

righteous] Joh. 9. 31.

V. 17. passions] Act. 14. 15.

he prayed] 1 Kin. 17. 1.

earnestly] Or, in his prayer.

six moneths] Luk. 4. 25.

V. 18. he prayed] 1 Kin. 18. 42, 45.

V. 19. if any of you] Matth. 18. 15.

erre] As a wandring traveller doth out of his way.

truth] That is, of the Gospel, either in faith or manners. See vers. 20.

convert] That is, the means or instrument, through Gods blessing, of converting him.

V. 20. hide a multitude of sins] Some understand this clause of the sins of the converting, as of Gods rewarding out of promise and mercy, those who take pains to convert others; See 2 Cor. 2. 15. Others, of the sins of the converted, whose sins the converting are said to hide, because they are a means of Gods hiding and not imputing them unto them.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE FIRST EPISTLE GENERAL OF PETER.

The Argument.

THE Apostle Peter having by a special agreement of the Apostles among themselves, the charge of those of the circumcision committed unto him, Gal. 2. 7, 8, 9. was accordingly careful (because he could not visite them all in person, being dispersed into so many, and so remote Regions) to write unto them this Epistle, which might reach to them in their severall places of abode. Therein his principall scope is, to perswade them unto patience, and holy carriage, under those afflictions, that either at present they were exercised withal, or were further to expect; And that by Arguments taken from the example of Christ, Gods calling them thereunto, the Glory that thereby (should redound unto God, and the good issue thereof, in regard of themselves. And amidst general Exhortations to such Religious conuerse, and unblameable conversation, as might adorn their christian Profession, and stop the mouthes of malignant Adversaries, he intermixeth Admonitions concerning the duties of severall persons in their special places; as of Subjects towards Magistrates, Servants towards their Masters, Husbands and wives, either to other, and of the Ministers of God towards the People of God, committed unto their charge, the younger sort towards the elder, and of equals one to another; Concluding all with Benedictions and Salutations.

CHAP.

CHAP. I.

Verse 1.

Peter] Called first Simon, or Simeon, John 21. 1, 2 Pet. 1. 1. afterwards Peter; but at what time, that is, whether when he first came to Christ, John 1. 42. or when he was called to be an Apostle, Mark 3. 16. Luke 6. 14. or when he made that good confession, Mat. 16. 18. is not so easie to be determined.

to the strangers] Gr. to the elect strangers. Some understand hereby the Jews only, others both Jews and Gentiles scattered by persecution.

scattered] Gr. of the dispersion, James 1. 1.

V. 2. Elect] That is, sequestred and separated from the world. See John 15. 19. Rev. 17. 14. in which place, elect, called, and faithful, are put for the same; so that here we are to understand by [elect] those who were effectually called, or who had obeyed the Gospel.

fore-knowledge] Or, pre-ordination; or, fore-appointment; that is, as God had before decreed. See verse 20.

through] Here is set down the principal cause of their effectual calling, viz. the sanctification of the Spirit. See v. 22.

obedience] That is, that ye might obey the Gospel, and so be reconciled unto God, through the sprinkling of the bloud of Jesus Christ.

Sprinkling] Heb. 12. 24.

V. 3. Blessed] 2 Cor. 1. 3. Eph. 1. 3.

abundant] Gr. much.

begotten] That is, consirmed in us a living hope; or quickened or revived unto us a living hope, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ, because God raised him up, that we might believe and hope in God for our resurrection unto glory. See verse 21. Acts 13. 33, 38. Rom. 1. 4. and 10. 9. Christs resurrection being a pledge of ours: hence he is called the first-fruits of the dead, 1 Cor. 15. 23. and the first-born, from the dead, Col. 1. 15, 18. and Rev. 1. 5. Some understand it of Gods renewing us by Christs resurrection. See Rom. 6. 5, &c. lively hope] Or, living hope. That is, a constant, permanent, or an hope that shall not fail, as living waters, John 6. 51. or to an hope of life.

V. 4. To an inheritance] Rom. 8. 17. Gal. 3. 18. Col. 1. 12. Here is set down the object of that hope.

fadeth] Chap. 5. 4.

reserved in heaven for you] Or, for us, Col. 1. 5. 2 Tim. 1. 12.

V. 5. kept] Or, guarded.

power of God] John 10. 28, 29. 1 Cor. 1. 8.

faith] Because by faith we lay hold on the power of God, and in his power fight against all our spiritual adversaries. See Ephes. 6. 10.

last time] 1 John 2. 2. That is, at Christs appearance, verse 7.

V. 6. wherein] That is, in which hope of salvation. See Mat. 5. Luke 6. Rom. 12. 2 Cor. 6. Rom. 5. 2.

for a season] 2 Cor. 4. 17.

if need be] That is, if it be Gods will. See chap. 3. 17. or, if it shall be your good, 1 Cor. 11. 32.

heavines] Heb. 12. 11.

manifold temptations] See James 1. 2.

V. 7. the tryal] Job 23. 10. James 1. 3.

more precious] Chap. 4. 13. James 1. 12.

V. 8. not seen] John 20. 29. 1 John 4. 20.

in whom] Considering that great and plentiful redemption which he hath wrought for you.

full of glory] Or, glorious, either because this their rejoycing was a taste of their future glory, or because it made them glorious in the eyes of men. The Original word may be translated celebrated, or renowned, or spoken of to praise, or glorified, or commended, or honoured. See Luke 4. 15. John 13. 31.

V. 9. end] That is, reward. See Rom. 6. 21, 22. 2 Cor. 11. 15. Phil. 3. 19. James 5. 11.

salvation] S. Peter means hereby that salvation which is begun in this life, in the peace of a good conscience, and the joy of the holy Ghost, and which shall be perfected hereafter in heaven.

souls] By a chief part of man we are here to understand the whole man. See Gen. 12. 5. and 14. 21. and 17. 14. Luke 6. 9. Rom. 13. 1. for the body also shall be made partaker of salvation at the resurrection, Phil. 3. 20, 21.

V. 10. searched] Mat. 2. 8. and 10. 11.

prophesied] Acts 3. 18.

grace] So here the fulfilling of the promises of Christs coming in the flesh, & his preaching the acceptable year of the Lord, & his dying for our sins, and rising for our justification, or these things themselves, and the like exhibited, are styled in opposition to the types, figures and shadows of this grace, John 1. 17.

V. 11. of Christ] Gal. 4. 6. So the holy Ghost by which the Prophets spake, (2 Pet. 1. 21.) is called, because Christ sent the holy Ghost upon the Prophets, as he did upon the Apostles. See John 12. 15, 26.

in them] See Heb. 1. 1. testified] Luke 24. 25, &c. Acts 17. 2, 3. Rom. 1. 2, 3. and 16. 26. 1 Cor. 1. 2, 4.

V. 12. the things] That is, the coming of Christ, and those particulars mentioned, v. 10, 11. and not the fruits and effects of them; for the faithful before Christs coming were saved by the grace of Christ, even as we, Acts 15. 9.

with the holy Ghost] Acts 2. 4. That is, by the assistance of the holy Ghost.

which things] Eph. 3. 10. That is, which mysteries of the Gospel, revealed in the latter times.

look into] Narrowly, as they who bowing or stooping down, look upon a thing. See James 1. 25. Luke 24. 12. John 20. 11.

V. 13. Gird up the loins of your mind] Gr. having the loins of your mind girded. It is a metaphor taken from an ancient custom in the Eastern countries, where they were wont to wear long garments, which they girded to their loins, to make them expedite, nimble, and ready for travel, or some other service, 1 Kings 18. 46. 2 Kings 4. 29. and 9. 1. Luke 12. 37. Hence it is transfered here and in other places, as Job 38. 3. and 40. 7. Luke 12. 35. to the mind, to import its preparedness and readiness for Gods service.

be sober] Gr. being sober. Hereby Saint Peter directs us unto that wherein the preparation of the soul doth consist, or unto the means wherein it must be prepared for Gods service, and that is soberness; that is, a moderation not only in meats and drinks, but in all earthly things. See verse 4. and Luke 12. 35, &c. 1 Thes. 5. 8.

to the end] Gr. perfectly, Luke 21. 34. Tit. 2. 12. Hos. 12. 6. Heb. 6. 11.

grace] Some understand hereby that grace which is now revealed and offered unto us, by the preaching of the Gospel: as Ephes. 1. 6, 7. Tit. 2. 11. and these read the words following thus, viz. which is brought unto you by the revelation of Christ; that is, by his preaching of the Gospel unto you, or in, or at his appearing, or being manifested in the flesh. Others understand here by [grace] that salvation and gloy which shall be revealed at the second coming of Christ; as chap. 3. 7.

that is to be brought] Or, that is brought.

at the revelation] 2 Thes. 1. 10.

V. 14. obedient children] Gr. children of obedience.

not fashioning] Gr. not fashioned. Here S. Peter may seem to allude to those things which receive their figure, form, or shape from a mould, and is, as if he had said, Let not your lives and conversations be formed or moulded according to your former lusts; see Rom. 12. 2. The same is imported, when men are said to walk after their lusts, making their lusts their Captains, or Leaders. See Eph. 2. 3. and 4. 22. 2 Tim. 3. 6. Tit. 3. 3. 2 Pet. 3. 3. Jude 18.

former lusts] Eph. 4. 22.

ignorance] Eph 4. 18. Acts 17. 30. That is, before you were called to the knowledge of the truth.

V. 16. Be ye holy] Lev. 11. 44. and 19. 2. and 20. 7.

V. 17. who without] Deut. 10. 17. Rom. 2. 11.

according to] Ecc. 12. 14.

sojourning] The Original word signifieth a dwelling for a time in a place, which is not native unto us. See Exod. 6. 4. Acts 7. 6, 29. Heb. 11. 9. Hence when it is applyed to our living upon the face of the earth, thereby is implyed, that here we have no abiding City. See chap. 2. 11. Gen. 47. 9. Heb. 13. 14.

in fear] Chap. 2. 18. and 3. 2, 16. Eph. 6. 5. Psalm 2. 12. 2 Cor. 2. 3. and 7. 1, 15.

V. 18. vain conversation] So called, because it did proceed from the vanity of their minds, Eph. 6. 17. and because of the unprofitableness of it, Hab. 2. 13. Rom. 6. 21.

tradition] That is, either by their example or teaching. Some suppose that here the Apostle intends those idle and Pharisaical traditions which they had learned from their fathers.

fathers] Ezek. 20. 18.

V. 19. precious] 1 Cor. 6. 20.

bloud] Eph. 1. 7. 1 John 1. 7. Rev. 1. 5.

lamb] Herein Saint Peter relates unto the Paschal Lamb, and the Lamb for the daily sacrifice, both which were to be without blemish or spot. See Exod. 12. 5. Numb. 28. 3, 19. and both which were types of Christ, John 1. 29. 1 Cor. 5. 7.

without blemish] Heb. 6. 26.

V. 20. who verily] Rom. 16. 25. Coloss. 1. 26. 1 Tim. 3. 16. Tit. 1. 2.

fore-ordained] Gr. fore-known. See v. 2. Acts 10. 42. Ephes. 3. 11.

manifest] That is, in the flesh. See 1 Tim. 3. 16. 1 John 3. 8.

last times] See Gen. 49. 1.

V. 21. by him] For we can have no confidence in God, as reconciled unto us, but through Christ. See John 14. 6. Acts 10. 36. Eph. 2. 14, 15. and 3. 12. Col. 1. 20.

raised] Eph 1. 20.

unfeigned] 2 Cor.6.6. 1 Tim.1.5. 1 Cor. 6.11.

love] Rom.12.10. chap.2.17.

fervently] Gr. extensively. That is, with a stretched-out love, or extended love.

V. 23. corruptible] As they are who are born after the common course of nature.

by the word] Jam.1.18. It is usual in the Scripture, John 1.13. and 3.3. to compare the Word of God to seed. See Luke 8.5.

which liveth] Psalm 119.89.

V. 24. For] Or, for that.

all flesh is as grass] Isa. 40. 6. and 54.10. 2 Cor. 5. 21. James 1.10.

CHAP. II.

Verse 1. WHerefore laying] See Jam.1.21. Heb. 12.1. Eph.4.22, 25. Col.3.8.

all malice] 2 Cor.7.11 Theff.5.23.

V. 2. desire] Or, earnestly desire, Psalm 119.20,81,82.

sincere] That is, uncorrupted, unfalsified: whereby is meant the purity of Gods Word, it is without falshood; see Psalm 14. 8. and herein it is compared to milk, which of it self is uncompounded.

milk] What is here meant by milk, is expressed, chap. 1. 25. viz. the Gospel, or the Word of God revealed in the Gospel; compared to milk; first, because of the sweetness of it, Isa.25.6. Psalm 119.10. and 119.103. Prov. 24.13, 14. Secondly, because of the purity thereof. See the note before. Thirdly, because of the nourishing property thereof; so especially here. See Eph.4.11, &c. 2 Tim.3. 16, 17.

of the Word] The Syriack translation renders it [spiritual] and not without good probability, it being here opposed or compared to that bodily milk which new-born babes earnestly desire, and because it is the food of the soul, which is a spirit. Heb. 12.9. and so the Original word may be taken, Rom.12.1.

V. 3. If so be] As you profess and perswade your self.

tasted] That is, have had any experimental knowledge of the goodness and mercy of God in Christ; by our taste we make experience what is sweet, and what is sowre, or bitter. It may seem that S. Peter relates to Psalm 34.9. It is conceived by some, that hereby the Apostle followeth the former similitude, because children do by their tastes easily discern their nurses milk.

Lord] Christ Jesus.

gracious] Understand it of that grace which is manifested and offered in the Gospel. See Eph.6.9,27. Tit.3.4. Heb.6.5.

V. 4. coming] That is, by faith. See John 6.35. and 5.40.43,44. Heb.10.22.

living stone] When Christ in the Scriptures is compared to a stone, it is either to the foundation-stone, to shew that the whole Church is built upon him. See 1 Cor.3.11. or else unto the cheef corner-stone, to shew that the whole Church, or all the faithfull are coupled and united together in him. See Eph. 2. 13,14, 20. and 4.16. Col.1.19. He is further called, a living stone, because he giveth life unto all those who by faith are united unto him, John 5.26.

disallowed indeed of men] Luke 2.24.

chosen] See chap.1.20.

V. 5. lively stones] That is, as having received life from him. See verse 4.

are built] Or, be ye built. Or, build up your selves: that is, more and more. Verbs passive, both in the Hebrew and the Greek, have sometimes a reciprocal signification. See chap. 1. 14. 2 Sam. 20.10. Mal.2.15. Gen.46.29.

spiritual] Usually in the Scriptures the Church of God is compared unto an house, and that both the Church Militant, Psalm 27.4. and 69.10. and 84.1. Isa.56.6,7. Eph.2.19,22. 1 Tim. 3.15. Heb. 3.6. and 10.21. as also the Triumphant, John 14.2. 2 Cor.5.1,2. And the reason may be, because God dwelleth in the Church, by his grace and glory. It is further compared unto a spiritual house, either in opposition to our material houses, or else because it is built up by the Spirit of God. See chap.3.22.

holy priesthood] So all the faithful are styled, because (as the Priests under the Law) so these are separated from the world to the service of God, as the words following import. See chap. 1. 22. Isa.61.1.

spiritual] That is, your selves, and all that spiritual service which ye perform unto God. See Psalm 4.6. and 50.14. and 51. 19. and 107.22. and 141.2. Isa.56.7. Hos.14.3. Rom.12,1. Phil.2. 17. Heb.13.15.

By Jesus Christ] See Heb.13.10,15,16.

V. 6. Scripture] That is, partly, Isa. 8.14. and 28. 16. and partly, Psalm 118. out of which places the Apostle alleageth these words, keeping faithfully the sense, though not the very words.

Behold] Isa.28.16. Rom 9.33.

confounded] See Rom.9.33.

V. 7. precious] Or, an honour.

disobedient] That is, unto the Gospel.

the stone which the builders disallowed] Psalm 118. 22. Mat.21. 42. Acts 4.11.

V. 8. And a stone of stumbling] Isa.8.14. Rom.9.33.

a stone] A metaphor taken either from those, who, making haste, stumble at a stone in their way, and so hurt themselves; or from mariners who split their ships upon rocks. See 1 Cor.1.23. So that by stumbling, here, the cause being put for the effect, we are to understand that judgement which unbeleevers incurre, through their infidelity.

at the word, being disobedient] Or, being disobedient unto the word.

disobedient] That is, because they are disobedient unto the Gospel. Participles oftentimes imply the cause of that which went before. See Heb.11.31.

whereunto] This clause hath reference, not to disobedient; for God ordains no man thereunto, Psalm 5 5. James 1. 13. but unto stumbling: whereby is signified, that hurt and condemnation which unbeleevers receive from the word through their infidelity: thereby it becomes the savour of death unto death unto them, 2 Cor. 2. 16. See before. Hence the sense of this clause is this, viz. whereunto; that is, unto which hurt or condemnation, expressed by stumbling. They; that is, those unbeleevers were appointed or ordained by God, through his judgement, for their infidelity. Some by stumbling, understand disobeying, or, unbeleeving: and these make this the meaning of the words, viz. Into which disobedience or unbeleef God suffered them to fall, through his just judgement, for their former sins. Others refer this clause to word, and make this the Apostles meaning, viz. Unto the obeying or beleeving of which word they were called of God.

V. 9. chosen] That is, whom God hath effectually called out of the world. See chap.1.2. Deut.7.7.

royal] That is, Kings and Priests. See Exod.19.6. Rev. 1.6. and 5.10. Kings, because of that power which they have, through Christ, over their lusts. See Phil.4.13. Priests, because separated to the service of God. See 5.5.

holy nation] See Exod. 19.6. and Deut.7.6, &c.

a peculiar people] Or, a purchased people.

peculiar] Or, a people for possession: that is, a people whom God hath purchased to be his own. See Exod. 19. 5. Deut.4.20. and 7.6 and 26.18. Psalm 135.4. Tit.2.14. Acts 20.28. Eph.1.14.1 Thes. 5.9.

praises] Or, virtues. That is, that we might glorifie God in our conversations, thereby shewing forth the abundant mercy and great power of God in calling us, Isa. 8.13.

called you out of darkness] Col.1.13.

darkness] That is, ignorance, chap. 1. 14. whereby is meant our sinful and miserable estate by nature, under which men are kept, through the ignorance of the Gospel, Ephes. 4.18. and 5.8. Col. 1.13.

his marvellous] Hereby is meant our estate of grace, through the effectual calling of God, by the knowledge of the truth. See 2 Cor. 4.6. Acts 13.47. and 26.18. Eph.1. 18. and 5. 8. called marvellous, because of the great mystery of godliness, which is revealed in the Gospel: and called his, because God revealeth it. See the places before.

V. 10. Hence it is gathered by some, that this Epistle was not written to the Jews only, but also to the Gentiles; because that of Hosea 2.23. is to be understood of the calling of the Gentiles, Rom. 9.25.

V. 11. strangers] 1 Chron.29.15. Here is a reason given why we ought to live holily, viz. because in this world we are strangers and pilgrims, and therefore we ought not to live according to the laws and lusts of the world, which is most corrupt.

pilgrims] See chap.1.17.

abstain from fleshly lusts] Rom.13.14. Gal.5.16. Col.1.5.1 Thes. 2.5.

fleshly] Flesh is often taken for corrupt nature, as Rom.7.25. and 8,1,5,9,13. Gal.5.19,24. Hence those lusts are called fleshly lusts, or the lusts of the flesh, which proceed from corrupt nature, Gal.5. 1. Rom.13.14. Eph.2.3. 2 Pet.2.18. Sometimes the lusts of the flesh are taken for those lusts which are against the seventh commandment, as 1 John 2.16.

war] Rom.7.23. Gal.5.17. James 4.1.

they may by your good works] Mat.5.16.

visitation] When God in mercy shall call them to the fellowship of the Gospel, Psalm 106.4. Luke 19.44.

V. 13. Gr. Therefore] Hereby two things are implyed: 1. That disobedience to the civil Magistrate proceeds from fleshly lusts. See James 4.1. 2. That disobedience unto the civil magistrate opens the mouth of unbeleevers against the professors of the Gospel. See v.11.

Submit your selves] Rom. 13. 1. Tit. 3. 1.

ordinance of man] By ordinance, is meant, the framing and ordering of civil government: called the ordinance of man, not because it is invented by, or hath its original from men (for all power is from God, Rom.13.1,2. though sometimes he useth men as means to give power or government to such or such a person or persons, that so they might be the more willing to yeeld obedience) but because it is proper to men, or because it is discharged by men.

for the Lords sake] That is, out of obedience and conscience unto God, who hath ordained the Civil Magistracy, and also hath commanded obedience unto it, verse 14. Rom.13.1,2,&c.

supreme] That is, under God. There is therefore no other supreame on earth above the King, in his dominions.

V. 14. for the punishment of evil doers] Rom. 13. 3.

V. 15. silence] Gr. stop, or bind up the mouth of, &c. See Matth. 22.12,34. 1 Cor.9.9.

men] Who are ready, out of their ignorance and folly, to charge the Gospel, and to blaspheme it, as if it countenanced those sins which the professours thereof practise.

V. 16, free] 1 Cor.7. 22. Here the Apostle leaves to prevent a secret objection. Some might reply: We are free, and therefore owe no obedience to any above us. The Apostle granteth the antecedent, understanding it of their freedom from the burthen and curse of the Law, and from the bondage of sin and Satan; but withal he admonisheth them, not to withdraw, under the pretext of this their freedom, their obedience due unto the Magistrate.

using] Gr. having.

V. 17. Honour] Or, Esteem, Rom.12.10. Phil.2 3.

all men] According to every mans state and calling.

brotherhood] Those who are brethren in Christ.

V. 18. Servants, be subject to your masters] Eph.6. 5. Col. 3. 22. Tit.2.9.

all fear] Not onely of punishment, but also of offending God.

good] Who gently and kindly bear with you in your religious profession and practices. The Apostle seems here to speak of such servants who lived under unbeleeving masters, as it may be gathered from the next verse.

froward] Gr. crooked; that is, who use you frowardly, hardly and scornfully, because of your Christian profession.

V. 19. thank-worthy] Or, thank.

for conscience] Gr. of God; that is, because of that religion which you profess, and those religious duties which you perform, out of obedience or conscience unto God.

V. 20. glory] Luke 6.33.

acceptable] Or, thank.

V. 21. called] 2 Tim.3.13. Acts 14.22. As disciples of Christ to bear his cross. See Matth.10.38. and 16.24.

for us] Some read, for you. Heb. 2. 9. Rom. 5. 6, 8. 2 Cor. 5.14.

example] John 13.15. It is a borrowed kind of speech, taken from painters or school-masters.

V. 22. who did no sin] Isa.53.9.

V. 23. committed himself] Or, committed his cause. That is, gave up or delivered over his will unto his Father, in his suffering, Matth.26.39. Or, he committed the revenge of his innocency unto God, giving us an example hereby not to revenge our own cause, though never so innocent.

V. 24. bare our sins] Isa.53.4,5,6. Or, bare up the sins, Heb. 9. 28. That is, the punishment of our sins: see Lev. 5.1. and 10, 17. Gal.5.10.

on] Or, to.

V. 25. For] Here he calleth servants back from the consideration of those injuries which they suffered for Christ, unto those benefits which they received by him, that so he might work them unto patience.

Verse 1. YE wives] Genesis 3.16. Ephes. 5.22. Coloss.3.18. Tit. 2.5.

be in subjection] Or, subject your selves: See chap.2.13.

husbands] He speaks of unbeleeving husbands; unto whom beleeving wives should be the more subject, that so, by their honest and chast conversation, they might gain them unto the Lord; that is, be an occasion of gaining them. See Matth. 18. 15.

1 Cor.9.19. For such husbands seeing the good conversation of their wives, may be brought to have a liking and good opinion of the Gospel, and so to have a desire to it, and by the grace of God, to frame their life unto it.

be won] 1 Cor.7.16.

V. 2. fear] Both of offending their husbands, and of offending God.

V. 3. whose adorning] 1 Tim.2.9. Isa.3.16.

adorning] The Apostle doth not here absolutely forbid women to adorn themselves; see Gen.29.30. so is he without excess and pride, and according to their places: but comparatively, that is, that they make not that outward adorning their chief ornament.

V. 4. hidden] This is opposed to the outward decking of the body, hereby is meant the new man, which according to God is created in righteousness and true holiness, Ephes. 4.24. See Rom.2.29, and 7. 22. 2 Cor.4.16.

in that] That is, which hidden man of the heart is manifested by a meek and quiet spirit, without hypocrisie.

the ornament of a meek, and quiet Spirit] Gr. in the gravity of a meek and quiet, &c. See Eph.6.24. Tit.2.7.

V. 5. being in subjection] See verse 1. daughters] Gr. children.

whose] Because women are by nature fearful, he giveth them to understand, that he requireth of them that subjection which is not wrung out of them by force and fear. Or, and are not afraid with any amazement arising out of an accusing conscience of doing evil.

V. 7. husbands] Col. 3.19. Here the Apostle turns himself to beleeving husbands, shewing them how they should behave themselves to their beleeving wives.

dwelling] That is, carry your selves wisely and discreetly towards them.

giving honour] That is, giving them due respect, taking care and providing for them, and bearing with them in their weaknesses.

weaker] It is usual in the Scripture to compare man in general unto a vessel; see 2 Sam. 21. 1 Thes. 4. 4, 5. 2 Cor. 4. 7. Hence the woman is here called weaker vessel, because generally she is weaker both in the faculties of her soul, and the constitution of her body. And in that she is called the weaker vessel, thereby is implyed the reason wherefore husbands must so carry themselves as before, viz. because women are the weaker vessels. Weaker vessels as those of glass and earth, we use carefully and tenderly; and so husbands should carry themselves towards their wives.

V. 13. And who] Hereby is implyed, that the honest conversation of the faithfull, doth oftentimes prevail with, and mollifie the hearts of their adversaries.

V. 14. But and if ye suffer for righteousness sake] Matth. 5.10.

See Isa.7.4. Matth. 2. 3. John 14.1. and 16.1.

V. 15. sanctifie] That is, glorifie God by your patient, fearing, and faithful trusting in him. Or, bleis God in your hearts, for that he hath accounted you worthy to suffer for righteousnes sake, see Acts 5.41. 2 Cor.3.11. Phil.1.29. Col.1.24.

V. 21. The like] That is, answerable to which salvation by water, not] There is no reason for this parenthesis.

answer] Herein Saint Peter may seem to have respect unto that rite or ceremony, which was used in the baptism of those who were of age. The person baptizing, asked the person to be baptized, Whether he beleeved; and he answered, I beleeve, &c. Hence, by the answer of a good conscience, we may understand that unfeigned faith whereof they made confession at their baptism, and whereby their consciences were purified, and whereby they received the remission of their sins, testified by Christs resurrection from the dead. Some understand, by the answer, &c. that covenant whereinto they entred at their baptism, the embracing whereof they testified by their unfeigned confession of their faith.

CHAP. IV.

Verse 1. FOR] The Scope of Saint Peter here, is to perswade them to assistance from the lusts of the world, from their communion and fellowship in the death of Christ, whereby they were dead unto sin, and therefore they ought not any longer to live therein. ANNOT.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE SECOND EPISTLE OF S. PETER.

The Argument.

It seems, that after the writing of the former Epistle, wherein the Apostle had laid down the true Doctrine of Salvation by Christ alone, and some Rules for good life, becoming such as should be saved by him; there arose certain men, who were remisse in their lives; others who were forgetful of Gods Truth, laid down in the Scriptures; as also, false Teachers, who bring loosely themselves, misled and corrupted others and scoffers at the coming of Christ to judgement. The Apostle therefore after his salutation, chapter 1.1, 2. and mention of the riches of Gods Mercy to true Christians, verse 3, 4. Perswades to good works, from verse 5. to verse 12. from thence, to the end of the first Chapter: He being very old, and neer unto death, verse 14. before his departure, minds them of Truths forgotten by many of them. In the second, he arms them against false Teachers, and deters them from Apostacy. In the ten first verses of the third chapter, he confutes such as scoffe at the coming of our Saviour, and the end of the world: From thence to the 17. verse, he stirs them up to prepare for that day, and to fit themselves for that glorious eternal habitation that is prepared for them. In the two last verses, he exhorts them to take heed of being misled, and to increase in Grace, and in the knowledge of Christ; which the Lord give us grace also to do, through Jesus Christ our only Lord and Saviour. Amen.

CHAP. I.

Verse 1. Simon] Gr. Symeon, as it is translated, Acts 15. 14. The name of one of Jacobs sons, Gen. 29. 33. and of another godly man, Luke 2. 25. He is called Simon also, Matth. 10. 2. John 21. 16. as we commonly call him. It seems that this was the name that was given him by his parents, at his circumcision.

Peter] A firname given him by Christ, John 1.42. It may be to distinguish him from Simon the Canaanite, who was also an Apostle, Matth. 10. 2, 4. It was renewed, upon his confession, Matth. 16. 16, 17, 18. The former name Simon, comes from a word that signifies hearing. This later name Peter signifies a stone. The name imports, an hearer, and firm observer of Gods Word; and such an one indeed this Apostle was, Matth. 7. 24. It is observed by the Learned, that Πέτρος signifies a rock, and Πέτρα a stone. This suits well with Matth. 16. 18. where Christ is the rock, and Peter a stone built on that rock. I finde none else of this name in the Old or New Testament.

A servant] See on Rev. 1. 1. A name of humility; what a servant he was, appears in the following words, Not an ordinary Christian, but an Apostle.

an Apostle] One called by Christ immediately, Matth. 10. 2. and sent to preach the Gospel in any part of the world, Matth. 28. 19. and having authority over all Churches, 1 Cor. 9. 1. compared with 2 Cor. 11. 28. A name of great dignity, besides the former priviledges carrying with it an infallible Spirit in doctrine. His vocation to his Discipleship, see Matth. 4. 19. to his Apostleship, Matth. 10. 2. His restitution after his denying his master, John 21. 15.

of Jesus Christ] See on Matth. 1. 1. Rev. 1. 1. Jesus signifies a Saviour. It was the name of Joshuah, who led Gods people into Canaan, a type of this Jesus, who leads his people into Heaven. Christ signifies anointed; I find none else of this name in all the book of God.

to them] To whom this Epistle was written. See on chapter 3 verse 1.

that have obtained] The Greek word, in the primitive signification of it, signifieth getting a thing by lot, as inheritances were sometimes divided, Josh. 14. 2. yet it is used for obtaining a thing any other way.

like] In substance, not equal in degree; for faith might be stronger in the Apostle, than it was in them to whom he writ, Rom. 1.12. 2 Cor. 4.13. Tit. 1.4.

precious faith] 1 Pet. 1.7. It is called so, in regard of the precious promises it layes hold upon, verse 4. which belong alike to all beleevers.

with us] Apostles, as 1 Joh. 1. 3, and other Christians, Jude v. 3. 2 Cor. 1. 21. Or, with me, See on 1 Joh. 1, 1, 3.

through the righteousness] By the merits of Christ, who hath deserved for us both grace and glory. Gr. in the righteousness. Our faith rests on Christs merits. Or, by Gods mercy and bounty. So the word is used, 2 Cor. 9.9. Faith then comes not by any desert of ours, but from Christs merits, or Gods mercy, or by Gods faithfulness in keeping his promises, Psal. 89. 33. Luke 1.8. 8. 1 Joh. 1. 9.

of God and our Saviour Jesus Christ] Gr. of our God and Saviour Jesus Christ. See on Jude v. 25.

V. 2. Grace and Peace be multiplied unto you] See on 1 Pet. 1. 2. Rev. 1. 9. Jude v. 2.

through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus] That is, through faith in God, and Christ made known to us, Isa. 53. 12. See on ver. 1. The Greek word Ἐπίγνωσις signifies; First, knowledge of a thing, Col. 1. 9. Secondly, increase in the knowledge of somewhat known before, Eph. 1. 17. Thirdly, acknowledgement of what we know, Luke 1. 4. Here it is taken in the first sense for knowledge.

our Lord] 1 Cor. 8. 6.

V. 3. According as his divine power] It may be referred to that that went before. Let grace and peace be multiplied to you, according to the riches of his provisions for us. Or to the words following; As God hath given us all things, &c. so Adde to your faith, virtue, &c. ver. 5. So Paul begins, after salutation, 1 Tim. 1. 3. Or, O how hath his divine power, &c. Rom. 11. 33.

His divine power. This is that, which worketh faith in Gods elect, Eph. 1.19, 20.

hath given unto us] To us Christians, to enjoy: or, to us Apostles, to preach to you, that ye may be partakers of the Divine nature, verse 4. The Greek word δεδωρημένης, though passive is used here actively; as Ἐπαγγελίας, Heb. 12. 26. and Ἡγιασμένοις, 2 Tim. 4. 7.

all things that pertain unto life and godliness] All things needful to preserve our natural or spiritual life here. Or, all things requisite to bring us to heaven hereafter, and to enable us to live godlily here.

through the knowledge of him] See on verse 2.

that hath called us] God, 1 Pet. 1. 15. Or, Christ, Rom. 1. 6.

to glory and virtue] To glory in heaven, and virtue on earth; to glory and virtue; that is, by a glorious and powerful Gospel. So δόξα is used, Rom. 6. 4. Or, employing his glorious power to convert us, Eph. 1. 19. and 3. 6.

V. 4. Whereby] By which glory and power appearing in the preaching of the Gospel. Or, Because that. Seeing God hath made such glorious promises to us, he hath given us all things needful for grace and glory.

are given] Or, he hath given, as verse 3.

unto us] See on verse 3.

exceeding great and precious promises] Promises of very great matters, and things of high price and account.

that by these] By these promises: or, by these things given us, verse 3.

you might be partakers of the divine nature] Not of Gods substance, which is incommunicable; but have excellent graces given us, whereby we are made like to God in wisdom and holiness, wherein the image of God, after which man was at first created, consists, 1 Ph. 4.24. Col. 3.10.

having escaped] Gr. having fled from. It shews the nature of our calling, ever sin, which consists in fleeing from it, ch. 2. 18,20. 1 Cor. 6. 18.

the corruption] Of sinne: or of destruction, as chapter 2. 12, 19. Some understand by corruption, original sin: but it is better to understand destruction, that so corruption may be opposed to lue and glory; and lust to godliness and virtue, ver. 3.

in the world through lust] In worldly men, by reason of wicked desires reigning in them, 1 John 2. 15, 16.

In the world] The Greek word κόσμος, signifies, First, the whole world, with all the creatures in it, John 1. 10. Secondly, the earth, the lower part of the world, John 16. 28. Thirdly, the riches and honour of the world, Gal. 6. 14. Fourthly, the men of the world, Rom. 5. 12. Fifthly, a multitude, John 12. 19. Sixthly, the Gentiles in opposition to the Jews, Rom. 11. 12. Seventhly, the unregenerate men of the world, John 15. 18, 19. Eighthly, the reprobates of the world, John 14. 17. Ninthly, the elect, 2 Cor. 5. 19. Tenthly, all sorts of persons, John 18.20. Eleventhly, a worldly estate or condition, 1 Cor. 7. 34. Here it is taken for the men of the world, in the fourth sense. Through lust] The Greek Ἐπιθυμία comes from θύειν, to burn, and notes out a vehement, earnest, and continued desire, which never leaves working, till it be accomplished in action.

V. 5. And besides this] It is not enough to flee corrupt lusts, but we must also get store of virtue. Or, And for this very thing also. Gods grace is so us, should make us strive to encrease his graces in us. Or, So do this very thing also. So the first particle is translated, Joh. 6.57. As God hath given you great benefits, verse 3. so do ye seek to adde grace to grace. Or, Then, or, Therefore do ye also this very thing. So the first particle is translated, 1 Cor. 1. 13. And if the beginning of the third verse be read by way of exclamation, it answers well to it.

giving] Gr. bringing in besides. As not having done enough in avoiding lusts, unless ye be pious. Besides your first receiving of graces mentioned, v. 3, 4. use all good endeavours to encrease these following ones.

all diligence] The greatest diligence that ye can possibly. The word comes from another word in the original, that signifies to make haste, as diligent men use to do, who omit no occasions to accomplish their just ends.

adde to your faith] To your confidence in Christ, whereby ye are justified before God. Gr. In your faith: But Ἐν is translated To, 1 Cor. 7. 15. Πίστις signifies; First, Fidelity, Rom. 3. 3. Secondly, external profession, Acts 14. 22. Thirdly, the doctrine of faith, Acts 6. 7. Fourthly, faith of miracles, Luke 17.6. Fifthly, historical faith, James 2.14. Sixthly, temporary faith, 2 Tim. 2. 18. Seventhly, justifying and saving faith, Rom. 3. 28. so here.

virtue] Moral virtues, which may make you acceptable in the sight both of God and of men, Phil. 4. 8. 1 Pet. 3. 4. Peradventure by virtue may be meant courage, which is distinct from temperance, and patience, after mentioned.

knowledge] Get more knowledge of Christ daily, Phil. 3. 8, 10.

V. 6. temperance] Power in your selves to moderate your affection toward outward things, as the word imports.

patience] Abiding under troubles with quietness, as the derivation of the word implyes.

godliness] Well worshipping of God, to wit, according to his Will.

V. 7. brotherly kindness] Love to the Saints, Heb. 13. 1. which are our brethren in Christ, Matth. 23. 8.

charity] Whereby we are to love, not our brethren only, but others also, Gal. 6. 10. 1 Thess. 3. 12. and 5. 15.

V. 8. be in you, and abound] Be plentifully in you, Col. 3. 16.

they make you, that ye shall neither, &c.] Ye shall not only not be negligent and unfruitful, but also be painful in good works, and see fruit of your faith, verse 5.

be barren] Gr. be idle. They are idle, not only who do nothing, but also who use not the gifts they have to their best improvement and advantage.

unfruitful] As fruits are pleasing to us, so are good works to God; and are therefore called fruits, Matth. 12. 33. Gal. 5. 22. 2 Thes. 1. 4. Col. 3. 20. Heb. 13. 16.

in the knowledge] In exercising your knowledge. That you know of Christ, will make you fruitful in good works.

of our Lord Jesus Christ] See on verse 2.

V. 9. Is blind, and cannot see far off] Or, is blind, or cannot see far off. If he be not stark blind in these spiritual things, he is so weak sighted that he cannot clearly discern such high mysteries. The Greek word Μυωπάζων signifies properly one purblind. Such can see things neer at hand, but not far off. Here it is transferred to the soul; he sees earthly things nigh at hand, and not heavenly things, which are more remote.

that he was purged from his old sins] That he made a profession in baptism, that his former sins were purged away by the blood of Christ. Ἀποκάθαρσις signifies, First, sin in general, Heb. 1. 3. Secondly, a sacrifice for sin, 2 Cor. 5. 21. Thirdly, original sin, Rom. 7. 17. Fourthly, actual sin, James 1. 15. Fifthly, the punishment due to sin, 1 Pet. 1. 24. Sixthly, both guilt and punishment, Matth. 9. 2. Seventhly, false doctrine, John 8. 46. Eighthly, Infidelity, John 16. 9. Here it is taken in the first sense, for sinful courses in general, Not that he was so really purged, but by profession only.

V. 10. wherefore the rather] Because of the dangers mentioned, ver. 9., Or, wherefore the more. Be the more careful to do it.

brethren] By regeneration and adoption, and union with Christ by faith, we are made the children of God, and brethren spiritually, Phil. 4. 1. Ἀδελφός signifies; First, a natural brother, Matth. 4. 18. Secondly, a kinsman, Matth. 12. 46. Thirdly, a neighbour, Mat. 7. 3, 4. Fourthly, a Christian, Mat. 12. 50. Fifthly, one of the same religion, Acts 22. 5. Here it is used in the fourth sense for fellow-Christians.

give diligence] See on verse 5.

to make your calling and election sure] Gr. firm, or stable. To get good grounds to assure you that ye were elected before the world, and are called out of the world. For it is sure enough in it self, by Gods decree and immutability, 2 Tim. 2. 19. Mal. 3. 6. John 6. 40. and 13. 1. Rom. 11. 29.

for if ye do these things] Continuance then in well doing, is the way to get and keep assurance of salvation.

ye shall never fall] Jude verse 4. Our life is likened to a race, 1 Cor. 9. 24. we must take heed lest we fall, and come short of the prize before us. The children of God may fall into some sins by weakness; but never so as to lose the goal, verse 11. Psalm 15. 5. Rom. 11. 11. Or, ye shall never stumble. While ye are careful so to do, as before, ye shall go on smoothly towards heaven, without falling into any sin. For Gods servants sin, most commonly for want of heeding their way, 1 John 2. 10.

V. 11. an entrance] A large passage into the Kingdom of glory in the life to come.

abundantly] John 10. 10. If ye be full of good works, ye shall have abundant reward, 1 Cor. 9. 9. and 15. 58. 2 John verse 8.

V. 12. wherefore I will not be negligent] Because an holy life here, gives an assurance of so great glory hereafter, I will not cease to mind you of it.

of these things] To encrease your former graces, v. 5.

though ye know them] Rom. 15. 15. 1 John 2. 21. For we oft forget, through multitude of worldly businesses, what we know of holy and heavenly things.

in the present truth] Now more fully taught, than under the Old Testament, and generally believed by Christians. Ἀλήθεια signifies; First, verity, or truth in speech, Eph. 4. 25. Secondly, sincerity of affection, 2 Epistle of John 1. Thirdly, integrity of estate, John 8. 44. Fourthly, righteousness, 1 Cor. 13. 6. Fifthly, the doctrine of salvation, 1 Tim. 3. 15. Sixthly, the knowledge of God, Rom. 1. 18. Seventhly, the fulfilling of Legal ceremonies, John 1. 17. Eighthly, Gods constancy in keeping his promises, Rom. 3. 7. Here it is taken in the fifth sense for the doctrine of salvation.

V. 13. I think it meet] In regard of their natural sluggishness. Or, I think it a just thing. For he was an Apostle, and it was his duty to do it, 1 Cor. 9. 16.

in this tabernacle] Our bodies are like tents set up for our souls to converse in for a time, and easily pulled down, 2 Cor. 5. 1.

to stir you up] For we are very drowzy in spiritual things, as the best, and had need to be roused up, 2 Tim. 1. 6. ch. 4. 1. there.

V. 14. knowing] Very probably, by divine revelation, as it is likely Paul did also, 2 Tim. 4. 6.

that shortly I must put off] It seems he was old then, when he wrote this Epistle: for old-age was promised to him, John 21. 18.

as our Lord Jesus Christ hath shewed me] As is from God now revealed to me: or, in that manner as he sometimes foretold me, Joh. 21. 18, 19.

V. 15. after my decease] Gr. going out, To wit, out of this world by death; as Luke 9. 31. Or, out of this Tabernacle, v. 13, 14.

to have these things always in remembrance] Or, to have whereby ye may always remember these things. As I will always call upon you, while I live, (as verse 12, 13.) so I will leave you this Epistle, as upon record, that may ever put you in mind of these things, when I am dead.

V. 16. For we have not followed] Because I have taught Gods truth, therefore I would have it remembred after my death: wherein I had delivered fables, growing now towards my death, I should rather repent of it, and be willing to have them forgotten, and buried with me.

cunningly devised fables] Woven together so artificially, that they seem to be true, although indeed they be most false. Store of might seem to be true, although indeed they be most false. Store of such had the Jews, and Heathen Poets in those days, and the Mahometans and Papists have in these times.

power and coming] Powerful coming in the flesh, which our Saviour Christ shewed in effectual perswading many to beleeve what he taught, and confirming it by miracles, Matth. 7. 28, 29. and 8. 7, 8. Luke 24. 19, 32. Rom 1. 4.

eye-witnesses] Mat. 17. 1, 2. John 1. 14. 1 John 1. 1. Luke 1. 2.

of his Majesty] Heb. 1. 3. Of his glorious appearance, Mat. 17. 2.

V. 17. From God] Θεὸς signifies; First, Essentially, the true God, John 4. 24. Secondly, Personally, God the Father, John 3. 16. The Son, Acts 20. 28. The Spirit, Acts 5. 3, 4. Thirdly, Rulers and Magistrates, or men of eminency, John 10. 34, 35. Fourthly, Idols, 1 Cor. 8. 4, 5. Fifthly, the Devil, 2 Cor. 4. 4. Sixthly, any thing set up as God, to be adored, or followed above all, Phil. 3. 19. Here it is taken in the second sense, and for God the Father. The Father, Hebrew, whence comes the Latine word Pater, and our English word Father. It signifies; First, a natural Father, Ephes. 6. 4. Secondly, a father by age, 1 Tim. 5. 1. Thirdly, God is called our Father, Mat. 6. 9. Fourthly, God the Father is so called, Mat. 28. 19. Fifthly, such as convert others, are called Fathers, 1 Cor. 4. 15. Here it is taken in the fourth sense for the first Person in the Trinity.

honour and glory] Heb. 2. 7, 9. God attired him like his Son, and owned him for his Son, Mat. 17. 2, 5.

from the excellent glory] Exceeding great glory, such as became (God) the speaker, as the Greek word imports.

This is my beloved Son] Mat. 17. 5. and 3. 17.

V. 18. we heard] 1 Peter, and James, and John, Mat. 17. 1. Or the singular for the plural: we, that is, 1: see 1 John 1. 1, 3, 4. Ἀκούω signifies; First, to hear, Mat. 2. 18. Secondly, to obey, John 8. 47. Thirdly, to understand, Mat. 15. 15. Fourthly, to hear profitably, James 1. 19. here in the first sense.

when we were with him] Not far off from him; for then we might have been more easily deceived; but in his company.

in the holy mount] The mount whereon he was transfigured; which what mount it was, is uncertain. It is called holy, because God appeared there; as the ground where God appeared to Moses is called holy, Exod. 3. 5. Some take it to be Mount Tabor.

V. 19. We have also] Left any should not beleeve Peter, but think the former apparition mentioned by him to be a fiction of his, he cites the Prophets, as acknowledgers of Christs glory, and the foretellers of his coming, 1 Pet. 1. 10, 11.

a more sure word] That is, a most sure, or a very sure word. A comparative, for a superlative; as Acts 25. 10. 1 Cor. 13. 13. for the former vision being from God also, as the prophecies were, was in it self as sure as they. Or, more sure than those cunning fables, which many follow, verse 16. Or, more firm, as it is in the Greek. The prophecies were, by long use, more setled in the hearts of the godly Jews, who beleeved all the Prophets spake, to come from God, John 5. 45. and 9. 29. Luke 24. 27. Acts 26. 22, 23. and therefore might sooner perswade them, than the report of a voyce from heaven, although that were sure also. Pauls doctrine was examined by the Prophets, Acts 17. 11. And to the Jews the Apostle wit this Epistle. See on chap. 3. 1. The word Λόγος signifies; First, Christ himself, Joh. 1. 1. Secondly, Doctrine, or Preaching, Acts 20. 7. Thirdly, a sentence, 1 Cor. 14. 19. Fourthly, a command, 2 Pet. 3. 5. Fifthly, a thing, Luke 20. 3. Sixthly, a word, Mat. 15. 23. Seventhly, an account or reason, Luke 16. 2. Eighthly, a reproach, fil speech, Luke 13. 10. Ninthly, a book or treatise, Acts 1. 1. Tenthly, utterance, Eph. 6. 19. here it is taken in the third sense for a sentence.

of prophecy] Psalm 2. 7. and 110. 1.

That ye take heed] The word Προσέχω signifies; First, to take heed to a thing that is good, or attend to it, Acts 8. 6. Secondly, to take heed of a thing that is evil, Mat. 7. 15. that is, to beware of it, here in the first sense.

As unto a light] From the Greek word Λύχνος comes our English Lynck.

In a dark place] In your understanding, or in the Church, till the Scriptures of the New Testament be written, which expound the Old, and give greater light.

until the day dawn] The times of the Law were like the night, wherein candles were lighted; the time of the Gospel like daylight, wherein the Sun shines. Or, by the light in a dark place, may be meant the revelation of Gods truth here; and by the day, the vision of Christ in heaven. Ἡμέρα signifies; First, an artificial day, John 11. 9. Secondly, time in general, Mat. 3. 1. Thirdly, the time of grace under the Gospel, Rom. 13. 12. Fourthly, judgment, 1 Cor. 4. 3. Fifthly, a season or opportunity, John 9. 4. here it is used in the third sense.

the day-star] Christ, Rev. 2. 28. and 22. 16. Till Legal ceremonies be quite gone, and Christ more fully revealed to you. He rather useth the similitude of the day-star, than of the Sun, because some darkness will yet remain in us under the Gospel till the coming of Christ the Sun of righteousness to judgement: Yet the Scriptures of the Old Testament must not be rejected under the Gospel. Only he intimates that Gods people had no greater light than the Law and the Prophets, till the New Testament was written.

Arise in your hearts] The word ἀνατέλλω signifies; First, the understanding, Acts 16. 14. Secondly, the will, Rom. 10. 9. Thirdly, the affection, Mat. 6. 21. Fourthly, the conscience, 1 John 3. 20. Fifthly, the memory, Luke 2. 51. here in the first sense, heart for understanding.

V. 20. Knowing this first] Before ye read the Scriptures of the Old Testament, ye must take notice of this, that ye must not interpret them, as you and others please, but according to the mind of the holy Ghost, appearing in clear events in the New Testaments, Expositions of the Apostles, and consent among themselves.

That no prophecy] Gr. That not every prophecy. That is, not any. An Hebraism. See the like, Mat. 24. 22.

Of the Scripture] Contained in the Scripture. Opposed to dreams of false Prophets, chap. 2. 1. It is meant of the Scriptures of the Old Testament.

of any private interpretation] Such as ariseth out of mans own brains, and not out of the Scripture it self. He condemns not one mans, or few mens interpretation of a place of Scripture, differing from others; for God may at first reveal a truth by one or few men, which afterwards may be embraced by many. Others read, Of any self-loosing out. That is, the Prophets spake not of their own heads, but as they were sent by God, so they spake only what God bade them speak. This agrees well with the words before, that inclinate the authority of those Prophecies, and with the opposition following, v. 21.

V. 21. For the prophecy came not] It belongeth to God, the author of Prophecy, to give the sense of it. Or rather, it had God, and not man for the Author: see on v. 20.

in old time] Or, at any time.

by the will of man] They could not prophesie when they would, or what they would, 2 Kings 4. 27. but when and what God would, holy men of God] Or, those holy men of God: To wit, the prophets, who were holy. Such are called, Men of God, Psalm 90. 10, 1 Tim. 6. 11. 2 Tim. 3. 17.

as they were moved] Gr. carried. Gods Spirit acquainting them with the things they knew not, directed them in the words, that they might not err. God shewed them things above nature, and gave them a will to publish them, though sometimes they were unwilling to do it, Jer. 20. 9.

CHAP. II.

Verse 1. But there were false prophets also.] Not true only, as chap. 1. 21. but some false teachers also.

among the people] The people of God.

false teachers among you] Acts 20. 29, 30. Jude v. 4. 1 John 2. 18, 19. among you Christians.

who privily shall bring in] Gr. who shall bring in besides. That is, besides mens expectation, or, besides the truth taught by godly teachers, and by themselves in part also, to countenance their errours.

damnable heresies] Gr. heresies of destruction. Wicked opinions, that ruine mens souls; or, dangerous schisms, that will rent the Church, and bring destruction on it, if it be not prevented, 1 Cor. 11. 18, 19.

denying] By total apostacy, or evil life, unbefeeming the servants of Christ, Tit. 1. 16. see more on Jude v. 4.

the Lord that bought them] That gave a price sufficient for them, even his own precious bloud, Acts 20. 28. 1 Cor. 6. 20. 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19. Or, by whom they professed that they were redeemed: and therefore they should not have denyed him.

bring upon themselves swift destruction.] They do so offend God by their sins, that they cannot be long out of hell, and perhaps suddenly taken away by some great judgement.

V. 2. pernicious ways] Or, lascivious ways, as some Copies read; see Jude verse 4. Gr. their destructions: that is, their doctrines, that bring destruction, as v. 1.

the way of truth] The true Christian religion revealed from heaven, which shews the way to true happiness.

shall be evil spoken of] Rom. 2. 24. 1 Tim. 6. 1.

V. 3. through covetousness] See verse 14.

with feigned words] See on chap. 1. 16.

make merchandise of you] See on Rev. 18. 13. They shall by feigned words, right in shew, but erroneous in deed, framed to a way of piety, mildness, and charity, lead you by the nose, as it were from market to market, as sheep to be sold, that they may get your goods, and undo your souls. For word, see on chap. 1. 19.

whose judgement now of a long time lingreth not] See on ver. 1. whose punishment to which they were long since adjudged, now approacheth to execution.

their damnation slumbreth not] See on Jude verse 4.

V. 4. For if God Spared not the angels, &c.] Look on Jude verse 6. If God spared not Angels at once, he will not spare false prophets, nor their followers: see the like omission, Rom. 9. 22. or it may run on to the ninth verse.

thus the Lord knoweth, &c.] For God, see on chap. 1. 17.

Tartarus] From the punishment due to them.

into chains of darkness] Into a life full of horrour like darkness, as malefactours kept in chains in a dungeon till execution.

V. 5. And spared not the old world] The world before the floud, or the ungodly men in it, as followeth in this verse.

Noah the eighth person] Of them that were saved from the deluge: for, besides himself, his wife, his sons and their wives escaped, Gen. 7.13. 1 Pet.3. 20.

a preacher of righteousness] A publisher of Gods just purpose to destroy the old world, and a perswader of them to repent and live righteously, that they might prevent so great a judgement, 1 Pet. 3. 19. or, a preacher of salvation to them, to be had by the righteousness of the Messias to come, 1 Pet.4.6.

upon the world of ungodly] The multitude of the ungodly then in the world. So a world of wickednes, is store of it, James 3. 6.

V. 6. the cities of Sodom, &c.] See on Jude v.7.

into ashes] By fire from heaven, Gen.19.24,25,29.

condemned them with an overthrow] Shewed, by destroying them so strangely from heaven, that he had passed sentence on them for their wickednes, Gen.18.20,21. and 19.28.

an ensample] For those Cities remain to this day buried in the dead sea, for terrour to others. A special example to admonish wicked men of their dangerous condition; shewing, that they must be punished in eternal fire, if they repent not.

V. 7. And delivered] So God sometimes is pleased to shew mercy to his, when he destroys others: as to Noah, v.5.

just Lot] Not that he had no sin in him, but because he endeavoured to keep all Gods commandements, Luke 1. 6.

vexed with the filthy conversation of the wicked] So Gods servants use to mourn for other mens sins, who mourn not for their own, Psa. 119. 136,158.

V. 8. in seeing and hearing] Lot dwelling among the wicked Sodomites, could not but daily see such filthy actions, and hear such unclean speeches, as vexed him to the very heart: because he loved God, whose Name was dishonoured grievously, and law broken grosly by them. This vexed him much to see their Sodomitical ways, though he could not mend it. The two senses of seeing and hearing are named, as being most offended with wicked words, and works. Which way soever he turned his eyes or ears, he saw or heard something that did displease him. This vexed his soul greatly. The same word is used to set out hell torments, Luke 16.23.

V. 9. the Lord knoweth] If God have done all mentioned before, v.4,&c. then it appears that he knows how to deliver good men, and punish bad ones, and will certainly do it.

out of temptations] Out of afflictions, which do but try Gods people, though they destroy others, v. 5, 6, 7. Gen. 22. 1. 1 Cor. 10. 13. Heb.4.15. James 1.2. 1 Pet.1.6. Rev.3.10.

to reserve the unjust] Verse 4. Jude v. 6.

V. 10. But chiefly them] As being the greatest sinners, and misleaders of others.

that walk after the flesh] After the motions and lusts of their own corrupt nature, Rom.8.1,4,12,13. but here more specially that flesh seems to imply such motions and lusts as tend to uncleanness of life; as 1 John 2.18. see further on Jude, verse 7,8,18.

despise government] Or, dominion, Jude verse 8.

presumptuous are they] Or, O presumptuous persons! By way of admiration and exclamation.

to speak evil of dignities] Gr. of glories: That is, of princes, which shine stoutly gloriously in the world: see Jude verse 8.

V. 11. whereas Angels] See on Jude verse 9.

railing accusation] Gr. blasphemous judgement.

against them] Some read, against themselves: To wit, the good angels against the bad.

V. 12. But these, &c.] Look on, Jude verse 10.

made to be taken] Appointed for a prey, and to destruction, Rom. 9.22. alluding to such beasts as are kept, not for sight or delight, but to be hunted and destroyed.

in their own corruption] Which they have brought on themselves, or which naturally befalls them for their sinfull courses, Galat. 6.8. Or, which God hath appointed for them: Jude verse 4.

V. 13. to riot in the day-time] Contrary to the course of many ungodly men, who dare not shew their sins in the light, John 3. 20. Eph. 5. 11,13. 1 Thes. 5. 7. and to the profession of the Gospel, Rom. 13. 13.

spots they are] Men grievously spotted and blemished. See further on Jude verse 12.

V. 14. Having eyes full of adultery] Gr. of an adulteresse, Mat. 5.28. They were not given to riot and excess only, but to a lascivious and loose course of uncleanness also. The eyes are mentioned, because they lee in adulterous thoughts to the soul, Gen. 34.1,2. 2 Sam.11.2,4. And they are said to be full of the adulteresse, as if they cared not to look on any other object.

unstable] Not well grounded, and therefore easie to be seduced, chap.3.16,17. Eph. 4.14. Heb.13.9.

with covetous practices] Verse 3, 14. Jude verse 11.

cursed children] Gr. children of the curse, Ephes. 2. 2, 3. 2 Thes. 2. 3. Or, children worthy to be cursed: as child of death, 2 Sam. 12. 5. is in the margin read, worthy to die.

V. 15. the way of Balaam] See on Jude verse 11.

Bosor] Called Beor, Num. 22. 5. and, by some small change of the Hebrew letters, Bosor here.

who loved the wages of unrighteousness] Num. 22. 7, 13, 37. for he would have cursed the Israelites for those rewards, if God had not withheld him.

V. 16. the madness] His hot desire to go against the will of God for gain.

of the prophet] He is called a Sooth-sayer, Josh. 13. 22. Num. 23. 23. Such did sometimes, by ghess, hit upon things to come. Or, he is called a prophet, because sometimes he had revelations from the true God, Num. 23. and 24.

V. 17. without water, &c.] See on Jude verse 12.

the mist of darkness, &c.] See on Jude verse 13. Most thick darkness. Hells darkness opposed to heavenly light. Τηρέω signifies; First, to keep, or reserve, or observe, Matth. 23. 3. Secondly, to watch ones speeches, or observe them, not to doe them, but to catch at them, and entrap the speakers, John 15. 20. Here it is taken in the first sense. Ἀτὰο signifies; First, the world, Heb. 1. 2. Secondly, the men of the world, Rom. 12. 2. Thirdly, our time of life here in the world, Luke 20. 34. Fourthly, our course of life here, Ephes. 2. 2. Fifthly, eternity, Matth. 6. 13. so here.

V. 18. great swelling words] Look on Jude verse 16. Or, Swelling things; Like bubbles, or things puffed up with wind, that make a great shew, but have no solidity in them.

allure] With fair promises, as men lay baits for fishes. By wantonness they seek to draw them back to idolatry, as the Midianites drew the Israelites, Numb. 25. 6, 18.

through the lusts of the flesh] Which they permit men to follow, under the pretence of Christian liberty. For lust, see on verse 20. The Greek word Σαρξ, signifies; First, flesh of a body, 1 Cor. 15. 39. Secondly, the whole body of man, flesh and bones, 1 Pet. 3. 18. Thirdly, humane nature, Rom. 9. 5. Fourthly, the person of man, Mat. 24. 22. Fifthly, kindred, Rom. 11. 14. Sixthly, corrupt man, John 3. 6. Seventhly, corrupt nature, Rom. 8, 1. Eighthly, corrupt reason, 2 Cor. 1. 17. Ninthly, the strength of humane wit, and reason, Matth. 16. 17. Tenthly, a corrupt soul, Rom. 7. 18. Eleventhly, humane infirmity, Heb. 5. 7. Here it is taken in the seventh sense for corrupt nature.

those that were clean escaped] Gr. inticed escaped. They sought to seduce true Christians, but could not, Matth. 24. 24. Or, a little escaped. Such as professed the true religion, having left idolatry, and lived without scandal. Or, a while escaped. Seemed to have done so, by embracing the true religion for a time; but soon after shewed they had not done it, by returning to courses contrary thereunto, 1 John 2. 18, 19.

V. 19. they promise them liberty] Under pretence of liberty, they draw them to licentiousnes and looseness of life, 1 Pet. 2. 16. Jude verse 4. They teach them, that they may lawfully use fleshly delights, and so deceive them by things, to which they are prone naturally.

the servants of corruption] Chap. 1. 4. Rom. 6. 18, 19. The basest slaves in the world, serving corruption themselves, as servants do their masters: or, being instruments and workmen for Satan to draw men to corruption; this last agrees well with the beginning of the verse, Promise of liberty to others.

is he brought in bondage] For prisoners were ever the conquerours of slaves. So are these by sinne made slaves of corruption.

V. 20. after they have escaped] Gr. fled from: as verse 18. chap. 1. 4.

the pollutions of the world] Such sinful courses, as worldly men are wont to defile themselves withal, James 1. 27. Lusts of the flesh, or idolatry.

knowledge] Gr. acknowledgement. Not knowing him only, but professing him also: see John 12. 42. By receiving the Gospel, and professing it, which forbids such things.

and Saviour Jesus Christ] See on chap. 1. 1.

Again entangled] A relapse is dangerous, as in the bodily diseases, so in falling back to sinful courses.

and overcome] By a custome of sinning.

the latter end is worse with them than the beginning] Matth. 12. 45. because they sin out of knowledge now, and against former acknowledgment, who sinned out of ignorance before, Luke 12. 47, 48. James 4. 17. Their end is worse then by reason of the aggravations mentioned in the beginning of the verse. So it follows vers. 21. It had been better, &c.

V. 21. it had been better for them] That is, less evil. They had sinned less, and should have been punished less. For neither the state of ignorant ones or backsliders is good; but the former is less dangerous than the latter.

Not to have known] Because their ingratitude for the received favour your from God in calling them to Christianity, manifested by their backsliding, aggravates their sin, and will encrease their judgement.

the way of righteousness] Vers. 2, 15. The true Christian Religion, by which righteousness is gotten; They had better to have been heathen still.

from the holy commandment] Chap. 3. 2. Given by an holy God, and acquiring holiness in us.

V. 22. proverb] See on Prov. 1. 1.

The dog is turned, &c. Prov. 26. 11. They are as abominable in Gods sight, as such creatures here mentioned are offensive to mans sight. The words seem to have been the verses of some ancient Poet, that were grown usual in common speech in those times. The Hebrew הוֹזֵר a swine may come from חוּר to return; It may intimate this swinish quality of returning to wallowing in the mire.

CHAP. III.

Vers. 1. Unto you] Scattered strangers, 1 Pet. 1. 1. For it is a second epistle to the same persons. In both which] He would not have them forget his former epistle.

your pure minds] Or, your sincere minds, as Phil. 1. 10. That appear right, being judged by the light of the sun, as men try cloth, and Eagles their young ones.

by way of remembrance] Chap. 1. 12, 13, 14, 15.

V. 2. That ye may be mindful] Chap. 1. 12, &c. Phil. 3. 1.

holy prophets] Chap. 1. 21.

the Apostles] Jude ver. 17. Not our commandments, as we are men, but as we are the Apostles of Jesus Christ. And those are Christs commands given by us.

V. 3. Knowing this first] Taking notice of this principally, that many will endeavour to draw you from that commandment, v. 2. Cha. 2. 21.

that there shall come] Of themselves; not sent by God.

in the last days] That is, in the latter or following days; as the word is used, Gen. 49. 1. Deut. 4. 30. & Dan. 2. 28. where in the last days, is expounded hereafter, v. 29. So are the times of the Gospel called by the Prophets, Isai. 2. 2. Mic. 4. 1. Peter meaneth, the times then beginning, and likely to hold on to the end of the world, in greater or lesser measure: for he warns those that then lived, as well as others in after-ages, to take heed of such scoffers; and such then began to arise in the Church, Acts 20. 29, 30. 1 John 2. 18. Some understand this of the times of Antichrist.

scoffers] Jude verse 18. Not disputing stoutly against it, but scoffing at it.

walking after their own lusts] Chap. 2. 10. Jude ver. 18. After such desires as they had by nature, not according to grace, Rom. 8. 1. After the lusts of their flesh, and the world are they led, and not after godly desires put into mens hearts by Gods Spirit. They scoff at Religion, and magnifie their own desires.

V. 4. Where is the promise] It is vanished; it no where appeares; there is no such thing; it will never come to pass, Jer. 5. 12, 13. We see not any sign of the accomplishment of Christs coming promised.

since the coming] To judgement, which yo press so much, to keep men in awe.

the fathers] The first men known, from whom the rest proceeded; and such Patriarchs and Prophets as foretold, believed and expected this coming of Christ, Jude ver. 14.

fell asleep] Died, Joh 11. 11, 13, 14. Acts 7. 60. 1 Cor. 11. 30. 1 Thess. 4. 15. Ye talk of a resurrection; why are they in their graves still?

all things continue, &c.] And so it is likely they will continue still, and the world will have no end. And that without any such change, as is foretold to be at the end of the world.

From the beginning of the creation,] Or, yea even from the beginning, &c. Not onely since the Patriarks death, but from the creation it self. This was spoken by way of derision: Else might they easily have thought, that things that had a beginning, would have an end.

V. 5. For this they willingly are ignorant of] They might have been informed, but will not: for they observe not the things written in Scripture of the end of the world, and day of judgement; else they would not be ignorant of these things. Or, they wilfully neglect to consider, that the earth was made by Gods power onely, and the heavens also; and that the world suffered much alteration in the flood, and so may be destroyed in the end. Or, For they that think thus, are ignorant, that by the word of God, &c.

standing out of the water, and in the water] Or, consisting, or, subsisting. Gr. standing together; so as it was not rent in pieces by the water. By Gods power the earth was upheld after it came out of the waters, as well as before, Gen. 1. 2, 9. Or, standing out of the water, and by the water. For God hath made the earth so high, that the sea cannot overflow it, though it girt it about, Psalm 24. 2.

V. 6. the world that then was] The face of the earth, as then it appeared, and all the living creatures upon it:

V. 7. which are now] Which we see remaining at this time.

by the same word] Or, by his word, as some copies read it; that is, by Gods word, v. 4. Heb. 1. 3.

reserved, &c.] Chap. 2. 5, 17. Jude v. 6.

V. 8. be not ignorant] Know it, and believe it firmly, Rom. 11. 25. 1 Cor. 10. 1. 1 Thess. 4. 13.

one day is with the Lord as a thousand years] God doth not measure time, as we do: but unto him, in regard of his eternity and omniscience, comprehending all things past, present and future; those periods of time, that seem so long unto us, are but as a moment, Psal. 90. 4.

V. 9. The Lord is not slack concerning his promise] Or, The Lord of the promise is not slack. He that made it, will perform it in due time. They are not slack, that are long ere they come; but they that come not at their due and appointed time. God puts not off his coming one hour beyond the set time, Heb. 10. 37.

is long-suffering to us-ward] Who are beloved, v. 8. and not in the number of those scoffers, v. 3. or, towards mankinde, of which number we also are.

not willing that any should perish] Any of his elect. He stayes till they all be brought in by repentance, and saith in Christ. Not any at all, by his directing and approving will, Ezek. 33. 11.

but that all should come to repentance] All his elect, as before. Or, some of all sorts of men; high and low, wise and foolish, Jews and Gentiles. So the word all is used, Matth. 4. 23. Or, he speaks of Gods approving will, whereby he likes of repentance in any.

V. 10. But the day of the Lord] Every day is the Lords, to dispose of as he pleaseth: But the day of judgement is called his, in a peculiar manner, 1 Cor. 5. 5. 2 Cor. 1. 14. because Christ the Lord will then visibly judge all the world, Acts 17. 31. Rom. 2. 16.

will come as a thief in the night] Matth. 24. 43, 44. Luke 12. 39, 40. 1 Thess. 5. 2. Rev. 16. 15. As a thief comes suddenly and unexpectedly, so will Christ come to judgement. No man can conjecture when that day will be, Matth. 24. 36.

the heavens shall pass away with a great noise] Like as a whirlwind or tempest comes roaring, and carries all before it: so shall the starrie skie pass away, Matth. 24. 29. Not by being destroyed, utterly, but being turned into a new form, verse 13. Psal. 102. 26. Rom. 8. 21.

and the elements] The air and water betwixt the heaven and earth.

the earth also] Either the earth is not included under the word elements before; or it is particularly named, because in it the burning will most visibly appear.

and the works that are therein] The works of God made at first by creation, or produced daily by nature; or the works of men, made by art, as houses, ships, &c.

V. 11. Seeing then that all these things, &c.] If heaven and earth must be so wonderfully purged, to make a fit dwelling for us, ver. 13. how holy had we need to be? Or, seeing such a fearful appearance of judgement shall then be. Shall be dissolved.] In so strange away, verse 10.

what manner of persons ought ye to be] That is, how great a degree of godliness should we labour to attain? So the word is used, Matth. 8. 27. Mark 13. 1. Luk. 1. 29, &c. 7. 39. 1 Joh. 3. 1.

in all holy conversation, and godliness] Gr. conversations, and godlinesses: That is, in all manner of good duties towards man, and God, Acts 24. 16. That so piety may be perfect in all the parts of it.

V. 12. Hasting unto the coming] Or, Hastning the coming. Not onely expecting it, or looking for it, as Luke 12. 43. Matth. 24. 42. but also, as it were, going forth to meet Christ with burning lamps, Matt. 25. 1. So servants that desire their masters return, get all things ready to entertain him, against he comes. And so should we prepare our selves for Christs coming, by fitting our selves for it, more than seeking after worldly things. He hastes, that followeth one thing to finish it, and is not so distracted as to begin many things, and end none. The one thing needful for us, Luke 10. 42. is to fit our selves for Christs coming. of the day of God] Or, of that day of God, mentioned, verse 10. That is, the day of Christ, when he shall come to judge the world, or of God the Father, who shall judge the world by him. Act. 17. 31.

wherein the heavens, &c.] See on verse 10. Or, By which coming. For By may as well agree with Ἡμέρα, as with Hustea.

V. 13. Nevertheless] We must not be discouraged, because these heavens and this earth pass away; for we look for new and better ones.

according to his promise] Isai. 65. 17. & 66. 22.

look for new heavens] Not others for substance, but renewed in qualities. See on verse 10.

and a new earth] An earth shining with new brightness and glory, being somewhat proportionable to the Saints, to delight their eyes and minds, Rom. 8. 21.

wherein] In which heavens: or, in both which, heaven and earth.

dwelleth righteousness] That is, righteous men onely; whereas in this world dwell many sinners, which then shall be all in hell. So righteousness is taken, Isai. 1. 21. Or, the whole verse may be thus read; read; Nevertheless we, in whom dwelleth righteousnes, look for new heavens, and a new earth, according to his promise. That is, we that are justified by faith in Christ, and sanctified by his Spirit, expect eternal happines in another world, when this world shall be at an end. Dwelleth, shall dwell. It is as sure as if they did now dwell there; So Prophets use to speak of things two me,as present to shew the certainty of their predictions.

V. 14. in peace] Reconciled to God by Christ, Colosſ.1.20. Rom. 5. 1. Or, in pence of minde and conscience,not troubled nor affrighted. That we being just fied may look for his coming with a peaceable, and quiet mind. Or, That when he comes, we may find him peaceable to us.

without spot and blameles] Eph.5.27. Jude v.24. Col.1.22.

V. 15. account that the long-suffering of the Lord is salvation] Think not that God doth put off his coming, out of slackness, as some suppose, v. 9. nor to do hurt to men; but for the good of his, and to further their salvation. Gods patience furthers our salvation much, by affording time of repentance, and of the use of the means, Rom. 2.4. By long-suffering here may be meant deferring the happines of his people. Or, suffering so great wickedness so long in the world; By salvation may be understood furthering the salvation of Gods people, that the more they suffer for God here, the greater glory they may have in heaven. Or, Giving space or time to all Gods elect to be converted, before the world be done.

our beloved brother Paul] Our brother in office, and dear fellow-Apostle.

according to the wisdom given unto him] From above, whereby he was fitted to be an apostle, Gal.1.11,12.

hath written unto you] Such as take it to be written to the Christian Gentiles dwelling in those places mentioned, 1 Per. 1. 1. (for both epistles were written to the same persons, as verſ.1. of this Chapter) conceive the epistle here mentioned to be that to the Romanes, because, Rom. 2. 4, 5. is to this purpose. Others,who think Peter wrote now to the Jews(as James did, 5.1.1.)because he calls them scattered strangers; and the Christians that dwelt in the places mentioned, 1 Per. 1. 1. were natural inhabitants there; think he means the epistle to the Hebrews, or to the Galatians there named, or to the Ephesians, or Colosſians, which were in Asia, there mentioned.

V. 16. In all his epistles] In all his other epistles, Mat.16.14.

of these things] Of the end of the world, the day of judgement,and the right use of Gods patience.

in which] In which epistles. Or, among which things, as the Greek copies run. Among the things spoken by him of this subject.

are some things] Some things of this matter, not all things spoken of it, much less all other Scriptures,are difficult. Things needful to salvation are plain, else how should plain men find the way to heaven?

hard to be understood] Because of the height of the matter, and of some particular expressions.

which they that are unlearned and unstable] The Scriptures then are not dangerous for private men to use, if by often reading them they get knowledge, and bring setled minds with them. The cause of hurt by them, is not in the difficulty of them, but in mens unlearned and unstable minds, who live in ignorance, v. 5. and have no affection to do what they learn out of them, John 7.17. Psal.25.14. And are very changeable in their outward profession, sometimes professing one Religion,sometimes another.

wrest] By mis-interpreting, and drawing them violently from the true sense to a false one, to uphold their errours. They make a nose of wax of the Scriptures, turn and wind them to further their evil opinions.

as they do also the other Scriptures] Written by the other Apostles or Prophets. They serve them all alike: whereby it appears, that the fault is not in the Scripture, but in themselves.

unto their own destruction] Clean contrary to the end for which they were written, which is salvation, John 20.31.

V. 17. Seeing ye know these things before] Out of the doctrine of the other Apostles,and by my putting you in minde of them in this epistle, verſ.1,2. and therefore being so forewarned of them, ought the better to be forearmed against them.

beware] He doth not say, Read no Scripture, because some places are hard; or,Beleeve the Churches interpretation. He rather warns them to take heed of seducers, and such as mis-interpreted the Scriptures; and expects they should read them diligently, that they might grow in knowledge, verſ. 18. In vain had he written this epistle to private men, for a memorial when he should be dead, Chap.1. 15 and called upon them to be mindful of the doctrine of the Prophets and Apostles, who were dead, verſ. 2. and Jude also in his epistle, if they ought not to read the Scriptures. The Israelites, who had far less knowledge than Christians have now, are blamed for not doing it, Hos. 8.12. and the Jews exhorted to do it, Joh.5.39. ἐνάγνωσθε signifies, 1. To watch by night, Luk.2.8. 2. To keep a commandment, Matth.19.20. 3. To keep a person, or defend him, Joh.17.12. 4. To take heed of a thing, that is evil, 1 John 5.21. So here.

ye also being led away] Gr. ye being led away with others.

with the errour of the wicked] Chap.2.1,2,18. Or, with that particular errour of not believing Christs coming, v. 3, 4. Wicked men here are called, Ἄθεσμοι, Lawleſs persons: Men that will be kept in order by no Laws, but break thorough all righrs; They think any thing to be lawful for them, and subject the Scriptures to their will.

fall from your own stedfastnes] And so become unstable, as those perverters of Scripture, v. 16. and so be unsetled.

V. 18. grow in grace] Get more sense of Gods favour daily. Or, seek to encrease the graces of his Spirit in you, Chap. 1. 5, 8, 10. Χάρις, signifies, 1. Grace, or favour, Tit. 2.11. 2. A gift, or alms, 2 Cor.8.4.19. 3. Thanksgiving, 1 Cor.1.5.7. 4. Pleasure with profit, Eph. 4.29. 5. Holines, and other graces of Gods Spirit, John 1.16. So it may be taken here.

and in the knowledge] How can they do that, without reading the Scriptures? Ignorance then is not the mother of devotion, in Peters own language,whom the Papists boast of,more than the Jews did of Moses, by whole testimony our Saviour confutes them, John 5. 45.

of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ] Chap. 2.1. Jude verſe 25. Rev. 1. 1.

To him be glory] Jude verſe 25. The Greek word, Δόξα, signifies, 1. Majesty, Matth. 6. 29. 2. Light, or brightnes, Luk. 9. 32. 3. Praise, John 9. 24. Heavenly happines, John 17. 22. 5. The Ark,Rom.9.4. Here it may be taken in the first,or third sense for majesty, or praise.

both now and for ever] Gr. both now, and to the day of eternity; That is,to eternity,without end; as Matth.6.13. For Day see on Chap. 1. 19. For Eternity on Chap. 2. 17.

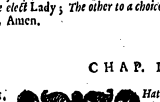
Amen] See on Matth. 6.13. Jude verſe 25. Revel. 22.21. Ἄμήν, intimates 1. Affirming a thing to be true, 2 Cor.1.20. 2. Assent to the truth of things spoken, 1 Cor. 14, 16. 3. Wishing a thing may be so, Matth.6.13. So here.

ANNO



ANNOTATIONS ON THE FIRST EPISTLE OF S. JOHN.

The Argument.

The beloved Apostle John living longer than the rest of the Apostles, and observing the decay of Truth, Godlines, and Charity, in many Christians, writes this Epistle as a salve for the sores of the Church. He enterweaves Truth of Doctrine with Godlines of life, and love of the Brethren throughout the Epistle. Fit subjects for him to write of, who was an Apostle, and eminent for Piety; and chiefly beloved by Christ himself; Great reason therefore, that all Christians should hearken to him in all these things.

This first Epistle is called general, because it is not directed to any particular person, as the second and third are: The one to a singular woman, the elect Lady; The other to a choice man, called Gaius. God grant that by reading of it, we may get Grace to increase in Faith, Piety, and Charity. Amen.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1.  That which was from the beginning] From the beginning of the world. An allusion to Gen. 1.1. Joh.1.1. Prov.8.22. Christ is hereby intended, who is the true God, Chap. 5. 20. and was before the beginning of the world. But the Scripture speaking of him which is from eternity, useth this phrase, from the beginning, to descend to our capacity, who are not able to comprehend any thing before the beginning of the world, Matth. 25. 34. John begins his Epistle, as he did his Gospel. He begins both from the beginning, declares the excellency of the matter, and falls flat upon it without any digressions. This shews the same Penman of both. He sends us back to his Gospel, that they who read or charitey here,may not think Faith needlesse which is prefsed there: and adds this Epistle, that they who see Faith prefsed there, may not think Charity needlesse which is urged here. He saith not, He which was from the beginning, but That which was from the beginning, that he might set out a double nature in Christ, one Divine,invisible from the beginning; another Humane in time, seen, felt, &c. The Greek word Ἀρχὴ signifies, 1. A beginning in time. And that 1. The beginning of the World or presently after, John 8. 44. 2. The time of delivering the Law in mount Sinai, 1 John 2.7. 3. The beginning of preaching the Gospel. Luk.1.2. 2. Beginning in honour, And therein, 1. Rule, or Magistracy: 1 Cor. 15. 14. 2. The Magistrate. Luk.12.11. Here,it is taken for the beginning of the world.

which we] We apostles,chosen witnesses to publish these things, Acts 1.8. & 10.41.

have heard] The truth of these things was confirmed to them by three senses;hearing, seeing, handling;the latter still surer than the former. He doth not say, Which we have read, to wit, in the Prophets: neither doth mean, what they had heard of the Pharisees, expounding the Prophets: But from John the Baptist, John.1.36,37,40. from Christ himself, in his Sermons, as the Samaritanes did, John 4. 42. For, as he was true God, so was he true Man also; and, in his humane nature, testified of his divine. Yea, they heard God the Father from heaven testifie of him also, Matth.17.5. 2 Pet.1.17,18. They do not mean what they heard of Christ by rumour from others, but what they heard from himself, and from God the Father concerning him.

which we have seen] We saw him in his humane nature, and saw his miracles, Luke 1.2. 2 Pet. 1. 16. Eye-witnesses are more worthy of credit than ear-witnesses, Act.4.20. Joh.3.11. & 15.27. Act.1.21,22. 10.40,41. This proves Christ to be true man, as his being from the beginning sets out his Deity. They had seen his flesh, John 1.14. His works, and miracles, Joh. 2. 11. John the writer of this Epistle saw more of these, with Peter and James than the other disciples. As his raising Jairus daughter, Mark 9. 37. his transfiguration, Matth. 17.1. His agony in the garden, Matth.26.37.

with our eyes] So men use to speak of things most certain,yet not so well known to their hearers, Job 19. 27. And so of the ears, Psal. 44. 1. Some restrain it to the vision in the mount, where they saw Christs glory: but it may be understood of all visible declarations of the truth of Christs humane nature to them, by his eating, drinking, &c. and of his divine, by working miracles in their sight, Joh. 1. 14. 1 Tim.3.16.

which we have looked upon] Wistly and deliberately: for we see many things we do not regard, nor fasten our eyes on them. We looked upon him, as men look on rare sights in a theatre, diligently, clearly, cheerfully, 1 Cor.4.9. 1 Pet.1.12. And as men look upon things set forth to be seen.

our hands] Touching is the surest sense: for eyes and ears may sooner be deceived, in bodily substances, than hands, Luke 24. 39. John 20. 25. Handling with hands is added to shew the certainty of it, as seeing with eyes before. The Greek word, χεῖρες, signifies, 1. An hand, Act.28.3. 2. Blessing, Luke 1. 66. 3. Power, Luke 1. 74. 4. Vengeance, Act.13.11. 5. A wicked affection put forth by the hand, Matth. 5. 30. Here it is taken in the first sense.

have handled] Gr. touched. As musicians touch their stringed instruments. They touched him both before his resurrection, Matt.14. 31. and after it, Joh.20.27.

of the word] Of Christs humane nature, who is also the word of God, Joh. 1. 1. as being begotten of the Father,as the word is by the minde; and making the Fathers minde known to us, as our words make our meaning manifest to others. As also because he was promised in the word from the beginning.

of life] Who is a living word himself, and gives both natural and spiritual life to others, John 1.4.& 5.26. Chap.5.11. As Christ hath life in himself (as in the places quoted) so he gives life to others; 1. Natural, as God. 2. Spiritual, Gal. 2. 20. 3. Eternal, Col. 3. 3, 4.

V. 2. For the life] See on v. 1.

was manifested] Before, it lay hid in it self; now it was manifested by incarnation, John 1.14. 1 Tim.3.16. and by miracles,which none else did, Joh.3.2. & 7.31,46. & 11.47. & 12. 37. & 15.24. Well might we look upon him, for he was therefore manifested.

we have seen it] This is repeated, for more assurance, that none need doubt of it. v. 1, 6. We Apostles saw it more clearly than others.

and bear witness] For the glory of Christ. See on v. 1. We declare him to the Church, Act. 1. 8. & 20. 21. We not onely testifie the truth of it, but also highly applaud and commend it.

and shew unto you] For your good. Ye could never have found it out your selves, if God had not revealed it to us, and we taught it you, Rom. 10.14.

which was with the Father] John. 1.1,2. The word imports nearness, with some distinction: therefore also he is said to be in the Father, Joh. 14.10,11. Christ is one God with the Father, yet a distinct person from him: and he was with him invisible altogether, till he was incarnate. Prov.8.30.

was manifested unto us] Joh.1.14.

V. 3. That which we have seen] This is the third time repeated, to put it out of all question. The second verse is in a Parenthesis, and part of the former is here repeated to make the sense clear.

that ye also] Who did not see, hear nor handle the word of life, as we

we did, verf. 1. So that he wrote this epistle not to get ought from them, but to do good to them, that they might have a share with him in spiritual comforts, 2 Cor.12.14. As if he should have said, what was communicated to us Apostles at first, we communicate to you, that ye may have the benefit thereof, as well as we; And not onely have fellowship with us, and Communion, but also with God the Father, and Christ his Son.

May have fellowship] That being united by faith with Christ, and with his members, ye may partake of his graces, and spiritual life from him; and by him be united to God the Father, and have Communion with him, Joh.17.21. Heb.2.14.

with us] Apostles, whom ye think happy, 2 Cor.1.21.

and truly, &c.] And not with us onely, but with God and Christ also, which is a greater preeminence.

V. 4. These things write we unto you] He doth not say, We preach them, but, We write them; to shew, that there is enough in Scripture, without tradition, to bring us to a comfortable life on earth, & perfect joy in heaven. We write this not onely to bring you to Communion with God, and us, but also to full joy; That your consciences may be pacified, and your hearts cheered.

that your joy may be full] That by encrease of your faith, 2 Joh.v.12. ye may have peace of conscience, and joy of the Holy Ghost, in so great a measure, that ye may not doubt of Gods favour, but rejoyce in it continually, till ye come to enjoy him for ever, Rom.5.1.2. 1 Pet.1.6. Thus John, the beloved disciple of Christ, imitates his master in the very phrase it self. See John 15.11. & 17.13. He means not, that their joy might be full in heaven (though there be the greatest fulness of joy) but that it may be full on earth here. As 2 Joh v.12. John 16.24. That ye may by sure marks know, that ye are in the estate of grace here, and may therein greatly rejoyce; therefore such marks are given, V.6,7,8,9.c.2,3. And indeed joy of the Holy Ghost ariseth out of peace of conscience: this joy is full, 1. In opposition to joy arising from worldly comforts, Psal. 4.6,7. And thar, 1. In regard of their variety, which is a signe of distastisaction. The Bee need not suck of many flowers, if one would satisfie. 2. In respect of mixture with sorrow, Prov. 14.13. 3. In regard of the short durance of them, Job 20.4,5. 2. This joy is said to be full in opposition to pangs of conscience which other Christians feel; and so it is full comparatively, though far short of heavenly joy.

V. 5. This then is the message] The sum of the Gospel is Communion with God, which cannot be without regeneration.

which we have heard of him] Gr. from him. Not, concerning him, by some other, as Joh.1.15. We heard it from Christ, verf. 3. who testifies concerning his Father, as follows in this verse.

that God is light] Full of wisdom and holiness, Jam.1.17. For God, see on 2 Pet.1.17. God is light; 1. Shining in knowledge, Matth. 4.16. 2. Clear in holiness, 2 Cor. 6.14. 3. Cheerful, and comfortable, as light is. Eccle.11.7.

in him is no darkness at all] Nor of ignorance or sin, nor of errour, and falshood; It is not here taken for natural darkness, as John 20.1. but for spiritual darkness, though it be true of the other also, for in God there is, ἀδιάφθορα ἀκεραία, Not so much as any one kinde of darkness.

V. 6. If we say] In heart, as Psal.14.1. Or, profess it in word.

and walk in darkness] He doth not say, And have walked in darkness; for all have done so, before regeneration: but, If we walk in darkness, Eph.5.8. Walking sets not out any one action, but the continued course of life, Psal.119.1. & 128.1. To walk in darkness, is to be conversant in ignorance and sin. It may be read, therefore if we say, For it is a conclusion drawn out of the bowels of the former verf. If there be no darkness at all in God, then they that walk in darkness, and yet say, they have fellowship with him, will be found notorious lyers in the end.

we lye] In saying lo: for, what fellowship hath light with darkness? 2 Cor.6.14.

do not the truth] Walk not according to Gods word, John 3.21. Or, deal not truly, that is, sincerely.

V. 7. If we walk in the light] If we live according to the light of grace received, and go on in a wise and holy way, till we come to perfection.

as he is in the light] He possesseth the fulness of wisdom and holiness from eternity, 1 Tim.6.16. God is essentially wise, and good of himself: believers do but walk in the light of knowledge and goodness communicated to them from God.

we have fellowship one with another] We with God, and God with us. Or, we Christians one with another.

the blood of Jesus Christ] Left any should despair, as not being able to walk perfectly in the light, as God is in it, he adds this for our comfort, that, if we do our endeavour, Christs blood will purge away our failings. By Christs blood here is meant all his sufferings, and principally his death, as being the principal part of the price of our redemption; Αἷμα signifies, 1. Blood, Luk 13. 12. 2. Murder, Mat. 23.30. 3. Humane seed, Act.17.26. Here it is taken in the second sense for the blood of Christ shed for us, when he was unjustly put to death by the Jews, but justly by God for our sins.

his Son] This shews the great price of his blood, as being the blood of the Son of God; yea, of God himself, Act.20.28.

cleanseth us from all sin] Tit.2.14. That is, from the guilt of all sin: for if but one sin be left unpardoned, that were sufficient to condemn us. It cleanseth also from the filth and stain of sin, Heb. 19,14. 1 Pet.1.2. Rev.1.5,6. For Sin, see on 2 Pet.1.9.

V. 8. If we say] As before he did encourage fearful ones; so now he labours to call down proud persons, that think they have no sin, nor need of Christs blood. He saith not, If thou say, as if he spake to some particular person onely; nor, If ye say, as if he intended ordinary Christians alone; but, If we Apostles, or whatever we be, say so: to shew, that all are sinners, Jam. 3.2.

that we have no sin] Contrary to 1 Kin.8.46. 2 Chron.6.36. Prov. 20.9. And he doth not say, We have not had sin formerly, but we have not at present, even when we are in state of grace, Rom.7.17, 20, 23.

the truth is not in us] We are not sincere: or, we believe not Gods word, v. 6, 10. Joh. 17. 17. It is not then modesty onely that makes the best men to confess their sins; but the truth compels them to do it.

V. 9. he is faithful and just] A great comfort. If we could conceive Christ not to be so merciful as to forgive our sins, doubtless he will be faithful and just to perform his promise, and not to require that again of us, which Christ hath discharged by shedding his blood for us, Rom. 3.25. Isa. 53. 6.7. God is faithful to perform his promise, and just in performing it, for a promise is a debt, though freely made, and is is just to perform what is mercifully promised; God is constant therefore in giving pardon to repenting sinners according to his promise. Πίστος, signifies, 1. A believer, 1 Tim.6.2. 2. One faithful in his dealings, 1 Cor. 4. 2. 3. One faithful in his words, and promises. 1 Thes. 5.24. 4. A speech worthy to be beleeved, 1 Tim.1.15. Here in the third sense.

V. 10. we make him a lyar] As much as in us lyes. See the like, Mat. 5.28. A man commits adultery in his heart with a woman, yet she is not defiled: So on the contrary, by believing, we seal to Gods truth, John 3.33. We do then not onely deceive our selves, when we deny our sins, verf. 8. but also by conscequence charge God with falshood, who hath often said, that all men are sinners, Rom.3.10,23. & 5.12. and teacheth us to ask pardon, Matth. 6.12. and sent his Son to dye for our sins, Chap.2.2. & 3.16. Therefore we do not accuse him of lying once, but make him a common lyar, when we deny, what he so often affirmeth.

his word is not in us] Christ; or, the written word hath no place in us, John 8. 37. For Word, see on 2 Pet. 1. 19.

CHAP. II.

Verf.1. MY little children] He sheweth the abundance of his love, by using this word eight times, at least, in this Epistle. Hereby he insinuates, that the counsel given them is such as comes from a paternal affection, seeking their good. The less the children are, the more del ght parents take in them, and pity them the more, because they are the less able to help themselves. Now he might call them, Little children, not onely in regard of conversion, as Gal.4.19. but also for in regard of his own age. So 1 John 1. He may call himself Elder, in that respect. Phil. verse 9.

that ye sin not] Left any man should say, If God will forgive, let us sin the more; he adds, I write this, that ye may not sin, Rom.6.1. And also left ye hinder your fellowship with God.

and if any man sin] Or, yet if any man sin. So the same particle is used, Luke 3.20. If any man offend out of infirmity, or being overcome by some strong temptation, who intended not to sin, Rom.7.15, 19. Gal. 6.1.

we have an Advocate] He pronounceth it certainly, to take away all doubt. And we need not look for him to come, or seek him with great costs; for we have him already. It is a great comfort to a man accused, to have a good Advocate. We have an excellent one.

with the Father] Heb.9.24. Rom.8.34. We shall speed well, for God is the Father of our Advocate, and our Father in him. For Father, see on 2 Pet. 1. 17.

Jesus Christ] See on Matth.1.1. He names him, that the sick souls might not be distracted, not knowing what Physitian to go to, Act.4. 10,11,12.

the righteous] One that needed not to dye for his own sins, nor plead for the remission of them; and therefore dyed and pleads for us, Heb. 7.26,27. 1 Pet.3.18. Act.3.14. & 22.14.

V. 2. And he] Or, For he; as the word is used, Luke 6.32. He dyed for our sins, therefore he will plead for us, Rom.8.34. else should he lose the fruit of his death, if we should perish.

the propitiation] The propitatory-sacrifice, Rom.3.25.

for our sins] He doth not prefer himself onely (in the exaltation of his humane nature, by his obedience to the death, Phil. 2.8,9.) as other men may do, Job 35.8. Ezek.14.16. but saves us from our sins, Matt. 1.21.

and not for ours onely] Who beleeve already; or, who are alive now now: or, of us Jews, who were Gods peculiar people before.

for the sins of the whole world] Of all beleevers in all nations, Acts 10.35. Gal.3.28. Col.3.11.

V.3. Hereby we know that we know him] That we have acquaintance with him, Chap.1.7. or, have the true and found knowledge of him, John 1.18. & 17.3. Or, we acknowledge him really for our Saviour, Psal.1.6. Matth 25.12.

if we keep his commandments] Many boast that they know Christ to be a propitiation for their sins, and therefore they need not forbear sin, or obey Gods Law: but such know not Christ to their comfort. By keeping, is meant, a sedulous study, and serious endeavour of walking in an holy course of life, according to all the commandments of God, and a conscionable care of observing each one, as well as any other, Luke 1.6. Jam.2.8,9,10. Psal.119.6. For Keep, see on 2 Pet. 2.17. on Reserved.

V. 4. and the truth is not in him] See on Chap. 1. 8. He that in word professeth himself a Christian, if he endeavour not to walk accordingly, is no Christian indeed.

V. 5. the love of God perfected] See on Chap.4.12. He that takes such great care to keep Gods word, as men do to keep their way, treasure, ornaments, apple of the eye, or dearest things they have, it is a sure sign, that he truly loves God: Not perfectly in degrees without all imperfection, for that none can attain to in this world, Phil.3.12. But sincerely without dissimulation. Hereby] By keeping Gods word, as before. That we are in him] That we are his members, and have communion with him, as members with the head. Chap. 1.7. Or, That we abide, and dwell in him, verf.6. John 6.56. & 15.5.

V. 6. even as he walked] Then, like a servant, he shall wear his masters livery, 1 Cor.1.12. Ephes.5.1,2. For walk, see on Chap.1.6.

V. 7. which ye had from the beginning] Taught by Christ and his Apostles, at the beginning of the preaching of the Gospel. So that this is not the first time of the publishing of it. Or, taught from the beginning of the world, and recorded in the old Testament. In calling it no new commandment he stops the mouth of such, as might accuse him of teaching novelties, as the Athenians did, Act. 17. 19. This no new commandment is by some understood to be an holy life, intended, verf.6. By others brotherly love mentioned, verf. 9,10. For Brethren, see on 2 Pet.1.10. For beginning, 1 John 1.1. For word, 2 Pet.1.19. For Heard, on 2 Pet.1.18.

V. 8. a new commandment] John 13.34. Whereas it might seem, by disuse, to be out of date, and buried in legal ceremonies; or abrogated, as some other things used in the old Testament were; it is renewed in the New Testament, and explained more fully. Or, it is called new, because we have daily new occasions of exercising our charity. Or, new, in regard of the manner of propounding (though old, for matter and substance) as being propounded formerly in our own example, Levit. 19. 18. now in the example of Christ, John 13.34.

which thing is true in him and in you] It is truly found in both. In him, who exercised love to us in the highest degree, in dying for us, John 15.13. In you, who must use charity towards others.

because] Or, that.

the darkness is past] Shadows, figures, Col. 2. 17. or state of ignorance and sin, wherein formerly ye lived, Rom.13.12. Eph.5.8. 2 Pet. 1.19. It may be understood of the darkness of Paganism, in which the converted Gentiles once lived, and of Judaisme, under the dark ceremonies wherein the converted Jews formerly were educated.

the true light now shineth] Christ, who is the light it self, not enlightned by others, but enlightning others, Joh 1.8,9. shineth in the Gospel, or in your hearts, 2 Cor 4.6. Or, ye have right knowledge and true holiness within you.

V. 9. He that saith] See on Chap.1.6,8. He that professeth the true religion. For Brother, see on 2 Pet.1.10. Is in darkness] In his natural estate of ignorance and sin, void of saving grace. Even until now.] Even under his Christian profession he remains in darkness. His Christian profession doth him no good, no more than if he were an heathen.

V. 10. no occasion of stumbling] Gr. no scandal. He that abides in the light, that is a true Christian, gives no offence to others by doing any thing, that may mislead them either by word or deed.

V. 11. Is in darkness] Remains in his natural condition, ignorant, and wicked.

and walketh in darkness] Liveth foolishly and ungodlily.

V. 12. Little children] See on verf. 1. He writes to them in this epistle, and calls them all little children, to shew his great affection to them, such as Parents bear to their little ones. For the distribution into several ages begins in the next verse. Here therefore he comprehends Christians of all ages. Or the division may begin here, and then by little children he may mean new converts; by fathers old experienced Christians; and by yong men professours of good standing. And then are they spoken to in all three conditions twice apiece: which will not agree with the former interpretation.

because your sins are forgiven you] Because ye are reconciled to God, though ye be not so wise & strong as other Christians of longer standing, and further growth, 1 Cor.3.1. This is added, for the comfort of weak Christians, lest they should think the sins of strong ones onely to be forgiven, and not theirs.

for his Names sake] Act.4.12. & 10.43. That is, For his sake, as the word is used for the person, so called, in the places quoted. Though you have not gotten such a measure of grace as others of longer standing have done, yet ye have found so much favour with God, that your sins are forgiven, as well as theirs.

V. 13. Ye have known him that was from the beginning] Christ, Joh. 1.1. 1 John 1.1. Ye are not only experienced in worldly things, but (which is a greater honour to you) ye have attained to the knowledge of Christ in a greater measure than other Christians. For Beginning, see on Chap.1.1.

because ye have overcome the wicked one] The Devil, Mat.6.13. Rom. 16.20. As old men are noted for wisdom, so young men for strength, and ability to conquer. Strong Christians get more victories over Satan than weak ones. The Devil layes most snares for young men, as for them that are most prone to sin, and may serve him longest; But these young men have overcome him. Ye have overcome the Devil, not by killing him, but by putting him to flight, and overcoming his temptations. Πλουσῖοι may be derived from Πλοῦτος, and ἔφυγε, because the Devil loves to take pains to undoe souls.

because ye have known the Father] Nothing is more needful for children, than to have a father, whom they may repair to in their wants, and that may take care for them. These had found out God for their Father. Children know their parents, before they know others: So new converts take more notice of God, than of men. And little children shew more fondnels toward their parents, than men grown: So new converted Christians shew higher expressions of love to God at first, than afterwards. For Father, see on 2 Pet.1.17.

V. 14. And the word of God abideth in you] 2 Joh, verf. 2. Hence is your power to overcome Satan, Eph.6.17. not from bodily strength, or natural boldnesh. For word, see on 2 Pet.1.19. For God, see on 2 Pet. 1.17.

V. 15. the world] The things that are pleasing in it to mans corrupt nature, and so far forth as they are such. Love not worldly things too much, so as to place your happiness in them. For worlds, see on 2 Pet.1.4.

the love of the Father is not in him] He loveth not God, James 4.4.

V. 16. all that is in the world] In price or account with worldlyminded men, as 1 Cor.1.28.

the lust of the flesh] Desire of pleasures, or wantonnesh. For Flesh, see on 2 Pet. 2. 18.

the lust of the eyes] Desire of riches, or covetousnesh, Eccles. 5.11.

the pride of life] Longing for worldly honours, which are most regarded in this life, John 12.42,43. and it shews it self in our life; for pride cannot be kept in. Or, pride of the things or goods of this life: and so the same word it translated, chap. 3. 17. for riches puft men up, Psal.73.5,6,&c. 1 Tim.6.17. Βίος, signifies, 1. Life, 1 Pet. 4.3. 2. Living, or, means to live upon, Luk. 8. 43. Here it may be taken in either sense.

V. 17. the world passeth away] Men would always abide in places they love, and enjoy pleasures there; but they cannot in this world: therefore love it not, 1 Cor.7.29,&c. For world, see on 2 Pet. 1.4. The will of God] The Greek word, θέλημα, signifies, 1. The act of willing. Eph.1.5. 2. The thing willed, Matth.7.21. So heres the lust thereof] Those things in the world that are lusted after; as verf. 16. So hope, is put for the thing hoped for, Rom.8.24. Col.1.5. And faith, for the thing beleeved, Jude verf.3.

V. 18. Little children] See verf. 1.

it is the last time] Gr. hour. The beginning of the last age of the world, Heb.1.2. therefore love not the world, because ye can enjoy it but a while, Luke 12.20. 1 Cor.7.29. This argument is good, whether it be understood of the nearness of the end of the world, or of the rearing of the world by death; or, as others think, of the destruction of Jerusalem, before which false christs came, and at which time the Jews were deprived of their pleasures, wealth and honours. It may also signifie, that no new doctrine is to be expected; as Heb.1.2.

as ye have heard that antichrist shall come] Ye have heard of a noted antichrist, 2 Thess.2.3,&c. He is not yet come, but there are divers fore-runners of him come into the world, Act. 20.29,30. 1 Tim.4. 1,&c. Antichrist. Ἀντί in compostion,] 1. Notes an opposite, 2 Thes. 2.4. 2. A Deputy, Act.13.7. The Pope the great Antichrist opposeth himself to Christ in deed, and calls himself Christs Vicar. This is the first time, this word is used in Scripture.

there are many antichrists] Many false or pretended christs, such as Judas and Theudas were, Acts 5 36,37. And afterward, in likelihood Judas and Theudas were, Acts 5 36,37. And afterward, Bar-Cochaba, or Bar-Cozba, and others. Or, hereticks also, as Simon Magus, Ebion, Cerinthus, and the like.

whereby we know it is the last time] Because our Saviour foretold, that towards the later end of times, many such should come, Matth. 24.11,24.

V. 19. They] Those antichrists, verſ. 18. Jude verſ. 19. not of us from us] Either from the body of Gods people, the Jews; or from the society of profeſſed Chriſtians.
but they were not of us] Of us true beleevers, who cannot fall away, Matth. 24. 24. ohn 6. 37. & 10. 28, 29. Rom. 8. 28, 29, 38. 39. 2 Tim. 2. 19. Marvel not, nor be not troubled, that many forſake Gods Church. If they had been found members, they would never have done ſo. They were in the Church in body onely, not in ſpirit; and the Church loſeth nothing by their departure, as corn loſeth nothing when the chaff is gone (but is the purer,) nor the body, when bad humours are worn away. that they might be made manifeſt] 1 Cor. 11. 19. And ſo the better avoided. that they were not all of us] That none of them were of us. An Hebrew phraſe, as Pſal. 14. 2. 2 Chap. 2. 15. Or, that it might be made manifeſt in them that all were not of us, that ſeeyed to be ſo by their converſing with us.

V. 20. But ye have an unction] Ye need not fear ſeducing: Gods Word and Spirit will ſafeguard you from falſe teachers. The Spirit of God, that anointed Chriſt for a King and a Prieſt, hath alſo anointed you to be ſuch, ſpiritually, Rev. 1. 6. that ye may be able to guide and defend your ſelves againſt falſe teachers. Oyl was uſed in conſecration, Exod. 30. 25. Thereby are ſignified the gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, beſtowed on beleevers, whereby they are conſecrated to God, Pſal. 45. 7. Heb. 1. 9. from the holy One] From Chriſt, in whom the graces of Gods Spirit are, as in a ſpring, to be communicated to us, Dan. 9. 24. Luke 1. 35. John 1. 16. & 3. 34. Pſal. 133. 2. Iſai. 61. 1.
ye know all things] That are needful for you to know, to preſerve you from being ſeduced by theſe falſe teachers, Matth. 24. 24. or, that are neceſſary to guide you to heaven. See the like phraſe, Col. 3. 20. For no man knows all things ſimply; that is Gods prerogative, John 21. 17. nor any thing ſo perfectly, as they ſhall do in heaven, 1 Cor. 13. 9, 10, 12. Or, ye know all that I write to you to be true, ſo that I rather admoniſh, than teach you, 2 Pet. 1. 12.

V. 21. I have not written unto you, becauſe ye know not the truth] I write not unto you to acquaint you with any new doctrine, verſ. 7. but ſo confirm you further in the truth formerly taught you, and already known by you, 2 Pet. 1. 12.
no lye is of the truth] And that ye may be the better able thereby to diſcover the falſe doctrines of theſe ſeducers, conſidering how they ſwerve from it.

V. 22. Who is a lyer, but he that denyeth that Jeſus is the Chriſt?] What untruth can be more palpable, or more pernicious than this, that oppoſeth a truth that hath ſo pregnant and ſo plentifull evidences, and is the main ſcope of the whole Goſpel, John 20. 31. For Jeſus Chriſt, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 1, 2. For Antichriſt, on verſ. 18. For Father, on 2 Pet. 1. 17.
He is antichriſt, that denyeth the Father, and the Son] The very word antichriſt, doth ſignifie a direct oppoſition to Chriſt, and that as he is the Son of God the Father: whereupon it followeth, by juſt conſequence, that the denyal of the Son, is the denyal of the Father: and this is a juſt character of antichriſt.

V. 23. Whoſoever denyeth the Son, &c.] The Jews thought it a wrong to God, to confeſs that he had a Son. Falſe teachers ariſe then, who taught, that it was injurious to God to make Chriſt equal to him. Both thought it ſufficient to acknowledge the Father only to be God. John ſhews, that it is an injury to the Father, to deny equal honour to his Son, John 5. 23.

V. 24. which ye have heard from the beginning] See on verſ. 7. When once we doubt of things taught in the Scripture, we ſoon are ſeduced. But if we hold faſt our firſt principles of true Religion without doubting or wavering, we ſhall not be ſeduced by falſe teachers. For Beginning, ſee on 1 John 1. 1. For Heard, ſee 2 Pet. 1. 18.
ye alſo ſhall continue in the Son, and in the Father] What greater honour can we have, to encourage us to the conſtant profeſſion of the truth?

V. 25. And this is the promiſe] What greater profit is there to ſet before us, than eternal life? That he hath promiſed us.] Gr. That he himſelf hath promiſed us. To wit, The Father, or the Son, verſ. 24. And therefore it muſt needs be ſure. If the beſt men in the world had promiſed, it might have failed.

V. 26. Theſe things have I written, &c.] I have done my part to warn you of theſe ſeducers: if ye be drawn away by them, it is your fault, Ezek. 33. 9. Acts 20. 26, 27, 29.

V. 27. But the anointing] See on ver. 20. abideth in you] Remaineth with you, to teach you on all occaſions, though other teachers ſhould fail.
ye need not that any man teach you] The true grounds of religion. Ye need onely to perſevere in the profeſſion of them. Or, that I ſhould take much pains to inform you in the truth, as verſ. 21. Or, ye need not that any man ſhould teach you any new opinions; Remain in theſe ye have been taught. Falſe teachers would draw you away from your found principles. Onely we muſt exhort you to perſevere in them, and endeavour to build you up higher. This is not written, that they ſhould contemn the doctrine of their godly teachers ſuitable to Gods word, but to ſhew, that if that ſhould be wanting, God would ſupply them by his Spirit. It alſo intimates the agreement of the doctrine taught them before by their godly teachers, with that which this Apoſtle teaches them in this Epiſtle. of two things] See on verſ. 20. ye ſhall abide] Or, ye will abide. I am ſo perſwaded of you. in him] In Chriſt, the holy One, verſ. 20. by faith and imitation. Or, in it. In that which this anointing hath taught you.

V. 28. when he ſhall appear] In judgement, Col. 3. 4. we may have confidence] The word properly ſignifies boldneſs to ſpeak, what a man thinks without fear of offending any man. But here it is taken more generally for aſſurance of eternall happineſs, and that Chriſt comes not to condemn us, but to ſave us. Or, A free conſcience, and teſtimony, that we are the children of God. An undaunted ſpirit. He ſeems to have reſpect to the fearful voices of damned perſons, Luke 23. 30.

V. 29. that he is righteous] Chriſt, of whom he ſpake laſt: or, God the Father, of whom we are new born.
ye know] Or, know ye.
doth righteouſneſs] Liveth righteouſly, 1 John 3. 7. is born of him] Sheweth the truth of his regeneration, according to Gods Image, by his godly life, Eph. 4. 24. 1 John 3. 7.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. BEhold] Take notice of it, as of a certain truth, and a great privilege, John 1. 12. what manner of love] And how great, Matt. 8. 27.
that we ſhould be called the Sons of God] Both be ſo, and alſo acknowledged, Matth. 5. 9.
the world knoweth us not] To be Gods children, and therefore loveth us not, but hateth us, John 15. 21, 24. & 16. 3.

V. 2. now are we the Sons of God] Joh. 1. 12, 13. For we have received the Spirit of adoption here, Rom. 8. 15. Gal. 4. 5. and ſo have right to glory, as Gods children. and it doth not yet appear] Or, but it doth not yet appear; as Matt. 11. 19. It hath not yet been made manifeſt. The particle, Καὶ, ſignifies, 1. And. Matth. 19. 9. 2. Or, Matth. 12. 37. 3. But, Matt. 11. 19. 4. Therefore, 1 Cor. 6. 2. 5. Then, Matth. 9. 7. Here it might be better tranſlated, But.
what we ſhall be] How glorious we ſhall be.
but we know] Or, yet we know. See on Chap. 2. 1. he ſhall appear] See on Chap. 2. 28. Or, it ſhall appear 3 as in this verſe before. Some underſtand it of God the Father mentioned before, when he ſhall appear, as a father to put us in poſſeſſion of our heavenly glory.
we ſhall be like him] Col. 3. 4. Phil. 3. 21. In perfect holineſs, and happineſs like him, yet not equal to him. for we ſhall ſee him] And therefore muſt be made like him; elſe are we not fit to live ever in his preſence, which is called ſeeing of God, Matth. 5. 8. Heb. 12. 14.
as he is] As he is, now, in glory, not as he was, in the form of a ſervant, Joh. 17. 24. Phil. 2. 7, 9. & 3. 21.

V. 3. every man that hath this hope] All that look for ſalvation by Chriſt, beſides the righteouſneſs imputed by God, ſeek to be inherently holy.
in him] Or, on him. On Chriſt. purifieth himſelf] Matth. 5. 8. Heb. 12. 14. Is ſtill purifying himſelf: For none is perfectly pure here.

V. 4. Whoſoever committeth ſin] Good men muſt not flatter themſelves in their ſins, nor give way to their infirmities, as if they were no ſins; for they are breaches of Gods law.
tranſgreſſeth alſo the law] It condemns their opinion, who think, that ſuch as are freed from the curſe of the law by faith in Chriſt, are not ſubject to the command of it, 2 Pet. 2. 19. Jude verſ. 14. Καὶ For γὰρ, And for For.
ſin is the tranſgreſſion of the law] For, where there is no law, there is no tranſgreſſion, Rom. 4. 15. & 5. 13. And theſe two are convertible: for every tranſgreſſion is a ſin, and every ſin is a tranſgreſſion.

V. 5. He was manifeſted] Chriſt took our nature on him, 1 Tim. 3. 16. Chap. 1. 2. to take away our ſins] The guilt of them, by his blood, chap. 1. 7. Rev. 1. 5. The filth of them, by his Spirit, 1 Cor. 6. 11. and in him is no ſin] Who neither did ſin, nor had ſin, 2 Cor. 5. 21. Heb. 7. 26. & 4. 15. We muſt not continue in ſin, becauſe Chriſt came to take ſin away, and had no ſin in himſelf. Or, for thoſe two reaſons, we muſt not deſpair of pardon of ſin.

V. 6. Whoſoever abideth in him] John 15. 4, 5. ſinneth not] Doth, nor practiſeth ſin, as verſ. 8, 9. John 8. 34. Maketh it not his trade. He ſinneth not out of malice, or, liveth not in a courſe of known ſin. hath not ſeen him] Had never any true ſight of him, much leſs was ever throughly acquainted with him, Matth. 7. 23. John 10. 14.

V. 7. Little children] See on Chap. 2. 1.

he that doth righteouſneſs] Not that heareth or talketh of it onely. is righteous] Doth ſhew that he is ſo, Chap. 2. 29. as he is righteous] Like him, as Lev. 11. 44. 1 Pet. 1. 16. Mat. 5. 48. not equal to him, as 1 Sam. 2. 2.

V. 8. He that committeth ſin] With plotting beforehand, and delight in it, Rom. 13. 14. and practiſing it, as verſ. 6. He that makes ſin his work, makes himſelf the childe of the Devil, he is ſaid to commit ſin, that makes the courſe of his life a trade of ſin, that allows himſelf in his ſin, juſtifies, and excuſes himſelf, and doth not hate, but love his ſin. is of the devil] John 8. 44. Acts 13. 10. Though by his Chriſtian profeſſion he ſeems to be the Son of God. 1 The word, Διάβολος, ſignifies, 1. In general any ſlanderer. 1 Tim. 3. 11. 2. In particular, the Devil the cheef ſlanderer of God to man, Gen. 3. 5. and man to God, Job 1. 9. So here.
the devil ſinneth] Continueth ſinning ſtill. from the beginning] Of the creation, or, of ſin; for he was the firſt ſinner, John 8. 44.
the Son of God was manifeſted] See on verſ. 5. that he might deſtroy] Gr. diſſolve. For many things are deſtroyed by diſſolution.
the works of the devil] Our ſins, as verſ. 5. and the power the devil hath over us, by occaſion of them, 2 Tim. 2. 26.

V. 9. is born] Gr. hath been born, or, begotten, as Chap. 5. 1. doth not commit ſin] See on verſ. 6. For God, ſee on 2 Peter 1. 17. for his ſeed] The graces of the Holy Ghoſt, by whoſe power he was regenerate. The word, σπέρμα, ſignifies, 1. Seed, 1 Cor. 15. 38. 2. Poſterity, 2 Cor. 11. 22. Here in the firſt ſenſe.
remaineth in him] Holineſs, planted in him by God, keeps him from ſinful courſes, and, like good ſeed, makes him bring forth good fruit; whereas before, like ground not ſown, he brought forth nothing but the weeds of ſin. cannot ſin] See verſ. 6.

V. 10. whoſoever doth not righteouſneſs] Purity of life, and charity, are two ſure ſigns of a child of God. For Brother, ſee on 2 Peter 1. 10.

V. 11. meſſage] Or, commandment. from the beginning] See on Chap. 2. 7. For Head, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 18. For Beginning, See on Chap. 1. 1. one another] Not our kindred onely, but others alſo, and that mutually.

V. 12. Not as Cain] Let us not do as Cain did: or, not that we ſhould do as Cain. of that wicked one] The devil, the firſt murderer, Chap. 2. 14. John 8. 44. and ſlew his brother] Gen. 4. 8. becauſe his own works were evil, and his brothers righteous] Out of meere envy, and malice proceeding from it, Pſal. 38. 20. This is an anſwer to the former queſtion; Why did he ſlay him? Becauſe he walked in a way contrary to him, and was better than he. Therefore he envied him, and killed him.

V. 13. Marvel not, if the world hate you] Becauſe the ſame ſpirit of envy that was in Cain, and the ſame occaſions, are ſtill in the world, Gen. 3. 15. John 15. 18, 19. Therefore be not offended at wicked mens hatred, as an abſurd thing; for if where there were but two brethren in the world, one ſlew the other, ye may much more look for ſuch uſage. For world, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 4. By the world here is meant the wicked of the world ſo called, 1. Becauſe they are originally of the world, and called her own. John 8. 23. & 15. 19. 2. They are the greater part of the world, and therefore called the whole world. 1 John 5. 19. 3. They are wholly converſant about the world, Phil. 3. 19. 4. They ſerve the God of this world, 2 Cor. 4. 4. 5. They have their portion in this world, Pſal. 17. 14.

V. 14. we know] We do not onely hope for it for hereafter, but know it now, Chap. 5. 13. that we have paſſed] Already, and are in the ſtate of grace and life.
from death unto life] Out of the ſtate of nature, which leads to hell, into the ſtate of grace, which tends to heaven, John 5. 24. Chap. 4. 7. becauſe we love the brethren] This is not the cauſe of our paſſing from death to life; but the cauſe of our knowledge thereof, or the mark whereby we know it; as Luke 7. 47. He that loveth not] Though he do not hate him: His brother, Any one Chriſtian: Abideth in death. In his natural eſtate ſubject to eternal death notwithſtanding his Chriſtian profeſſion.

V. 15. whoſoever hateth his brother, is a murderer] For he ſtandeth guilty of tranſgreſſing the firſt commandement, Matth. 5. 22. And ſo is a murderer in heart, from whence murders come, Matth. 15. 19.
no murderer hath eternal life] Gal. 5. 21. Rev. 21. 8.

V. 16. the love of God] The truth of it, or the force of it, Joh. 15. 13. Rom. 5. 8. Chap. 4. 9. becauſe he laid down his life] Becauſe Chriſt dyed for us, Joh. 10. 15. He ſhewed love to us, in his incarnation; but moſt of all, in laying down his life willingly for us, John 10. 17. He needed not to have done it. for us] Whom he had no need of, nor no cauſe given to love; but much cauſe to hate, Rom. 5. 8, 9. we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren] If need require, eſpecially we ought to lay down our corporal life for their ſpiritual good.

V. 17. whoſo hath this worlds good] That is, things needful for preſerving life. So Mark 12. 44. Luk. 8. 43. & 15. 12. & 21. 4. For world, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 19. For Brother on 2 Pet. 1. 10. his brother] His neighbour, eſpecially a beleever, Gal. 6. 10. whom he ought to releeve, becauſe they are brethren. ſhutteth up his bowels] Sheweth, by not releeving him, that he is not at all moved with any pity of his wants, or compaſſion of him, Lam. 2. 11. Luk. 1. 78. Phil. 1. 8. & 2. 1. Col. 3. 12. 2 Cor. 7. 15. Phil. verſ. 7, 12. Iſa. 63. 15. For pity doth, as it were, open the bowels, Gen. 43. 30. 1 King. 3. 26. Matth. 9. 36. Fraternal charity, ſhould come from maternal affection.
how dwelleth the love of God in him?] It cannot abide in him, let him brag of it never ſo much, Chap. 4. 20. Jam. 2. 15. The love of God, and of our neighbour, are inſeparable, Matt. 22. 38, 39. Chap. 4. 21. & 5. 1. For God, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 17.

V. 18. My little children] See on Chap. 2. 1. let us not love in word] Nor in word onely; as Hoſ. 6. 6. Matt. 9. 13. & 12. 7. Rom. 2. 28. By giving good words, without actual relief, which is nothing worth, Jam. 2. 15. For word, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 4. and in truth] Not giving to avoid the importunity of the poor, as Luke 18. 45. but out of love to them, and pity of their wants. Or, in deed and in truth. Becauſe that is true charity, which is manifeſted by deeds. For Truth, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 12.

V. 19. And hereby] Or, For hereby. See on Chap. 2. 2. that we are of the truth] Sincere Chriſtians, not hypocrites. Or, profeſſours of the heavenly truth, and live as according to it, John 18. 37. Or the true children of God, verſ. 10. Chap. 4. 4, 6. Therefore it followeth, before him.
ſhall aſſure our hearts] Gr. perſwade. It hath no aſſurance by nature, and needeth ſure ſignes to perſwade it, that we are ſincere, and in favour with him, Luke 1. 16. The Syriack tranſlation reads, Make our hearts quiet. For Heart, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 19. before him] Before Chriſt with confidence, Chap. 4. 17. 2 Peter 1. 10.

V. 20. if our heart condemn us] Though our life be ſo fair, that no man condemn us, nor our words or deeds bewray us; yet if our heart condemn us, either of a ſecret wicked courſe of life, or of want of charity, verſ. 17. God will much more do it, Job 34. 22. Pſal. 19. 12. If our own conſciences though blinde in many things condemn us, much more will God, who knows all things.
condemn us] Or, know ought againſt us, according to the Greek Etymologie.
God is greater than our heart] We muſt take notice that God is greater than our heart, Chap. 4. 4. and therefore will condemn us much more, Chap. 5. 9. Job 32. 21, 22. & 33. 12. For he is more powerful, John 10. 29. and knoweth all things] Gen. 1. 31. Job 28. 24. 2 Chro. 16. 9. Prov. 15. 11. Heb. 4. 13. And therefore knoweth our ſecret ſins, which we know not: and hath more cauſe, as well as power, to condemn us. Though our conſciences heap up many things, that by heaping ſin on ſin they may drive us to deſpaire, yet many things are hid from the conſcience, that are not hid from God.

V. 21. if our heart condemn us not] Of hypocriſie, or want of charity; as verſ. 20. confidence] To pray freely to him, as verſ. 22. We have not onely a quiet conſcience, but alſo a cheerfull countenance in acceſs to God by prayer coming to him, as to a Father, Heb. 4. 16. We may boldly ſo preſent our ſelves before God notwithſtanding our infirmities.

V. 22. whatſoever we aſk, &c.] If we love our brethren, we may be ſure God will hear us, and grant our requeſts, Matt. 7. 7, 8. & 21. 22. Mark 11. 24. Luk. 11. 9, 10. Joh. 14. 13, 14. & 16. 23, 24. Otherwiſe we have cauſe to doubt of it. we receive of him] If our conſciences condemn us not of hypocritical love of our brethren, but areteſt, that we hear them in their wants, God will hear us in all ours.
becauſe we keep] Not for our merit, but for his merciful promiſe to hear ſuch, Dan. 9. 18. John 9 31. For keep, ſee on 2 Pet. 2. 17 or Reſerved. his commandment] Gr. commandments. Of faith in Chriſt, and love of God and man, verſe 23. Chap. 4. 21. And do the things that are pleaſing in his ſight. Love to the brethren then is pleaſing to God, as well as commanded by him.

V. 23. on the Name of his Son] On his Son, as he hath declared himſelf in his Goſpel, Chap. 2. 12. Act. 2. 21. Rom. 10. 13.
as he gave us commandment] John 13. 34. & 14. 1.

V. 24. And he that] Or, For he that; as verſe 19. Chap. 2. 2. dwelleth in him] Abideth joyned to him by faith, Joh. 6. 56. Eph. 3. 17.

and he in him] By his Spirit, as followeth in this verse. By the Spirit, is meant the gifts of the Spirit, Rom. 8. 10, 11. Hereby we know] We know it our selves, and do not believe it barely upon hearsay; but know it by his Spirits abiding in us, which appears by the perpetual influence, and assistance of the Spirit. The Greek word, Πνευμα, signifies, 1. The Breath, Matth. 27. 50. 2. The soul of man, Act. 7. 59. 3. The heart, or affection, Rom. 1. 9. 4. The regenerate part of man, Gal. 5. 17. 5. An Angel, Heb. 1. 14. 6. Christs Divine Nature, Rom. 1. 4. 7. The Holy Ghost, 1 Tim. 4. 1. 8. The gifts of the Spirit, 1 Theff. 5. 19. So here.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. B*Eleeve not every Spirit*] Every doctrine propounded as received by inſpiration from Gods Spirit. Or, every Teacher that faith, he hath ſuch a revelation, 1 Cor. 14. 26, 29, 32.

try the Spirits] Falſe teachers will boaſt of the Spirit, and therefore we muſt try what Spirit their doctrine cometh from; and that by the touch-ſtone of Gods word, with all diligence, Joh. 5. 39. Act. 17. 11. 1 Theſſ. 5. 21. Rev. 2. 2.

whether they are of God] By inſpiration or revelation. As thoſe falſe teachers boaſt. For God, See on 2 Pet. 1. 17.

many falſe prophets] Chap. 2. 18. 2 Pet. 2. 1. Falſe teachers, ſuch as would be thought to be true teachers, but are not. So we reade of falſe gods, and hear of falſe gold. But hereby is not meant ſuch as ſometimes through weakneſs deliver things untrue; but ſuch as preach damnable hereſies, 2 Peter 2. 1. For world, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 4.

V. 2. Every Spirit] See on verſ. 1. that confeſſeth, &c.] And withal embraceth Chriſt, by relying on him for eternal life. Or, it may be interpreted negatively; No ſpirit that denyeth it, is of God. As 1 Cor. 10. 3 1. Do all to Gods glory: that is, Do nothing to diſhonour him, by offending his children, as verſe 32.

that Jeſus Chriſt is com in the fleſh] Clothed with it. Is become true man, John 1. 14. He doth not ſay, Is come into the fleſh, leſt any ſhould deny the perſonal union of both natures in Chriſt, or think his Godhead comprehended with'n the limits of his body: but, in the fleſh, Rom. 8. 3. 1 Tim. 3. 16. He came from the Father, as God: in the fleſh, as Man; He did not bring his fleſh with him from heaven, but took it, and manifeſted himſelf in it upon earth. For Fleſh, ſee on 2 Pet. 2. 18.

is of God] Is ſent of God, and preacheth true doctrine; as verſe 6. Yet his perſon may be unregenerate, as Judas was. Or, doth ſo far forth ſpeak from God, 1 Cor. 12. 3.

V. 3. And every Spirit] Or, but every ſpirit; as Chap. 3. 2.

that [ſpirit of antichriſt] See on Chap. 2. 18. which ye have heard] See on Chap. 2. 18. 2 Pet. 2. 18.

V. 4. ye are of God] Bred of God, as his children, Chap. 5. 1. John 1. 13. James 1. 18. 1 Pet. 1. 3, 23. Though there be ſo many ſeducers, yet ye are ſafe, as having diſcerned and overcome their allurements, by the wiſdom and power of God dwelling in you.

little children] See on Chap. 2. 1.

and have overcome them] Thoſe falſe prophets, verſ. 1. and antichriſts, verſ. 3.

for greater is he that is in you] Cha. 2. 20. Gods Spirit, Cha. 3. 24. Ye overcame them not by your own ſtrength, but by Gods Spirit dwelling in you, Rom. 8. 37. Phil. 4. 13. Rev. 12. 11.

then he that is in the world] The Divel, Joh. 12. 31. 1 Cor. 2. 12, Eph. 2. 2, & 6. 12.

V. 5. They are of the world] Wicked and unregenerate men, John 15. 19. & 17. 9.

therefore ſpeak they of the world, &c.] Becauſe they are of the world, they ſpeak ſuitably, and are heard readily: for, being ſenſual themſelves, 1 Cor. 2. 14. and ſpeaking to ſuch as themſelves, of things pleaſing to them, as they have learned by their ſenſes here; men readily hearken to them. John 3. 31.

V. 6. we are of God] Thoſe falſe teachers, verſ. 1, 3, 5. are not ſent of God to preach his truth, as we are, Joh. 3. 31.

he that knoweth God, heareth us] Aſſenteth to our doctrine, and not to thoſe falſe teachers, Joh. 10. 3, 5.

hereby know we, &c.] By teaching the ſame doctrine, which the other Apoſtles taught. For Gods Spirit varieth not from himſelf: and he hath given the word for a perpetual rule to try the ſpirits by, Iſai. 8. 20.

the Spirit of truth] True teachers, who have received the truth by inſpiration of Gods Spirit. See on verſ. 1. For Spirit, ſee on Chap. 3. 24. For Truth, on 2 Pet. 1. 12.

V. 7. is born of God] Chap. 3. 9. & 5. 1.

and knoweth God] Chap. 2. 3.

V. 8. God is love] He doth not call God Loving, but Love it ſelf: for love is eſſential to him, and cannot be parted from him. This is much more emphatical, than if he had ſaid, God is infinitely loving; He is even love it ſelf.

knoweth not God] See on Chap. 3. 6.

V. 9. In this was manifeſted the love of God] In nothing more, than in giving Chriſt for us, Chap. 3. 16. Joh. 3. 16. Rom. 8. 3, 32. Gal. 4. 4, 5.

his onely begotten Son] And therefore moſt dear to him, Mat. 3. 17. Gen. 22. 2.

that we might live through him] Joh. 3. 16. Under life, is contained all happineſs.

V. 10. Herein is love] He loved us freely, doing good to us, and looking for no good from us: we cannot ſo love him, but muſt love him for his gifts, as well as for himſelf. Ours therefore is not worthy the name of love, in compariſon of his, becauſe it cannot be every way ſo free. And the pure nature of love is more ſeen in Gods love to us, than in ours to him.

not that we loved God] So freely as he loved us. Or, firſt, as verſe 19. Or, we were ſo far from loving him, as that we hated him, Rom. 5. 8, 10.

to be the propitiation for our ſins] See on Chap. 2. 2. His love appeared the more, in that he ſent his ſon, not only to reach us the way to heaven, but alſo to dye for us. That ſo he might make God propitious to us by offering himſelf for us to take away our ſins. Joh. 1. 29. For Sin, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 9.

V. 11. If God] Or, Seeing God. For he doth not doubt whether God loveth us or no, but infers from Gods love to us, that we ought to love others. See the like phraſe, 1 Pet. 4. 18.

ſo loved us] If he, being ſo great, ſo freely loved us, vile, wretched, unworthy and ungrateful perſons, as not onely to give his creatures to us, but alſo his Son to death for us, we ought to love others, that differ not ſo much from us, though they deſerve it not of us. See on verſe 10. They may do us good hereafter, we cannot to God. Or, If God ſo greatly loved us, as John 3. 16. Romanes 5. 8.

V. 12. No man hath ſeen God] I propound not God ſimply to be imitated in all things, becauſe he is inviſible, Joh. 1. 18. 1 Tim. 1. 17. Exod. 33. 20. But in his love to us, which hath been ſo fully manifeſted. Or, ye may more eaſily love your brother, whom ye can ſee, than God whom ye cannot ſee; as verſe 20. Though God be inviſible, yet he is united by faith to them, that love his children. For God, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 17.

if we love one another] As we know we have a ſoul in us, by the working of it, though we ſee it not: ſo we know that God is in us, if his Spirit hath wrought love in us to his children.

his love is perfected in us] Chap. 2. 5. He makes us ſure that he loves us. Or, he makes us love him more fully: or, to know that our love to him is true, verſ. 17. or, our love to him is more fully manifeſted, 2 Cor. 11. 9. Jam. 2. 22. He means not Gods love to us, for that is always perfect; but our love of him, which is ſincere, though not full in degrees on earth; it is proved truly, and indeed to be in us. This perfection is not oppoſed to imperfection, but to hypocriſie, Chap. 2. 5.

V. 13. that we dwell in him] Chap. 3. 24.

of his Spirit] Some graces of his Spirit in our meaſure, John 1. 16, Numb. 11. 17. Not all of them, or without meaſure, as to Chriſt, John 3. 34. It cannot be meant of the eſſence of the Spirit, which being infinite is indiviſible, being the ſame eſſence with that of the Father and of the Son.

V. 14. And we have ſeen, &c.] See Chap. 1. 1, 3. 1 Cor. 15. 5. 2 Pet. 1. 16. We Apoſtles have ſeen it. For Father, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 17. For world, on 2 Pet. 1. 4. By world here is meant all in the world, that ſhall be ſaved, Chap. 2. 2.

V. 15. whoſoever confeſſeth, &c.] See on verſ. 2. 1 Cor. 12. 3.

dwelleth in him] See Chap. 3. 24. Whoſoever confeſſeth this not hypocritically, but heartily, out of a true and ſaving faith relying on Chriſt for eternal life: For wicked men, and devils confeſs this, yet have no communion with God.

V. 16. God is love] See on verſ. 8. He is love it ſelf; yet ſometimes he is called Loving, leſt we ſhould think him to be a quality, and not a living ſubſtance.

and he that] Or, therefore he that, as 1 Cor. 5. 13.

dwelleth in God, and God in him] Chap. 3. 24.

V. 17. Herein is our love] Gr. love with us, as 1 Cor. 15. 10.

made perfect] Verſ. 12. Chap. 2. 5. By Love with us, may be meant Gods love to us: We know by this, that God loves us. Or, our love to God is known by this to be ſincere.

that we may have boldneſs] Or, freedom, or confidence, Cha. 3. 19, 21. Matth. 25. 34, 35. For Day, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 19.

as he is, ſo are we] Sincere in his love to us. See on Chap. 3. 3. Luke 6. 36. 2 Cor. 3. 18. Epheſ. 4. 24. Col. 3. 10. Heb. 12. 10; 2 Pet. 1. 4.

in this world] Even while we abide here, Joh. 17. 11, 15. For world, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 4.

V. 18. There is no fear in love] If we know by love, that God is in us, and we in him, verſ. 16. we may well be fearleſs of damnation, and not give way to terrours of conſcience, timorouſneſs, or deſperation. There is no cauſe of fear of hell, Rom. 8. 31, perfect love] Sincere, without hypocriſie; as chap. 3. 18, 19. Or, full, wanting no degree, James 1. 4.

caſteth out fear] He that truly loveth God, doth not forbear ſin for fear of hell only, but rather out of love to God; as a loving wife forbeareth all diſloyal and undutiful carriage, not for fear of death ſo much, as out of love to her husband, 2 Tim. 1. 7. Or, Servile fear doth not exerciſe his work, while love doth exerciſe him, but ſometimes it may be of good uſe in a good man, when the fleſh would prevail. Or, perfect love in heaven caſteth out all fear of hell.

Fear hath torment] A fearing conſcience threatens torment, and puniſhment in hell.

therefore he that feareth] It is a concluſion out of the former premiſes; where is fear, there is torment. But in perfect love there is no fear. Therefore he that feareth, is not made perfect in love.

V. 19. becauſe he loved us firſt] Verſe 10. Not only becauſe of his excellency, which is moſt worthy of love; but alſo becauſe he hath caſt his love upon us, and therefore is no way indebted to us for our love.

V. 20. How can he love God, &c.] If viſible objects move him not, inviſible will not, chap. 3. 17. The queſtion, makes a ſtrong negation; How can he? It is impoſſible: let any man ſhew, how it may be done, if he can.

V. 21. this commandment] Matth. 22. 37, 38, 39. For God, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 17. For Brother, on 2 Pet. 1. 10.

loveth him that is begotten alſo] Loveth Chriſt, or all Gods children, chap. 4. 21. It ſeems to be a common proverb, intimating, that a man cannot love a father, unleſs he love his children alſo.

V. 2. we love the children of God, when we love God] Gods children bearing Gods image; we cannot love God, but we muſt needs love them: and our love to God, ſhews that we love them in and for God. For Keep, ſee on 2 Pet. 2. 17.

his commandments] Whereof ſix, to wit, all of the ſecond table, require love of the brethren.

V. 3. The love of God] Wherewith we love him, not wherewith he loveth us. This is a ſure ſign that we love God.

his commandments are not grievous] Becauſe Gods Spirit gives us power and will to do them, Matth. 11. 30. Rom. 8. 2, 4. Phil. 2. 12, 13. And becauſe we love him, we will readily obey him. And God removeth rubs, and maketh our way ſmooth before us, Prov. 4. 11, 12. Eſay 26. 7. Gods commands are grievous to us naturally, but believers have a remedy in Chriſt, in whom they believe. His Spirit makes all things eaſie to them; ſo they are not troubleſome to a regenerate ſoul. Nothing is grievous, that a man doth willingly: this clauſe is added, leſt any man ſhould excuſe himſelf for not keeping of Gods commandments, by reaſon of the difficulty thereof; they are not grievous to him that loves God, and hopes for heaven, for love, and hope of reward, make hard things eaſie.

V. 4. is born of God] Verſe 1.

overcometh the world] See chap. 2. 15. Or, Satans temptations, who worketh by the world. Or, that which favours of the world, againſt God, or right reaſon. Theſe he hath overcome in part already, and ſhall wholly, as ſure as if he had already done it. So the Scripture ſpeaketh of things to come, as paſt, to ſhew the certainty of them, Hoſ. 2. 0. 7. Rev. 14. 8. and 18. 2. Or, overcometh all worldly luſts, chap. 2. 15, 16. Or, abideth conſtant in his Chriſtian profeſſion, notwithſtanding all worldly oppoſition. For world, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 4.

the victory] The means whereby we have begun to conquer, and ſhall finiſh it. This makes you to overcome the world; not nature, nor art, but faith, our faith] Whereby we lay hold on Chriſt, and apply his victory to us, Joh. 16. 33. 1 Cor. 15. 57. Rev. 12. 11. ch. 4. 4. and get ſtrength from him to go on in this ſpiritual warfare, till we have fully overcome all Satans temptations, Rom. 16. 20. 1 Pet. 5. 9. So that faith is the inſtrumental cauſe of this victory, Chriſt in whom we believe, is the principal. For Faith, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 5.

V. 5. Who is he, &c.] Not that every one that beleeveth this, overcometh the world, but none elſe do it: ſee on chap. 4. 2.

V. 6. that came by water and blood] That ſhed water and blood out of his ſide, John 19. 34, 35. Or, that obſerved the legal waſhings and ſacrifices. Or, that appointed two ſacraments, one in water, the other in wine, a type of his blood. Or, that watheth away the filth of our ſins by his Spirit, and the guilt of them by his blood. Of the firſt, the Legal waſhings were a type: of the ſecond, the ſacrifices. For Blood, ſee on chap. 1. 7.

it is the Spirit that beareth witneſs] By deſcending on Chriſt like a dove, Mat. 3. 16. Joh. 1. 32, 33. Or, by raiſing him from the dead, Rom. 1. 4. Or, by working miracles by him. Or, by aſſuring us of it in the Word, and in our Conſciences: for the Spirit is of Gods privy counſel, Joh. 14. 26. and 15. 26. and 16. 13. 1 Cor. 2. 10, 11.

the Spirit is truth] And therefore cannot bear falſe witneſs of Chriſt to us, or deceive us in it ſelf. For Spirit, ſee on chap. 3. 24. For Truth, 2 Pet. 1. 12.

V. 7. For there are three that] The ſixth verſe may be in a parentheſis; and this verſe may give a reaſon of the end of the fifth verſe: that Chriſt is the Son of God: of which, not the Spirit alone, but the Father and the Son bear witneſs alſo.

that bear record in heaven] Or, in heaven, that bear record: To wit, to us men on earth, that Chriſt is the Meſſias, or Son of God, The Father, John 5. 32. and 8. 18. by voices, Mat. 3. 17. The Son, by miracles, John 5. 36. The holy Ghoſt, by cloven tongues, Acts 2. 3, 4. 33. And often in the Scripture cndited by the Spirit, He ſpeaks not now from heaven: and therefore is ſaid to be an earthly witneſs, verſe 8. as ſpeaking to us now in the Word, and in our Conſciences.

theſe three are one] An eſſence, though they be three diſtinct perſons, John 10. 30. and agree in their teſtimony concerning Chriſt, as if they were but one witneſs, or, agree in one, as verſe 8.

V. 8. There are three that bear witneſſe in earth] Or, There are three in earth, that bear witneſſe. Th' ſignifies, Faith, the earth, Joh. 3. 34. Secondly, a particular Land, Country in the earth, Mat. 4. 15. here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe.

the Spirit, &c.] See on verſe 6. Some underſtand it of the Spirit which he ſent forth on the Croſs at his death, Mat. 27. 50. which with the water and bloud coming out of his ſide, ſhewed him to be true man. The water, and the bloud. See on verſe 6.

theſe three agree in one] Gr. are for one thing: or, are for that one thing: to wit, to teſtifie of Chriſt, as the heavenly witneſſes did verſe 7.

V. 9. This is the witneſs of God] Teſtified by the three heavenly and earthly witneſſes, verſe 7, 8. Of Chriſt, and of ſalvation by him, ver. 11, 12. And we have reaſon to receive this teſtimony of God in things divine, more than of honeſt men in things humane, becauſe Gods teſtimony, who cannot erre, is more ſure, and worthy of credit, 1 Tim. 1. 15. Tit. 1. 2. For God, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 17.

V. 10. The witneſſe] Or, That witneſſe mentioned, ver. 9, 11. The holy Ghoſt will bear witneſs to him, that Chriſt is the Son of God.

a lyer] Chap. 1. 10. he believeth that he doth, or at leaſt that he can lye. He hath made him a lyer: to wit, in his heart: for he would not have doubted of the truth of his teſtimony, if he had not firſt ſuſpected the truth of God himſelf.

V. 11. And this is the record] Or, Even this is the record. So the particle is uſed, Mark 4. 25. For the tenth verſe may be in a parentheſis, as not including the teſtimony, (which is recorded in this verſe) but ſhewing who have this teſtimony in them: ſee the like on ver. 7.

this life is in his Son] The original of it is in Chriſt. We have it for his merits, and derived unto us from him by his Spirit, John 10. 10.

V. 12. He that hath the Son] By faith dwelling in his heart, Eph. 3. 17.

hath life] Is raiſed from death to life, chap. 3. 14. and hath in him a principle of eternal life, John 3. 36. He hath eternal life in hope, and ſhall have it in deed, ver. 13.

Theſe things have I written] John 20. 31. On the Name of the Son of God, Chap. 3. 23.

that ye may have eternal life] A right to it, and earneſt of it here, and the thing it ſelf in heaven, in perpetual joy and happineſſe.

and that ye may believe] That ye may perſevere, encreaſe and grow ſtrong in faith.

V. 14. This is the confidence] This faith, ver. 13. is the ground of our confidence in prayer. Or, we not only believe, as ver. 13. but alſo have confidence in prayer.

in him] In Chriſt. Or, concerning him. Or, in God.

he heareth us] And will give us what we aſk, ver. 15. chap. 3. 22, and chap. 4. 6. For hear, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 18.

V. 15. We know that we have the petitions] That we ſhall have them granted, as ſurely as if we had the things already which we pray for. See on verſe 14. John 14. 13, 14. and 16. 23, 24, 26. Gods hearing us, then, is granting our requeſts.

V. 16. his brother] Therefore he muſt pray for him, becauſe he is his brother. For Brother, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 10.

a ſin which is not unto death] Which doth not neceſſarily bring damnation (though it deſerve it) as the ſin againſt the holy Ghoſt doth, becauſe God will not give repentance to any that commiteth that ſin, Heb. 6. 4, 6. For Sin, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 9.

he ſhall aſk] Or, let him aſk. Pardon for that ſinner.

he ſhall give him] Chriſt; mentioned, ver. 13. Or, God aſked.

Life] Salvation, or deliverance from deſtruction, when his ſin is pardoned at the others requeſt, Job 42. 8. which ſheweth that he deſerved hell.

for them] Not for one onely, but for many ſuch ſinners.

there is a ſin unto death] The ſin againſt the holy Ghoſt, which is unpardonable, Mat. 12. 31, 32. Heb. 6. 4, 6.

I do not ſay that he ſhall pray for it] I do not adviſe him to pray for for pardon for any that hath committed that sin: or, I forbid him to do it.

V. 17. All unrighteousnesse is sin] As chap. 3. 4. Even the least unrighteousnes is sin, and displeasing unto God.

and there is] Or, but there is; as chap. 4.3. or, yet there is; as chap. 2.1.

a sin not unto death] Which may be repented, and forgiven, see on ver. 16.

V. 18. is born of God] Chap. 3.9.

sinneth not] That sin to death, ver. 16. Or, liveth not in a sinful course; as chap. 3.6,9.

keepeth himself] From that sin unpardonable.

that wicked one] The Devil, Matth. 6. 13. chap. 2. 13, 14. and 3.12.

toucheth him not] So as to bring him to that sin, and to hell. Or, cannot do him the least hurt, Job 2. 5. without Gods leave. Or, tempts him not to that sin, as being out of hope to prevail.

V. 19. We are of God] Chap. 4.6.

the whole world lyeth in wickednesse] All men out of Christ, John 17.9,16. are altogether buried in sin: or, lye in it as in a deep dungeon, or a dead sleep: under the power and command of that wicked one, the devil, ver. 18.

V. 20. And we know] Or, but we know; as ver. 17.

that the Son of God is come] See chap. 4.2.

and hath given us understanding] Jer. 24.7.

him that is true] The true God, ver. 19. as followeth in this verse; opposed to Idols, ver. 21. or, Christ, spoken of before in this verse.

even in his Son] Or, and in his Son. We are in the Father, and in the Son, chap. 2.24.

this is the true God] Christ is the true God, John 17. 3. Tit. 2, 13. and 3.4. Jude ver. 25.

and eternal life] The authour of it, verse 11. chap. 1. 2. Joh. 6, 68, 69.

V. 21. Little children] See on chap. 2.1.

keep your selves from idols] From image-worship; for, idol and image signifie the same thing, but only the one is a Greek word originally, and the other a Latine. This overthroweth Popish serving God in images, and adviseth men to be careful to avoid not onely palpable idolatry, but all dealing with idols. And having kept your selves from idolatry, abide constant in the true worship and service of God. For keep, see on 2 Pet. 3.17.

Amen] See on Mat. 6.13. Jude ver. 25. A confirmation of the whole Epistle, 2 Pet. 3, 18.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE SECOND EPISTLE OF S. JOHN.

The Argument.

This is the onely Epistle in Scripture written to a woman. And to one eminent, no doubt, in favour with God, and reputed in the Church: wherein after salutation of her, and her children, he shews his joy in their gracious carriage, warns them to take heed of deceivers, and concludes with a promise of a pious visitation, and salutation from her sisters children.

CHAP. I.

Vers. 1. He Elder] Some conceive that the Apostle calleth himself so in humility, to equal himself with ordinary pastours, as Peter doth, 1 Pet. 5.1. Others think John called himself so, in respect of his age: see on 1 John 2.1.

unto the elect Lady] Some think her name was Electa. Others, that she was so called, because she was a choice woman for grace. Others, because the Apostle knew by the Spirit that she was one of Gods elect, 1 Thes. 1.4. She was a matron honoured for her wealth and liberality to the poor. Or, one that had some civil title of honour above others. It may be supposed she was a widow, because her children are mentioned, but not her husband.

whom I love] Both mother and children.

in the truth] With a true and sincere love: or, according as God in his Word hath appointed, which is called The Truth, John 17.17. Or, in Christ, who is called The Truth, Joh. 14.6.

but also all they, &c.] Such of them as lived in those parts, and knew her piety. This sheweth, it was no private indirect love which John bare to her, arising out of particular ends; but a religious love common to all Saints.

That know the truth] Revealed in the Gospel. For Truth, see on 2 Pet. 1.12.

V. 2. for the truths sake which dwelleth in us] The ground of my love, is the same lively faith wrought in us by Gods Spirit.

and shall be with us for ever] Which grace, where it hath once taken root, is never rooted out again, 1 Pet. 1.23, 24, 25.

V. 3. Grace be with you, mercy and peace] Paul useth the same salutation, 1 Tim. 1.2. 2 Tim. 1.2. Tit. 1.4. he wisheth them Gods favour to their persons, mercy to pardon their sins, and peace of conscience, the Son of the Father] John 1.18. and 3.16. For Father, see on 2 Pet. 1.17.

in truth and love] Or, with truth and love. So that particle is used, Mark 1.23. and 5.2. he wisheth them encrease of the knowledge of the truth, and of love one to another.

V. 4. I found] By experience, if at any time he conversed with them; or, by relation of others, if he did not.

of thy children] Some of thy children.

walking in truth] Sincerely, or as the truth of Gods Word prescribes: see on ver. 1. Constantly professing the true religion, and living according to it.

V. 5. I beseech thee, Lady] He intreateth where he might command, as Paul doth, Phil. ver. 9, 10. it may be he had some respect to the dignity of the Lady, to whom he wrote.

a new commandment] See on 1 John 2.7,8. I teach you no other doctrine than what ye received at first from the Apostles. From the beginning of our vocation to preach the Gospel. For beginning, see on 1 John 1.1.

that we love one another] John 13.34. and 15.12.

V. 6. This is love] Herein it consists. Or, this is that love, mentioned ver. 5.

that we walk after his commandments] Then we love God and our brethren, when we walk after Gods commandments: that is, according to them, John 14.15,21,23. and 15.10. 1 John 5. 2,3. Rom. 8. 1. Lust, then, and sparing offendors, whom we ought to reprove or punish, is not love, because it is contrary to Gods commandments. Or, love it is whereby we are enabled to keep his commandments, John 14.21. and 15.9,10. chap. 2.23. and 5. 2,3. Love must not be idle, but employed in doing good, according to Gods Word.

this is the commandment] Of walking in the truth, ver. 4. or of love, ver. 5.

from the beginning] 1 Joh. 2.7.

V. 7. For many deceivers] I have reason to urge you to constancy, because of false teachers, who seek to seduce you, 1 John 2. 18, 22. and 4.3. These are impostors or jugglers, who can deceive quick-sighted-men, if they be not very careful, Mat. 27.63.

Into the world] See on 2 Pet. 1.4.

that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh] 1 John 4.3. For Flesh, see on 2 Pet. 2. 18. And an Antichrist, see on 1 John 2. 18. The sum of ver. 13. To take heed of deceivers, who give men cole-mines for gold-mines, counterfeit principles of religion for true. These are many, and already entred into the worlds where ye live, to deceive you. He had need watch, that lives among theeves. Therefore take heed of them. But how shall we know them, that we may take heed of them? Ye shall know them by a sure token, they deny the Incarnation of Jesus Christ. This is a sure, though not an only note of a deceiver. Every such one is one of those deceivers, and Antichrists, which I told you were entred into the world.

V. 8. that we lose not the things] We Christians, or we that taught you, if ye continue not in good ways; for the reward is promised to such as continue to the end, Matth. 24. 13. others lose it, Gal. 3. 4.

we have wrought] Or, gained. Some copies read, which ye have gained, but that ye receive, &c.

V. 9. whosoever transgresseth] Gods command of hearing Christ, Matth. 3. 17. Or, by apostacy forsaketh the truth in doctrine and life, contrary to ver. 4.

hath not God] To his father, nor his Spirit to guide him. For God, see on 2 Pet. 1.17.

V. 10. And bring not this doctrine] Received from Christ, ver. 9. The meaning is, if he bring a contrary doctrine: else we should refuse the society of many private men, who are not able to teach at all; which is not here intended, Gal. 1. 8, 9.

receive him not into your house] Lodge not a false teacher, nor have no familiarity with him, lest he seduce you; and that ye may shew your zeal for the truth, and actually reprove him.

God speed] Gr. to rejoyce. That was the ordinary salutation of the Greeks, Acts 23. 26. as Peace be to you, was of the Jews, Luke 10. 5. That is, shew him no countenance, nor give him any encouragement.

V. 11. is partaker of his evil deeds] Seemeth to allow of them, by his familiarity with him, and so may further him in seducing others, who would not regard the false teacher for himself.

V. 12. Having many things to write] He excuseth the shortnesse of his Epistle, not by want of matter to write, but by the hope he had of seeing her shortly. For all things were not fit to be written; and a lively voice affects more than a letter.

face to face] Gr. mouth to mouth. Without any letter or messenger coming between, Exod. 33. 11. Num. 12. 8. 3 John verse 14. That you and I may be filled with joy, by seeing one another, and conferring one with another. This sheweth the great holy mutual affection between the Apostle and this Elect Lady. For friends take great delight in conversing together, especially after long absence.

V. 13. The children of thy elect sister greet thee] Ver. 1. which were with John. So he sendeth other salutations, 3 John ver. 14. So doth Peter, 1 Pet. 5. 13. And Paul often, Rom. 16. 16, 21, 23. 1 Cor. 16. 20. 2 Cor. 13. 12. Phil. 4. 22. Col. 4. 14. 2 Tim. 4. 21. Tit. 3. 15. Philem. ver. 23, 24. Heb. 13. 24. Elect here is not a proper name, as some would have it, ver. 1. for it is not likely that two sisters should have one name. Neither do the Greeks use to put the Article before proper names.

Amen] This seals up the whole Epistle, as 1 John 5. 21.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE THIRD EPISTLE OF S. JOHN.

The Argument.

This Epistle is inscribed to Gaius, to whom the Apostle first wisheth all happiness, then commends him for his zeal to the Truth, and hospitality to the Brethren, advising him not to be discouraged by the proud and perverse carriage of Diotrephes, but to follow the good example of Demetrius. Lastly, he concludes with a resolution to see him quickly, and confer with him lovingly of these things; and salutations from Gaius his friends with him, and to his friends with Gaius.

CHAP. I.

Verse 1. HE Elder] See on 2 John ver. 1.

Gaius] Not to Gaius of Derbe, mentioned, Acts 20. 4. nor of Macedonia, spoken of, Acts 19. 29. but of Corinth, as is commonly thought, 1 Cor. 1. 14. Pauls host, Rom. 16. 23.

whom I love] Not only for his piety, but also for his hospitality shewed in entertaining me and other godly teachers, and Christians, ver. 5. Rom. 16. 23. It is likely the Romans called him Caius, which was a common name among them, and so Aretius calls him in his Notes on this Epistle; yet some think it to be another Gaius converted by John, and called his son therefore, ver. 4. and we read not of Johns being at Corinth.

in the truth] Or, truly. See on 2 John ver. 1.

V. 2. I wish] Or, pray.

above all things] Gr. of all things. Or, in all things. He wisheth that Gaius may prosper in all persons and things belonging to him.

that thou mayest prosper] Gr. go well in the way, Rom. 1. 10. Our life is the way to heaven, and John wisheth Gaius a comfortable passage thither, 1 Cor. 16. 2.

and be in health] In bodily health; for spiritual health followeth.

as thy soul prospereth] By peace of conscience, through faith in Christ, Rom. 5. 1, 2. As thou thrivest, and are well in soul, so I wish thou mayest prosper in body and state. Ψυχὴ signifies, First, the soul, Mat. 10. 28. Secondly, the life, Mat. 2. 20. Thirdly, a man, Rom. 13. 1. Fourthly, good will, Eph. 6. 6. Fifthly, the regenerate part of man, 1 Pet. 2. 11. Sixthly, a mans dead body, Acts 2. 27. Here it is taken in the first sense.

V. 3. I rejoyced greatly] See 2 John ver. 4.

when the brethren came, and testified of the truth that is in thee] The brethren sent by John about the publick affairs of the Church, and commended to the Church of Corinth, where Gaius lived, by Johns Epistle, ver. 9. refused by Diotrephes, ver. 10. entertained by Gaius, ver. 5, 6. and now returned to John, testified of Gaius his sincerity in religion, (John 3. 21.) and his kind entertainment of them, ver. 6. for Paul doth, Phil. 4. 10, 18. 2 Cor. 9. 1. Heb. 6. 10. Or it may be understood of any Christians that came from thence. For Brother, see on 2 Pet. 1. 10. for Truth, on 2 Pet. 1. 12.

even as thou walkest in the Truth] In the true way see out in the Gospel: see on 2 John ver. 4.

V. 4. them] Gr. then those joyes. Or, then of these things. For Hear, see on 2 Pet. 1. 18.

that my children] Converted by my Ministery, 1 Cor. 4. 15. 1 Tim. 1. 2. Philem. ver. 10. Gal. 4. 19. Tit. 1. 4.

walk in the truth] See on ver. 3.

V. 5. thou doest faithfully] As becometh a faithful Christian. Or, like a good steward of worldly goods received from God, 1 Peter 4. 10.

whatsoever thou doest] In entertaining the saints. It was, no doubt, a great comfort to Gaius, that the Spirit of God commends his charity by Johns pen, which Diotrephes and his followers disliked.

to the brethren, and to strangers] To those poor Christians that live by thee, and to others that come to sojourn there a while, Isa. 58. 6. Mat. 10. 40. and 25. 35. Rom. 12. 13. Heb. 13. 2. 1 Pet. 4. 9. Or, to the brethren, yea, to strangers; as this particle is used, Mat. 26. 60. Thy kindnesse stayes not at thy neighbour-christians, but extends it self to strangers also. Or, by and, is meant especially, as Matth.13.41. Mar. 16.7. and elsewhere, where a special is put after his general. Thy kindnesse to all Christians, sheweth thy faithfulnesse to God, but especially that which is shewed to such as came to preach the Gospel, or were driven from their own home for the profession of it, ver. 7. For such being unknown there, and not able to recompence kindnesse received; this kind of charity is highly praised by God, Deut. 10. 18,19. Luke 14.14. Or, to the brethren, even to the strangers: To wit, sent by John: see on ver.3. so the particle is used, Matth. 18. 25.

V. 6. Which have born witness] See on ver. 3.

of thy charity] To others. Or, of thy kind entertainment of them.

before the Church] In the assembly where John was. The Greek word ἐκκλησία signifies; 1. Any assembly of men, Acts 19.32. 2. An assembly of Christians, 1 Cor. 14.34. 3. The assembly of Saints in heaven, Eph. 5.27. 4. Christians on earth, Acts 5. 11. 5. Their meeting place, 1 Cor.11.22. 6. The whole company of Gods elect, Matth. 16. 18. Here it is taken in the second sense.

whom if thou bring forward on their journey] It may be they might be some godly Christians coming from beyond Corinth to John for publick advice, from the Churches, whom Gaius had kindly used; and now he adviseth him to do so in their return. Or, if it be meant of those that had returned to John, being sent from him before, he perswadeth Gaius to use them kindly when he shall have occasion to send them again. Or it may be understood of others such like, ver. 5. whom John would have Gaius to go along withal some part of their way, as Christians used to do to their brethren that were strangers, especially to Ministers, Acts 15. 3. and 20.38. and 21.5. 1 Cor. 16.11. 2 Cor. 1.16. Tit. 3.13. either because they were ignorant of the way, or the way might be unsafe, or they subject to persecution there; so that rich men, and great ones, such as Gaius seems to be, might be a great security to them, by going or sending company with them. Or it might be done to honour and com'ort those strangers, or that themselves might get as much good by their society as might be. Others understand it of providing things needful for their journey, till they might come to other Christians, who might take further care of them.

after a godly sort] Gr. worthy of God. According to Gods command. Or, worthy of the profession of Gods truth; as Christians ought to do, to credit their religion. Or, honourably, as the Ministers and children of God ought to be received. Or, as they would receive God, Mat.10.40. For God, see on 2 Pet.1.17.

thou [shalt do well] Or, thou [shalt do them a good turn.

V. 7. Because, &c.] Because their wants came on them for their love to the true religion, they are worthy to be releeved by the true professours of it.

for his Names sake] God's, ver. 6. To make his Name known by preaching it, or suffering for it; as on ver. 5.

taking nothing of the Gentils] They took no reward of the Gentiles for preaching to them, Matth. 10. 7,8. that men might more willingly receive the Gospel, 1 Cor.9.18,19. 2 Cor.11.9.12. and 12.14. Or, being persecuted for their religion, they left all their goods to their persecutours, and fled for their lives. Ἐθνικὸς signifies; 1. A company of men in general, Matth.5.32. 2. The Nation of the Jews in special, John 11.48. 3. The Gentiles in particular, Mat 6.32. so here.

V. 8. We therefore] We Christians, yea, we Jewish Christians especially, that they may preach to the Gentiles, to bring them in to joyn with us.

ought to receive such] To offer and afford them entertainment voluntarily, before they ask for it, Gen.18.2,3. and 19.1,2. Luke 24. 29.Heb.13.2.

that we might be fellow-helpers] Gr. fellow-workmen. By supplying them with means, that they may preach the truth, or suffer for it the more willingly. This is a great encouragement to help others, that we are accounted to have a part in the work, though it be a Prophets, and shall have a part in the reward, Mat.10. 41. Also it may intimate, that as they were releeved by these now, so these may by them in the work another time, 2 Cor.8.14.

to the truth] Or, for the truth, or, in the truth. They were fellow-helpers to the truth, in providing for them that preached the Gospel. For Truth, see on 1 Pet.1.12.

V. 9. I wrote] To recommend these brethren to the Churches which they were to passe by. Or, I would have written, (for we have no such Epistle) and then he means he was discouraged from writing, because he thought it in vain to write any more in that case being opposed by Diotrephes.

unto the Church] Of Corinth, where Gaius was an eminent member.

but Diotrephes] But I fear, or, I hear, Diotrephes hath refused to receive them. The name of a prime Pastour among them. Others take it to be a common name applied to one there, that most eagerly and inordinately fought for superiority over other Ministers, and Christians. So boasting, and arrogant men of old were called Διοτρεφεῖς, Nourished by Jupiter. So Homer brings in one speaking of an arrogant man: Ἐχθρὸς δ' οὗ τοι ἔπειτα διοτρεφὲς ἔσσεται ἀνήρ, He is envied most by me of all the Kings now fosed by Jupiter.

who loveth to have the preeminence] It seemeth he was Pastour there, and would not let strange Ministers be received, lest he should be sleighted; and not be accounted highest, and most excellent in that Church.

receiveth us not] Acknowledgeth not our authority, by receiving our Epistle. Or, receiveth not me, and such as I am; as ver. 10.

V. 10. I will remember] Gr. I will make mention of. I will speak of them publickly there, to his disgrace.

prating] Gr. talking foolishly, or vainly.

against us] Against me John; as ver. 9. see on ver. 12. Or, me, and them I sent.

and not content therewith] As if he were not satisfied with disgracing my person, he refuseth, and harshly useth such are sent by me. For word, see on 2 Pet. 1.19.

And not content therewith] Being yet more mad and impious, Acts 26.11.

receive the brethren] He should have entertained them kindly, because he professeth himself a brother to them, as being one of the same religion, see on ver. 5. By brethren, here is meant strangers, either preachers or ordinary Christians: see on ver. 5. For brother, see on 2 Pet. 1.10.

forbiddeth them that would] This sheweth great malice against them. He will not let any receive them: Neither thee Gaius, nor others.

and casteth them out of the church] Refuseth communion with these strangers, or those that received them, John 9.34. No doubt this was a great discouragement to Gaius, from his Pastour; yet he obeys the Apostle, who had more power over him, ver.5. He excommunicates them, if they obey not his prohibition. For Church, see on ver. 6.

V. 11. Follow not] Gr. Imitate not; for they that follow, go the same way. And, to walk after Gods precepts, or according to them, in Scripture-phrase is all one.

that which is evil, but that which is good] Not the evil example of Diotrephes, ver. 9, 10. but the good example of Demetrius, ver. 12. Rom.12.9. Or, imitate not Diotrephes in any of his evil ways; but follow him nevertheless in any thing that is good, Matth.23.2. Ἀγαθὸς signifies; 1. Good, Rom.3.8. 2. Profit, Rom. 8.28. 3. Virtue, 1 Per. 3.13. 4. Christian liberty, Rom. 14. 16. here in the third sense.

hath not seen God] By the eyes of faith. Hath not known him to his good, 1 John 4. 8. For God cannot be seen, John 1.18. 1 Joh. 4.20. It is like I by that these proud excommunicatours boasted of visions, (as many erroneous persons do now adaies) but the Apostle gives them the ly.

V. 12. Demetrius hath good report of all men] Of most men, yea, of heathen also, 1 Tim. 3.7. because they got good by him, or heard him much commended by others. Or, of all the brethren that live in those parts, and would have of all others, if they knew him. Either he was a good Minister, and worthy to be entertained by Gaius, or a neighbour to be commended for, and imitated in entertaining strangers. It is probable, that this good report arose upon his hospitality in receiving strangers, both Preachers, and other Christians, ver. 5.

and of the truth it self] From his actions, John 3.21. Prov.31.31. Or, of God, who is the truth it self, 1 John 5.6. Or, he is to be commended indeed, not for the speech of the people onely, which sometimes proves untrue.

yea, and we also bear record] I John do it, as verse 9. Or, we have found him kind to us, and do acknowledge it, as ver. 6. This also might comfort Demetrius against Diotrephes, who took a contrary course: see on ver. 5.

and ye know] John 19.35, and 21.24.

Ye know] By experience of my carriage to you, or observation of it toward others.

that our record is true] That we use not to flatter, but to speak truly, John 21.24. Therefore imitate him, and not Diotrephes. Κάλαμος signifies; 1. A reed, Matth, 12.20. 2. A pen; as here: for pens were of old time made of reeds.

V. 13. I have many things to write, &c.] See on 2 John ver.12.

V. 14. But I trust, &c.] See on 2 John ver. 12.

And then we [shall speak] Στόμα signifies; 1. A mouth, Matth. 15.11. 2. Speech, Luke 19.22. 3. The edge of a sword, Luke 21.24. 4. Boldnesse of speech, Luke 21.15. here in the second sense.

face to face] Gr. mouth to mouth. See on 2 John ver. 12.

peace be to thee] John 20.19,21,26. see on 2 John ver.10.

our friends] The faithful Christians with me here, who love both me and you.

salute thee] With thee all happinesse.

greet the friends] Our Christian brethren, ver. 5. which are with you; so called, because of their great affection they bear one to another, ther, Tit. 3.15. Natural brethren may fail one another, before Christian friends will, Prov. 18.24.

by name] Severally. Either John knew all their names, or else they were as dear to him as those friends whom he knew by name, Exod. 33.12. Thus he sheweth not a vulgar or common, but a peculiar, paternal, pastoral love unto them. The Italian Translation reads, One by one. Not all in general, but every one in particular, and by name, John 10.3.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE EPISTLE OF S. JUDE.

The Argument.

This Apostle surviving many of his Colleagues, as it seems, verse 17. writes this general Epistle, wherein after he hath wished much good to all Gods people, he exhorts them to maintain Truth of Doctrine, with purity of life and conversation, lest they should be seduced by false Teachers, whose manners he describes, and threatens damnation to them. Afterwards, he exhorts them to remember the Apostles doctrine, though they were dead; to build up themselves in grace, to stick close to God, to seek to save others, and concludes all, with the praise of God.

Verse 1. IUde] The name is preposed, not subscribed, as the manner then was, Acts 23.26. Of this name was Jacobs fourth son, from whom the Jews had their name. We read also of Judas of Galilee, an Authour of sedition, Acts 5.37. Judas called Barsabas, Acts 15. 22. Judas Iscariot, Matth. 10.4. And this Judas mentioned also, Luke 6.16. He is called Thaddeus, Mat. 10. 3. He hath also the name of Lebbeus, Matth. 10.3. His fathers name was Alpheus, who is called the father of James his brother, Mat. 10.3. His mothers name seems to be Mary, Mat.27.56. compared with Mat.13.55.

the servant] See on Rev. 1.1. He might have written himself An Apostle, as Paul doth, Rom. 1.1. 1 Cor. 1.1. 2 Cor. 1.1. and Peter, 1 Pet. 1.1. which was a more glorious title: or, a kinsman of Jesus Christ, as indeed he was, Mat. 13.55. but in humility he chuseth the title of a servant. So doth his brother, James 1.1.

of Jesus christ] See on Mat.1.1.

brother] Christ called some pairs of brethren to be Apostles: See on Mat. 4.18,21.

of James] The same name with Jacob. See the reason of the name, Gen. 25.26. and 27.36. Hos. 12.3. He mentioneth his brother, first, because he was famous among the Apostles, gave sentence in the Council of Jerusalem, Acts 15.13,19. abode there much, Acts 21.18. Gal. 1.19. Secondly, to shew that he was no other Jude but the Apostle, Luke 6.16. Acts 1.13. Thirdly, to distinguish him from Judas Iscariot, who betrayed Christ, and was also an Apostle; and from the other Judas mentioned before.

to them, &c.] A general Epistle, not directed to any particular Church, as that to the Romans, and many other.

that are sanctified] Regenerate, and made holy by faith in Christ, Acts 26.18.

by God] Gr. in God.

the Father] This work useth to be attributed to the holy Ghost, John 3.5. Tit. 3.5. yet the Father hath an hand in it also, John 17.17. 1 Pet.1.3.

preserved in christ Jesus] As ver. 11. in the way. Kept true members of Jesus Christ. Or, preserved to Jesus christ. Kept by God the Father, John 6.39,40. and 10.29. to be presented to Christ blameless at the day of judgement, Ephes. 5.27. 2 Cor. 11.2.

called] To the heavenly marriage-feast, Mat. 22.2, &c. and that externally, by the preaching of the Gospel: for internal calling is all one with sanctification mentioned before.

V. 2. Mercy unto you] Compassion, in regard of your infirmities and miseries, which ye are subject to in this world, as well as wicked men.

peace] A sensible perswasion of Gods love, or peace of conscience: for they were at peace with God before.

love] He prayeth God to shew forth the fruits of his love, in doing them good spiritually and corporally. We may be merciful to enemies, and pity them in their miseries. We may be at peace with strangers, and do them no harm. But to those we love, we do all the good we can.

be multiplyed] In the abundant fruits of each of them.

V. 3. Beloved] His love moved him to write this Epistle, and should move them to heed it. Good Ministers love their people.

when I gave all diligence] Or, giving all diligence. Not as if the Apostle were one while diligent, and another while negligent; but he waited always for a fit occasion to write to them. The same Greek word signifieth haste: for diligent men make haste to dispatch their work.

to write unto you] He was so careful of them, that when he could not be present to teach them, he wrote to them. There was also an hand of God in it, as in all the other Epistles of the Apostles, that such in after-ages as could not hear them preach, might enjoy the benefit of their doctrine to the worlds end.

of the common salvation] That salvation in which all the Elect have a joynt part, Ephes.4.4. Tit. 1.4.

it was needful] For him as an Apostle, 1 Cor. 9.16. for them, because false teachers rose up among them, who might seduce them, ver. 4. Acts 20.26,27,28,29.

and exhort you] Not to praise you, or reprove you, or barely to intimate to you what you have to doe, but to seek to work on your affections by perswasion.

that ye should earnestly contend] As Wrestlers do for the victory.

for the faith] His care to save their souls, made him write to them to keep the faith, which is the way to salvation. Faith is not here taken for faithfulnes, as Deut. 32.20. nor for credulity, as Jam. 2.19. nor for confidence, as John 3.16. nor for faith of miracles, as Mat. 17.20. but for the doctrine of the Gospel, which is to be believed. So hope is taken for the thing hoped for, Rom. 8.24. Col. 1.5.

once] Justifying faith wrought in the souls of Gods Elect, is often given; but the doctrine of faith is once, or already given, as ver. 5. and never to be changed, Eph. 4.5. but must be kept in purity and integrity, as it was first delivered, without any alteration. Or, once for all; not to be delivered any more, Heb. 12.26,27. Hence it is, that a curse is pronounced against such as adde to it, or take away from it, Rev. 22.18,19. Those dreamers mentioned, v.8. might both adde and take away. Jude bidderh the Christians hold what they had, and refuse the additions and alterations of those false prophets, Gal. 1.8.

delivered] From heaven.

to the saints] Who live in the Church of God here on earth, ver. 1. Rom. 1.7.

V. 4. crept in unawares] Beside your expectation; as souldiers that march by a town, and suddenly return and take it: or, as pioners, who enter by a Mine while the souldiers defend the walls. Or, not sent by God, but taking the Ministery upon them of their own heads, John 10.1. 2 Tim. 3.6.

of old ordained] That no man might be offended at their sudden coming in, he sheweth that God knew it before, and did ordain them to destruction.

to this condemnation] To hell, as the Angels that fell, ver. 6. and the Sodomites, v. 7. Or, to this judgement, 1 Cor. 11.29,31,32. To be permitted to fall into these sins, that bring damnation.

ungodly men] Such as worship not God aright; or, have no fear of God at all, Gen. 20.11. Psalm 36.1. Rom. 3.18.

turning the grace of our God into lasciviousness] The grace of God inviteth us to sobriety, Tit. 2.11,12. but they turn it to a contrary end.

denying the only Lord God, and our Lord Jesus Christ] Denying Christ to be God, who was their master by profession (for they professed themselves to be of his houshold) and their Lord by publick authority over them. Or, by their deeds denying Christ.

V. 5. I will therefore put you in remembrance] As Ministers are Gods remembrancers, Isa. 62.6. so they are the peoples also: the former, by praying; the later, by preaching.

though ye once knew this] He conceiveth, that, being Christians, they were not ignorant of Gods judgements recorded in the Scriptures, 2 Pet.1.12.

how that, &c.] Three examples are given: one in the Church, in this verse; another in heaven, ver. 6. another in the world, ver. 7. shewing that sinners can no where escape Gods judgments.

the Lord] The deliverance of the people came from God, Exod. 20.2. having saved] Some read, Though ye knew this, how that the Lord, having once saved. This is added, to make the judgment the greater, because cause it came not on them while they were slaves in Egypt, but after they were set at liberty. To this purpose the Angels first condition is mentioned, ver. 6.

the people] Of Israel. He speaketh to them, as men conversant in Scripture, who knew what people he meant, though he did not name them.

Out of the land of Egypt] From captivity and misery, Exod. 1.

afterward] Gr. the second time; To wit, after he had once delivered them, he destroyed them. Or, they were once in a sort lost in Egypt, and now the second time in the wilderness, Heb. 3. 17. 19.

V. 6. their first estate] Gr. their beginning. The estate they were first made in. God made them good and happy, as he did men, but they, by their fall, made themselves wicked and unhappy. Or, principality: their glorious condition.

but left] Negligence is here attributed to the Angels, in that they were not careful to keep so glorious a condition. They are not said to be put out of heaven, but not to keep it, and to leave it; to wit, by sinning, 2 Pet. 2. 4.

their own habitation] Gr. their proper habitation: Which God had prepared for them, as fit for such glorious creatures.

He hath reserved in everlasting chains] As prisoners are kept in prison bound till the assizes come; so are they kept by Gods power, that they cannot escape. This sheweth, their pains are not yet at greatest. It sheweth also, that they are unavoidable.

under darkness] He hath kept them as it were in a dark dungeon, to be judged afterwards.

unto the judgement of the great day] In the end of the world, when all the world shall be judged; as ver. 14, 15. Acts 17. 31. 2 Tim. 4. 1. 1 Cor. 6. 3.

V. 7. Sodom and Gomorrah] Fruitful places, and pleasant, but very sinful, Gen. 13. 10, 13. and 18. 20.

and the Cities about them] Adma, and Zeboim, Hos. 11. 8.

in like manner], Being corrupted by their bad example.

strange flesh] Gr. other flesh: Mans flesh, which they should not have used in that kind. Or, divers flesh; not created by God to that end, Rom. 1. 26, 27. this sin hath the name of Sodomy from them.

are set forth for an example] Not to imitate, but to instruct others to take heed of their sins, lest they perish like them, Rev. 18. 4. 1 Cor. 10. 6, 11. Are sent to hell, as an example of Gods eternal judgement on gross sinners. Or, being destroyed by fire from heaven, lye still in the dust, as a type of eternal destruction, in hell; so that those cities, being drowned in the dead sea, can be built no more, 2 Pet. 2. 6.

V. 8. Likewise also] They were like the Sodomites in uncleanness, ver. 7. like the Angels that fell, in despising dominion, ver. 6. like the Israelites who murmured against Moses and Aaron, in speaking evil of dignities, ver. 5. No sin is recorded in Scripture, but some practise is in after-times.

these filthy dreamers] They were so given to wantonness, that they not only practised it being awake, but also dreamed of it, and defiled themselves in their sleep. Or, dreamers, because they vented their own dreams, and fancies in stead of Gods truth, Jer. 23. 25. to 28. 32.

defile the flesh] Make their bodies abominable before God and men, as swine make themselves filthy by wallowing in the mire, Gen. 49. 4. Lev. 20. 12, 13, 14. 1 Cor. 6. 18.

despise] Gr. depose, Or, abrogate. To wit, in their hearts; for they live as if they were no rulers over them, Psalm 14. 1. They do as it were reject them, or put them off the throne, Luke 10. 16. John 12. 48.

dominion] Not the Governours only, as some do, for their weakness, and abuse of their power; but the government it self: they would have no authority to be in the world.

speak evil of] Gr. blaspheme. They hurt their fame by reproaches, and slanders.

dignities] Magistrates, who were more honourable than others.

V. 9. Yet] Though these be thus bold to rail upon Magistrates, yet the arch-angel would not rail on the devil, though he were greater than they, and devils far worse than wicked Magistrates, and though he were greater than the devil, and they lesse than the Magistrates whom they revile.

Michael] Jude had this History either from some Canonical book of Gods, as some think; or, as others, from some History, not Canonicall, as some think; or, as others, from some tradition, call it, for such are vsed in Scripture sometimes: or, by tradition, which was in use before the Scripture was written: or, by inspiration. No doubt it was true, because Gods Spirit here oweneth it.

the arch-angel] Some conceive him to be Christ: others, to be a principall angel, Dan. 10. 13.

when contending with the devil he disputed] That is, he used might in deeds, as well as reason in words. Or, he disputed earnestly.

about the body of Moses] Some understand it figuratively, of that contention about the deliverance of the people from captivity, Zech. 3. 2. because there the devil, and the words following, are found. Others take it literally, that when God is said to bury Moses his body, Deut. 34. 6. he employed the arch-angel Michael to do it, that no man might know where it was laid; but Satan resisted him, that so the people might know where it was, and worship it in after-times; or, that Moses might not be so honourably buried; or, that his body might lie above ground, out of the land of Canaan, to be abused by the enemies of Gods people.

durst not] Or, could not endure. It seemeth Michael had occasion given him to use bad language, and was much provoked by Satan; yet, out of fear of God, durst not do it. See the like of Joseph, Gen. 39. 9.

bring against him] Or, adde: to wit, to Satans words, who, as it seemeth, spared no ill language.

railing accusation] Gr. judgement of blasphemy.

the Lord, &c.] Zech. 3. 2.

rebuke thee] Stop thy foul mouth: or, put thee to silence, as Mark 1. 25. Luke 4. 35. and 20. 40.

V. 10. speak evil of those things which they know not] Ignorance should keep them from censuring, especially such persons as are above them, or such things as are above their reach. But they are impudent, and speak evil of the greatest persons on earth, and the greatest mysteries of religion.

what they know naturally] They live not according to naturall principles, but drown them by bad life, Rom. 1. 21. 1 Tim. 1. 7. Or, they know nothing, but what cometh within the compass of their senses, and follow sensual objects to their destruction.

as brute-beasts] By natural light and experience, which things the brute-beasts in part know.

in those things] Or, by those things. So, in the holy Ghost, ver. 20. that is, by the holy Ghost.

they corrupt themselves] Gr. they are corrupted. Such things they without choice abuse, to satisfie their sensuality, 2 Pet. 2. 12.

V. 11. They have gone in the way] So the Scripture useth to aggravate sinners evil courses, by comparing them with gross wicked mens ways set out in Scripture to their perpetual disgrace, 1 Kings 16. 26, 31.

of Cain] They persecute Gods servants for their goodness, as he did his brother Abel, 1 John 3. 12.

ran greedily] Gr. were powred out. They made haste to sinne for gain, as water runneth apace out of a bottle. Or, they lost their souls for gain, as water spilt on the ground is lost, 2 Sam. 14. 14.

the errour] Gain led them out of the right way.

of Balaam] Who would have cursed Gods people, and gave ill counsel against them, for money, Numb. 31. 16.

perished] Were utterly lost in this sinful course, without hope of amendment. For they were not yet in hell, ver. 22.

in the gain-saying] Oppoſing Magiſtrates, v. 8.

of Core] Others joyned with him, but he was the ring-leader, Num. 16. 1.

V. 12. These are, &c.] The Apostle, to shame these sinners, bringeth similitudes from seasts, where spots are bred on mens apparel, from the skie, from the heaven in the planets, from the earth in the trees, from the sea in the waves, from the fishes, from the sands.

spots] Such as pollute mens garments in feasts, arising out of fat or liquor falling on them. Others take it to be an allusion to spots on the body, which disgrace it. Others, to the spots on cattel, that made them unfit for peace-offerings. The sense is, that they were a blemish to their festival meetings.

in your feasts of charity] Made for the poor, as Luke 14. 12, 13. Or, for others of the same religion with us, 1 Cor. 11. 33, 34.

when they feast with you] They came without bidding, thrust themselves in, and defiled the Tables with gluttony, and drunkenness, evil doctrine, wanton words, gestures, looks.

feeding themselves without fear] Impudent persons, not fearing to offend God, by intemperance, nor regarding what men might say of them therefore, Luke 18. 4.

clouds they are without water] Promising rain to the husbandman, but giving none: so these made shew of great learning and piety, whereby they might do good to others; but were empty of both, and deceived mens expectations.

carried about of winds] Unstable, and coming to nothing in the end, Eph. 4. 14.

trees whose fruit withereth] Gr. autumn-trees: Such as put out in autumn, when they should give fruit.

unfruitful] Because blowing so late, the fruit cannot ripen.

twice dead] Having neither fruit nor leaves. Or, first losing their fruit, and then dying themselves, as trees blowing so late use to do; so these apostats's were first dead by nature, born in sin, Eph. 2. 1, 2. Secondly, having made a shew of spiritual life, by professing the true religion, they lost that also, by falling into errours and vices. Or, twice dead: that is, altogether or certainly dead, as Psalm 62. 11. Job 33. 14. so these were sure to go to hell, ver. 4.

plucked up by the roots] Past all hope of springing up again. It is a bad condition for a tree, to blossome, and yet bear no fruit: it is worse to die, and have no hope of ever bearing any fruit hereafter: worst of all, to be plucked up by the roots; then it is good for nothing but the fire. Such was the condition of these false teachers.

V. 13. raging waves of the sea] Gr. wilde. For the waves roar like wilde beasts in the wood. Hereby is signified, men given to extream lusts, or passion, or pride, triumphing and insulting over others, as one wave in the sea throweth down another, 2 Pet. 2. 18.

Coming

Coming out their own shame] By their vain words revealing their internal corruptions, as the raging sea casteth out dirt and mire, Isa. 57. 20. Phil. 3. 19. The Greek word is foames: that which doth most of all shame them.

wandring stars] Not constant, like the fixed stars, but passing from one course of religion or life to another, as Planets remove: or rather, as blazing stars, which have no regular motion, and quickly vanish away, notwithstanding their glorious shew for a time.

to whom is reserved] See on ver. 6.

the blackness of darkness] The most black darkness. So hell is described, Mat. 8. 12. and 22. 13.

for ever] In hell.

V. 14. And Enoch also] Or, For even Enoch. So the one particle is translated, Matth. 13. 21. and the other, Mar. 3. 19. He foretold of their destruction, and therefore it is certain. Whence this history was taken, see in the like, on ver. 9.

the seventh from Adam] Including Adam for one. See the like, Mat. 1. 17. This is mentioned to shew the antiquity of this prophecy: for he lived some while with Adam. The worlds end is certain, and the day of the general judgement; for it hath been foretold well nigh from the beginning of the world.

prophesied of these] Of such men as these, that should trouble the Church in future times. Or, to these: that is, to such as these in his time, whose destruction he foretold. So will these be destroyed now also.

behold] This sheweth the certainty and gloriousnesse of his coming, Isa. 7. 14. Hab. 1. 5.

the Lord cometh] He will as surely come, as if he were now coming, Hos. 10. 7. Rev. 14. 8. and 18. 2. That manner of curse which the Apostle useth in that solemn curse, Maranatha, 1 Cor. 16. 22. seemeth to be taken from the first words of this prophecie.

with ten thousand] Divers millions, Dan. 7. 10. Rev. 5. 11.

of his Saints] Holy Angels to attend him, Mat. 25. 31. 32. 2 Thes. 1. 8. Or, holy men risen again, as Mat. 19. 28. 1 Cor. 6. 2. 2 Thes. 1. 10.

V. 15. To execute judgement upon all] To adjudge all wicked men, especially such as are particularly mentioned in the words following, to eternal misery, Mat. 25. 32, 34, 41, 46.

to convince] To prove them not to be such as they pretend, and to make them acknowledge the justice of their condemnation, Luke 19. 22.

of all their ungodly deeds] These false teachers did much hurt by bad life, as well as by evil words: and must answer for both.

ungodly committed] Ungodlily: after a wicked manner, without all fear of God, ver. 4.

of all their hard speeches] Not to be born. Bold and impudent ones, 1 Sam. 2. 3. Psalm 31. 18. and 75. 5. and 94. 4. Mal. 3. 13.

which ungodly sinners] Irreligious men, who wilfully live in the breach of Gods commandements.

have spoken against him] Against God himself, Psa. 73. 9. and 78. 19. Mal. 3. 13.

V. 16. These are murmurers] Privy whisperers, Mat. 20. 11.

complainers] Out of discontent and envy, not content with their own condition, and finding fault with other mens, Mat. 20. 12. 1 Cor. 10. 10. James 5. 9.

walking after their own lusts] After the corrupt motions of the flesh; Rom. 8. 1. 2 Pet. 3. 3.

their mouth speaketh] They not onely think so, but utter it aloud, Psalm 73. 9, 11.

great swelling words] Vain-glorious words, rising like bubbles in the water.

having in admiration] Looking on them, as on miracles, or high things.

ment persons] Or, faces. Their external shew of wealth or greatnesse, Prov. 24. 23. Acts 10. 34. Gal. 2. 6.

because of advantage] They respected not godly wise men, but flattered great men in the world, to raise or enrich themselves, ver. 11. and made the profession of piety a matter of gain, 1 Tim. 6. 5.

V. 17. But ye] Ye live amongst these false teachers, take heed wherefore that ye be not seduced by them.

beloved, remember the words] Charity teacheth us to judge, that the sins of Gods servants come, out of forgetfulnes, not out of evil purposes. So men judge of the errours of them they love.

which were spoken before] That they might not be offended at the rising up of these wicked ones in the Church, he sheweth that their coming was foretold, ver. 4. 14.

of the Apostles] That is, by the Apostles. Not what others spake of them, but what they spake. It seemeth Jude was alive, when most of the Apostles were dead, and therefore he putteth them in minde of their sayings, that they might not die with them.

V. 18. mockers] A great part of the miseries of Gods people, come from mockers, 2 Pet. 3. 3. Gen. 21. 9. Gal. 4. 29.

in the last time] 1 Tim. 4. 1. 2 Tim. 3. 1.

who should walk after, &c.] See on ver. 16.

their own ungodly lusts] Gr. lusts of wickedness. Most wicked ones. See the like phrase, Dan. 10. 11, 19. For the matter, see on ver. 15. 16. They should live well who deride others, lest they lay themselves open to contempt: but lightly, they themselves are evil and shameless.

V. 19. who separate] Themselves, as Heb. 10. 25. Or, others, as 2 Pet. 2. 1, 2. Acts 20. 30. 2 Tim. 3. 6.

sensual] Men that follow their senses, and lose heaven for pursuing worldly objects, as ver. 10. Or, natural, or, animal. Men having nothing in them more than beasts, but a reasonable soul, remaining yet in their natural condition, and not new born, although they make much shew of godlinesse. So the word is used, 2 Cor. 2. 14. and so the opposition following seemeth to interpret it.

having not the Spirit] And therefore have no holinesse in them, nor nothing to do with Christ, Rom. 8. 9.

V. 20. But ye, beloved] They destroy the building, by separating the parts one from another; but do ye build it up, as the wise woman doth, Prov. 14. 1.

building up your selves] It is not enough that ye have laid a right foundation, but ye must confirm and advance your selves daily in your spiritual estate, on the foundation of faith in Christ, as a building ascends. For Christian men are not dead, but living stones, and help to build themselves, 1 Pet. 2. 5. It may be understood of encreasing their own graces severally, as 2 Pet. 3. 18. or, of edifying one another, as ver. 22, 23. Heb. 10. 24. Acts 9. 31.

on your most holy faith] Ver. 3. Faith either of credulity, or of confidence, ought to have holinesse attending on it.

praying in the holy Ghost] That is, by the holy Ghost. See on ver. 10. Mark 12. 36. and 13. 11. Not putting up such faint petitions as flesh and bloud suggesteth, but such fervent ones as Gods Spirit putteth into us, Rom. 8. 26.

V. 21. Keep you selves] See on verse 20. 1 Tim. 5. 22.

in the love of God] Whereby ye love God. Persevere constantly to love him, and do it daily more and more. Or, whereby God loveth you: by doing nothing that may make him take away the sense of his favour from you, or cause him to frown upon you.

looking for the mercy of our Lord, &c.] Looking for that merciful sentence of Christ at the day of judgement, whereby he will bestow eternal life on us, that have deserved eternal misery, Matth. 25. 34.

V. 22. And of, &c.] It is not sufficient to look after our own salvation, but we must promote other mens also.

some] Or weak, simple, seduced persons, or men more flexible, and of a more tender nature than others.

have compassion] Out of mercy admonish them gently of their duty, when ye have lovingly shewed them their errours, Gal. 6. 1. Rom. 14. 1. and 15. 1.

making a difference] Not dealing so severely with them, as with others that are more obstinate.

V. 23. And others] Hardened ones; or, perverse, or seducers themselves.

save] That is, endeavour to save. It is not in our power to save, but it is often attributed to the instruments, to perswade them to diligence, Rom. 11. 14. 1 Cor. 7. 16. and 9. 22. 1 Tim. 4. 15. James 5. 20.

with fear] Gr. in fear; or, by fear; as ver. 10, 20. Out of fear of their sudden perdition, if ye should not presently help them. Or, by terrifying them with Gods judgements, unless they repent. Or, by sharp censures, 1 Cor. 5. 5.

pulling them] Gr. snatching. That is, pulling hastily, and with violence. As the mother, apprehending the danger of the child fallen into the fire, more than it self doth, and fearing the death of it, though she be tender-hearted, yet pulleth it out with violence, and it may be paineth some members, to save the life of the child: so do ye hastily, with a kind of harshnesse, seek to save obstinate sinners, Tit. 1. 13.

out of the fire] Out of that danger, which is as great, as if they were in the fire. Terrifying them with the threats of hell fire.

hating even the garment] Not only the pollution of it self, but even the garment wherein it is.

spotted by the flesh] As cleanly persons cannot endure spots of grease or bloud on their garments, ver. 12. Or, as under the Law men might not touch a menstruous cloth, or as God in the Law would not accept a spotted peace-offering: so do ye not only hate their sinfull lusts, ver. 8. but also come not in their company. Or, avoid not only grosse sins, but also the very signs and tokens of them, 1 Thes. 5. 22.

V. 24. Now unto him, &c.] The Apostle, after inscription, ver. 1. beginneth his Epistle with prayer, ver. 2. Now he endeth it with the praise of God. So God must be the Alpha and Omega of our actions.

that is able to keep you] He commendeth Gods power, but with reference to our good, shewing that we have cause to praise him for it, and thank him for the good we get by it.

from falling] A metaphor from runners, 1 Cor. 9. 24. wherein men hasting to the goal, & not observing the ruggednesse of the way, may fall. God only can keep us from falling. The best have had their slips, when they trusted to their own strength, Matth. 26. 35, 76.

and to present you faultleſſe] Gr. to make you ſtand. At the day of judgement to make you ſtand without guilt or filth of ſin.

before the preſence of his glory with exceeding joy] Being free from ſin, to look upon Chriſt ſitting on his glorious throne without any fear, yea with great cheerfulneſſe, when wicked men cannot endure the ſight of his Majeſty, Luke 23.30. Rev.6.13.

V. 25. To the onely wiſe God] Rom.16.27. 1 Tim. 1.17. Some men were wiſe as Solomon; but God is onely wiſe: Firſt, becauſe he onely is wiſe originally: the wiſdome of the wiſeſt men is from him, Gen.41.39. Pſalm 119.98. Gods wiſdome is from himſelf. Secondly, becauſe he onely is inſeparably wiſe: he feweth wiſdome in all his actions, 1 Cor. 1.25. men do not ſo, Eccleſ.10.1. Thirdly, he is inſuperably wiſe: he overcometh the wiſdome of the moſt ſubtil men, 1 Cor.1.19. but no creature can go beyond him.

our Saviour] Tit.2.13. and 3.4. Gods wiſdome is uſed for our good and ſalvation: and every beleiver hath as much right to ſalvation by Chriſt, as the Apoſtles.

be glory] Let him be honourably accounted of by all, eſpecially by thoſe that ſhall be ſaved by him.

majeſty] Heb. 1.3. and 8.1. 2 Pet. 1.16. Let him be royally attended by all, as the ſupreme Governour of all.

dominion] Or, ſtrength. Let all acknowledge him able to doe what he will, and to over-rule all creatures, Pſalm 115.3.

power] Or, authority. Let them confeſs his juſt authority over all.

now] At this very preſent. We that now live, are ſubject to him. The Kings that had power over us, when they dyc have no more; but God liveth ſtill, and hath as much power over us, as he had over Adam, when he had new made him.

ever] Gr. to all the ages of the world. His dominion will laſt to the end; therefore he is called Eternal, 1 Tim.1.17. which in the Greek there is, The King of ages, to diſtinguiſh him from all other kings, who rule but in one age; as David, Acts 13.36.

Amen] See on Matth. 6.13.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE REVELATION OF S. JOHN.

The Argument and Analysis.

This laſt Book is of ſingular uſe for Chriſtians to the end of the world. The diviſion of it is to be found, Chapter 1. 19. The things that John had ſeen, contain the glorious viſion of Chriſt among the golden Candleſticks, Chap. 1. The things which are, are the Epiſtles to the ſeven Churches then in being, Chap. 2. & 3. The things which ſhall be hereafter, are the Prophecies following, wherein God frames himſelf a Church to worſhip him to the worlds end, and ſhews the pattern of it to John, Chap. 4. Preparation is made for the opening of the Seals, Chap. 5. Six whereof are opened, Chap. 6. and the ſtory brought down to Conſtantines time. The Heathen perſecution being then ceaſed, and a more bitter to come under the Popes; God prepares him a church, and ſeals ſuch as ſhould ſtand out this ſtorm in a more private courſe of worſhip in the wilderneſs, Chap. 7. The ſeventh Seal being opened, ſix Angels blow their Trumpets, and foretell the miſeries that ſhould fall on Popiſh Rome, before the time of Reformation, Chap. 8, 9. The little Book containing the reſidue of the Revelation, is brought forth, Chap. 10. The Church in the wilderneſs perſecuted, is ſet out; and the ſeventh Angel blowing the Trumpet, proclaims liberty of Religion again, Chap. 11. The beginning of this troubleſome time is ſet out to be a little before Conſtantines time, when the Church was in labour to bring forth a Chriſtian Emperour; and the end of it foretold to be after a thouſand two hundred and threeſcore years, Chap. 12. which falls out to be the time of the eſtabliſhing of the Proteſtant Religion in the Empire, as appears in the Notes. The two great Beaſts that ſhall perſecute the Church all this while, are ſet out, Chap. 13. The reſtauration of Religion, and ruine of Popery, Chap. 14. Gods people praiſing him for the ſame, Chap. 15. The ſeven Vials containing the plagues of God, beginning from the time of Reformation, whereby God will by degrees deſtroy Babylon and Anti-chriſt, are poured out, Chap. 16. The whore, the city of Rome, to be deſtroyed under the ſixth Vial, are ſet down, Chap. 17. ſet out, Chap. 18. The converſion of the Jews, and utter ſubverſion of Antichriſt, which came under the ſixth Vial, and the day of Judgement after that. The happineſſe of the Church afterwards for a thouſand years, with the overthrow of the Turks after it, and the day of Judgement after that, which come under the ſeventh Vial, are ſpoken of, Chap. 20. The everlaſting happineſs of Gods Saints in ſoul and body in Heaven with God, and Chriſt, is ſet out, Chap. 21. and in the five firſt Verſes of Chap. 22. The concluſion conſiſts of confirmations, exhortations, promiſes, threatnings, prayers, Chap. 22. Further ſatisfaction in particulars, the Reader may finde in the Notes.

The great God and our Saviour, who hath revealed theſe excellent Myſteries to us, Give us Grace to walk worthy of ſo great a favour in this world, and a portion in the eternal happineſs herein foretold, in the world to come. Amen.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1.

THE Revelation] The former books, for the moſt part, are either hiſtorical, or doctrinal: this is, for the main matter of it, ſymbolical and prophetical, containing predictions of many things to come, both in the Church, and without it, in the world, ſymbolically repreſented. It is called, a Revelation, becauſe it was revealed by God; and the things therein contained are ſuch, as no wiſdome of man, without ſome ſuch ſpecial revelation, could have manifeſted or foreſeen: ſo 2 Cor. 12. 1, 7. Matth. 11. 25, and 16. 17. 1 Cor. 2. 9, 10.

of Jeſus Chriſt] Becauſe John had it from him, as Paul his revelations, 2 Cor.12. 1, 2. and his Goſpel, Gal. 1. 1, 2.

God gave unto him] That is, revealed, or committed unto him, by him to be revealed and communicated to others. God the Father revealeth and committeth theſe things to Chriſt, as man, (for he had them of himſelf, as God) that the great account God hath of him may thereby appear, John 5. 20.

to ſhew] Not to keep them to himſelf, but to acquaint his Church and children, even in ſucceeding ages with them; as 1 Pet. 1. 12.

his ſervants] The faithful: not his ſervants at large, as all men, yea, all the creatures, are, Pſalm 119. 91. and 148. 8. but his ſervants in ſpecial manner, his houſhold-ſervants, Gal. 6. 10. Epheſ. 2. 19. For their uſe and behoof it is, that theſe things are revealed by God to Chriſt, and by Chriſt to thoſe that are, yet in a more ſpecial manner, as John is hereafter ſtyled, and Paul elſewhere, Rom. 1. 1½ Cor. 1. 1. Gods ſervants, the Apoſtles and the Prophets, Amos 3. 7. ſee verſe 4.

muſt ſhortly come to paſſe] So that this book, for the main matter of it, is not any hiſtory or relation of things paſt, but a prediction of things to come: which were to commence ſhortly after, in regard of their firſt beginning, ver. 3. but to run on, after they were once begun, in a conſtant and continued courſe to the worlds end.

by his Angel] Chriſt employeth an Angel; called his Angel, to ſhew his power, as well in heaven as on earth, Matth. 28.18. Epheſ. 1. 21.

unto his ſervant John] The angel is ſent to John, for the credit of his miniſtery, Chap.17.1. & 21.9. & 22.8. So Dan. 8, 16. & 9.21, 22. Zech.1.9,14,19. This John was the Apoſtle; for no other would take that name in writing Scripture while he lived, without ſome note of diſtinction; neither do we know any other John inſallible, beſide the Apoſtle: and it is recorded in the Eccleſiaſtical hiſtory, that this John was baniſhed into Patmos in the reign of Domitian. As he was the beloved Apoſtle, ſo Chriſt honoured him above others, in writing Scripture. He appeareth to be an Evangeliſt, in his Goſpel: an Apoſtle, in his Epiſtles; a Prophet, in this Revelation.

V. 2. of the word of God] By the word of God, ſome underſtand here this book of the Revelation, and the things therein contained. Others, by the word of God, underſtand the Goſpel of John: by the teſtimony of Chriſt, his Epiſtles, which begin therewith, 1 John 1. 1. by the things which he ſaw, his Revelation. In this ſenſe, it ſheweth the author of this book, and one ground to beleeve him, Becauſe of his former faithfulneſs. It may be underſtood of his preaching Gods word; as verſ.9.

V. 3. and they] A change of the number, Pſal.127.3.

keep] Reſerve, or obſerve; keep in heart and in life, as Luke 11. 28. James 1.25. John 13. 12. That not onely read or hear theſe things, but alſo remember them, beleeve them, obſerve how they are fulfilled, and live according to the directions given in this book, cha. 22.14,18,19.

the time] Gr. ſeaſon, or ſet time: as Matth. 16.3. & 21.41. Luke 1. 20.

at hand] When theſe things ſhall begin to be put in execution for a great part of them is not yet fulfilled, verſ. 1.

V. 4. John to the] This ſheweth, that the whole Revelation was an Epiſtle to theſe Churches. So doth the concluſion, chap 22.21.

ſeven Churches] Named, verſ. 11. and preſented with ſeveral Epiſtles, chap. 2. & 3. truſted with this treaſure of the prophecies following, but not made types of particular Churches in after-times, though there may be ſome likeneſs between them, and the enſuing Churches in divers things. The order of revelation is here obſervable: God revealeth to Chriſt, Chriſt by his angel to John, John to thoſe Churches, but for the uſe of the whole Church, verſ. 1.

in Aſia] The leſs: for Hieruſalem in likelihood was now deſtroyed; and theſe were the moſt famous Churches, fitteſt to keep theſe myſteries, and to communicate them to poſterity.

grace and peace] Rom.1.7.

from him which is] Exod.3.14. From God the Father, who is eternal. That which is common to the three perſons, is here attributed to the Father, who is the firſt in order, and from whom the other two perſons have their perſonal exiſtence.

the ſeven Spirits] The Holy Ghoſt, who is ſo called in regard of his manifold graces, wrought in theſe ſeven Churches as plentifully, as if a particular ſpirit had been in each Church. Seven alſo being a note of perfection; as Chap. 5. 6. It cannot be underſtood of angels, becauſe John prayeth for grace from him whom here he ſo deſcribeth.

before his throne] Not to ſhew an inequality, but becauſe God the Father, in the works of illumination, ſanctification, and comfort, worketh in his ſervants by his Spirit. See Chap.4.5.

V. 5. the faithful witneſs] Who fully and truly revealed Gods will to us, by himſelf and his Apoſtles, Heb. 1. 2. and ſo ſhewed himſelf to be the Prophet foretold, Deut. 18. 15, 18. Acts 3. 21, 22.

firſt-begotten of the dead] Or, firſt brought forth, 1 Cor. 15. 20. Col. 1. 18. He that aroſe firſt from the dead to go to heaven: for Enoch and Elias dyed not: others raiſed up, lived here, and dyed after; neither are their bodies yet in heaven. He faith, Begotten, becauſe reſurrection reſtoreth that bodily life which we had by generation before. See Matth. 19.28.

Prince of the Kings of the earth] Who is above them all, and from whom they all hold, Chap.17.14. & 19.16. 1 Tim.6.14,15. Matth. 28.18. Prov.8.15,16. Rom.9.5.

loved us] The ſole ground of all the enſuing benefits. So Gal.2.20. Epheſ.2.4,5,6. & 5.2.

and waſh'd us] 1 Cor.6.11. Heb.9.14. 1 John 1.7. This was the greateſt demonſtration of his love, The ſhedding of his blood for the cleanſing of us from our ſins, chap.5.9. and 7.14.

V. 6. and hath made us] As he redeemed us by his Blood, ſo he hath regenerated us by his Spirit, 1 Cor. 6. 11. 1 John 5. 6. and made us Kings, to rule over the Devil, the world, and the fleſh, chap. 20. 6. and Prieſts, to offer up to God the perſonal ſacrifice of our ſelves, Rom. 12. 1. the verbal ſacrifice of praiſe, and real of alms, Heb. 13. 15, 16.

kings and Prieſts] Chap.5.10. 1 Pet.2.5,9. and his Father] Or, even his Father, 1 Cor.15.24. Gr. his own Father. Chriſt is the natural Son of God.

dominion]. Or, might, or ſtrength; as 1 Cor. 15.24. Give unto Chriſt the glory of his dominion, or power, Pſal. 29. 1, 2, 3, &c.

V. 7. Behold] As if he beheld him with the eye of faith already appearing. So of Abraham, John 8. 56. and of Moſes, Heb. 11. 27.

he cometh] He will ere long come: and though he may ſeem to ſtay long, yet will, in due time, as ſurely come, as if he were in coming, or already come, Heb.10.37. 2 Pet.3.4,9.

with clouds] Dan.7.13. Matth.24.30.

every eye] That is, all men: for the eye is the inſtrument of ſight.

and they alſo] Or, even they alſo, as verſ. 6.

which pierced him] Zech.12.10. Ioh.19.34,37. That had any hand in the crucifying of him, Pſal.22.16.

kindreds] Gr. tribes. Alluding to the diviſion of the land of Canaan, Ioſh.13.7. Pſal.78.55.

becauſe of him] Becauſe they ſaw him, whom they crucified, to be their Iudge; or him whom they cauſed to be crucified. Or, before him; as 1 Cor. 6.6. Some of all nations ſhall weep at his coming.

even ſo, Amen] A double affirmation, for certainty; the one Greek, the other Hebrew; as chap. 22.20.

V. 8. I am Alpha] Chap.21.6. & 22.13. Iſa. 41. 4. & 44. 16. It ſeemeth here to be ſpoken of Chriſt. Compare it with verſ. 11, 13. Chap.21.12,13. The phraſe is taken from the Greek letters, whereof Alpha is the firſt, and Omega the laſt. The ſenſe is; I was before all creatures, and ſhall abide always, though all creatures ſhould periſh. Or, I am he from whom all creatures had their beginning, and to whom they are referred, as their uttermoſt end, Chap.4.11. Prov. 16.4. Rom. 11.36.

which is] See verſe 4. what was there aſcribed to the Father, is here given to the Son, to ſhew the coeternity of the Son with the Father.

the Almighty] Able to do all things, Iob 42.2. or having power and authority over all. See verſ.5,6. Pſal. 103.19.

V. 9. brother and companion] He commendeth himſelf, and this his employment, to them, from that fellowſhip he had with them in troubles here, and was to have with them in glory hereafter, 1 Pet.5.1,9. So Phil.1.5,6,7. Heb.10.34.

kingdom] As well of grace here, as of glory hereafter, Rom. 5.21.

patience] Patient expectation of Chriſts coming, 1 Theſſ. 1. 3. 2. Theſſ.3.5.

was in the iſle] Some think he went thither voluntarily, to avoid perſecution. Others, that he was baniſhed by Domitian the Emperor, Euſeb.hiſt.Eccleſ.lib.3.cap.14.

Patmos] In the Egean ſea; or Archipelago, among the Iſles called Sporades: a deſert place, Plin.lib.4.cap.12.

for the word of God] Not to preach it there, but for preaching it before, in Epheſus, and other places. Or, as others, for Chriſts ſake, who is called The word, John 1.1. 1 John 1.1. See on verſ. 2.

V. 10. in the Spirit] In a ſpiritual rapture & extaſie, Ezek.3.12. Acts 10.10. & 22.17. 2 Cor.12.2,3. By the Spirit of God taken off from the ſenſe and regard of outward things, that I might wholly attend the viſions enſuing.

on the Lords day] The day on which our Saviour roſe again, the firſt day of the week, on which the Church conſtantly met for the publick ſervice of God. The time and place are mentioned, to confirm the truth of the hiſtory: and the day, to adde more honour to that day, which is here called the Lords day, as The Lords table, 1 Cor. 10.21. and the Lords ſupper, 1 Cor.11.20.

behind me a great voyce] This great voyce called John to attention; and the rather, becauſe it came behind him, unexpected.

of a trumpet] For ſound, loud and ſhrill, Iſaiah 58.1. and of uſe, to ſummon men, by ſeveral tones or manner of ſounding, to ſeveral employments, Exod. 19. 16, 19. Num. 10. 2, 10. 1 Cor. 14.7,8.

V. 11. Alpha] See on verſ. 8.

what ſeeſt thou?] What thou ſhalt ſee forthwith, is to be revealed to others.

Churches] See verſ.4.

Epheſus] A city of Ionia, famous for the Temple of Diana in it, Act. 19.1,27.

Smyrna] A city of Ionia likewiſe, neer which were the Olympian games celebrated.

Pergamus] A city of Eolia, afterwards made a province of the Romanes.

Thyatira] A city of Lydia, not far from Epheſus.

Sardis] A city of Lydia alſo, in Cyrus his time, next to Babylon for wealth, Xenoph.Cyrop.lib.7.cap.3.

Philadelphia] A city of Lydia, as ſome think; or, as others, of Myſia, or Eolia, having the name from Ptolomeus Philadelphus.

Laodicea] A city of Caria, neer to the city of the Coloſſians, Col. 4.16.

V. 12. the voyce] Him from whom the voyce came; or, to take take further notice of the voyce it self, Exod. 20. 18. Deut. 4. 12.

golden candlesticks] The Churches, which are the light of the world, Matth. 5. 14, 16. Phil. 2. 15, 16. They are compared to gold, because they excel other societies, as much as gold doth other metals.

V. 13. in the midst, &c.] To teach, guide and protect them, Psal. 46.5. Zech. 2.5.

like unto the Son of man] Or, a son of man, (as like a son of the gods, 3.25.) that is, like a man, Dan. 7.13. Whether it were Christ in his humane nature, or the angel mentioned, vers. 1. representing Christ, or some other form; it is uncertain.

with a garment down to the foot] Dan. 10.5, 6. It was the custom of rulers to wear garments and girdles distinct from others, Isa. 22. 21. Exod. 28. 24. & 39. 5. The robes of such were usually large and long, for state, Eccl. 27. 8.

girt about the paps] Or, about the middle: As their manner was, to keep their side-garments from sweeping the ground, and hindring them in going, Exod. 29. 9. Luke 12. 35.

girdle] A symbol of power and might, Psal. 93. 1. Isa. 11. 5. & 23. 10. & 45. 1, 5.

V. 14. white like wool] This signifieth Christs eternity, as it doth God the Fathers, Dan. 7. 9.

as snow] Matth. 17. 2. & 28. 3.

as a flame of fire] Bright, lightsome and piercing. See Dan. 10. 6. implying his omniscience, whereby he is able to disperse all darkness, and to pry into all the corners of mens hearts, and descry the privy plots and contrivances of the adversaries of his Church, Prov. 15. 11. Psal. 139. 11, 12. Job 34. 21, 22. Heb. 4. 12, 13.

V. 15. fine brass] A kind of bright and precious brass, of which Plin. lib. 34. cap. 2. Or, amber, of the colour of burnished brass. See Ezek. 1. 4, 7. Dan. 10. 6.

as if they burned] Or, glowed with fire. Intimating, as some think, Christs ability to destroy the enemies of his Church, as Zech. 2. 5. Or, as others, so to refine men, that they may thereby be converted, Psal. 83. 15, 16.

as the sound, &c.] A mighty loud voyce, as Cha. 14. 2. So Dan. 10. 6. Terrible to his enemies; or, powerful to raise men from the death of sin, John 5. 25.

V. 16. in his right hand] To keep them safe; shewing his great love to them, and care of them, Psal. 63. 8.

seven Stars] The ministers of the seven Churches, vers. 20. Ministers give light to the world, having received it from Christ, as the stars from the sun.

out of his mouth, &c.] This sheweth the power of Christs word, cha. 2. 16. Heb. 4. 12.

in his strength] At noon-day, Judg. 5. 31. Psal. 37. 6. This setteth out the greatness of Christs glory and majesty, Matth. 17. 2.

V. 17. as dead] He could not endure the sight of Christ in his glory. So Dan. 10. 8, 9.

his right hand] He sent not an angel to raise me up, but did it himself. See Dan. 10. 10.

I am the first] Isa. 41. 4. & 44. 6. See Notes on vers. 8.

V. 18. and was dead] Though I once dyed for your sins, yet I am now alive again to appear to thee, and shall live for ever, to protect my servants, Rom. 6. 9, 10.

keyes of hell, and of death] Power to deliver over to, or to keep from hell, as well as from the grave. Or, of the grave, and death.

V. 19. Write the things, &c.] John is commanded to write the vision which he saw before, vers. 12, &c. the Epistles to the seven Churches, which were then in being, chap. 2. & 3. and the Prophecies of the time to come, chap. 4, &c. to the end of the book: so that here is a perfect division of the book, and no need to make the Churches types.

V. 20. The seven Stars are] That is, do signifie; as the bread is Christs Body in the Sacrament. So Gen. 41. 26, 27. Dan. 2. 38. & 7. 17. Matth. 13. 37, 38, 39. Luke 8. 11, 15. Chap. 17. 9, 10, 12, 15.

the angels] The ministers: so here called, to shew the honour due to that office. Or, messengers: for they are Gods messengers to his people, Mal. 2. 7. & 3. 1.

that holdeth, &c.] See chap. 1. 16.

who walketh, &c.] Look the notes on chap. 1. 12, 13.

V. 2. I know thy works] I take notice of them, and approve them, Psal. 1. 6. & 101. 4. Matth. 7. 23. Though all power to do good cometh from God, and the works of the best men have some imperfections; yet such is Gods mercy, that he accepteth of them.

works] Course of life and practice, 1 Tim. 4. 6, 12. Tit. 2. 7.

thy labour] In preaching the Gospel, 1 Thess. 5. 12. 1 Tim. 5. 17.

patience] In bearing persecutions that followed his preaching and practice, 2 Tim. 3. 10, 11, 12.

canst not bear] Endure them, or forbear reproving them. An argument of zeal, Joh. 2. 15, 17. 2 Pet. 2. 8.

them that are evil] Such as are wicked in thy flock.

apostles] Such as feigned themselves to be sent immediately from Christ, but were not, 2 Cor. 11. 13.

V. 3. hast born] Hast born much from these, whom thou couldest not bear with, vers. 2.

hast patience] Continuest constant in thy sufferings, Heb. 10. 34, 36. & 12. 1.

not fainted] Art not weary of thy work, Gal. 6. 9. 2 Thess. 3. 13. 2 Cor. 4. 16.

V. 4. hast left] Hast abated somewhat of thy former fervour and forwardness.

first love] Or, former love; 1 Tim. 5. 12. shewed in diligent teaching and ordering of his people, John 21. 16, 17. He was not, it may be, so careful in feeding and tending his flock, as when John was there to oversee him. Not only idolatry and false doctrine, but negligence, in a Minister, is blame-worthy.

V. 5. Remember therefore] Three things required of a penitent sinner: A serious consideration of the hainousness of his sin; hearty remorse for it, and a renewed course of life.

remove] Take it from that place, and settle it in some other, where it shall finde a better acceptance, Matth. 21. 43.

thy candlestick] My Church from out of Ephesus, chap. 1. 20. and leave it in darkness. It seemeth, by the Pastours negligence, the people were grown remiss also: for a great judgement is threatned to them.

except thou repent] God repenteth it, to shew how well pleased he would be with them returning, Jer. 18 31, 32. & 33. 11.

V. 6. but] I will not yet remove the candlestick, for the reasons following.

this thou hast] This goodness left in thee.

hatest] Doest not only forbear, but inwardly hate and abhor, Psal. 94. 10. Amo. 5. 15. Rom. 12. 9.

the deeds] Not the persons, Psal. 101. 3.

Nicolaitans] Who held wives to be common, as ecclesiastical historics affirm. Some think, they are so called from Nicolas the deacon, mentioned Acts 6. others, from some other of that name.

I hate] Psal. 11. 5. Prov. 6. 16. & 18. 13.

V. 7. He that hath an ear] Let not the Pastour onely, but every one of the Church of Ephesus, lay this to heart. Or, let them hearken whose ears God hath opened, Psal. 40. 6. Isai. 50. 5. or, that have a spiritual ear, as well as a natural, to hear what God saith, Deut. 29. 4. Psal. 85. 8. Prov. 20. 12. See Matth. 13. 9. overcometh] His spiritual enemies, the Devil, the world and the flesh, Rom. 8. 37. & 12. 21. & 16. 20. 1 Cor. 9. 27. 1 Joh. 4. 4. & 5. 4, 5. Chap. 12. 11. & 15. 2.

of the tree of life] Perpetual happiness, figured by the tree of life, Gen. 2. 9. Rev. 22. 2.

in the midst] Alluding to the situation of the tree of life in paradise.

paradise] Heaven, Luk. 23. 43. 2 Cor. 12. 4.

and tribulation] Troubles, loss of goods, and reproaches, which thou sufferest for the truth, Heb. 10. 34. & 11. 36, 38.

but thou art rich] Towards God, Luk. 12. 21. spiritually, Luk. 16. 11. 2 Cor. 8. 9. 1 Tim. 6. 6, 18. Jam. 2. 5.

say they are Jews] Brag of the truth of their religion, when they want both the inward power, and outward evidences of it, Matth. 3. 9. John 8. 33, 39. Rom. 2. 28, 29. 2 Tim. 3. 5.

synagogue of Satan] Not of God, as once they were, and pretend still to be, Phil. 3. 2, 3.

V. 10. Fear none] So as out of fear to do any thing unbeseeming a Christian, Matt. 10. 28. Luke 4. 4.

thou shalt [suffer] The storm is not yet past; imprisonment and straits will follow.

devil] By wicked men his instruments, Ephes. 2. 2.

be tried] The Devil would destroy, but God will suffer you onely to be tried, chap. 3. 10. Jam. 1. 12.

ten days] A short time: or, as others interpret it, ten years: either in Diocletians time; as some think, or in Trajans, as others.

faithful unto death] Constant in thy Christian course and profession to the last, Heb. 3. 6, 14. Or, unto the shedding of thy blood by death, for the testimony of thy truth, Heb. 12. 6. chap. 12. 11. & 20. 4. Die, rather than deny thy religion.

crown of life] Either an everliving, everlasting, never-fading crown or garland, 1 Pet. 1. 4. & 5. 4. or, celestial glory, life eternal, as a crown, or for a crown, James 1. 12. as the sign of circumcision, on, that is, circumcision as or for a sign, Rom. 4. 11. An allusion to them that run or wrestle for a garland, 1 Cor. 9. 24, 25. 2 Tim. 2. 5. & 4. 7, 8.

V. 11. He that hath an ear] See notes on vers. 7. of the second death] Consisting in the separation of soul and body from God, and sequestration of them both to eternal torments, Matth. 25. 46. 2 Thess. 1. 9. chap. 20. 14. & 21. 8. So called, in relation to the natural death foregoing it, whereby soul and body are onely severed either from other. Though he may suffer this, yet shall he escape that. It shall not be able to seize upon him, cha. 20. 6.

V. 13. I know] Vers. 2.

where] In how perillous a place, and among what manner of people thine abode is; Psal. 57. 4. & 120. 5, 6. Ezek. 2. 6. Phil. 2. 15.

seat] Or, throne. Where the Roman governour liveth, who is Satans chief instrument in persecuting the Saints, vers. 10.

holdest fast my name, &c.] Dost still maintain thy Christian profession, Heb. 10. 23. So chap. 3. 3, 8, 10, 11.

even in those days] As in a dangerous place, so in the times of greatest trial, Chap. 12. 12. & 13. 10. & 14. 12.

Antipas] A name contracted of Antipater, as Artemas of Artemidorus, Tit. 3. 12. Epaphras of Epaphroditus, Col. 4. 12. Phil. 4. 18. Demas of Demetrius, 2 Tim. 4. 12. Silas of Silvanus, Acts 15. 40. 1 Thess. 1. 1. The name of some godly Minister of Christ, in likelihood, who had suffered martyrdom there for the truth.

martyr] Who gave his life for the testimony of the truth concerning me; Acts 22. 20.

V. 14. hast there] Dost not put them out of the Church, that they may not hurt others, 1 Cor. 5. 2, 6.

of Balaam] Who taught Balak to set fair women on work to tempt the Israelites to eat of the meat they had sacrificed to their idols, and to commit folly with them, Numb. 24. & 25. Chapters, and 31. 16.

V. 15. Nicolaitans] See notes on vers. 6.

V. 16. Repent] Look on vers. 5.

sword] See Chap. 1. 16.

V. 17. hidden manna] He shall both spiritually taste of me here, and feast also with me, and of me, enjoying me fully hereafter in heaven. He alludeth to Psa. 105. 40. John 6. 27, 32, 49, 50. Luke 22. 30. and withal, to the golden pot of manna, placed in the holiest of all, Heb. 9. 3, 4. Exod. 16. 33, 34.

a white stone] Assurance of the full discharge of all his sins, 1 John 1. 7. Or, perfect absolution at the day of judgement, John 5. 24. For the heathen absolved men by white stones, and condemned them by black ones. Or, a privy mark, whereby he may be known, and admitted to the heavenly banquet of the hidden manna, as a hidden guest thereunto, chap. 19. 9. alluding, as some think, to those shells, stones, or tokens, that were wont to be given as tickets, with their names on them, to such as were to be admitted to the solemn feasts, held in honour of those that were victorious in their faced games.

a new name] Adde to his absolution such glory, as none can understand, but such as have it, 2 Cor. 2. 9. An inward assurance of his right and interest in these honours. He alludeth to Isai. 65. 15. All these things follow the victory.

V. 19. I know] See v. 2.

and thy charity] Or, even thy charity; as v. 13. for here he reckoneth up the workes in particular.

and service, &c.] Thy ministring to the Saints; as Rom. 16. 1. Heb. 6. 10. and faithfulness in thy calling, and patient bearing of troubles ensuing it; as Chap. 2. 2.

and thy workes] The fruits of these particular graces. Or, and thy workes, that the last are more than the first. So this conjunction is used, Luk. 3. 20. & 5. 1.

V. 20. a few things] See notes on vers. 14, 15.

Jezebel] 1 Kin. 16. 31. Some wicked woman like her self, or of the same name with her, or both.

V. 21. of her fornication] She was not onely naught her self, but taught others also to be naught like her self, vers. 22. False doctrine and bad life, idolatry and adultery go oft together, vers. 14, 15. Num. 25. 1, 2. Hos. 4. 11, 12, 13, 14.

and she repented not] Or, but she repented not; Matth. 11. 19. She added impenitency to her incontinency and other sins, Rom. 2. 4, 5.

V. 22. into a bed] As there is a bed of ease and pleasure, Amos 6. 4. so of languishing and disease, Psal. 41. 4. The later is here intended, but with allusion to the former. Her punishment shall be like her sin. Adulterers often lye long sick of foul diseases, Job 20. 11. Prov. 5. 11.

V. 23. And I will kill her children] Her bastards; as 2 Sam. 12. 14. Others understand it of spiritual adultery, and then her adulterers are her fellow-false-teachers, and her children they whom she had seduced.

I am he which searcheth] Psal. 7. 9. Jer. 11. 20. & 17. 10. They shall know that I am the true God, by my punishing them for their secret sins, Psal. 90. 8. 2 Sam. 12. 12. Ezek. 8. 12.

V. 24. unto you, &c.] Both ministers and people; Or, unto you, even the rest; as vers. 13.

not known, &c.] Are ignorant of those things they call the depths of God; as 1 Cor. 2. 10. but are indeed the depths of Satan. Or, not allowed; as Psal. 101. 4. Matth. 25. 12.

none other burden] Denounce no further troubles against you, than what you suffer already. So prophecies of evils to come are called burdens, Isai. 13. 1. & 23. 1. Or, I will lay no other laws on you to live by, than what you have already received of the Apostles, ver. 25, Acts 15. 28.

V. 25. Hold fast] Chap. 3. 11.

till I come] To the last, vers. 26. or, to the end, Matth. 24. 13. till my second coming, general or special; 1 Cor. 11. 26.

V. 26. overcometh] See notes on ver. 7.

my works] Enjoyned to him by me. Or, such as I require, not as Jezebel teacheth.

power over the nations] To joyn with me in judging them at the last day, Psal. 149. 5, &c. 1 Cor. 6. 2. Jude vers. 14, 15.

V. 27. And he shall rule them] Psal. 2. 9. Gr. feed them; as Psal. 78. 71, 72. Mic. 5. 4. Mat. 2. 6. That is, rule them with a rod of iron, with a mighty and power irresistible, Psal. 110. 1. subduing and maulling to peeces all refractary and rebellious ones.

as the vessels] Or, that as the vessels; as Psal. 2. 9.

be broken to shivers] That is, utterly destroyed, without recovery, as earthen vessels broken are, Isa. 30. 14. Jer. 19. 11.

V. 28. morning star] The full fruition of my self, cha. 22. 10. 2 Pet. 1. 19. Or, the next degree of glory to me, as the morning star is next the sun, Isa. 14. 12.

V. 29.] See notes on vers. 7.

hath the seven Spirits] Chap. 4. 6. See notes on chap. 1. 4. He hath the Spirit, either because the Spirit proceedeth from Christ, and is therefore called his Spirit, Rom. 8. 9. or else because he sendeth the Spirit into the hearts of the elect, Joh. 15. 20. & 16. 14.

hast a name, &c.] Thou art an hypocrite. Thou seemest alive to the world, but art dead to God, 1 Tim. 5. 6. Or, thou carriest a shew of some vigorousness and vivacity with thee, but art indeed in a languishing condition, little better than dead, vers. 2. like that, 1 Cor. 3. 1. Or, thou hast a spiritual lethargie, or dead palsie, and art like a body some members whereof are dead, though not all, vers. 2.

V. 2. Be watchful] Rouze up thy self, and shake off this lethargical disposition, Eph. 5. 14.

the things which remain] Those graces which are not yet quite dead in thee. Or, the rest: to wit, of thy flock, that are in a languishing condition.

V. 3. as a thief] Chap. 16. 15. Matth. 24. 43, 44. Luke 12. 39, 40. 1 Thess. 5. 2. 2 Pet. 3. 10. I will come upon thee, who are secure, unexpectedly, as theeves come on men asleep.

V. 4. a few names] A few men, Acts 1. 15. known to Christ by name.

defiled their garments] Carried themselves wickedly in their lives, as the Balaamites have done, chap. 2. 14. Jude vers. 23.

in white] In glory, as Matt. 17. 2. & 28. 3. In glorious rayment, such as great men in times of triumph and festivity used to wear, v. 5. Chap. 7. 14. Eccles. 9. 8.

they are worthy] In my account; as Luke 20. 35. 2 Thess. 1. 5. and in comparison of the Nicolaitans, Chap. 2. 15. Or, meet and fit, as Mat. 3. 8. Eph. 4. 1.

V. 5. in white] See v. 4.

booke of life] Chap. 20. 12. Phil. 2. 3. in which the names of the elect are written.

I will confess] I will own and acknowledge him for such an one, as he hath owned and acknowledged me, Matth. 10. 32. Mar. 7. 8, 38.

V. 7. Philadelphia] Look on Chap. 1. 11.

key of David] Of the house of David, Isa. 22. 22. That is, of the Church. A similitude borrowed from those that keep the keys of a city, castle or palace; the gates whereof therefore cannot be opened or shut, without their permission or direction, Neh. 7. 3. & 23. 19. So in the next verse he had opened a Church door in Philadelphia, which none should be able to shut again, 1 Cor. 16. 9. 2 Cor. 2. 12.

V. 8. I know] See notes on Chap. 2. 2.

no man can shut it] Thou hast adversaries, but none shall be able to to take the Gospel from thee. Or, none shall be able to stop or impeach the passage of it with thee, 1 Cor. 16.9.

V. 9. synagogue of Satan] See notes on Chap. 2. 9. Worship before thy feet: reverence thee as one beloved of me, Isa. 60. 14. 1 Cor. 14. 24, 25.

V. 10. thou hast kept] Thou hast been patient, as my word commanded thee, in troubles past. Or, hast with much patience maintained and held fast the Christian profession.

the word of my patience] Or, my word of patience. (As, My mountain of holiness, Isa. 56. 7. for, My holy mountain: his Son of love, Col. 1. 13. for his dearly beloved Son: his Word of power, Heb. 1. 3. for, his most powerful word) The Gospel of Christ; so called, partly, because it teacheth patience, (it is a doctrine of patience) and that in the highest degree: and partly, because the keeping of it requireth patience; without which, and that in some good measure, the profession of it cannot be maintained: so as it should, Luk. 21. 19. Heb. 10. 36.

I will keep thee] Afford thee immunity and freedom from those general persecutions and troubles which shall befal other Churches.

all the world] The most places of the known world, Luke 2. 1. to try] Who be found, and who unsound; as 1 Cor. 11. 19. who will stick close to the truth, Chap. 2. 13. & 12. 11, 17. & 14. 12. Psal. 44. 17. and who flinch, and fall off, Matt. 13. 21. 2 Tim. 4. 12. Times of trouble, are times of trial, Psal. 66. 10. Rom. 5. 3, 4. Jam. 1. 2, 3, 12. 1 Pet. 1. 6, 7. & 4. 12.

V. 11. I come quickly] Thy troubles shall not last long. Or, it will not be long ere I come to call to account, Cha. 22. 12, 20. Heb. 10. 37. Jam. 5. 8, 9.

which thou hast] The profession of the right religion.

that no man take thy crown] That it be not taken away, Luke 12. 20.

thy crown] The honour promised thee, v. 9. Or, the heavenly glory promised to such as persevere, 1 Cor. 9. 24. Matth. 24. 13. See notes on Chap. 2. 10.

V. 12. a pillar] He shall have an everlasting happiness in heaven An allusion to 1 Kin. 7. 21.

the Name of my God] He shall be openly acknowledged to be the childe of God, Rom. 9. 26. 1 John 3, 1, 2. Mal. 3. 18. Heb. 11. 16.

name of the city of my God] He shall be enrolled, as a free denizen and a citizen of the heavenly Jerusalem, Luke 10. 20. Eph. 2. 19. Phil. 3. 20. Heb. 12. 23.

cometh down from heaven] Not of the earthly Jerusalem, but of that Jerusalem, the knowledge whereof is revealed to us from heaven: or, whose state is not from man, but from God in heaven; as Mat. 21. 25. Gal. 4. 26. Heb. 11. 10, 11. Chap. 21. 2.

my new name] He shall be honoured for a king and conquerour, like me; Phil. 2. 9. Or, he shall have a new name, of mine imposing or giving. See Isa. 65. 15.

V. 15. I know] See notes on Chap. 2. 2.

neither cold nor hot] Thou standest indifferently affected, neither eager for the truth, nor an open adversary thereunto. Neither a zealous professour, nor a professed enemy to religion, but a neuter.

I would thou wert] I would thou wouldest manifestly declare thy self, either for the one side or the other; as 1 Kings 18. 21. I should better brook thee, if thou didst either: as the stomach can better brook meat either hot or cold, than lukewarm, between both.

V. 16. I will spue] As the stomach casteth up meat which it brooketh not or abhorreth; so will I cast thee off, as a loathsome thing, which may soul loatheth and abhorreth. So Lev. 18. 27, 28. Isa. 1. 13, 14. Amos 6. 8. Zech. 11. 8.

V. 17. Thou sayest] He taxeth him for his pride and self-conceit, in bragging and vaunting himself, as if he had all manner of spiritual grace in abundance, and were not wanting in any kind of it; as Rom. 15. 14. Jam. 1. 4. Or, had made such a progress therein, that nothing needed to be added to that perfection that already he had attained: contrary to that, Phil. 3. 12, 15.

knowest not] Art altogether ignorant of thine own estate, as men naturally are wont to be, Rom. 7. 9.

wretched] In a very lamentable plight, whatsoever thou deemest and dreamest of thy happy condition; Jere. 4. 10. and 6. 14.

poor] Or, beggerly. Like a begger boasting of wealth, Prov. 13. 7. blinde] Destitute of spiritual eye-sight; Act. 26. 18. Eph. 1. 18. & 4. 18. 2 Pet. 1. 9. The reason why he is so mistaken in himself and his own estate.

naked] Devested and stript of all spiritual apparel and ornaments; Gen. 3. 7. Exod. 32. 25. Ezek. 23. 26.

V. 18. I counsel] Christs advice to him, to seek remedy against those spiritual evils, and supply of those spiritual wants, from himself, as the fountain whence all grace issueth, Joh. 1. 16.

V. 20. I stand at the door] As attending and waiting, with much patience, Cant. 5. 2.

and knock] At the door of mens consciences, both by out-ward means, and inward motions, Psal. 16. 7. as one desirous of admittance, Cant. 5. 2.

hear my voice] Not give me bare hearing, but hearken to what I say, Joh. 5. 29. Heb. 3. 7. Psal. 97. 7.

open] To receive and entertain me by faith; not in his house, but in his heart, Joh. 1. 11, 12.

I will come in] I will unite my self to him, take up my lodging with him, and make mine abode in his soul, Isai. 57. 15. 2 Cor. 6. 16. 1 Joh. 4. 16.

I sup with him] Converse familiarly, chearfully and comfortably with him, as friends use to feast and make merry one with another, Cant. 5. 1. John 14. 23. For their feasts were for the most part at supper-time, when their daily employments were over, Luke 14. 17. See Chap. 19. 9.

V. 21. To him that overcometh] See Chap. 2. 7. to sit with me] To reign with me in grace here, in glory hereafter, Rom. 5. 21. & 8. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 12. Matth. 19. 28. Chap. 4. 4. & 5. 10. & 20. 4, 6. & 22. 5.

I overcame] All difficulties that I was encountred with, in pursuit of the work by the Father affigned me, John 17. 4. Heb. 12. 2.

in his throne] On the right hand of his Majesty, Mark 16. 19. Eph. 1. 20. Col. 3. 1. Heb. 1. 3. & 8. 1. & 10. 12. & 12. 2.

V. 22. He that hath an ear] Look on Chap. 2. 7. Here is the conclusion of the first vision.

CHAP. IV.

Vers. 1. A After this] Immediately after the first vision: for all the Revelation was shewed to him in one day, being the Lords day, Chap. 1. 10.

I looked] Desirous to see more of these glorious visions.

a door opened] The heavens so opened, as if the door of some stately palace were set open, by which might be discovered such glorious sights as within it were to be seen. So Ezek. 1. 1. Mat. 3. 16. Act. 7. 56. & 10. 11.

in heaven] Some take it for the Church on earth, which is as heaven, in comparison of the rest of the world, and in, or for which, these things are to be fulfilled; as Chap. 12. 1. Others, for heaven it self, where God sitteth in majesty, and from whence these things were revealed to John, Psal. 11. 5, 7.

and the first voice, &c.] Or, and the former (as Cha. 2. 4.) voice which I heard as it were of a trumpet, talking with me, said, Come up, &c. See Chap. 1. 10.

come up hither] That he might see and hear the better, and not mistake by reason of distance. The same words, but for another end, are used, Chap. 11. 12.

which must be hereafter] He cometh to the third head mentioned, Chap. 1. 19. See notes there.

V. 2. immediately I was in the Spirit] After some intermission, he was taken up into another spiritual rapture: or, spiritually carried up into heaven in a vision. See Chap. 1. 10.

a throne was set in heaven] He seeth God sitting on a throne above, that the things to come might be with the more solemnity revealed, one sate] God the Father appeareth to him in the form of a king on a throne, v. 8, 9, 10. chap. 5. 1. & 22. 1. It may be a representation of Gods sitting in his Church on earth, as King over it. Thus God appeared, Isa. 6. 1. Ezek. 1. 26. and 11. 22. Dan. 7. 9.

V. 3. like a jasper, &c.] The Church is compared to gold, Chap. 1. 20. God here, to some of the choicest gems in beauty and price, far beyond gold, Job 28. 15, 19. Jasper, A precious stone so termed, of its eminency in Hebrew. The last stone in the High-priests breast-plate, Exod. 21. 18. the first in the foundation of the heavenly Jerusalem, chap. 21. 19.

sardine] Or, sardius. A precious stone so called, by the Greeks, from the city Sardis, about which plenty of them was: in Hebrew, Odam, of its deep red and bloudy colour: the first in the priests breast-plate, Exod. 28. 17. and the sixth in the foundation of the celestial city, chap. 21. 20.

round about the throne] Over the top of it, Ezek. 1. 28.

emerald] A precious stone of a deep green colour: the fourth both in the High-priests breast-plate, Exod. 28. 18. and in the foundation of the celestial Jerusalem, chap. 21. 19.

V. 4. four and twenty seats] Twelve on the right hand, and twelve on the left.

four and twenty elders] All Gods Saints of the Old and new Testament, comprehended under the twelve Patriarchs and twelve Apostles, Chap. 5. 8, 10.

sitting] As reigning and judging together with Christ, Matt. 19. 28. 1 Cor. 6. 2, 3. chap. 2. 21.

in white raiment] In token not of innocency onely, but honour also and triumph; chap. 3. 4. & 7. 14.

crowns] Tokens of royal state and glory; Psal. 21. 3. Cant. 3. 11. chap. 1. 6.

V. 5. lightnings] Either to set out Gods power in confounding the enemies of his Church, Psal. 22. 12, 14. & 97. 3, 4. Or, his majesty in the revealing his will. Princes can do it but with trumpets on earth, God with thunder from heaven, Exod. 19. 16. So Ezek. 14. 13, 14. Psal. 81. 7.

voices] An Hebraism, for loud sounds and cracks of thunder; Exo. 9. 23, 28. & 20. 18.

lamps of fire] To shew the illuminating works of the Spirit; Acts 2. 3. Eph. 1. 18. So Ezek. 1. 13.

seven Spirits] See notes on chap. 1. 4.

V. 6. a sea of glass] Whose water was clear, and transparent, as glass. This seemeth to have been as a stately foot-stool beneath the throne: a sea here, as the earth, Isai. 66. 1. Or, as a curious pavement both under and before the throne, like crystal, as that like Sapphire, Exod. 24. 10. of which kinde of stones some are blue or skie-coloured, some are white as crystal. By it, some understand the Scriptures, or the word of God, as being full of perspicuous truth, guiding us to Godward, Psal. 19. 8. & 119. 105, 130.

in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne] Two standing just against the midst of the throne, and one at each corner. Or else their bodies were underneath the throne, and their heads appeared without: or, as some read it; Between the throne, and those things that were about the throne. And then the order is this: God the Father sitting on the throne: next, the Lamb, chap. 5. 6, 7. then, the Spirit of God, like lamps: then, the sea of the Scriptures: then, the four beasts or wights: after that, the four and twenty elders: lastly, the angels, compassing them in; chap. 5. 11. This was the majestical vision that John now saw.

four beasts] Or, living wights. These represent the Ministers of the Gospel, comprehended as it were in the four Evangelists, chap. 5. 8, 10.

full of eyes before and behinde] To shew the vigilant care of the Pastour, Acts 20. 28. Or, his looking forward to God sitting on the throne, and backward to his people, Heb. 12. 2.

V. 7. And the first beast, &c.] Or, living wight. Under those representations, are set out the eminent gifts of the Ministers of the new Testament, some are like Lions for courage, 2 Sam. 17. 20. Others, like oxen, for labour, Psal. 144. 14. Others, like men, for prudence in government, Job 35. 11. Prov. 30. 2. Others, like eagles, for deep insight into divine mysteries, Job 39. 28, 29.

V. 8. six wings] To shew how ready Gods Ministers ought to be to help every man committed to their charge: for the wings are just so many as the elders. See Isa. 6. 2.

full of eyes within] As before, to look toward God, and behinde toward their people; to within to look to themselves, Act. 20. 28. 1 Tim. 4. 16. Or, full of heavenly knowledge, and spiritual grace; Matth. 13. 52.

rest not day and night, saying] Gr. have no rest, &c. They continually praise God; and set out the Trinity of Persons in the Godhead, and the supream authority, unity of essence, omnipotency and eternity of God.

Holy] Isa. 6. 3.

which was] Chap. 1. 4.

V. 9. give glory] Acknowledge that glory and honour that is in God, Psal. 29. 1, 2.

V. 10. fall down before him] As unworthy to sit in his presence, Psa. 95. 6. & 99. 5.

and worship him] Do as it were kiss his feet. The word originally is taken from dogs, that couch down when the master cometh in, and lick his feet. They shew the lowest signes of humility to God. See chap. 3. 9.

cast their crowns] Not that they slight their glory conferred on them by God; but, what lower honour they have, they confess they had it from God, and are content to lay it down at his feet, and devest themselves of it, to do honour to him; John 3. 30. 2 Sam. 6. 21, 22. A real Amen to the words of the Ministers, vers. 8. chap. 5. 13.

V. 11. to receive glory, and honour, and power] Chap. 5. 12. To receive the praise of thy power.

for thou hast] The people must praise God understandingly, and give a reason why they do it.

for thy pleasure] As they were made by thee, so to do thy will, and to bring glory to thy Name, Prov. 16. 4. Rom. 11. 36. Or, by thy will they are; as chap. 12. 11. that is, by thee alone, all things are preserved, or kept in being, and were created; therefore all glory belongeth to thee, 1 Chron. 29. 11, 12, 14.

CHAP. V.

Vers. 1. M In the right hand of him] Gr. at his right hand: Neer unto him, so as none might lay hand on it, and meddle with it, without his leave. Here it is manifest, that God appeared unto John in the form of a man. Or, the book is in his right hand, to shew, that none can know what is written in it, without his leave: Deut. 29. 29. Acts 1. 7.

him that sate] Of whom, see cha. 4. 2.

a book] An history of things concerning the Church of God till Christs second coming, as appeareth at the opening of the seals.

written within and without] Gr. on the backside. The matter was so copious, that the inside of the book could not hold it; Ezek. 2. 10. A phrase taken from the manner of writing in rolls of parchment or paper; which, when the matter was so large as it could not be all written on the one side, they were fain sometime to write on the backside the residue. Some think, the things present were written on the one side, and the things to come on the other. Or, written within, and on the back side sealed, &c. So that the matter was written within, and the seals wherewith it was sealed up, affixed on the outside; to shew, that none could look into it, or by humane wisdom come to know what was contained in it: 1 Cor. 2. 9, 11. See Isa. 29. 11. Jer. 32. 11. Dan. 12. 2.

with seven seals] It was divided into seven parts, and every part had a seal; as appeareth by the opening of each seal.

V. 2. a strong angel] It may be the angel mentioned, Chap. 1. 1. whom Christ appointed to reveal these things to John. He is said to be strong, that he might speak so loud, that all men might hear him.

who is, &c.] This sheweth the great desire the Angels have to search into those things which concern the Church, 1 Peter 1. 12.

who is worthy] A free essay offered to all, but great worth required in him that should attempt it. The like speeches are used, Jer. 49. 19. Matt. 14. 45. 2 Cor. 2. 16.

V. 3. no man in heaven, &c.] That is, no man at all; for all men are in one of these places, vers. 13. Phil. 2. 10. The Angel taketh their not answering, or not appearing, for an acknowledgment of their inability, or indignity, or both. So Isa. 41. 28, 29.

to look thereon] Or, therein. For John looked on it, vers. 4. The sense is: No man was judged worthy to know or publish these great mysteries.

V. 4. I wept much] John thought them to be weighty, and therefore grieveth much that they may not be made known.

V. 5. one of the elders] One of the elders is employed to comfort John. Mean persons sometimes are used for the benefit and support of greater, Act. 18. 26. So an Angel is sent to strengthen Christ, Gen. 49. 9.

the lion of the tribe of Judah] Christ, the Messias, the powerful King of the Church, Luke 22. 43.

the Root of David] One of the seed of David, Matt. 1. 1. Rom. 1. 3. Not the root from whence David sprang, but a branch that sprang from David, as from a root, Isa. 11. 1. Act. 13. 23. chap. 22. 16. And yet from whom, as from a root, or a branch that both hath a principle of life in it, and a power to convey the same also to others, life and health spiritual accrue also to David; Matth. 22. 43.

hath prevailed] Is able to do it; both to dive themselves into it, and the mysteries contained in it, and to make them known to others; John 5. 20. But spoken, as of one that hath attained to do that which many have in vain strived to attain. Gr. overcome.

V. 6. in the midst of the throne] Or, within the compass of it; between the throne and the four wights. See notes on chap. 4. 6. Christ standeth between God and us, as a mediator, 1 Tim. 2. 5.

a lamb] Willingly submitting himself to God the Father, to be a sacrifice for us; John. 1. 29. 1 Pet. 1. 19.

as it had been slain] By some resemblance of his wounds, or the scar of some deadly wound; as Joh.20.25,27. This signifieth intercession for us, by the virtue of his death, Rom. 8. 34. Heb. 9. 12, 25. and 10. 24.

having seven horns, and seven eyes] Protecting and guiding his Church, by the power and wisdom of his Spirit, shewed it in the gifts given to his servants on earth. Seven, a number of perfection. Horns signifie power, Dan.7.24. eyes, knowledge or wisdom, Isa.35.5. Both joyned together, argue a fulness and perfection of power, Matt.28.18. and wisdom in Christ, Col.2.3.9. So that we have here a lively representation of the threefold office of Christ. His sacerdotal, or priestly, in the lamb as slain: his royal or princely, in the horns; his prophetical office, in the eyes.

seven Spirits] See notes on chap.1.4.

sent out] To descry what is done, enterprised, or intended in any part of the world, that is or may be advantagious for, or prejudicial to the good and safety of his Church; Prov.15.3. 2 Chro.16.9. Zech. 4.10.

V. 7. took the book] To unseal it, and publish the contents of it; Chap.6.1.

V. 8. when he had taken the book] The worthiness of the Lamb to take the book, and hope of publishing it, is the occasion of the following Song.

the four beasts] Or, living wights; as chap.4.6. First, the ministers and people of God, who have a share in the benefits following, praise Christ their Saviour: then the Angels, who shall enjoy their society for ever, verse 11. lastly, all creatures, which shall be freed from vanity also, Rom. 8. 20, 21. verf. 13. In the end, the Ministers, as besitteth them, confirm the Song of the Angels and creatures with a verbal Amen, and the people with a real one, verf. 14.

fell down before the Lamb] Worshipped him, as God. See verf. 10.

harps] These instruments, and their song, shew their cheerful thankfulness. So Chap. 15, 2, 3. An allusion to the solemn service of God in the ancient Church; 1 Chron. 25. 3, 6, 7. Psal. 98. 5.

golden vials] An allusion to the censers or persuming pots used in the tabernacle and temple, Num. 4. 14. 1 Kings 7. 50. Said to be of gold, such as those were that belonged to the altar of incense, called the golden altar, chap. 8. 3. 1 King. 7. 50. Heb. 9. 4. for the other, belonging to the burnt-offerings, were of brass; Num. 16. 39. as the altar also it self was, Exo. 27. 2. 2 Chro. 4. 1.

full of odours] Containing matter of atonement and gracious acceptance; as Exod. 30. 7——10. Num. 16. 46, 48. not of wrath and indignation, as those, chap. 8. 5. & 15. 7. See chap. 8. 4. Or, of incense: The prayers of Gods people, which are sweet to him, as incense is to us, an allusion to the intense offered on the golden altar, Exod. 30. 1, 3. Psal. 141. 2. Mal. 1. 11. Rev. 8. 3.

of saints] This sheweth, that the living wights and elders represent the ministers and people worshipping God here on earth, their spiritual employment being to offer up unto God prayers, Heb. 13. 15.

V. 9. A new song] Made an occasion of a new benefit; Psal. 33. 3. & 40. 3. & 96. 1. & 98. 1.

Thou wast slain] We have reason to account thee worthy to do it, because thou hast shed thy Blood to redeem us and prefer us; 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19.

redeemed us] It appeareth that those four living wights do not represent the Angels, as those, Ezek. 1, 5. but men redeemed by the Blood of Christ, 2 Pet. 1. 18, 19. Act. 20. 28.

out of every kindred] No nation, sex, sort of men, state or condition, being excluded from salvation purchased by Christ; 2 Cor. 12. 13. Gal. 3. 28. Col. 3. 11. chap. 7. 9.

V. 10. kings and priests] 1 Pet. 2. 9. See notes on chap. 1. 6.

we shall reign on earth] Over our spiritual enemies, Satan, the world, and our own lusts, even in this world, while we live here; chap. 12. 11. Rom. 16. 20. 1 John 5. 4. Tit. 2. 12. Or, it may signifie the prosperous times of the Church under Christian Kings and Emperours; Dan. 7. 27. Psal. 37. 11. Matt. 5. 5. Hence it appeareth also, that the living Wights are ministers, and the elders of the people, in the visible Church here on earth.

V. 11. round about the throne] God is attended by millions of Angels, as Kings are by many nobles and attendants, Dan. 7. 10.

and the beasts] Or, living wights; as before. The Angels compass God ministers about, also, and his people, to protect them, Psal. 34. 7. & 91. 11, 12. chap. 4. 6, 8.

ten thousand times ten thousand] Dan. 7. 10.

V. 12. to receive power] To have all honour and praise given to him, as to the mightiest, wisest, &c. as chap. 4. 11. & 7. 12.

V. 13. And every creature] A Catholike confession of Christs Divine Nature and Power. The unreasonable and senseless creatures are brought in as persons praising him; which they ought to do, if they could; as Psal. 148. 3. and in some sort do it, by their course constantly continued, wherein he hath settled them, their serviceableness to himself, and to those that be his, Psal. 19. 1, 2, 3, 4. & 119. 90, 91. & 104. 2——18. & 148. 8. and withal rejoycing in their hopeful expectation of delivery from that vanity which they are now subject unto; Rom. 8. 21.

and unto the Lamb] The Saints speak unto Christ directly: Thou art worthy, verf. 9. for they had a part in redemption, and things revealed. But the Angels and others speak of him, as of one worthy to be praised for doing this for others: Worthy is the Lamb, verf. 12. and, Unto the Lamb, verf. 13.

V. 14. four beasts] Or, living wights. In these the ministers first, and in express words, to give consent to this heavenly and earthly musick.

fell down] Thus they really, by silent, but pregnant signes, shew their consent. So Chap. 4. 10. They fell down once before, verf. 8. but it seemeth they rose again, when they had done and finished their song, verf. 9, 10.

CHAP. VI.

Verf. 1. ONE of the seals] The first; as Matt. 28. 1. for the second seal is opened, verf. 3. The first seal.

as the noise of thunder] To strike with the greater admiration, and to procure attention. So Cha. 14. 2. & 19. 6.

one of the four beasts] Or, living wights; as chap. 4. 6, 7. See verf. 3. To wit, that like a lion, chap. 4. 7.

V. 2. a white horse] An horse, because the horse is a warlike creature, Prov. 21. 31. white, in signe of triumph: for the Romanes, when they rid in triumph, had white horses to ride on, or to draw their chariots. So great ones also on white beasts, Judg. 5. 10.

he that sate on him] Christ of whom, Psal. 45. 4. Cha. 19. 11.

had a bow] Christ had power to kill his enemies, as well afar off, as neer at hand, either with the pestilence, or otherways, Psal. 91. 1, 5. Others understand it of the preaching of the Gospel, whereby Christ maketh his enemies to stoop to him, Psal. 45. 5.

a crown was given to him] In token of victory, 1 Cor. 9. 24 2 Tim. 2. 5. conquering] He had begun to conquer already, and should conquer yet further. See the like phrase, Gen. 26. 13.

V. 3. the second beast] Or, living wight, cha. 4. 7. That like an ox or a calf. The second minister. See chap. 4. 6. The second seal.

come, and see] Though we may not dive into Gods secret judgements without leave; yet may we freely to do, when we are called thereunto.

V. 4. horse that was red] In token of war, which aftoundeth commonly with fire and bloodshed, Isa. 9. 5. & 63. 1, 3.

from the earth] From the Romane Empire, not from the Church; for it is called heaven in this book. Or, from the whole inhabited and known world.

kill one another] By wars; which the Romane Emperours did, and the people under them. God sendeth this judgement on the world, for their resisting of the Gospel, and their abusing, and wronging of those that preached and professed it.

a great sword] For the war was to be great, and stretched far; So Isa. 27. 1.

V. 5. third beast] Or, living wight. That like a man, chap. 4. 7. See notes on verf. 3. The third seal.

a black-horse] A note of famine, which maketh men's faces black, Lam. 4. 7, 8.

a pair of balances] Or, a beam; to wit, of a balance, with scales hanging at either end, to weigh corn in, like spices. This argueth a great dearth; for corn should not then be measured out by the bushel, or like measure, as it used to be; but sold as by weight. So bread used to be weighed in times of scarcity; Levit. 26. 26. Ezek. 4. 16. Of such a famine, read Act. 11. 28. Howbeit, some make this an emblem of justice, which is wont to be so described, as weighing out and disposing things according to due and exact proportion, and to justifie things according to that rule; the blackness of the horse being mate a severe execution of justice; the blackness of the horse being a signe of severity; which they suppose to have been fulfilled under Alexander Severus, a man in that kinde exceeding strict. See Lampridius, in his life.

V. 6. a voice in the midst of the four beasts] Christs voice, chap. 5. 6.

a measure] Gr. a chœnix. The word signifieth, a measure, containing one wine-quart, and the twelfth part of a quart. It was the usual allowance in bread of a slave for one day.

for a penny] The Romane denarius, the same with the Greek drachma: the fourth part of the Hebrew shekel, was about seven pence, or seven pence half-peny, of our money. And it seemeth to have been the wages of an hirelings, or day-labourer, Matt. 20. 9, and a common souldiers daily pay. It must needs go hard with him, when all his wages must go for bread.

and three measures of barley] Being the coarser grain. See 2 Kin. 7. 1.

see that thou hurt not the oyl and the wine] Or, in oyl and wine see that thou deal not unjustly, or, do no wrong; verf. 5. Some think, Christ taketh care here to have some provision left for his Church. Others because there is a scarcity of things necessary, as corn, and some things left for comfort, as oyl and wine; do conceive, that the poor were to perish now by the famine, and the rich reserved for the pestilence following, verf. 8. Or, the words may contain a warning to those that dealt in these commodities, to be exactly just.

V. 7. fourth beast] Or, living wight. That like an eagle, Chap. 4. 7. See notes on verf. 3. The fourth seal.

V. 8. a pale horse] Because death maketh men pale.

hell] Or, the grave. Though the bodies of these wicked men went to the grave, for consuming and abusing the Gospel; so it is not unlikely that their souls also went to hell.

us to them] Or, to him: that is, death.

fourth part of the earth] It went over all the earth, as the rest did; but killed only the fourth part of men, where it came.

with sword, &c.] These often go together, Ezek. 14. 21. Jer. 15. 2. These all followed the invasion of the Romane Empire by the Goths, Huns and Vandals.

with death] That is, with the pestilence, or mortality, as we term it, 1 Cor. 11. 30.

V. 9. under the altar] As beasts newly slain for sacrifices, Exo. 29. 12. Or, in a sure place, free from danger, 1 Kin. 1. 50. The fifth seal.

were slain] Under the Romane Emperours.

for the word of God] Which they preached and professed, even to death, Chap. 2. 10, 26.

V. 10. they cryed with a loud voice] Not that the Martyrs themselves desired vengeance to be inflicted by God on their cruel persecutours, whom, after Christ their masters example, Luke 23. 24. they requested God rather to forgive, Acts 7. 60. but, that their blood cried aloud to God for speedy vengeance, together with the cruelty it self exercised upon them, Gen. 4. 10. Hab. 2. 11. Heb. 12. 24.

holy and true] Who being holy and pure, cannot nor endure to see such impiety and iniquity, Hab. 1. 13. being true of thy word, cannot but make it good, but by putting it in execution against such, Psal. 54. 5.

judge and revenge] Hear our cause, and do us right, 2 Thess. 1. 11. Give sentence for us, and cause that sentence to be put into execution, Psal. 26. 1. & 7. 8, &c.

V. 11. And white robes were given to every one of them] Their innocency was cleared, and they made perfectly happy. See notes on cha. 3. 4.

yet for a little season] For a strange alteration was shortly after to ensue, as appeared on the opening of the next seal, verf. 12.

as they were] Gr. even as they. Or, as themselves also were.

should be fulfilled] Until the full sum and number of them should be compleat, and the malice and cruelty of the adverse party come to his full height; that so the vengeance of God might in his appointed time also come upon their persecutours to the full. So Gen. 15. 16. Matt. 23. 32. 1 Thess. 2. 16.

V. 12. a great earthquake, &c.] The troubles that were to befal the Roman Empire, and strange alterations therein, are set out figuratively, by the shaking of the earth, and confusion of the heavenly bodies; as often in the Prophets such alterations are described, Isai. 13. 9, 10, 11. Jer. 4. 23. Ezek. 32. 7, 8. Joel 2. 10. Hagg. 2. 21, 22. This was fulfilled, when Diocletian the great persecutour gave over his Empire, Galerius was eaten with worms, Maximinus his flesh was rotted away, and his eyes fell out, Maxentius and Licinius fell both before Constantine, by whom God not onely put an end to the persecutions of his people, but setled also the profession of Christianity in the Empire: whereupon, the great princes, and idolatrous captains, seeing their idols contemned, their altars defiled, their temples deserted, and the Christian Religion prevailing, in spight of them, and all their designes and attempts to the contrary, grew desperate, and at their wits end, and fought which way to shift for themselves. For of such persons it is interpreted, verf. 15. The sixth seal.

the sun became black] Which is the brightest creature in the world. It argueth a strange mutation in the Romane Empire, as the rest do also. So Joel 2. 31. Blackness is a symbol of mourning, great confusion and astonishment, Joel 2. 6.

as sackcloth of hair] Their sackcloth was black, as appeareth by tents made of it, Cant. 1. 5. It was made of black goat hair.

the moon became as blood] A strange sight and change, that the pale-faced moon should look red like blood; Joel 2. 31. Acts 2. 20.

V. 13. fell] Seemed to fall out of heaven down to the ground in this vision; as Chap. 12. 4. which of Stars themselves, being such vast bodies as they are, (though by reason of the distance it appear not) cannot be imagined. So Isa. 34. 4.

untimely figs] Or, green figs: Which fall, before the other succeeding them shoot out.

V. 14. heaven] No place so high or lofty, but was made to stoop and give way at Christs presence and appearance in judgement, Chap. 20. 11. Isa. 34. 4.

as a scrol] Gr. book.

rolled together] An allusion to the manner or fashion of books then in use, which were wont to be rolled up, as our Inventaries, and were thence also called volumes, Isa. 8. 1. Jer. 36. 2. So Isai. 34. 4. Which also, being rolled up, were brought into a narrower compass; nor did the things written in them then appear.

every mountain] Nothing so firm, or so surely grounded, but was shaken, and enforced to give ground, Psal. 18. 7. & 68. 8. & 114. 4. Isa. 64. 1, 3. Hab. 3. 6. Zech. 4. 7.

island] Or, sea-coast: as Isai. 23. 2. Jer. 25. 22. Or, land, or, country: as Isa. 20. 6. & 41. 1. No land or region so remote, that the alteration and terrour thence ensuing did not reach un 0, Psal. 65. 8. Isa. 41. 5. & 49. 1.

V. 15. hid themselves] Isa. 2. 10. The great men were as much troubled and dismaied, as if they had seen Christ visibly coming to judgement; and, seeking to hide themselves from him, should utter such words full of affrightment and despair, as are set down in the verses following. Fulfilled, as in others, so especially in Diocletian, who, summoned to appear before Constantine, made himself away with poison; and Maximinian his second in the Empire, who did the like with an halter; both of them having before, from an imperial state, as running into some secret nook or corner, betaken themselves to a private and obscure course of life, wherein also they could not finde shelter or security sufficient. Also in Maximinus, who, having his disco nfiture by Licinius, escaped very narrowly, by hiding himself among the mixt and mean multitude, and after shut himself up in his house, while his forces reinforced were again in the field, was there smitten by the hand of God, and, notwithstanding his acknowledgement of his wrongs done unto, and cruelty exercised upon Christians, and revocation of his former bloody edicts against them, ended his days in such manner as is above mentioned. In Maxentius likewise, that for a time counterfeited himself a Christian; who, being overcome in fight of Constantine, and seeking, by flight from him, to save his life, was drowned in the river Tyber. And lastly, in Licinius, who having of changed his copie, one while for Christian, another while against them, one while assisting Constantine against the other persecuting tyrants, another while conspiring with the like against him; and after feigned submission and reconciliation, falling off again from him, and making head against him, was at length slain in the field, and so came to his end.

V. 16. and said] Hos. 10. 8. Luke 23. 30. The voices of men in a most desperate condition, as not caring what became of them, so they might avoid the sight of so dreadful a judge.

of him that sitteth] God revealing himself as a judg on the Bench, by those direful and dreadful judgements that befel either themselves, or others in their sight. See Chap. 4. 2.

wrath of the lamb] Though a lamb sacrificed for his, and in regard of mildness to them, Chap. 5. 6. yet as dreadful as a lion, to those that had wronged him in them, whose hearts began now to smite them for their wrongs done to them; and as powerful and wrathful, to take vengeance upon them for the same, chap. 5. 5. & 1. 7. Amos 1. 2, & 3. 8.

V. 17. the great day] The day of vengeance, which the blood of Martyrs called upon, and eryed so loud for, verf. 10. So Isa. 34. 8. Joel 2. 1, 2, 31.

who is] Psal. 76. 7. Num. 24. 23. Mal. 3. 2.

CHAP. VII.

Verf. 1. A*Fter these things*] After the former six seals opened, and the events thereof above specified, Chap. 6. and before the seventh seal opened, and the trumpets thereupon delivered and sounded, chap. 8. 1, 2, 6.

four angels] Some understand it of bad angels, which restrained the gentle winds of Gods word and Spirit from refreshing his servants. An allusion to Can. 4. 16. Joh. 3. 8. Act. 2. 2, 3. Others, of good Angels, appointed by God, either to hold back or let loose the winds of wars and troubles, that from all parts of the world might fall in upon the Romane Empire, Jer. 18. 17. & 49. 36. & 51. 1, 2. Dan. 7. 2, 3.

standing on the four corners of the earth] Ready to do what the trumpet, being founded, should give warning to be done.

holding the four winds] This sheweth the power given unto them.

on the earth, on the sea, nor on any tree] These are the things that use to be hurt by winds: the earth, by earthquakes, 1 Kin. 19. 11. Amos 1. 1. Matth. 24. 7. or, overthrow of houses built on it, Job 4. 19. Mat. 7. 27. The sea, by storms, Jonah 1. 4. Matth. 8. 24. Act. 27. 14. The trees, by blasting, renting and extirpation, Gen. 41. 6. Ezek. 17. 10. & 19. 12. Others, understand men dwelling on the firm land, or in the islands and sea-coasts, or in the more woodsy and wilder parts. See Chap. 9. 4.

V. 2. another angel] Most take it for Christ, who is the keeper of Gods great Seal; Some, for an inferiour angel, appointed to set Gods marke on his servants. Others interpret it of Constantine restraining, and inhibiting the former persecutions of Gods people.

ascending] Or, coming from; Matth. 24. 17. An Hebraism, as 2 King. 12. 18. Jerem. 34. 21. & 37. 5. Chap. 13. 1. and 20. 9. but alluding withal to the course of the sun, who riseth higher and higher in his approach from the Eastern parts to us-ward.

from the East] Whence comfortable tidings are said usually to come, Isaiah 41. 2. because from thence ariseth light, Luke 1. 78.

the seal of the living God] With Gods name on it, to set on the foreheads of Gods servants, Chap. 14. 1.

with a loud voice] To shew his power and authority, and withal, to manifest the danger that might ensue, if the thing enjoyned were not instantly and suddenly done. So Gen. 22. 11.

to hurt the earth] By letting forth the winds of war and troubles upon the world. See verf. 1.

V. 3. Hurt not the earth] Let there be peace and quietnes in the Romane Empire. This was fulfilled in Constantines time, and after.

the earth, &c.] See verf. 1.

till we have [sealed] He alludeth to the sealing mentioned, Ezek. 9. 4. wherewith some were sealed, that they might be safe and secured, as having their lives given them for a prey in the time of destruction, that was then shortly to ensue, Jer. 15. 11. & 39. 17, 18. & 45. 5. Hereby shewing, that God would take care for his, when wars and troubles should come, that they might be as safe as things sealed by a seal royal, which no subject dare meddle with, Dan. 6. 17. Matth. 27. 66. See Chap. 3. 10. And indeed, had not God strangely preserved them, when by the invasion of barbarous nations, the Romane Empire was so sorely shaken and shattered, the Church of God had even utterly perished.

we have [sealed] To shew the greatness of the work. One was not sufficient to mark so many thousands.

V. 4. of all the tribes] Some understand this of all the faithful in general, the whole Israel of God, Gal. 6. 16. all that belong to salvation, Act. 13. 48. and that are to be delivered from eternal destruction, 1 Theff. 1 10. as those in Egypt from the sword of the destroying angel. Exod. 12. 7, 13. Heb. 11. 20. and so these should be the same with those mentioned, verf. 9. Others, of such faithful onely as were by a special providence to be preserved in those times of publike concussion and calamity, laid therefore, by a solemn signe, to be marked out and sealed, which the other multitude, living in other aftertimes, needed not, nor is affirmed of them, verf. 9. Again, others understand it of Jews or Israelites by naturall descent; but some such as are hereafter to be converted, Rom. 11. 26. Others, of those of that nation, who retained the Christian profession (as many no doubt did) even in those times; Rom. 11. 1, 2. Act. 2. 41, 47. and 4. 4. and 21. 20. who yet are here reckoned by a definite number, though put for an indefinite; as numerable, in comparison of the Gentile Converts, which are said to be innumerable, verf. 9. and are sorted out according to the number of their tribes, to shew, that no faithful, of what sort or rank soever, were excluded from having part in this privilege. Of such sure, whether Jews by birth, or others, it must be understood, as were to live in the times of the terrible trumpets ensuing, for whose security and indemnity, this stay was made of their sounding upon the seventh seal opened, Chap. 8. 1. 2, 6.

V. 5. Of the tribe of Judah] The tribe of Dan is supposed to be omitted, because by idolatry they fell from the people of God, Judg. 18. 30. 1 Kin. 12. 28, 29.

V. 7. Of the tribe of Levi] This tribe is added, to make good the place void by the defection of Dan: and to shew, that Gods Ministers, though they had no part in the land of Canaan, yet have part in Gods protection here, Chap. 3. 7, 10. and shall have a portion in heaven hereafter, Dan. 12. 3.

V. 8. Of the tribe of Joseph] That is, Ephraim, who, though he were not the eldest son, yet he is preferred before Manasseh, Gen. 48. 13, 14. 19.

of the tribe of Benjamin] The tribes are not here reckoned in that order they are in the old Testament; but as it were promiscuously, to shew, that in Christ there is no respect of persons, Acts 10. 34, 35. Gal. 3. 28. Col. 3. 11.

V. 9. a great multitude] Some take this to be an exposition of what was said before, verf. 4. and those sealed ones to be here meant. Others take it to be meant of a multitude of Gentiles added to the Israelites. See the notes on verf. 4.

no man could number] Innumerable, in comparison of the formes, v. 4. So Gen. 15. 5. Heb. 11. 12.

of all nations] Not forted out by tribes, as those before, verf. 4. because of so many severall nations, kindreds and countreys out of which they were called and gathered into the Church, Chap. 5. 9.

stood] Sate not now, as the elders, Chap. 4. 4. but stood, as presenting themselves, after their conflicts and conquests, Chap. 15. 2. before God and Christ, Chap. 4. 2. by whose power and providence they had been preserved, and enabled to overcome and persevere, Chap. 12. 11. Rom. 8. 37.

with white robes] See Chap. 3. 4. and 6. 11.

palms in their hands] In token that they were sure of victory: for palm-branches did men use to beare in triumph, and at festivities, Joh. 12. 13.

V. 10. with a loud voice] As desirous that all men might hear their thankfulnesse to God; 1 Chron. 15. 16. Psalm. 66. 8, 16. and shouting aloud for joy. Psalm. 140. 5.

Salvation to our God] The praise of our deliverance belongeth to our God; for we cannot deliver, nor could have delivered our selves, v. 12. Psal. 3. 8. Joh. 2. 9.

unto the Lamb] By whom God saved us, Chap. 12. 11.

V. 11 angels] Ministring spirits, Heb. 1. 14.

round about the throne] As attending on God; Dan. 7. 10. See notes on Chap. 5. 8, 11.

and about the elders] About them, as a guard, Psal. 34. 7. 2 Kings 6. 16, 17.

fell before the throne] See notes on Cha. 4. 10.

V. 12. Amen] They confirm the praise given God by the Saints, v. 10. and then explain and enlarge it further, concluding with Amen again.

blessing, &c.] See Chap. 5. 12.

V. 13. one of the elders] See Chap. 5. 5. answered] Spake, as Matth. 11. 25. or, answered his doubts, though not his words.

V. 14. thou knowest] I know not, but desire to know of thee.

came out of great tribulation] Have suffered much for the cause of Christ, Acts 14. 22.

made them white] Are cleansed from the guilt of their sins, not by their sufferings, but by the blood of Christ, chap. 1. 5. by the virtue whereof also they obtained the victory, chap. 12. 11.

V. 15. before the throne of God] Admitted to a neer attendance upon God, Deut. 10. 8.

day and night] Continually. An allusion to the Levites services and watching, Psal. 134. 1.

shall dwell among them] Or, overshadow them: or spread a tent over them. For defence and protection. See Isai. 4. 5. Psal. 31. 20. chap. 21. 3.

V. 16. they shall hunger no more] Isai. 49. 10. & 65. 13. They shall be brought to a condition free from all want, Psal. 34. 10. and 84. 11.

the sun light on them] They shall then be free from all annoyances and distempers, Psal. 105. 39. & 121. 6. Isa. 49. 10.

V. 17. in the midst] Chap. 5. 6.

shall feed them] Shall provide for their souls, till he bring them to full happinesse, Psal. 23. 1, 2.

and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes] Chap. 21. 4. and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes Isaiah 25. 8. He shall give them so much joy, that they shall forget all their troubles, and shall have no cause to grieve ever after. John 16. 20, 22.

CHAP. VIII.

Verf. 1. Silence in heaven, about the space of half an hour] Some interpret it of the small time of cessation and reft, which the Church had in Constantines time. Others, that John and the reft seeing nothing, as they did after the opening of the other seals, stood silent, admiring at it, and expecting greater matters to be revealed. Others, think it an allusion to the silence that used to be in the temple, while the incense was offering, Luke 1. 10. whereas they blew trumpets, and sung, while the sacrifice was offered, 2 Chro. 29. 27. And so this silence may seem to have lasted, till the incense and odours, hereaf er mentioned, were all consumed, verf. 4. The seventh seal.

V. 2. seven angels, which stood before God] Attended upon him, as Dan. 7. 10. chap. 7. 11.

to them were given] They were appointed by God to blow the trumpets, and stood ready so to do, whensoever he should bid them.

seven trumpets] To blow Gods alarm against the ungratefull world, and thereby to give warning of the vials of his wrath, to be poured forth on such us would not be amended by the judgements now denounced. They are seven blowing one after another, to shew Gods patience, who is unwilling to pour out his wrath all at once, Psal. 78. 38.

V. 3. another angel] Some take it for Christ, who offereth up the prayers of the Saints to God, mixed with the precious odours of his merits, Ephes. 5. 2. Others, for Constantine, whom God honoured so much, as to make him an instrument, as of giving liberty to the faithful for the publike exercise of Gods worship, and prayer, more acceptable to God, than any incense or offering, Psal. 69. 31. & 141. 2. Mal. 1. 11. so also of that peace and reft which they had formerly long prayed for, and of vengeance executed on their cruel persecutours and oppressours, which the souls under the altar had so earnestly cried for. Chap. 6. 10. See verf. 5. It may well seem to be some speciall minister of Church or State (for it was none of those four living wights, Chap. 4.) rather than Christ himself, because the incense or odours are said to be given to him, not to be his own, or to have them of himself.

having a golden censer] As the high Priest had, to offer incense; Heb. 9. 4. see chap. 5. 8.

there was given unto him much incense] That is, as some, he had power given him to preach to the people the merits of Christs death, which should make their prayers pleasing to God. Or, he found that grace and favour with God, through Christ, to be a means of doing that which should manifest, that their prayers had prevailed, and found acceptance with God; as Acts 10. 4. 31.

that he should offer it with the prayers] Or, add it to the prayers. That he should pray with and for the people in the name of Christ; or, procure a gracious answer to their prayers. An allusion to the peoples continuing in prayer, while the Priest offered incense, Luke 1. 10.

upon the golden altar] Such as was the altar of incense; so called, Numb. 4. 11. because over-laid with gold, Exod. 30. 3.

which was before the throne] As that in the Temple stood before the Ark, Exod. 30. 6. on which God is said to sit, as on a chair of estate, Psalm 80. 1.

V. 4. ascended up before God] A sign that God did accept their service, Psalm 142. 2. Phil. 4. 18.

V. 5. took the censer] The fome in which he had offered up the incense with the prayers of the Saints, ver. 4. whereby it appeareth, that the prayers by this angel presented, were as well for vengeance on the bloody persecutours of Gods people, as for peace and reft to them: See ver. 3.

filled it] To shew the greatness of the judgements to come.

with fire] Gr. of the fire; as chap. 2. 17. Or, out of the fire; Jude 23. For he took not away all the fire from the altar.

of the altar] An allusion to Levit. 16. 12, 13. where the fire that the incense was to be kindled with, was commanded to be taken from the altar of burnt-offerings, where it was continually burning, Levit. 6. 12, 13. else were it strange fire, Levit. 10. 1. This altar of burnt-offerings is alluded to chap. 6. 9. and withal, here may well be an allusion to that handful of coles of fire taken from off the altar, and scattered, in token of Gods wrath upon the city, Ezek. 10. 2, 6, 7.

and cast it into the earth] Or, upon the earth; as ver. 7. chap. 9. 3. Matth. 26. 10. A sign of judgements to come on wicked men, Ezek. 10. 2, 7.

and there were voices] Or, then; as Mat. 23. 32. Some take the voices and thundrings to be all one: see chap. 4. 5. and thereby to be signified, Gods acceptance of the prayers of the Saints mentioned, ver. 3. because God useth to answer his people with thunders, Psalm 8. 1, 7. John 12. 28, 29. Others make a gradation: Thunders exceed mens voices, lightening destroyeth many creatures and buildings; but the earth-quake threateneth to rent the earth, as if hell opened her mouth to receive men: and they will have these terms to signifie terrible judgements, and such as cannot be prevented, as punishments coming from heaven, and out of the earth, can by no skill or power of man be avoided. See Isa. 24. 18.

and an earth-quake] A fore-runner of great troubles, chap. 6. 12.

V. 6. And the seven Angels] They are all said to prepare themselves at once, though they sounded one after another, that there may not need a repetition of this preparation at every sounding. Or, to shew they were all ready to sound, when God should command. Or, to declare the certainty of sounding the rest, as well as the first. Or, because in the vision they were all to sound suddenly one after another, though there were more distance of time in execution.

prepared themselves to sound] Seeing by the signs, ver. 5. the time was nigh, they set the trumpets to their mouths. God gave some time for men to repent, between the denunciation and execution of the judgements.

V. 7. hail and fire] Which in those hotter regions go usually together. So Exod. 9. 22, 23. Psalm 18. 12, 13. and 105. 22, 23. and 148. 8.

mingled with blood] Both the hail and fire were mingled with blood; for the word is plural in the Greek. By fire is meant lightnings, Psalm 18. 12, 13. Blood is added, to shew that this storm or tempest tended to slaughter. A terrible judgement. What the hail did not beat down, the fire burnt up; and what the fire left, the blood corrupted. See the like, Joel 1. 4. Some interpret it of the bitter contentions in the Church after the Nicene Counell. Others, of the Arrian heresie, and persecution following it. Others, of the invasion of the Romish Empire, after it was turned Christian, by the Goths and Vandals: for by such signs war is signified, Isa. 28. 2. and 30. 30, 31, 32. It is conceived commonly, that the last interpretation is the truest; and that shall be proportionably pursued in the trumpets following. The first trumpet.

upon the earth] Upon the Romane Empire, so that they shaked the foundation of it.

the third part] That the rest might repent, before all were destroyed.

of trees] Of the Princes, and great men in the Empire, a third part, or great number, was destroyed in those invasions. So trees are taken, Isa. 2. 13. and 14. 8. and 37. 24. Zech. 11. 2.

all green grass] Most of the meaner sort of men, Isa. 27. 37.

V. 8. as it were] This theweth, that John did not see the things themselves here named, but resemblances of them. The second trumpet.

a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea] An allusion to the burning of Ætna or Vesuvius, or the like hils, that, breaking out with flames, run down into the neighbour seas. So Isa. 64. 1, 3. Mountains, for cities, Jer. 51. 25. Isa. 13. 2. The sea for the large Territories of an Empire, Jer. 51. 36, 44. Ezek. 31. 4. After that the barbarous people had surprised and sacked the City of Rome, they wasted and spoiled the Territories of it, destroying the people, without respect of sex or age.

became blood] The waters were not only putrified, and grew muddy, but also were turned into gore blood, which is the greatest corruption of water that can be. An allusion to Exod. 7. 20, 21. The Territories did swim in blood, like a beast new slain, chap. 16. 3.

V. 9. creatures which were in the sea] Fishes, or what else liveth in the waters. The men seem to be here intended, that lived in the Provinces; or, the souldiers who lay in garison there.

life] Gr. souls. Chap. 20. 11. Mat. 10. 39. Luke 14. 26.

died] Were chosked with the bloudy waters, Exod. 7. 18, 21.

of the ships were destroyed] Either by the fiery mountain falling on them, or corrupted by the bloudy waters. Hereby is intended the decay of a great part of the means to defend those Provinces; or, of the trading there.

V. 10. A great star from heaven] Or, out of heaven. The Roman Emperour of the West, who, like a blazing star, shined bright for a time, but was put down by the Goths; Isa. 14. 12. and 34. 4. The third trumpet.

burning as it were a lamp] It is compared to a lamp, then, not for greatness, but for light and heat.

upon the third part] Beside it fell into peeces, and one part fell on one river, another on another, &c. not on some part of every river, but on so many rivers as made up a third part of the rivers, of the rivers, and upon the fountains] Of Waters. On the fountains of those places where the third part of the rivers was. It is likely, then, that the rivers first grew bitter, and afterwards dried up. By rivers and fountains may be meant, the Magistrates sent abroad into several Provinces, and the Cities and Provinces unto which they were sent.

V. 11. wormwood] A name given it from the effect of it. The Hebrew word to which this answereth, signifieth a poisonful herb that destroyed men, Deut. 29. 18. Amos 5. 7. By this bitter fall of that Emperour, the Magistrates and Cities suffered much, and many men were destroyed.

V. 12. the third part of the sun] The Sun shined but eight hours, where it used to shine twelve. It was dark two hours longer in the morning, and sooner at night. Or, the third part of the body of the Sun was darkened, so that it gave not so much light by a third part, at any time of the day, as it did before. So of the Moon and Stars in the night. The fourth trumpet.

was smitten] The Sun is compared to a living body that hath one part of it dead with the palsie, or some other disease. The loss of part of the light, is as loss of part of the life, to a living creature. By the Sun, seemeth to be meant the Consular power at Rome, permitted by the ruling Goths for a time; by the Moon the Senate: by the Stars, the other Magistrates. By these, government, and glory of it, are set out, Isa. 13. 10. Jer. 15. 9. Ezek. 32. 7. These were eclipsed; when the Viceroy lived not at Rome, but at Ravenna.

V. 13. And I beheld] Chap. 4. 1. and 14. 1. To see if any thing else would be offered to my sight. Or, it may be, there being some distance between, he looked when the fifth Angel would sound; but seeth somewhat fore-going it in this verse, to make him the more to attend to it when it cometh.

thorow the midst] Or, in the midst. Chap. 14. 16. That is, as some, in the midst between heaven and earth, as the Angel appeared to David, 1 Chron. 21. 16. Or, rather, in the midst of heaven, along the Meridian-line, which is the greatest height of heaven, and from whence his voice might every way be most clearly heard.

with a loud voice] That all men might hear, chap. 5. 12. or, to shew the greatness of the plagues to come, chap. 14. 9.

woe, woe, woe] Signifying, by these three woe's, that three greater judgements were yet to come, chap. 9. 12. and 11. 14.

to the inhabiters of the earth] Wicked men and idolaters, chap. 11. 10. and 13. 12, 14. For these look after earthly things only, and have no other portion, Psalm 17. 14. Their conversation is not in heaven, like the Saints, Phil. 3. 19, 20.

by reason of] As chapter 10. 13. Or, from. The miseries following shall proceed, as it were, from the sounds of the following trumpets. The Angels shall not only be Heralds to denounce them, but instruments to inflict them, chap. 9. 12.

of the trumpet of the three Angels] Of each of their trumpets, chap. 9. 19. Or, the trumpet, because they were all alike, in denouncing heavier judgements than the former.

CHAP. IX.

Ver. 1. A Star fall] See the like, chapter 8. 10. Gr. a fallen star. It fell so swiftly, that I could scarce descry it till it came to the ground, which it did, before the fifth Angel had done blowing, and then it appeared to me to be a star.

The fifth trumpet.

to him was given] Or, to it: that is, to the star. Not to the Angel; for the Angel had his employment set down before, which was, To blow the Trumpet: but no end of the falling of this star is mentioned, unless this be it, To receive the key of the bottomless pit. Yet some person must be intended by this star; for a star could not tell how to use the key of the bottomless pit. Some take it to be a good Angel, that had power given him to hinder or let loose hellish operations, chap. 20. 1. Others take it for the devil, the Angel of the bottomless pit, ver. 11. Others, for some Minister (for such are compared to stars, chap. 1. 20.) who fell from the true religion, and turned apostata; such as Sergius of Constantinople, the Nestorian Monk, and John of Antioch the Arrian, who are said to assist Mahomet in the composing of his lying Alcoran.

the key] For hell is a prison, and must be locked up, 1 Peter 3. 19.

bottomless pit] Hell is compared to a dungeon, that hath a narrow entrance, but a deep gulf within. Sometimes this word is used for the sea, whose bottom we know not; as Luke 8. 31.

V. 2. And he opened the bottomless pit] Before, some errours broke forth, as it were by chinks and crannies; but now false doctrine came forth abundantly, as if hell had been let loose, or broke up, and the gates of it set wide open, to let it out at large: for now Mahomet setteth forth his Alcoran for divine Scripture, the like whereof no heretick durst attempt before, or at least, could not prevail with multitudes of men to believe him, as Mahomet did. So that the opening of the bottomless pit, is the apostasie using their power to let in such gross errours into the world, as could come from none, as their authour, but from the devil of hell.

a smoke out of the pit] The great wrath of the devils in hell, like a great fire, brought forth Mahumetanism in abundance, which like smoke, kept the light of Gods truth, and favour of Christ and his Gospel, from a great part of the world.

and the Sun and the air were darkned] It was not a small darkness, as when some high mountain hideth the light from the valley neer; but a very great one, as if all the air, nay, the sun it self, that giveth light to the air, were darkned; as Mat. 27. 45.

V. 3. out of the smoke] Out of this devillish plot of Mahumetanism: or, out of Satans hidden subtilty.

locusts upon the earth] Vermin that use to feed on grass and fruit, ver. 4. whereby are meant men sprung out of Arabia, to afflict the world, as the locusts came thence into Egypt, Exod. 10. 13, 14. Gen. 25. 6, 12, 18. Locusts help to make up the great army, Joel 1. 4, 6.

power as the scorpions] For they had tails, like them, ver. 18. and wounded men like them, ver. 5. with cruel and poisoned wounds, Jer. 8. 17. Strange monsters, that with Locusts, could devour all, and with scorpions, sting and poison besides. So did the Mahometans devour with their armies, and poison with their errours, and that under a colour of pulling down idols, and serving the onely true God.

V. 4. commanded them] God did not suffer them to hurt his true servants, though they wanted neither courage, nor endeavour to do it.

the grass of the earth, &c.] Or, hay. Such as are cut off from the earth; that is, separated from ungodly men. Or, the grass may signifie weak Christians; the green plants, growing ones: the trees, strong ones; as, little children, young men, fathers, 1 John 2. 13, 14. Or, neither mean men, nor great, of such as were marked, ch. 7. 3, 13, 16. The Saracens have done much hurt to ignorant Greeks, and idolatrous Papists; but much to the Protestants persecuted then, and professing the true religion openly now.

but only] As chap. 2. 25.

in their foreheads] Gr. on their foreheads.

V. 5. To them was given] They had no further power nor commission from God; as chap. 13. 7.

not kill him] Not presently kill them, but torment them so as they die after it, as if they were stung with scorpions. Or, not kill them at all, but keep them for slaves. Both which agree with the Saracens, who have many oppressed by them, that with rather to be dead; as ver. 6. Or, they did not take so much boldness on them, as to kill men at their first arising; but stayed till they had gotten greater strength, under the next seal, ver. 15, 18. As first many Christians yeelded to the Saracens, and took part with them: afterwards, when the Christians warred against them, they killed them cruelly. They that must not be killed, but tormented by these Saracens, were such as were not sealed, ver. 4. for the sealed ones they might not so much as torment.

five monethes] A short time; as Locusts are bred in April, and die in September. Or, an hundred and fifty years: for so many days are in five moneths; and the Prophets reckon a day for a year, Dan. 9. 24. and the Saracens vexed Italy, from the eight hundred and thirty, to nine hundred and eighty.

as the torment of a scorpion] Painful till death, or cure by liberty, ver. 3. Or, if they did kill them, they kept them from freedom, and from their wives and children, and all worldly comforts, which is a living death.

V. 8. And in] Or, therefore in; as 1 Cor. 5. 13.

shall men seek death] Chap. 6. 16. Isa. 2. 19. Job 3. 20, 21. Though men naturally abhor death, yet they shall desire it, that they may be rid of their grievous torments; as esteeming death a lesser evil than those miseries they endure.

V. 7. like unto horses, &c.] Joel 2. 4. They were not altogether like Locusts, but in some part resembled Horses. The Saracens made sudden incursions into many Countries, and were fierce warriours; as horses are swift and fierce in battel, Job 39. 22, 23, 24, 25.

crowns like gold] That is, bright head-peeces shining like gold. This may signifie, as their compleat furniture for war, so their many victories, who within eighty years, overcame a multitude of nations.

as the faces of men] Either in regard of some shews or pretences of humanity; as Isa. 47. 3. or for flountnels, courage, and confidence; as Isa. 46. 8. 1 Cor. 16. 13. and as we use to say, A manly face.

V. 8. As the hair of women] This may signifie, that by flattery and fair shews, they used to perswade, like women, Prov. 6. 24. that they might make their foes secure, and destroy them the more easily.

as the teeth of lions] Joel 1. 6. This setteth out their cruelty, and tyrannical government. Notwithstanding their flattery, they destroyed men, as if they had had lions teeth; Psalm 57. 4. and 58. 6.

V. 9. As it were] It was not fit to clothe the Locusts with iron brest-plates, but somewhat like them; although the Saracens, signified by them, might wear iron brest-plates indeed.

brest-plates of iron] They were strongly armed themselves and their kingdom, so that their foes could not hurt them.

of chariots, &c.] Joel 2. 5. Swift and terrible were they in their invasions, 2 Kings 7. 6, 7. Isa. 5. 28. and 66. 15. Jer. 4. 13.

horses running] See ver. 7.

V. 10. stings in their tails] As they fought dominion over other people, so they poisoned them with false religion. Or, it may be understood of tormenting their captives, or putting them to miserable slavery by their inferiour officers. See ver. 5. Or, of deceiving them in the end, who trust to them.

five monethes] See verse 5.

V. 11. a king over them] Herein they differ from common Locusts, Prov. 30. 27.

the angel of the bottomless pit] Some take it to be spoken of the devil: others, of the commander of the Saracens, the devils great agent.

in the Hebrew, &c.] Either because the destroying Angel was known to the Jews, as well as to the Christians: or else because the Saracens oppressed both.

Apollyon] That is to say, A destroyer. Some say, Mahomet name signifieth so also; and the name Turk, in the Eastern language. Sure it is, they have made havock of men, Churches and Schools, where they have prevailed. Some take it to be spoken of the devil, who destroyeth others, and in the end, shall be destroyed himself, 1 Pet. 5. 8. chap. 20. 10.

V. 12. One two] Chap. 8. 13. and 6. 1.

is past] Is fully revealed: or, is done, before the other two begin.

V. 13. a voice] Gr. one voice. It was the voice of Christ, as some think.

The sixth trumpet.

from the four horns] Or, out of the four horns; (of which, Exod. 30. 10.) That is, out of the midst of the Altar, where the incense, with the prayers of the Saints, was offered up, chap. 8. 3. It seemed to be Gods voice, answering out of the same place, those prayers, and the complaints of the souls under the Altar, chap. 6. 9, 10. by giving the Saracens a command to invade Europe, ver. 14. to revenge their cause on the Roman persecutours.

of the golden Altar] Whereon the incense was offered, chap. 8. 3. an allusion to Exod. 30. 1.

before God] That is, before the Ark, which was a visible sign of Gods presence and residence among them, Exod. 30. 8. Psalm 81.

V. 14. had the trumpet] Had newly sounded, and had not yet laid down the trumpet out of his hand.

loose the four Angels] Four Governours of the Mahometans; as chap. 16. 12. for they were now divided into a Tetrarchy, under four Sultans of Asia, Aleppo, Damascus, and Antioch.

bound in the great river Euphrates] Had not yet set footing in Europe, but were kept back by their own dissentions, and the victories of the Christians; or, rather, by the over-ruling Providence of God.

V. 15.

V. 15. were loosed] Set at liberty by the Angel that sounded this trumpet: see ver. 11.

prepared for an hour] Or, at an hour, &c. It may signifie their readiness to go at any time, when they should be loosed. Or, to follow the work from time to time. Or, at the time appointed by God. Or, a short time: see chap. 3. 10. Or, the time of their coming to take Constantinople, from the beginning of their Empire, which is to be reckoned from the taking of Babylon, was three hundred ninety and six years, and some odde time: for days, in the Prophets, are put for years, ver. 5.

for to slay] See notes on ver. 5.

third part of men] Of such as were not sealed, chap. 7. 3.

V. 16. of the horsemen] The Turks Army consisteth most of such, for swiftness, Ezek. 38. 4, 15.

two hundred thousand thousand] Such great Armies they used, for terrour to their enemies.

and I heard] Or, for I heard; as Luke 6. 32. the number was so great, I could not reckon them: but I was told the number of them. This he addeth, that no man might think he made the number greater than it was.

V. 17. in the vision] Before, he was said to be in the Spirit, chap. 1. 10. and 4. 2. now, he seeth these things in a vision. The former setteth forth his preparation; the later, the manner of the revelation. His eyes were first taken off from gazing on worldly things, and then fastned on these heavenly apparitions.

brest-plates] Or, corslets. For matter of defence.

of fire, and of Jacinth, and brimstone] Either their brest-plates were made each one of these materials, or of some common matter that had these several colours; unless, as some think, their Army consisted of several nations, which had several colours in their habergeons, to distinguish the Saracens, Turks, and Tartars, by fiery, Jacinth, and brimstone colours.

of fire] Nor of material fire, for there are no such brest-plates, neither can any bodily creatures wear such: but they appeared like fire to Saint John, in the vision. Or, it signifieth, that the fight of them should be so terrible to the enemies, that they should no more dare to come neer them, or, be able to hurt them, than if they were compassed about with fire; Zech. 2. 5.

of Jacinth] It is a stone of a sky-colour (of which, chap. 21. 20.) and may import, that these were invincible Armies sent from above, from God, to punish the wicked Romans.

of brimstone] This might also signifie that God, who useth to punish great sinners with fire and brimstone from heaven, Gen. 19. 24. Psalm 11. 6. Job 18. 15. and setteth out hell-pains thereby, chap. 14. 10. and 19. 20. did employ these to scourge the wicked world. It importeth a great desolation; for brimstone feedeth the fire, and keepeth it burning, till it have destroyed all before it; Isa. 30. 33. and 34. 9, 20.

the heads of the horses] Their defensive arms were set down before: now he describeth their offensive ones. Souldiers use to take care for their own safety, before they set upon their enemies.

as heads of lions] They were very stout, fierce and cruel.

out of their mouths] This fire might seem, to those against whom they shot, at the first, to come out of their horses mouths. For the new invention of guns, used by them at the taking of Constantinople, seemeth here to be foretold; out of which came fire, smoke, gun-powder, made of brimstone, with other materials. Or, it may import a great desolation of the countreys they came in; as before in this verse, and the next, Joel 2. 3.

smoke] The smoke is very great at the shooting of great Ordnance, because the fire is soon kindled, and quickly dissolveth into smoke. It may import the sad & dismal estate of those regions which are wasted by the Saracens. A thing worthy of great observation, that God should bring in Turks, that hate idols, to destroy Christian idolaters.

V. 18. By these three] Working together, and at one time. For guns make a greater and speedier havock of men, than swords did before.

out of their mouths] These do not flatter, as the locusts did, ver. 8. but threaten fire and death where ere they come.

third part of men] As ver. 15.

V. 19. in their mouth, and in their tails] The power of other horses is in their body, and in their feet; but of these, in their head and tails. In their head, because thence cometh fire, smoke and brimstone, out of their mouths, ver. 17, 18. In their tails, because when they have overcome men, and ruled them quietly a while, they will return to their former cruelty. Therefore their tails also are said to have heads, and to be like serpents, which come suddenly out of their holes, and sting men, before they see them. Or, they use power and subtilty. Or, they kill bodies by force, and sting souls to death, by Mahumetan impostures.

V. 20. the rest of the men] The other two third parts of the idolatrous Christians, which were not slain by the Mahumetans.

yet repented not of] Gr. from, or, out of. That is, so as to depart from, Heb. 6. 1. Repentance from dead works; that is, whereby men do so repent, as that they depart from dead works; or, come out of them; as Acts 8. 22, 23. Repenting of wickedness, and coming out of the gall of bitterness. Or, neither repented of. Though they were spared, yet they amended not at all, but remained obstinate in the practice of all their former sins hereafter mentioned.

of the works of their hands] All actual sins are so called, because they are properly our works, Psalm 28. 4. and the hand is the ordinary instrument of acting. God hath no hand in these, as he hath in our good works. But here, making idols to worship, is signified; as Deut. 31. 29. Isa. 2. 8. Hos. 14. 3. Though the Eastern Churches were walled by the Turks for their idolatry; yet the Western ones repented not of their making images. The example of Gods judgements on their fellow-idolaters, could do no good upon them. This must needs be meant of the Papists; for neither Protestants, Jews, nor Turks, nor any other in Europe, make images for worship.

not worship devils] Saints, who are Angels. Or, images, as followeth. See Lev. 17. 7. Deut. 32. 17. Psalm 106. 36, 37. 1 Cor. 10. 20. For, worshipping of images cometh from the devil, being contrary to Gods commandment: and the devil was worshipped in them.

and idols] Or, even idols. So Tit. 2. 13. chap. 1. 6.

of gold] Psalm 115. 4. and 135. 5.

and silver, &c.] This sheweth they had a multitude of idols; as Dan. 5. 23. So, many vessels in a great house are set out, 2 Tim. 2. 20.

and of stone, &c.] Such desperate idolaters were these Popish Christians, that they which wanted wealth to make golden, silver, or brazen images, made images of stone and wood, Isa. 40. 20.

which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk] Psalm 115. 4, 5, 6, 7. O the folly of idolaters! which can do these things themselves, and yet worship them which can do none of these; much less can they help them in time of trouble, Isa. 46. 7. So that their wickedness is set out, first, from the authour of their idols: they are the works of mens hands. Secondly, from the object of their worship; the devil, Gods greatest enemy. Thirdly, from the multitude of their idols; which sheweth their strong affection to that sin, as multitude of adulterers sheweth the unfairiableness of a whore, Ezek. 16. 28, 29. Fourthly, from the blockishness of their idols: they could not see, nay, they could not hear, nay, they could not so much as move out of their places, Isa. 41. 7. How then could they do them any good at all? Isa. 41. 23. Jer. 10. 5.

V. 21. murders] In killing Gods Saints.

sorceries] A sin too rife in that Church, reported to be practised by divers of their Popes.

fornication] All manner of looseness and wantonness.

thefts] In getting away the wealth of the simple people, by offerings, pilgrimages, &c. So that they brake not only the first Table, but the second also. As they wronged God in his worship: so men also, in their bodies and estates.

CHAP. X.

Ver. 1. A Nother mighty Angel] Some take it of Christ, because of his glorious apparition. Others, of some Angel employed by him, because he is commanded by another Angel, chap. 14. 14, 15. He is called, Another mighty Angel, to distinguish him from that mighty one mentioned before, chap. 5. 2. His might is spoken of, to terrifie those that would not repent, after so many plagues.

come down from heaven] See chap. 3. 12. As sent from God, to do him some service here beneath.

with a cloud] The cloud on him, and rain-bow over him, are for glory, chap. 4. 3. or, to signifie, that men will not take notice of him, to repent at his word, who is as it were hid from them, Lam. 3. 44. And the rain-bow may signifie Gods willingness to spare sinners, & unwillingness to destroy them, if they will yet repent, Gen. 9. 11, &c. that none might perish by the flood of Gods wrath hereafter.

face as the Sun] Full of brightness. That although clearly discern imminent destruction, if they repented not, ver. 3, 7.

feet as pillars] That is, legs, by a synecdoche, taking the feet in with them, which are as a basis to the legs, being as pillars, supporters to the body, Cant. 5. 15. Here the ruine is termed, so imply their strength and firmness, 1 Kings 7. 21.

of fire] Either for the brightness of them, or having power to consume Gods enemies, chap. 11. 5. Psalm 78. 48.

V. 2. a little book] Containing in it the rest of this revelation of the state of the Church, Christs little flock, Luke 12. 32.

open] Not sealed up, as the other was, chap. 5. 1.

right foot on the sea, &c.] To shew a power given him over sea and land, to punish the most remote in the furthest islands of the world. The right foot is laid to over the sea, because it is more unruly than the earth, Psalm 93. 1, 2, 3, 4.

V. 3. a loud voice] See chap. 5. 2.

as when a lion roareth] To shew, that greater judgements were yet to come on the enemies of the Church, Isa. 21. 8. Amos 3. 8. Thus he seeketh to terrifie men, that they may repent.

when he had cryed] The thunders were as an echo, answering to the Angels cry.

seven thunders] Gr. the seven thunders. Perhaps an allusion to chap. 8. 5. where thunders are mentioned; but uttered no intelligible sound till now. These thundered heavy judgements, yet not here expres'd.

V. 4. I was about to write] It seemeth, seeing he was about to write what the thunders prophesyed, that he heard their words.

Seal up those things] Publish them not, Dan. 12. 4, 9. It may be, God would not have them known, till neer the accomplishment, chap. 22. 10. as no man could read the sealed book, chap. 5. 2, 3. Or, lest men should think them feigned things, or despair, because of the extraordinary evils threatned by them. Things written, are often sealed, for surety, as bonds and deeds; as Jer. 32. 10. Dan. 12. 4. but here sealing is intended for secrecy, to conceal, and not to publish, as in letters, or to write so as may be published, as is in this weeke expounded. It may be, it was reserved for a fitter time; and so some Greek Copies read it; and hereafter write them: or, that hereafter thou mayest write them. For, what God revealed to John, was to be shewed to his servants, chap. 1. 1. unless Christ should honour his beloved Apostle, here, with some heavenly secrets which should never be published, as he did the Apostle of the Gentiles, 2 Cor. 12. 4.

those things] Is seemeth the thunders uttered divers matters.

V. 5. stand] Gr. standing; ver. 2. lifted up his hand to heaven] Dan. 12. 7. This was their manner of swearing, Gen. 14. 22. Exo. 6. 8. Deu. 32. 40. Num. 14. 30. Ezek. 20. 15. whereby they signified, that they called God, who dwelleth in heaven, Matth. 6. 9. to witness the truth of what they sware, and to punish them, if they sware falsly, 2 Cor. 1. 23.

V. 6. by him that liveth for ever and ever] By the living God, by whom alone men ought to swear, Jer. 4. 2. and 5. 2.

who created] These tokens of Gods omnipotency are brought, to shew Gods power in all these places, as being Creatour of them, and consequently, both Lord over them, and able to do whatsoever he will with them, and in them, Psalm 146. 6. and 135. 6. Dan. 4. 35.

time no longer] The time of the Roman Empire should last no longer. Or, there should be no longer delay, but those things ensuing should be forthwith put in execution, Ezek. 12. 27, 28.

V. 7. when he shall begin to sound] Gr. when he shall sound; as 2 Kings 3. 1. he began to reign; Heb. he reigned. So 2 Kings 12. 1. and 15, 2. when he began to reign, Heb. when he reigned. But it may be as well understood, After he hath founded; as the particle is used, Mark 4. 35. John 8. 28.

the mystery of God] Of calling the Jews; and making a glorious Church of Jews and Gentiles, Rom. 11. 25. This shall be done, when Rome is destroyed, chap. 11. 15. and 16. 17.

as he hath declared] He told the Prophets the things, but not the time. The Greek word signifieth, He told these joyful tidings. For the glory of the Church, when the Jews come in, will be as another Gospel, or glad tidings, Luke 2. 10. to the world, Rom. 11. 15.

to his servants] In a more special manner: of which, see chap. 1. 1.

the Prophets] Dan. 2. 44. and 7. 26, 27. and 12. 7. Hos. 1. 11. and 3. 4, 5. They were first acquainted with it, and published it to the world, though not so plainly as the Apostle hath done, Rom. 11.

V. 8. voice which I heard] Ver. 1, 3.

from heaven] Chap. 4. 1.

little book, &c.] See ver. 2.

which standeth] Ver. 2.

V. 9. Take it] Ezek. 2. 8. and 3. 1, 3, 14.

eat it up] Read it all over, and lay it up in thy minde.

belly bitter] Thou wilt be sad to find such heavy judgements there recorded, when thou shalt well considered of them.

but it shall be] Or, though it be. Or, yet it shall be. For it would come into the mouth, before it came into the belly; as ver. 10.

sweet as honey in thy mouth: but as honey] Psalm 19. 10. and 119. 103. The revelation of these mysteries will be very pleasing to thee at first.

V. 10. and ate it up] He did not eat part of it, but ate it all up, as he was bidden. He obeyeth, notwithstanding the discouragement, ver. 9. His love to Gods oracles was so great, he feared no trouble ensuing, Jer. 15. 16.

V. 11. thou must prophesie again] As thou hast had prophecies revealed to thee before in the seals and trumpets, to communicate to men: so thou shalt have others communicated in the vials, to the same end; which things are contained in this little book which thou hast eaten up. So Ezekiel was to prophesie, after he had eaten the book; Ezek. 3, 1, 4.

before many peoples] Or, against many peoples. So the word is taken, Luke 12. 23, 53. See Jer. 1. 10.

and nations, &c.] This setteth out multitudes, chap. 5. 9. and 7. 9.

and Kings] Thou shalt foretell their destruction, or such good or bad things as shall befall them, chap. 19. 18. and 20. 8.

CHAP. XI.

Ver. 1. There was given me] From God, very likely, to shew the work to be his: else John would have said the Angel gave it him.

a reed] Many nations used reeds or canes to measure with, because, being hollow, they were lighter, and fitter for that use. The intent here is, to measure out a Church for God under the Antichristian persecution. For the reed, see Ezek. 40. 3.

like unto a rod] Such a rod as was used also in measuring, and is to this day with us. Therefore Israel is called, The rod of Gods inheritance, Psalm 74. 2. Jer. 10. 16. Scepters are also called rods in the original, Psalm 45. 6. and 110. 2. So that the Church was to be upheld in those times by the favour of some Prince; for such used rods or scepters to be carried before them, for honour. So were the Waldenses upheld by the Counts of Tolouze, and others.

the Angel stood] In likelihood, as before, chap. 10. 2, 5, 8. that nothing might be done but in his presence.

Rise] This doth not necessarily import that he was sitting before; but it is an usual phrase in Scripture, whereby men are called and incited to go instantly about some work wherein they were not formerly employed, Num. 23. 17, 18. Deut. 13. 24. John 1. 2.

measure the temple of God] An allusion to Ezek. 40. 1, &c. where the temple, with all in it, was to be measured by Gods appointment, to shew, that that building was of God. So must the patern of his Church in the wilderness, to inform, that God would keep them safe, in despight of men.

and the Altar] All that was in the inner court, or court of Priests. To shew, that they whom these typified, should remain hallowed and appropriated still to God.

and them that worship therein] In the temple. For the court of the Priests joined unto the temple, and was esteemed as a part of the temple; as Mat. 12. 5, 6. The Priests in the temple profane the Sabbath, to wit, by killing beasts in the Priests court. And it is accounted as it were within the temple, Ezek. 44. 17, 19. for there were the sacrifices offered, and into it the people might not come, no more than into the temple it self. This signifieth, that true Christians should then be as few, in comparison of idolatrous ones, as the Priests and Levites, that worshipped in the inner court, were, in comparison of the people, that worshipped in the outward. True Christians are compared to Priests, chap. 1. 6. By measuring these, he meaneth, numbering them, to wit, for life; as 2 Sam. 8. 2. or salvation. See chap. 7. 4. By all this is signified, that Gods people, while Antichrist raged, should have a place in the wilderness, where they might serve God according to his will, as the Jews offered sacrifices on the altar in the temple, and which should be for safety, as a sanctuary to them, Isa. 8. 14. Ezek. 11. 16. Therefore temple, and altar, and worshippers, and all are measured. So Jerusalem is measured after the captivity, that it may be inhabited again, Zech. 1, 2, 3, 4. God would own no more worship, nor worshippers than these. The rest he would refuse, though Christians by profession, ver. 2.

V. 2. the court which is without the temple] An allusion to that which is called the outward court, Ezek. 40. 17. The great court, and distinct from the court of the Priests, 2 Chron. 4. 9.

leave out] Gr. cast out: To wit, as profane, and that which God will make no account of. So we cast things out of doors, that are of no price or use. Or, leave out; that is, count it not any part of the temple, though it be sometime so called. As Mat. 21. 12. the buyers and sellers are said to be in the Temple, which were in this outward court of the temple. Or, leave it out, that is, measure it not, as chap. 10. 4. Seal up those things which the seven thunders have written; that is, write them not. Or, he putteth the things signified first, and then the sign. Leave the places, where the true religion was professed, to idolaters, while the Church is serving God in the wilderness, as in the inner court of the temple; and let this be a sign of it, that thou measure it not, as thou didst the temple, and inner court. This signifieth, that in those times the visible Church of such as bare the name of Christians, were to be cast out, as excommunicated of God, neither were the servants of God to account them as Gods building, measured by his reed, or as Gods approved Church.

given unto the Gentiles] The Papists, which are idolaters, like unto the Gentiles, shall possess the outward face of the visible Church, for a time. For the outward court, here alluded to, was as it were the face of the temple. And they are called Gentiles, or Heathen, by allusion to the Church of the Old Testament, where all that were not Gods people, or were enemies of them, were so called, Psal. 2, 1, and 79. 1. Luke 2. 32. Acts 4. 25. Gal. 2. 12, 15. Eph. 2. 11, 12, 14. 1 Cor. 10. 20.

the holy city] He alludeth to Hierusalem, called the holy city, Dan. 9. 24. Mat. 27. 53. So named, because in it was the temple, the Priests, the sacrifices, and all the consecrated things.

shall they tread under foot] See Dan. 9. 26. both temple and city possessed by the enemies. They shall banish Religion out of those places where it was visibly professed before. Or, they shall exercise their false Religion there. So treading Gods Courts is taken for publick service, Isa. 1. 12. Or, the people of God, that worship God in the desert, shall be persecuted by them, and kept under, Isa. 14. 25. Dan. 7. 23. Amos 8. 4.

fourty and two moneths] That is, a thousand two hundred and threescore days, ver. 3. ch. 12. 6. allowing thirty days to each month. Hereby are meant so many years as Prophets use to reckon. So weeks are put for weeks of years, or so many years as there be days in every one of those weeks, Dan. 9. 24, 25, 26. Or, a long time.

V. 3. And] Or, But. So the particle is used, Mat. 11. 19. Mark 12. 12.

I will give power] Notwithstanding Antichrists persecuting of them, I will give power, &c. Or, I will give unto my two witnesses, that they may prophesie, Luke 3. 20. Or, I will give it; that is, I will give the temple to my two witnesses, to preach in the desert, while Antichrist and his followers exercise their idolatrous worship in the Court, and holy City, or the places where I was truly worshipped before.

two witnesses] So called, because they bear witness to truth and holiness, against all the errours and unholiness of Antichrist. In the number two, is an allusion to Moses and Aaron in the wilderness; Elijah and Elisha, when the Israelites worshipped the Calves and Baal; Zerubbabel and Joshua, in Babylon, and after the return of the people. Or, two, because two witnesses were sufficient to confirm a thing, Deut. 17. 6. Mat. 18. 16. 2 Cor. 13. 1. Ministers are Christs witnesses, Acts 1. 8.

they shall prophesie] Instruct the people how to worship God according to his word, and foretell the ruine of Antichrist and his adherents, out of Gods Word.

a thousand two hundred and threescore days] So long as Antichrists reign and persecution lasteth, some shall preach Gods truth. See ver. 2. It seemeth to be so many years, because it is a broken number; for whole ones, as ten, twenty, an hundred, use to be put indefinitely. The profanation of the idolaters, is counted by moneths, v. 2. which are reckoned by the course of the Moon, because their worship is a work of darkness, and of the night, wherein the Moon ruleth, Gen. 1. 16. Whereas the prophesying of the two witnesses is reckoned by days; for true Religion is compared to light, Acts 26. 18. 2 Cor. 6. 14. See the like in the times of the beasts blasphemy and of the womans being in the wilderness, chap. 13. 5. and 12. 6. Or, their prophesying is reckoned by days, not by years, because it is a work of every day, and of continual labour.

clothed in sackcloth] Mourning for the idolatry of the Papists, spreading it self so fast and so far, and for the troubles of the true Church. Sackcloth is worn in sad times, 2 Kin. 6. 30. Amos 8. 9, 10.

V. 4. These are, &c.] In this verse, is set down their goodness extended to their friends, the people of God: in the next, their power to hurt or destroy their enemies, till the time of their prophesying should be done; for then must they be killed by their foes, ver. 7.

the two olive-trees] Zech. 4. 3, 11, 14. Ministring oyl to the Candlesticks abundantly: for they are not branches, as in Zechariah, but whole trees. These times of persecution here foretold, would require abundance of all graces in Gods Ministers, to hold up the hearts of his fainting people, by plentiful instruction and consolation. And such did God then send, furnished abundantly from heaven, (when means of instruction failed) as olive-trees are with oyl.

and the two Candlesticks] That is, they were with the two Candlesticks or Churches. So and, in the Hebrew, is taken and translated with, 1 Sam. 14. 18. with the children of Israel. There were seven golden Candlesticks before, ch. 1. 20. but now, by persecution, they are brought to two; and two Ministers must suffice them. They are said to be two; because these persecuted Churches consist of Jews and Gentiles: or else, because they lived both in the Eastern and Western Empire.

standing before] By standing before God, some understand, that they were hidden from men in those times of trouble. Others, that they ministred to God, Deut. 10. 8. 1 Kings 17. 1. as great Officers stand before Kings; to minister to them, 1 Kings 10. 8. Prov. 22. 29. Jer. 52. 12. compared with 2 Kings 25. 8. chap. 8. 2.

the God of the earth] Who ownеth and ruleth all the earth, Psal. 24. 1. and 93. 1, 2, 3. and 95. 3, 4. God is called, The God of heaven and earth, Gen. 24. 3. The God of heaven, Dan. 2. 18. but here he is called, The God of the earth, to shew, for the comfort of the Church, that howsoever Antichrist seemed to sway all on earth, and all the world were wondring after him, ch. 13. 3. yet God keepeth the rule of the earth in his own hands still, and can protect his selected and marked ones, against the rage of Antichrist and his adherents.

V. 5. if any man will hurt them] That is, any way wrong them, or attempt to hinder them in the course of their prophecie.

fire proceedeth out of their mouth] Their revenge is spiritual. They can pray to God, and he will destroy their enemies. An allusion to 2 Kings 1. 10. Or, threatnings pronounced by them shall light upon their enemies, because they despised their testimony, Jer. 5. 13, 14.

in this manner] It is repeated, to shew the certainty of it. Or, it may have relation to the judgements following, ver. 6.

V. 6. to shut heaven] An allusion to 1 Kings 17. 1. Luke 4. 25. Jam. 5. 17, 18. It may be understood of restra ning the rain: or spiritually, of shutting men out of heaven, Matth. 16. 19. John 20. 23.

in the days of their prophecie] See ver. 6. Three years and six months in Elijahs time, answerable to the number of months here, ver. 2.

to turn them to blood] See Exod. 7. 20. Either literally by their prayers; or mystically, to kill souls by their preaching, 2 Cor. 2. 15.

with all plagues] What they threaten, God will send, on the contemners of his Word in their mouths, Jer. 1. 10. Or, with other plagues, like those of Egypt, or worse, chap. 14. 9, 10.

as often as they will] Whensoever, upon just occasion, they desire it of God, Mat. 18. 18, 19.

V. 7. And when they shall have] An allusion to our Saviours preaching, death, resurrection. He preached about three years and an half, then was put to death, and about three days after, riseth again with an Earth quake, and ascendeth into heaven with a cloud. Thus these two witnesses resemble that faithful and true witness mentioned, chap. 3. 14.

finished their testimony] When the years mentioned, ver. 3. are done: for before that time they could not be slain. See notes on ver. 5. So that the Witnesses are suffered to be slain, because God had no more work for them to do. It God had given them a longer time to preach, they should have continued, in despight of their enemies. So our Saviour could not be slain till his hour was come, John 8. 20. and then he was put to death, Luke 22. 53, &c.

the beast that ascendeth, &c.] Chap. 13. 11. and 17. 8. Antichrist, or the Pope: who is compared to a beast, because of his inhumanity, cruelty, and thirst after mens bloud. And he is said to come out of the bottomless pit; that is, out of the sea; as ch. 13. 1. or out of the body of the earth, as chap. 13. 11. or out of hell, as chap. 9. 2. He ascendeth, that is, beginneth now to ascend, in his instruments or fore-runners, 2 Thess. 2. 6. 1 John 2. 18.

make war against them] Dan. 7. 21. Shall persecute them, and endeavour to destroy them. They were persecuted and fought against by Antichrist often before; but this was the last battel before their death, and rising again to begin the ruine of Antichrists Kingdom.

shall overcome them] Who yet even then overcame him, chap. 12. 11.

and kill them] When he cannot stop their mouths, he shall kill them, that they may preach no more.

V. 8. And their dead bodies] See the cruelty of this ravening beast, that is not contented with the bloud of Gods Saints, but must lay their carcases forth in triumph, that all people may see the ensigns of her immanity, and will not afford them so much honour as to be buried, Psalm 79. 2, 3.

in the Street of the great City] Within the dominion of the Roman Empire. And it is called the great City, either in regard of the amplitude of power, and large territories; as ver. 13. and as the great King, Isa. 36. 4: that is, King of kings, Dan. 2. 37. See ch. 17. 18. and 18. 2. Or else in regard of the spaciousness of the City it self, being yet, now part of it is destroyed, fifteen miles compass within the walls, and fourty two without, when this story was written, as some Writers report.

Spiritually called Sodom] For uncleannels of all sorts, Gen. 19. 5. Ezek. 16. 50. It is not then Sodom literally taken. See ch. 17. 5. Besides the practice of whoredom in the Jews, without controll, at Rome, books have been written there in defence of Sodomy, and allowed by some Popes.

and Egypt] For oppressing Gods people, Exod. 1. 13, 14. and for idolatry, Exod. 12. 12. Jer. 12. 13. For they made gods of Cats, Crocodiles, and of divers beasts, Exod. 8. 26. Moses poynteth at this, as a cause why they durst sacrifice no cattel in Egypt. And Rome hath worshipped as many Saints, as the Heathen false Gods; and had as many images to worship, as they idols.

where also] Within whose dominions. Or, if it be meant of the City of Rome, Christ was there crucified in his members, Acts 9. 4. So Heb. 6. 6. may be understood of malicious persecuting of Christ in his Saints. And he himself also was crucified by the authority of that Empire, Mat. 20. 19. John 18. 31. and 19. 12, &c.

V. 9. And they of the people, &c.] That is, in all places of the Roman Empire, dead carcases of Gods Ministers shall be seen. See And some of the people, for all could not come to see them. See also chap. 5. 9. and 7. 9. shall see their dead bodies. Shall look upon them in scorn and derision, Luke 23. 35. Isa. 14. 16. For these are the nations subject to the beast, ch. 13. 7, 8. and such as are afraid at the resurrection of these witnesses, v. 11. and as trod under foot the holy City, v. 2.

three days and an half] Three years and an half. This must be understood underflood of divers perfons flain in this laſt war, in that ſpace. Or, if it be taken of the ſame bodies, it muſt be underſtood literally, for three natural days and an half; for they would ſtink, or be rotted away, before three years and an half be ended.

ſhall not ſuffer, &c.] They ſhall let them lye unburyed ſo long, that they may glut their eyes with looking upon them: as if they could never have their fill of ſuch a pleaſing ſpectacle, as is that of the dead witneſſes. Yet Gods Providence might be ſeen herein, in ſuffering them to lye ſo long unburyed, that people might admire the more, ſeeing others like them ariſe up to vex them, when they verily perſwaded themſelves they had been all ſlain.

V. 10. they that dwell on the earth] Out of the true Church, in Antichriſts kingdom, ch. 12. 12. and 13. 8. As on the contrary, they that dwell in the Church, are ſaid to be in heaven, chap. 13. 6. and 18. 20.

ſhall rejoyce over them] Go daily to ſee their dead carcaſes, with joy. Or, when they think of them.

and make merry] Make feaſts, in token of their joy; as Neh. 8. 10, 12. Luke 15. 23, 24. If they did not this literally here, yet were they as joyful as they that did ſo.

ſend gifts] In token of joy, Eſth. 9. 19, 22. For men in proſperity love to have others rejoice with them. So ſecure were they, now they thought theſe Prophets quite gone, that they not only rejoice themſelves, both inwardly and outwardly, but do what they can to make all others rejoice with them at the death of them.

becauſe theſe two Prophets] See ver. 3. 6.

tormented them] Or, had tormented them. They did not joy that they were tormented, but that they were rid and avenged of theſe Miniſters, who troubled their conſciences, by Preaching againſt their idolatry, 1 King. 18. 17. and 21. 20. Acts 16. 20. and threatning Gods judgements againſt them for it; beſides that, their wirneſs it ſelf was a great torment unto them.

V. 11. after three days and an half] Or, after thoſe three days and an half; to wit, of their bodies lying unburied, mentioned ver. 9.

Spirit of life from God] A living ſoul, or breath of life, put into them by God, Gen. 2. 7. Ezek. 37. 10. God inſpired others with the ſame ſpiritual graces that he had given them, and ſtirred them up to preach againſt Popery, as they had done before. See ch. 20. 4.

entred into them] That which ſhould come to paſs after, was thewed to John in a viſion, as if it were now done.

fell upon their feet] God raiſed Miniſters as powerful as they. So John Baptiſt is called Elias, Mat. 11. 14.

which ſaw them] The perſecutours were troubled, when God raiſed Miniſters to preach againſt their idolatry. They thought they had made ſure work, and that they ſhould never more have been troubled with Prophets: and now they are afraid that theſe will trouble them more than ever the former did.

V. 12. a great voice] A ſtout Proclamation of ſome Chriſtian Prince, calling them to the ſetling of viſible Churches; or of the Emperour himſelf, giving an open declaration of their religion.

they aſcended up to heaven in a cloud] Chap. 14. 14. They were ſetled ſtrangely, and by divine Authority, in the viſible Church, with liberty, honour, and ſupport, to the admiration of their adverſaries. Their ſackcloth is now taken from them: they may prophely chearfully, without ſorrow and danger. Others underſtand it of coming openly into the viſible Church with a cloud or multitude of witneſſes (as Heb. 12, 1.) rejoycing and congratulating with them, and encouraging them, and helping, like a cloud, to advance them. Others take it to be meant of a gentle way of reformation, by the word, not a violent one, by the ſword, as it were by a whirlwind. Others, for their imperfect knowledge, at the firſt, of thoſe things which they ſaw, underſtand it of their perfect knowledge, at the firſt, of thoſe things which concerned Gods publick worſhip.

their enemies] The Antichriſtian faction, who put them to death.

Behold them] As it was a great honour to theſe witneſſes, that their enemies ſhould ſee them thus advanced; ſo it was a great terrour to their foes: for as they could not hinder their preferment, ſo now they had no hope to ſlay them any more, although they preached publickly againſt their idolatry: for they were as ſafe now, by Gods protection in his Church, as if they were in heaven it ſelf, Pſalm 115. 3.

V. 13. the ſame hour was there a great earth-quake] Hereby is not meant the twenty fourth part of a natural day, but about that time, as ch. 14. 7. and 17. 12. Aſſoon as the Miniſters of Chriſt betgin to preach, and were ſeparated from the Papiſts, and ſettled in ſome places, great commotions aroſe in many Cities. For, as the natural earth-quake, ſuch as is ſpoken of, Amos 1. 1. Mat. 28. 2. ſhaketh the earth, by the force of the wind gotten into it: ſo myſtical earth-quakes make Cities and Kingdoms quake with wars and troubles, when the Goſpel beginneth to be preached in them: and therefore ſuch ſtirs are ſet out by earth-quakes, ch. 6. 12. and 16. 18.

the tenth part of the city fell] In their means; for the Pope had tenths out of many Kingdoms, in imitation of the Jewiſh Priests, and of the Roman Emperours, who had it before. Alſo Germany fell from him in a great part, which, joyned with thoſe that fell off from him in other Countries, might make up a tenth part of the Romiſh Polith Territory, compared to a City divided into ten parts, ſeven thouſand dwelling in each part, and one part was now ſwallowed up by an earth-quake.

of men ſeven thouſand] Gr. names of men; that is, men, ch. 3. 4. Acts 1. 15. Or, men of note, called in Hebrew, men of name; that is, of renown, Gen. 6. 4. for it is likely that more ordinary men dyed in theſe ſtirs. Unleſs it be put for a great number, as round whole ſums often are, and this may be, 1 King. 19. 18. Rom. 11. 4. This ſum is uſed in this book thirty ſeven times, as ſome Commentatours write. Sure it is, many that were of the Popiſh Religion, have periſhed in the wars, ſince reformation began. Or, many ſocieties. Or, he addeth names, to ſhew, that ſo many were taken notice of. More might periſh then. Which ſheweth, that God doth not deſtroy his ſoes at all adventure, but deſigneth them by name, whom he intendeth to ſlay. See notes on ch. 3. 4.

gave glory to the God of heaven] By confeſſing, that they who perſecuted were juſtly puniſhed for their ſins, Joſ. 7. 19. Or, by confeſſing his Name, and turning Proteſtants as many have done. Or, by praiſing God that they eſcaped, John 9. 24. This they did, being terrified by the earth-quake or ſtirs.

V. 14. The ſecond woe is paſt] Of thoſe three woes which the Angel foretold, ch. 8. 13. the firſt and ſecond are gone with the fifth and ſixth trumpets, ch. 9. 12. (ſee notes there) and in this ver. The third followeth, which beginneth when the ſeventh trumpet beginneth to blow. This, with the verſes following, ſheweth us whereabouts we are in the ſtory, namely, about the time of the publick profeſſion of the true Religion again in the Empire by Authority, after Popery began to fall. So that it ſeemeth faſeſt to go backward. The peace of Religion was eſtabliſhed in Germany, in the year one thouſand five hundred fifty and nine, at Ausburg, in a Diet, under Ferdinand the Emperor, who ſucceeded Charles the fifth. Now the Miniſters are placed in heaven, that is, in the Church, by imperial Authority. True it is, that Religion was publickly allowed, before this time in Denmark and Sweden, about the year one thouſand five hundred thirty and eight, as Writers of that ſtory record. But becauſe the Revelation taketh principal notice of the Empire, it ſeemeth fitteſt, that the end of the treading down the beloved City, and the beginning of the Miniſters liberty, ſhould be there intended. So that the meaſuring of the Temple, or appointing a Church to continue, and endure perſecution by Papiſts, is likely to begin in the year two hundred ninety and nine: as alſo the ſeaſons of perſecution by the high grown Roman Biſhops, who began dillentions in the Church, before they grew to their full height. Or elſe the meaning of thoſe words, v. 2. the holy City ſhall they tread under foot fourty and two months, is, their treading of it under foot, ſhall end then, though it did not laſt all that time; as Iſrael is ſaid to be afflicted in Egypt four hundred years, Gen. 15. 13. Acts 7. 6. though, to reconcile thoſe places with Gal. 3. 17. many Interpreters conceive that time to beg n from the promiſe made to Abraham, Gen. 12. 3. or 22. 18. long after which time, they came into Egypt. Neitherdid they ſuffer any ill in ſlure there at firſt, all the time Joſeph lived; but their troubles ended at the time preſcribed by God. And ſo did the publick treading of Religion under foot in the Empire end at that decree, one thouſand five hundred fifty and nine, as alſo at the proſpecying of the witneſſes in ſackcloth, v. 3. a little before. Then followeth their death, v. 7. which is like to be in thoſe Germain Wars awhile before the Peace, wherein, as many Miniſters were baniſhed and put out of all, by Civil Authority, which is a Civil death; ſo, no doubt, many were cruelly ſlain; and were inſulted over, as if their dead bodies had been expoſed to publick view, and feaſts made for joy that they were dead, v. 8, 9, 10. Or, thoſe witneſſes ſeem to be a ſucceſſion of true Preachers, as before, eſpecially among the Waldenſes. The cruelty ſhewed on them by of Merindol and Cabriers, a very few years before the liberty of Religion granted in the Empire, may be the killing of the laſt of theſe Miniſters; and the leaving their bodies unburied followed. The free exerciſe of Religion granted as before, ſeemeth to be their calling up, and the firſt ſtirring of it, their aſcending into heaven, v. 11, 12. The Earth quake may ſignifie the ſtirs in Germany about that time; and the things following it, the men and means falling from the Pope, and Papiſts ſlain in the war, and others turning Proteſtants, v. 13. So the ſecond and ſixth trumpet is done, in this verſe.

the third woe cometh quickly] It beginneth ſoon after to be executed, ch. 22. 7. to wit, under the ſeventh trumpet, and holdeth on in the Vials.

V. 15. And the ſeventh Angel ſounded] As was foretold, ch. 10. 7. though for a time intermitted. The ſeventh Trumpet.

great voices in heaven] Great praiſe given to God by his people, for this ſudden alteration. See ch. 19. 1, 2.

the Kingdoms of our Lord] Antichriſt is weakned, and Chriſt hath begun to take the Kingdom out of his hand, and ſhall have a viſible Church like an Empire, in all the known world, and that to the end: There was no ſuch ſong in the ſixth ſeal, when Conſtantine put down Heathen idolatry, becauſe then the Church was to be polluted and perſecuted again, for a long time after, by the Roman Antichriſt.

V. 20.

V. 16. And the four and twenty Elders] See chap. 4. 10. Publick thanks is now given in the Church. See chap. 19. 1, 4.

fell upon their faces] They thought it not reverence enough to riſe off their ſeats, but fell flat on their faces, worſhipping God, and congratulating the ſetting up of religion publickly, ſo as it never ſhall be driven into corners again, as it was twice before, by Gentiles and Papiſts.

V. 17. Almighty] See chap. 1. 8. They praiſe him, becauſe he had ſhewed his infinite power in freeing his Church.

which art, &c.] This ſeventh out Gods eternity. See notes on chap. 1. 4, 8. and 4. 8.

taken to thee thy great power] Shewed thy great power, in weaking Antichriſt. Or, haſt ſhewed that thou art King of the world, which many doubted of before, becauſe of Antichriſts great power over the Church.

V. 18. the nations] Or Gentiles; as verſe 2. The Popiſh idolaters. They ſhewed their anger in perſecuting before, which brought Gods wrath upon them; or in fighting now, or in fretting then, when they were overcome, Pſal. 2. 1, 2. Acts 4. 25, 26.

thy wrath] The time to execute thy wrath on ſuch as repented not in time of thy forbearance.

the time of the dead, &c.] The time to puniſh bloody perſecutours for killing thy Saints, Chap. 4. 10.

judged] Or, avenged, Pſal. 26. 1. Luke 18. 3.

give reward to thy ſervants, &c.] chap. 11. Give proſperity to thy Miniſters and people, which have ſuffered hard things. The Miniſters are put firſt, who, as they are principal in the victory, ſo muſt they have the firſt part in the ſpoiles.

and ſhouldeſt deſtroy them, &c.] Shouldeſt deſtroy many bloody perſecutours; for the deſtruction of Rome it ſelf followeth. Chap. 18. and of antichriſt, Chap. 19. yet now began the deſtruction of Popiſh perſecutors; and many have periſhed in the wars, ſince the time of reformation.

deſtroy] Or corrupt.

the earth] The men of the earth, Gen. 6. 11.

V. 19. the temple of God] The Church now appearing again openly, is compared to the temple of Hieruſalem, wherein the ark was. It was ſhut up before, as that of Hieruſalem under Ahaz, 2 Chron. 28. 24. and 29. when it was meaſured, ver. 1. and the court given to the Gentiles, ver. 2. Now it is ſet open, as that was by Hezekiah, 2 Chron. 29. 3. not to receive a few Saints, as before, in times of perſecution, but whole multitudes of believers. This noteth the free exerciſe of religion which was eſtabliſhed.

the Ark of his Teſtament] Not the Temple alone, but the Ark alſo, which was ſhut up from the eyes of men, in the Old Teſtament, 1 Kings 6. 19. and ſeen ſeldome, and by the high Prieſt alone, was now opened: that is, the myſteries of religion, formerly hidden, were now revealed. So that lay-men know as much now, as ſome few Eccleſiaſtical perſons of great note knew before, of the hidden myſteries of ſalvation. And therefore the Elders praiſe God for this, which repreſent the people, chap. 4. 10. and not the beaſts or living wights, which ſignifie the Miniſters, chap. 4. 6. not that the Miniſters had not more knowledge than the people; but becauſe the people that were kept from all ſuch knowledge before, now know more than many Prieſts knew before. The Papiſts had poſſeſſed the court. The people of God had a ſmall temple in the wilderneſſe, Some of the Clergy-men God raiſed up, now and then, to teach the people. The hidden things of God, like the holy place, were ſeen of a few choſen inſtruments. Now the people of God have a temple open to worſhip God in, and a full ſight of Gods holy myſteries, hidden from them before.

lightnings, &c.] See chap. 4. 5. Earth-quake and hail ſee out Gods terrible judgements irreſiſtible, Iſa. 26. 9. and 28. 2. and 30. 30. Hail is called a plague, chap. 16. 21. And it may allude either to the hail-ſtones that deſtroyed the trees in Egypt, Exod. 9. 25. or thoſe that deſtroyed the Amorites in Canaan, Joſh. 10. 11. It may foretell the final deſtruction of Antichriſt and his adherents, in a ſtrange manner; which, though not preſently, yet muſt come to paſs under this trumpet: and his fall is now begun: and as he was long in riſing, ſo may he be in falling. Or, it may ſignifie the deſtruction of many perſecutours by the ſword, ſince the reforming of religion. Or, the impoveriſhing and fretting of the abbey-lubbers, for the loſſe of their means, and the happy progreſſe of the Goſpel.

CHAP. XII.

Ver. 1. Wonder] Or, ſign. A ſtrange ſight and apparition, as appeareth by that which followeth.

in heaven] This viſion appeared to John in this viſible heaven, where the Sun, Moon and Stars are. It could not be ſeen in the third heaven, where Saints and Angels are; for there is no Sun nor Moon there, Iſa. 60. 19. chap. 21. 23. and 22. 5. And it ſeteth the dignity and ſanctity of the Church, whoſe converſation is in heaven, Phil. 3. 20. remote from the dark miſts of worldly errours, and lifting it ſelf above worldly affairs and comforts.

a woman] Repreſenting the Chriſtian Church, compared to a virgin eſpouſed to Chriſt, 2 Cor. 11. 2. to a bride, chap. 19. 7. and 21. 9. and 22. 17. to a wife, Eph. 5. 25, 26, 27, 32.

clothed with the Sun] The Church of God, the ſpouſe of Chriſt, the brighteſt and moſt glorious creature in the world. She ſhineth in the doctrine of her Miniſters, and lives of her members, Matth. 5. 14, 15, 16. or, as being clothed with Chriſts righteouſneſs, whom the hath put on, Gal. 3. 27. In the former ſenſe, ſhe ſhineth before the world: in this, before God. See chap. 19. 8.

the Moon under her feet] Or, far beneath. Treading under foot the Jewiſh feaſts, which depended, many of them, on the Moon. Or, concerning worldly things, which are mutable, like the Moon, as men do things which they tread under their feet.

a crown of twelve ſtars] The ſtars ſtood not one above another, but round about her head, like twelve precious ſtones in the circumference of a crown. A glorious light, no doubt. She had the Stars about her head, the Sun about her body, and the Moon under her feet. So in the heavens, ſome Stars are ſaid to be above the Sun, and the Moon far below it. The thing intended ſeemeth to be, that the Church is adorned with the doctrine of the twelve Apoſtles, on which ſhe is founded, chap. 21. 14. or, with excellent Miniſters, ch. 1. 20. as with a diadem. For the truth of the Goſpel doth not only make us free, John 8. 36. but Kings alſo, chap. 1. 6. The Church carrieth the ſtars on her head, as her ornament; Chriſt, in his hand, as his ſervants, chap. 1. 16. ready to do his will. Men uſe to have crowns of gold; the Church treadeth them under her feet. Her glory is not worldly dignity, but her teachers integrity.

V. 2. And ſhe being with child, &c.] Gr. having in her belly: to wit, a child, as Mat. 1. 18. As the Miniſters of God are compared to a woman in travel, when they ſeek to bring men to faith in Chriſt, Gal. 4. 19. ſo the whole Church, in another reſpect, is here compared to ſuch a woman. For as that woman is weary of her burthen, cryeth out to be rid of it, and ſtriveth, and endureth much pain; ſo the Chriſtian Church, being grown very populous, ſome few years before Conſtantines time, cryeth unto God by daily prayers, to raiſe up a Chriſtian Emperor, that might give them the free profeſſion of the Chriſtian religion in the Roman Empire. For this end alſo they did ſtrive, joyning their forces with Conſtantines, to ſubdue the heathen perſecutours. This was a cauſe of many perſecutions to her, and much bloud-ſhed in the wars, for a time. Here it appereth, that we muſt begin the time of treading the holy City under foot, and of the witneſſes, before the open profeſſion of Chriſtianity granted by Conſtantine. See notes on chap. 11. 14. For here, the things foretold in the former chapter begin to be more particularly deſcribed; as appeareth, in that the ſame ſpace of a thouſand two hundred and threeſcore days which was given to the two witneſſes, ch. 11. 3. is here given to the Church in the wilderneſs, ver. 6. and as fourty and two months were given to the Gentiles, to tread the holy City under foot, ch. 11. 2. ſo the ſame ſpace is given to the beaſt, to tyrannize over thoſe places where the true Chriſtian religion had been profeſſed, while the true Church is hid in the wilderneſs, ch. 12. 6.

V. 3. wonder] Or, ſign; as ver. 1.

in heaven] Either becauſe the Roman Emperours had power over the Church, or becauſe they thruſt themſelves into it by their deputies, to perſecute it. As for the viſion, it is likely John ſaw it in the viſible heaven, as he did the woman. See ver. 1.

a great red dragon] The heathen Roman Emperours ſucceeding one another, who did the devil ſervice, as in other things, ſo cheefly in perſecuting the Church, ver. 9. chap. 13. 10. So Pharaoh is called, Pſalm 74. 13, 14. Iſa. 27. 1. and 51. 9. Ezek. 29. 3. He is great, becauſe of his large Empire, ch. 17. 18. Red, that is, bedewed with the bloud of the Saints, as if he were dyed with it.

ſeven heads] Sitting on ſeven hills, ch. 17. 9.

ten horns] Ten Kings which aroſe after, out of this Empire, chap. 17. 12. Or, ſo many Provinces, which were the ſtrength of it, as horns are of beaſts, Dan. 8. 3, 4, 5, 6.

ſeven crowns] Seven kind of Governours one after another, on her ſeven hills, ch. 17. 10.

on his heads] Not on his horns; for the Supreme Authority was in Rome, on the ſeven hills, not in the Provinces. And as in Rome they had many heads to invent miſchief againſt the Church, and as much power to execute it; ſo in the Provinces they wanted not more inſtruments of execution.

V. 4. his tail drew the third part] He ſubjected the third part of the Provinces of the world to his Empire, ch. 6. 13. or ſeduced many of the Miniſters, ch. 8. 10. Dan. 7. 10, 11, 12. and that by craft, ch. 9. 19. unleſs the force of the dragon be in his tail, as ſome write.

did caſt them to the earth] Put down thoſe Princes whom he had ſubdued, from their royal authority. Or, drew ſome doctours of the Church to forſake the truth, and follow earthly pleaſure or profit, Phil. 3. 18, 19. 2 Tim. 4. 10.

to devour her childe] To deſtroy Chriſts myſtical Body, 1 Cor. 12. 12. and not to ſuffer it to live in the Empire, or to hinder any Chriſtian likely to riſe to the Empire. An alluſion to Pharaohs watching to deſtroy the firſt-born of Iſrael, Exod. 1. 15, 16. and to Herods endeavour to deſtroy Chriſt aſſoon as he was born, Matth. 2.

7,8,16. The like care did the Roman Heathen Emperours use, to suppresse any that were of more than ordinary parts, or favour with the people, that were likely to set up the Christian Religion. So Maximinus that dragon, devoured Alexander the son of Mammea; whom he saw to be favoured of, and favourable to the Christians. Decius devoured the two Philips, the father and the son. Diocletian and Galerius left no stone unrolled, that they might have Constantine away privily. They sent him to fight against the fierce Northern nations, as Saul sent Dauid against the Philistines, that he might be slain, 1 Sam. 18.25. when he came home victorious, contrary to the expectation of Galerius, he perswaded Constantine to fight with a lion in the theatre, to shew his courage. Maximinianus afterward laid snares for him, which yet through Gods mercy he escaped. Last of all, they fought with him, to destroy him; but God delivered him, and destroyed them.

was born] Or, should be born. He hoped, that, though he could not hinder the Churches conceiving, travelling, and bringing forth, no more than Pharaoh could the Israelitish womens; yet he should destroy that the brought forth.

V. 5. a man-childe, &c.] As Moses was born, in spight of Pharaoh, to deliver Gods people out of Egypt; so now the Christian Church got a deliverer, a man-child. The like phrase is, Isa. 66.7. It cannot be understood of Christ; for it is a prophecy of things to come after Johns time. But the Church brought forth Christians professing the true religion openly, in the Roman Empire, or Constantine, who was afterwards to be Emperour, to subdue the nations, and then rule strongly over them, Psa. 2.9. ch. 2.27. and 19.15.

to God, and to his throne] Meaning Constantine and his successors advanced to the Roman Empire, and made Gods Deputies, sitting as it were on his throne. So Solomon and David are said to sit on the Lords throne, 1 Chron. 29.23. For it cannot be understood of our Saviour Christs ascension, and sitting at Gods right hand. This John knew before, as being written in the Gospel. And many things passed between Christs death and his ascension. Neither was Christ caught up by anothers power, as we, 1 Thess. 4.17. but went up into heaven, or ascended thither, Psalm 47.5. and 68.18. Eph. 4.8, 9, 10. to wit, by his own power. Neither can it be understood of Constantines death; for the Text would not joyn his death to his birth, seeing much concerneth him in the battel following. He was caught up, for he got not the Empire by his endeavours; but being a son of the Church, professing the Christian religion, he was marvellously preserved by God from the rage of heathen tyrants; and seeking to avoid their snares, he came to his dying father, and by right of succession, and the earnest desires of the people of Rome, oppressed with the heavy yoke of Maxentius, obtained the Roman Empire, and so was set on Gods throne, to be next to God. The witnesses are said to ascend up into heaven; but he hath a throne in heaven, to rule next under God himself, over the nations, yea, even the enemies of the Church, with a rod of iron. He would have been content with his honour in France and Britain, his native countrey, (as he was five yeers) had he not, by Gods providence, been caught up to a greater Empire than he expected.

V. 6. fled into the wilderness] Not now, but after the great battel following, and under Antichrist. See ver. 14. For then she fled from the face of the angry dragon, who persecuted her by Antichrist, as before by the Heathen Emperours. An allusion to Christs fleeing into Egypt, for succour from Herods cruelty, Mat. 2.13,14. or to the Israelites fleeing into the wilderness from Pharaoh, that great dragon, Exod. 13.17,18.

a place prepared of God] When men persecute her, God provideth a place of safety for her.

that they should feed her] Either it is to be taken impersonally, That he should be fed; as Luke 12.20. or the two witnesses should feed her there: for this falleth out in the same time, as appeareth by the number of days here, and chap. 11.3. So Elias was fed in the wilderness, in a place prepared by God, 1 Kings 17.3,4.

V. 4. war in heaven] A great battel in the Church of God. For the dragon could not fight in the highest heaven: there is no war there.

Michael and his Angels] Constantine and his souldiers, represented to the eyes of John in the form of Michael the arch-Angel and his Angels, mentioned, Dan. 10.13, 21. and 12.1. Jude ver. 9.

the dragon] Maxentius, Maximinus, and Licinius, in whom the devil wrought, as his principal instruments to suppresse the Christian religion.

V. 8. and prevailed not] Or, But they prevailed not. So this particle is used, Mat. 11.19. That is, they were overthrown; as Prov. 12.3. and 17.21. Maxentius was drowned in Tiber; Maximinus died, that should have been banished; Licinius lost his head. In memory of this victory, Constantine pictured over the gate of his palace, a dragon pierced thorow with a dart, lying under his and his souldiers feet.

neither was there place, &c.] Dan. 2.35. Psalm 103.16. They ruled no more in the Roman Empire, now converted to the Christian religion, and publickly professing it. The phrase here used, noteth an utter extirpation, Dan. 2.35. chap. 20.11.

V. 9. the great dragon] The Roman Heathen Emperours, and the devil with them, who poisoneth the earth with idolatry, was no more worshipped.

old serpent] Who deceived our first parents at the beginning of the world, Gen. 3.1. Rev. 20.2. He is a drag on for cruelty, a serpent for subtilty.

the devil] The accuser of the brethren, ver. 10.

Satan] The adversary of Gods Church, Zech. 3.1. deceiveth the whole world] Drew all the Roman Empire into idolatry.

cast out into the earth] Had no more power over the Church by publick Magistracy, as before.

his Angels] His souldiers and wicked instruments.

V. 10. in heaven] In the Church of God. In this song, they praise God for deliverance of the Christians from tyrants, the declaration of Gods strength, and the Kingdom of Christ, in putting down Heathen Emperours, and setting up Christian, and removing their accuser.

now is come, &c.] Now is manifested, chap. 11.15.

accuser of our brethren] Called the devil; for he accuseth us before God, Job 1.9. and 2.5. And in the time of the ten persecutions, when the Christians met by night, for fear of danger, the devil by his instruments accused them before men, as if they met in the night to practise all manner of looseness.

day and night] Continually, Psalm 1.2. Josh. 1.8.

V. 11. and they overcame him] In the former verse, the power of the Captain was commended; now the prowess of the souldiers is set out.

by the blood of the Lamb] Or, for; Rom. 8.33,34,37. and 16.20. By virtue of Christs Bloud, they got power to overcome Satan, and all his wicked instruments; not by worldly power and strength.

by the word of their testimony] Christ honoured them with this victory, because they bare witness of his truth. It is called, The testimony of Jesus, ver. 17. chap. 19.10. because he was the object of their confession. Here it is called the testimony, because they are the persons who confessed him.

loved not their lives] Acts 20.24. 2 Cor. 11.23. and 4.11. But exposed them to death. Or, despised them, and set them alowe, in comparison of the confession of Gods truth. They made so little account of them, that they exposed them to all dangers for the cause of Christ, joyning with Constantine in the war against the persecutours. Some understand this of the Martyrs who died for religion before Constantines time.

V. 12. ye heavens] All ye Churches on earth. An allusion to Psalm 96.11. Isa. 49.13.

ye that dwell] Gr. ye that dwell as in a tent. So John 1.14. 2 Cor. 5.1. Ye that abide safe here a while, as in a tent, under Gods protection, till ye be translated to glory, Psalm 31.20. and 91.1.

woe] Great grief and sorrow will come on you.

of the earth, and of the sea] Or, Islands. Who live any where out of the Church of God. For earth and sea are here opposed to heaven, which is the Church. So that the fruit of this victory is the joy of the Saints, and grief of ungodly men.

having great wrath] Because he is cast out of Gods Church, that he can no longer tyrannize over it, he will empty his spleen upon his own servants. So he did after upon the Roman Church by the Goths and Vandals.

but a short time] Gr. but a short season. The end of the world was not yet here: but he could not have so fit occasion to put the Saints to death, as before, now his Viceroy's the Heathen Emperours were deposed.

V. 13. cast into the earth] See ver. 9.

he persecuted] By the Popes, when he could do it no longer by the Heathen Emperours. Or it may be understood of the Arrian persecution, under Constantius and Valens; which came within this time, and was seconded by Popish persecution, till the time prefixed was finished.

which brought forth the man-child] Verse 5.

V. 14. two wings of a great eagle] God gave her strength to flee into a safe place speedily, Exod. 19.4. Deut. 32.11, 12. and so wonderfully delivered and preserved her from Antichrists rage.

into the wilderness] Into a private place. So did the Waldenses for many years, in desert places, as those mentioned, Heb. 11.38.

into her place] Which God had provided for her safety, and where her wicked persecutors could not come at her to hurt her.

where she is nourished for a time, and times, and half a time] These words should be in a parenthesis; for the words following depend on the former words, that she might flee into the wilderness from the face of the Serpent.

for a time, &c.] For as many years, as there be days in three years and an half. See ver. 6. chap. 11.3. Dan. 7.25. and 12.7. See times for years, Dan. 4.16, 23, 32.

from the face] For the red dragon, that fought to devour her shewed his anger in his face. This phrase also sheweth that the Church for some time, was not visible to her enemies, Isa. 16.4. Or, for fear of the Serpent. So this phrase is used, 1 Sam. 17.24. and 19.10. of Isa. 21.14.

of the serpent] Mentioned, ver. 9.

V. 15. out of his mouth] Sent out bulls abroad from the Popes.

water as a flood] Or, river. By his bulls, he raised multitudes of souldiers to destroy the Waldenses, and other protestants since. For the end of that chapter containeth a general description of the state of the church all the reign of Antichrist, which is after limned out into particulars, in the chapters immediately following. So waters, for many people coming in hostile manner, Isa 59.19. Revel. 17.15. and violently sweeping away all before them, like a river, Isa. 59.19. Amos 8.8.

after the woman] If this be a second persecution by the Popes, then the former may be by the Arrians. See notes on ver. 13. Or, the Popes did more closely persecute before, and now more openly send out Croisado's against the Waldenses and others in the wilderness.

to be carried away of the flood] To be utterly destroyed out of those desert places, as he had driven her out of the inhabited world before.

V. 16. And] Or, But; as ver. 8.

the earth helped the woman] The Earl of Tholous, and divers others, that were Papists, fought for their clients and subjects the Waldenses, feeing their faithfulness and painfulness, which brought profit to their Lords by manuring desert places.

swallowed up the flood] Destroyed many of the Popes souldiers sent against the Waldenses, so that they could never quite be rooted out. Or, the carcases of such as went to fight against the Protestants, were scattered upon the earth, dying by famine or plague, or war, as the Israelites did in the wilderness, Numb. 14.29. So the land is said to eat up her inhabitants, Numb. 13.32. And divers of the Popes souldiers were so consumed. It may be an allusion to Numb. 16.31,32. where the earth swallowed up Dathan and Abiram, and so preserved Moses and Aaron from their insurrection. Or, the Roman Empire, which is the earth, in this book, when opposed to the Church; was divided in it self, and so Gods people escaped.

V. 17. And] Or, Then. So this particle is used, Mat. 23.32. and that translation is more elegant. As if it had been said, When the dragon could not keep the Church out of the wilderness, nor destroy it there; then he persecuted all her favourers he could come at elsewhere.

wroth with the woman, &c.] The war with the seed ariseth not from any hurt they had done the dragon; but out of an old quarrel against their mother, Gen. 3.15.

and went] The Pope, being at Rome, stirred up the Magistrates every where to persecute the poor Protestants.

with the remnant of her seed] That could not get into the wilderness with the rest. Those few good Christians which lay hid among the Papists, were brought out and slain. Or, when he could not overcome the Church of the Waldenses in the wilderness, he set Antichrist on work to destroy the Protestants that sprung up in Bohemia, France, England, and other parts, and served God privately, but had not yet meetings and Ministers, as the Waldenses had.

CHAP. XIII.

Verse 1. AND I stood upon the sand of the sea] Or, I was set. John was removed by the Spirit to a convenient place, where he might see the beast arise out of the sea. See the like removes, chap. 17.3. and 21.10. Ezek. 8.3. Dan. 8.2. Others read it, And he flooded; that is, the dragon; and so annex it to the end of the former chapter. But that cannot be; for the dragon was gone away to fight with the rest of the Saints, chap. 12.17. Neither need he stand there to see the original of the beast, which he knew very well. Neither are these revelations shewed to the dragon, but to John.

a beast] A great Empire, Dan. 7.3. It is no news in Scripture, especially in Daniel, and in the Revelation, for such fierce and cruell Empires to be compared to wilde beasts; as leopards, and bears, &c. Some conceive this beast and the other, ver. 11. to be all one. Others interpret this of the Popish Roman Empire, and the other of the Pope, who is the Antichrist.

rise up] It is not said to be raised up, but to rise up, and to ascend; for this beast was very greedy of Supremacy, and sought it by his own strength, as well as by his friends. He seeth it ascend up by little and little, till it came quite out of the sea. So did the Western Emperour and the Pope grow up by little and little, till they got free of, and power over many nations. He is properly said to ascend out of the sea, because the shore is higher than it, and keepeth it in, Psalm 24.2. Therefore Mariners are said to go down into the sea in ships, Psalm 107.23. Isa. 42.10. Or, to ascend, by an usual Hebrew phrase, is to come from, or come forth of, Rev. 7.2. and 10.9. Jer. 34.21. and 35.7.

out of the sea] Out of many nations, chap. 17.15.

seven heads, and ten horns] See chap. 12.3.

upon his horns ten crowns] For ten crowned Kings were afterward subject unto the Popish Empire, or Antichrist, which had not yet received their crowns, chap. 17.12.

upon his heads the name of blasphemy] Or, names. Monuments of idolatry were on the seven hills of Rome: or, their several Governours were idolaters.

V. 2. like unto a leopard] A fierce beast, hating man so much, that he first fleeth upon his eyes, to pull them out; and in his rage will tear the very picture of a man out of paper. Or, as a leopard which lieth in wait for his prey, Jer. 5.6. Hos. 13.7. A note both of fierceness and subtilty. This Empire was divided into many Kingdomes, like the Grecian, typified by a leopard, Dan. 7.6. and 8.8,22.

as the feet of a bear] Ravenous, like the Persian Empire, Dan. 7.5.

as the mouth of a lion] Made idolatrous and cruel decrees, as the Babylonian Empire did, Dan. 7.4. and 3.15, &c. Thus this representation is formed of divers beasts, because no one was bad enough to set out the evil qualities of this dominion.

the dragon gave him his power] Gr. his own power. The devil gave him the power that he had given the heathen Roman Emperours before, which they had lost in Constantines time. The devil gave him strength to manage his dominion, for him in Rome, where Satans throne was before, and gave him author ty over many Kings & Kingdoms. All these are needful to uphold an Empire. Authority must be backed with honour, and honour with strength; else an Empire will not stand.

V. 3. one of his heads] The Western Roman Emperour was grievously spoiled by the Goths and Vandals: or the Pope weakned, and brought very low, like one wounded in the head.

wounded] Gr. slain.

was healed] By raising up of the French and German Empire, under the title of the Roman. So that now it seemed like a body which had been mortally wounded, and yet flourisheth again to admiration.

wondred after the beast] Chap. 17.8. Submitted themselves to the beast wholly, and wondred at his raising again, and followed him with great admiration.

V. 4. worshipped the dragon] In obeying the Emperours or Popes idolatrous decrees, they not only worshipped them, but also the devil in them, chap. 9.20. 1 Cor. 10.20. For the dragon gave them that power, and his work they did. Therefore John letteth them all out, as falling down on their knees before the dragon. Not that these Emperours or Popes would confess they had their power from the dragon, or that this people thought they had it from him, or worshipped the dragon visibly: but when they thought they worshipped God, who in their conceit had set up his dominion, they did closely worship Satan, who set it up indeed. Or, as the Roman eagle was carried before the Army, whereby the beast was followed and worshipped, even with peril of life: so some write that they carried dragons before every troop; and they that carried them were called Dragons. Thus they followed the Dragon.

saying] Here they express their admiration, and their fear accompanying it, in the words following. They worshipped them in words, as well as gestures: as the Elders worshipped God, chap. 4.10, 11.

V. 5. there was given unto him] By the devil; who gave him his power, ver. 2. Or, he was permitted by God to blaspheme.

a mouth speaking] Dan. 7.8, 11, 25. and 11.36.

great things and blasphemies] He boasted of his own greatness, and vilified all others, even God himself, ver. 6. Psalm 12.3,4. to continue] Or, to make war; as ver. 7. Gr. to do great things. Or, to do what he list for a time, Dan. 8.4,12. Or, to abide, Jam. 4.14.

forty and two moneths] See ch. 11.2. The power of Antichrist, and the Papists, is reckoned by moneths; for they are works of the night, guided by the unconstant Moon: but the course of Gods people is guided by the Sun, and set out by days, ch. 11.3.

V. 6. he opened his mouth, &c.] At first he counterfeited himself holy, when the power was newly given him; but now by degrees he cometh to blaspheme God himself, with full mouth, Psalm 73.9. 2 Thess. 2.4. Opening the mouth, is the beginning to speak, Mat. 5.2.

his Name] God himself, and his power, Acts 2.25. and 3.12, 16. and 4.12. Rom. 10.13. Psalm 74.10, 18.

his tabernacle] His Church, Psalm 76.2. and 87.1,2. and his ordinances.

them that dwell in heaven] That serve God in his Church, as fellow-citizens of heaven, and being of Gods household, Eph. 2.19. where God dwelleth as a Master, Psalm 76.2. and a Father, Mat. 6.9. These then, in regard of their simplicity and weakness, lie open to all reproaches and injuries from their powerful enemies.

V. 7. to make war with the Saints] With Gods servants, who are sanctified, Dan. 7.21. ch. 11.7.

to overcome them] By subduing or slaying them, ver. 10.

power] See ver. 5.

all kindreds, &c.] See ch. 5.9. and 7.9. and 11.9.

V. 8. all that dwell] The greatest number; as Luke 2.2. Rom. 11.26. So that the rest were so few, in comparison of the idolatrous Christians, that they are of no reckoning.

upon the earth] In the world, except such as are here excepted, ch. 3.10.

whose names] Whom God maketh no account to save. Left, because the followers of the beast are so many, therefore we might think, none should be saved; John assureth us, that none of Gods elect shall perish, Mat. 24.24. They shall be kept from this idolatry, Rom. 11.4,5.

in the book of life of the Lamb slain] Exod. 32.32. Phil. 4.3. ch. 3.5. from and 20.12, and 21.27.

From the foundation of the world] By virtue of whose Blood, they were saved who lived before his incarnation, as well as they who lived after it. Or, whose names are not written, from the foundation of the world, in the book of the Lamb slain: that is, who are not predestinated, from all eternity, to be saved by the death of Christ. See chap. 17.8.

V. 9. if any man have an ear, &c.] Let every man observe this beast, that he be not deceived by him; for he cometh not now in the shape of the dragon, but is a Christian by profession. See cha. 2.7. Mat. 13.9. yet by the former description, he may be known and avoided.

V. 10. into captivity] The two things to be expected from this beast by the people of God, are slavery and death: which calamities, as they inflict upon others, so they shall by others be inflicted on them, Isa. 33.1.

he that killeth, &c.] Gen. 9.6. Matt. 26.52.

here is the patience] Chap. 14.12. Here is the main matter, wherein the patience and faith of Gods servants shall be exercised, 1 Pet. 1.6, 7. Or, here is good ground for patience and faith in Gods servants: to wit, that God will certainly destroy their persecutours, that shed them slaves, and kill their brethren, and seek to destroy them daily. The certain hope of antichrists ruine, should uphold all Gods people that are persecuted by him.

V. 11. another beast] Either the same in another shape, if both be meant of the Pope, as some think, because there is but one beast mentioned, c. 17.8. but here represented by two beasts; the former, in regard of that temporal power, the later, in regard of that spiritual power, he challengeth to himself. Or else the former is the French or Germane Emperour ruling over many kings, and this is the Pope or false prophet, cha. 19.20. One the political beast, the other the ecclesiastical.

coming up] See notes on verf. 1.

out of the earth] From mean beginnings; and spreading for, Gen. 2.9. Or, not coming from heaven, but from hell; as chap. 11.7.

two horns like a lamb] He seemed to be meek. Or, he was a Christian by profession, and called himself Christs vicar.

Spake as a dragon] As he that was represented by the dragon; for dragons cannot speak. He set up idolatry by his command, as the heathen Emperours had done.

V. 12. all the power of the first beast] Took on him civil authority.

before him] In the city of Rome, which was the seat of the Emperour, where he was wont to keep his court.

the earth, &c.] See chap. 12.12. Unless it be taken for the generality, as the world is, verf. 3.

to worship the first beast] To acknowledge a Romane Empire again, after the incursion of the Goths: and to make the Romane city to be accounted holy, that all might flock to it. He doth not at first set up his power, but the Emperours image, which was a thing more seisable; and afterwards weakneth him, to set up himself.

whose deadly wound was healed] See notes on verf. 3.

V. 13. great wonders] Mat. 24.24. 2 Thef. 2.9. Now he sheweth how this second beast worshipped the first; namely, by working miracles; which the first beast could not do, though he had much power given him, v. 2. Yet these were no true miracles, but jugling, whereby he deceived the people, v. 14. ch. 38.23. Lying wonders, 2 Theſſ. 2.11.

so that he] That is, such great ones, that he may seem to be able to do the greatest of all. Like that phrase of removing mountains, Mat. 17.20. Fire from heaven is named, because signes from heaven affect men most, Matt. 16.1. and because the Pope would endeavour to confirm his worship by fire from heaven, as God did his, Lev. 9.24. 1 Kin. 18.38. 2 Chro. 7.1. and be in shew as great a prophet as Elias, 1 Kin. 1.10, 12.

maketh fire come down from heaven] By forcery; for some Popes have been conjurers, & have made some such shews to the people: as Pope Zachary had fiery armies going before him to Ravenna, that he might be thought to be another Elisha, 2 Kin. 6.17. When Pope Steven went into France, to get help of king Pipin, balls of fire were seen running up and down in the air. Such other stories the popish writers have store of, to prove their Pope to be antichrist. Or, he excommunicateth men, as if he did thunder and lighten on them.

in the sight of men] Publikely, to seduce men the more.

V. 14. deceiveth] All is set down in the present tense. He exerciseth, doth wonders, deceiveth; either because John now saw some such thing in the vision, or else because it would be done as surely, as if the Pope were then doing it.

on the earth] See v. 8.

miracles] Look on v. 13.

in the sight of the beast] See on v. 12.

make an image to the beast] Set up a Roman Emperour, that should have nothing to do in Rome, and should be like the former Emperours; in setting up idolatry again.

by the sword] By warlike incursions of barbarous people invading the Empire, v. 3.

and did live] Or, recovered, Isai. 38.21. & 39.1. Though he were mortally wounded, v. 12. yet this beast maketh him live still, that men might think he had life and death in his power.

V. 15. to give life] Gr. breath. He saw, by the raising of the ruines of the Romane Empire, he had prevailed much; and now he maketh these later Emperours act according to his will, that he may raise himself to the image of the beast] For the Germane Cesar was not Romane Emperour, till he was confirmed by the Pope.

speak, &c.] Should make laws, and punish such as did not acknowledge him to be Emperour, or himself to be Christs vicar. Others think it is an allusion to their jugling tricks, making their images to speak, thereby to seduce the people to idolatry.

image of the beast] Before, it was an image made to the beast, to uphold the state of Rome: now, it is the image of the beast. The Pope will have it acknowledged to be so.

should be killed] Now he addeth cruelty to his subtilty, and dealeth by open force, having strengthened the Romane Empire again. So did Nebuchad-nezzar rage, Dan. 3.6, 20.

V. 16. all] All sorts of men, small and great, &c. This sheweth the largeness of his dominion: and also his care, not onely to oblige the great ones to him, that might be most useful to establish his kingdom; but also the meanest: for he knew that mean ones may raise great flames in a state, as a little spark may set on fire an house; and cities are taken often, where men least suspect. So are states ruined.

to receive] Gr. that he may give to them. And by consequence, that they may willingly take it at his hands.

a mark in their right hand] Not that he stamped a visible mark upon them, but obliged them, by some external band, to serve and fight for the sea and state of Rome. To fight for him, as Souldiers were wont to do for their Emperour or General, whose mark they had in their right hand, wherewith they used to fight.

or in their foreheads] To serve him, as servants did their masters; whose they were known openly to be, by wearing their marks on their foreheads.

V. 17. buy or sell] Either civilly, by way of trading; or spiritually, by buying and selling pardons. It had been too cruel to have killed all at first, who refused his authority: therefore he forbiddeth them all trading, without which men cannot live; and so compelleth multitudes to come in to him.

mark] Except he be a sworn servant of the Pope. See v. 16. This maketh the full and proper subjects of that Kingdom, and therefore caused all he could to receive this mark, v. 16. and they are threatned with damnation, who receive it, chap. 14.9, 11. Neither of these is spoken of those who received the name, or the number.

or the name of the beast] Or, were a papist in religion. By the beast here is meant, the first beast. The Romane state or Emperours, whom the Pope made men to serve, and whose authority he used, till he could raise himself to his height, v. 1, 2. ch. 16.2.

or the number of his name] Or, were esteemed so to be, and numbred among such.

V. 18. Here is wisdom] It is a hard thing to finde out this mark or name.

for it is the number of a man] It is not only known to me by Revelation, but also may be found out by humane wisdom, Let wise men therefore seek to finde it out.

and his number] It is to be found in the numbers of the Greek letters of his general name: for mens names in Greek, contained numbers in the letters. They had not other figures, as we have, but counted by letters.

Six hundred threescore and six] S. John would not plainly set down the name, left he should make the Romane Emperours offended with the Christians; as S. Paul doth not name him that letteth, 2 Thef. 2. 6, 7. yet such plain tokens are set down by both, that he, and antichrist his upholder, might be known when he cometh. The truth is, this is the name of the beast, not of antichrist; and so a national name, describing that state where antichrist should rise and reign: and therefore though it is like to be comprehended in Greek letters, in which language John wrote; yet it is not likely to be a Greek word originally, Irenæus, and the anciens, take it for the word Lateinos, which, in ly. Irenæus, and the anciens, take it for the word Lateinos, which, in Greek letters, maketh six hundred sixty & six: shewing that antichrist should be a Romane, or one of the Latine Church. Others suppose his power should begin in the yeer of Christ six hundred sixty and six. Others, that it should last so many yeers in the height of it.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſ. 1. I Looked] See chap. 5.11.

and lo] Or, behold. A note of some great matter ensuing, Matt. 1.23. Isai. 7.14.

a Lamb] Christ, the true Lamb, ch. 13.8. Joh. 1.29. 1 Pet. 1.19. the Son of God the Father, appeareth in this verse; opposeth the counterfeit lamb, ch. 13.11. See ch. 5.6.

stood] He himself appeareth to John now in a vision, on a mountain like mount Sion. But the thing intended is, that he appeared in his Ministers publikely serving God.

on mount Sion] A type of the Church, Psal. 48.2. Isa. 33.20. wherein Christ in his ordinances appeared as in a city on an hil, Mat. 5.14. more conspicuously than before, after the long hidden estate of his Church persecuted by the Pope.

an hundred fourty and four thousand] See chap. 7.4.

having his Fathers name written in their foreheads] The mark on their foreheads, the name of God, not mentioned Chap. 7. is here expressed: implying, that they did now in a more open and publick manner profess themselves his true servants, and were as manifestly known known so to be, as if it had been written on their foreheads; alluding withal to such marks as servants used to have. See chap. 13.16, 17. It is called, The name of his God. See chap. 3.12.

V. 2. a voice from heaven] Out of the now visible Church of God, chap. 4.2, &c.

as the voyce of many waters] Of many people now acknowledging the true Religion, chap. 1.15. & 17.15. & 19.6.

of a great thunder] Chap. 6.1. A loud and open profession of the truth, that the world might take notice of it.

of harpers] A sweet and pleasant thanksgiving, delightful to God and good men. An allusion to the sweet melody in the Temple at Hierusalem, 1 Chr. 25.1. Psal. 43.3.4.

V. 3. as it were, &c.] Such an one as John had not heard before, among all the heavenly voyces in this Revelation.

a new song] They gave praise to God for their new deliverance from Popish persecution, and the freedom they had by the favour of Christian Magistrates, to profess the Christian Religion openly. This sheweth that this must not be understood of the persecuted Church in the wilderness, as some would have it; for the state thereof afforded not matter for this new song, Psa. 137.3, 4. neither is the Church in that state called heaven, but when it is visible, ch. 11.7. It is meant then of the Churches breaking out again, when the witnesses were taken up into heaven, that is, into a free visible Church, ch. 11.12. This then is another new song different from that, ch. 5.9. for that was in praise of Christ. For opening the seals, see notes there.

before the throne, &c.] Before God, his Ministers and people in the congregation, ch. 4.2, 4, 6. Psal. 107.32.

no man could learn that song] Not that any else went about to learn it; but none of the idolatrous Papists had that cause, or could tell how to praise God for this favour: for they were left in darkness.

redeemed from the earth] Bought by the Blood of Christ, and brought out of Popery, 1 Cor. 6.20. & 7.23. 1 Pet. 1.18. from antichrists earthly Church, ch. 12.12.

V. 4. not defiled with women] Not polluted with Popish false doctrine and idolatry, which is spiritual fornication, 2 Cor. 11.2. Ephe. 5.27. Ezek. 15.16. ch. 18.3. An allusion to the Israelites, of whom many were entised to idolatry by the Midianitish women, but many were kept from it, Num. 25. Others understand all this of the Waldenses, and such as served God purely in all the time of Popery; because it is said, They were not defiled. Their remainders are now found in the visible Church.

follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth] Seek Christ in his ordinances, though with peril and loss, having forsaken communion with the Popish Church. And not following antichrist for their head and guide, as others still, but Christ onely.

redeemed] Gr. bought. See verf. 3.

from among men] 1 Cor. 3.3. This expoundeth the former verse. The earth, then signifieth, there are men of an earthly state, out of whom Christ took his, and from whose society he yet calleth them, chap. 18.4.

the first fruits] First converted, or openly making the first profession of the reformed Religion, ch. 5.9. & 20.5. An allusion to the first fruits in the Law, Deut. 18.4. Prov. 3.9. Jam. 1.18. They were paid to the Priests, as Gods due. All the world is the heap; the elect are God's and Christ's, in a peculiar manner.

unto the Lamb] This is more than to follow the Lamb; for it sheweth a peculiar right he hath in them.

V. 5. no guile] Psal. 32.2. Joh. 1.47. They were true in all their sayings. Or, in word they professed the true Religion, which they believed in their hearts.

without fault] Because Christ hath redeemed, and paid the price of their sins, with his Blood, Ephe. 6.26, 27. Or, free from Romish idolatry (to which they could not be drawn by all the Popes power and threatnings) and worshipping God aright, and obeying all his commandments, to the uttermost of their strength, Luke 1.6.

before the throne of God] Men may condemn them; but God, who knoweth their hearts, and accepteth of them in Christ, will acquit them. Or, they are blameless, not onely before men, whose judgment is subject to error; but even before God himself, as sincere, that is, true and faithful subjects to God, Gen. 17.1. Isa. 38.3.

V. 6. another angel] Different from them that blew the trumpets, or from him who shewed him these things, ch. 1.1. or from him, ch. 8.13. who threatned woes to the earth.

flie] Making haste to publish his message thorow the world. A type of the Ministery of those times. And indeed, it passed from place to place very swiftly at first. So that this intimateth the free and speedy passage of the Gospel from place, by their Ministery.

in the midst of heaven] So that he could not be hindered from preaching, by any humane opposition. Or from whence he might be more conspicuously seen, and his voyce most clearly heard on either side; as the light of the Sun most brightly diffuseth self into all parts of the hemisphere, when it is about the meridian. See ch. 8.13. This angel some take to be Wickliff and his fellows: others, to be Luther and his assistants. Such are called Angels, ch. 1.20. & 2.1.

having the everlasting Gospel] For to the Ministers is this word of reconciliation committed, 2 Cor. 5.19. as to the faithful stewards, to dispense to others, 1 Cor. 4.1, 2. And it is called eternal, first, Because it teacheth men not to fear antichrists spoyling of goods or life, seeing it holdeth out eternal happiness unto them, Heb. 10.34. Secondly, Because the sum of it was from the beginning (and therefore it is not a new doctrine, as the Papists call it) and it shall be preached openly to the end of the world, in despight of all oppostion, ch. 11.15. for the witnesses shall be more slain. Thirdly, Because it shall not be disannulled as the legal covenant was.

unto them that dwell on the earth] To earthly-minded men, to call them off from earthly, to seek heavenly things, Col. 3.1. Such secure ones are thus described, Luke 21.34, 35. Or, to all the inhabitants of the earth, so that every nation shall hear of it; as followeth in this verse. So this phrase is used, ch. 5.9 & 7.9.

V. 7. with a loud voyce] To shew the weight of the message, and that all might hear, Chap. 8.13.

Fear God] Worship the true God, and do not worship images any more, as ye have done. Or, fear not antichrist any more, who can but kill your bodies; but fear God, who can destroy your souls esse, Luke 12.4, 5. He exhorteth them to that which hath been neglected, and the contrary done: For men had not feared God, but men; nor honoured his grace, but mens merits; nor worshipped him, but stocks, stones, &c. ch. 9.20. At first, the Ministers spake not so plainly and fully against Babylon, as after, verf. 8. but did undermine antichrists kingdom, by preaching the true knowledge and worship of God; too much before neglected and corrupted.

the hour of his judgment] He will not bear with your idolatry now, as he did in the times of ignorance, Act. 17.30.

and worship him] Psal. 146.5, 6. Act. 14.15.

heaven and earth, &c.] Which none else could make; much less your Images. He nameth four principal works of God, to draw men to know and worship him aright: First, the heaven; famous for breadth, light, motion, influence. Secondly, the earth; unmoveable since the beginning, and very profitable to men. Thirdly, the sea; of huge compass, and great use for filling and navigation. Fourthly, the fountains; which run always for the use of the living creature, as types of Gods eternity and bounty.

V. 8. another angel] Other Ministers. Some take it for the Bohemians: others, for such after Luther, who more clearly spake of Romes destruction.

Babylon is fallen] Isa. 21.9. Jer. 51.8 ch. 18.2. These saw the Popes kingdom shaken, by the Ministery of such as went before them, & now declare boldly, that God hath laid the foundation of the destruction of it, and will as surely destroy it shortly, as if it were now down.

wine of the wrath of her fornication] Or, of the poisoned wine of her fornication, ch. 17.2. For the Hebrew word to the which the Greek here answereth, signifieth poison, as well as wrath. As whores give spiced or enchanted cups to their lovers, to make them commit fornication with them; so did Rome, by subtil enticements, draw a great part of the world to her idolatry, which is often in Scripture compared to fornication; as Jer. 3. Ezek. 16. divers times. Or, the made God angry with them, as well as with her self, by drawing them to the same idolatry. Or, because when God is angry, and goeth to punish wicked men, he is said to have a cup in his hand of poisoned wine, to give every one his part according to his merit, that men might know these judgements came from him, and not by chance, Job 21.20. Psal. 75.8. Isa. 51.17. Jer. 25.15. & 49.12, 13. & 51.7, 8. So Babylon and her followers shall also drink their share, according to their desers. See verf. 10. An allusion to such nations as used to kill malefactours with poisoned cups.

V. 9. third angel] Other Ministers after them, Martin Luther and his fellow-labourers, as some think; or later preachers, as others.

worship the beast] The Pope, who is antichrist. See ch. 13.11.

and his image] And follow the Germane Emperours, or other Princes, whom he made, as an image of the heathen Empire of Rome, (ch. 13.15.) to uphold his idolatries and superstitions.

receive his mark, &c.] See notes on cha. 13.16. The first Angel did preach the true worship of God, we lingh lost: the second foretelleth the fall of Babylon: the third warneth men to come out of her, before it come; seeking to draw men out of the fire, Jude verf. 23.

V. 10. the same] Not onely the Pope himself, but all his obstinate followers also, and sworn servants. Or, as he hath taken the beasts mark, so he shall perish with him for company.

of the wine of the wrath of God] Of Gods severe judgement in the destruction of Babylon. See verf. 8. Psal. 75.8. Jer. 25.15. Or, of Gods poisoned wine; that is, of the wine that God giveth them to make them mad; as Psal. 60.3. which is poured by God into the cup of his wrath, for them to drink, whom God will be avenged on, as verf. 8.

without mixture] Not allayed with the water of mercy at all, Jam. 2.13.

with fire and brimstone] In hell-fire for ever, besides the heavy judgements he may endure at the fall of Rome, ch. 9.18. & 19.20. An allusion to the destruction of Sodom, Gen. 19.24.

in the presence of the Angels, &c.] Publickly, before Christ and his Angels. An allusion to Sodomes destruction again, wherein Christ and his Angels were employed. They that bear antichrists mark before men, shall be forsaken of, and tormented before Christ and his Angels, that their torment may be the greater, Mark 8.38. Luke 9.26.

V. 11.

V. 11. the smoke of their torment] Of the fire tormenting them. Their torment shall have no end; as we know the fire goeth not out while we see the smoke, Isa. 34. 10.

no rest] No intermission, because of the greatnesse of their everlasting pains. Here are some intermissions in the sufferings of Gods people, though they be heavy for the time: but there shall be none in these pains of the idolaters.

day nor night] Though they have a perpetual night in hell, as a perpetual day in heaven: yet he speaketh after the manner of men here on earth, meaning, They never have one minute of rest. See ch. 7. 15. Here, the light of the day, and society of friends, may somewhat allay those pains that are terrible in the night; and sleep in the night may make us forget the labours of the day: but these torments nothing can allwage.

who we shp the beast, &c.] See verf. 9.

V. 12. Here is the patience] See chap. 13. 10. Or, here is the vengeance that shall be executed on their enemies, who patiently endure death for obedience to God, and holding fast the true Religion, against the Papists. Or, now shall the patience and obedience of Gods servants be made known to the world. It shall appear who are true, and who are counterfeit Christians. By antichrists fierce persecution, the chaff shall be separated from the wheat; and the dross from the gold. Or, after the Gospel preached, and the Pope declared to be antichrist, there shall be greater persecutions than before, and the patience of Gods servants more tryed; as appeareth in the persecutions and wars since the Waldenses and Luthers time. The Pope, like the devil, rageth, because his time is short, ch. 12. 12.

V. 13. And I heard, &c.] Because in the former verse he had spoken of many troubles yet to come, to try the patience of Gods people; here he bringeth in a voyce from heaven, and commanded to be written, to assure them, that the greatest evil antichrist could bring on them, was a speedy way to happiness. And this consolation was needful, lest they should think the primitive Martyrs happy, who were put to death by heathen persecutors: but themselves unhappy, who were to be condemned by Christians, for hereticks.

in the Lord] As members of Christ, & in the faith of Christ; as Rom. 16. 7, 11. 1 Cor. 15. 18. 1 Thes. 4. 16. Heb. 11. 13. Or, for the Lord. So some interpret this phrase, Rom. 16. 2, 8, 12. And the Hebrew particle answering to the Greek one here, is often so used.

from henceforth : yea, saith the Spirit] Or, from henceforth saith the Spirit: yea. Though antichrist must down, yet it will cost so much blood ere it be done, that they are happy that dyed or shall dye before, in the fear of God. Or, we may think that your persecutions are all past, because the Gospel is openly preached again: but antichrist, being now revealed, is more mad than before, & ye shall find more trouble than formerly; so that ye shall count the dead happy, Eeclet. 4. 2, 3.

may rest from their labours] From the troubles that are to come, or by dying before. Or, from their labours endured here.

their works follow them] The reward of their works, 1 Cor. 15. 58.

V. 14. I looked] See chap. 8. 13.

and behold, &c.] Before, God wrought by the word, sending forth his three angels to preach, v. 6, &c. Now, he taketh the sword, and beginneth by deeds to pull down antichrists kingdome. Which action is set out by two similitudes; one, of an harvest, v. 15, the other, of a vintage, v. 18. for in these, men use to cut down all the fruits.

a white cloud] A sign of great glory.

like unto the Son of man] Or, like unto a Son of man, Ch. 1. 13. Some glorious Angel, v. 15. like a man; for he is set on work by another Angel, v. 15. and an Angel gathereth the grapes, v. 19. which is all one judgment with this. See notes on ch. 10. 1.

a golden crown] For Majesty. Such Kings wear. It sheweth also that he should get a glorious victory over antichrist.

a sharp sicle] To do swift execution.

in his hand] That is, in his right hand, for with it men use to reap. He was both able and ready to execute what should be committed to him, as harvest-men with their sicles in their hands, (which were the usual instruments of cutting down the corn, Deu. 16. 9. & 23. 25. and are still) are to cut down the corn. This Angel may be a type of some great and glorious Prince or Princes that should begin to execute Gods wrath on the Pope. Many such were in Germany in Luthers time.

V. 15. another angel] Differing from the three former, and from him that sate on the cloud.

out of the temple] Out of the Church of God now opened (ch. 11. 19.) as the other angel did, v. 17. Representing the Ministers of those times, who should call on the Princes to be Gods executioners, as Bayles, who summon the harvest-men to work, but reap not with their own hands.

crying with a loud voyce] Shewing his great desire to have the thing done, and that all men might hear, and further the work. See verf. 7.

Thrust in thy sicle] Joel 3. 13. Go about the work of destroying antichrist and his upholders.

for the time] Gr. the hour. The time appointed by God: and therefore the business will succeed well now, that would not before.

is come] As might appear by signes, or by divine incitation to the work.

for thee to reap] Wherein God calleth thee to do it, and therefore will prosper the work in thine hands.

the harvest] Antichrists followers are fit for vengeance, Jer. 51. 33. of the earth] Of the false Church, or antichristian state; ch. 13. 12.

is ripe] Or, dryed. The Idolaters sins are full, & ready for judgment, Gen. 15. 16. Jer. 51. 33. Isa. 17. 5. Or, withered; as this word is used, Mat. 13. 6. An allusion to hay, which, when it is withered, is good for nothing, but must be cut down; sicle it will be spoyled it felt, and hurt the ground. So would these wicked ones grow stark naught, and hurt others, if they were not quickly destroyed. See the like, Psal. 129. 6.

V. 16. thrust in his sicle] He did as he was commanded, and God prospered it accordingly.

the earth was reaped] Antichrist and his followers were destroyed.

V. 17. another Angel] Now the vintage followeth after the harvest, as is useth to do.

out of the temple] Figuring some Ministers of note, that shall assist the Princes in destroying antichrist, and reforming Religion.

a sharp sicle] For they used not then to gather grapes with the hand, as we do; but to cut them off with an hook or sicle, for expedition, Isa. 18. 5. And so did some of the heathen.

V. 18. out from the altar, which had power over fire] It may be that Angel spoken of, ch. 8. 5. who stood at the altar of incense, and took fire from the altar of burnt-offering, and cast it on the earth, from whence followed the judgments these ensuing. And in that respect he might be said to have power over fire. Or at least, it may be an allusion to that story, and may represent such, as by their fervent prayers could prevail with God to bring his judgments on antichrist and his followers, and as it were command Ministers and Rulers to go about it, stirring them up with the slaughter of those Martyrs, which lay under the altar, ch. 6. 9. Or, this angel is said to have power over fire; that is, to restrain the fire of contentions (Judg. 9. 20.) from among Protestant Princes, that they maight joyntly fight against the Pope.

gather the clusters] The vine, is the Popish Church: gathering, is taking away: the clusters of grapes, are the multitude of the members of that Church. So destruction of the wicked is set out by a vintage, as well as by an harvest, ch. 19. 15. Isa. 63. 1, 2, 3.

fully ripe] See notes on verf. 15.

V. 19. gathered the vine] Destroyed the Popes dominions, and slew those that were guilty of the blood of Gods Saints. Some understand, by the harvest, the destruction of Rome; and by the vintage, the utter ruine of Popery afterwards; as the vintage followeth the harvest.

cast into] An allusion to the usual manner of vintages, where they had always a wine-press ready to tread their grapes in, as soon as they were gathered, before the moisture was dried or drop'd out of them, Isa. 5. 2.

great wine-press] This sheweth, that this was a greater judgment than the former; as great wine-presses have more grapes troden in them, than lesser ones. This appeareth also by many former circumstances. He that cut down in the harvest, came from the clouds, v. 14. He that cutteth in the vintage, cometh out from the temple in heaven, v. 17. The encourager of the former came out of the temple, v. 15 of the later, out of the altar, v. 18. and is said to have power over fire. The former cryeth with a loud voice, v. 15. the later, with a loud cry, v. 18 The former is bid to thrust in his sicle, v. 15. the later, his sharp sicle, v. 18. The former, to reap, v. 15 the later more fully, to gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, v. 18. The former is told, The harvest is ripe, v. 15. the later, that the grapes are fully ripe, v. 18. The former reapeth the earth, v. 16. and taketh no care of threshing: the later casteth the grapes into the great wine-press of Gods wrath, verf. 19. So that the judgment here intended must needs be greater, unless it be the same set out by two similitudes, as the famine of Egypt was, Gen. 41. 1, &c. And then the latter is added here, to set out the judgment the more fully, or to shew the certainty of it, as Gen. 41. 32.

V. 20. And the wine-press was troden] The similitude is prosecuted. When grapes are gathered, they are cast into the wine-press, and then trodden, Judg. 9. 27. and the juyce of them runneth out, Neh. 13. 15. Isa. 63. 3, 4. This setteth out the fierce execution of Gods wrath upon sinners, Lam. 1. 15. and upon antichrist and his, ch. 19. 13, 15.

without the city] They used to tread the wine-presses out of the city, because it was a foul and troublesom work, and the grapes might be hurt, and time lost, in carrying them from the place they grew in. See notes on verf. 19. Without the Church, the city of God, as some interpret it: so that God provideth for the safety of his Church, while her enemies are in destroying. But as others say, the great battel shall be, not in the city of Rome, but in the territory thereunto belonging.

and blood came out of the wine-press] It is true, that wine is called, The blood of the grape, Gen. 49. 11. Deut. 32. 14. But here the holy Ghost seemeth rather to pass suddenly from the type, to the thing it self thereby typified; from the wine-press to the war, where horses are used, though not used in the other; and so giveth us light for exposition. So he doth, Amos 9. 13, 12. from Davids tabernacle that is fallen, to the remnant of Edom, and the heathen: and Hab. 1. 17. from catching fish in their net, to slaying the nations.

to the horse bridles] He alludeth to those that in war pursue the enemies flight, to do execution; or to conquerours, who use to go forth, after the battel, to see the dead carcases of their enemies, Isa. 66. 24. & to take the spoil: which they do with much difficulty, when the field is is covered with the blood of the slain, so that they are forced to ride, and the horses well-nigh to swim. The meaning is; the blood of slain men should be like a deep river running over the banks; so great shall the slaughter of the antichristians be, ch. 16. 14. & 19. 13, 18.

a thousand and six hundred furlongs] As the wine runneth out of the wine-press, so the blood of the slain shall now flow a great length and breadth and depth. An allusion to the destruction of Jerusalem, wherin the blood is imagined to run over all the land of Canaan, supposed to be about that compass of ground 1 and signifying, that blood shall be found plentifully running in all the Popes territory, or patrimony of the Church, which is esteemed by some to be about that proportion of ground.

CHAP. XV.

V. 1. A Nother signe] Differing from that, chap. 12. 1. and foretelling different things; as appeareth, because it is called another, and a marvellous one. Therefore the former victory over antichrist, Chap. 14. and this song, must either have respect to something done at the beginning of reformation, or be a general description of this 1st overthrow, by way of anticipation, which is more particularly described in the vials following. And it is called a signe, to shew, that it came not accidentally, though it was a strange light; but was sent of God, to signifie things to come.

in heaven] Ch. 12. 1. In the Church, grown more visible and glorious. As God did roar from Sion, Amos 1. 2. when he foretold the destruction of the nations: so here, out of the Church, come the vials of Gods wrath, to be poured forth on antichrist.

great and marvellous] In regard of the great changes and things it would bring to pass; or in comparison of the former. In these respects the whole Church confesseth it to be so, v. 3.

seven angels] So are the publishers of Gods will, representing the executioners thereof, called before, ch. 8. 7, 8, 10, 12. & 9. 1, 14. & 11. 15.

the seven last plagues] Of whom they had these: and what they were, see v. 7. They are called, The last plagues, for the reason following; because Gods wrath is filled up by them, and fo the thing done, which God had decreed, on the antichristian state, ch. 10. 7. & 16. 17. They are the last that God will pour on antichrist: and the Church and world shall have happier days after.

V. 2. a sea of glasse mingled with fire] Some take it for a type of their innumerable persecutions they had suffered. Others, for the crystalline and pure doctrine of Gods word, ch. 4. 6. mingled with much zeal against Papists; or, many contentions among themselves, as appeared in the controverfies about the Sacrament; yet might the truth be seen still sufficiently to salvation, Luk. 12. 49. Others, for the signes of Gods wrath, whereby their foes were destroyed.

That had gotten the victory] Such as had escaped the Popes rage, and had helped to pull down his kingdom.

over the beast] ch. 13. 11.

over his mark, &c.] ch. 13. 16, 17.

on the sea of glasse] Trampling under feet their former persecutions. Or, upheld by the doctrine of Gods word, notwithstanding their differences among themselves, and quarrels with their adversaries. Or, treading on their wicked adversaries, who are compared to a sea, by reason of unquietness, Isa. 57. 20, 21. And that of glasse, because God seeth all their wickednes, Heb. 4. 13. And is said to be mingled with fire, because they shall be destroyed with fire, ch. 16. 8. Or, stand on the pavement before Gods throne, ch. 4. 6. worshipping God openly in his visible Church. Or, Stand at the sea of glasse. So the particle is used, Luk. 12. 6. 30, 40. As the Israelites stood at the Red-Sea, and praised God for their deliverance, Exod. 14. 30. & 15. 1. So these at the glassie sea of fire.

harps of God] Excellent ones; as Gen. 23. 6. Heb. a prince of God; Psal. 36. 6. Heb. mountains of God. Or, harps to praise God with, ch. 5. 8. & 14. 2. when they see their foes destroyed, Psal. 58. 10, 11. Or, harps given of God. Having their hearts cleared by Gods Spirit, and well tuned to praise God for so great a victory; as appeareth by their sweet musick of praise, v. 3. 4.

V. 3. the song of Moses] Such an one as Moses sung to the praise of God, for delivering Israel, and destroying the Egyptians, Exo. 15. 1. For God sheweth his power now as much, in freeing his people from antichrists yoke.

the servant of God] In a peculiar manner, by office, Deut. 34. 5. See Chap. 1. 1. and the song of the Lamb] Ch. 14. 1, 3. Or, taught them more fully by the Lamb; as they had the pattern from Moses in part. Some take this which followeth, v. 3, 4. to be the song taught by the Lamb, and that Moses his song is not set down, because it was recorded before in Scripture.

great and marvellous] Psa. 111. 2. & 139. 4. Gods works are said to be so here, because he had so long suffered antichrists cruelty, and so strangely destroyed him at the last.

Almighty] A fit title: for he had shewed his almighty power, in overthrowing so great force, and punishing so many enemies, ch. 1. 4, 8.

just and true are thy ways] Psal. 145. 17. Just, because thou hast punished antichrist; and true, because thou hast performed thy promise to thy people. By Gods ways, is meant his constant works. A similitude taken from a traveller.

King of saints] As those over whom he ruleth in a more special and gracious manner, by his word and spirit, Psal. 110. 23.

V. 4. who shall not fear thee?] Jer. 10. 7. Every one shall do it. Or, who should not (or would not) fear thee? Thou hast given cause to all men to do it. By fear, is meant fear of reverence, and Religious worship; as it followeth, and glorifie thy Name; Chap. 14. 7.

for] Or, saying, that. Thus they teach posterity, why, and how to praise God. See the like, Psal. 106. 1. & 107. 1. and 136. all over: 2 Chr. 5. 13. And so the Jews use it in their liturgy. See also, 1 Chr. 16. 41. Matt. 7. 23. In all these places it may fitly be so translated: and so it is full in the Greek, Luk. 19. 42. Saying, that if, &c.

thou only art holy] Of thy self, and infinitely, 1 Sam. 2. 2. and hast shewed thy self so to be, by destroying the unholy, & freeing the holy.

all nations [shall come] Thou art now sending forth thy forces to destroy antichrist, and then thou shalt be rightly worshipped in all the world, Isa. 66. 23, 24. Although, while antichrist reigned, there was scarce any hope of any such thing left in the world: yet, when he is destroyed, all that are left of those that are not adhered to him, shall publikely worship thee accordingly to thy word, Chap. 11. 13. & 20. 5. None shall then refuse to fall down to thee. They that knew thee not before, shall be converted.

before thee] In the places of thy publ. ke worship, Psal. 42. 2.

thy judgements are made manifest] There is no man but seeth how justly thou hast proceeded, and that, though thy judgements on them are great, yet are they no greater than they have deserved. This thou hast shewed, in freeing us from the power of antichrist already: and it shall be made more manifest, when thou destroyest him and his adherents. For thy judgements past, are an argume t to us, to look for fuller declaration of thy justice in time to come: and every man may see what thou wilt do, by what thou hast done.

V. 5. the temple of the tabernacle] That is, the innermost part of the tabernacle, called The holy of holiest, and The most holy place; which tabernacle is termed, The tabernacle of the testimony, Num. 1. 50. & 17. 7. in regard of the two tables of stone, so called, Exod. 25. 21. because in them was written the law of God, the testimony of his will, Exod. 34. 28. Psal. 19. 7. & 119. 14, 22. which tables were put in the ark, Deut. 10. 5. 1 Kin. 8. 5. and that ark placed in the innermost part of the tabernacle or temple, 1 Kin. 8. 6. Heb. 9. 3, 4. The temple was so open, that men might see into it out of the court now, which in the old Testament they could not. See the meaning, ch. 11. 19.

V. 6. seven angels, &c.] John saw them, verf. 1. but now he seeth them coming out of the temple, to execute their charge.

out of the temple] See Chap. 14. 15. Out of the Sanctum sanctorum, where the ark was, v. 5. It may import, that these were the last plagues, because they lay hid in the fecretest closet of Gods sanctuary, till the rest were finished. Here is still a gradation of judgements. The Angels that blow the trumpers are in heaven, ch. 8. 1, 6. The reapers, and the encouragers, came out of the clouds, and the temple, and from the altar, ch. 14. 14, 15, 17, 18. But these with the vials come out of the most holy place, Gods closet, and secret armory. They came also by command from God; for from the oracle did God use to answer Moses, Exo. 25. 22. Num. 7. 89. & 17. 4. So God stirred up men extraordinarily, to help pull down antichrists kingdom. See ch. 16. 1.

having the seven plagues] See notes on v. 1.

pure and white linnen, &c.] Very glorious. An allusion to the high priests garments (who onely went into the most holy place) both for the linnen and girdle. See Exo. 28. 6, 8. They are clad like conquerours. See ch. 19. 14.

their breits girded with golden girdles] They were ready girt, to go about their work, Exo. 12. 11. 1 King. 18. 46. Luk. 12. 35. And with golden girdles, to shew their royal dignity, ch. 1. 13. Some great Religious princes they seem to set out, who must successively weaken the Popes kingdom, till it be quite destroyed.

V. 7. one of the four beasts] Or, living wights, ch. 4. 6. The Ministers. See why, ch. 14. 15. It may be taken for the first, as ch. 6. 1. Or, any one of them, because the rest are not named after, as in chap. 6. The meaning is, that in every age after the Reformation, God will raise up, as some eminent princes to fight against antichrist; so also some famous Ministers to incite and encourage them thereunto.

seven golden vials, &c.] Each of them one vial full of the liquor of Gods wrath, to be poured on idolaters. Vials are cups wherein men used to drink, Psal. 75. 8. Jer. 25. 15. First were the seven seals, which were tokens of judgements to come on the world, if they repented not. Then the trumpets, thundering out greater troubles. Lastly, the vials, which come without noise, because they come not to warn, but to destroy the antichristians, as fire and brimstone was poured down on Sodom and Gomorra, Gen. 19. They are golden, in allusion to the vessels of the sanctuary, Exo. 25. 29. & 37. 16. Jer. 52. 19. Here by is shewed, that Gods wrath is like gold, pure, and free from the dregs of passion; and also that God will get himself much glory by these judgements: For gold is the most pure and glistering metal.

full of the wrath of God] Not that God is angry with them; but by that which is contained in them, executeth his wrath on his foes: see how, ch.14.8,10. They contained many and great punishments in them.

who liveth for ever and ever] Ch.5.14. & 10.6. And therefore can punish them, not here only, but also for ever in hell.

V. 8. the temple was filled with smoke, &c.] Smoke is used sometimes, to set out Gods powerful and terrible presence; as Exo. 19.18. especially when he cometh in anger, to destroy the enemies of his Church, that he may shew mercy to his people, in delivering them, Psa.18.7, 8,14,15,16,17. Isa.6.4,11. So here, God would shew his terrible and powerful presence in his temple, by manifest arguments of his wrath against the enemies of his Church, in sending some thence continually to plague the Antichristian church, from the time of the Churches reformation, till Antichrists final destruction.

no man was able, &c.] God was so angry with the Papists, that no man durst come to intercede for them; but he went on in wrath, till he had rooted that Religion out of the earth.

CHAP. XVI.

Vers.1. A Great voice] Signifying the work to be important, and to be done with great care.

out of the temple] Ch.14.15. It sheweth also the work to be holy and just. It seemeth to be Gods voice. See ch.15.6,7. and the rather, because the voice is said to be heard, but no visible form of the speaker is shewed, Deut.4.12,33.

to the seven angels] Signifying the instruments ready to execute these judgements, as the angels were ready to pour out the vials, and waited only for a sign.

Go your ways] It is time for you now to pour out those plagues upon the earth which are committed to you. They must go out of the Church, into antichrists dominions, to afflict them.

pour out the vials] To the bottom. Leave nothing in. Execute Gods wrath to the full, as far as each of your commissions go.

vials of the wrath] Ch.15.7. These vials were for the destruction of Popish Rome, as the seals were for the overthrow of the heathen Romane Empire. There is a great agreement between the trumpets, that weakened the Christian Roman Empire, and these vials, that shall ruine the Popish Church. The evil of the first trumpet and vial lighteth on the earth; the second, on the sea, &c. The one sheweth, that the Popish Church shall be destroyed, as sure as the heathen Empire was: the other, that it shall be destroyed by such like judgements as the heathen Empire was weakned.

wrath of God] Yet God may be the speaker, though he speak of himself, in the third person; as he doth, Exo.20.7.

upon the earth] Upon the antichristian church and state, as appeareth, v.2. This is like to be the sense here, because some of the vials were poured on the sea, and on the sun, vers.3,8. not all on the earth literally taken.

V.2. the first went] Gr went forth. They did not all pour
The first vial. out their vials at once, to shew, that this desolation should come by degrees, not all at once. The Angels that sounded the trumpets, stood before God and sounded, chap.8.2,7. these go forth to do it: which sheweth, that these are types of those princes that must destroy antichrists kingdom by degrees.

poured out his vial] Left nothing in it. This sheweth the greatness of the judgment, and his fidelity, in doing as he was commanded, vers.1.

upon the earth] Upon the common people, the Popes foot-stool. So it is to be taken here, because the other vials were to be poured on the earth also; if it be taken for Antichrists whole kingdom, as it is, v.1.

noisom and grievous sore] Gr. evil and wicked. Evil is put for noisom, or offensive to others, 2 Sam.11.27. 1 Chron.21.7. Wicked, for troublesom to a mans self, Eccl.1.13. Sore travel: Heb. evil thing. So Eccl.4.8. And on the contrary, good is put for, pleasing to others, Gen.1.31. to our selves, Psal.4.6,7. & 34.12. & 106.5. Now because the place of the body is not noted, it may be supposed these sores in the type went all over the body, as Jobs did, Job 2.7. And the like is threatned, Deut.28.27,35. This must needs be noisom to others, and troublesom to themselves. Some take it for the rage of the common people, who went to fight against the Waldenses; for they were the Popes marked souldiers. Others, for the Neapolitan disease that came upon his warriours, one thousand four hundred ninety and four. Others, for the envy of the idolaters against the Gospel, and the preachers and professours of it, when Luther first began to preach. It made them like the Egyptians, that not onely could not abide to have their bodies touched, but also not to endure the company of others, Exod.9.10,11.

upon the men] Like boils; that as they afflict within, so they appear without, and stink when they break: so did their envy. Thus were the Papists vexed, when the Protestant Religion was publikely professed. Men that knew no grounds of Religion, nor knew no cause of quarrel against them, would bring sagots to burn them; as appeareth in the book of Martyrs.

mark] Chap.13.16.

which worshipped his image] Chap.13.15.

V.3. upon the sea] See chap.8.8. Hereby is meant the
The second vial. Popes Jurisdiction which kept many provinces in subjection to him, as the sea doth begirt the land, it became] A greater defection than before. The third part onely was blood, ch.8.8.

as the blood of a dead man] Exod.7.17. As the putrified blood of a dead carcase, which is so loathsom, that no man can drink it. Or, as if it were made all over red with the blood of many men slain.

every living soul died in the sea] Whole provinces and kingdoms cast off the Popes jurisdiction; because it was so corrupt, they could not live any longer in it. So it came to pass in Luthers time, before his death.

V.4. rivers and fountains of waters] Popish Magistrates, and Ministers employed to uphold their church, who came The third vial.

V.5. angel of the waters] That had power given him to turn the sea into blood, v.3. Or, him on whose vial poured out, the rivers and fountains were turned into blood, v.4. Like the Angel of the fire, ch.14.18.

judged] Punished; as Gen.15.14.

V.6. And thou hast given them blood to drink] They were adjudged to death, as they had judged others. So the laws are against Priests in England; and they have for their ill lives been put to death by the secular power, in some Popish countreys.

V.7. another] Differing from him, ch.9.13. or from him, ch.14.18. or from him that spake out of the temple, v.1. of this chapter. Or, one confirming the words of the Angel, the incense at the golden altar, chap.8.34.

to scorch] Much fire and war have been in their territories of late: more may be.

V.9. scorched] Or, burned. They were enraged with rancour and malice, as with a burning fire.

blasphemed the Name of God] As the beast doth, ch.13.6. which hath power over these plagues. Either he sheweth the cause why they blasphemed God, to wit, Because he did inflict these plagues on them; or, did not keep them off: Or else he sheweth their madness, that made their plagues greater, by resisting him that could have removed them, if they had submitted to him, and interceded his help, Isa.8.21.

to give glory to God] See chap.11.13.

repented not] See chap.9.20,21.

full of darkness, &c.] Though his city be destroyed, yet not his Kingdom totally: that shall be much obscured, when his throne is gone. The Pope then must live somewhere else, when Rome is destroyed, (as once he did at Avignion) before his Kingdom be quite overthrown: and his followers shall be in great agony, like those that bite their tongues for grief and anger, ready, at the next encrease of pain, to devour or destroy themselves. Or, it may be meant, They shall eat their words, and be ashamed of their railings upon Gods saints, though they leave not their idolatry, v.11.

V.11. blasphemed the God of heaven] Spake ill of him, because they conceived their plagues came from thence: for they thought no humane power could have destroyed Rome.

they may come to help ruine the beast. Isa.11.15,16. An allusion to the taking of old Babylon. Jer.50.38. & 51.32. and drying up the Red-sea, Exod.14. and Jordan, Josh.3. Or, the destroying of the Turkish Empire, that hindereth their coming, as of Assyria, Isa.8.7. These are not like to come to help destroy Rome; for that is to be done under the former vial. See notes on v.10. But to help destroy antichrist utterly, at the great battel of Armageddon, v.16. ch.19.17,18. For their conversion is likely to be before that, though after the fall of Rome. See notes on chap.19.1,&c.

kings of the East] The Jews, who are like to reign in those parts again, Isa.24.41. Others understand it of the Turks, to be brought in by the Popes frogs to help him, v.14.

V.13. three unclean spirits] Divers kindes of incendiaries sent abroad.

like frogs] Unclean persons, and making a great noise, to draw men to fight for antichrist, though Rome be down. They should be either the Jesuites, or some stirring sect worse than the Jesuites, arising after Rome, and before antichrists fall.

out of the mouth] By the command; as chap.12.15. Or, sent to establish their doctrine or Religion.

of the dragon] Of the Devil, chap.13,13. The Jesuites seem to be sent sent by him; for they keep a cabinet-council at Rome, distinct from the Popes.

of the beast] The Emperour, ch.13.1. who sendeth Embassadours abroad, to uphold the Popish cause.

of that false prophet] The Pope, ch.13.21. who sendeth his Legats. See ch.19.20. & 20.10. All these stir up other Princes to further the catholike cause, as they call it. See the like, Gen.14.3. Joth.9.12. & 10.1,2,3.

V.14. Spirits of devils] Not only unclean, as v.13. but also devillish and malicious.

working miracles] Chap.13.13. To perswade men to fight for Antichrist, who is now going down the winde.

go forth] Are diligent and travel into all parts, to perswade princes to uphold the Popish cause.

kings of the earth] Popish Kings. of the great day of God Almighty] Wherein God shall shew his Almighty power, in destroying the Popish princes, ch.19.17.

V.15. behold I come] This verse should be included in a parenthesis, because the verse following dependeth not on it, but on the former. It is put in, to comfort Christs servants against these great preparations, by his promise of his speedy assistance.

as a thief] Chap.3.3. Matt.24.43. Unexpectedly.

watch] Taketh heed of the plots of these frogs. Or, doth expect my help continually.

keepeth his garments] Doth nothing unbeseeming the true Religion; for he will get no help from them by dissembling, but will be exposed to shame, if he condescend to them.

V.16. He gathereth them] God, v.14. As he let Ahab be seduced by the false Prophets, to his destruction, 1 Kin.22. so he letteth those foolish kings hearken to the frogs, to come into the pit of perdition. Or, They gathered: that is, the frogs. Or, the meaning is, they were gathered; as Luk.12.20.

Armageddon] The place hath this name given it from the future event; as Num.11.34. Ezek.39.11. Some take it for an allusion to Baraks victory over Sisera, by the waters of Megiddo, Judg.4.15. & 5.19,20. The word may signifie, Devoted to destruction: or, Destroyed by craft: that is, subtilly brought thither, to be suddenly destroyed.

V.17. the seventh angel] Under the fifth vial, was The seventh vial. the destruction of the city of Rome: under the sixth, the overthrow of the Kings that assist the Pope in the great battel. Under this seventh, the remainder of the Papists are destroyed.

into the air] Where Satans throne is, Eph.2.2. who upheld the beast and false Prophet all this while, and used his utmost endeavour to uphold them in the last great battel.

a great voice] In the thunder, v.18. See John 12.28,29.

from the throne] From him that sitteth on the throne; that is, God the Father, ch.1.4. & 4.2.

It is done] It is certain, as if it were done, Hos.10.7. ch.21.6. Babylon is undone, v.19. Or, It was. Or, It is done. That is, it once had a glorious being, now it hath none at all.

V.18. voices and thunders, &c.] See ch.4.5. & 8.5. & 11.13,15. As if heaven and earth were troubled, or conspired together, to destroy Antichrist. Or, it may signifie a destruction, not by humane help, but from heaven, as it seemeth, v.21.

such as was not, &c.] See Dan.12.1. divided] Gr. made. Or, became.

into three parts] Pulled all to pieces, as a city torn into three pieces by an earthquake.

cities of the nations] Other Popish cities were destroyed. See chap.11.2. Or, of Turks and Gentiles: for all Christs enemies are to be deposed from publike authority.

came in remembrance before God] He shewed, by destroying her utterly, that he remembred all her wickednes. So good works are remembred, when rewarded, Act.10.4,31.

cup of the wine, &c.] See ch.14.10. Jer.25.15,16.

of the fierceness of his wrath] This sheweth the greatness of Gods anger, punishing them for their sins which they were so many years in committing.

V.20. every Iland] Or, place beyond the sea; as Psal.72.10. Or, every land or countrey; as Isa.20.6. & 41.1. Jer.47.4. See chap.6.14. There, they were out of place; here, no more found, as if they had been removed or swallowed up by the earthquake. There should be no more footing for Popery in any remote place, or defenced cities. All of them should be either converted or confounded.

V.21. upon men] The judgment on the places was shewed before: now followeth the judgment on the men that escaped. God will destroy them strangely.

a great hail] Great hailstones (as Josh.10.11.) signifying great judgements.

weight of a talent] See Ezr.8.26. Very great hailstones big enough, not to kill men onely, but also to dash them to pieces.

blasphemed God] They were so obstinate in their idolatry that they stood out against all Gods judgments, and blasphemed God to the very last hour, v.9.

CHAP. XVII.

V.1. O*NE of the seven angels*] It was fit that one of the executioners of Gods wrath on Babylon should inform John what he was, ch.16.1. Or, the first of the seven angels; as ch.6.1.

talked with me] See ch.1.12. & 4.1.

I will shew unto thee] As now the whore is shewed to John, and the manner of her destruction; so she must be manifested to be a whore, to Gods Ministers and people, especially to such as shall be employed in destroying her; for that is a great encouragement to fight against her.

the judgement] The utter destruction of Rome. But it is called judgement, that men may know it came not by chance, nor undeservedly, nor by mans power principally; but by a just sentence of Almighty God upon her for her sins, and that men are set on work by an higher power, to pull her down, and bring her low.

great whore] She was once the faithful spouse of Christ; but now is turned harlot, Isa.1.21. She is called a great whore, because of the multitude of her spiritual fornications, Isa.23.15,17. Nah.3.4. Or, the damnation (as Matt.23.14.) of the great whore, by an Hebraism, for, the great damnable whore. As Matt.14.15. abomination of desolation, for, abominable desolation.

sitteth upon many waters] Situated on the great river Tiber, as old Babylon on Euphrates, Jer.51.13. See what is meant by waters spiritually, v.15.

V.2. kings of the earth] Many great princes have been seduced to idolatry by her, and worshipped her idols; and the dispensers with adulteries and incests in them, to keep them at her beck. Before, the nations only are mentioned, ch.14.8. here, the Kings also, to shew, that this Romish idolatry should be countenanced by authority in many nations.

inhabiters of the earth] Like a common strumpet, she prostituteth her self to base people also, for mony, that she may put off her pardons and indulgences.

drunk with the wine] Allured to idolatry by her, with hope of gain, honour, pleasure, so that they doted on it, and were mad against all that opposed them in that course; as wicked men do, who are enclosed to whoredom by the flatteries of a strumpet, Prov.7.14. See vers.4. ch.14.8. Jer.51.7.

V.3. in the Spirit] In a trance, his body abiding where it was, chap.4.2.

into the wilderness] A fit place to be private, that he might the better view so great a mystery. Or, to shew, that this great whore was not yet visible in the world. Or, that he might view the woman the better, being separated from others, and in an open waste, where nothing might hinder the sight of her. Or, to intimate, that Rome should be brought into a desolate state in the end; as ch.18.21, &c. Isa.13.19, 20,21,22. Jer.50.12.

a woman] Popish Rome, v.18.

a scarlet-coloured beast] The Roman, or French, or Germane Emperour, set up by the Pope. Or, as some, the Pope, who upholdeth Popish Rome. And the beast is said to be scarlet-coloured; first, to shew the pride of these Romish idolaters, who would go like Kings, and great commanders, and rich personages, Nah.2.3. 2 Sam.1.24. Matt.27.28,29,31. Secondly, to shew their cruelty, that were as it were dyed with the blood of Gods Saints, vers.6. ch.18.24.

full of names of blasphemy] Usurping names that belong to God and Christ only, 2 Thess.2.4. and taking Gods power, or agreater, unto themselves; as the Pope and his adherents do at Rome, by dispensing with sins and oathes. Now these blasphemies are legible, to be seen with the eye, as spots on a beast; and they are all over bespotted with them.

seven heads] See v.9,10,12.

V.4. in purple and scarlet colour] So the Pope and Cardinals are attired at Rome. Thus like a strumpet they deck themselves, to allure lovers. And it may also set out their pride, in their kingly and triumphant attire, ch.18.7. Dan.5.29. and their luxury, whereof Rome is full.

decked] Gr. gilded.

with gold, &c.] It may set out the stately worship of the Papists, their costly images, altars, copes, pals, or stately palaces.

cup of gold] The wine was mentioned, ch.14.8. Now the cup is set out, and it is a golden one, Jer.51.7. to allure men to drink of it, or to shew, that golden means are used by the Popes, to draw men to idolatry. Or, that Rome beareth the title of the catholike Church; but giveth the poisoned cup of idolatry to others to drink, ch.14.8.

in her hand] Signifying, that Rome sendeth abroad Legats, to allure all men, especially great ones, to her superstition.

full of abominations] More abominable, for idolatry and wantonnes, than any other place. Such cups of enticing wine, whores were wont to give to their lovers, to allure them to folly, v.2. Or, alluding to such enchanted potions, as by lewd persons are given to work a strong and strange inclination of amorous affections towards them in others.

V.5. upon her forehead a name] As common strumpets anciently had their names written over their cells in the stews, and some on their foreheads; that all might plainly see, that she is such as she is hereafter described, written] By Gods appointment it was made known; for she would never take such a title to her self, yet she did so openly carry her self, that men might see her faults in her forehead, Isa. 3.9. Jer. 3.3.

Mistery] Deceiving others, under the colour of divine mysteries, (whereas heathen Rome openly professed idolatry) their whole religion being a mystery of iniquity or wickedness, 2 Thess. 2.7. as the Gospel of Christ is called, The mystery of piety, or godliness, Rom. 16.25. 1 Tim. 3.16.

Babylon the great] An allusion to old Babylon, called Great Babylon, Dan. 4.30. whom Rome imitateth, in oppressing Gods Church, and challenging an universal Empire.

the mother of harlots] Or, fornications. A teacher and nourisher of bodily and spiritual whoredoms, Ezek. 16. Hos. first and second Chapters. So that she not only was idolatrous her self, but brought forth, and brought up, children suitable to her self.

V. 6. drunken with the blood, &c.] Not only outwardly sprinkled with it, but inwardly surfeited; such abundance of Martyrs did she kill, and commanded every where to be killed, ch. 16.6. & 18.24. She made others drink with her idolatry, v. 2. and those against whom she could not prevail, she made her self drunk with their blood.

of the saints, &c.] This encreaseth her sin. It was a great transgression to kill men; greater, to kill holy men; greatest of all, to kill them for bearing witness to Christ.

I wondred, &c.] John wondred not before, at the sight of the two beasts, ch. 13. But now he admireth at the sight of the woman on the beast, whom he had not seen before. And he wondred indeed, that God would suffer so much blood of his servants to be shed by her. But he did not so admire at her great power, as to follow her. This wicked men do, verf. 8. ch. 13.3,4.

V. 7. And the angel said unto me] That angel that shewed me this representation, v. 1, &c. now fulfilleth his word, and telleth me the meaning of it.

Why dost thou marvel?] Johns admiration is the ground of the future Revelation.

I will tell thee] As John could not tell the meaning of this type, unless the Angel had revealed it: so we could never have known Rome to be Babylon, unless God had made it known to us, v. 9.

mystery] See v. 5.

that carrieth her] The Emperours upheld Rome, and Rome upholdeth the Pope.

V. 8. that thou sawest, &c.] This beast appeared to John before in another shape, not as an upholder of Popish Rome.

out of the bottomless pit, &c.] Shall be set up by Satan to that end, and be destroyed with him, ch. 11.7.

shall wonder] See notes on v. 6.

whose names are not written, &c.] ch. 13.8. Though their impostures be very subtil, yet they cannot deceive Gods elect, Matt. 24.24.

and yet is] Other copies read it, and yet shall be] This beast some take to be the Pope; others, the Emperour: which appeared to John in another form before, ch. 13. but now was vanished, in regard of that form, and appeared as one that should hereafter uphold Popish Rome. Others say, Which was in resemblance of power, but should not be for a time in that greatness; yet should afterwards get a renewed power, chap. 13.4.

V. 9. minde which hath wisdom] Here a wise heart may exercise it self, to finde out this mystery, chap. 13.18.

seven mountains] Rome was built on seven hills, yet to be seen there, though some of them now be without the walls of the city.

V. 10. There are] Or, They are.

seven kings] The lasting heads, were hills; the fleeting ones, are kings, that is, several sorts of governments.

five are fallen] Kings, consuls, tribunes, decemvirs, dictators.

one is] Romane Emperors.

the other is not yet come] Popes: or, the Gothish kingdom of Italy; for it lasted but a while, in comparison of the Emperours.

a short space] It is literally true of the Gothish kingdom: but if it be meant of the Pope, it intimateth, that the Popes power shall not abide for ever. It may seem long to those that suffer under it; but it is short, in Gods sight, 2 Pet. 3.8. and in respect of the eternal happiness of Gods saints, Rom. 8.18. 2 Cor. 4.16, 17, 18. A longer time is said to be short, ch. 12.6, 7, 10, 12, 10.

V. 11. the beast] By a synecdoche. He meaneth, one head of that beast which he saw. Or, he is not the eighth beast, nor head; for there were not so many in all: but the eighth King; for with that word it agreeth in the Greek, and not with either of the other. He should be so altered, that he should seem rather to be a new beast, than an head of the old one, Dan. 7.7.

is one of the seven] There were Emperours before; and after that they were depressed by the Goths, the western Emperour was set up by the Pope, ch. 13.13. Or, he may be one of the seven, if it be understood of the Pope; because he attained to such power afterwards, as the Emperours formerly had.

and goeth into perdition] Verf. 8.

V. 12. The ten horns] Hereby it appeareth, that this is the first beast, ch. 13.1. for the second had but two horns, ch. 13.11. The second beast, the Pope upheld; the first, the Emperour or Empire; and the first upheld the woman, the city of Rome, v. 18.

ten kings] The Kingdoms of Europe rent from the Roman Empire. See the like, Dan. 7.24. In Johns time, they had no kingdoms, but were subject to the Roman Empire.

as kings] For they had crowns, ch. 13.1. whereas the ten horns of the Dragon, ch. 12.3. had no crowns: they were but lieutenants to the Roman Empire. The crowns were then on the seven heads, not on the ten horns, as now.

one hour] They shall reign a small time with the Pope, v. 10. Mat. 20.12. & 26.40. Or, at one hour, ch. 3.3. Joh. 4.52. Act. 3.30. For the Pope soon laboured to divide the Kingdoms of Christendom, to uphold himself. And now there be divers Kings, notwithstanding the Emperours remaining.

V. 13. one minde, &c.] They shall labour with one consent, to uphold the Pope, or the Roman Empire. Before, nations submitted; now, Kings. See on verf. 2.

power and strength] Or, force and authority. They shall use all their personal and royal authority over their people, to uphold the beast, ch. 13.2.

V. 14. These] Some of these shall take part with Antichrist till the end, even after the fall of Rome, till they be destroyed at Armageddon, ch. 16.14. & 18.9. & 19.18. So, the theeves mocked Christ, Matt. 27.44. that is, One of them, Luk. 23.39. Here the instruments of the Popes war are set down by a similitude taken from beasts which fight with their horns, Zech. 1.18, 19, 21.

with the Lamb] Ch. 6. Before, the beast made war with the witnesses, Ch. 11.7. and with all the Saints, ch. 13.7. but now, with Christ himself. This sheweth the cause of his quarrel against them; to wit, that they belong to Christ; and the growth and height of his malice against Christ.

for he is Lord of lords, &c.] Ch. 19.16. 1 Tim. 1.16. God having given him supreme power over all, it is fit that all should be willingly subject to him, or subdued under him, Psal. 110.1, 2, 3. Matt. 28.18, 19, 20. 1 Cor. 15.25.

called and chosen] Of high account with God, though the world call them hereticks. Or, such as are pick'd out by Christ himself, Jer. 49.19. & 50.44. and called to destroy antichrist, and will faithfully do it.

V. 15. The waters, &c.] Here he setteth out the large territories of the beast, consisting of many people of sundry languages; by the similitude of many waters. So Isa. 8.7, 8. Jer. 47.2. for the people are moveable and inconstant, like water. And Antichrists kingdom is built on a fleeting foundation, like an house on the water.

which thou sawest] The woman to sit on, v. 1.

peoples and multitudes] See ch. 5.9. & 7.9. & 10.11. & 11.9. & 13.7. & 14.6.

V. 16. These shall hate the whore] Or, are these kings which shall hate the whore. For the gender is changed in the Greek, from horns to men. That is, some of these: for others will take part with Antichrist to the end. See notes on v. 14. They shall, like raging enemies, out of hatred conspire against her, and lay waste her dwelling, as it were strip her of her state and pomp, use her most despightfully, and utterly destroy her.

make her desolate] By leaving her communion.

naked] They shall take away her garments, consisting of purple, and scarlet, and gold, and precious stones, and pearls, v. 4. and convert them to their own use. So they shall make her poor and naked. Or, they shall forbid their subjects to go thither to buy pardons. So whores are impoverished, when their lovers forsake them.

eat her flesh] Spoil her, as a Lion feeding on his prey. Or, shall feed themselves on her spoils, which were as dear to her as her flesh, Matt. 5.29, 30. Or, members, Col. 3.5. This sheweth their great rage against her; Psa. 27.2. Job 31.31. but it appeareth more in the clause following, in that they were not content with eating her flesh, Job 19.22. but burn the remainders of her.

burn her with fire] Destroy her utterly, not leaving a bone of her. They shall burn the whole city, when they have rifled it, as the Babylonians did Jerusalem, Jer. 38.23. & 52.13. & 37.10. and as harlots and strumpets sometimes were, Gen. 38.24. Lev. 21.9. Eze. 23.45, 47.

V. 17. For God hath put into their hearts] A reason is here given of the altering of their affections toward the beast now, and their encline so strongly to it before: to wit, Gods will, who, as now in mercy he moved them to destroy the beast; so before, for their own sins, and cowardliness, v. 13, 14. and the sins of their subjects, in justice for a time gave them over to subject themselves to the beast. So Pharoah is said to harden his own heart, Exod. 8.15. and God is said to do it, Exod. 7.13.

to fulfil his will] To destroy the city of Rome.

and to agree, &c.] Or, to do with one consent. Or, to act that one sentence, v. 13. that is, to submit themselves to the Popes tyranny no longer than for a time set by God. So the Apostle thanketh God, Rom. 6.17. that they were no longer servants of sin, not for that they were so for a time. Or, God, for a just punishment of their sins, made them subject to Rome, as he did the nations to old Babylon, Jer. 27.6. For it was not a sin in it self, to submit to the Roman Empire, though by the Popes this power were afterwards abused to persecution. No threats or allurements could have made them so servile to Popish Rome, if God in justice had not given them over to that slavery: nor none have raised up their spirits again to destroy Rome, if God had not done it, and so made her friends her foes. Thus whoremongers use to deal with strumpets, when they see what hurt they have got by them, Ezek. 16.37, 39. Or, it may be read, And suffered them to agree. See the like addition of a fit word, 1 Tim. 4.2.

until the words of God shall be fulfilled] Till the city of Rome shall have executed all those cruelties, and enjoyed her dominion so long, as God hath appointed or foretold. We must not then accuse God of slackness, if Rome be not yet down; but with patience expect Gods time, knowing, that as surely as he hath put into the hearts of these kings to serve that Empire; so surely he will, at his time determined, put it into their hearts to destroy that city.

V. 18. And the woman] Before, he had expounded the beast; now, he telleth what the whorish woman is that sate upon the beast.

the great city] Rome, which then had the Empire. Before, he concealed the full description of it: now, the time of destruction drawing near, he doth as good as name her. We may hope then her end is not far off, now the is all over Europe proclaimed to be the whore of Babylon.

CHAP. XVIII.

Verf. 1. After these things] The holy Ghost having spoken of the destruction of the seat of the beast under the fifth vial, ch. 16.10. sheweth what that seat is, ch. 17.18. the city of Rome: now he goeth on to the overthrow of it. So that it seemeth we are now under the fourth vial, and the fifth is not yet poured out, because Rome is not yet destroyed.

another angel] Differing from him before, ch. 17.1. Though God had given sundry warnings of the fall of Rome before, ch. 14.8,9. & 16.10. yet he sheweth his long suffering, and willingness to have men forsake her, that they may not perish, by sending three Angels more, to signifie that her destruction draweth nigh: one here, foretelling her fall once more; another, verf. 4. calling men out of her, as out of an house on fire, lest they be destroyed with her; as Numb. 16.26. a third, verf. 12. shewing her utter desolation in expressions confirmed by a signe.

from heaven] Or, out of heaven. Sent with a commission from God, to foretell the fall of Rome now at hand. It sheweth, then, that this was no dream of his own, but Gods certain truth: and that this great judgement should not come by accident; but by the will and providence of God. It may signifie some great man suddenly raised by God, and unexpectedly (as Psal. 26.6. & 57.3. & 102.19.) to destroy Rome. Things that come out of the earth, must have time to grow: things from heaven come suddenly.

great power] Furnished with power fit for such a service. So that none could resist him; but Rome must fall by his means. Others foretold the fall of it before; but this cometh to execute it.

the earth was lightned with his glory] That is, with his brightness, in the vision. So glory is used, Exod. 40.34. Numb. 14.10. 1 Cor. 3.7. The thing signified may be, that, even earthly men, and Papists, shall admire at the piety of him whom God shall fet up to destroy that city; or at his majestical power, made known by his victories.

V. 2. mightily with a strong voice] That all men might hear this tidings of the fall of Rome: for the was to setled, that many believed she could not be overthrown. Or, to shew the greatness of her fall, and of Gods anger against her.

Babylon the great is fallen] Chap. 14.8. Isa. 21.9. Jer. 51.8.

is fallen] It is doubled, to shew the greatness, neerness, or certainty of the fall.

habitation of devils] It was full of men, but now it is full of devils. Either because men esteem solitary places haunted with ghosts, or because the foul spirits do haunt such places for their pleasure, Isa. 34.11. Jer. 51.37. Matt. 12.43. Mark 5.3. Or, are confined thither by God, as to an hold or prison; or keep there, to terrifie men that pass by such places.

a cage of every unclean and hateful bird] Isa. 13.21. Of such birds as were forbidden in the law, and hated by men, because they are not good for food or long, but feed on other birds, and make hideous and dismal noises. See a patern of such desolation, in the ruines of monasteries: they once held unclean men; now nothing, except perhaps unclean spirits and birds.

V. 3. all nations have drunk] Rome is compared to a famous strumpet, who permitteth ordinary people to drink of her cup, kings and great ones to have to do with her, merchants to gain by her. Before, ch. 14.8. it was said, She made them drink: now the phrase is altered, They have drunk: to shew, that some might come in of their own accord, as others did by her perswasion or compulsion. Both these ways, men come to taverns and stews.

of the wine, &c.] See Chap. 14.8.

king.] Chap. 17.2.

merchants of the earth] Either worldly merchants, that sold her delicate things for her lust; or spiritual ones; as friers, monks, pardon-sellers, and such like, 2 Pet. 2.3.

abundance] Or, power.

delicacies] Money, which they had of her for delicate things to serve her lusts.

V. 4. and her voice] A voice, without naming the authour, bringeth some great matter worthy of attention, Isa. 40.6. When Rome is to be destroyed, God will finde a means to call out his elect from thence, as he did Lot out of Sodom.

Come out of her] Jer. 51.6, 45. & 50.8. Isa. 52.11. God is careful of his, what they may escape Babylons sins and punishment; which they would not do, unless they come out before the burning of the city: for the people will still sollicite them to idolatry; and the sword or fire cannot distinguish between friends and enemies.

my people] This then was Gods voice, or some Angels representing God.

V. 5. reached unto heaven] Gr. followed. They were as it were one laid upon another, to make a mount to reach up to heaven, and cry for vengeance, Gen. 18.20, 21. & 19.13. Ezra 9.6. Jon. 1.2. Jerem. 51.9. The least sins reach to heaven. God knoweth them all: but the phrase is commonly used of great sins, that will pull down sudden judgements. God is compared to a patient man, who passeth by many smaller faults in his servants, without taking notice, as not being willing to punish them; which he should do, if he took notice of them: yet when some great fault is committed, then he calleth his servant to account for it, and punisheth him.

remembred her iniquities] He seemed to forget her sins before, while he let her prosper; but now he sheweth that he remembreth them, by punishing her for them, chap. 16.19.

V. 6. Reward her] Jer. 50.15, 29. Some take it as spoken to all those that come to destroy Rome. Others, of those which came newly out upon his last summons, verf. 4. whose spirits were most likely to be fet upon revenge, by the harsh impressions of the sins they lately saw there, and wrongs they newly received.

double unto her double] Not the double of her deserts, but of those miseries she hath brought on you before. And that is just, both because God forbiddeth them to do it, and because she did wrongfully torture innocents; but they justly punish the whore.

in the cup] Not of her fornication, but of punishment.

V. 7. how much] Gr. in how many things. This sheweth, that she was very high before, and must be brought very low, now.

glorified her self] Set up her self above others, and against God, Jer. 48.26, 42. Lam. 1.9.

so much torment] Her punishment must be answerable to her pride and luxury. This is spoken of worldly punishments at the fall of Rome; for none can be so high on earth, as they are brought low in hell.

She saith in her heart] She thinketh so, Psal. 14.1. She durst not say so, left she should be esteemed proud, or be envied by others. Thus her pride foretelleth her fall, Prov. 16.18.

I sit a queen] Isa. 47.7, 8. I have a great command.

no widow] I am mighty, and full of people, and live happily. Cha. 18.11. is the like phrase: Loved not their lives, that is, made no account of them. Cities deprived of their power and people, are accounted widows, Lam. 1.1.

see no sorrow] Feel none in my self.

V. 8. in one day] In a short time, called one hour, verf. 10, 17, 19. Not that one day would end the business; but her enemies should not give over the siege, till they had taken it. Or, in one day; that is, suddenly, against her expectation, Isa. 47.9, 11.

death, and mourning, and famine, &c.] In the siege of Rome, many shall be slain, and their friends that live, shall mourn for them; and they in the city shall suffer famine; and when it is taken, it shall be burnt down to the ground, chap. 17.16.

for strong is the Lord, &c.] Left any man should think the city too strong to be destroyed so quickly, he telleth of Gods power, who undertaketh the work, Jer. 50.34.

V. 9. kings of the earth] Like adulterers that have lost their pleasures; so these Kings shall make womanly lamentations for loss of their images and superstitions. This must be understood of such Kings as shall stand to the Pope, after Rome is down. See notes on ch. 16.14. & 17.16.

who have committed fornication] No good men bewail her. Such only do it as have been naught with her, ch. 17.2.

shall bewail her] Ezek. 26.17.

when they shall see the smoke of her burning] Chap. 14.11. and 19.3. Gen. 19.28. Either it must be taken literally of such Kings as came to assist her, and fled away when they saw the city on fire: or figuratively, when they understood of her destruction.

V. 10. standing afar off] Though they loved her, and could have wished her prosperity to continue; yet they durst not come neer to help her, left they should be destroyed with her, by them that besieged her, who would take such as came, for friends to the whore, and destroy them, as Jehu did Ahaziahs brethren, 2 Kin. 10.13, 14. Or, They were afraid of being burned, as they were that cast the three Jews into the furnace, Dan. 3.22. the flame was so great. Thus the Israelites fled, when the earth swallowed Dathan and Abiram, Num. 16.34.

that great city] Or, O great city!

judgement] See chap. 17.2.

V. 11. The merchants] These weep not for love, as the Kings did; but for loss of their gain, which they got by selling her dainty things, to satisfie the luft of her prelats. Or, fine things for their idolatrous worship; as, for altars, images, vestments. It may be meant spiritually, of those that made gain of her spiritual merchandise.

mourn over her] As a father over a dead child.
for no man buyeth their merchandiſe any more] Ezek.27.27.For there is no wonted trading there ; all traffick,both ſpiritual and temporal, being there ceaſed.
V. 12. gold, &c.] Things for fine apparel , and ſtately houſhold-ſtuff. all thyne-wood] Or, ſweet. Some kinde of cedar : or , all kinds of ſweet-wood,as all manner of veſſels. Or, this might be for uſe about buildings.
V. 13. and cinnamon,&c.] For pleaſing ſmell. and wine,&c.] For dainty fare. horſes and chariots,&c.] For princely port. ſlaves]Gr.bodies. For ſervice. Servants are like bodies,acted by others : free-men,like ſouls,that guide themſelves,and theirs. ſouls of men] Perſons of men, Ezek. 27. 13. Gen. 12. 5. & 46. 25. Men,though not ſlaves,yet uſed for ſeveral employments. Or,ſouls of men literally taken, of which they made ſpiritual merchandiſe.
V. 14. And the fruits that thy ſoul, &c.] Gr. the autumn , or autumn fruit of the deſire of thy ſoul. That is, deſired fruit : as, In fire of a flame ; that is, Flaming fire, 2 Theſſ. 1. 8. This verſe ſhould be in a parentheſis. As if thoſe merchants ſhould like mourners ſpeak to periſhing Babylon. Or it may be the ſpeech of the Angel, the revealer; as verſ. 14. or John the publiſher , objecting gluttony to Babylon. autumn fruits are moſt dainty and pleaſant to the taſte , and goodly to the eyes, like the fruits of paradiſe, Gen.3.6. Of ſuch, Rome hath ſtore. dainty and goodly] Gr.fat and ſhining. no more at all] They are not onely loſt for the preſent,but for ever. There is no hope of recovering them.
V. 15. The merchants of theſe things] Or, the merchants , I ſay, of theſe things : Meaning thoſe ſpoken of, verſ. 11. He had before ſet down the cauſes of their mourning ; now he ſetteth down the manner of it.
ſtand afar off] See verſ. 10.
V. 16. that great city] See verſ.10. That uttered much merchandiſe. in fine linnen, &c.] This is ſuitable to the perſons mourning. The Kings that are mighty,mourn, becauſe the power of the city is gone,v. 10. The merchants mourn,becauſe the wealth of it is gone.
decked with gold] Gr. golded with gold, ch.17.4. Not only wearing gold ; but as it were covered with it from top to toe.
V. 17. in one hour] Like a whirlwind. See verſ. 10. every ſhip-maſter,&c.] Ch. 8.9. All that traded with her by ſea, Ezek 27.29, &c. Or,ſuch as were then bringing wares to her by ſea, and ſaw the ſmoke of the burning of Rome afar off, as Abraham did, when Sodom was deſtroyed, Gen.19.28.
as trade by Sea] Pſal.107.23. Or it may be ſpiritually underſtood of inferiour officers, who carried their pardons to ſell. ſtood afar off] See verſ.10.
V. 18. And cryed] Jer.50.46. Ezek.37.32. the ſmoke] Verſ. 9. Iſa. 34. 10. Her deſtruction will ſuddenly be known,both by ſea and land.
What city is like unto this great city?] What city once ſo ſtrong and populous ? See the like, Ch.13.4. Or, who would ever have thought this city ſhould have been thus laid deſolate.
V. 19. And they] Or, Yea,they ; as Matth.26.50. caſt duſt,&c.]It was the manner of mourners.See Joſh.7.6. 1 Sam. 4.12. Job 2.12. Ezek.27.30. Theſe mourned moſt,becauſe they were leaſt able to ſubſiſt, and therefore likely to periſh ſooner by want of trading,than the merchants that employed them. They cryed, in the former verſe : here weeping and wailing is added, to ſhew the greatneſs of their ſorrow, v. 9, 15.
that great city, &c.] See verſ.10,16.
all that had ſhips] Not merchants alone, but ſhip-maſters : inferiour officers, as well as great ones.
in one hour] Verſ.8,10,17.
V. 20. thou heaven] O Church. See chap.11.19. & 19. 1, 6. Pſal. 58. 11. apoſtles and prophets] Miniſters,their ſucceſſours. God accounteth theſe like thoſe eminent perſons. A great comfort to them.
avenged you]Gr.judged your judgment; That is,conſidered the wrong done to you,&puniſhed her for it, ch.17.1.Pſa.9.4.Mic.7.9.He hath avenged the death of your predeceſſours : or the wrongs done to you by her, Jer.51.35,36. Or, it may be an apoſtrophe to thoſe in heaven,ſhewing what cauſe of joy they had, if they were here to ſee the fall of Rome.
V.21. a mighty angel] An alluſion to Jer.51.63.Shewing, by a ſure token,that the fall of Rome ſhould be greater than the fall of Babylon. There, a weak man ; here, a mighty Angel : there, taketh an ordinary ſtone ; here, a great milſtone : there,caſteth it into Euphrates; here,into the ſea:there,Babylon ſhal ſink;here,it ſhal be thrown down with violence : there,it ſhall not riſe; here,it ſhall be found no more at all,v.14.c.12.8.Iſa.13.20.Jer.51.63. A great milſtone will fall apace with its own weight ; faſter,if it be caſt down ; faſteſt of all , if by a ſtrong hand : neither can it then riſe any more, or be raiſed out of the bottom of the ſea.This ſheweth the violent and everlaſting deſtructionof Rome

V. 22. of harpers] Jer.7.34. & 25. 10, 11. All things that ſerved for pleaſure, ſhall ceaſe. in thee] The Angel now turneth his ſpeech to Babylon.Some have told her face to face of her deſtruction.
no craftſman] All things tending to profit,ſhall be gone.
ſound of a milſtone] Gr.voice.In the cities they uſed handmils,which made a great noiſe.All things neceſſary ſhall be taken away.Wel may the mills ceaſe,when none ſhall live there,for whom corn ſhould be grinded.The things abuſed ſhal be al taken away,Joel 1 5.Jer.25.10.
V.23. light of a candle]The pooreſt men have candles in the night, that want many other comforts : but Rome ſhall have none , after this. Or,they ſhall not uſe candles in wedding and feſtival nights any more, Matt.25.6 7. voice of a bridegroom] There ſhall be no more marriage there to people the city any more. Or,no merry meetings. Theſe things argue an utter deſolation, Jer.7.34. & 16.9.
thy merchants] Nah.3.16. Iſa.23.8. Thou haſt made uſe of Kings for thy profit. Or,thy Cardinals were Kings fellows. by thy ſorceries] Enchanted cups, ch. 14.8. or, by Satans help : for ſome Popes have been ſorcerers. deceived] Drawn to Idolatry.
V. 24. in her was found the blood] Though God defer , yet he will keep count at length, and find the blood of his ſervants in Rome , as if it ſtuck to the hands or clothes of the murderers, Iſa. 63. 3. Jer. 2. 34.
of Prophets] Faithful teachers ſlain, verſ. 20. of Saints] Of private Chriſtians put to death for Religion. of all that were ſlain] To wit, for Religion,as being ſlain by her authority,or incitation of the Princes to do it. Or, as Matt.23.32,35.becauſe ſhe ſucceedeth the former perſecutours, and finiſheth the work, and ſo is counted guilty of all the blood ſhed before alſo.

CHAP. XIX.

V.1. AFter theſe things] After the fall of Rome.He proceedeth to the things done under the ſixth vial ; for the beginning of this Chapter anſwereth to ch.16 12.The middle of it, to ch.16.13,&c. a great voice] To ſhew their affection in themſelves, and deſire to ſtir up others to praiſe God for it.
of much people in heaven] The Saints of God in the Church,upon the firſt news of Romes fall, bleſs God for it. They all in general joy at this news. See the like, ch.11.15.
Alleluiah] Praiſe ye the Lord, Pſal. 111. & 112. & 113. This is the firſt time that it is uſed in the New Teſtament ; and it is found four times here. It ſeemeth the Chriſtian Gentiles,after the fall of Rome, ſhall ſollicite the Jews to come in to Chriſt,and to joyn with them in praiſing him for Romes fall.
Salvation &c.] All the praiſe of this great work belongeth to God, ch.5 3.& 7.12. 1 Tim.1.17. Glory is a great opinion of him : honour is the means whereby we expreſs it,inwardly or outwardly.
unto the Lord] Is unto him. He hath given us cauſe to honour him, for deſtroying the beaſt, and putting us out of all fear of him. Or, be unto him. We praiſe him for it,and deſire that others do it alſo.
our God] He hath ſhewed himſelf our God, in deſtroying our enemies,and therefore we have eſpecial cauſe to praiſe him, Pſa.147.20.
V. 2. true and righteous] See ch.15.3. for he hath judged] They ſhew what cauſe they had to praiſe God for declaring his truth,in performing his threats againſt Rome,which many doubted would not be effected ; and his juſtice,in deſtroying ſuch as would not be drawn from their idolatry by his word. Or,he hath not judged out of ſuſpitions and report,but in truth and juſtice, Gen.18.21. the great whore] See chap. 17.1. Great, becauſe of her many fornications. Or, by alluſion to the thing ſignified, The great city, cha. 18. 18. corrupt] The earth. See Gen.6.11. avenged] As was deſired, Chap.6.10.
his ſervants] He had reaſon to avenge their blood, becauſe they were not ſlain for any wickedneſs they had done,but for ſerving him, Pſal.44.22.
V. 3.again] They double their thanks,becauſe of the greatneſs of the benefit.
and her ſmoke] This ſentence ſhould be in a parentheſis. The ſenſe is ; She is irrecoverably loſt,Iſa.34.10.Or, for her ſmoke,as Luk.6.32. and then there needeth no parentheſis ; but the meaning will be ; The Saints ſhall ever be mindful of the fall of Rome, to praiſe God for it, as if they ſaw the ſmoke of it always, to put them in mind of that fire that burned it down.
V. 4. And the four and twenty Elders, &c.] Ch.4.4,6. Before, v. 1. Gods people bleſſed God ſuddenly,where they heard of it ; now they do it publickly in the Congregation, for deſtroying Rome. So ch.11. 16. This better ſetteth out the greatneſs of the benefit , with their deeper ſenſe of it , and ſtirreth up others the more to thankfulneſs, Pſal.5.7. This is Romes funeral. four beaſts] Or,living wights.Thorow all this book,there are beaſts or wights, and elders, and a throne,to ſhew , that Gods ordinances and

and right worſhip was ſtill ſome where in the world in uſe, during the heathen antichriſtian perſecutions:and ſo they will be to the end.
on the throne] Chap.4.2. and 5. 1. God ſhall then take his throne to himſelf, when Rome, which is Satans and Antichriſts throne , ch. 2. 13. is deſtroyed.
Amen, Alleluja] They allow of the praiſe given to God before , v. 1. and perſwade the people to praiſe him more.
V. 5. a voice came out of the throne] Chap.4.5. The general applauſe of the Chriſtian Gentiles, v 1. and their ſolemn thankſgiving for the fall of Rome, v.4. might come to the ears of the Jews ; but God himſelf muſt ſpeak to their hearts , before they will joyn with the Chriſtians in this Alleluja. See the like method, Iſa.6.66. This may be Chriſts voice, becauſe it cometh from the throne ; and yet he ſaith, Our God ; as John 20. 17.
praiſe our God] He doth not blame them, as if they had not done it well before; but giveth a new cauſe of praiſing God, ſee v.7.
all ye his ſervants] Ye Jews, that once were his ſervants,joyn with the Gentiles in this Alleluja, Deut.32.43. Rom.15.10. both great and ſmall] All ſorts of men, Pſalm 115.13. See ch. 13. 16. & 20.12.
V. 6. And I heard] Or, Then I heard. So this particle is uſed , Mat.23.32. Here is the effect of the former exhortation. of many waters, &c.] See ch. 14.2. and 17. 15. The Jews and Gentiles praiſing God together,for the fall of Rome, will make ſuch a noiſe as will fill heaven and earth. Or, it may be underſtood of Gentiles converted from Popery by the ſight of Romes fall.
reigneth] God is publickly worſhipped every where, as King, now the whore is deſtroyed.
V. 7. Let us be glad,&c.] Chap.11.10. Pſalm 118.24. Mat.5.12. Let us prepare for feaſts and triumphs againſt the marriage of the Lamb.
give honour to him] As we have cauſe to rejoyce in it,ſo alſo to give God praiſe and thanks for it. for the marriage,&c.] Mat.22.2. The Church is now called, as a Bride, to dwell with her huſband, after the whore is burned : before, ſhe was but as it were eſpouſed to him. Glorious times will follow Romes fall. This cauſe was not mentioned,v.1,4. but theſe converts, as they looked forward to the deſtruction of Rome, ſo they look backward to the converſion of the Jews, and marriage of the Lamb.
made her ſelf ready] As virgins uſe to deck themſelves when they are to be married,Pſ.45.13,14. Iſa.61.10. ſo the Church is now purged from all ſuperſtition, and ready to entertain Chriſt in the purity of his ordinances. Or, the Jews being now come in, with the fulneſs of the Gentiles, Rom.11.12,25,26. the Church is ready to be married to Chriſt. It cannot but be great matter of joy, that two ſiſters, ſo long parted, ſhould now be firmly knit together, Cant.8.8.
V. 8. to her was granted] Sanctification, the Churches ornament, Pſa. 45.13. & 93.5. is a dowry given her by Chriſt her huſband, ch. 3. 18. Eph.5.26,27.
righteouſneſs] Gr. righteouſneſſes. That is, good works, which adorn Gods ſervants, as much as fine linnen or gliſtering garments do great men, Mat.5.16. and do as conſpicuouſly appear in their lives, as gorgeous apparel on the back or body of thoſe that wear it, Rom. 13.12,14. Col.3.12. 1 Pet.3.3,4. & 5.5. Phil.4.5,8.
V. 9. he ſaith] The Angel, mentioned,ch. 18. Now he goeth on with the ſtory , which had been broken off in the beginning of this chapter, with relation of the great praiſe given to God for deſtroying Rome.
write] The matter to come is weighty, and worthy to be conveyed to poſterity. So ch.14.13.
Bleſſed] Mat.22.2. They are happy times, and they are happy that are ſo called, that they come ; that is,internally called. The things being ſtrange, and very unlikely to come to paſs ; the Angel taketh a ſpecial care to confirm John in the truth of them, that he may the more confidently report them to others.
marriage-ſupper] It ſeemeth ſuch feaſts uſed to be then at night , v.17. Luke 14.16,17. See notes on ch. 18.22.
theſe are the true ſayings of God] They are not my words, but God's, and ſhall certainly be fulfilled in their time, Luke 1.23.
V.10. to worſhip him] Having ſo good news from him, John, being over-joyed , falleth down to worſhip him, as Cornelius , on ſomewhat the like occaſion, did to Peter, Acts 10.25.
See thou do it not] Ch.22.9. Gr. See, not. The Angels conciſe ſpeech, as if he had not time to ſay all, ſheweth how evil Johns act was, and how diſpleaſing to him, and dangerous to John, if he ſhould ſuffer him to do it. To that end alſo he ſaith, See : that is, Beware thou do it not.
thy fellow-ſervant] One whom Chriſt uſeth to declare his will to others, as he doth thee. Therefore,for brethren, is put prophets,ch.22. 9. It may be the Angel that revealed this revelation to John,ch.1.1. yet for all that, not to be worſhipped by John,his fellow-ſervant. worſhip God] To whom only religious worſhip is due, Mat. 4.10. is the ſpirit of propheſy] Chriſt only can by his Spirit make us Prophets to foretel things to come,from him. His revealing things to us, is the life of propheſy. He therefore muſt be worſhipped for it, and not we.
V. 11. heaven opened] Free acceſs to Gods publick worſhip every where. Or, the Church opened, that Chriſt may ſtir up his people, v. 14. to go fight againſt Antichriſt, who after Romes fall, will be for a time ſome where elſe, gathering new forces. Ver. 19. a door was opened in heaven, before the riſing of Antichriſt, ch. 4. 1. the temple was open in heaven , after the death of the Witneſſes, ch.11.19. Now heaven it ſelf, that is,the Church, is ſet wide open, that Chriſts armies may go forth to deſtroy the beaſt and the falſe Prophet, v.20. So the great gates of a city are opened, when armies go forth to battel, 2 Sam.18.4. behold] This requireth attention to the great battel yet to come.
a white horſe] Chap.6.2. a ſign of Chriſts juſt carriage in the war, and certain triumph after it.
he that ſate upon him] Chriſt,who appeared then to John, as ready to deſtroy Antichriſt utterly, and will do it by the Kings that hate the Whore, ch.17.16.
faithful and true] See ch.1.5. & 3.7,14.
in righteouſneſs,&c.] He condemneth the enemies of his Church juſtly, and then executeth them accordingly. He will not abuſe his power, to deſtroy any that have not deſerved deſtruction.
V. 12. as a flame of fire] Ch.1.14.& 2.18. He can ſee his enemies privy plots,and deſtroy them. His eyes do not ſparkle,but flame out with anger. Wo be to his enemies.
many crowns] All Kingdoms are ſubject to him, v. 16. Pſ. 2.8,9. & 72.8,9,10. Mat.28.18,19,20. Or, for victories over many Kings, v.19. whoſe crowns he taketh off their heads, and putteth on his own, 2 Sam. 12. 30. The dragon and the beaſt never had above ten crowns ; he hath a multitude : his Kingdom ſhall be larger than ever theirs was.
a name written] Now to be made known : ſure alſo, and permanent.
no man knew] Ch.2.17. Judg.13.18. None knew the eternal generation of Chriſt, who is called,The Word of God,v.13. Or, none knew it, till it was revealed in the Word, v.13. Or, by his victories, v.16,19. So Gods name, Jehovah, was revealed,Exod.6.3.
V. 13. dipt in bloud] Iſa.63.2. It ſheweth the exceeding great ſlaughter of his foes formerly : for his garments are not ſprinkled with bloud, as Iſa.63.2. but dipt or dyed in it, Iſa.9.5. What could his enemies look for from him now ; ſeeing the marks of his former victories, but deſtruction ? Or, as if he ſhould come to revenge the bloud of his ſervants ſhed by Antichriſt, and ſhould wear one of their garments full of bloud, to incite him to the greater revenge. Or, it might be to ſignifie the event of this battel, that ſo much bloud ſhould be ſhed, that not the common ſouldiers only, whoſe hands are moſt employed in war ; but the General himſelf, whoſe head uſeth to be more employed than his hands, ſhall have his garments dyed in bloud. the Word of God] By eternal generation, John 1.1,14. Or,becauſe he maketh his Fathers word good, by deſtroying the foes of his people. Or, becauſe by deſtroying Antichriſt, he cauſeth Gods Word to be freely preached every where, and God is known thereby, as by a name.
V. 14. the armies, &c.] Gods people being fluſht with the fall of Rome, ſhall be in arms, ready to deſtroy Antichriſt utterly , when Chriſt ſhall call them to that work.
white horſes, &c.] Fitter for triumph than for fight ; for here are no bucklers nor ſwords mentioned, which are more fit for war than fine linnen, a poor fence againſt blows ; but here is the apparel of conquerours : ſo that they made themſelves as ſure of the victory , as if it were already gotten. Thus, though the battel may be ſharp, Gods people ſhall comfort themſelves,by looking before-hand on the happy iſſue.
V. 15. out of his mouth] See v.21. ch.1.16.& 2. 16. He ſhall paſs ſentence of death upon them, and execute it, Iſa. 11.4. Or, he ſhall deſtroy them, according as he hath foretold, 2 Theſſ.2.8. arms are attributed only to the Captain ; for all is done by his power, though he uſe inſtruments. the nations] Or, Gentiles, ch.11.2. Popiſh enemies. rule them, &c.] See ch.2.27. & 12.5. treadeth] Treadeth on Gods enemies , gathered as it were into a wine-preſs, at Armageddon, till their bloud be all out of their bodies, ch.14.20. Iſa.63.3. Thus he threatneth his foes with his mouth, ſtriketh them with his iron rod in his hand, trampleth them under his feet.
V. 16. on his veſture] That all men may ſee it , and fear him. Some footſteps of his power appeared before, in converting the Gentiles ; but much obſcured by the perſecution under the Heathen Emperours, and afterwards under the Popes : but when both theſe are deſtroyed, then all men may fully diſcern it. on his thigh] That men might ſubmit to him, Gen. 24. 2,9. & 47. 29. being ſubdued by his ſword, which uſeth to be placed on the thigh, Pſa.45.3. Cant.3.16.
King of Kings] Chap.17.14. & 11.15. Dan.2.44.
V. 17. an Angel] Chriſts Herauld, to bid all the fowls to a banquet. in the ſun] That he might be heard all the world over, as the Sun is ſeen. A cleer token of the enſuing victory : and that the enemies ſhould be deſtroyed in the ſight of the Sun, as ſurely as we ſee the Sun.
will

with a loud voice] Chap. 18. 2. That the most remote might hear, and come to take their share. It also sheweth the weight of the matter. Men speak loud, when they speak of great things.

spoils] Warriours or souldiers mixing themselves with Gods people, more for the love of the spoils, than of the cause. Or, it may be taken literally; for many dead carcases will be left unburyed, to fill the fowls, v. 21. 1 Sam. 17. 44. Jer. 7. 33. Ezek. 39. 4, 17. &c.

in the midst] See ch. 8. 13. & 41. 6.

of heaven] Of the air, Gen. 1 20. Psa. 8. 8.

gather your selves] The fowls are called before hand, to shew the certainty of the victory.

V. 18. that ye may eat] Christ will be married as a conquerour.

the flesh of Captaines, &c.] Feed on the revenues and spoil of all the Papists; for they shall all be destroyed, great and small. There shall be a variety of prey, to fit every ones appetite, as there is of dishes at a feast, ch. 17. 16. Or, it may be literally understood of the carcases of great men and small, left for the fowls to devour, v. 15. Ezek. 39. 4, 17, 20. Jer. 7. 12.

V. 19. the beast, &c.] The Roman or German Emperour, ch. 13. 1. with some Kings, ch. 17. 16. after Romes fall, v. 1. shall affist the Pope, living elsewhere, in this last war against Christ and his Church.

V. 20. the beast] The Emperour, v. 19.

was taken] Like a beast in a snare. This seemeth to be at the conclusion of the sixth Vial, or beginning of the seventh. See ch. 16. 16, 17.

the false prophet] The Pope, ch. 13. 13. & 16. 13. yet some take it for the Popes Clergy, and the Pope for the Beast. This is that false Prophet that wrought miracles. ch. 13. 13, 14. &c.

alive] Put to horrible tortures, being taken alive; whereas the Kings and their followers shall be slain in the battel, v. 21. An allusion to Num. 16. 31, 32. an extraordinary destruction is signified, to terrifie others from misleading Gods people, Psa. 55. 15.

lake of fire, &c.] Chap. 20. 14. & 21. 8. & 14. 10. an exquisit torment, Ezek. 38. 22. Psa. 11. 6. Gen. 19. 24.

V. 21. the remnant] The Kings that fought for the Pope, and their Armies. As their sin was not so great as the Emperours and Popes, so neither shall their judgement.

out of his mouth] Verse 15. Gods word slayeth them, when he performeth his threatnings, Jer. 5. 14. Thus the prophecy, v. 19. is fulfilled. None shall be ransomed for money, Isa. 13. 17, 18. A severe execution shall be on all that shall take part with Antichrist in this his last battel.

were filled with their flesh] There were wealth enough for all comers, Jer. 50. 10. Or, carcases enow lying unburyed, to glut all the fowls. See v. 18.

CHAP. XX.

Ver. 1. AN Angel] He that did open the bottomless pit before, ch. 9. 1. now shutteth it. Some take it of Constantines keeping under the Heathen Emperours, and conceive this chapter to depend upon the twelfth chapter; and to shew what became of the dragon, after he was cast into the earth. But it is likely that the prophecy goeth on; and that the holy Ghost, having described the Whore of Babylon, Popish Rome, chap. 17. and shewed the fall of it, chap. 18. and the calling of the Jews, and destruction of Antichrist and his followers, ch. 19. now declareth the prosperous estate of the Church for a long time after; and the destruction of the Turks, the day of judgment, and damnation of all wicked men, in this chapter: and then setteth out the happy estate of all the godly in soul and body in heaven for ever, ch. 21. and in the beginning of ch. 22. or else looketh back there to the flourishing estate of the Church on earth, when all her foes are destroyed; and so he concludeth with confirmations, exhortations, promises and threatnings.

a great chain in his hand] As going to apprehend some powerful person, that was to be attached, and bound, as a prisoner or captive, with a chain, Psa. 148. 8. 2 Chron. 36. 6.

V. 2. dragon, &c.] See v. 10. ch. 12. 9. The Pope being destroyed, the devil would bring in the Turk, who seemeth yet to stand, or some other enemy like the Heathen Emperour, called the dragon before, ch. 12. 3. to persecute and war against the Christians: but God will not permit it till the thousand years of the Churches prosperity be done: and therefore he causeth Satan to be bound with a great chain, that he might not loose another dragon before the time. Thus the Churches peace for that time is secured.

bound him a thousand years] Either for such a number of years, or for a long time indefinitly.

V. 3. into the bottomless pit] Which he desired not to be shut into, Luke 8. 31. For the same Greek word is translated the deep, there. He was cast into the earth, before, ch. 12. 9. here, lower.

set a seal upon him] This sheweth the devils rage, who must not only be chained, but also shut up, and the door sealed by authority from heaven, that he may be kept from doing mischief, Mat. 27. 66.

deceive the nations no more] Not bring in Heathenism or Popery any more. Or, perswade them to fight against the Church, by his wiles, v. 7, 8. or, wicked agents, ch. 16. 13, 14.

a little season] After Satans loosing, the day of judgment will soon come.

V. 4. they sate upon them] Or, some sate upon them. Some understand this of Constantines time, ch. 6. 16. Others, of Luthers. Others, of the Church, after Antichrists destruction. Others, of the day of judgment. In all which, the Saints rule, and persecutors are brought to judgment.

the souls, &c.] Coming to demand justice against those that had slain them, by the cry of their bloud before Kings here; or personally before God at the day of judgment, ch. 6. 9, 10.

for the witness of Jesus, &c.] Ch. 6. 9. & 1. 9.

not worshipped the beast] See ch. 13. 15, 16, 17. & 14. 9.

they lived and reigned] The Christian Judges in the beginning of the verse, who were esteemed as dead men under the Heathen Emperours, or under Antichrist; now not only were feen to live, but reigned also, to do justice to Gods people as Christs deputies. Or, reigned also, to do justice to Gods people as Christs deputies. Or, such those beheaded ones as lived in soul in Heaven with Christ. Or, such as they that were persecuted before, shall live and reign after Antichrists fall. So we say, The Romans ruled the world from Julius Cesar to Constantine, and after: yet we mean not the same persons. So John is called Elias, because he came in the spirit of Elias, Matth. 11. 14. Luke 1. 17. So the two witnesses are raised again. See ch. 11. 11.

a thousand years] All the time Satan is chained like a mad dog, the Church shall flourish.

V. 5. the rest of the dead] Others did not openly profess Religion in peace, till Luthers time. Or, some will not come in till after the thousand years. Peradventure some Turks, or others, may come in at the eleventh hour, Mat. 11. 6. for the Papists were either converted before, or destroyed at the fall of Antichrist, ch. 16. 20. & 19. 21. Or, they that will not come in when the Jews do, and Antichrist is the fulness of the Gentiles, will be come in, Rom. 11. 25, 26. See the like phrase, 2 Sam. 6. 23. Or, God will not right others oppressed, till the end of the world. Or, they lived not in any account, as before, Psa. 88. 5.

This is the first resurrection] Either the former part of the verse must be read by a parenthesis, and the words depend on the fourth verse: or, it may be understood of the end of the thousand years in some of the former senses. At Luthers time, or after the coming in of the Jews, and Antichrists destruction, there will be such a new face of the Church, as if the Saints were all raised up again, John 5. 25, 28.

V. 6. Blessed and holy] As they are happy that suffer for Christ, v. 4. so they also whose eyes God doth open to see their errours, and embrace Gods truth.

part in the first resurrection] This resurrection is not of particular persons, but of whole Churches and Nations; as Rom. 11. 15. alluded to, in the raising of dead bones, Ezek. 37. 1, &c. In which they are said to have part, who by the means then publickly and plentifully afforded, are spiritually quickned; that is, raised from the death of sin, to the life of grace, John 5. 24, 25. Acts 8. 21. Eph. 2. 1, 5.

second death hath no power] They shall not go to hell, v. 14. chap. 2. 11. & 21. 8. by turning back to the world. Or, they shall no more be seduced by Antichrist. Or, not be destroyed by Turks, and other enemies described, v. 9.

Priests of God and of Christ] See ch. 1. 6. and 5. 10. Yet here seemeth somewhat more to be intended. For in those places we are said to be made Priests to God; that is, to offer spiritual sacrifices to him: but here, to be Priests of God; that is, excellent Priests, 1 Pet. 2. 9. See the like phrase, Gen. 23. 6. Pf. 36. 6.

reign with him] Be free from their former perfecutions, as living now under Christ, not any longer under Antichrist.

V. 7. loosed] See v. 2.

V. 8. to deceive the nations] To draw them to fight against the Church, to their destruction. See v. 3.

in the four quarters] In all parts, some shall be deceived.

Gog and Magog] Ezek. 38. 2. and 39. 1. Either the Papists not destroyed in Armageddon, ch. 16. 16. and 19. 21. or rather the Turks, or other foes, assailing the Church a little before the day of judgment, v. 11. For the rising of the Turkish Empire is spoken, ch. 9. 3, &c. but their fall no where, till now. It seemeth they shall be restrained for the thousand years of the Churches prosperity after the fall of the Pope, from fighting against it: but afterwards let loose and destroyed, as the Popish Empire before.

as the sand of the sea] See Jos. 11. 4. Judg. 7. 12. 1 Sam. 13. 5. 2 Sam. 17. 11. 1 Kings 4. 20.

V. 9. they went up, &c.] Or, went forth. Chap. 13. 1. They compassed about] Endeavouring that none of the faithful might escape them. See the like, 2 Kings 6. 14, 15. & 25. 1.

the camp of the Saints] The Church Militant, compared to Israel in their tents, Num. 2. and now being in tents, to fight against the Turks, or other unchristian enemies.

the beloved city] The Church of God, driven to some strong place for shelter.

fire came down, &c.] Gods wrath, shewed in an extraordinary way, delivered his Church, by destroying these enemies, Heb. 10. 27. & 12. 29. Job 20. 26. Psa. 21. 9. Gen. 19. 24. 2 Kings 1. 10, 12.

V. 10. the devil] The Turk, the devils new agent, another dragon, like the Heathen Emperour, v. 2. ch. 12. 3. Or, some other enemy, no Christian by profession, shall be sent to hell to keep the last Pope and Popish Emperour company. Here it may be noted, that the foes of the Church, that professe not the Name of Christ, as the Heathen and Turkish Empereurs, are in this book compared to dragons and serpents, and to the devil himself: but the Popes, and Popish Empereurs, who profess Christianity, are compared to wilde beasts.

where the beast, &c.] See ch. 19. 20.

for ever and ever] Or, to ages of ages. As one succeeding another, without any end.

V. 11. And I saw] This may well be understood of the day of judgment; which was to come shortly after the loosing of Satan again, v. 3. It sheweth, that from the fall of the Turk, to the day of judgment, the Church shall have peace. And also, that those enemies of the Church that are left after that great battel, though they escaped the sword then, and dare not openly oppose the Church any more; yet God will call them to judgment.

a great white throne] Fit for him that cometh now to judge all the world, Luke 1. 32. Tit. 2. 12. Acts 17. 31. And white, to shew the uprightness and glory of the Judge, ch. 19. 11, 14. But some understand it of Constantines judging Heathen idolaters, and freeing Christians persecuted formerly by the Heathen, chap. 6. 14, 15. Others, of the solemn destruction of Antichrist, and gathering of the Jews. Both which, are lively resemblances of the last day. Others, of the destruction of the Turks, newly spoken of.

fled away] Or, vanished, chap. 16. 14. 2 Pet. 3. 7, 10, 11.

found no place] Chap. 12. 8. They shall appear no more in that form they are now in, but changed, chap. 21. 1, &c.

V. 12. great and small] All, without exception, chap. 13. 16. Or, as some think, each one in that proportion or stature in which he dyed.

and the books] Dan. 7. 10. Christ, or their own consciences, shall charge with all their sins; as Judges proceed with depositions upon record.

another book, &c.] Chap. 3. 5. To exempt the godly from condemnation, chap. 21. 27. Phil. 4. 3. Men write in a book the names of those they intend to deliver, or to prefer.

according to their works] The wicked must be judged according to their works written in the books. The just, written in the book of life, shall not come into judgement, John 5. 24. chap. 21. 27.

V. 13. And the sea, &c.] All men must rise to judgment, whether drowned in the sea, or denyed burial on earth, or buried in the grave. Or, death and sea gave up their bodies to be judged, and hell their souls.

hell] Or, the grave, chap. 6. 8.

V. 14. death and hell] Or, the grave. Men dead and buried before, were now sent to hell in soul and body both. Or, there shall be no more death nor grave for Gods people to fear, nor any torment remaining, but for those that are in hell.

lake of fire] Ver. 10. chap. 19. 20.

second death] See ver. 6.

V. 15. in the book of life] Ver. 12.

lake of fire] Ver. 14.

CHAP. XXI.

Ver. 1. AND I saw] As the Church is altered, so must her dwelling. It may be spoken of a glorious Church on earth: and then the day of judgment is set before it in the former chapter, that the downfall of the enemies of Gods Church might be set down altogether. And then the Churches felicity, after the destruction of the Whore, Beast, Dragon, and all covers and open enemies, which new estate will abide till glory come: security is like to be her only trouble, when Christ cometh, 1 Thess. 5. 3. 2 Pet. 3. 3, 4. Matth. 24. 37, &c. and 25. 1, 2, &c. Bringing in of Eastern Kingdoms to the faith, and destroying all the enemies of the Church, may well be called, A new world. Or, it may be taken literally for the happy estate of Gods Saints in Heaven, in soul and body, after the day of judgment.

a new Heaven] Isa. 65. 17. and 66. 22. 2 Pet. 3. 13. For the old were gone, chap. 20. 11.

no more sea] Either literally: for there will need none for trade; the fire perhaps at the worlds end, may utterly dry up the sea. Or figuratively, no more war against, nor trouble in the Church; but holiness in good men, security only, not enmity, in others; a firm peace all the world over, as at Christs first coming. Then the Church shall not be like the raging sea, but like the quiet earth.

V. 2. the holy city] Matth. 27. 53. Jerusalem is so called. Either Heaven, or the Church formerly troden under foot, chap. 11. 2. but now made glorious, Isa. 54. 1 11, 12. and 51. 23. and 52. 1, 2. and 60. 1.

new Jerusalem] The Church of God, whereof old Jerusalem was a type. Gal. 4. 26. The city wherein Gods people dwelleth. And it is called, The new Jerusalem, not in respect of the Old Testament only, but of the former estate of it in the New. It shall be free from all former troubles.

coming down out of Heaven from God] If it be understood of heavenly glory, the sense is; It will be more fully revealed by Gods Ministers inviting them to it from heaven, than in former times. See chap. 3. 12. If of the Church on earth, it sheweth, that it receiveth the glory and lustre it hath, not from men on earth, but from God in Heaven, John 1. 17. 1 Cor. 15. 47, 48, 49. Because God is the greatest height, all that comes from him, is said to come down, 2 Cor. 5. 1, 2. Jam. 1. 17.

as a bride] Adorned as a bride, Isa. 61. 10. Heb. 11. 10. Therefore he saw the citizens, as well as the city. He saw many men, v. 3. He saw them adorned as a bride ready to be married; yet he saw not the glory of it so fully as v. 10.

V. 3. a great voice] To publish the greatness of Gods mercy, and the Saints glory, to all men, chap. 19. 1.

Behold] A thing wondersful, Isa. 7. 14. and prefent to his view in the vision, John 1. 29.

the tabernacle of God is with men] An allusion to the people of the Jews, which had the tabernacle; and an intimation, as some think, that these here meant, were not yet glorified in heaven. Therefore it is called, A tabernacle, not, An abiding city, Heb. 9. 10. and God said to be with them, and not they with him, 1 Thess. 4. 17. He will give them abundance of grace. And the tabernacle is mentioned, as some think, to shew, that the Jews were come in to the Church. See on ch. 16. 12. and 19. 1. So the service of God under the New Testament is called Incense, and Offering, Mal. 1. 11. Or, Heaven may be called so, in allusion to the tabernacle, Psalm 15. 1. Ezek. 37. 28. where God is prestit with his for ever, as the Ark was in the Tabernacle, as long as it lasted.

they shall be his people] So is his Covenant, Gen. 17. 8, 9. Jer. 32. 38. Ezek. 37. 27. He will protect them from all foes.

V. 4. And God shall, &c.] Chap. 7. 17. He setteth down the fruit of Gods dwelling with them.

wipe away all tears] Their former persecutions which lay so heavy upon them before, and caused them to shed so many tears, shall cease, Isa. 25. 8. 65. 19.

no more death] An allusion to Isa. 25. 8. and 65. 20. applyed by the Apostle to the happiness of the Saints after the resurrection, 1 Cor. 15. 54, 55. and so it may be understood here. Or else of the happy estate of the Church on earth a little before, when Pope, and Turk, and all enemies are destroyed. And as then they shall be free from perfecution; so men shall not be slain with plague and famine so frequently as in former times. The happiness of the Church is described negatively, by removal of evils: yet abundance of comforts, spiritual and corporal, is included also. So that the Church then, shall be a lively type of the glorious Church in Heaven: and they shall not dye by persecution, as before; but death shall be a quiet passage to Heaven.

neither sorrow, &c.] No inward grief, no outward expression of it, no heavy labour or pain to cause either. They shall not be, like the Israelites in Egypt, put to hard labour in slavery, and grieving at it, and crying for deliverance, Exod. 3. 7, 9. See the like phrase, Isa. 54. 14. and 60. 18. and 61. 3, 7.

former things are passed away] All the miseries of this world. Or, the beast, false prophet, and all that did hurt the Church.

V. 5. he that sate upon the throne] Chap. 4. 2. Because it seemed incredible that all things should be made new, God himself confirmeth it, and saith, I make all things new; taking the work upon himself, who was able to do it.

Behold] See notes on v. 3.

I make all things new] Isa. 43. 19. 2 Cor. 5. 17. When old things were, new must needs succeed. This may intend the glorious state of Gods Saints after the resurrection: or a more ample restauration of the true doctrine and sincere worship of God on earth, before the end.

write] See chap. 14. 13. and 19. 8. Isa. 8. 1, and 30. 8. Job 19. 23. Hab. 2. 2.

for these words are true] Or, that these words are true. They must be written as it were in Table-books, to shew that God will do it, and his people might expect it.

V. 6. It is done] Chap. 16. 17. All that the Prophets spake of the Churches deliverance, and the destruction of her enemies, is accomplished, chap. 10. 6, 7. Her foes are all destroyed, and she shall have a quiet state to the end. Or, the world is at an end, and glory promised is come.

I am Alpha and Omega] Chap. 1. 8. and 22. 13.

the beginning and the end] I decreed and foretold all these things, and now have brought them all to pass.

I will give, &c.] Isa. 55. 1. chap. 22. 17. Because good men cannot hear of these excellent things, but they will long for them; he adds, I will give, &c. fountain] Psa. 36. 8. Never any want of life there; it cometh from a fountain.

V. 7. He that overcometh] Chap. 2. 7. God will give Heaven to those that heartily desire it: but yet they must fight for it, before they enjoy it. They must overcome their own, the beast, Gog and Magog.

I will be his God, &c.] Psa. 89. 26, 27. 2 Sam. 7. 14. 2 Cor. 6. 18. I will tender him as a father doth his son. This argueth extraordinary comfort here, or in heaven.

V. 8. But] Such sinners as follow, shall have no part in this new heaven and earth: and, lest they should slight this loss, he threatneth them with hell-fire besides.

the fearful, &c.] If it be spoken of the day of judgment, it may be taken generally for all such sinners. If of the Church before, it signifieth, that though no perfecutours remain, yet there will be many wicked men, who shall go to hell, when they dye, although they lived to see this glorious estate of the Church. The fearful then may accordingly be either such as at any time do evil, or omit good, against light of conscience, for fear of danger, Matth. 10. 28, 33. and 16. 15. That overcome not, but are overcome, v. 7. Or, such as were afraid of Gog and Magog, the last enemies, and durst not fight against them.

unbelieving] That beleeve not in Christ. Or, that for all this, did not expect the promised felicity of the Church, when they saw Gogs army, but despaired of victory.

abominable] Given to sins against nature; as Sodomy, &c. See chap. 17. 4. murderers, &c.] See chap 9. 20, 21.

in the lake] Chap. 19, 20.

second death] Chap. 20. 6, 14.

V. 9. one of the seven Angels] Very likely hee that shewed him the Whore of Babylon, chap. 17. 1. shewed him now the Lambs wife. Of these Angels, see chap. 15. 1.

I will shew thee the Bride] He saw her, v. 2. but not so distinctly as she is after described.

the Lambs wife] The riches of the heavenly city. So he that sheweth a man a Kings Palace and Treasury, may be said to shew him the King. She is now dreft like a bride, and shall be soon married to Christ, and made his wife, chap. 19. 7.

V. 10. in the spirit] Chap. 1. 10. and 17. 3.

great and high mountain] Christs Spouse cometh now to be openly seen. John saw the Whore in a wilderness, chap. 17. 3. he seeth the Church now on an hill, because the city was high. So Ezekiel was carried up into a mountain, to see the city and temple, Ezek. 40. 2. Moses, to see the pattern of the tabernacle, Exod. 25. 40. Heb. 8. 5. and the Land of Canaan, Deut. 34. 1. The temple was built on an hill, 2 Chron. 3. 1. It was called a mount, chap. 14. 1. but here, a great and high one, so Isa. 2. 2. It may signifie the glory of the last Church on earth, or the heighth of glory in heaven.

great city] Great for compass; for many must enter into it, v. 24.

high] For buildings, or walls. See v. 12.

holy] For no unclean person must come there, v. 27.

Jerusalem.] Because God, who dwelt once in Jerusalem, will dwell there no more eminently, Ezek. 48. 35.

descending, &c.] See v. 2.

V. 11. having the glory of God] Exceeding great glory. So great things are set out, Gen. 23. 6. Psa. 36. 6. Ors, glory given them of God, 1 Cor. 15. 40, 41.

her light] He beginneth with light, as the principal grace of a city. That light is not meant, whereby she shined to others; but that which shined to her, and enlightned her. So the Sun and Moon are called, Two great lights, Gen. 1. 14, 15, 16. This light is Gods glory, of Christs, v. 23. This Church shall see more of God and Christ, and of holy and heavenly things, by that light, than either the Jewish Synagogue, or any Christian Church saw before.

like a Jasper stone:] The last stone in Aarons breft-plate, Exod. 28. 20 and 39. 13. One of the King of Tyrus his Gems, Ezek. 28. 13. used to set out Gods glory shining in the Church, ch. 4. 3. and so here also; unless it set out his Majesty in heaven. The walls of his Church are built of it, ver. 18. and it is the first in the foundation, v. 19. He compareth not this light of that Church to any light in heaven or earth; for the Sun is sometimes darkned by clouds, and hurteth our eyes, if we look too wilfully on it: the Moon and Stars lose their light when the Sun appeareth: and our made-lights decay. But it is compared to a Jasper, which is not darkned by clouds, neither doth hurt our eyes; but the more we do look on it, the more it pleaseth us: neither doth it leave shining, when the Sun shineth, nor doth the brightenels of it go out at any time.

clear as cryſtal] Now he sheweth what kind of Jasper it is like. Not the green, or yellow, or purple Jasper; for that taketh away the native colour of other things, and maketh them look like it: but the white, like cryſtal, which is most pure from spots, and most clear to look thorow. He doth not say, It was like cryſtal; but like a Jasper stone clear as cryſtal, because the Jasper shineth more than the cryſtal. So that it had the brightness of the Jasper, and the purity of cryſtal, chap. 4. 6.

V. 12. a wall great and high] That none might either pierce it, or scale it. The Saints are safe there from all foes.

twelve gates] Ways in, out of all parts of the world, Ezek. 48. 30, 31. If Jerusalem had but twelve gates, it may be an allusion thereunto.

at the gates, twelve Angels] As porters, to receive men into heaven, Luke 16. 22. Not cherubins, to keep us out, Gen. 3. 24. Or, to guard us in the Church on earth. Or, Ministers, to teach us the way to heaven, ch. 1. 20.

names written thereon] For direction, to guide men to it, of the twelve Tribes] Chap. 7. 4. Signifying, that the godly of the Church of the Old Testament are gone thither, and we should endeavour to follow them. Or, if this verse be understood of the last Church on earth, it signifieth, that the Saints shall be safe there, men shall have free access unto it, the Minister shall receive them into the service and protection of the God of Israel.

V. 13. on the East] Mat. 8. 11. Mat. 12. 27. To shew, that some out of all parts of the world shall come in, and be received.

V. 14. Twelve foundations] Made of twelve stones, or rowes of stones, lying one by another, v. 19. or one upon another. However, surely founded it is, and w ll last.

of the twelve Apostles] Their doctrine is a foundation of our salvation, and eternal happiness by Christ, Eph. 2. 20, 21.

V. 15. He that talked with me] The Angel, v. 9. 17. ch. 22. 6, 8.

a golden reed] To measure the heavenly city. A plain one served to measure the earthly one, Ezek. 40. 3, 5. chap. 11. 1. There, the temple only; here, the gates, and city, and walls, are to be measured. The Church will be now more exact than before.

V. 16. four square] A firm and stable building; not a round and voluble one.

twelve thousand furlongs] Some Greek copies are, Twelve times twelve thousand, one hundred fourty and four thousand. A furlong for every member, chap. 7. 4. and 14. 1. John 14. 2. and in some proportion to be the breadth of the wall, one hundred fourty and four cubits, v. 17. Or, each side in length, and the houses in heighth, and the city it self each way in breadth, was twelve thousand furlongs. Some think that every side, from corner to corner, contained but three thousand furlongs, and so the whole compass was twelve thousand. It is large enough to contain innumerable Angels, and Saints of all ages and places.

the length and the breadth] From corner to corner, it is every way of equal measure. It is not properly called length and breadth, when it is no longer one way than another, as it is in a square.

V. 17. the wall thereof] Perhaps the houses and towers were higher than the wall, as in many cities it is, that it might appear glorious to comers; and then the heighth of it may be set down in this verse. Or it may be understood of the breadth of the wall, and then the heighth of it might be equal to the city, v. 16.

measure of a man, &c.] Cubit of a man in that shape the Angel appeared.

V. 18. of jasper] See v. 11. Cities are esteemed according to their matter: but there is none like this. It is not of wood, or stone; but of gold and Gems, Isa. 54. 11.

the city] The houses and palaces there. Or, the pavement of the streets, 22. v. 21.

like unto clear glass] See v. 11. Gold is an excellent metal, but it is not transparent, like glass: yet the gold of this city hath that property also.

V. 19. the foundations of the wall] Nothing is more precious than Christ taught by the Apostles, compared to twelve precious stones like Aarons breft-place, Exod. 28. 17, &c.

with all manner of precious stones] Isa. 54. 11, 12.

jasper] See v. 11.

a saphir] A gem, of which, see chap. 4. 6. It was the fifth in Aarons breft-place, Exod. 28. 18. See also, Isa. 54. 11. Ezek. 1. 26. and 10. 1. and 28. 13. Cant. 5. 14.

a chalcedony] A precious stone, of one colour, like fire, found about Chalcedon.

an emerald] A stone so green, that other green things seem to have lost their colour, when it is present. It is very pleasing to the eyes, and men may see their faces in it. It was the fourth in Aarons breft-place, Exod. 28. 18. It is mentioned, Ezek. 28. 13, chap. 4. 3.

V. 20. sardonyx] A precious stone looking white without, and red underneath, like the nail of a man. It hath the name from a Sardius and an onyx; it partaketh of both their colours.

Jardins] A Gem found about Sardis, of a bloody colour. It is the first in Aarons breft-plate, Exod. 28. 17. called, A Sardine, ch. 4. 3.

a chrysolite] A stone in Ethiopia, of a such a golden colour, that gold looketh like silver to it, when they are together.

a beryl] The tenth in Aarons breft-plate, Exod. 28. 20. an Indian stone, of a pale green colour. See Cant. 5. 14. Ezek. 1. 16. and 10. 9. and 28. 13. Dan. 10. 6.

a topaz] A green Gem of Ethiopia. The second in Aarons breft-plate, Exod. 28. 17. Job 28. 19. Ezek. 28. 13.

a chrysoprasus] A green Indian Gem.

a jacinct] A precious stone of a violet colour.

an amethist] A stone for colour much like a jacinct. The ninth in Aarons breft-plate, Exod. 28. 19. By these jems, is set out the glory of heaven, or, of the last Church on earth.

V. 21. twelve pearls] Of great price and esteem: a man may sell all, to get in at one of those gates, Mat. 13. 45, 46. The very entrance into heaven, or into the last Church on earth, is of more worth than all worldly riches.

of one pearl] It must needs be of great price, when a pearl was so big, it could make a gate. We read of none such in this world.

the street] No dirty street, as in some great cities, nor stony; but clean and smooth to walk in. No uncleanness nor trouble there, v. 27.

pure gold, &c.] Ver. 18.

V. 22.

V. 22. I saw no temple therein, &c.] Fair temples are commendations of cities: but in heaven there shall need none; for there shall be no ritual worship there, but purely spiritual, John 4. 23. temples are to lift up mens mindes to God: there needeth none, where they see God. The earthly Jerusalem had a temple, and visible signs of Gods presence in it; the heavenly needeth not: God will shew himself there for ever. If it be understood of the last Church on earth, then it signifieth, that the worship of God shall be more pure and spiritual, and like to the heavenly, than ever before.

V. 23. And the city, &c.] Chap. 22. 5. Isa. 1. 19. and 24. 23. and 60. 19. Jer. 31. 34.

for the glory of God, &c.] See ver. 11. they need not worldly comforts in heaven, they have so much in God. So light is taken for joy, Psa. 97. 11.

the Lamb is the light thereof] Even in heaven, all our communion with God is through Christ. If it be understood of the Church on earth, the sense is; They shall have so much sweet communion with God in Christ, that they shall make light account of all worldly contentments.

V. 24. And the nations, &c.] Isa. 60. 3.

of them which are saved] Or, of them which are to be saved; as Acts 2. 47. The first way of reading respecteth the Church in heaven; the second, that on earth.

shall walk in the light of it] An allusion to men trading here by the benefit of the light of the Sun. The sense is, They shall enjoy the felicity of it. Light is often put for prosperity; and darkness for adversity, Isa. 60. 1, 2.

the Kings of the earth, &c.] Isa. 45. 14. and 49. 23. Dan. 7. 14. as if sea-men returned from a voiage, should bring their choiceft things to dedicate in some temple. It shall be as glorious, as if all Kings had brought all their glory thither. Or, good Kings shall be glorious there, more than here. Rich and noble citizens, are a cities glory. Here, all Citizens are Kings, chap. 22. 5. Lu. 12. 32. Or, it may be understood of the flourishing state of the Church on earth before the day of judgment, and the Kings that shall joyn themselves to it, and uphold and enrich it.

V. 25. And the gates] Isa. 60. 11. City-gates are open in the day, for passage; shut in the night, for safety. Here it needeth not, where no night nor danger is.

for there shall be no night there] I need not say, Nor by night, as Isa. 60. 11. for there shall be no night there.

V. 26. And they [shall bring] The Kings shall, v. 24. Or, it shall be brought, Luc. 12. 20.

the glory and honour of the nations into it] Whatsoever is glorious among the nations, shall be brought thither. 'No want can be there, when all glory and wealth shall be brought thither. Or, a great number of the nations, which is a glorious sight. Or, the prime men of all nations, shall be converted and saved: which, in Saint Pauls time, was not so, 1 Cor. 1. 26, &c. It is no mean glory to the Church, that so many Kings and great men shall come in to it.

V. 27. there shall in no wise enter] Though the gates always stand open, yet no ungodly man can enter, there are twelve Angels to keep them out, v. 12.

that defileth] There shall be no soil nor contagion in this great city, such as crept in before, by Antichrists subtilty: a neat city, that hath no foul thing nor person in it, nor any thing to offend eye, ear, or nose. So it will be in heaven, 1 Cor. 6. 9, 10. Eph. 5. 5. Psa. 15. 1, 2. and 24. 3, 4. Isa. 52. 1. and 60. 21. Joel 3. 17. Zech. 14. 21. Mat. 13. 41. In the last Church on earth also, discipline in likelihood shall be so strictly executed, that no profane persons shall be found there. Only such are elect, as far as men can judge.

abomination] Ver. 8.

book of life] Chap. 3. 5. and 20. 12. Phil. 4. 3.

CHAP. XXII.

Ver. 1. A*ND he shewed me*] The description of the holy city is finished in the five first verses of this chapter; and the conclusion of the book followeth.

a pure river] A river is a great ornament to a city; it is pleasant and profitable, to convey persons and provisions to it. This is no pond, but a river: and not a troubled or muddy river, but a pure one.

of water of life] So called, not only because it floweth always, and purgeth forth new waters; in which respect, waters that come from a fountain are called Living waters, Gen. 26. 19. but also because it preserveth life in those that drink of it, John 4. 11.

clear as cryſtal] Transparent, and exceeding all fountains in clearness. Most pleasant to the eye, as shewing to it all that is therein to the very bottome: and most pleasing to the taste, as free from mud and filth.

proceeding out of the throne] The river of Paradise came out of the earth, Gen. 2. 10. That in Ezekiel, out of the temple, Ezek. 47. 1. This here, out of Gods throne.

of God, and of the Lamb] God and Christ sit on one throne. See ver. 3. This sheweth Christ to be God, equal to the Father. Some interpret this river of the holy Ghost, who proceedeth from the Father and the Son, as a river from a fountain, and satisfieth all that thirst, with his Spiritual gifts, John 7. 38, 39. Others apply it to the Church on earth, thinking that it importeth something to be fulfilled in the famous Church, consisting of Jews and Gentiles, before the end of the world; and to be an allusion to Ezek. 47. 1. where the waters are said to come from the temple and altar, verse 1. But here being no temple nor altar, chap. 21. 22. it is said to come from the throne of God, and the Lamb. Therefore it is said to go toward the east, Ezek. 47. 1, 8. Zech. 14. 8. And it signifieth the purest preaching of the Gospel thorow the world, which bringeth life and health to the soul, as living waters to plants, Ezek. 47. 9. and refresheth the Church, Psal. 46. 4. Others understand it of heavenly glory, which is most pleasing and perspicuous, and cometh from Gods mercy, and the merits of Christ, Tit. 2. 11, 13. and 3. 4, 5, 6. and bringeth us to communion with them both, 1 Joh. 1. 3. Heb. 12. 22, 23, 24.

V. 2. In the midst] An allusion to the earthly Paradise, where the Tree of Life stood in the midst of the Garden, Gen. 2. 9.

of the street] An open river for all, not a sealed fountain.

of it] Of the city, chap. 21. 21, 27.

and of either side of the river] That is, many Trees of this kind grew there, some on the one side of the river, some on the other, as Ezek. 47. 7, 12. that men on either side might have plenty of fruit, and come easily at it. Or, and of the river, which ran on each side of it; that is, one Tree of Life grew in the midst of the river, which compassed the earth whereon it grew, as it were with two arms: and this Tree was so great, that it did stretch out boughs, with leaves and fruit on them, plentifully to both sides. So fruitful are Trees that grow by rivers, Psa. 1. 3.

the Tree of life] Alluding to tha Tree in Paradise, which should have been to Adam a seal of everlasting life, if he had continued in the estate of innocency, Gen. 3. 22. See chap. 2. 7. here is meat and drink, and that in great plenty, and for perpetuity, Psa. 36. 8. Fruitfull Trees planted by the waters, wither not, Psa. 1. 3.

twelve manner of fruits] Twelve divers kinds of fruits, so that they need not be cloyed with one kind. Or seventh instead of all Ezekiels Trees, if it be but one. Or, twelve fruits of one kind, brought forth twelve times in a year. The former argueth variety of comforts; the later plenty. The former is an help against loathing; the later, against lacking.

every moneth] It is Autumn here always. There is no need to lay up food against the winter.

for the healing] Ezek. 47. 12. Mal. 4. 2. Not by feeding on the leaves, but by covering themselves with them, or laying them on their wounds. For although leaves of Trees be not usually eaten, yet they are used many times physically, to heal wounds. So that they should not only live, but also live in health.

of the nations] Or, of the Gentiles, chap. 11. 2. And then the fruit was to feed fish as were in the Church; the leaves, to heal others, that they might come in: as the bread is for children, the crums for dogs, Mat. 15. 27. Either it is to be understood of Gods Word, which is food and physick to us here, 1 Pet. 2. 2. Heb. 5. 12, 13. Psa. 107. 20. which shall be more clearly and plentifully preached, before the end of the world, than yet it ever was: or else of Christ our Saviour, who is All in all to us, and by whom we shall live for ever in heaven.

V. 3. no more curse] Evil thing, person, or action. Or, curse, that is, destruction. Gr. curse against any one. Such shall be the force of discipline, and vigilancy of Pastours, and Gods blessing on their labors, that God shall not need to destroy obstinate sinners from heaven, for contempt of his Ordinances and Ministers, Zech. 14. 11.

the throne of God, &c.] See v. 1.

shall be in it] God will settle his throne there. There shall be no rotten members, to make God to depart from it, as he did from Shiloh, Psa. 78. 58, 59, 60. and from Jerusalem, 2 Kin. 21. 14, 15. But this is that Sion where God will dwell for ever, Psa. 132. 13, 14.

shall serve him] Though Gods servants shall enjoy abundance of grace and comfort here on earth, before the end of the world, & perfection of glory in heaven; yet the relation of servants to God shall abide still.

V. 4. they shall see his face] They shall converse familiarly with him, 2 Sam. 14. 32. Deu. 30. 10. 2 Joh. v. 12. They shall worship God so purely, that he shall seem to converse with them face to face. Or, it setteth out their full happiness in heaven, which consisteth principally in seeing Gods face, Mat. 5. 8. Joh 19. 26. 1 Cor. 13. 12. 1 John 3. 2.

his name [shall be in their foreheads] Gods name, ch. 3. 12. & 14. 1. His image shall be more fully imprinted on them, than on other Christians in former times. Or, he shall own them publickly, and all see that they are, Zech. 14. 20, 21. Or, they shall glory most in this, that they are Gods children. Or, they shall as children converse with him in heaven. For there it will appear who are Gods children, though it was known, The Saints shall know one another, as the high Priest on his forehead, when Holiness to the Lord, was written in the plate, Exod. 28. 38.

V. 5. And there shall be &c.] Chap. 21. 23. no night there] No fuell darkness of ignorance, confusion, or affliction, as was before. Or, no darkness like to that of affliction at all, if it be understood of heaven. In the day here, they feared night; in prosperity, adversity: there they shall need to do it. To heal that fear, that which was said, chap. 21. 25. is here repeated.

they need no candle, &c.] They need not light by day or night. They have so much knowledg of God, and comfort in him, that they feel no need of outward means and comforts, Isa. 19. 20. Or, in to have no need of outward teaching or preaching of the Word in heaven they shall need no such helps, 1 Cor. 13. 8. Or, the light of the soul, Psa. 13. 3. Prov. 4. 18. 1 Cor. 13. 8.

for the Lord God giveth them light] Knowledg and comfort shall so abound in them, that all may see they come rather from God, than from

f. on the means, Isa. 54.13. Jer. 31.34. Or, they receive fulness of knowledg and comfort from God in heaven.

shall reign] Left men should think it an hard service spoken of, v. 3. he addeth, They shall reign, to shew, that their service shall be a most happy Kingdom.

for ever and ever] Their Kingdom begun here, shall never end, but be translated to heaven. Or, they shall reign in heaven for ever.

V. 6. And he said unto me] The conclusion of the book. In Genesis, the first book, is set out the beginning of the world, & of the Church. The history of both, is continued in other books for a long time; and it is carried on in this last book, by way of prophecy, to the end.

and true] See ch. 19.9. & 21.5. The Spirit knew that this book would be more questioned than others, and therefore by his Angel confirmeth the truth of all things written in it, in the conclusion, by many arguments; because the servants of God, hearing of them, would be very desirous to see the event of all these prophecies. As if he should say, All is now revealed, and all that is revealed, is true: nothing remaineth, but that ye give credit to it, and patiently expect Gods performance, which will undoubtedly follow in his time.

God of the holy I rophets] See Luke 1.70. God, who separated and inspired holy men to be Prophets, that they might foretell things to come, hath revealed these things also by his Angel, chap. 1.1. and therefore they shall certainly come to pass.

V. 7. Behold] Chap. 21.3. He bringeth in the Lord God of the Prophets, mentioned in the former verse, speaking in his own person in this verse. Or, Christ sending his Angel to reveal these things, v. 16. may interpose, and speak himself when he please. Or, the Angel sent by him, speaketh sometimes in his own person, sometimes in the person of Christ.

I come quickly] See v. 12. 20. I begin soon to execute these things; and that shall be a pawn to you, that I will not give over the work, till I make an end of all. Therefore they must not be sealed, v. 10. that men seeing some things foretold soon performed, might with patience expect the performance of the rest.

blessed is he, &c.] The conclusion is like the Preface, ch. 1.3.

V. 8. I John] He sheweth, that this book was not written by any false prophet, but by himself, who was well known in the Church.

saw these things] He confirmeth the revelation here, as he did his Gospel before, John 19.35. & 21.24. and his Epistle, 1 Joh. 1.1.

and heard them] I saw the visions, and heard the words. He was worthy to be believed; for he receiveth nothing at the second hand, but saw and heard himself, what he writeth. All the Churches knew, that he received what he writ, from Gods Spirit, and did faithfully dispense it.

I fell down, &c.] Before, ch. 19.20. Or, it may be, now, toward the end, being more fully acquainted with the glory of the holy city than before, he forgate himself, and erred out of weakness the second time, as Abraham did about his wife, Gen. 12.13. & 20.2. It seemeth John did it now again, because it is after he had seen all the visions: and other words are attributed to the Angel here, than were ch. 19.10.

V. 9. See thou do it not] See on ch. 19.10.

V. 10. Seal not the sayings] Propound it openly; conceal no part of it: as sealing is concealing, ch. 10.4. Isa. 8.16. & 22.11. Dan. 12.4. 9. Left John should think that he ought not to reveal so great mysteries to the people, he is bidden not to conceal them; and a reason is added, Because the time is nigh..

of the prophecy of this book] Look on v. 7.

for the time is at hand] Mysteries are often kept secret, till God see a fit time to reveal them; ch. 10.4,5. They are revealed when the Church may get most good, as when the time of fulfilling draweth nigh. The time, in the Greek, is the season; that is, the fit and appointed time.

V. 11. He that is unjust] If it be objected, Some will abuse these things to hurt themselves and others; the answer is here included. They must not be concealed for all that. Others will make a better use of them. Good men must not be deprived of the knowledg of these comforts, because men to whom they belong not, will abuse them.

unjust] Towards Adam. To this, righteous is opposed.

filthy] In himself. To this, holy is opposed.

Let be filthy still] Those that remain obstinate, shall be given over to their own lusts, and grow worse and worse, Psal. 81.11, 12. Ezek. 3.27. & 20.39. Dan. 12.10. Amos 4.4. 2 Tim. 3.13. Or, such as are obstinate, & incurably wicked, let them be left, and given over to their own wicked courses of life, as 1 Cor. 14.38.

holy still] Either persist or increase in holiness. And so to the former. Psal.

V. 12. And behold, I come quickly] As I said before, v. 7. Little time will pass, from the following of these things, to the beginning of fulfilling them. Look therefore for my coming to execute them, as a servant forewarned doth for his masters, Mat. 24.44,45.

my reward is with me] Christ cometh not empty handed. His reward is ready, for good men and bad, Mat. 16.27. & 25.31.

to give, &c.] Rom. 2.6.

V. 13. Alpha and Omega] Chap. 1.8. & 21.6.

the first and the last] Ch. 1.4. & 44.6.

V. 14. His commandments] Christ's. The Angel speak in his own person. Or God's, if Christ speak. Or in the Angel in the person of Christ.

that they may have right] And so may inherit heaven, as Gods children, Mat. 25.34. and co-heirs with Christ, Rom. 8.17,18.

to the tree of life] See v. 2. ch. 2.7.

thorow the gates] Chap. 21.12. For over the wall they could not go, it was so high, chap. 21.12,16,17. An allusion to a guarded city, whose high walls keep out such as have no right to enter, and porters at the gates let in such as have.

V. 15. For without] Gr. But without.

dogs] Men that bark and snarl at all goodness, Phil. 3.2. Mat. 7.6. It is an happiness to be without the society of such. Or, filthy persons, such as are spoken of, v. 11. called Dogs, Deut. 23.18. 2 Pet. 2.22.

and murderers] Chap. 21.8.

V. 16. I Jesus, &c.] Now Christ confirmeth the truth of all these things, by his own voice, acknowledging that they came all from him.

have sent mine Angel] Chap. 2. 8.27.

to you] In the seven Churches, ch. 1. 4. Hereby he sheweth what great honour he did to those Churches, to commit this treasure to their custody.

I am the root, &c.] Chap. 5.5. Isa. 11.1. I can give you the promised happiness; for I am the Messias of Davids seed, that must reign for ever.

the bright morning-star] Ch. 2.28. His birth was manifested to the wise-men by a star, Mat. 2.9,10. to shew, that he was the Star foretold, Num. 24.17. which bringeth the day of knowledg to the Church, and glory, after the night of ignorance and misery, 2 Pet. 1.19.

V. 17. the Spirit] The holy Ghost breedeth desire of Christs coming in the heart of the Church, which is Christs Bride; who also freely answereth to his motions, v. 20. Rom. 8.23,26. 2 Cor. 5.2,4.

the Bride] She desireth to be married to Christ; for she had made her self ready, ch. 19.7. Gods children desire the fulfilling of these things, that they may be more neerly joyned to Christ. See chap. 6.10. & 19.17. 2 Tim. 4.8.

come] To fulfil these things. Or, to judgment, that we may be with thee for ever.

him that heareth] Not only the Church in general, and each Christian then alive; but also their posterity, when they shall hear of these glorious things, shall long for the performance of them.

let him that is athirst come] Chap. 21. 6. Isa. 55. 1. The prophecy may kindle this thirst in good men; the performance will quench it; else were the expecters miserable, Prov. 13.12. 1 Cor. 15.19.

the water of life] Of the river, v. 2. So here is water of life to drink, and a tree of life to give food.

freely] Let them participate of grace or glory, as freely and plentifully, as it it were water, 1 Tim. 6.19. Jam. 1.5. Or, Though they shall have abundance of both, yet it is of Gods free grace; for they deserve not one drop of this water, nor cannot procure it by any strength or wit they have of themselves, Rom. 6.23.

V. 18. For] It may be left out, as it is, Acts 4.34. & 8.31. In the beginning of the verses: for it yeeldeth no reason of that which went before. Or, it may be read, And, as Acts 8.39. in the end of the ver. Or, no doubt; as 1 Cor. 9.10.

I testifie] Gr. I testifie together: As Moses did of the Law, Deut. 4. 2. & 12.32. & 30.6. so do I of this Prophecy. It is therefore of divine authority, as that book is. Or, I sent my Angel to testifie these things, v. 16. now I confirm his testimony, by threatning all that adde to, or take from it. Or, I confirm what John avereth, v. 8.

the words of the Prophesy of this book] Ver. 7,10.

shall adde unto him] Or, shall lay upon him,

V. 19. the words, &c.] See v. 18.

out of the book of life] Chap. 21.27.

out of the holy city] Chap. 21.2.

the things which are written in this book] Chap. 1.3.

V. 20. He which testifieth these things] Christ, v. 16,18. the faithful witness, chap. 1.5. from whom, as the Gospel came, so likewise this Revelation.

I come quickly] He had said so before, v. 7,12. Now he repeateth it the third time, that we may not think he stayeth too long for us.

Even so. Come Lord Jesus] Johns voice, desiring it may be as Christ hath said. He grew old, & desired to be with Christ quickly, as other of the Saints do, v. 17. and Paul, Phil. 1.23. Thus John, who received these mysteries from heaven, and writ them in a book, concludeth it with a double wish; one, of Christs coming in this verse; the other, of the continuance of his favour to his Church in the mean while, v. 21. teaching us to do the like. Or it may be the Churches voice, desiring to be speedily joyned to Christ, as ver. 17. according to his promise here and before.

V. 21. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, &c.] This sheweth the whole revelation to be an epistle sent to the seven Churches. See notes on ch. 1.4. He beginneth with this request there, and endeth with it here. Christs favour is the first and last thing he wisheth to the Church. So doth Paul, writing by the same Spirit, Rom. 1.7. & 16.24. 1 Cor. 1.3. & 16.23. 2 Cor. 1.2. & 13.14. Gal. 1.3. & 6.18. Eph. 1.2. & 6.24. Phil. 1. 2. & 4.23. Col. 1.2 & 4.18. 1 Thes. 1.1. & 5.28. 2 Thes. 1.2. & 3.18. 1 Tim. 1.2. & 6.21 2 Tim. 1.2. & 4.22. Tit. 1.4. & 3.15. Philem. v. 3, 25. This he writ in the end of his epistles, with his own hand, 1 Cor. 16. 21,22,23. Col. 4.18. It was the token of his genuine epistles. Though they were written fair by others, Rom. 16.22. yet he writ this salutation, or the like, in the end, with his own hand, 2 Thes. 3.17,18.

Amen] So be it. This is also added in the end of Pauls epistles. See the places newly cited.
